reached Michigan and saw nothing but dense forests and dangerous swamps, wished themselves back East; and only the fact that they were too tired and poor to make the return trip kept them here. But Patty Vliet, when she clambered down from the ox drawn wagon with her seven tired and hungry children, in that late afternoon in April, 1833, decided it was useless to complain and too late to turn back. She had only time for the briefest glance at the densely wooded spot in Independence Township that her husband had brought her to before she set about building a fire to warm the children. As William Vliet unspanned the oxen, Patty took stock of their food supplies. They were almost depleted and she was aware of the struggle ahead of them thru the summer until they managed to harvest a crop. When her husband came back to camp, inquiring about supper, Patty suggested that he try his luck fishing in the nearby lake. William tired and worn from the long trip was astounded. "I have no fishline," he reminded her. "Then take my clothesline!" Patty told him. "I still don't have a hook," he demurred. To which she answered, "Take a hook from steelyard and sharpen it up." "And what about bait?" At that, Patty took a pair of shears and snipped a piece of red flannel from her own petticoat and silently handed it to her husband. Out of excuses, William reluctantly made his way back to the lake while Patty, taking a coal from the bonfire, lit up her pipe and settled back to wait. In a short while, William came hurrying back, carrying a huge pike which he estimated to weigh 20 pounds. Holding it up for the admiration of his children, he proudly announced "My family will never go hungry in Michigan." During the years ahead, the Vliets had many occasions to depend on the wild life in the streams and forests around them to feed themselves and their children. Getting food was for the pioneers, of first and foremost consideration.

The Indians around Independence Township in the 1830's were not so much a danger as a nuisance. They rarely went on the war path, but every year the Ojibways & the Chipewas came from their northern Michigan wigwams down the Saginaw Trail to Detroit to collect their treaty money. And coming or going, they tried to beg food from the cabins on the way. The first time one of these savages slipped into the door of her cabin and fiercely demanded, "Napanee and cushagun" (bread and tea), Patty Vliet had hastened to feed them. But finally, the chore of placating them was stripping the family larder and she put her mind to work to find a way to outwit them. It just wasn't good sense to antagonize the Indians by deliberately refusing to feed them, but at last Patty hit on a scheme. The next time the Indians were due to appear, she hung a huge kettle of boiling water on the fire place with a big dipper nearby, and when she heard "Napanee & cushagun" shouted at her from the doorway, she turned her back and almost casually, tossed a dipper of the boiling water over her shoulder. There was a sudden scuffle and an exclamation "Heap bad squaw!"

Start at the rear of this Fleetside pickup. Grab the tailgate and pull hard. No give. Two wedge latches keep it tight. Now unfasten them and let down the gate. Jump up and down on it. Does it sag? Notice how the chains are wrapped in rubber so they won't rattle or mar paint.

Now look at the lower side panels. Two walls. You might dent the inside one but it won't show through. The floor will never rust. It's select wood, not metal.

Now please sit in the cab a minute. Comfortable? It also is double walled and the roof is insulated. Let's start 'er up and look for a washboard road. Chevrolet coil-spring suspensions fight road shock better than other types, good for the truck, load and the driver. There are other things. January 17th Is Detroit Edison's Sixtieth Birthday

Ever since 1903... for all of the sixty years of our company's corporate life... people like those pictured here have enjoyed the responsibility of serving people like you. You can find your Edison man (or, in one case, a woman) on this map near the place where you live. He is one of the managers of the 10 districts and 51 customer offices outside of Detroit. And, of course, he's only one of many Edison men—and women—who serve you. Also essential are the linemen, the power plant and substation operators, the meter men, the appliance servicemen, the engineers, the builders and planners and clerks and record-keepers—each and every one of the 9,500 men and women of Detroit Edison.

Like the neighborhood people shown here, all of Edison's people throughout the communities of Southeastern Michigan are doing their best to help you to live better and better... electrically.

