Christmas Concert At School Tonight

You are reminded of the Christmas Concert at the Clarkston School tonight. This is the annual concert to be presented by the music department of the school, vocal and instrumental. The program will be presented in the auditorium and will start at 8 o'clock. There is no admission charge.

The young people and their directors have worked real hard to give you an evening of real entertainment. They are hoping for a capacity crowd. Don't disappoint them.

Tree "In Memory" To Be Dedicated

Plans are being made for a brief dedication and lighting of a living Christmas tree in memory of Mrs. Jessie Field Campbell. This will be held at the Community Center on Sunday, December 21st at 4:30 P. M., under the auspices of the Campbell-Richmond Post of the American Legion.

Mr. A. E. Butters will tell parts of VanDyke's beautiful story of the origin and meaning of the Christmas tree.

Further details will be announced next week. Everyone is invited.

Girl Scout News

On Monday the Girl Scouts had a Tea for their mothers. All the girls that passed their Tenderfoot class got their badges. After giving out the badges we served tea and cookies.

Georgie Robinson, Scribe

When the Girl Scouts met this week we collected our dues and made Christmas mats for the TB hospital. Our Christmas party will be on December 30.

The American Way

There's a movement afoot, this time of the year. Providing for all, a season of cheer. In the kitchens of homes and markets of trade. With patience and labor the plans have been made.

To see there is plenty for all to enjoy.

They are planning for food and each child a toy.

From out of a world with its chaos and strife.

Man shows there's an unselfish side to his life.

A man at this season's a saint or an elf.

For he gives without stinting, a part of himself.

There must be a reason the soul is inspired.

That man does his work without getting tired.

The planning for others somehow takes away.

The aching of muscles at end of the day.

Those toiling for others will seldom complain.

Of an unstable mind or body of pain.

The joy that entailed by the person who serves.

Will react on his soul and strengthen his nerves.

For God, in my thinking will help in the cause.

As man gives of himself to help Santa Claus.

W. S. C. S. Has Friendly Tea

On Wednesday of last week, the Methodist W. S. C. S., held its quarterly meeting and a Tea for newcomers to the church and community.

The parlor was lovely with Christmas greens and the fragrance of pine. On the altar, a gold cross towering above an open Bible, encircled by evergreen boughs and burning candles paid silent tribute to Christ whose birth we commemorate this month.

A short business meeting was presided over by the society's president, Mrs. Leland Masters, who was presented with a corsage by "The Marthas", the Circle in charge of the tea. An appropriate devotional message "Good Tidings of Great Joy" was read by Mrs. Howard Huttenlocher; and Mrs. Orlo Willoughby led the group in singing Christmas carols, with Mrs. William Watson at the piano.

Of interest to all was a thank-you letter, read by Mrs. L. I. Coon, secretary of supplies and missionary education, from the Ethel Harpist Home, Cedartown, Ga., for the Christmas box and check which they had received from the Clarkston W. S. C. S.

A program treat which brought both chuckles and misty eyes, was Mrs. Coon's reading of "The Little Mixer", by Lillian Nixon Sharon.

With this, the meeting adjourned, and Mrs. Masters extended an invitation to tea. Guests and members mingled around a beautifully appointed tea table. A fringed white cloth bordered with red poinsettias, which the Keith Leaks had brought from Russia, was centered with an arrangement of white baby mums, Christmas greens and lighted candles. Pouring, were Mrs. R. M. Atkins and Mrs. Rolfe Smith; also assisting were Mrs. Leslie Greene and Mrs. Keith Leaks.

It was a most enjoyable afternoon, and the W. S. C. S. was happy to see so many new folk. Mrs. Roy Conrad of Pontiac Lake and Mrs. Fred Dates of Ortonville Road have joined the society, and the W. S. C. S. hopes it may look forward to many more new memberships — Our welcome mat is always out.

Localite In Albion Choir

When the Albion college a cappella choir presents its Christmas concert in the First Methodist church of Albion on Sunday afternoon, December 14, at four, Rhea Van't Roer, daughter of Mrs. Genevieve Van't Roer of 6674 Dixie Highway, a sophomore at Albion, will participate, singing in the soprano section.

The choir, under the direction of David Strickler of the Albion music faculty, will present a varied program at that time, including sacred liturgical music, cantatas and appropriate secular numbers, one of them "The Winter Winds," a composition by Albion's music professor Dr. L. U. Rowland, who has written a colorful setting for a poem by Louis Untermeyer.

