ROTARY CLUB ENTERTAINS FARMERS AT DINNER

On Monday of this week about 40 farmers of the community were guests of the Clarkston Rotary Club at the annual dinner held in their honor, The Township Community Center was the scene of the meeting.

Robert L. Jones led the group singing the first verse of "America" accompanied by Charles Robinson at the piano. Invocation was given by the Reverend Robert M. Atkins.

Following a delicious dinner, Ed Rummings again called upon Jones and Robinson for more community singing.

Rotary President Alfred L. Lee welcomed the guests. Alex Solley, representing the farmers, thanked the club and related a few of his experiences in farming. Because Alex had been forced to be a patient in a hospital, he included a few of his experiences there.

Ira Snader then introduced the speaker for the evening, Howard J. Cook, the director of the Conference of Business Management of the Chrysler Corporation with offices in Detroit.

Mr. Cook's address concerned the present condition of the United States in regard to its conflict in Korea, its opposition to Communism, and its seeming approach to a welfare state. Mr. Cook questioned if Russia was not winning its desire to wreck the United States by doing nothing and letting the United States ruin itself in an apparent attempt to save itself. The speaker questioned the value of controls and subsidies and denounced the growing deficit of operating the government.

Jack Wignall of the Waterford Rotary Club was a guest.

The dinner was prepared by a committee of the W. S. C. S., of the First Methodist Church. Mrs. William Johnston was chairman, and was assisted by Mrs. L. Masterson, Mrs. W. McVittie, Mrs. W. Sharpe, Mrs. Carl Irish, Floss Hubbard, Mrs. P. Henry, Mrs. E. Terry, Mrs. H. Bauer and Mrs. H. Johnson.

FARM WOMEN MET LAST WEEK

The regular meeting of the Women's Committee of the Oakland County Farm Bureau met on Tuesday of last week at the home of Mrs. Fred Upcraft, 11140 Holly-Milford Road.

Mrs. Glenn Perry, vice-chairman, called the meeting to order. Roll was called and all responded on the subject for the fall speaking contest "The Farm Women chats with her City Friend".

Mrs. Clarence Porritt was appointed historian and Mrs. Seeley Tinsman is to suggest a parliamentary procedure at each meeting.

It was voted to give $5 toward each of the following state projects: Nurse Recruitment Fund; Foreign Students and Associated Country Women of the World. Again each Community Farm Bureau group is reminded to send in their "Pennies For Friendship" which finances the offices of the Associated Country Women of the World.

Mrs. Allen Parker gave her report on legislation and asked each member to send her views on the various bills of interest to farmers to their senators and representatives.

The matter of civil defense was discussed, but nothing definite will be decided until later date. The district camp at Waldenwood is to be May 13-14 instead of May 21-22 as was previously announced.

Twenty-five pantook of the co-operative luncheon before the meeting.

The next meeting will be held at Goodison Town Hall, north of Rochester, on March 19th, with Mrs. Earl Braid, Mrs. Herman Stackhouse and Mrs. Clarence Porritt as hostesses.

Mrs. R. M. Parker Hostess To Club

On Tuesday evening the Clarkston Rotary Annex met at the home of Mrs. R. M. Parker, 158 N. Main St. Mrs. William Sharpe was the assisting hostess. There were twenty present. Mrs. Ira Snader was welcomed as a new member.

The business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Wm. Sharpe. The group voted to purchase a wheel chair for use in the community. Guest night was discussed and it was decided that the date should be moved ahead in March. The meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Charles Robinson and the members are to be notified of the date in time to invite their guests.

Following the business meeting Mrs. W. H. Stamp, program chairman for the evening introduced Mrs. William Shumuk of Waterford Township who gave a brief review of the book "Heaven In My Hand" by Alice Lee Humphreys. She explained that this very fine book could not be reviewed like most books because in doing so the beauty of the lines as written by Alice Humphreys would be lost. However, Mrs. Shumuk read the start of the book to explain why the story had such a title. Then she read several chapters, each a story in itself. The group was impressed with the book as it was presented by Mrs. Shumuk and many decided it was a book worth having on the library shelf.

