County Agricultural Agent

The Oakland County Agricultural and Stabilization Committee will be holding annual community committeemen and county committeemen elections during the month of August. The community committeemen are all assigned on a township basis with some townships combined so that there are twenty communities. Election boards have been appointed and nominations for community committeemen will be made before August 5. The chairman and vice-chairman of the community committee will then become delegates and alternate delegates respectively for a county conference which will elect three county committeemen. The job of the committeemen under the new definitions will be primarily to act as policy-making committees. In the township or community committeemen have worked in the field for the program checking wheat, measuring fields, and so forth. Henceforth, this work will not be done by the committeemen but by hired personnel. All in all, this represents a considerable change in the policy operating in the Agricultural and A. S. C. program.

Farmers should make themselves acquainted with these different activities so that they will be able to intelligently select their community committeemen. Elections for community committeemen will take place between August 12 and 20 as they are planned at present. Balloting will be done by mail and ballots will be received from the county A. S. C. office. Eligible voters are all farmers except those who are managing farms for a salary. All farms are entitled to one vote for community chairmen.

Since this does represent quite a change over previous years, all farmers should take a keen interest in the affairs concerning the A. S. C. program.

by Mrs. Frieda Bennett
Home Demonstration Agent

Michigan homemakers will be getting into full swing this month on their food freezing operations. Berries and cherries are tops on the July list in lower Michigan, along with beets and peas, says Mrs. Frieda Bennett, home demonstration agent for Oakland County.

She urges homemakers to label everything carefully and clearly before storing in the freezer. Use a wax or soft lead pencil, crayon, or a special waterproof marking ink, she suggests.

Label with the name of the product, date frozen, weight or number of servings, type of pack, and anything else that will help identify the product when you are ready to use it.

If you rent a locker, include your name and locker number.

Keeping a complete record of foods frozen will help you use your locker or freezer space wisely. You might keep a chart hung close to the freezer or a note-book close by.

Unless a record of everything is kept, small packages may be lost in the bottom or at the back of the freezer, remaining frozen longer than they should to be of excellent quality. This list is also helpful in planning your meals.

It is a good idea to use all of one crop before the next year's crop is ready, the home agent advises.

Foods specialists at Michigan State College say that vegetables and fruits keep 8 to 12 months, meats 4 to 12 months, and prepared foods from a few weeks to 12 months. Plan to use your frozen foods while they are still in excellent condition.

Bulletin 216—Freezing Foods for Michigan Homes—contains the latest method of freezing fruits and vegetables. It may be obtained at the County Extension Office, 1260 West Boulevard, Pontiac.

"Specs" Johnson, who thinks it's a real treat to spend an hour or so browsing in a bookshop found his idea of heaven up in Centerville last week.

"Just inside the door," Specs says, "there's a tray of bright blue buttons. If you want to look around without having someone suggest you buy the latest best-selling novel, or maybe a history of Africa, you pin a button on your coat lapel.

"You can poke around all you like. Then when you've found the book you want, take off the button, and someone's right there to take care of you."

From where I sit, everybody likes to make his own choice. It doesn't matter whether it's books, or preferences in clothing or makes of cars. And it's no surprise that folks have personal preferences in beverages, too. So if your neighbor orders a glass of beer while you're having coffee, remember he's entitled to his choice, too.

Six feet from the flames

At 6:50 o'clock on a below-zero Sunday morning, a lone signal light glowed on the Bad Axe telephone switchboard. It was the United Missionary Church's line. Operator Maxine McLeod plugged in, thought she heard a sizzling, crackling sound... like FIRE! Immediately she rang that number. Mrs. Marcus Krake, the minister's wife, came from the rear of the parsonage, which adjoined the church, to answer the telephone. She was horrified to see the church basement ablaze... six feet away! The call had come just in time. Both church and parsonage were on the same telephone line. Fire eating into the wiring in the church caused the operator's switchboard light to come on. Right after Mrs. Krake gave the address to the operator, the line went dead.

Miss McLeod rang the alarm siren. As volunteer firemen all over town called in, she told them where the fire was. Thanks to the alert operator, firemen were able to save the minister's home and nearby houses.

William Canfield, age 76, recalls for Ed Alchin, County Agent, how much harder farm work was before electricity came along. Today, electric power saves time and labor... boosts production and profits.

