Judge R. Holland Talks To P. T. A.

A most enjoyable evening was spent by members and friends of the Clarkston and Sashabaw P. T. A's last Thursday evening in the high school gym. Circuit message dealt with Juvenile delinquency. Of the 155 cases he U.S. Savings Bond. sentenced in 1951, 52 percent were under 21 years of age.

The existing problem, according to Judge Holland, reflects the in Pontiac when Dr. John A. spirit of our age. It lies in the breaking down of family cooperation. We need a "Charles Dickens' to help us with our troubles.

The two most often repeated offenses of teenagers are "breaking and entering" and "unlawful driving away of automobiles". Judge Holland said that we cannot look to the school and the church to teach our youngsters the basic concepts of truthfulness and honesty. Children must be taught respect for others and cooperation within the family unit.

He advises slowing down of outside activities. "Members of the family are going in too many different directions at different times. We do not do enough things as a family unit. We must simplify our habits and tastes. Harmony in the home is a necessity."

Preceding the program, Mrs. Walton Robbins, Clarkston PTA president, and Mrs. Byron Clements, Sashabaw PTA president, made announcements. The Clarkston group is planning a square dance on Friday, January 18, from 9 to 12 p. m., in the high school gym, Sashabaw PTA will have a square dance on Saturday, January 26, in the Sashabaw school.

P. T. A. Council Has Fine Discussion

In the symposium "Legislation for '52", given before the Oakland County P. T. A. Council at Rochester High School on Tuesday evening, although the speakers, Mrs. James Dunne, Clifford Smart and James Covert, presented different phases of pending legislation of importance to schools and were not in entire agreement, they did all emphasize the importance of studying and discussing these matters in our local P. T. A. groups.

This viewpoint was also emphasized by the moderator, William Emerson, the County Legislative Chairman,

> The award of the bond will be made at the Annual Banquet February 27th at the Elks Temple Hannah, President of the Michigan State College will be the speaker. Both John and the 1st prize winner, Judith Kent of Pontiac, will be guests of the Pontiac Real Estate Board.

The following letter was received by Mr. Kenneth Hempstead, president of the Pontiac Real Estate Board: Dear Mr. Hempstead:

Mayor John Ridgway, William Emerson and I have all read the excellent winning essays presented by the High Schools of this area, and we are very pleased with the splendid way in which these young people have prepared and preesnted their viewpoints.

We also want to say to you of the Real Estate Board that we believe you are doing a very fine civic service in sponsoring this program and inducing young people to think about these matters pertaining to the basic fundamentals of American liberties.

In going over the winning essays, it was indeed difficult for us to decide between them because they were all very well done and of exceptional merit. We would like to tell the young people that we are quite proud Both organizations voted to buy of them and that they are all to be complimented,

However, in making the decision it was felt that the order of achievement should be awarded as follows:

First Place, Pontiac High School Judith Kent; Second Place, Clarkston High School, John Bennett; Third Place, Walled Lake High School, Eugene Pattison; Fourth Place, Waterford High School, Bill Brinker; Fifth Place, Roosevelt

High School, Virginia Speer. This communication is sent to you on behalf of myself and the other two members of the committee whose opinions I am expressing.

With kind personal regards, I

Most sincerely yours, Arthur E. Moore, Probate Judge

Random Thoughts

DISCIPLINE -- We all agree that discipline is necessary . . for children, military personnel, prisoners; we rarely think of it as something necessary for us, or, if we do, then perhaps in certain were the couple's only attendants. us, and in most circumstances. Discipline is not only man-made: it may be imposed upon us by natural forces, by the laws of task itself. It is a very severe discipline for the farmer when his crop is damaged or even lost through bad weather or insects; for the ship's captain when he has to battle and Marketing Community and County Coutwit a storm at sea; for the merchant when sharp competition threatens to cut down his profits; for the sculptor when he has to work with unyielding stone to make a statue. Without discipline there would be no progress. Apparently we human beings need obstacles to make us run instead of just shuffle along; we need setbacks to make us appreciate what we had; we need difficulties to make us do our best.

