METHODISTS START BUILDING FUND CRUSADE

Crowd Enjoys Labor Day Parade

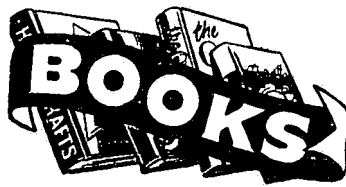

The parade in Clarkston on Labor Day, sponsored by the Rotary Club attracted a large crowd of viewers as well as participants. By the time the police halted the through traffic on Main Street the sidelines were packed with an enthusiastic crowd.

Heading! the parade was the High School Band in their first appearance of the season and they drew a hearty applause. The Dixie Saddle Club was well represented and they made a fine showing—after all what is a parade without horses and riders.

Among the cars of yester years was one driven by Robert C. Beattie and one by Dr. A. W. Emery. In contrast to those old cars, was an up-to-the-minute sport car driven by Jack Emery. A very fine parade entry was one representing UNICEF in which the children of the world took a part. To take the viewers back a few years and prove that the older folks are still interested in what goes on in their lovely village was a covered wagon carrying quite a few of the members of the Clarkston Pioneer Club. The Clarkston Gardens Improvement Association did themselves proud with a float depicting a scene of friendliness and cooperation which is prevalent in that district. Paul's Good Food was represented and these little fellows drew quite a cheer from the sidelines. Other entries that proved that Clarkston was keeping up with the times were: Civil Defense, School Buses, Fire Department and one which was quite unique was "The Book Worm" calling attention to the fact that the Township Library was ready to serve the community.

The children on their bikes and in gay costumes made quite a showing and this added greatly to the interest in the last get-together in the village for the summer season.

The Rotary Ann float stressed safety and the Rotary Club float showed men of many countries gathered around a picnic table emphasizing the fact that Rotary International tended to promote world friendship.

Don't forget! New library hours! Starting this Friday night, Sept. 6, the library will be open from 7 to 9 P. M., providing a good chance for the weekly shopping trip to be combined with a visit to the bookshelves.

While you're browsing notice two excellent nature books there—one entitled BIRDS AND THEIR NESTS and the other, STATE BIRDS AND FLOWERS, both written by Earle.

They are good books to linger over this winter when many of our birds will fly south. When they come back in the spring we'll feel better acquainted with them.

Cool nights make one think of reading good books, and the library has some wonderful new fiction to "curl up" with. See us next week for some suggestions.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH
CLARKSTON, MICHIGAN

Above is the proposed new First Methodist Church, Clarkston, which was introduced to the congregation last Sunday morning at the two worship services by Building Committee Chairman, Edgar Collick and Assistant Chairman, Harold Bauer. The cost of the complete unit at present rates of construction will be around $450,000. The architect, A. Hensel Fink, of the Methodist Board of Church Architects, has purposely divided the entire set of buildings into three units with the Christian Education unit flanked on the left by the Fellowship Hall and on the right by the sanctuary. All of the buildings are of colonial design with the sanctuary seating 450 worshippers. The estimated cost of the Fellowship Hall is $110,000.00; the Christian Education Unit, $150,000 and the Sanctuary, $200,000.

THE PLOT OF THE NEW CHURCH

The architect, A. Hensel Fink of Philadelphia, proposes to the congregation of First Methodist Church that the church and its buildings be placed on the southeast section of the seven acre site. The Fellowship Hall, being separate from the sanctuary could be used for all community activities of various groups within the township. Many social and cultural programs could be developed as well as the religious meetings.

The present church and its buildings will be used for Church School purposes for years, but when the time comes the Christian Education unit would be the last unit to be built. The present church is only one half block away from the new building site.

The sanctuary of the new church will seat 450 people. This capacity was determined with the architect who pointed out that any larger construction would need additional framework and would amount to $20,000 for each additional 100 seats.

Parking would be terraced and hidden from the lawns and gardens by shrubbery so that the beauty of the landscape would be retained. The initial planning provides for parking for 100 cars in the lots and additional places in the drives.

The contour of the land provides for a natural amphitheatre with an outdoor pulpit and platform placed on the west side of the property near the stream. This lawn, or green, would be framed by additional gardens and shrubbery.

The church wishes to express its gratitude to the Ford Motor Company, Fred Gettel and Paul Hanson and their crews from the Ford Farms for mowing the grounds in preparation for the "Open House" to be held Sunday following the 11:00 A. M. Service.

THE LIFE STORY OF FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

The life story of First Methodist Church in Clarkston reaches back to obscure missionary efforts in the years 1834 to 1837, when religious groups were organized in the then very small community. Thus the earliest beginnings of this Church fellowship came close after the founding of Clarkston Village in 1831, when a Mr. Butler Holcomb, grandfather of the Butler Holcomb many of us well remember, took up government land which included what is now the village area.