Concluding number will be Benjamin Britten's festival cantata "Rejoice in the Lamb," set to the words of Christopher Smart. Soloists to be heard in this fourth part of the Albion Christmas concert will be soprano Marilyn Chisholm and alto Marjorie MacMillan of Detroit, and tenor Melvin Larimer of Bronson.

The public is invited to this Christmas concert. A free will offering will be asked.

The Oak Hill Farmers' Club will meet at the Independence Township Community Center on Wednesday, December 17th, at 7:00 P. M. for a pot-luck supper. Each person is asked to furnish their own table service and a dish of food to pass.

The Clarkston Community Farm Bureau Discussion Group will meet at the Independence Township Community Center on December 18th at 7 o'clock in the evening for a pot-luck supper. Those attending are asked to furnish their own table service and a dish of food to pass. Also each one is asked to bring along a Christmas gift for a needy child. Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Ogden and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Drake will be the hosts for the evening.

Have You Got Yours ? ? ?

Everyone else has. . . Only ten short days left to purchase your tickets for the spectacular Senior Prom. Everyone is talking about it. What could be more perfect to set the holiday gaiety off to a magnificent start — dancing to the soft, pleasing music of the popular Lamont Corp Orchestra, which incidentally has played at many college homecomings and other large dances, and the thrill of the "Winter Wonderland" will put you in the spirit for the joy filled days to follow.

If the worry of stretching the expenses, being so near the Christmas Holiday, is bothering you, quickly vanish this discouragement for the tickets for the prom are quite reasonable in comparison with the wonderful time you will have. Everything is being done for your comfort and pleasure — we guarantee you won't be disappointed.

Tickets for this great event on December 20th in the Clarkston High School Gym may be obtained from a Senior or at the door the night of the Prom. Remember dancing starts at 9 o'clock.

So, girls — if you have been wondering how to get out of the rush, bother and time of entertaining, think how easy it would be to gather all of your friends together at the Senior Prom after which you might like to return to your home for a midnight snack.

And, men — if you have long been wondering what to get your deserving little wife for Christmas, what could please her more than an evening of re-living her Senior Prom with her favorite date.

Among the Bible citations is this passage, (Ps. 27:1): "The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? The Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid?"

Random Thoughts

THE SEASONS — Every morning I walk over the fields to feed my ducks and geese at the pond, and it has struck me that through the seasons not only do the fields change in their appearance, but also my way of looking at them changes.

In the spring there is the tender green grass, the sunny dandelions, the peculiar fragrance of earth warming up, and as I delight in the soft springiness of the dirt under my feet, I swing along happily, with a kind of expectant excitement. My eyes rove over the banks of the pond, and with a little jump of pleasure I spot the big white eggs which the ducks and geese have laid so early in the morning. As I gather them, I keep a look-out for a hidden nest, covered up beautifully with leaves and dry grass, and I hope that the muskrats which are watching me with their little beady eyes do not get wise to those hidden treasures.

When it is summer, I follow the self-same paths and envy the ducks who play and splash in the cool water. The grass is thick and high here and there where the thistles and bushes have protected it from grazing. I move slowly and carefully around a setting duck so as not to frighten her and disturb the nest. Here and there I stop to pick some black-caps or wild raspberries, and pop into my mouth. In the tall weeds you can hardly see the path, used by the cattle and the horses and me; only when you are right in line with it, does it seem to be opening up before you, and then it is evident that it is clearly a well-traveled path. I muse over this, whether there is not a simile here with our own life and its sometimes confused appearance; only if we are going in the right direction is the path to be followed clear and distinct.

In the fall I have no special motives which direct my glances and movements. I can afford to just enjoy the beauty of the landscape. That little tree across the pond on the little triangle of land which juts out into the water stands out as a brilliant, flaming thing of beauty amongst the other yet-green trees. The Chinese geese glide majestically through the silt water; the ducks form a long, white line gracefully curving from shore to shore. Oakie, Tex and Cindy are grazing quietly on top of the hill, silhouetted against the bright sky. I feel the serenity of nature too; no hustle or bustle, no keen anticipation, no inward tugging, no fretting because time is short, no anxiety because energy is limited. I can stroll leisurely, and look around me with pleasure.

