Names of Many Michigan Towns Have Unusual Origins Wayne Students Find

"What's in a name?" asked Shakespeare.

Plenty, say Wayne University students of Michigan history who did a little research on the origin and meaning of the names of towns in their home-state of Michigan.

Most of the names of Michigan towns reflect the varied influences of the Indians and of the three nations which ruled at one time in Michigan. The name of the State itself is derived from the "shiganaw" Indians—the name meaning "great water."

The students found in their study that much of the history of the town names is legendary, but most of it is based on historical fact. Some towns were named after U. S. presidents—Jackson, Monroe, Grant, Harrison, Washington, and Lincoln. Many others assumed the names of their founders or of the geographical setting peculiar to the area of the townsite.

Elsie, in central Michigan, was named in 1837 when a meeting for that purpose was held at the home of Franklin Tillotson, the town's first postmaster. The story goes that while a group of men were trying to think of a suitable name for their town, Tillotson's little daughter, Elsie, ran into the room. She was a pretty little girl and at that moment all agreed that the town should be named after her.

Citizens of Bad Axe claim their city to be the only one in the world with that name. Bad Axe got its name from a broken, rusty axe found imbedded in a tree in 1861 a short time. Her children, Drs. Philip and Jean Austin are at 40 S. King's Hwy, Route 4, Alexandria, Virginia.

The Adult Bible Class of the Community Church will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Davis on Tuesday, February 1st, at 7:30 P. M. Roll Call will be answered with a Bible verse containing the word "promise". Mrs. William Granger will assist.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Community Church will meet Thursday, February 3rd at the home of Mrs. Carl Hulet on Monrovia Street. A pot-luck luncheon will begin at 12:30.

The Men's Beacon Club will meet at the Community Church on Saturday, January 29th. A pot-luck supper will be served at 6:30 and then colored motion pictures of Alaska will be shown by George Loveless, a former missionary to that country.

The Waterford Moms will hold a Bake Sale this Friday, January 28th at Jacober's Market. The sale will begin at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

GOOD TIME TO CLEAN TILE LINE OUTLET

Here's a good way for farmers to save, themselves a headache next spring.

Agricultural Engineer Ernest H. Kidder of Michigan State advises cleaning out brush and trees around the tile line outlet now. Winter is an especially good time, he says.

Make sure that brush is cleared away at least 20 feet away from the outlet and that there are no trees closer than 50 feet. That means brush and trees should be cleaned out of the ditches, too, may damage the line.

EXTENSION CREDIT BEING OFFERED

Psychology and Teaching of Reading, Writing, and Spelling will be offered in Milford this winter and spring by the University of Michigan, it is announced.

Planned for teachers and nearby communities, the class will meet each Monday for 12 weeks at 6:45 p. m., beginning January 31. Sessions will be held in the Huron-Valley School. Enrollment may be made at the first class meeting.

Dr. Donald E. P. Smith, chief, Reading Improvement Services of the University's Bureau of Psychological Services, will be the instructor. Dr. Smith also holds the University appointment of lecturer in education.

The course approaches the teaching of reading, writing, and spelling from the standpoint of the psychological principles involved. It also includes an appraisal of diagnostic and remedial techniques in these subjects. There will be exhibits and demonstrations of teaching aids and devices and an opportunity to consider instructional material.

The course may be elected for two hours of extension credit on either the graduate or undergraduate level.

Michigan Mining

Most western Lake Superior iron ore is taken from open pits but much also comes from underground mines, such as this, located near Negaunee in Michigan's upper peninsula. These miners are drawing ore from a "lift," a vertical shaft drilled off a main tunnel. They are working about 3200 feet below the earth's surface.

9,152 ARRESTS IN DEC. BY STATE POLICE

Michigan State Police made 9,152 arrests in December, of which 8,309 were for traffic and motor vehicle violations. The figure does not include 266 juvenile traffic offenders and delinquent and wayward minors.

Complaints numbered 6,399 and the troopers also made 28,321 property and 4,111 liquor inspections. Department vehicles traveled 999,587 miles.

East Lansing headquarters received 6,656 sets of fingerprints, of which 2,331 were non-criminal. Applicants for permits to carry concealed weapons numbered 581. Of these, 56 were found to have criminal records. There were also 19 wanted persons identified through fingerprints.

BIG POTENTIAL IN NEW SCHOOL MILK PROGRAM

Michigan people may be losing a good thing if they don't encourage their schools to take part in the new government special milk program.

That's the opinion of Agricultural Economist Gerald G. Quackenbush of Michigan State College. He points out that the program reimburses schools 3 to 4 cents per half pint of milk they serve.

That means, says Quackenbush, there are 1 1/2 million children who have the best opportunity ever to get plenty of milk. And if milk consumption can be doubled in schools, the increase would be about 1 per cent of total production.

That's nearly a third of last year's milk surplus.

But now only about a third of Michigan's schools are taking advantage of this government help. Most of those schools serve milk at a charge of 1 to 2 cents to the children under the special milk program.

In the past, says Quackenbush, one of the important reasons schools didn't participate in the school lunch program was that the cost of milk was too high for children. He found that in a survey of 833 schools.

Only items schools need for the milk program now, he points out, are someone to keep a few records, a milkman to deliver and a second hand refrigerator. Information on the program can be obtained from the county superintendent's office.

ICE FISHING HINTS PASSED ON BY U-M FISHERIES EXPERT

A fish's appetite is just as good in winter as it is in summer, says Prof. Karl F. Lagler, chairman of the fisheries department in the University of Michigan's School of Natural Resources, who urges any would-be ice-fisherman to take a try at the sport this winter.

Not only is it good fun, but the winter fisherman can be of real service to himself and other summer-sport brethren, he adds. He passed on much of this information in a broadcast over the University's station WUOM.

