Mrs. Vailliencourt is the former Phyllis Beardsley, who lived in Clarkston until her marriage 5 years ago.

"Tail End Charlie" is the guy and children, Linda, Jane, Dan, who got a crick in his neck try-Mark and Susan returned last ing to stand on the brake pedal and see his stop light was working. No matter how he craned and stretshed, he couldn't see a thing so he gave it up, and he hasn't tried it since.

"Tail End Charlie" is the car ahead of you on the expressway whose tail and stop lights didn't work when he suddenly stopped. He is responsible for many rear end collisions simply because he doesn't know his lights are faulty. Right now, every motorist in he State of Michigan can get his ights checked -- free. From Frilay, August 25, through the Labor Day weekend, as a part of Secretary of State James M. Hare's "Tail End Charlie" road safety campaign, every service station in the State will give all motorists a free tail and stop light inspection. All major oil companies are participating.

Just The Berries for Good Eatin'

Aw shucks, you can't blame a guy for tasting his "fruits of labor."
Besides, there'll be enough of these berries left for Mom to make a couple of pies and maybe a batch of mouthwatering muffins to boot. Whether in a pie, out of the hand, or whatever, there's no doubt about it---blueberries make mighty fine eating. Thousands of pickers, young and old, will be trying to fill their pails and baskets with these smacking good berries during July and August. Swamps will be their most productive sites in the southern lower peninsula. In the upper and northern lower peninsulas, blueberries are commonly found in dry, sandy plains or in moist woods and swamps. Pickers are cautioned against trespassing on private property and reminded that berries are free for the taking in state property and reminded that berries are free for the taking in state game areas and state forests covering some 4,000,000 acres in Michigan.--Mich. Copies of the resolution were DiSalle of Ohio with a letter which stressed the common interests shared by these states in the matters of highway safety and promotion of tourist travel.

Elimination of the need for "back-to-school" rush by late summer vacationers is seen as a means of separating these tryelers from the crowds returning after the Labor Day weekend holiday. Extension of the valuable summer tourist season will give a boost to the states' economies and, in Michigan, provide a windfall of sales tax revenues to the local school districts. Minnesota, Ontario and Wisconsin are fellow members with Michigan in the Northern Great Lakes Area Council of tourist organizations and are expected to look favorably on the proposal.

The scope of our examination Revolving funds: was not extended to include the child accounting records of the school system. However, State aid payments which were based on such child accounting $ 289,409.92 records were confirmed directly by us from the State authorities. We also inspected a letter from the County superintendent of schools which stated that they had audited the child accounting records during the period and found that they were "correct and comply with the laws of the State of Michigan".

In our opinion, the accompanying statement of fund balances and statements of receipts and disbursements present fairly the financial position of Clarkston Community Schools at June 30, 1961, and the results of its operations for the year then ended. SAFE DRIVING TIPS

Common detriments to an enjoyable late summer vacation include rainy weather, mosquito bites, and driving home in Labor Day traffic. The Institute for Safer Living of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company urges returning vacationists to avoid the last minute traffic rush which inevitable occurs at the end of the Labor Day weekend. It's a tiresome way to end a vacation, and there is greater risk of becoming a holiday accident statistic.

Have Car—Will Travel

Just pack the car and go — sums up the vacation plans of millions of American families each year. If this is your year to "hit the road" family-style, you may welcome these timely tips from the Noxzema Consumer Service—designed to make your travels sunnier—and safer!

Think Ahead: Working out your trip in advance is not only practical, but can be loads of fun in the anticipation. You'll be sure not to miss a thing if you ask friends who've been there to outline high spots for you. Children love to share in the planning stages—travel better later when they know what's Stop Often: Long unrelieved stretches of driving are boring and they sap your energy as well. Stop often along the way for sight-seeing, snacks, just plain stretching. Bring a ball and enjoy a ten-minute game of catch—it's an exercise break that really restores your pep.

Play Games: You can make them up as you go along and you'll find they're a first rate way of keeping the children interested. Urge them to count horses or cows—or identify license plates or trees-and-flowers along the way. Keep adults alert with brain teasers such as naming all 50 states, state capitals, etc.

Be Prepared: Little emergencies are bound to crop up on any vacation trip. You can treat insect bites, minor burns and scrapes most effectively with a new first-aid cream called Nozain—really a "first-aid kit in a tube." So safe and pleasant to use, it works three ways—as an anesthetic to relieve pasking as a production of the best body sore a safe and treatment of the safe and t ing—as soothing medication to help heal sore skin—as an antiseptic to help prevent infection, inhibit the growth and spread of common skin germs. Note to sight-seers: it also cools and soothes tired aching feet-fast!

FOR THAT "UNSINKABLE" FEELING!

When it comes to seasickness, this fetching, nautical miss is literally unsinkable unlike some would-be sailors of the past such as Emperor Napoleon I, the famous landlubber.

But, Napoleon and other heroic historical figures couldn't rely on anti-motion sickness drugs to make their outings go swimmingly as can Miss Lynn Gay Lorino (above) of the cast of the hit Broadway play, "The Unsinkable Molly Brown."

The emergence of these drugs is a comparatively recent medical development. Leading men of history did not have such protection against nausea and other discomfort and thus met their Waterloo on the high seas. Napoleon, a mighty general on terra firma, failed to conquer "mal de mer." Because of his sensitivity to motion, he proved to be an abominable sailor and spent most of his voyage time abed. Seasickness was the time abed. Seasickness was the thing abed. Seasickness was the hand for clear sailing and that scourge of the Spanish conquistadores and laid low many of the Portuguese global navigators. Recognition of the malady dates far back into history and is recorded in ancient literature. The famous Roman statesman, Cicero, wrote he would "rather be killed than again suffer the tortures of nausea maris. possibly the most famous seasickness case in literature is Ulysses of the Homeric epic.

But, today, the American boating public, which numbers six million owners of pleasure crafts and countless others who charter for fishing and excursions, can travel comfortably in even turbulent waterways thanks to such drugs as Bonadettes. One non-prescription, fruit-flavored Bonadettes tablet, for instance, affords up to 24hour protection against seasickness and other forms of motion

"unsinkable" feeling.

Drivers who have been reading about the country's population explosion may find a part of it on the streets this fall when thousands of youngsters will be trooping to school for the first time. According to the Institute for Safer Living of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company, motorists must do their share toward protecting young children. Always slow down when entering a school area. Make sure that you can stop if a child suddenly darts in front of you.

"We're leaving for a three weeks' vacation soon, and while we're away our home will be locked up. I'm concerned about possible loss from fire or theft since there will be no one around to discover it until too late. Will you check our insurance and see if we need to add any coverage to be able to enjoy our vacation without this worry?"