Winter is here, and the old familiar path is hard with frost, uneven here and there where the hoofprints of the horses have dried up in the formerly soft mud. A little snow has fallen, and it clings to the dry stalks of the prickly lettuce, gives the thistle heads an edge of beauty. The path stands out clearly because it is there that the snow stays. The sleds are grey and a slight mist obscures the far end of the pond and my neighbor's house and barn. The ducks and geese swing around with great adoo in the small space of water which they have managed to keep open. They are hungry, and as soon as I pour the feed into their trough, they come waddling over the ice, slipping grotesquely as they go. The geese use their wings to make more speed, but the poor ducks slide and slither awkwardly, until they rest while eating, tucking their

County Agricultural Agent

A dairy herd tour of all farmers in Oakland County will be held by the three artificial breeders associations, at Lake Orion, Holly and Wixom. Directors of the associations in each area, working with your county agricultural agent, have planned stops for Tuesday, December 16 as follows:

10:00 A. M., at the Keith Middleton farm, located three miles east of Lake Orion on Stoney Creek Rd.
1:00 P. M., at the Earl Warner farm located three miles east of Highland, off M-59 on Hill Road, and at 3:00 P. M., at the William Ploch farm one mile south of Highland on Lone Tree Road, off Millford Road.

Of particular interest to farmers attending will be an exhibit of daughters, mothers and D. H. I. A. records of comparison available at each farm. Not only will the importance and value of artificial breeding be discussed, but inseminator-managers, Dick Mackenroth of Brighton, Neal Lahring of Holly, and Gerald Hawkins of Romeo, will tell farmers how they can join the association and obtain the service.

Many other items of interest to good dairy management will be observed. At Keith Middleton's farm the stanchion type barn is being remodelled to a milking parlor and loose housing. Grass silage and now dried hay are part of his roughage program, and a tool shed built this year will be of interest.

At the Earl Warner farm a calf care program, featuring individual pens, will be discussed. At the William Ploch farm, labor saving devices, calfhood vaccination program and mow dried hay will be part of the tour.

Mr. A. C. Baltzer, Extension Dairyman from Michigan State College, will discuss sires available through artificial breeding, economic outlook for dairying and will be available to answer questions of farmers who attend.

FRUIT AND GARDEN NOTES

by Willard E. Bosserman
Assistant County Agr'l Agent

FRUIT AND GARDEN BY BOSS PRUNING APPLE TREES

Pruning of apple trees can be started any time now. Some points to remember when pruning apples are listed below.

Remove all lower branches that drag on the ground. Branches that drag the ground are difficult to get spray material into for good insect control. Avoid cutting the lower branches too high; this will make picking more difficult.

On older, tall growing trees, remove some of the higher upright growing branches which have no tendency of bending. This step will let light down to the lower branches which will produce apples closer to the ground.

Bearing fruit trees should be pruned regularly and lightly -- a little every year or at least every other year. A common mistake is to neglect the trees for several years and then prune them too severely. Of course, it often takes two or more years to get completely around the orchard.

Remember -- a good job of pruning means better apples.

FRUIT MEETING

A discussion of peach pests and their control will be held at 8:00 P. M., Monday, December 15, in the Social Welfare Bldg., in Pontiac.

HIGH SCHOOL

SEVENTH GRADE

The Christmas spirit is in the atmosphere of the seventh grade rooms. A class meeting was held and committees were appointed for the Christmas party. Names were drawn for an exchange of gifts.

Once more report cards were given out and many students found that studying and preparing assignments paid dividends.

In geography classes the students have completed a unit on Russia and now are studying Japan.

Besides working on spelling improvement, the English classes have been concentrating on sentences and parts of speech. In addition they have discussed the standards of good reports and ways of outlining.

The arithmetic classes are completing a unit on measurements and will soon begin per cents.

EIGHTH GRADE

Each section of the eighth graders will make a blackboard scene or a bulletin board poster in the home room. When the designs are completed, the work will be judged to determine which section produced the best work of art.

WOLVES TAKE FIRST ONE BY SLIM MARGIN 58-57

With big Tom Bullen and Chuck Robertson leading the way, the Wolves beat down a good Oxford team by a single point.

The game started a thriller and finished with more than enough thrills. Scores were equal five different times in the first quarter. The standing score being 13-13 at the end of the first quarter.

Clarkston got 3 quick baskets via the fast break, at the start of the second quarter and stayed in front to the finish. Al Warman dumped in the 3 buckets. At half time, the Wolves were ahead by a 32-23 count.