To close a lovely evening refreshments were served from a table covered with a white, linen damask cloth, and centered with a beautiful arrangement of blue iris, daffodils and white snapdragons in a large silver bowl, flanked by silver candelabra holding peach colored candles. Mrs. Robert M. Atkins presided at the silver service.

After the refreshments the group lingered for about an hour to visit.

The Hilltopper

On February 21st the girls of the Home Ec. Department were visited by Miss Good and Miss Fredricks, who represented Consumer's Power Co. They presented a broiler demonstration. All of the tempting dishes were later served to the girls.

The two broiler meals demonstrated were: Stuffed Frankfurters (Swankie Frankies), Gingham Bologna, Double Decker Burgers, Grilled Liver, Onion Slices and Cheese tomatoes were placed on grill and corn was broiled on pan beneath.

Ham slices, Golden Pineapple, Sliced potatoes were placed on grill and green peas were put underneath in broiler pan. The dessert was a wondrous butter cup cake with southern broiled frosting. Here is the frosting recipe:

6 T. melted butter
3/4 c. brown sugar
1/2 t. vanilla
4 T. cream
1 c. grape nuts

Combine ingredients and spread over cake. Brown lightly under broiler for approx. 8 minutes. We hope you'll enjoy this as much as we did.

The three judges for the tournament were Mr. Gary of Ann Arbor High School, Mr. Richards of Hazel Park High School, and Thurman Harris of Lansing Sexton High School.

For the first round Clarkston drew Almont, and Clarkston's negative team, Pat Tisich and Delphine Parshall, defeated Mr. Harris the judge gave the decision to Almont. Elsie and Inlay City also were eliminated in this first round. Clarkston's affirmative team of Terry Brown and Mickey Palazzo were present and were somewhat disappointed since they did not have a chance to debate.

By The Way . . .

Week by week you try to write a short column about local happenings for local consumption. Now and then you take in a little more territory and strange things happen. Last winter when the Dearborn Motors brought down their tractor equipment (we should say a part of that equipment) and cleaned the snow from our streets, we thought it was worth a few lines. This week Stan Evans, the farm manager, loaned the writer a copy of "Public Relations News" calling attention to the fact that the item we had written had landed ten lines in that weekly publication. In view of the fact that Public Relations News is a weekly four page letter telling how corporations handle their good will with the public and costs only $35.00 per year, we are pleased this is about the fifth time an item has been taken from our paper for national reading — the first in a national news-letter.

The Fred Beckmans are back from Florida. Fred reports that this year they stayed in a trailer camp in Venice instead of Orlando as in former years. To you who have wondered about the pleasures of living in Florida in a trailer camp contact this returned vacationer. He will remove any doubt you may have. . . . Construction is going ahead on the second story of the addition at the Methodist Church and there is quite a little activity on the school, on the south side of Walton Boulevard, across from the present high school. . . . William H. Jantion of the Music Department of the Clarkston Community Schools is doing his best to see that his band has uniforms. There is an item on this page about a show he is giving to help raise money to defray the cost of the suits. His enthusiasm is contagious and we do not doubt that some of these days we will have a uniformed band to the glory of the community, and his unbounded desire to have a good band dressed as a good band should be. . . . This week marks the passing of Mrs. Elizabeth Rockwell. When the writer came to town years ago Mrs. Rockwell and Mrs. Mary Green operated their own modestly hospitals. Within the last month both have left us. . . . A man first worried about his hair appeared — then his hair not appeared.

Service Sunday For Mrs. E. A. Rockwell

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Rockwell, of 54 West Washington Street, passed away in Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit last Friday morning after a lengthy illness. She was born in West Bloomfield Township Sept. 19, 1878.

HEART MONTH

This is Heart Month and it seems well worth pointing out what the Michigan Heart Association is trying to do.