When the Clarks, Jeremiah and Nelson, came to the community in 1837, small classes of Methodist people as yet had no church building, but conducted services of worship in private homes in the eastern and western parts of the township, the Sashabaw Class in the eastern part and the Clarkston Class here in the western part.

The year 1840 is accepted as the birthday of our Church in the Village under the leadership of one Mr. Silas Smith, carpenter and a part-time or local preacher.

In 1841 a fair-sized frame building was raised on the present site at Church and Buffalo Streets and put into immediate use, but due to lack of sufficient funds it was not completed or wholly furnished until 1847.

In 1848 there were thirty-five members and the records show that by 1872 the membership numbered one hundred.

In 1870 and 1871 the Ladies Aid Society and the Sunday School Society were organized. By 1873 the group had outgrown the original frame building and the cornerstone for the present structure was laid on June 1st of that year. Completion was rapid and the dedication took place Dec. 14, 1873.

Clarkston Village was incorporated in 1879.

First Methodist was then a part of what was designated as the Clarkston Circuit, made up of Methodist congregations in Clarkston, Waterford, Springfield and Pleasant Lake communities.

NEW BUILDING SITE OPEN TO PUBLIC SUNDAY, SEPT. 8, AT 12:30

At 12:30 P. M. on Sunday, September 8th, the residents of Independence Township, Clarkston and adjoining communities, are invited to inspect the new seven-acre site of First Methodist Church adjoining Church Street, Waldon Road, and the High School playground in Clarkston. Arrangements have been made through Promotion Chairman, Mrs. Paul Eliason and Takao Kojima for the congregation to proceed from the church following the 11:00 A. M. Service, to the site one-half block away. Charles Robinson, historical chairman, has made provision for an airplane equipped for aerial photography to take a picture at 1:30 P. M. Those people in attendance will be asked to stand in such a position as to form the outline of the new church and parsonage so that the aerial photographer may take a picture of the proposed outlines of the future buildings.

Coffee and cakes will be served by Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Walter and their committee to all guests. Those attending are invited to attend the Morning Worship Services prior to this event.

Robert Waters, Takao and Kuga Kojima, Ralph Thayer, and Bill Thomas have erected a new large billboard showing the picture of the new church on the site. Other billboards have been erected or are being built to appear at the corner of Waldon Road and Main Street, and in front of the present church.

The inspection of the property beautified by a lovely stream, will open the Building Fund Crusade drive for $115,000 which the church hopes to raise toward its new church.

HUTTENLOCHERS PRESENT SEVEN-ACRE SITE TO CHURCH

Last May the family of the Howard Huttenlochters presented to First Methodist Church, Clarkston, a seven-acre site near the high school, for the building of its new church and parsonage. The grounds were presented as a memorial to Mrs. (Dorothy) Huttenlocher's parents, Eber Darius Parent and his wife, Harriett Perry Parent.

Mr. and Mrs. Parent were much-loved residents of Clarkston, having moved here from Redford where they were born and lived their early lives. The charm and beauty of a little village north of Pontiac on M-15 drew them, however, and the remainder of their years were spent here. The loveliness of Clarkston's lakes and hills never ceased to receive their devotion and loyalty to the community.

They were devoutly Christian people, and although ill health and age kept them from taking part in the life of the community, they were always a great influence for good. Mr. Parent passed away in 1939, and Mrs. Parent followed him in 1943. It is in their memory that their daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Huttenlocher, and sons, James and Richard, offer the grounds to First Methodist Church for its new church and parsonage.

The building site is bounded by Church Street on the north, the high school play ground on the east, Waldon Road on the south and a beautiful stream on the west. Construction of the new parsonage will begin on the Church Street side within a month, and the new church will appear on the Waldon Road end of the site as soon as funds are made available. It is felt that this should take about five years.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH RECIPIENT OF ADA MILLS ESTATE

One year ago this week Clarkston lost one of its most beloved citizens when Mrs. Ada Mills passed away. Before her passing she had become much aware of the necessity of an adequate residence for the pastor of her church, First Methodist Church, Clarkston. The present parsonage was over 100 years old consisting of two buildings joined together, one-third of the old village tavern and another building which had been used for storage purposes. The attorney for Mrs. Mills estate contacted the officials of First Methodist Church in October of 1956 stating that in her will she had willed her home and property to the church for the purpose of obtaining adequate housing for the pastor. In February, of 1957 the estate was given to the church who sold it for $11,000 after considerations of remodeling the home was considered to be of such an expense as to warrant the building of a new parsonage nearer to the church. With the gift of land near the high school a new parsonage will be erected on the new church site made possible by the Howard Huttenlochters.

lady whose warm and compassionate nature was shown in a readiness to always help others. Her life was dedicated to following in the footsteps of her Lord. Her goodness made her popular with young and old. A son of the leader in Clarkston Community life was heard to remark, "When I was a boy, like the other youth of our town, I would always go and visit Mrs. Mills. She was so delighted to see us that nearly everyone came away with a bill in his pocket and a cookie in his hand."

