On one of the foggy mornings this week we came to the traffic light at US 10 and stopped before entering the Dixie. A tractor and trailer passed south — then we blinked our eyes and looked out to see if we were in the center of a lake. On the trailer was a motor boat about 20 feet long. With the fog as a background, partly hiding the trailer, it looked as though the boat was actually floating on a lake. For what it is worth that is a sample of the weather we are having this winter. . . .

With some banks having assets of two or three billion dollars, corporations earning profits of fifty million a year, small businesses being considered by the government as a business having a net worth of twenty-five thousand dollars, the question remains as to whether a business having a net worth less than the government figure, even though it may hire a number of people, is a reality or just a day dream. . . . Speaking about business what did you think of the results of the Tucker trail? To us the decision seemed about right. It is human to want to have money. To make money in big amounts and quickly is perhaps a human failing but again it is a human desire of many. Certainly such a dream must of have been present in the minds of thousands of people who paid big amounts to have a dealership to sell the so-called Tucker car. Even the government by its leasing of huge war plants lent a degree of reality to the promotion. For the business men, who are supposed to know something about business, and for the government who had lent reality to a dream, to take the position that there was fraud in seven people could be taken a position just a little bit off base. . . . The funeral of Robert C. Rowe, former publisher of the Milford Times, and a brother publisher during our years in Clarkston, was held on Monday of this week. We had found Bob friendly, and courteous. He was a second vice-president of the Michigan Press Association and, to our idea of successful living, he tried to leave the business he operated a little better than he found it.

On Tuesday evening the Clarkston Rotary Anns met at the home of Mrs. Wallace Ridgley on S. Main Street. Mrs. Paul Henry was the co-hostess.

Mrs. A. E. Butters was welcomed as a new member.

Mrs. Don Stackable, president, conducted the business meeting at which time the Christmas projects were discussed. It was decided to have a rummage sale at the Township Hall in Clarkston on Saturday, February 4th. Mrs. Richard Morgan is the general chairman. The members are to collect articles from their friends and neighbors and have them at the Township Hall on the Friday night before the sale.

Mrs. Stackable told of receiving a letter from past president, Mrs. Robert Buerhig, saying that they were quite happy in Japan and were enjoying the experiences incidental to living in the far east.

Following the business meeting Mrs. F. E. Davies, program chairman for the evening, kept the group busy playing a few interesting and amusing games.

The hostesses served dainty refreshments from a table attractive with a center arrangement of yellow jonquils and lighted red tapers in a crystal holder.

Mrs. Roy Conrad of Tackles Dr., Pontiac Lake, will entertain the Sewing Club of Joseph C. Bird Chapter, O. E. S., of Clarkston this afternoon. Luncheon will be served at noon. The members are urged to attend and sew on articles for the bazaar.

For the business men, who are supposed to know something about business, and for the government who had lent reality to a dream, to take the position that there was fraud in seven people could be taken a position just a little bit off base. . . . The funeral of Robert C. Rowe, former publisher of the Milford Times, and a brother publisher during our years in Clarkston, was held on Monday of this week. We had found Bob friendly, and courteous. He was a second vice-president of the Michigan Press Association and, to our idea of successful living, he tried to leave the business he operated a little better than he found it.

On Tuesday evening the Clarkston Rotary Anns met at the home of Mrs. Wallace Ridgley on S. Main Street. Mrs. Paul Henry was the co-hostess.

WHERE WOULD FARMERS GET EGG SUPPORTS IF NEEDED IN MICHIGAN?

Although Michigan poultrymen have not yet had to worry about selling eggs at support prices, there's a question about how they would get the job done. Eggs sold at support prices must go to egg drying plants and none of these plants is operating in Michigan.

Henry Larzelere, poultry and egg marketing specialist at Michigan State College, explains how the government egg support program works.

The government has announced a price support program which will attempt to keep the national average price of all eggs sold by producers at or above 37 cents a dozen for 1950, which is 75 percent of parity. But this support is accomplished entirely by purchases of dried eggs.

The government buying programs call for the purchase of dried eggs from drying plants which certify that they have paid producers a minimum average price per dozen for eggs. For January and February this year that price is set at 25 cents.