"It isn't asking for a nickel — extraordinary as it is a special 'month' — to have no price tag attached! But the Heart Association gets its money from the United Foundation Torch Drive, and the purpose of its campaign now is not to raise money, but to explain what it does with the money already given.

It has given out some newspaper stories and other reports, and will make public some more.

The one big thing it wishes to explain is how the money is spent and why.

IT DOESN'T parcel out money to victims struck down by heart attacks — its funds would have to be allotted in pennies!

Instead, its purpose is to keep digging into the causes of heart trouble.

That way it can make a dent in the misery that heart diseases cause. The other way it couldn't.

Most of our big hospitals are working on the various problems, a thousand dollars here, several thousand there, each man, or group of men, doing a particular piece of the job.

Board of Education
Clarkston Community Schools
Clarkston, Michigan
Dear Fellow Board Members:

This is my official notice of resignation as a member of the Board of Education effective February 29, A. D. 1952.

For reasons of health, it seems wise that I seek out a milder climate in which to work, play, and pass my days. My family and I, after several months of study, have decided to move our residence to Florida.

It has, indeed, been a deep pleasure to associate and work with such unselfish and serious men.

Yours sincerely,
August J. Anttila

Deane Dickason To Show Color Film Of Egypt

The third and last of the Waterford Township Recreation Board travel lectures titled, "Egypt's Pageant of the Nile," illustrated in beautiful color film will be held on Monday, March 10 in the Waterford Township High school auditorium at 8:00 p. m.

The real stars of this film-lecture, are the fellahin—the Egyptian peasants who toil for a meager livelihood along narrow strips of rich soil paralleling that historic stream.

The Egyptian farmer, or fellah (Arabic for ploughman) is an assiduous laborer, proud of his descent from ancient Egypt. He rises at dawn and tills the dark soil with a primitive plow that dates back to pharaonic times. He believes all modern contrivances cut too deeply and turn up worthless salts.

The average fellah is strong and well-built, somewhat above medium height. His head and face are oval, his cheekbones high, forehead broad, nose short and flatfish. His hair is black, his skin, rather dark.

In youth, his wife is firmly built. She has broad shoulders and a fine posture, from carrying heavy water-jars on her head. She has beautiful dark eyes, pays elaborate attention to her hair and paints her face — a custom dating back to the Pharaohs. She marries young and bears many children.

In his memorable film Deane Dickason reveals a day in the life of a fellahin family. How they sleep and eat, and how they cook, play and pray, how they farm and tend their ducks and geese (water buffaloes). He also shows what the Egyptian Government is doing to eradicate disease, illiteracy and insanitation, for the fellahin are not only Egypt's past — but her future.

A trained observer, Deane Dickason is his own photographer. He has been a city editor, a Radio News Analyst, a Foreign Correspondent, also Publicity Director and Lecturer on Seventeen Cruises. More recently, his color film, "Down Singapore Way" and "Beautiful Bali", were released by Warner Brothers.

"Egypt's Pageant of the Nile," was filmed on Dickason's twenty-second trip around the world since 1923.

KICK-OFF MEETING

The kick-off meeting for the annual Red Cross campaign for funds for 1952-53 was held February 20th when workers from throughout Oakland County met at Christ Church, Cranbrook, to receive instructions. Dr. Benedict Glazer of Temple Beth El, Detroit, gave an inspirational talk entitled "The High Cost of Living".

General chairman Gar A. Sweezey named Donald A. Adams of Waterford Township as chairman of the out-county area.

Mr. Adams, in urging the citizens of the county to support the membership campaign, stated: "Once again the American Red Cross is calling upon the people of the United States to join in its humanitarian program. During the month of March volunteers throughout the nation will aid in the annual campaign for financial support for the blood bank, the Gray Lady program, flood relief, services, home nursing and first aid, training for civil defense, the learn to swim program which is so popular in our own county, and the many other services which are essential in our world today. It is our hope that each individual will want to belong to an organization which for over seventy years has stood by the side of people in need of physical and spiritual help both in peace and in war."

