Since the church was organized eight years ago it has been helped financially by the Board of American Missions of the Augustana Lutheran Church. GET YOUR COPY OF RAGWEED IN MICHIGAN

Hay fever sufferers can expect to find comparative relief from ragweed pollen in the northern third of Michigan's lower peninsula and in most of the Upper Peninsula.

Findings over a ten-year period (1940-49) during which the Michigan Department of Health made annual, ragweed pollen surveys in stations located throughout the state, show that there is little or no change in the relative distribution of ragweed pollen from year to year.

A summary of the findings during the last five years the survey was conducted shows that 16 cities had an average of five days or less per year during which the pollen count reached 100 grains per cubic yard of air in a 24-hour period. This is the point at which persons, susceptible to hay fever usually show symptoms.

Lowest was Boyne City, which had an average of no days when pollen counts reached 100 grains per day. St. Ignace and Sault Ste. Marie averaged one day; Isle Royal, 2 days; Charlevoix, Houghton and Petoskey, 3 days; Alpena, Marquette and Rogers City, 4 days; Cheboygan, Gladwin, Mackinac Island, Munising, Newberry and Ontonagon, 5 days.

Fifteen other cities had an average season of from 6 to 10 days when pollen counts reached 100: Baldwin, Eagle Harbor, Frankfort, Ironwood and Manistique, 6 days; Crystal Falls, Escanaba, Grayling, Mackinaw City and Watersmeet, 7 days; Gaylord, 8 days; Cadillac and Roscommon, 9 days; and Ludington and Powers, 10 days.

Those having the longest seasons of heavy pollen concentration were Coldwater, 33 days; Sturgis, 30 days; Grand Rapids, 28 days; Saginaw, 27 days; Battle Creek and Lansing, 26 days; Midland and Mt. Clemens, 25 days; Flint, 24 days; Benton Harbor, Jackson and South Haven, 23 days; Eloise and Hillsdale, 22 days; and Bay City, 21 days.

Ragweed begins to pollinate in Michigan about mid-July, but it is not until mid-August that the concentration reaches 100 grains per cubic yard of air per day in any part of the state.

While these averages show that generally hay fever sufferers can expect relief by going North to escape the high pollen areas, it should be remembered that pollen frequency in the air differs widely at a given moment in different parts of a city or county. It fluctuates greatly from hour to hour and day to day.

Concentrations of ragweed pollen are also modified by winds which carry the pollen many miles, by lakes into which the pollen is dropped, by rain which dampens down the pollen and by many other environmental conditions.

It is estimated that about 95 per cent of hay fever in Michigan is caused by ragweed pollen.

Copies of "Ragweed in Michigan" containing a detailed map and table showing average pollen concentrations in 62 locations over the five-year period, is available without charge from the Michigan Department of Health, Lansing 4.

Rural Family Gets Michigan Bell's Two Millionth Telephone!

Michigan Bell's two millionth telephone is placed in the farm home of Clifford and Sylvia Pond by installer William R. Mugford. With telephone lines reaching out to more and more farms each year, 7 out of 10 rural establishments in Michigan now have telephone service compared with 3 out of 10 in 1945.

There were important goings-on last week at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Pond of Holt, a pleasant and prosperous rural community near Lansing.

A telephone was installed in their home, a telephone inscribed with these words:

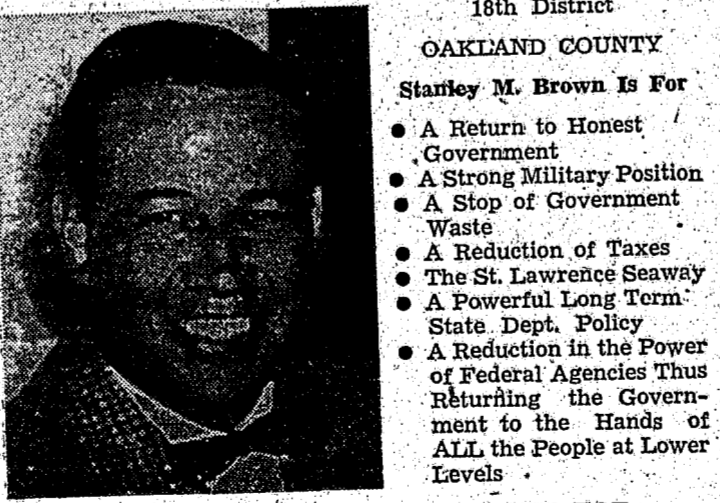

TWO MILLIONTH TELEPHONE
 MICHIGAN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY
 MR. AND MRS. CLIFFORD POND
 HOLT, MICH., JULY 16, 1952

This telephone is an important new member of the Pond family. It unites Clifford and Sylvia Pond with their three daughters, five grandchildren and Mr. Pond's parents, all living in nearby communities within the same local telephone calling area.