Oxford gained on the Wolves throughout the second half by making a very good percentage of their free throws; and by this token, they outscored Clarkston by 2 points in the third quarter and were only 7 points back, 45-38, as the final quarter came up.

The spectators witnessed a very unusual fourth quarter. The seemingly yearly changing of the rules didn't help the situation much, in fact, heated more the red hot tempers. Oxford fought from behind to come within one point of a tie. They outscored Clarkston 19-13 in the final quarter.

High scoring honors went to Oxford's Bob Hamilton, who dumped in 22 points. Tom Bullen tipped in 20 points and Chuck Robertson was next with 15. The importance of free throws was illustrated by the fact that 25 of Oxford's 57 points were via the free throw lane, while only 10 of Clarkston's 58 points came on free throws.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT

The Clarkston High School Music Department will present a Christmas concert on Thursday night, December 11th, at 8:00 P. M.

The High School and Junior High School Bands will play under the direction of Mr. William Janton.

CLARKSTON'S DEBATERS WIN ONE; LOSE ONE

On Friday, December 5, Clarkston's debaters met two teams from Detroit Country Day School in debates on the proposition "Resolved: That the Atlantic Pact Nations should form a Federal Union".

In the first of the two debates held in Clarkston Terry Brown and John Bennett debated the affirmative side of the question with the negative team from Detroit Country Day School.

In the second debate Jerry Davies and Bill Vanderkloot of Country Day debated affirmative while Clarkston's negative team was Carol Kuklaw and Pat Tisch.

The decision went to Clarkston's affirmative team in the first debate, and to Country Day's affirmative team in the second debate.

The question is a very difficult one this year as it involves a discussion of the United Nations, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the World Trade Federation and World Trade Federation as opposed to Confederation. Many hours of preparation are necessary in order to prepare the debate speeches. Then the students must be able to think quickly and to use their information effectively throughout the debates.

In these first two debates of the 1952-53 season all of the students did a fine job and showed a great deal of preparation. In the first debate Judge Walter Smith of Pontiac High School stated that John Bennett had delivered the best rebuttal speech of that contest. Since this was the first contest debate in which John has participated, we were especially proud of his fine performance. The second debate was a much more heated discussion of the topic. In this debate Pat and Carol met the team which last year went to the state finals in debate.

Ginny Demski acted as chairman for the program.

Clarkston's next debates will be on Wednesday when the negative team meets a team from Northville and the affirmative meets a team from Clarenceville.

On December 16 Clarkston will debate 2 teams from Bloomfield Hills School at Bloomfield.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

The Andersonville elementary school will present the 4th, 5th, and 6th grades in a Christmas operetta entitled "Santa's Prize". The story tells of Santa's search for one who has the true spirit of Christmas. Throughout the program songs will be sung by the chorus. Janet Willoughby will accompany on the piano.

The Clarkston elementary school will present the same program on Thursday evening, December 18.

Both programs will be presented in the Clarkston High School Auditorium.

ANDERSONVILLE SCHOOL

The Andersonville school children have been busy preparing for the holiday season and for their Christmas parties which are to be on Friday, December 19. Each grade has captured the holiday spirit by attractively decorating their rooms.

SASHABAW SCHOOL

Monday we exchanged names for Christmas presents.

This week we are fixing a fire place. Next week we will put up a Christmas tree. We will then enjoy our story time around the fire place and the Christmas tree.

We are hoping Santa will bring us a small radio for Christmas so we can listen to a fifteen minute radio program every Wednesday afternoon.

Peggy Poulter and Jean Barger are having a birthday this week. They will be seven years old.

FOURTH GRADE

Helen Lunsford, Joan Bailey and Bill Wright have had birthdays recently. Our room has completed making reindeer and sleigh project from plywood. Each of us contributed towards the completion of the work.

In social studies we have just completed a unit on farms.

We were very pleased to have twenty-seven of our parents visit us at open house.

THIRD GRADE

The Third Grade is enjoying the fireplace and Santa Claus we made as a project in our room for Christmas.

We enjoyed having Mr. Greene pay us a visit last week.

Those of us who celebrated birthdays in November were Shirley Brewer, Betty Crawford, Deanna Davis and Sharon Gotschall.

FOURTH GRADE

Mrs. Rowley We are happy to tell you that twenty-one parents visited our room last Thursday night at Open House. In all we had forty adult callers. We wish more of the parents might have come. However do not wait for a special invitation or for another Open House. Come anytime, you are always welcome and wanted.

