After Commencement Exercises the group of 106 seniors left for different homes for the many 'open houses' held for the graduates. Rainy weather made it difficult to attend all of the parties but most enjoyed three or four. Many visited the home of Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Denne and relatives. A graduation theme decorated the home and refreshments were served in the recreation room.

After Commencement 75 relatives and friends attended the Open House at the home of the Donald Wrights of Ellis Road in honor of their daughter, Ann Marie Wright. A buffet supper was served. The centerpiece was a setting of graduation dolls and flowers. Assisting hostesses were Bette Wright and Mrs. Joseph Madison.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Snover of Clarkston Road honored their son, Jerry, at 'open house' both Sunday and Monday evenings. Approximately 80 guests attended Sunday and many other relatives and friends on Monday. A buffet arrangement was centered in the dining room. Several members of the class entertained the group with music

Mr. and Mrs. John O'Berry opened their home on Monday evening to honor their son, Harsupper was served and Doris O'Berry officiated as hostess.

Open House, after graduation, was also held by Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Inman of Snowapple Drive in honor of their daughters, Mary and Judy. Suzanne and Anita Haddrill were hostesses for the evening. Refreshments were served from a lace-covered buffet table centered with an arrangement of blue cornflowers and white snapdragons and lighted blue tapers in crystal holders. Small tea cakes were decorated in white with blue flowers to carry out the class theme and bouquets of flowers were used throughout the house.

Over one hundred class members and friends attended the Open House for class president, Kent See, on Monday night. Mrs. Stewart See of Andersonville Road served a buffet dinner in honor of her son. Young couples enjoyed dancing in the recreation room and Leon Decker played several selections on his guitar.

Lois Theiss held a party for friends after Baccalaureate services, at her parents home on Susin Lake. Dancing and a buffet luncheon were enjoyed by the guests.

An 'open house' was held in honor of Carol Jantz at the home of her grandparents on Eastview Drive. Refreshments were served to classmates.

DEAR GRADUATES

by Barb Tossey

Your diploma is a passport into a new world. With your diploma in hand, you pass through the gates of adolescence into a grown-up world of higher studies, wider freedoms, and greater responsibilities. Your graduation is a long step along the road of life. Be prepared for that old. Sixty relatives and friends important step. Up to the preattended the gathering. A buffet | sent moment, you have depended upon your teachers for instruction and guidance, and upon your parents for good examples, advice, sympathy and understanding. Henceforth people will be depending upon you; you will be left more to vour own resources; your destinv will be more in your own hands. How are you going to shape this destiny?

Each of you leave Clarkston High School with your heart full of rosy plans for the future. One of you may plan a brilliant professional career; another has fond hopes of leading others along the paths of learning; others look forward to the day when a business career will open wide its golden opportunities. In the meantime many will be awaiting anxiously for that sunny day in spring when a lover finds his love. Success. honors, wealth, and love! May all these dreams of yours come true!

But in all your dreams do not forget that you were born to seek a pearl of greater price than worldly success, honors, wealth or love. Attain these if you will, but if in doing so you lose this other treasure, then your life is a dismal failure. Be mindful of these words of our Savior, "What doth it profit a man if he gain the whole world and suffer the loss of his own soul?" Your soul is your pearl. Hold on to it, for it is life's greatest treasure. May the path you follow be lined with roses, carpeted with velvet, and led by the eternal radiance of heavenly stars!

CEDAR CHEST CAN PROTECT WOOL CLOTHES

If you're storing winter clothes, especially woolens, for the whys and wherefores of the summer, you may be wondering "just how effective is a cedar chest" for moth protection.

According to Bernetta Kahabka, extension clothing specialist talk, talk is common with young at MSU, cedar chests make good pest-proof containers primarily because of their airtight construction.

Cedar-oil vapor kills small larvae but is not effective against larger ones. So before storing be sure woolens are free of larvae--the destructive stage of the moth. Dry clean or wash garments to be sure they're clean when stored.

If your cedar chest is several years old, treat it as you would any other storage area. Clean it thoroughly—perhaps vacuuming is the best method for removing lint and dirt, the food supply of moth larvae. Vacuuming will also remove any deposits of insects or eggs. Burn contents of the vacuum bag after you finish.

Then spray the inside of the chest with a three to five percent D. D. T. solution. Spray enough to leave a cloud or fog in the chest.

For further protection of clothes you can use flakes, crystals or balls, sprays or rinses on garments to be stored.

A good cedar chest is made of red cedar. 'At least 70 percent of the chest proper is made of 34 inch heartwood. Of course the outside can be veneered with hard woods like walnut or mahogany without affecting the pest-proofing value of the cedar-oil vapors.

