A COMMON TRENCH ... No. that's not a place where enlisted men fought during World War I. It's actually a recently developed technique for laying telephone and electrical wires underground-where they'll be safe and out of sight. To lay these wires underground, much new equipment had to be developed; for example, an entirely new kind of plow that would cut a single furrow deep enough so that the wires could be "planted." The Common Trenches are now being used experimentally in several suburbs across our state. It's just one of the ways we're looking ahead to bring you continually improving telephone service.

SENIOR FAREWELL

by Diann Williams

The day of Baccalaureate and the night of graduation has approached and it seems to us seniors as just a dream. We received our caps and gowns, awards and many other things that go with the excitement of graduation and we can't quite realize it's here.

Some of us want to graduate and others do not. But all the same we are all looking forward to a bright future and hope to achieve each and every one of our goals that we have set out accomplish all our life.

Everyone of us can remember when we started high school and the events that took place. But sang solos. The CHS Chorus, unalso we should realize what high us to get along with others and the two soloists. it also has given us the opportunity to receive an education in the field of our choice.

Our learning will never stop because each and every day will bring something new for us to playing the 'Coronation March' cope with and learn from. For example, the ones going to college will learn from the educational point of view, where as, the people starting a career will learn from society. Yes, we'll miss high school, and we'll get sick feeling deep down inside that last night and we'll remember it always but soon the memory will grow dull and we'll become interested in other things of life. We know we will be better citizens and voters for attending high school but we will never again take a big part in the activities of our Alma Mater.

You have received your diploma, the key to your future. With this key you pass through the door of adolescence into the world of higher education, keener competition, and most of all responsibility. Up until now there have been parents and teachers around for guidance and assurance, but now you must step into the future on your own. People will be depending on you, will

It you plan to go on with your education the best to you. Those of you going into a job, we hope that success comes your way. Whatever your plans are may the guidance and learning you received here help you through. When you are caught up in the whirl of your new life remember that when trying to gain wealth, success or honor that there are greater treasures in life, than these. Your life is what you make it and only through faith in God and a sincere effort for a good life will you find your happiness.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Gramps Tells a "Moving" Story

Gramps Adams just got back from his first trip to the city in 40 years.

Thinking there might be a story in an oldtimer's impressions of the big city. I stopped by his place. Gramps was pretty enthusiastic about everything -except the escalators they have in the new department

"Sure, those moving stairs are easy on the legs going up,' Gramps commented. "But just try to get down on the same ones. I'll be jiggered if you cah do it, not with the steps comin up at you a mile a minute!"

From where I sit, sometimes some of us go out of our way to make things a little harder than they really are. Think, for instance, how much easier living with our neighbors would be if we were more tolerant of things. Like my right to choose an occasional glass of beeryour right to choose coffee, tea or milk. By respecting each other's preferences, we're better neighbors with fewer "ups and downs."