Volunteers are needed to assist in the fund campaign and anyone interested in serving can contact Mr. Adams in Drayton Plains or call the Red Cross office in Pontiac.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Harry Waggener, March 20.

Just Waiting

As the sun peeps through on a late winter's day
With the first sign of strength in each glorious ray,
We feel the beginning of things that will come
With the advent of spring and the warmth of the sun.

We feel the small lives who've been dormant so long
As they gather strength and grow vibrant and strong.
We're conscious it seems that under the snow
Are millions of beings just waiting to grow.

There's a gathering of force that eyes can't see
That baffles the world with its great mystery.
There's great preparations at work everywhere
Attending each life with the utmost of care.

So that when the show starts the stage will be set
With greatest of detail the world has seen yet.
There's a bustle and hurry in back of the scenes
In making the costumes of all shades of greens.

We sense the vibration and know it is real
Like any disturbance the senses can feel,
That countless small lives are at work 'neath the snow.
Just marshalling their strength and waiting to grow.

SUGGESTIONS TO HOMEMAKERS

Snowdrops and pussy-willows may be the poetic harbingers of spring, but for most homemakers this is primarily the season for that annual upheaval - spring housecleaning.

If home management specialists at Michigan State College had their way, there would be no such thing as a general housecleaning at certain times of the year.

Dorothy M. Grey of the home management department suggests that house-keeping should be spread over the entire year since modern equipment enables women to keep up with their work from day to day.

Spring is a logical time, Miss Grey agrees, to make changes. Put away the winter clothes and clean the closets, take down heavy draperies, clean the fireplace and make way for the ease of summer living.

But don't bother with tugging the rugs out of doors for the usual shakedown, it is too hard on the fabric. Fifteen minutes a week per rug will keep them amply clean.

For the rug pads use straight suction cleaning several times a year. If your electric sweeper is an agitator type, you can get straight suction by disconnecting the band, Miss Grey said.

Another woman-killer is the mattress beating process that grandmother thought was essential. Use vacuum attachments on the mattress surface and forget the beating that is, again, too hard on the fabric.

A mattress cover that fits and is easily put on will be a boon in keeping the mattress clean.

As for bed springs, Miss Grey suggests blowing the dirt off with an attachment if your suction vacuum does not make contact with the springs. Or use a dish mop to get into the coil springs.

In any case, put dampened newspapers underneath to catch and hold the dirt.

Each Michigan family can buy its own authoritative "Civil Defense Library" for less than one dollar, the Michigan Office of Civil Defense said today.

Ten booklets on civil defense for lay people are being prepared by the Federal Civil Defense Administration. Five have been released so far: "Survival Under Atomic Attack," ten cents; "This is Civil Defense," 10 cents; "What You Should Know About Biological Warfare," 10 cents; "Fire-Fighting for Householders," 5 cents; and "Emergency Action to Save Lives," 5 cents.

"Survival Under Atomic Attack" is a thirty-two page booklet telling about the possible effects of atomic bombs - blast, burns, radioactivity and radiation sickness - and what to do to protect oneself against them.

It gives five keys to household safety and destroys many myths and rumors.

"This is Civil Defense," another thirty-two page booklet, tells the place of the civilian population in the defense against atomic, biological and chemical warfare; how casualties can be cut in half, and how property can be protected.

It lists dozens of services - rescue, fire, police, welfare, wardens, engineering, transportation, communication and clerical in which volunteers are urgently needed in each community of the state.

"Fire-fighting for Householders" tells what each family should know and do to protect their home against fire, and lists fire fighting equipment which should be in every home.

"Emergency Action to Save Lives" gives a few principles of emergency first aid, and lists the items which should be included in a household first aid kit.

All Michigan people are urged to get the pamphlets, whether or not they are actively engaged in volunteer civil defense work. The pamphlets can be ordered together or separately from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, 25, D. C.

"After all," he points out, "belief in reason as a method of dealing with problems, rather than resorting to authority, is an essential tenet of democracy. Furthermore, one of the best ways to teach a child to reason is to provide him with good examples resulting from his daily activities."

