Welcome

Oh welcome, babe of fifty-five, We've planned for your arrival. The passing year we kept alive By prayer for its survival.

The year just passed, was "run of mine", With order and confusion;

Some cloudy days came out just fine

Before the year's conclusion. The old year brought its share of tears; It, also, brought some laughter

Its rule was mixed with joy and fears For what would follow after.

Old father time, that aged sire From whence comes years unending;

Sends just the year that we require

To keep our soul ascending.

We hope, oh babe, the time has come When we, who time's been teach ing, Have learned that hatred spoils our fun;

And kindness is far reaching. We pray, at last, we are so wise We need our reprimanding;

That peace and love will answer cries For help and understanding.

Account Books Children Crowd At Clarkston Bank To See Santa

On Christmas Eve about two hundred and fifty children gathered at the Township Community Center to see Santa Claus. This and the expenses are defrayed by the selling of the Goodfellow newspapers.

This year's was the biggest party ever. The crowd gathered early and hopes were high as the little folks watched anxiously for Santa to arrive. Up until the big moment, Frank Green entertained with Christmas music over the public address system belonging to the local American Legion Post.

On account of the lack of snow Santa was forced to travel to the Community Center in a car. However, it was a convertible and so gave Santa a good chance to wave to everyone as he drove along. R. L. Jones took over at the mike and announced Santa's arrival and asked the children fusion as they approached the steps where Santa was seated in large bear skin. Each child greeted the old, white-whiskered fellow and eagerly told him what rend Harold Pailthorp of Detroit they wished him to deliver to officiating. Clarkston State Bank ____

The Clarkston State Bank is cooperating with Michigan State College and the Oakland County Agricultural Extension Service by providing farm account books free of charge to their customers. This service is being rendered to local farmers so that good farm records can be a tool in a successful farm business. Michigan State College has prepared the new simplified Farm Account Book to allow ease in reporting the farmer's income tax and Social Security tax. It is so set up that a simple transfer of the totals of numbered columns can be made to corresponding numbers on the Farmer's Income Tax Blank. Each year Michigan State College and the local agricultural agents also offer a very valuable service to farmers wishing to copperate. They are given assistance in summarizing their farm account books and can compare their farm business with a composite of other farmers in their farming area.

On December 30 Mr. Nielson a large chair covered with a from the Agricultural Economics Department of Michigan State College will be in the Extension Service Office at 1260 West Boulevard, Pontiac, at 1:30 P. M. and will assist farmers in summarizing their books.

Any other farmers interested n keeping a farm account book for 1955 are also invited to come in on that date and assistance in starting their account books will be given.

R. L. Jones of the Clarkston State Bank states that the bank will have books available January 1 for all interested local farmers.

Christmas Lights In Clarkston

This year many of the homes in Clarkston and the surrounding the Rotary Club to "light up" for Christmas. Out-door lights were used on trees and shrubs sound, is intended for showing on doorways, around large windows and even on housetops. It all helped to accelerate the celebrating of the birthday of the Christ Child.

The merchants went "all out" to brighten the down-town area. The homes on Robertson Court were especially gay for the holiday and all along Holcomb and Main Streets colored lighting was used extensively.

By The Way . . .

This is the time of the year when we begin to take inventory of what we are, what we have and to plan for the year to come. A short, quick idea of the prediction of the year to come might be to bring Ben Franklin up to date and say that if in the year to come you can spend less than you earn, you will have no financial troubles and therefore can have a carefree and happy new year. Spiritually, regular attendance at the church of your choice, can do much to bring that peace of mind we most desire. From a health standpoint freedom of financial worries and a spiritual foundation will help as much as anything. . . . Home building has gone ahead in almost boom conditions this last year. The tendency has continued the trend of several years to move away from the cities. While some of this trend may have been to avoid the dangers of congested areas in time of war or suspected attack, much of the trend is toward a more casual way of living. . . . 1954 has seen the opening of huge shopping centers, and the promise of many more. Their main attraction is the ease of parking. We doubt if their popularity will fade but they may build so many that they become competitive in the same way that drive-ins have with resultant lower incomes. . . . Rental units are still non-existent away from the larger cities. The units built by Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Poulton were rented before they were completed. 1954 has seen the stock market climb above the 1929 "high". Like people who watch others play some game, we have had some desire to get in the play. However, we consider we have never made an easy dollar and we are afraid that if we entered the market now it might break. Thus our public service for the new year will be to stay out of the market. May we acknowledge with pleasure the compliments on the Christmas Greeting page in the Christmas issue. We have three regrets. Two of them are that we omitted the names of O'Dell's Drug Store and the King's Insurance Agency, after The fact that no disability or they had expressed a desire to be listed. The third is that time did not permit calling on more firms. This is not an advertisement but the fact is that we have already entered on our list a new name for next year's issue. We considered it an impressive array. ... We join Lytell & Colegrove in asking those who do any driving over the weekend to do so with care. See their caution on page 2. . . . Life is how we look at it. We enjoy the story of the Brooklyn draftee who returned from manouvers in rattlesnake territory with a number of rattles. Asked how he obtained them remarked: "I took 'em off some big woims".

YOUR HOME NEWSPAPER

All matters handled through the Probate Court require a certain amount of legal publication in one of the county papers. Foreclosing a mortgage entails publication of the foreclosure notice in a county paper.

Either the probate court officers or your attorney will have your legal publication carried in The Clarkston News if you request it.

We solicit the privilege of carrying such legal publications. This form of advertising is valuable to us. When you support us in this way we are able to give you a better paper each week.
