MSC OFFERS NEW PLAN FOR PHYSICS TEACHERS

Michigan State College will take the lead this year in offering a new program for obtaining the master's degree in physics—entirely through summer session work.

Students or teachers with bachelor's degrees in physics, or equivalent training, may complete requirements for the degree by attending four successive nine-week summer sessions, according to Dr. Thomas H. Osgood, Dean of the School of Graduate Studies.

M. S. C. will become one of only a few universities in the nation offering such a program, Dean Osgood said. It is being done, he said, "to encourage the good teaching of science in the high schools and to recognize the importance of physical science in the lives of our young people".

In the past, springtime meant "tonic-time". Nowadays with all kinds of foods available almost everywhere the year around, spring tonics have gone out of style. These days we take our tonics all year via the foods we eat. Nutritionists have set up an easy pattern for us to follow each day. They call it the "Basic 7" food plan. See that your family gets some foods from each of these groups daily. The sixth group of the Basic 7 is - bread, flour and cereals, three or more servings a day. This requirement is an easy one to meet and it is also a very necessary group. From enriched bread and cereals come three of the essential B-vitamins and food iron. They are also an economical source of plant protein. These nutrients are necessary, along with all the other nutrients offered from the other food groups, to build and maintain healthy bodies.

WOMEN OUTDO MEN IN DISASTER AID, MSC PROF REPORTS

You can count on the womenfolk to come to the rescue in an emergency.

Every child who has a skinned knee may know this already, but a Michigan State College psychologist has proof it's true in major disasters, too.

Mrs. Housewife, in fact, has emerged as the heroine in a study of those who donated blood at the Lansing Red Cross center following the June 8 tornado last year in Flint.

More women than men turned out to give blood in the emergency, the M. S. C. psychologist iversity, at the Horace H. Rackham Memorial Building in Detroit. Dr. William S. Gray, Professor of Education from the University of Chicago was the guest speaker.

We finished our circus last week and had a circus tea for our mothers on Thursday. We sang our circus songs for them and did our dance. Then some of us played the story of the "Three Billy Goats". We are working hard in our work books so that we will be ready for the first grade next year.

SIXTH GRADE Mrs. Forsyth
Last week we chose sides for spelling in our rooms. The captains are: Larry Miles and Jackie Powell.

This week is "Bundle Week" at school. Each child is to bring some clothing to school; from here it goes to the children overseas.

The children in the fifth and sixth grades made an ash tray out of clay for Mr. Howland. He enjoyed it very much. We are dividing in fractions and the children enjoy it very much.

Chief Sashabaw looked upon the white man, not as an intruder upon his domain, but as a brother with whom he would share the bounties which nature had so profusely spread over the land.

Thus he lived near his pale brother, realizing that his race was nearly run, and that his earthly sun would continue to illumine his forest pathway for but a brief period. An incurable disease had fastened upon the noble Sashabaw, and, after a lingering illness, his spirit was released from his crumbling tenement, and his body was interred on the peaceful banks of Silver Lake.

In art class we had to draw pictures about Michigan. All the children are finished with clay except Tim and Barbara.

We have started something new in arithmetic. It is fun to do. We have a bulletin board which has information about Bob-Lo on it. We are going in June.

Spring is just around the corner—marbles, baseball and skipping ropes tell us so.

We are proud to announce that June Brewer was the 6th grade winner in the spelling contest.

Margaret Johnston is still confined to her home with mumps. Patricia Rhyndress is also ill at home but she is not sure yet that she has the mumps. All the rest of our "mummy" people are back in school—Sally Taylor, Linda Strohkirch, and James Prosser.

We are about ready to multiply fractions—those parts of a whole thing.

Mr. Sherman of Ortonville, a Gideon representative, called Thursday and gave us a Gideon Bible for our room, and each pupil a Gideon New Testament.

Sally Taylor had a birthday March 7th and had to spend the day in bed nursing the mumps.

The value of humility, patience, and obedience in learning the nature of spiritual reality and in experiencing the divine healing power will be stressed at Christian Science services Sunday. The Lesson-Sermon is entitled "Reality".
The challenging definition of worship given by the prophet Micah (6:6-8) will be included in the readings from the Bible: "Where with shall I come before the Lord, and bow myself before the high God? shall I come before him with burnt offerings, with calves of a year old? He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good, and what doth the Lord-require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?"

Among the selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be the following:

"What we most need is the prayer of fervent desire for growth in grace, expressed in patience, meekness, love and good deeds. To keep the commandments of our Master and follow his example, is our proper debt to him and the only worthy evidence of our gratitude for all that he has done. Outward worship is not of itself sufficient to express loyal and heartfelt gratitude, since he has said: 'If ye love me, keep my commandments'" (4:3).

STATE'S BEAVER POPULATION AT 50-YEAR HIGH
Michigan's beaver population, now at its highest point in 50 years, really is busy this year—constantly building lodges, dams and even canals, according to a University of Michigan scientist.
William Lawrence, research associate in the U-M school of Natural Resources, points out that the animal's rise from near extinction is in part due to legal protection and also to environmental changes. An example of the latter is the aspen stands taking over land formerly occupied by pine forests.
This aspen is not only the animal's favorite food, but also is used as building material, especially in constructing his dams and lodges. These dams then form the ponds where the colony eventually will settle. Once he has selected the dam site, the beaver begins construction of his lodge, which he can build overnight if time demands.
Trees which supply bark for eating and wood for building usually are found on solid ground, Lawrence says. "To get across the boggy lands to the aspen, the beaver cuts himself ditches and swims across. On the return trip he tows the branches and tree trunks through the canal".
With the current high beaver population, about 17,000 beaver were trapped in Michigan last year, he adds. As a result of this current high, the population is faced with problems of disease, one of which is thought to be tularemia.
Lawrence currently is studying the disease under sponsorship of a U. S. Public Health grant. This organism has not yet been isolated from Michigan beavers, he explains, but "evidence points to its being the cause of many beaver deaths."
Beaver families usually number about five or six members, Lawrence says, with litters averaging four, being born each spring. These young generally are active shortly after birth, although their diving activities are limited by the air in their fur, he explains. "As a result", he continues, "they sometimes have trouble getting their tails and bases under water."
Beavers are equipped well for their aquatic life, he claims. Their ears and nostrils automatically close under water, and their lips close behind their large incisors,

HOMEMADE DUSTERS THRIFTY
This is the season when a homemaker turns to thoughts of spring housecleaning.
If your inventory of cleaning supplies shows that you need new dusters, you'll have a variety to choose from these days.
You may like the commercial cloth dusters to be found on the market. Or you may use the dusting paper that comes in handy rolls.
But for the sake of the budget, you might prefer to make your duster at home.
Esther Everett of Michigan State College's home management department gives these directions for preparing a duster at home at a minimum cost:
Choose lintless material for your cloth.
Place a teaspoon of paraffin oil or oily furniture polish in a can. Turn the can to allow the oil to coat the sides of the can. Place the cloth loosely inside. Cover the can tightly. Leave 24 hours.
For safety reasons, a tin can is desirable and the tight cover is ESSENTIAL.
When dusters are soiled, observe safety precautions by placing them in a tightly closed container or wash them out immediately, advises Miss Everett.