This method of supporting price is based on the expectation that prices paid to producers for eggs will sometimes be above 37 cents. They buy at the buying price only as needed to keep the annual national average from falling below 37 cents.

One of the problems here in Michigan, according to Larzelere, is that there are no egg drying plants in operation. Such plants have not been operated mainly because producer prices in Michigan have generally been above both the support level and national average. Michigan producers therefore have no access to outlets which must buy eggs at or above a set minimum price.

EXPLORING TO BE DONE FOR URANIUM IN U. P.

The report of the uranium discovery in the upper peninsula, the conservation department's geological survey division cautions, only means that an area has been located where further exploration for mineable quantities of the atomic mineral is warranted.

The mineral exposures along the East branch of the Huron river are not sufficient in themselves to determine their possible importance, according to F. G. Pardee, state mining engineer, who examined the find for the Atomic Energy Commission.

The discovery was made last August, 21 miles east of L'Anse, by graduate geology student Eiler Hendrickson, a summer month employee of the Jones and Laughlin Ore company. The announcement was made last week with the approval of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The location of the radio-active mineral, as described, is an eastern Baraga county river shown on department maps as an unimproved water access site. In few of the findings, the policy of the conservation department is to lease such state lands under its jurisdiction for exploration and mineral extraction. The conservation Commission acted on the steel firm's lease application at its January 13 meeting in Lansing.

The immediate surrounding land is not state-owned. According to the steel company, they have made arrangements with the Ford Motor company, owners of other land in the vicinity, in order to continue with the exploration.

The conservation department has received a total of 12 applications for lease options on state land. Six locations have been examined, others have yet to be checked.

The pre-Cambrian shield, considered likely exploration territory, is located in portions of the upper peninsula west of a line south from Marquette to Escanaba. In the shield area are state forests where exploration is permitted.

Regulations for uranium prospecting on state-owned land call for a filing fee of $25 with each application for an option to lease a 40-acre tract. A conservation department geologist will examine the discovery at its source to determine if sufficient evidence warrants a prospecting lease.

While the conservation department geologists are just as interested in finding uranium ores in the state as anyone, they caution would-be prospectors on several points.

Thorium and other radio-active elements will fool a Geiger counter. Sufficient quantity of thorium will get a strong reaction on the counter. The background reaction on the counter is from cosmic rays which are present everywhere.

Novice prospectors searching northern Michigan who are not experienced woodsmen and who fail to equip themselves with a good compass and map are inviting trouble. Neither a compass or map will be of help unless the prospector can read and use them.

A mining or prospecting license is not required in Michigan. No permit is needed to prospect on state land for uranium ore where no vegetation or tree growth is disturbed or where no digging or drilling of any kind is necessary. This provision allows examination of state land with a Geiger counter or similar instrument and for taking samples from exposed rock formations.

Those planning on exploring on private land should make advance arrangements with the owner. SERVICES TO CONTROL TB IN COUNTY ASSURED

The services which help to control tuberculosis in Oakland County will be assured for another year when all returns from the 43rd Annual Christmas Seal Sale are in. There are still many who have not yet sent in the money which they intended to.

This campaign has been key-noted by the generosity of the people and many expressions of the wish of the people to help fight this disease have been received. The Association wishes to express sincere appreciation for the fine support which has been accorded to it, even though industrial lay-off and other adverse conditions have made it difficult. To date over $30,000 has been received. This is approximately the same amount as that which had been received at this time last year. This money helps to pay for education about tuberculosis, the Rehabilitation Department at the Sanatorium, the Tuberculosis Clinic at Pontiac and Royal Oak, Research in tuberculosis, School Health Education, Co-operation with other agencies and many other activities in the control of tuberculosis. NEWS want ads bring results.

Student's Luncheon Special

Nourishing "on-a-plate" special for the students in the house are these taste-satisfying salmon salad sandwiches on enriched white bread, with milk and devilled eggs.

Plan on popular sandwiches for a well-balanced luncheon at home or one that goes into a lunchbox. A variety of breads serve as carriers for substantial fillings of fish, meat or eggs, all protein-rich foods for body building.