While strengthening family ties, this two millionth telephone stands as a symbol of your telephone company's strength—the kind of strength that furnish a service that is essential to everyday life and vital to defense.

CANADIAN VS. AMERICAN DOLLARS

Officials of the Office of Price Stabilization are telling the American people that Congress mutilated the Defense Production Act to such a degree that the government agency now is powerless to prevent unbridled price inflation. They predict dire consequences.

But there are reasons to believe that these officials either don't know what they are talking about or that they are not being entirely frank and unbiased in their statements. After all, no government organization likes to admit that it has little if any reason for existence.

In this connection, a vivid illustration of the relative values in curbing inflation offered by direct price controls and so-called indirect credit controls is provided by the comparative purchasing power of American and Canadian dollars in recent months.

The Canadian Government early threw direct price controls out of the window. At about the same time the United States Government imposed direct price controls and then proceeded almost entirely to ignore the credit controls which the Treasury and Federal Reserve Board are empowered by law to enforce.

Within the last few weeks the Canadian dollar in the American grocery store will buy $1.04 worth of food, as compared with $1.00 worth bought by the American dollar.

Of course it is true that Canada all along has suffered from price inflation, just as we have in the United States. But the favorable exchange rate enjoyed by the Canadian dollar offers proof that Canada is suffering in less degree than is the United States.

The difference is that the Canadian Government, by credit controls, has restrained the creation of additional dollars to compete for the available supply of goods and services, while the United States has let the creation of new dollars go virtually uncurbed.

One can draw a picture of the situation by taking the price structures of the two countries as a pair of steam boilers. Then the creation of new dollars to increase the money supply competing for available goods and services would be the fire under the boilers. The steam in the boilers would be the inflationary pressure forcing prices upward.

Thus it would appear that the Canadian Government sensibly has reduced the fire under the boiler of the Canadian economy, and so has reduced the upward inflationary pressure on prices in that country. But the United States government, on the contrary, has stoked with more and more new dollars the fire under the boiler of the American economy.

At the same time, the United States Government is using direct price controls merely as a means of tying down the safety valve on the boiler of the American economy. As everyone knows, when one stokes the fire under a boiler and ties down the safety valve, an explosion is bound to result sooner or later.

That explosion in the United States could take the form of a runaway inflation, during which a wheelbarrow load of paper dollars might buy no more than a loaf of bread. This already has happened in some foreign countries, where inflation got out of control.

THE ANNUAL BLACK AND WHITE SHOW

The Annual Black and White Show is here again on July 30 at the 4-H Fairgrounds, corner Perry and Pontiac Roads. All Holstein breeders should participate in this program if at all possible. The show will start at 10:00 A. M., and picnic grounds are available for those of you who wish to bring a basket lunch. The show will break up as soon as the last classes have been judged by Albert Kessler, manager of Cesor Farms, who is this year's judge.

Last year some 60 head of cattle from 7 or 8 different farms were at the show, which was well attended by farmers throughout the area. Those attending this year will have an opportunity to participate in judging some of the classes, including the "best udder" class. John Lessiter, county president of the Holstein Association, tells me that prizes will be given to those making the best scores in the opinion of the judge.

We hope to see a lot of you folks out to the show on July 30, beginning at 10:00 A. M.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Me—Advising a Banker!

The Missus and I were invited to dinner over at Balesville the other night. I sat next to a banker from the state capital.

"Mighty nice country you've got down there," he says. "Don't be surprised if I come to live there myself. In a few years I plan to get away from everybody, buy a farm and just take it easy."

"Well," I told him, "we'd like to have you. But when someone plans to buy a farm and 'take it easy' he often winds up working harder than ever. It takes work to run a farm right no matter how many hands you can afford to hire. "And from where I sit," I continued, "you won't 'get away' from people either. Neighbors are plenty important in a farming community—whether it's helping one another out or just friendly visiting over a sociable glass of beer." "Hard work and neighbors dropping in all the time?" he asks, looking at me over his glasses. Then he smiles and says, "Sounds wonderful. You've just sold me on a farm."

That's because GMC has found new ways to take dead weight out of truck design by advanced engineering.