Can you imagine what our life would be without such spurs to our intelligence, our efforts, our imagination? There would be no technical developments, no inventions, no appreciation even of the benefit of our achievements of virtues such as perseverance and fortitude; there would be no character building, no development of great personalities; there would be no civilization, no culture, no art. Hardships are maybe more valuable to us than advantages. With only good things coming our way we get spoiled. Just as a special privileges but takes them for granted, becomes selfish because all his wishes are gratified, and will be an unhappy child as a result - so would we all be without discipline.

What about those often-called 'lucky" people who have everything, upon whom fortune seems to bestow all its gifts? Being human beings and living in a human society and subject to natural forces, they, of course, will ex- daily living. perience some of the disciplinary measures. But too sheltered an existence, too "careful" an upbringing, too much ease and luxury may well make it hard for them to meet the challenge of these difficulties. Therefore they should be pitied rather than envied.

I like to think of difficulties as challenges rather than disadvantages; only if the difficulties are too hard, or too numerous for our capacities do they become obstructions. How can we rise unless we meet obstacles which must be surmounted? Who would taste the sweet satisfaction of a task well done without also knowing, by the sweat of his brow or the fatigue through intellectual effort, the difficulties encountered? Usually difficulties come too unwished for, too often, and too numerous. Sometimes they are even too big for us: a problem confronts us which seems incapable of being solved.

In such a case, or in the opposite event, when we feel "bored" by the sameness of everyday life, or are getting too smug in the comforts of modern civilization, we should go out and hunt up a difficulty! Take on a new project, unfamiliar to us and bound to be full of surprises; or force ourselves to meet other people and become interested in their problems; or just take a long walk on a blustery winter day. After we have tramped over the fields, lifting our boots out of the high snows, maybe sliding down, a hill in the woods, facing a raw wind which whips our cheeks into a glowing red, we come home, feeling tired and triumphant. There is nothing so uplifting to our spirit as overcoming difficulties. Boredom is swept away, despair over the the flush of victory in our en- to live with, even for ourselves.

Clarkston Debaters Win Three of Four

NUMBER 20

Last week Clarkston participated in two rounds of debates. In the first round held at Almont on team consisting of Fred Groven and Delphine Parshall won, while the affirmative team consisting of Mickey Palazzollo and Shirley Devine lost a close decision. Although Shirley filled in at the last moment when another debater was unable to make the trip, she did a very fine job. Both debates were judged by Mr. Little of Lapeer.

This was the second round of debates in the State Forensic League. In this league Clarkston's record now stands at three wins and one loss. In the third round Clarkston drew a bye, and so will not compete again until the fourth round. Then Clarkston will entertain. Debate coach. Miss Patricia Stites, hopes that an audience will come to hear these debates.

In the Wayne Oakland League Clarkston's record thus far also stands at three wins and one loss. On last Thursday, the second debate tournament of this season was held at Milford. Clarkston's affirmative consisting of Ann Spohn and Mickey Palazzolo won decision from Clarenceville. Judge of this debate was Dr. Vincent from Michigan State College, Delphine Parshall and Fred Groven debating the negative side of the propoitiosn resolved: That all American citizens should be subject to conscription in the time of war. This was a debate with Holly. Dr. Bernard Knittle of Michigan State College was the judge.

The third debate tournament in this league will be held on Jan. 31, at Holly.

New "babies" on the way? An electric heat lamp brooder helps you get them safely through the first critical weeks. Chicks, pigs and lambs thrive in energy-building warmth. Huddling, crowding and smothering are practically eliminated. Litter stays dry; feeding and watering are easier; you save time and work. Just remember-proper installation is important for efficiency and economy. Your Edison Farm Service Advisor will gladly help you plan the right electric brooder to suit your needs. Call any Edison office to arrange for this timely assistance.