We are wading through long division and find it quite different in form from any other kind of arithmetic. Multiplication tables surely are essential now.

With the nearing of Christmas we all feel quite hurried and excited. We hope this week to make a few little gifts which we trust our parents will enjoy.

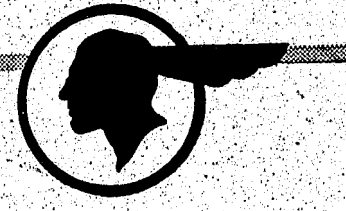

You know we are to have carolling on the afternoon of Dec. 19 and hope all our parents will be here to hear us sing.

Today we added one new girl, Brenda Gasaway, to our roll making 39 in our room again. Brenda comes to us from Hobbs, New Mexico. We trust she will enjoy her work here with us.

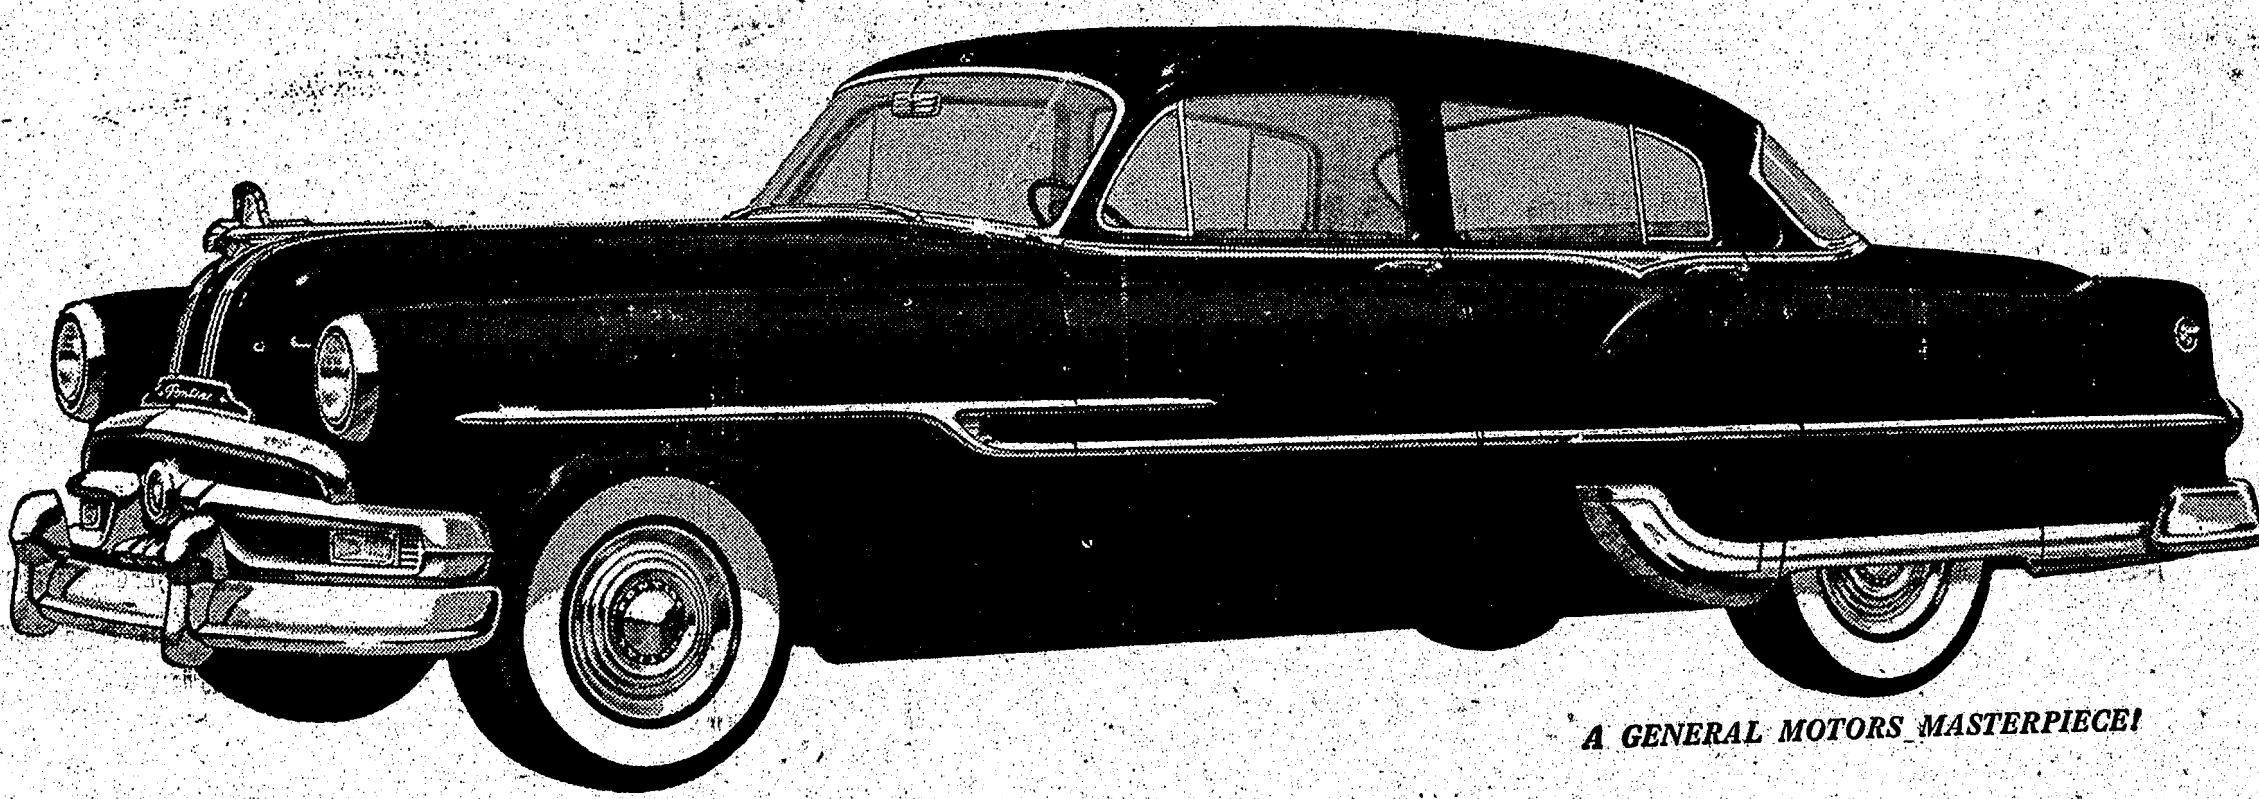

SIXTH GRADE — Miss Wepfer Last Wednesday night, December third, was Open House at our school. In decorating our room, we learned to make name designs and how to cut a five-pointed star. We also made transparent Christmas designs for our windows.

They'll Do It Every Time

You know where Hammy Jackson lives—on that small dead-end street off Maple Avenue near the library? Well, about a month ago, the town finally put up a sign on the corner there saying: "No thoroughfare... Dead End." Yesterday Hammy dropped by to see us. "Can't understand it," he says. "Hardly anybody drove down our street before—but now, since they put that sign up, there's been more cars than ever turning around in my driveway."