If a child tells a lie about some matter of importance, he shouldn't merely be told that he did something wrong, Professor Brackenbury says. "The child is unlikely to be convinced it's a sin to tell a lie if he is merely told that it is. It's far better if, after trying to understand the child's reason for lying, the adult seeks to get the child to understand the repercussions of lying."

The adult can point out that those who lie lose the confidence of others, and that if one habitually lies he eventually loses the power to distinguish between truth and falsity, the professor indicates.

"Why?" that question often asked by the child, shouldn't be answered with "Because I say so," states a University of Michigan professor.

"The wise parent or teacher will aid the child in his search for a rational basis for action - not place impediments in his way by quoting authority," Robert L. Brackenbury, assistant professor of education, explains.

7th Grade News

The 7th graders started their new course last Thursday in Michigan history. This is a study of Michigan's early history under the French, English, and early United States government. The latter half of the subject matter deals with the geography and natural and man-made resources of the state.

In English class the students have been studying the parts of speech and they are learning to recognize them in sentences.

MSC BASIC COLLEGE REVISION PROPOSED

Modification of the Basic College, Michigan State College's general education program, is under consideration by the faculty of the college.

A proposed reorganization plan, based on an intensive six-month study, has been recommended by Dr. Clifford E. Erickson, dean of the Basic College. The faculty of the college will take first official action within a few weeks, and then the proposal will go to the State Board of Agriculture for final approval.

The proposal would reduce the number of basic courses from 7 to 4. All students would be required to take all four courses in contrast to the present system which requires five of the seven. Total course credits would remain at 45.

If approved, the plan will become effective in fall term, 1952.

Dean Erickson said provisions would be made for those students already enrolled under the present system.

The four new basic courses would be communications, sciences, social science and humanities. Communications will account for nine credit hours; the other courses will be taken for 12 hours each. The total, 45 hour-credits, in Basic College courses is slightly less than one-fourth of the total requirements for graduation.

This is the first major revision of the Basic College since it was established in 1944. However, in an effort to continually improve the curriculum, minor changes have been made from time to time, Dr. Erickson said.

The new plan actually is a part of an over-all program of course reorganization and improvement for the entire college. This project has been under study for the past year by a committee headed by Dr. William H. Combs, administrative assistant to the president in charge of academic affairs.

Dr. Combs said the proposed Basic College revision seems to fit perfectly into the long range modernization plan for all course offerings of the college.

AG BOARD DESIGNATES MSC CENTENNIAL YEAR

The year 1955 has been officially designated as Michigan State College Centennial year by the State Board of Agriculture, governing body of the college.

The board further designated Feb. 12, the day M. S. C. was founded in 1855, as Founders' Day. Formal observance of the centennial year will begin on Feb. 12, 1955, and continue throughout the balance of the calendar year.

The legislation creating M. S. C., the first college in the nation devoted exclusively to the study of agriculture as a science, was signed Feb. 12, 1855, by Gov. Kinsley S. Bingham.

The annual meeting of the American Association of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities will be held at Michigan State in 1955 as part of the centennial celebration. Other national educational groups are expected to join this association in holding

Gelatine Makes Hearty Lenten Loaf

Unflavored gelatine, so popular in salads and desserts, offers main course nutrition during the Lenten season. This gelatine is a protein food, and adds its value to that of cheese and macaroni to provide an interesting and filling dinner loaf.

Spiced with grated onion, chopped parsley, pimiento and celery, this macaroni loaf not only gives plenty of food value but excellent flavor and appetite appeal. Unflavored gelatine does the blending as well as the molding trick. And did you know that men in particular are gelatine fans and like foods connected with it?