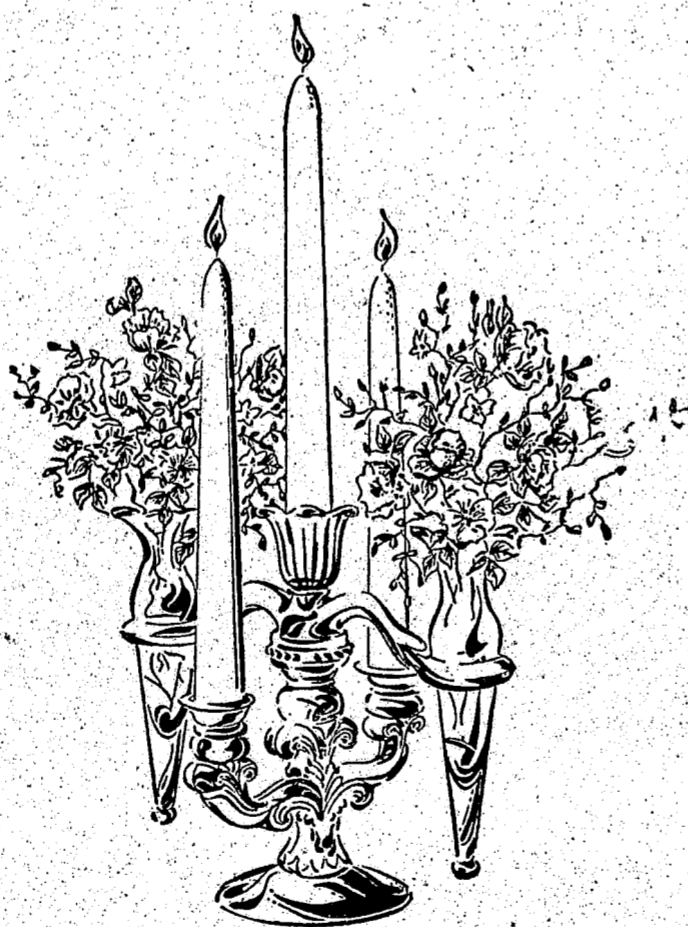

Complete the lunchbox meal with a bottle of milk and a thermos of hot vegetable or tomato soup. You'll probably want to include cookies, jam-filled tarts or fruit for dessert.

Salmon salad sandwiches are a good addition to the parade of luncheon specialties, for they are tasty, economical, and easy to prepare. Chopped celery and green pepper add desired crunch and color to the flaked salmon, while salad dressing makes the filling spreadable. Plain, enriched bread is best with salmon salad, but raisin, cinnamon and other breads make other good sandwiches which provide essential B-vitamins and iron.

SALMON SALAD SANDWICHES

1 1/2 cups flaked salmon 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
1/2 cup chopped celery 1/2 tablespoons salad dressing
1 slice enriched bread

Combine salmon, celery and green pepper. Add salad dressing and mix thoroughly. Use as filling for enriched bread. Makes one and one-half cups filling, enough for six sandwiches.

Though scientists are not generally agreed on the importance and effect of the antibiotics, improvement in the percentage of non-returns has been noted unanimously by research workers in several states.

"Love" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, January 29.

The Golden Text (Jeremiah 31:3) is: "The Lord hath appeared of old unto me, saying, Yea, I have loved thee with an everlasting love: therefore with loving kindness have I drawn thee."

Among the Bible citations is this passage, (Matt. 6:31-32): "Therefore take no thought, saying, What shall we eat? or, What shall we drink? or, Wherewithal shall we be clothed? (For after all these things do the Gentiles seek:) for your heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of all these things."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 330): "In divine Science, man is sustained by God, the divine Principle of being. The earth, at God's command, brings forth food for man's use."

Air Force Accepts Enlistments Now

There is an excellent opportunity for young men in this area to enlist in the Air Force now, according to Cpl. Z. A. Brawner, Army and Air Force recruiter for the Clarkston area.

"Unlike the Army, there are no restrictions on the number of men who may enlist in the Air Force. We will accept all who can meet the present high mental and physical standards required for enlistment," Cpl. Brawner said today.

Cpl. Brawner points out that the Air Force offers excellent opportunities to those seeking a career.