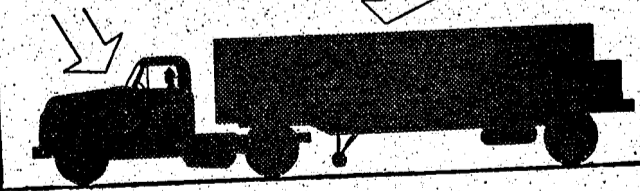

One example is GMC's sensational new "302" valve-in-head engine that delivers 145 h.p. at 3200 r.p.m. It weighs less than other engines of equal power by as much as 500 lbs. Yet it's the highest-compression gasoline truck engine ever built—gives you extra-mileage from regular fuel!

Come in. Compare them—in power, in pay load, in rugged long-life construction—against all the rest!

Bean and grain drying equipment in Gremel barn. The fan at lower right is also used to mow-finish hay.

ELECTRICITY

ENDS THREE-YEAR SEARCH FOR EFFICIENT GRAIN and BEAN DRYER

For three years, Harold Gremel, Huron County farmer, searched for a better way to dry his beans and small grains. Then, with some help from Edison Farm Service Advisors, he successfully developed this electrically powered dryer that enables him to handle six to seven thousand bushels of beans and grain per season. Result: He can harvest when his crops are ready and cut down weather losses. This means higher prices on the market. Mr. Gremel farms 370 acres of land—100 in beans, 80 in small grain, 35 in beets—and milks a herd of 13 cows. As do many Michigan farmers, he is each year finding new ways to put electricity to work to lighten his load and give him greater security. For further information on farm electrical equipment, see your Edison Farm Service Advisor.

Good wiring is always important. So always ask your Farm Service Advisor for his recommendations.

CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF

 "The first two points mentioned are sorely needed in Oakland County," said Swanson. "There is no reason why present road patrol should not be increased, and without added cost, by a more efficient use of the available manpower. The taxpayers are entitled to this increased protection."
 "In the case of enforcement of the liquor laws, I believe many parents of teen-age children will welcome a strict policing to eliminate sales to minors. Too many of our serious-traffic accidents involve teen-agers who have been able to buy liquor. The liquor laws must and will be enforced."
 "I believe that my program of establishing first aid stations throughout the county is a real need. Oakland County's traffic congestion has increased steadily. First Aid stations can help save human lives. I propose to work with the Red Cross in establishing such stations and in training volunteers in how to use them."

 Swanson further pledges closer cooperation with all police departments in the county and proposes to make full use of the facilities and services of the Michigan State Police.

Swanson is well known throughout the county. He brings to his candidacy the experience gained in 15 years in the Oakland County Sheriff's office, during which he served in every capacity from uniformed officer and detective to undersheriff.

TRAINED COLLIES AT STATE FAIR

A feature of the 1952 Michigan State Fair will be an exhibition by trained Border Collies to be held twice daily September 2, 3 and 4 in the Coliseum as a part of the agriculture events program. The dogs, imported from Scotland, are owned and exhibited by E. A. Brumley of Des Moines, Iowa.

Brumley spent his military leave, while in the British Isles, in the moors of Scotland, learning first hand about the Border Collies. The obedience, tact and mental acumen of these dogs so impressed him that he arranged for exhibition tours in the United States.

By command the dogs herd five or six head of sheep, drive them through gates and load them into trucks or put them in a pen. Jiggs, the most famous of the collies, is the only dog in the country able to accomplish the "Serpentine" whereby ducks are driven to the right and then to the left of a series of objects placed in a straight line.

Brumley has requested that all ducks and sheep be furnished by the State Fair so that people will realize it is the dogs and not the sheep or ducks that are "trained." The Border Collie is fast becoming the top all-around farm and stock dog of today because of his intelligence and ability to take split second commands, according to Brumley.

KEEP CHILD BUSY IS GOOD ADVICE

Never underestimate the curiosity of a child — it will lead him into all sorts of "trouble" and places. With that in mind, Shirley Newsom of the Michigan State College child development department, recommends a little keep-them-occupied strategy.

Well selected toys for the toddlers is Miss Newsom's recommendation for long periods in a doctor's waiting room. When she says "well-selected" she means this: a pre-school child on the loose with rolling beads or pull toys in a crowded office can be a terror to everyone. But a youngster who has simple construction materials that fit together or a doll to dress and undress is happily occupied and blessedly quiet.

Miss Newsom points out that it is possible to keep a child occupied without benefit of toys if he is old enough to play simple guessing games. That holds true on an automobile trip when games can be devised using the country side as a basis.