way street are the same as those who automatically ignore a Wet Paint sign and touch their finger on a freshly painted surface. But you can't change human nature. People like to find out for themselves—and then make their own decisions. That's why I say "live and let live." You can drink your butter-milk, but let me have my glass of beer when I choose. And let's not feel we're obliged to "point the way" for the other fellow.

DRUNK DRIVING EMPHASIZED IN SAFETY DRIVE
 "Drunk drivers go to jail". That again will be the theme of the State Safety Commission's December traffic safety campaign announced by State Police Commissioner, Joseph A. Childs. Speaking on behalf of the commission, of which he is a member, Childs said that while "drunk drivers go to jail at any other time of the year, too, special emphasis is placed upon the offense right now because in the exuberance of the season there is more than the usual tendency to mix drinking and driving. The result has often been to turn the occasion of Christmas and the New Year into a tragedy".

The wise driver, Childs said, careful of the safety of others as well as himself, will "make it a strict rule not to get behind the wheel of a car if he has had anything to drink."

"Some persons believe they are better drivers when they have had something to drink," the commissioner continued, "but they're only fooling themselves. The accident records prove otherwise. There's only one safe policy to follow: If you drink, don't drive; if you drive, don't drink. Keep your Christmas merry".

In addition to police and sheriff's departments, the campaign will have the support of the Michigan Traffic Safety Federation and other safety groups. It also has been endorsed by the State Liquor Control Commission.