BASS SEASON OPENS JUNE 21

Some of the finest smallmouth bass fishing in the world is going to waste in Michigan waters. This opinion came recently from the chief of the Conservation Department fish division.

Michigan on June 21 Anglers have until very recently shown only passing infor the hard-fighting. terest tasty smallmouth, whose numbers have increased in Great Lakes waters in late years.

Bass season opens throughout

The smallmouth has been protected from commercial nets for many years. And for some reason he receives little sport fishing attention.

"I feel a great deal of fishing enjoyment may be found in the rocky shoal waters of Michigan's Great Lakes", says Fred Westerman, fish division chief. "These fish are found in three to eight feet of water where rocky bottoms provide food and cover the smallmouth needs. I have heard of many catches of fish 15-17 inches in length and up to three and a half pounds weight." Try this recipe for its fun value: Find a spot of rocky shore on the Great Lakes. There are many such spots, mostly north of the Muskegon-Bay City line.

Use a single hook on the end of monofilament line on a spinning or fly rig. If possible, avoid using weights or anything else on the line. Put a nightcrawler or angle worm on the hook in a couple of loops. Don't gob him on, don't use dead bait.

Ease the bait into the shadow of a big rock, or down along the edge of reed beds. Move it along gently. If the fish hits, it will be light tugs at first. Let him go. He generally will not take the bait until he begins to run with it, and that's the time to set the hook. After that, it's all up to

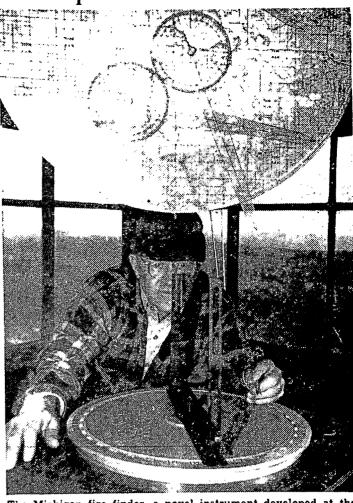

This version of inland surf fishing is very productive at some times; dead quiet at others. Watch for spots and don't waste your time if they are not feed-

New Boat Law

Michigan's new state boat law requires registration of all power-driven boats-regardless of size-and all non-powered boats more than 16 feet in length. The law applies to boats used on inland waters of the state. The license number, issued by the Secretary of State, must be affixed or painted on the forward part of the craft in numbers at least three inches high.

A REMINDER

FOR BOAT OWNERS

Boat owners have added something new this year to comply with Michigan's boat registration law which went into effect March 1.

Under the new law, all power-driven boats—regardless of size—and all non-powered boats more than 16 feet in length must be licensed by the state and carry a license number if they are used on Michigan's inland waters.

Exempted from the law's reguirements are all "muscle-propelled" boats, of any size, such as canoes, rowboats, barges, houseboats and others on which a motor is never used.

However, any boat on which a motor is ever used, must be registered and carry a license number.

Licenses are issued by Secretary of State, for a $2 fee, and are good for the lifetime of the boat. Unlike automobile registration, a new license is not required each year.

Also exempted from registration are boats which are used only on the Great Lakes or connecting waters, including Lake St. Clair and the Detroit, St. Clair and St. Marys rivers. Boats registered with the U.S. Coast Guard do not require registration with the State of Michigan.

Enforcement of the new law rests with county law enforcement agencies, with some state funds available for this purpose. However, counties must provide the Probate Office in the Clurk for the County of Oakland At a session of said Court held at the Probate Office in the City of Pontiac, in said County on the 19th day of May, A. D. 1958.

Present: Hon. ARTHUR E. MOORE, enforcement personnel in order to qualify for state aid.

The new boat law also applies to nonresidents using boats on Michigan's inland waters. Nonresidents may register boats with the Secretary of State, county sheriff's offices or designated marine agencies.

Although "buck" usually brings to mind a male deer, it is also the name for the male of several other species, including rabbit, caribou, antelope and trout.

When you're doing housework, combine details or leave them out whenever practical, suggests Coral Morris, MSU extension specialist in home management. Serving food in a baking dish, using prepared mixes and folding sheets and towels without ironing are just a few ways of saving time and steps.

Fisherman's Delight

Michigan's 36,000 miles of streams attract thousands of trout fishermen who claim this sport is tops in outdoor enjoyment. Trout angling continues to grow in popularity and more than 225,000 trout fishermen are expected to test their skills during the state's April 26-September 14 season this year.