Mrs. Mills, united with First Methodist Church on November 18th, 1900, at the age of 23 years, under the ministry of The Reverend B. H. Glass. Her faithfulness and loyalty soon found her serving on the Official Board as a loyal Steward of the Finance Committee and an active member of the Ladies Aid Society.

She is still a "living presence" in the life of First Methodist Church. Her favorite flower was a Shasta daisy, the roots of which she shared with her neighbors. One of these is now growing in the yard at the Ray Ainsley home on Holcomb Street and will be placed in the garden of the new parsonage. The church will express its gratitude for her thoughtful bequest on Sunday, October 13th, which has been designated by the Official Board as "Ada Mills Sunday."

capacity of the school facilities is taxed.

The new church will bring the church school back to the single session which is most urgently needed. This would convenience parents who have children in two age groups, and the handicap of some parents who live a distance from the church would be overcome.

As Judy Inman, Youth Fellowship president, so adequately expressed it last Sunday at the Morning Worship, "Our youth are looking forward to their own room for worship, recreation, and study and group work through the week. In many communities such as Pontiac and Detroit, churches are now 'youth centers' and what better place is there for young people to feel at home than in God's house?"

The nursery workers under the superintendency of Jo Hawke are looking forward to larger and more adequate facilities for babies and tiny children, where the room is not a hallway for other people to use.

The Church School Annex at the north end of the present property was thought to be able to handle the increased enrollment, but the Junior Department of the school is now meeting also in the church as well as the Annex. All of the teachers, with their superintendent, Mr. Stanley White, dream of the new building which will help in the tremendous job of raising the children to follow Jesus Christ as their Lord.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH SCHOOL GROWTH CREATES PROBLEMS

The fifty-eight teachers and officers of the Clarkston Methodist Church School look forward to the creation of the new church building which will adequately care for its 423 enrolled pupils. These at present, are enrolled on a double session basis, which fragments their activities and splits family participation in the Sunday morning activities. When the children and youth participate in the Morning Worship Services in the choir and special programs they must be withdrawn from classes, and Church School omitted that Sunday morning. This has resulted in the loss of five classes due to the double sessions held consequently with the Worship Services. Yet only children's classes meeting the enrollment and attendance has increased until at times the

TROUT SEASON CLOSES SEPTEMBER 8
 Fishermen are reminded that September 8 marks the last day of angling for several Michigan game fish species.
 The statewide trout season closes that day, along with bass and other seasons in trout waters. Both large-mouth and small-mouth bass may be taken, of course, in non-trout waters through December 31. Panfish may be taken throughout the year, except in trout waters.

 The special spearing season for rough fish in designated waters closed August 15.
 Although the statewide trout season closes soon, fishermen will be able to take part in a special rainbow trout season in certain state waters.
 The special waters, designated by Conservation Department director Gerald E. Eddy, are open to rainbow trout during September, October and November.
 So while hunting claims the attention of most sportsmen, many avid fishermen—finding streams low enough to wade—

Board of Education, Clarkston Community Schools, Clarkston, Michigan
 We have examined the fund balances of CLARKSTON COMMUNITY SCHOOLS as of June 30, 1957 and the related statements of cash receipts and disbursements for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.
 The scope of our examination was not extended to include the child accounting records of the school system. State aid payments which were based on such child accounting records were confirmed directly by us from the State authorities. We also inspected a letter from the County superintendent of schools which stated that they had audited the child accounting records during the period and found that they were correct and comply with the laws of the State of Michigan.
 In our opinion, the accompanying statement of fund balances and statements of receipts and disbursements present fairly the financial position of Clarkston Community Schools at June 30, 1957 and the results of its operations for the year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

How is your food freezer I. Q.? Here is the question most homemakers ask. "Can you cut down on your food bill with a home freezer?"

The answer is, "Some folks do." Especially folks who freeze foods they produce themselves. But mostly the big advantage of a home freezer is convenience.

says the MSU Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. Freezers make it easy to keep a good supply of food on hand. As a result, families with well-stocked freezers generally eat better than they would otherwise.

Don't tell your child how to spend his allowance money, declares Ben Ard, family life specialist at Michigan State University. The real value of money can best be learned when it is really his alone to spend.

pers know that fresh meats such as poultry, beef, pork, etc., need to be taken from their store wrappings. Rewrap such meats loosely in wax paper, then store them in the coldest part of the refrigerator. The MSU Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer, explains this allows the meats to breathe with no chance of off-odors' developing. Exceptions to this rule are fresh fish which needs to be placed in a covered dish, and frozen meats which are stored in their original wrap or container. The hand that stores food wisely uses it while it still has its best quality and flavor.