WAX HINTS FOR HOLIDAY TIME
 There's more than one way to brighten the home for the holidays. With the help of Mother Nature and some self-polishing floor wax, you can add a half dozen colorful and lustrous motifs to the household, suggests Johnson's Consumer Service.

The corner fruit and vegetable stand offers several possibilities. A centerpiece of bananas, oranges, tangerines, grapefruit and apples coated with wax will make your living room sing with color. Pumpkins, gourds and squashes offer interesting decorative combinations.

Fall leaves treated with wax bring the outdoors at its best into your living quarters. And a bit of ingenuity with wax will provide an additional Christmas glow on Holly and mistletoe.

Organizations throughout Oakland County are turning out decorations this week to make sure that Christmas trees at Pontiac State Hospital won't be bare this year. With the "Christmas-On-the-High-Seas" project scarcely behind them, leaders of Oakland County Chapter, American Red Cross, turned to coordinating work of groups helping in "Operation Hospital-Christmas." Men, women and children are stringing cranberries and popcorn; making pipe cleaner tree ornaments; and wrapping gifts to brighten December 25 for mental patients.

D-A-R HAS DECEMBER MEETING

Mrs. Allan Monroe of Pontiac opened her home for the December meeting of the General Richardson Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. Mrs. William

F. Kalwitz was chairman of the committee serving dessert and she was assisted by Mrs. C. F. Allen, Mrs. D. B. Heldenbrandt, Grace Clark, Jessie Brewer, Mrs. F. S. Lee, Mary Green and Mrs. F. G. Upthegrove. Mrs. Harry Austin presided at the arrangement table which was centered with a Christmas arrangement.

The vice-regent, Mrs. Frank B. Gerls, presided at the business meeting. Among those reporting were Mrs. Edith Gardner, chairman of the approved schools committee. She said thirty-seven Christmas gifts had been sent to the children attending Tamasse, a D. A. R. school in North Carolina.

Mrs. W. F. Todd and her Americanism committee reported having attended the graduation exercises for Miss Antona's new citizens' class and the recent naturalization court where 46 were accepted as citizens of the United States.

Delegates were elected to the state conference to be held in Saginaw in March and the National congress in April at Washington D. C. The regent Mrs. Bradley D. Scott will attend both meetings. Those accompanying her to Saginaw are Mrs. Louis West, Mrs. Forrest Brown and Mrs. L. M. Pearl as delegates, with Mrs. Austin, Sarah VanHoesen Jones, Alice Serrell, Mrs. Harry Goring, Mrs. E. V. Howlett, Mrs. Louis Londick, Mrs. Garner and Mrs. E. G. Clark as alternates. Mrs. Melville H. Luttrell is delegate to the national congress, alternates are Mrs. Monroe, Mrs. Harry Pearce, Mrs. Robert H. Wilson and Jessie Brewer. Mrs. Lee will represent the chapter as a page.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Harry Chapman, state chairman of nature conservation education in the Michigan Department of Conservation and spoke of the Lewis and Clark Expedition of 1804. The speaker has made a study of this expedition using edited copies of the original journals, written by Lewis and Clark by camp fire each night during the more than two years used to complete the trip. They were commissioned by President Jefferson to explore the Missouri river to its source, cross the Rocky mountains and follow the Columbia river to the Pacific ocean. The rivers were to be surveyed and maps drawn, tributaries were to be named and maps made, soil conditions, river currents, the weather, minerals, plant and animal life were to be recorded. They were to make friends of the Indians, learn their habits and under no circumstances to fight

New Dual-Streak Pontiacs Announced for '53

In nationwide dealer showings, Pontiac Division of General Motors today introduced its new line of Dual-Streak Chieftain models, featuring longer wheelbase, increased vision and new auto-control front suspension. Advanced styling is marked by smooth contours, rear fender fin and high deck lid, one-piece curved windshield, wrap-around one-piece rear windows, roomier interiors and entirely new radiator grille and chrome treatment. Above is the new Custom Catalina, one of 11 body types in three Chieftain series: Special, De Luxe and Custom. Wheelbase for all series is 122 inches, with Power Steering as optional equipment.

with them. The records have been found to be very accurate, and the speaker believes that no other expedition has ever been more hazardous nor has any other brought back more valuable scientific data.

The January meeting is a luncheon at Devon Gables, January 8, when the chapter will entertain the state Board and observe their fifty-third anniversary.

