Dr. John D. Monroe of the county health department which is conducting the vaccine trials Infantile Paralysis, stressed today that the second and third shots are essential parts of the test. He urged parents of children who received the first shot to make certain that their children receive all three injections.

Fifty Clarkston children will receive their final shot on June 1, as also will 71 attending Andersonville school. The 63 Polio Pioneers at Sashabaw get their third shot on June 2.

A total of 136 children are participating in the trials at Ortonville. They will get their final shot on June 1.

Mrs. Lee urges that in the meantime you get your discards together for the Goodwill trucks which will be in Clarkston on Monday, May 10. Mrs. Lee will be out of town over the weekend so she asks you to please call Mrs. Fred Steiner, MAple 5-2001, and she will arrange for the Goodwill truck to stop for your pick-up.

State Police Recruit Troopers

State Police Commissioner Joseph A. Childs has announced the opening of a special recruiting program to fill 50 additional trooper positions authorized by A Wire And A Spring the 1954 session of the legislature.

A training school will be started as soon as possible after July 1, the date when the authorization is effective, but the last day for acceptance of applications by the state civil service commission is May 26. The civil service examination will follow June 12.

"This is a splendid opportunity There's a half dozen flashlights for young men to enter a career service offering security and innipple for plumbing and small teresting work", Childs said. They are urged to visit their nearest State Police post to obtain further information and to receive assistance in filling out application forms. Or they may write to the State Civil Service Commission or the State Police in Lansing.".

Married as well as single men are eligible for enlistment. Candidates must be between 21 and 30 years of age, inclusive, physically fit and have a high school education or its equivalent.

In addition to his salary, a trooper receives subsistence pay, sick leave and retirement benefits and his uniform and equipment. Recruits also are paid while in the training school.

Everything is in readiness for the Spring Concert at the Clarkston High School tonight at 8:15. The High School Band will be heard in a half-hour program which will be followed by a presentation by the Municipal Opera.

Among the stars featured will be Rose Lumetto and Maria Roumell, along with 12 others who are quite popular among music lovers. Many of the participants are heard over radio and TV.

Inc., of Detroit.

The concert is being sponsored by the Clarkston Rotary Club. It. is hoped that everyone in the community will make an effort to attend, as it is seldom that such talent appears in a small town. Get your tickets from any Rotarian or at the door.

Every so often it is interesting to see what progress the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority is making to provide recreational facilities in the metropolitan section. Thus it was pleasant last Monday evening to see motion pictures in color of the different parks, bathing beaches and other recreational spots being provided. The pictures were presented to the Rotary Club by Kenneth L. Hallenbeck, a director of the Metropolitan Authority.

The pictures were of such beautiful spots that many of the Rotarians decided to visit these parks this year.

At the dinner-meeting on Monday evening at the Community Center the members did their own catering with the splendid and faithful help of Bob Parker of the Clarkston Cafe.

Then break open the cap, split the stem lengthwise, and examine it for the presence of beetle larvae. If only the stem is infested.

In flavor and texture morels surpass the common cultivated species and most other wild mushrooms. Attempts to grow them commercially have, so far, not been successful. They are unexcelled when cooked and can also be dried and saved for future use. There are many ways of cooking the "sponges", but they are excellent simply fried in butter or served with steak.

You need more informative labels if you plan to buy plastics tops. for your home. Gradually the labels on plastics are improving.

You need to know whether or not the piece will stand heat. The tag should explain. Some plastics are very satisfactory for use in the refrigerator but will soften in hot water. Some plastics resist breakage. . they will take hard knocks. Other pieces will break. Most plastics will scratch if you scour them with abrasives or with steel wool.

Since large manufacturers of raw materials sell ingredients to many plastic moulders, it is often difficult to know the type of plastic a piece is made of. It is most important that you have this information since plastics are now invading many rooms in the house.

Let's take a look at the Bakelite drawers in chests, for example. No dusty corners and no sticking. . . . Plastic tiles for bathrooms are now made of styrene. Trays moulded of plastics are tough and light-weight, too.

Melmac dishes, in attractive new designs are durable and break-resistant. You can boil them, too. They resist scratching in the dishpan. . .Just one caution

GOODWILL RE-ELECTS ROBERT F. WEBER

Robert F. Weber has been electd to his fourth consecutive term as president of the board of Goodwill Industries of Detroit, it was announced today by Harold H. McKinnon, executive secretary.

During Weber's three year tenure as president, opportunity wages for handicapped Goodwill workers doubled, passing the 34 million mark in 1953. The annual income has now passed one millon dollars.

Elected as secretary was John A. Conde and Marquis E. Shattuck as assistant secretary.

Re-elected oficers include A H. Sarver, 1st vice-president; John D. Benfield, 2nd vice-president, and William Friedman treasurer.

BUTTER GRADES ARE GUIDES FOR CONSUMER

Smart homemakers like to know the score on the food situation—and right now butter is one of the chief topics of conversation.

