The Hilltopper BIOLOGY CLASSES VISIT

CANCER INSTITUTE

On February 2nd, the Biology classes of Clarkston High School visited the American Cancer Society at the corner of John R and Hancock St., in Detroit. Upon arrival the group of about 90 people, who came on the school busses, assembled in an auditorium for a brief lecture on preventing cancer and what is done in the research centers. The group was divided into three smaller groups and led by volunteer hostesses. The chaperones, Mrs. Coltson and Miss Bennett went with the groups as they toured the building. The research center not only experiments with cancerous tissues and preventing cancer, but there is a group that make things like pads and bed jackets for cancer patients. There is a "loan closet", as it is called which is a large room where wheelchairs, mattresses and bedclothes and many other similar items are stored. Upstairs there is a laboratory where radio-active materials are used into which no visitors are admitted.

There are two nooms where experiments are made on rats and mice. Cancerous tissue is put on the mice, and then examined later. In one room there are as many as 5,000 rats. In other laboratories cancerous tissue is compared with healthy tissue by chemicals etc. In this way they can tell what makes the cancer grow, that is, what chemical. There are many interesting machines and instruments to help in these jobs such as a Gieger Counter, which detects radio-active matter.

When the groups ended their tour, they were served cocoa and cookies by the hostesses. The trip was very interesting and the class certainly was pleased with it. Terry Brown

The Clarkston High School Biology students went to Detroit Thursday, February 2nd and visited the American Cancer Society. They were taken through the building by three ladies and saw a laboratory consisting of two rooms where rats and mice were kept, and many other research

The library was not very large although it contained books on every subject in the study of cancer. Anything ever written was here, and some of the books were on film which could be projected and read. This was done to take up less space.

When the pupils had seen the ro m, they were taken to see the DARLING AND COMPANY mice. The odor was terrible, but a doctor explained that this was a combination of their food and chemicals. The mice were kept in small cages, set in layers," which were suspended from the ceiling by boards. Bottles supplied them with water and their food was put in wire baskets, which kept the cages clean. The next room was cages of rats, which although they were similar in appearance, the air was less irritating, These animals were used in experiments, as were the mice. The doctor showed a rat which had a small cancer tumor developing its stomach. She also had a rat with tumor on its stomach, but it was as big as the rat itself. We watched while she dissected it after it had been given ether.

We were also taken to a room where women were busily preparing bandages. Their time and the material was all donated.

The bandages and other supplies were kept in two storerooms. Afterward, we were all treated with cocoa and cookies. One of the buses had a flat tire to climax the day. Carolyn Hanchel

First of all I would like to extend my most hearty congratulations to Miss Lois Welberry of Hill Road in White Lake Township. Lois had an outstanding 4-H Club potato exhibit shown at the recent Farmers' Week program. It is very gratifying to see this young lady making good progress as a result of 4-H Club work.

We certainly can't overlook passing a bouquet to John Canfield of New Hudson for winning the sweepstakes award at Farmers' Week. John did this with his commercial exhibit of hybird seed corn, to be offered for sale this spring. This exhibit was in competition with other growers throughout the State. > EARLY CHICKS MEAN EARLIER FALL EGGS

"The earlier the better" is the watchword for buying baby chicks, says Howard Zindel, Michigan State College poultryman.

Early ordering means you have better chance of getting your chicks when you want them. Early-hatched chicks grow faster than those born later, and should be laying well by early fall when egg prices are highest.

By starting early, you can find a reliable hatchery that has the kind of chicks you want. In addition, early chicks are easy to grow and are not bothered so much by diseases and parasites.

Addition of castor oil to highway marking paint gives it better sticking qualities and prevents its association will be held on this chipping off under strenuous wear and tear, according to Dr. Leo L. Carrick of the Department of Chemical and Metallurgical Engineering.

He made the discovery while engaged in an effort to develop improvements in pavement marking specifications for the Michigan State Highway Deparment, Work ing on an Engineering Research Institute project, Dr. Carrick developed and tested 13 different paint formulations for drying time toughness, hardness and ability to to absorb glass beads.

The difference in climatic conditions of northern and southern Michigan requires a thorough field study to determine the best material and performance specifications for a highway marking paint, Dr. Carrick declared.

At the present time, it takes about 15 gallons of paint and 90 pounds of glass beads to cover a mile of pavement, according to W. K. Parr, acting supervisor of the University's Highway Department Testing Laboratories, The glass beads, while contributing to the wear and life of the marking paint, are used primarily to give the paint a visible luminous appearance under the auto lights, he pointed out.

The Highway Department uses approximately 50,000 gallons of white and yellow traffic paint each year in marking trunk lines throughout the state, Parr added.

"Soul" will be the subject of the esson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, February 12.

The Golden Text (Psalms 66:8,9) s: "O bless our God, ye people, and make the voice of his praise to be heard: which holdeth our soul in life, and suffereth not our feet to be moved."

Among the Bible citations is this passage, (Job 22:21): "Acquaint now thyself with him, and Lutheran Charities will bring the be at peace: thereby good shall message come unto thee."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p 335): "Soul and Spirit being one, God and Soul are one, and this one never included in a limited mind or a limited body. Spirit is eternal, divine. Nothing but Spirit, Soul, can evolve Life, for Spirit is more than all else. Because Soul is immortal, it does not exist in mortality. Soul must be incorporeal to be Spirit, for Spirit is not finite. Only by losing the false sense of Soul can we gain the eternal unfolding of Life as immortality brought to light."

Jam-Filled Coil

Hidden spiral of jam and a candied fruit and nut leing put this coffee cake into the dessert class.

Better allow for seconds when you serve jam-filled coffee cake coil with its attractive fruit and nut studded icing.

Make this special occasion bread from a basic sweet yeast dough, using enriched flour for the added B-vitamins and iron it provides. Let dough rest about ten minutes before shaping so that it will be easier to handle. To fashion the coil, roll the dough out to a long thin strip, spread jam over surface, then roll up tightly. Coil the jam-filled roll into a cake pan, putting the sealed edge down. This keeps jam from oozing out and also gives the top of the coffee cake a smooth appearance.

After baking, apply a thin glaze of confectioners icing to high-light the coil. If desired, chopped fruits and nuts may be pressed into the icing for special occasions. Despite these extras, jam-filled coil makes an economical ending to a luncheon or dinner menu. JAM-FILLED COIL