Warm Milk HELPS HEAT MILK HOUSE

Electric pump attached to milk cooler does the trick

William Canfield, Oakland County farmer, uses an electric heat pump in connection with his modern front-opening milk cooler. Taking heat from warm milk and well water, it keeps the milk house comfortable in freezing weather.

Mr. Canfield and son, John, farm 160 acres, most of which are devoted to seed corn. They use electricity wherever possible. It powers corn drying, ventilating, conveying, and elevating equipment. It operates water heaters in the milk house and home, providing him and his family with plenty of hot water to make speedy work of dairy and household chores.

Is electricity doing all it can for you? For further information, see your Edison Farm Service Advisor.

GOODWILL INDUSTRIES SETS SAFETY MARK

Goodwill's handicapped workers have set another safety mark for small industries in Detroit to shoot at. During the first six months of 1954, there wasn't a single lost-time accident in any of the production departments of Goodwill. During the same period there were no compensable accidents in any of the departments, either production or non-production. (A compensable accident is one which keeps the worker off more than a week.)

Four minor injuries during the latter part of June were the only blemishes on an otherwise perfect record of all departments for the first half of 1954.

For the past several years Goodwill's accident record has been well below the figures compiled by the United States Department of Labor for all industries. In 1953 Goodwill's accident frequency was 10.8 while that for the entire country, according to the Department of Labor, averaged 15.5. Ellen Keen, industrial nurse at Goodwill Industries, says these figures are a dramatic answer to those who would not hire handicapped people for fear that they would be injured on the job.

"Handicapped workers have learned to take care of themselves and are more conscientious about safety rules than the average industrial worker", Mrs. Keen said.

of men's shirts are bought by women. They reveal that women are apt to use a "guess" method in deciding the size. Women ask: "What size do you wear?", my husband looks about your height."

But it's not as simple as that. Know the neckband size and the sleeve length—look for these measurements on the shirt label. They are a safer guide than the terms: small, medium and large. Most sleeve lengths range from 32 to 36 inches. A few manufacturers have a range of 31 to 37 inches. To determine the correct length—measure from the bone at the back of the neck to the wrist bone, with the arms held straight at the sides.

Neck sizes in most men's shirts range from 14 to 18 inches. To be sure of getting the right size, measure the inside of the neck band from the center of the button to the far end of the button-hole.

Shoulder length is important, too, suggests Florence Rann, clothing specialist at Michigan State College. However, if the neckband size and the sleeve length are correct, the shoulder will usually be right.

Why Vote For This Man?

1. The tax experts of Michigan entrusted to him, four Bills to amend the tax laws so the tax machinery would work. He introduced and procured the passage of these four Bills. No longer must our Tax Allocation Board work in the dark. These Bills did not increase your taxes but they really streamlined the taxing machinery.

Fred Beardsley procured the passage of these laws.

2. The census regulation giving credit for college students to the cities where the colleges were located cost Oakland County citizens much money. A resolution was offered to the Legislature, passed and forwarded to Washington protesting this regulation as being unfair to non-college localities.

Fred Beardsley offered the resolution and secured its passage.

Why would the important tax bills be entrusted to him? Well 13 years as a supervisor made him familiar with the taxing machinery. He knew what was wrong and how to correct it.

Why did he offer the resolution on the census? The answer to that is that he is alert to the interests of his constituents. Why was it possible for him to procure the passage of these and other pieces of legislation? The answer is that he enjoys the respect and confidence of every member of the Legislature.

There is no substitute for experience.

Let's keep this man in the Legislature.

GOODWILL INDUSTRIES SETS FAST PACE

The Goodwill Industries of Detroit is setting a fast pace for 1954 and today shows a remarkable dollar gain for the past six months of 1954.

Figures released by Harold McKinnon, executive secretary, showed that store sales of renovated discards passed the quarter million mark for the first time in its 33-year history over a six-months period. The total was $277,329.93.

With an additional $89,043.93 realized from salvage sales, $93,829.26 taken in through contracts with industry and over $43,000 more in miscellaneous items, Goodwill's total income for the first six months was $503,555.71.

This is the first time that the half million mark has ever been surpassed at mid-year and is nearly six percent better than the first six months of a record 1953 year, McKinnon said.

Unique in that it is a social organization totally self-supporting as well as non-profit, Goodwill employs handicapped people to renovate discards which are then sold in four Goodwill stores at prices for low-income families.