Molded Macaroni-Cheese Loaf

1 envelope unflavored gelatine	2 teaspoons grated onion
1/2 cup cold water	2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1/2 cup hot water	1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
1 cup grated American cheese	1/4 cup diced celery
1 tablespoon lemon juice	1 1/2 cups cooked elbow macaroni
1 teaspoon salt	1/2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing

Soften gelatine in cold water. Add hot water; stir constantly until gelatin is dissolved. Add grated cheese. Stir until cheese has softened. Stir in lemon juice, salt and grated onion. Chill until mixture is consistency of unbeaten egg white. Stir in parsley, pimiento, celery, macaroni, and mayonnaise. Turn into large or individual molds and chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with salad greens, ripe olives, wedges of avocado and tomato, if desired. YIELD: 6 servings.

EDITORS TO STUDY RURAL COMMUNITY

All Michigan newspaper editors will be invited to join in studying the rural community and how its newspaper can further the growth and development of country life in the state at an Editors' Country Life Conference at Michigan State College, next October, 10 and 11.

The Michigan Press Association and the college will co-sponsor the event according to Gene Allenman, MPA secretary-manager, and Ernest L. Anthony, MSC dean of agriculture.

The college departments of journalism and information services will cooperate in arranging the program. Typical study sessions will involve discussions of such subjects as building the rural community, providing improved farm and home news, country correspondence, farm youth and their place in the community and town and country relationships.

PRICING

Last week we discussed what makes a good display of produce and this week let's talk about pricing that produce.

On markets where both wholesale and retail selling occur there must be a reasonable difference between the two price levels if the wholesale business survives. Efficient grocery stores usually handle fresh fruits and vegetables on a total spread that averages 25 cents per dollar of sales, or an average mark-up of 33 and one-third percent all grocers do this - good evidence that it pays.

Price tags build good will. Many homemakers hesitate to ask the price unless they have decided to buy the commodity. They are used to seeing price signs when they buy at the store.

If a highly perishable product is not selling fast enough to be all sold when the market closes, give the item more display space, increase your sales efforts and reduce the price if necessary. These measures will often prevent a greater loss through spoilage.

KNOW WHAT YOU BUY AT COAT SALE TIME

Know what you want in a coat before you ever attend that sale of coats. This is the advice of Miss Hazel Strahan, head of Clothing and textiles department, Michigan State College.

Analyze the advertising of the sale of coats. Often it will give you more information about the color and style of the coat than about the fabric or lining. In the mild hysteria of a coat sale it isn't always easy to exercise your best judgment. That is why every consumer needs information concerning the points to look for in buying a coat.