"New higher pay rates, retirement privileges which are unequalled, free medical and dental care, 30 days paid vacation a year, advancement opportunities, and opportunities for travel are only a few of the many advantages offered to those who enlist in the Air Force now," Cpl. Brawner says.

Young men, 18 to 34 years of age (seventeen with parent's consent) may contact the Corporal at the Recruiting Office 53 1/2 West Huron, Pontiac, Phone FE 4-5342 for complete information regarding "life in the Air Force."

MUST MAKE CROP LOANS BEFORE JANUARY 31

January 31, 1950 is the deadline for farmers to take advantage of government guarantees of support prices on several grain crops. This reminder comes from Clarence Prentice, Michigan State College grain and bean marketing specialist.

Loans of purchase agreements will not be available after this month, on 1949 crops of wheat, oats, rye, barley, soybeans and dry edible beans. The deadline date of January 31 is the result of a one-month extension this year, according to Prentice.

Loans on these crops, except soybeans, mature April 30, 1950. Farmers who have purchase agreements must notify the county Commodity Credit Corporation office during April. Soybean loans mature May 31, one month later than for the other crops.

Farmers will be paid seven cents a bushel for storage cost on farm stored soybeans or wheat held to the maturity dates.

Corn producers have until May 31, 1950 to take advantage of corn support price guarantees through loan or purchase agreement.

FLYING EDUCATORS ON TOUR OF U. S.

School administrators over the nation will participate in a week long Michigan State College "Flying Classroom" tour of the nation Feb. 19 as a warmup for the first air tour of Europe beginning March 18.

Carl M. Horn, pioneer of the air education idea, said 150 would begin the pre-European jaunt at Chicago. The flight will end at Atlantic City, N. J., February 26th at the national convention of the Association of School Administrators.

Prof. Horn said the main ideas of the national study tour will be school building and construction and business, industry, and education cooperation. Trip expenses for each participant will be financed by local school units, Prof. Horn said.

Have you considered the possibility of using home grown timber for farm construction work? Farmers in some areas exchange labor and do a lot of needed building jobs.

Insulation of old houses, done correctly and at reasonable costs, will pay off over a number of years, say agricultural engineers at Michigan State College.

For Your Own Protection

Don't Buy ANY Gas Heating Equipment Unless Your Application Has Been Approved By Consumers Power Company

The Michigan Public Service Commission has issued an order permitting this Company to resume connecting additional gas space-heating customers.

The Commission acted on evidence supplied by the Company showing that our gas storage field program has advanced to a point where restrictions on the sale of gas for heating houses and other buildings are no longer necessary.

This does not mean that everyone can have gas house-heating service immediately. Many can; others will have to wait a little longer because gas mains in their particular areas do not have capacity enough to supply the needs of all who want gas heat. This is true of some streets, some neighborhoods and even some communities.

Regulations on file with the Public Service Commission require that anyone wishing gas heating service must fill out a written application and obtain the Company's approval. This regulation is designed to protect both you and the present gas space-heating customers in your vicinity, whose service might suffer if too many customers were connected to existing facilities.

To avoid tying up your money in equipment you may not be able to use, please refrain from buying any gas space-heating equipment until and unless your written application has been approved in writing by the Company.*

CONSUMERS POWER CO.

*When you do buy gas heating equipment, be sure it bears the approval of the American Gas Association.

Give Us Back Our Sidewalks, Slim!

I wrote that over an article in the Clarion last week, but I didn't like doing it. After all, the man it was aimed at — Slim Henderson — is a good friend of mine.

Slim came into quite a windfall last month, and bought the old Clark place. The deed gave him title to all the land — right down to the street. Then Slim started to take up the sidewalk to make his lawn look better.

I felt it wasn't fair to the town and said so in my article. Next morning Slim comes around and wants to know what I mean — getting folks riled against him. I felt ornery myself, and we had quite a set-to over the whole business.

From where I sit, that was foolish. Once we'd cooled off (over lunch and a bottle of beer at Andy's Tavern), Slim decided the sidewalks should stay — for the common good and I promised next time I'd take a good look at the other fellow's point of view before writing any articles about him!