Guidance Corner

by Terry Thomas

A guidance program should be thought of as a program of services — services intended for each pupil in school. The guidance program should also include services for members of the teaching staff and for parents. To divide all the services into categories would be an impossibility because of the variety of individual services offered. The following are what we feel to be the major services offered in a guidance program. 1. The Information Service. 2. The Student Inventory Service. 3. The Counseling Service. 4. The Follow-up Service. Our next four articles will describe these four major areas. This will be in better position to utilize them. CLARKSTON HIGH SCHOOL GUIDANCE LIBRARY PROGRAM We know that students seek information from their parents in formulating plans for the future. Many parents are not aware of the changes which have taken place in college admission prices, apprenticeship programs regarding the skilled trades, business school programs, etc. Parents therefore, should have up to date information regarding the educational and vocational areas. Some students will wait until their senior year before they visit with a counselor to discuss their plans upon graduation. On many occasions they find the information they received from their parents, friends or neighbors was incorrect. This can handicap a student especially when he did not take particular subjects while in high school, which he finds he needs in order to enter an advanced training program. He never took the proper sequence of subjects because someone told him that it was not necessary. Because of the need for parents to have current information regarding vocational and educational information we have organized a special library program dealing with guidance materials. These materials are available on a free loan basis. The following materials are available to any parent, student or special groups in the Clarkston Community School District: 1. 33 1/2 RPM LONG PLAYING RECORDS 2. Financing a College Education. 3. When You Visit A College. 4. College Admission. FILM STRIPS 1. Choose the Right College. 2. When You Visit A College. II The Following Tape Recordings Are Also Available. 1. Discussion with graduates of Clarkston High School who are now juniors in college. Discussion involves study habits, scheduling of one's time, use of the library, homework. Differences between high school and college, in regard to classroom routine, grading procedures, English Themes. 2. Dentistry as a Career — Dr. Harold Ford. 3. Nursing as a Career — Mrs. M. Kelchner-Public Health Nurse.

CLARKSTON AREA

By JOHN D. KAMEGO, Manager

IF YOUR CLUB, SCHOOL, church or civic group is planning a program, the new Bell System film, "TELSTAR," could be just what your Program Chairman is looking for. This 27-minute film, in color, is a dramatic on-the-scene story of the development, launching, and history-making performance of the world's first active communications satellite. Narrated by Alexander Scourby, the film is available on loan, without charge, from our business office.

WE "THINK SMALL." The Telstar satellite, only 3 1/4 inches in diameter, contains 15,000 components. Size was certainly important in designing it. When it comes to our regular telephone equipment, we look for ways to make parts and components smaller, too. It takes a lot of equipment to make your telephone work... a single call can involve thousands of electrical switches. Since buildings are needed to house this equipment, savings in space mean savings in money. Making equipment smaller requires less material, and that saves money too. This "miniaturization" is just one of the many ways we strive to do things better and more efficiently, so you get more for your telephone dollar.

1963 RAMBLER WINS "CAR OF THE YEAR" AWARD

from Motor Trend Magazine

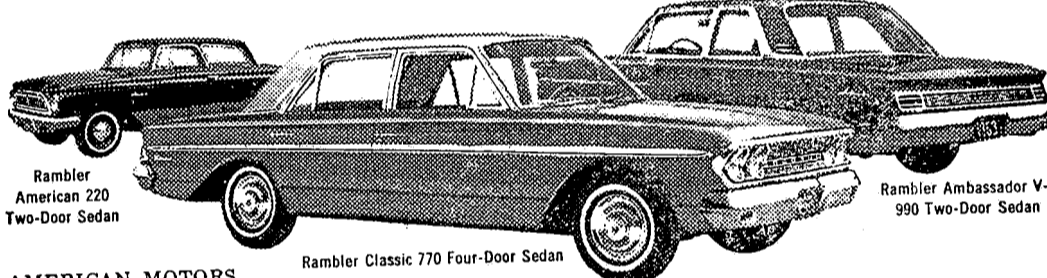

Each year the automobile industry eagerly awaits the selection of one car as "Car of the Year" by Motor Trend's impartial experts. For 1963, this most-wanted, hardest-to-get honor goes to Rambler... "for outstanding design achievement and engineering leadership." Read why Rambler won this prized award over all other cars.

Here are some of the experts' reasons:

- "New styling is based on lean, clean lines that are apparent from almost any angle."
"Motor Trend's Cars of the Year prove their mettle in actual testing, confirm their engineering excellence, reliability, sturdiness and performance."
"Quality has always been one of American Motors' largest selling points."
"In unitized bodies, which American Motors pioneered, this latest design represents a real advancement... biggest single reason we chose Rambler Car of the Year."
"This new construction method results in a unit so strong it'll take punishment longer and naturally hold its resale value."
"The interiors of both the Classic and Ambassador are roomy and comfortable... offer plenty of legroom."

- "A good safety device. Self-adjusting brakes and dual master cylinders... if one system fails, the other brings the car to a safe stop."
"Trunk is large. Low loading lip makes it simple to load."
"Our Classic... with the rugged, ohv-in-line Six... gave a high of 26.7 mpg highway cruising... mixed city and freeway gave 23.4."
"A sportier, more performance-oriented vehicle, the Ambassador V-8 should satisfy the wants of the Rambler buyer who favors performance."
"There isn't any pitch or choppiness noticeable even on rough roads."
"Summing up... it looks like the new Rambler will be an even better buy than it has been in previous years."
Why don't you look at the 1963 Rambler? Best-selling Rambler ever built!