"Catching fish in winter helps restore nature's balance in pan-fish lakes by retarding overpopulation, which causes stunted underdeveloped fish for summer catching", Professor Lagler states.

He suggests using a beveled ice chisel or spud for the chopping process and points out that drop-offs or the edges of weed beds are good spots to make a first hole.

If fish don't come pretty quickly to that one, make another one some place else, Professor Lagler advises, since you may have hit a sparse region and fish don't move very much in the winter.

"Also remember that feeding habits may vary according to lake, month and hour, so try

M. S. C. to Observe 100th Anniversary

On February 12, 1955, Michigan State College will be 100 years old. On that date—Founders' Day—M.S.C. will begin a year-long celebration of the event which drastically changed the course of higher education in America. It will commemorate the founding of a college which for the first time was to serve large numbers of people rather than the relatively few.

Michigan State College was the first agricultural college and the model for the land-grant college system established by the Morrill Act in 1862. Pictured above is Old College Hall, where agriculture was first taught as a science. Beaumont Tower, left, stands today on that historic spot and is the land-mark for the Michigan State College of 1955, eighth largest university in the nation.

The professor also lists four popular baits which are easy to find: beetle larvae, from under the bark of trees; corn bores, found near joints on diseased corn stalks; golden rod worms, from dwellings on the plant's stem; and sugar beet larvae, which are in the pulp after the sugar beet has been processed out.

And for the ambitious person who ties his own ice flies, Professor Lagler suggests using a number 14 or 16 hook with a piece of split shot clamped to it, plus a bright maribou feather streamer of red, yellow or white, a fish's favorite colors.

"The best tackle for pan fishing is a rod with the rough equivalent of a fly rod tip and monofilament line, like those favored by spin fishermen", he continues.

Another tip: Hold your line tightly and let it extend down to within one foot from the lake bottom.

For perch bait he recommends small live minnows as movement of the bait is essential. For the staple of Michigan's ice-fishing, the common bluegill, he suggests small natural baits such as grubs and wigglers.

Lake maps to help find the best spots for ice-fishing are available at the Institute of Fisheries Research, Museums Annex, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. County names for lakes must be used in inquiries.

Divine Love's inexhaustible supply of good for man will be brought out in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Love" at Christian Science services Sunday.

Selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include the following (494:10):

"Divine Love always has met and always will meet every human need. It is not well to imagine that Jesus demonstrated the divine power to heal only for a select number or for a limited period of time, since to all mankind and in every hour, divine Love supplies all good."

Among the passages to be read from the Bible is the following from Psalms (103:2-4): "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits: Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases; Who redeemeth thy life from destruction; who crowneth thee with loving kindness and tender mercies."

TWO WINNING SMILES

U.S. Senator Patrick V. McNamara of Michigan says the March of Dimes is sure to win the support of citizens when it has such a living symbol of courage as little Mary Kosloski, 1955 Foster Child. Mary went to the senator's office in the Nation's Capital to receive his contribution to the drive and he told her to keep up the good fight and to come back again. Michigan is always an active state in the fight against polio and millions of citizens are aiding the present campaign.

A comparison of how this kitchen procedure has changed through the past 100 years will be the theme of the exhibit prepared by the foods and nutrition department at Michigan State University. Michigan women will see it when they visit Farmers' Week Feb. 7-11.

Besides food exhibits in the home economics building, homemakers will be able to visit the equipment labs in the home management houses where they will see many types of energy saving furniture. These range from posture chairs to sit-down ironing boards.

Farmers' Week visitors at Michigan State College can also see a complete modern kitchen in action in the agricultural engineering building. The kitchen is equipped with built-in and deluxe appliances such as ranges, refrigerators, freezer, dishwasher, water heater, air conditioners and cabinets.

The kitchen is housed in a 32 foot trailer and is the first appearance of the 1955 equipment. Simple cooking and laundry demonstrations will be given along with coffee and donuts.

Another exhibit of interest to women at the Centennial Farmers' Week will be the demonstration of finishing techniques on wooden footstools which will be made in a model workshop. These stools will be sponsored by the forest products department and will be in the east side of the stadium.

FW OFFERS ATTRACTIONS FOR WOMEN

Delinquent children and unhappy families seem to rate the headlines but there are many happy and successful family stories which need to be voiced.

This is the thought behind the talk of Mary I. Sweeny at the women's program on Feb. 9th during Farmers' Week. Miss Sweeny is the former assistant director at the Merrill-Palmer school in Detroit. With a background of seeing life in many countries, she will discuss "Success in Family Life Around the World."

The kickoff of the women's program will be at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday, Feb. 8 in the Michigan State College auditorium. Ruth M. Beard of the home economics department at the Ohio State University will give shopping tips on buying 1955 household equipment.

Following Miss Beard on the afternoon program will be Mrs. Louise Carpenter, foreign student advisor at M. S. C. Her topic is "A Midwest American Looks at Asia."

$40 to Save Lives

BEFORE 8 accidents

AFTER NO accidents

Seeking new and inexpensive ways to reduce mounting traffic fatalities, authorities are marking hazards that contribute to nighttime accidents with reflective material. Typical is this treatment of a Detroit bridge abutment. Sixteen persons were injured in 24 months when their cars crashed into the almost invisible center abutment at night. Traffic engineers painted black and white stripes on the entrance pillars, posted a reflectorized "Keep to Right" sign on the center pillar and painted yellow and white centerlines on the roadway so they curved around the center post. The improvements, which cost only $40, increased nighttime visibility of the dangerous abutment so much that in the first seven months since the changes, there have been no accidents.

Card Of Thanks

I wish to extend my thanks and appreciation to my wonderful neighbors for the beautiful flowers sent me during my illness.