MULCH NOW
If you have not done so, now is a good time to apply mulch to your shrubbery, evergreens, roses and strawberries. It has been advised to wait until the ground will be frozen. Main reason to wait until the ground is frozen is so that the meadow mice will have their nests established and not make them in your mulch.

Some people wait until nearly spring to mulch strawberries because, they say, they are interested in protecting only for alternate freezing and thawing. This practice is not advisable because strawberries are injured by cold weather.

Be sure and attend the Christmas Concert at the Clarkston High School tonight at 8 P. M. Admission is free.

School News

(continued from page 3) Donna Mae Deanton, one of our classmates, has moved. She is now going to the J. Adams school. We have been writing our autobiographies. In Language, we have been giving oral book reports. We just finished reading the story, The Return of Silver Chief. It was very interesting. By Chuck Hancock and John Tisch

SECOND GRADE — Mrs. Burley Our school held Open House last Wednesday evening. Most of our parents attended. We have most of our Christmas work completed. We colored wreaths for a bulletin board border. Our drapes are decorated with painted oak leaves. In Art class we made trees which stand up. In one corner of our room we made a fireplace. It is very cheerful, especially when we can't play outside. We are reading stories to find out what people of other lands do to celebrate Christmas. We are planning a Yuletide Singing on the afternoon of December 19, to be held around an outdoor tree on the school lawn. We are looking forward to an afternoon of fun and merriment with our parents and neighbors. Here is the inside story of the sneak attack that shocked the world eleven years ago. In The American Weekly, distributed with your Chicago Herald-American, read "I Led the Attack on Pearl Harbor" told by Capt. Mitsuo Fuchida, former Air Operations Officer of The Combined Japanese Fleet. Don't miss this inside story, Sunday in the Chicago Herald-American.

Wayne Scientists Combine Medicine And Engineering for Skull Study

Professor Herbert R. Lissner of Wayne University uses medical student John W. Grigg of Bay City for a subject as he explains results of medical-engineering study on skull fractures to classmate Philip J. Hoekstra of Grand Rapids.

A severe blow to the skull at the point indicated by the pencil could cause fractures at seven different places, Lissner states, but 52 per cent would occur in circled area. (Line shows the direction stress would run.) Another 35 per cent of the fractures would occur over the left side of the right eye.

Engineers can aid in reducing both the number and severity of accidental head injuries, medical and engineering scientists at Wayne University in Detroit report, by introducing certain changes in automobile structural design.

According to Herbert R. Lissner, professor of engineering mechanics, head injuries are suffered most frequently when passengers sitting next to the driver are thrown forward into the windshield or instrument panel.

"A certain amount of give should be installed in both of these," he said, "to absorb the energy created by the forward motion of the head and to slow it down. It's the sudden stop that does the damage."

"A windshield that would spring out of its frame or at least swing forward several inches when struck from the inside would be a considerable safeguard. The best feature for a safe instrument panel is a flat sheet of metal surmounted by a layer of sponge. The sponge stops cuts and bruises to the face while the flat metal sheet absorbs the fracture giving energy."

Working with Drs. Elisha S. Gurdjian and John E. Webster, surgeons from Wayne's College of Medicine, Lissner conducted a series of tests to determine the amount of stress and strain the skull can absorb without injury. The study, made in cooperation with Grace Hospital, has already proven of great value to the medical profession, automobile manufacturers, the aircraft industry, and testing laboratories.

Results showed that fractures occur in some cases with as little as 400 inch pounds of energy or the same amount of energy required to lift 400 pounds one inch. Without the protection of the hair and scalp, fractures would be possible with as little as 40 inch pounds of energy.

The scientists state that once enough energy has been absorbed to produce a single line fracture very little more is required for multiple fractures and complete destruction of the skull.

With the aid of a lacquer coating, which shows the way stresses run, the researchers demonstrated that fractures seldom occur at the point of impact of a blow. Structural features of the skull cause breakage at some other point which is now predictable.

The study, which took eight years to complete, earned an Award of Merit for the research group from the American Medical Association and a bronze medal from the Roentgen Ray Society.

Smart, sleek lines accentuated by new jet-tube taillights and a new chrome molding through the center of the rear fender line are featured in the 1953 Ford Customline Fordor sedan. Outstanding mechanical feature is a new "miracle ride" which brings to the high volume field for the first time the smooth riding characteristics of heavier, costlier cars.
