Outdoor Fun Family Style

Hurrah for Dad! His loyal rooting section lends moral support as he makes like an "old pro" with the rod and net. A few more catches like this one and fresh trout will head tonight's menu. catches like this one and fresh trout will head tonight's menu. Catches like this one and fresh trout will head tonight's menu. And what better way to cap this day of outdoor living than by having a fish fry? Plenty of other pleasant moments are in store for this family during its good-times outing. Michigan offers more than 6,000,000 acres of public lands where other families may stake their claim to outdoor fun. On most of these lands, families may camp free and anywhere they like. And in most cases, there are lakes and streams nearby to beckon Dad and his fishing rod. Youngsters will find many things to explore and lots of romping room while Mom will be able to generally enjoy this casual change of pace from her usual household chores.

Another swinging hop took place at the Junior High School on May 26th. A small admission price was collected at the door for two and a half hours of dancing.

The guys and gals received an excellent opportunity to either showoff or suffer (according to a few of the boys) in their dress clothes, as it was a semi-formal affair. The "Trance" was made possi-

THE EDITOR OBSERVES

The close of the year has come for the Seniors and only the final steps of Graduation still lie ahead. Because of this, I would like to take the opportunity to say a few words before next year's Editor, Marcie Fox, and next vear's Assistant Editor. Sharon Gotschall, take over.

Every year new students come to CHS and when I was in the eighth grade I was one of them As most new students do, I felt the need of something secure in these new surroundings, and I found it with the students. Since I have been here you have given me many opportunities to better myself, you have given me the chance to be editor of the newspaper and you have given me a handed me as a student. My thanks go beyond words and my best wishes go to you as students who are willing to give everyone a chance.