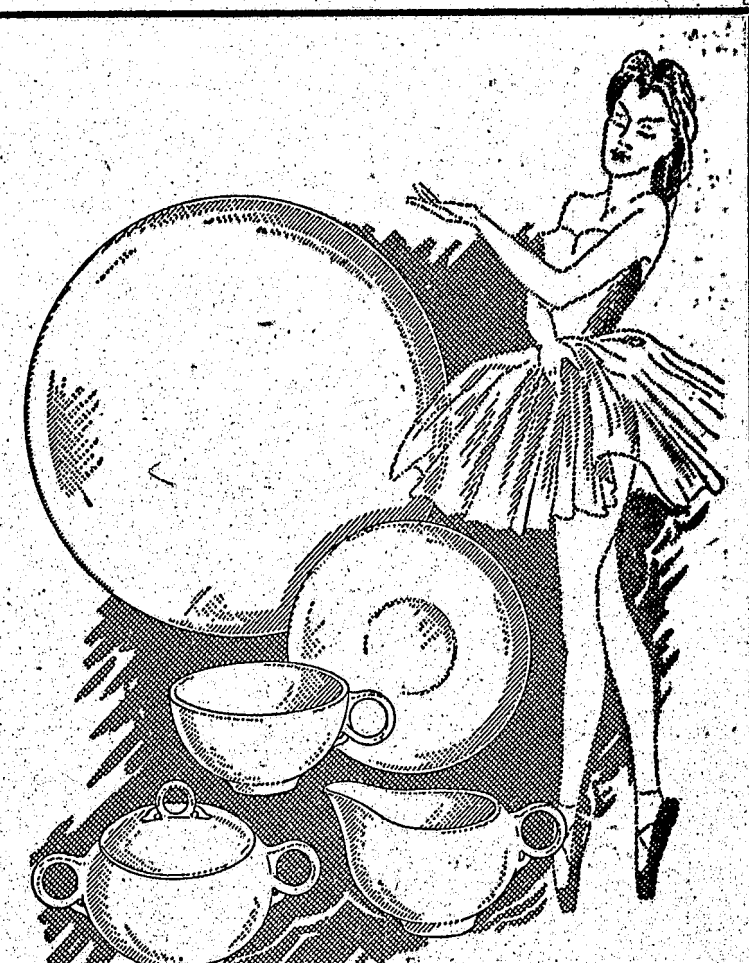

Excellent values are often available at coat sales. The coats may have quality in their styling, fabric and fur trim. But there is also the possibility that a special purchase from the manufacturer has been made. In this case the coats may be priced somewhat below the pre-christmas price but still not be an outstanding value.

Decide before you buy that a coat must be becoming to you, right for you and it must fulfill your needs or it is not a good buy regardless of price.

Style of the garment is important, Miss Strahan suggests. For some the classic or conservative cut of the garment is more pleasing and will be a better value because it will remain in good style for many seasons of the year. Most women have to consider not less than three to five years as the probable wear life of the coat.

"Incoming fashion" is the smart choice rather than "high fashion". A "high fashion" coat is often reduced in a post-season sale because it will not remain in style too long. Too many women and girls learn this lesson the hard way. Even if the purchase price is low, if the coat goes out of style in a year it isn't a wise buy in most cases.

The real difference in most coats is not so much in the fabric quality but in the styling, accuracy of cut, quality of lining and inner lining, buttonholes and other construction details. Often the smart consumer will discover that in coats of different price levels the difference is not too great in the quality of fabric - it is in the finish and workmanship.

ADVICE ABOUT KEEPING WELL

★ "The man who thinks to conserve his health by uselessness and ease does not differ from him who guards his eyes by not seeing, and his voice by not speaking. . . . Least of all is it to be assumed that laziness is healthful, if it destroys what health aims at; and it is not true that inactive people are more healthy."

This excerpt from Plutarch's essay Advice About Keeping Well, written over 2,000 years ago, might have been written yesterday. Had medicine and pharmacy been as well developed then as they are today, we are certain he would have stressed the value of a periodic physical examination by a qualified physician. By the same reasoning, it is wise to take your prescription to a registered pharmacist for expert compounding. We are prescription specialists.

FARMERS CAN PREVENT LOSS IN PROCESSING OWN MEATS

Farmers who process their own hogs, cattle and lambs sometimes suffer losses because of improper methods.

Lyman J. Bratzler, Michigan State College expert in meats, advises that most home butchering losses occur in pork, due to improper chilling of the carcasses.

After the carcass has been dressed out, prompt and rapid chilling is the most important single factor in reducing spoilage.

The ideal is hard to reach under average farm conditions. But, if slaughtering is done in the evening of a relatively cold day, the carcass split down the middle and placed in cold water to remove the heat of scalding, it can be achieved.

Some home butchers prefer to use the facilities of locker plants for curing because they afford the ideal temperatures.

The place of Christ Jesus as the stevelator of God to man is discus-ed in the Lesson-Sermon under that title, which will be read in all Christian Science churches on Sunday, March 2.
The Golden Text is from Isaiah (11-1): "There shall come forth a rod out of the stem of Jesse, and a Branch shall grow out of his roots."

Among the Bible citations in this passage. (Matt. 18:15,16): "He saith unto them, But whom say ye that I am? And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God."
Correlative passages from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy include: "Jesus was the highest human concept of the perfect man.
He was inseparable from Christ,
the Messiah, —the divine idea of God outside the flesh." (p. 482)

TIPS ON REPAIRING ROW-BOATS GIVEN BY ENGINEER

Now's the time to repair that boat, fisherman, for spring's around the corner and all good fishermen know there's a magic happyland among the cattails and lily pads.

