By The Way . . .

This week The News records

the passing of two persons well and flavorably known in this community. Our first meeting with Ed Seeterlin was interesting in that he made me feel at home in Clarkston. He informed me that if we were going to make our home here we would find the town friendlier if we called people by place for you. it was Ed and Bill. From April of 1933 until he retired from the selling and servicing of cars our business brought us together frequently. He liked law and order and his conversations were full of the desire to stop nuisances that might annoy the townspeople. . . . William Edgar stood out in the community as a successful farmer. Our relations with him, among other things, had to do with soil conservation in which he had a great interest. Our attendance at meetings of the soil conservationists gave us a very clearly displayed picture of what he and his associates were trying to do to keep farm soil at its best. Thoroughly liked by all, he was withal serious man when discussing farm problems. . . . An economic forecaster gave as his reason for the financial success of these Unitted States, the desire of individuals to better their conditions by going into business enterprises. All we can add to this good thought is a hope that they are not discouraged before they stant by those who would lie in waiting to grab the results by some sort of socialized thinking. Here is a new one. If you would sell your property to someone in Detroit, adventise in a want adv., in The Charleston News. This does not mean that everyone in that city talkes The News, but it is surprising the prospects who subscribe to this paper to see who has property for sale and hence the adv., is read by those interested in buying in this locality. And the price of the adv., is so much lower. We were speaking of this to George Marble who not only agreed but stated this was also true of kand in the northern part of the state. People subscribe to papers to find opportunities and frequently purchase and become residents of the community. . . . A sad but true story: In three traffic accidents this week 21 persons lost their lives. What is the lans-

On September 17, 1953, the school enrollment was published in The Clarkston News as being 1607 and at that time it was stated that additional rooms would be needed before next September if the children were to attend their classes on regular full day schedules.

As of January 18, 1954, the enrollment has increased to 1710, a gain of 103 children since September 17th.

Enrollments are far exceeding the most ambittious predictions and all studies of this area forecast a continuously accelerating growth pattern. By 1955 the 2,000 mark will be passed.

To cope with this rapid increase in school enrollment the Citizens Committee was reorganized last spring and has spent the succeeding months in studying the school housing problems. The Committee made a series of recommendations to the Board of Education. The Board of Education made further studies and consultants were brought in from the Department of Public Instruction.

The recommendations of the Citizens' Committee, the Strate of Michigan, and the Board of Education were all considered and a plan of action was formulated as 1. To construct 4 rooms on the Andersonville elementary school.

2. To construct 4 rooms on the Sashabaw elementary school. 3. To construct 7 rooms on the Clarkston elementary school.

4. To construct 12 class rooms, shop, band and chorus rooms and a cafeteria, and enlarge the locker room facilities on the present high school building. An election date has been set

Everyone had a nice Christmas vacation. The girls brought their dolls one day and Mr. Barrie made moving pictures of them with their dolls. The boys had not brought any of their gifts so the girls were nice enough to loan their dolls to them to parade in front of the camera. Nice parade! We are looking forward to seeing the pictures at the P. T. A. sometime soon.

EXTENSION SERVICE NEWS by Mrs. Josephine Lawyer Home Demonstration Agent

Home demonstration leaders who attended a preliminary lesson on hooked rugs in the fall of 1953 are planning their second meeting on January 27th. Approxmight need a reminder on some imately 65 homemakers are enroll-things before the semester ends, ed in this hooked mug class states Mrs. Josephine H.: Lawyer, home demonstration agent.

The January 27th meeting will he held in the Waterford Community Activities Building on Willilams Lake Road beginning at 10:00. A. M. Miss Jessie Marion, extension specialist in home furnishings will be present to conduct the meeting.

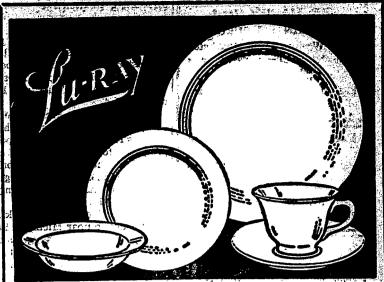

All home demonstration leaders who attended the previous lesson are encouraged to bring their hooking materials—hook, frame, burlap and pattern. At the meeting on January 27th the burlap will be attached to the form and the techniques of hooking will be practiced.

These home demonstration leaders attending the special meetings in 1953-54 will be responsible for heliping other home demonstration members in their respective groups. In this way many homemakers who have wished to know more about hooked rugs will have a chance to learn.

It is not the work a kitchen unife does that makes its edge grow dull. It is the careless treatment it gets, points out Esther Everett of MSC's home management department. Placing a knife in a drawer with many other small tools is bad treatment. Store your knives in a simple knife rack with slots for each knife. Or place them against one of the new magnetic knife racks where they cling until you take them off.

One neatly designed packagethe egg-is a good three-featured food buy during this season. Eggs are good for you, taste good and are wearing attractive price tags right now. Buy either white or brown eggs. Foods specialists sav that the color of the shell has nothing to do with the flavor or nutritive value of the egg.

WOMEN'S PROGRAM FOR FARMERS' WEEK

Many of the women who plan to attend Farmers' Week will be interested to know that a special program is planned for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, February 2-3-4.

According to Mrs. Josehine Lawyer, Oakland County home demonstration agent, these special programs for women will be conducted in the college auditorium at Michigan State College beginning at 10:00 A. M. and closing about 3:00 P.M. each day.

Since residents of Oakland County are so near Michigan State College Mrs. Lawyer suggests that many women might prefer to attend at least one day choosing the program in which they are most interested.