On April 1, when the federal support level for butter and other dairy products went down, the price of butter also dropped and homemakers were interested in renewing their acquaintance with butter.

Quality in butter is based on such things as flavor, texture. and aroma. It is difficult for people who aren't experts to tell the difference between butter that is good and that which is the very best.

However, the homemaker has the assistance of government experts when she buys butter. If she will look for the government shield on the carton or inside the carton she'll find a letter C, B, A or AA, indicating the score, or quality of the butter.

Most of the butter on the mar ket scores 89 or 90. That is Grade C or Grade B. If it is better than ordinary in flavor, aroma and appearance, it may earn a score of 92, Grade A. And the very best is graded 93 score. That is given the Grade Double A.

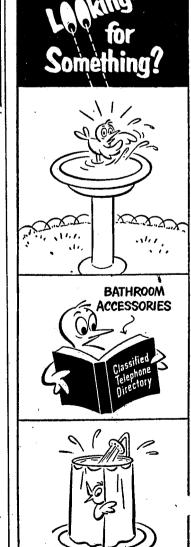

Only about one pound in eight qualifies as Double A, but there is usually plenty of Grade A butter on the market. The price, of course, goes up with the score. To help you get the quality butter that you want, look for the government label and the letters AA, A, B, or C. Almost all butter is good—but some is better than another

Unique Instrument Aids U-M Forest Research

LITTLE KNOWN facts about the state's forest history are being uncovered at the University of Michigan through use of this unique recording micrometer, the only one in the nation. Swedish-made, it enables researchers like Stephen H. Spurr, professor of silviculture, to find all the age rings in a tree cross section or boring, even the hard to find ones that can be overlooked in ordinary measuring methods. It also automatically measures and records the distances between the rings, providing highly accurate information about growth rate. Hence, investigators can note years in which drought, storms, fires or other factors influenced growth—as the pins stuck in the wood indicate and can map out what probably happened in Michigan forests hundreds of years ago. The instrument also can be used to measure insects and is helpful in surveying forests because with it can be determined the size of tree crowns appearing in aerial photographs.

SOIL MANAGEMENT

Actually the most important part of fertilization on corn, using heavy applications, goes back to the soil management practices on the farm. There is no substitute for soil management by the use of heavy fertilization practices. It is far better to apply fertilizer on the grain and high crops in rotation and then use 200 to 300 lbs of starter fertilizer on corn at the time of planting and if necessary side dress with nitrogen after the corn is up.

CORN PLANTERS

In heavy fertilizer application he best results have generally peen found when part of the fertilizer is applied either side and at the same depth of the kernel with additional amounts beneath

SOIL TYPES

Above all the kind of soil that you may have may determine whether or not heavy fertilizer application will be of benefit on corn. In thinking of corn soil we think of clay loam high in organic matter, rich dark soil. Much of our Oakland County soil on which corn is grown does not fit this description and on the lighter, sandy, more droughthy soil type only spot results have been favorable to exceptionally heavy fertilizer applications. So let's watch the development of this 6 and 800 lb application of fertilizer on corn. Wait until we have the proper equipment and make sure our soil will warrant the invest-

CORN VARIETIES

Leyton Nelson, crops specialist from Michigan State College, says that more than one variety of corn gives best results in the total yield of crops_due to better pollination and different variety characteristics which may prove to be beneficial depending on the eason. This sort of advice that is pointed out means use more than one variety and you will not be putting all your eggs in one basket. It sure sounds like something farmers ought to consider this year.

DRUMS ANSWER TO BLUEBERRY GROWING HERE

Would you like to grow blueberries in your garden? You can. Don't let other people discourage you; the reason they failed probably was because their soil is not acid enough. But a new method of growing blueberry bushes developed at Michigan State College's South Haven Experiment Station makes allowance for the wrong kind of soil.

Stanley Johnston, superintendent of the station, says low-priced old metal drums of 50 gallon capacity are the answer. He advises having the drums cut into two tubs with about four twoinch drainage holes cut in the

The drums can be filled with acid soil that's high in organic matter. Or you can use your own soil, mixing one part of it with two parts of acid peat moss. One plant per tub and planting early in the spring are recommended. The tubs are placed in the soil with about an inch of the rim showing above the ground level.

Johnston suggests spreading a small handful of a complete garden fertilizer on the surface of the soil in each tub after planting and applying the same amount every spring. You can conserve moisture better by putting a mulch of old sawdust, oak leaves or peat moss, and those items keep the soil acid, too.

He suggests planting more than one variety to stretch out production of berries over a longer season. Early varieties he recommends are Weymouth and Earliblue; early and midseason varieties, Stanley and Bluecrop. Midseason to late varieties in order of ripening are-Berkeley, Jersey and Coville.

Your county agricultural agent can advise you on the length of your growing season and what variety would be most suitable.