After a winter in drydock, the boat dries out, and even changes dimensions, according to C. Willett Spooner, associate professor of mechanical and marine engineering at the University of Michigan.
"It'll need a lot of work," he says.
Seams probably will need caulking, and it should have a new paint job, he explains, in passing on some work tips.

A hole in the boat resulting from a collision with stones or other objects can best be repaired by cutting the damaged place square.
Then fit a rectangular piece of wood inside the boat larger than the hole, cut a piece to fit the hole, and nail or screw these two pieces to the boat before caulking and painting.

Caulking can be done best with cotton wicking driven into the seams with a caulking iron and mallet. With thin planking, it is better to roll the wicking into the seams with a small, sharp-edged roller. A good, thin paint, mixed with turpentine, should be soaked into the wicking to waterproof the material against rot.

Where the seams show, they can be filled with caulking compound over the wicking. Don't use putty, as it shrinks when it hardens and comes loose. Marine caulking compound, which can be used both above and below the water line, remains flexible and stays in the seams better.

Don't overdo the job. Caulking a boat too much when it is dry tends to loosen fastenings and buckle planks when the wood swells after it is put in the water.
Poreh and deck enamel are good for painting boats. The usual small boat can be painted both topside and bottom with the same paint. It's a good idea to paint the inside of the boat some medium-dark color to reduce glare from sunlight. Be sure the paint is dry before putting the boat into the water.

BUY MORE CHICKS
ECONOMIST ADVISES

Although it might not look logical to farmers now who are looking at their egg checks, Henry Larzelere, poultry economist at Michigan State College, says that it should pay Michigan farmers to buy more baby chicks that they had planned on this year.

Larzelere explains that economists have been predicting for the past several months that unfavorable egg prices would discourage farmers about raising chicks this year. The crop report just out indicates that farmers now intend to buy 10 percent fewer chicks than a year ago. This lower number of chicks will mean fewer pullets next fall, fewer eggs and higher prices.

By having a good pullet flock
coming into production next fall, farmers will be able to make advantage of the good fall prices.
And prices in the winter and spring of 1953 will be higher than this year.

In any case, start the chicks as early as possible for greatest profits, Larzelere advises.

COAT STYLES
FOR SPRING

Fashion dictators have been anything but dictatorial in putting together this spring's coat trend. That is the conclusion reached by Miss Marion Niedermuem of the Michigan State College clothing and textiles staff.
Both snug-waisted and moderately full silhouettes will be seen, the specialist said, and special interest is going into sleeve construction. Dropped shoulder seams, diamond and square cut armholes are prevalent, but no padding this year. Sleeve gathers and puffs add to the all-out-for femininity trend.

Materials, more than out, are the distinctive feature of the coats in stores now. "Goodie cloth," explained Miss Niedermuem, is a popular soft fabric with nubs to give a texture interest. Incidentally, "nub" and "slub" will be words we will hear often. A nubbed fabric has distinctly raised bumps while slub is made of thread with sudden thickenings in it. These raised textures are being carried over from wool to rayons, silks and even cottons, she added.

Colors are clear and sometimes stunning. Vivid blues, blue-cast pinks and grays are in the fashion picture. Special emphasis has been given to the beige family that ranges from blonde to the new Beneficence to burnt sugar, a near-brown shade. The beiges are found especially in accessories.
A note of warning from Miss Niedermuem — take care that a coat is amply cut if you plan to wear it with suits.

ENGINEER TO NEW POST

New director of agricultural engineering research for the U.
S. Department of Agriculture is Dr. E. G. McKibben, former head of the Michigan State College department of agricultural engineering.

A leader in his profession for many years, Dr. McKibben's findings are used in the farm equipment industry as a basis of safety testing for tractors. He was at Michigan State College from 1942 to 1945.

U. S. D. A. agricultural engineering research deals with machines, materials, methods, power and labor, farm buildings and housing, and the application of electricity to processing and other farming operations.

If your cakes fall perhaps you are not using the right sized pan.
When pans are too small the cake batter will run over the edges and burn. When the pans are too large the cake tends to be thin and overbaked.
