Letters to the Editor Man Drowns in Mill Pond

Clarkston, Michigan
May 3, 1964

The Editor, The Clarkston News
Clarkston, Michigan

In a press release from the first American Medical Association Congress on Environmental Health on May 2, 1964, "septic tanks" were frowned upon and "out-of-sight out-of-mind disposal of wastes to the underground may before long catch up with us" was warned.

One doctor said, "We must face the fact that households are discharging into the sources of our drinking water vast quantities of household chemicals."

A concluding statement was "that even the Great Lakes could be destroyed by eutrophication if the process is not reversed".

We do not have proper sewage and refuse (recently demonstrated) disposal facilities for over-development in the Clarkston area. We need to keep outlying areas agricultural. We might well emulate the recent projection made by the United States government in the division of large farms into 10 acre plots. Let us not continue to make mistakes.

Very truly yours
Another who cares

This is a plea to who ever is putting Open Letter to Whom it May Concern:

This is a plea to who ever is putting out poison for animals either on M-15 or Allen Road between Rautalee Lake Road and Oakhill. If you ever watched an animal suffer the slow death that what ever poison you use inflicts, I think you would think twice before putting out any more. I know, I just watched our cat die such a death.

If your so hard hearted that you can't stand animals around, shoot them, hit them over the head or any quick death - but please no more poison. And may God forgive you.

Everyone interested in this program is welcome to attend. The 12:00 luncheon will be served by the May hostesses.

'Bobbins' from Bob

A Clarkston News subscriber recently paid me a visit to voice his opinion of the 'Letter to the Editor' last week. Our conversation ended with him suggesting that the old hotel be rebuilt where the parking lot now stands; the bank restore itself back to the old 'cage' windows; street lights should be removed and gas lamps installed; then a sign should be erected telling of 'A trip through an old fashion town - only 25c.'

Although much study and many changes are necessary to bring our village and township zoning ordinances up to date, progress is here to stay.

$441,321 worth of building permits were issued at the Independence Township office in April alone. A $231,000 (approx.) building permit was granted for the building of three apartment houses just off Dixie Highway on Van Norman Lake.

A new subdivision sprang up south of Clarkston practically overnight. In the last two years at least twelve new business establishments or churches have been constructed.

The expressway south of town has been and will continue to be a large factor in the growth of this township.

After seeing several trailers loaded with trash heading for the Township dump last Sunday evening, it seems advisable that the hours of the dump be brought to the attention of our subscribers. Wednesday thru Sunday hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. The dump is closed Monday and Tuesday. Although no garbage is permitted, nor is burning.

As an act of courtesy if nothing else, it would be appreciated if people hauling trash in trailers, trucks or open trunks would cover the hauling containers with canvas or other materials to prevent litter from marking their trail. This is known as littering and a state fine can be charged if one is caught or turned in.

As long as the Jaycee's will be picking up household discards this weekend for their auction next week-end it would seem like a good opportunity for them to remove their 'Junker car' from the village. It is becoming an 'eye sore.'

The drowning in the Mill Pond Sunday night certainly proved the efficiency of our Independence Township Fire Department and the Water Safety Division of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department. The victim was recovered in less than an hour after the report came in of the drowning. Congratulations fellas.

GIRL SCOUTS TO HOLD MOTHER AND DAUGHTER BANQUET

The Clarkston Girl Scout Mother and daughter banquet will be held at the Clarkston Junior High school tonight, May 7th.

The program will include a film entitled, "This is girl scouting". There will also be group singing and a skit presented by the girl scouts.

Approximately 300 girl scouts and their mothers will attend.

Kennedy Savings Bonds

A reminder that the new $75 series E United States savings bond, bearing the portrait of the late President Kennedy, will go on sale May 1, came today from Alfred C. Girard, County Savings Bonds chairman.

Girard said that, due to the heavy anticipated demand for the new bond, many banks and other issuing agents throughout the nation will accept orders before May 1 from those purchasers who may desire an early date of issue to appear in the validating stamp.

Martell, 21, of 39 Blaine; and Jerry Edgar 21, of 116 Euclid, all of Pontiac, told Police they decided to go swimming after returning to Thomas' home from a bowling banquet.

Thomas had been in the water for about five minutes when he began screaming for help, his companions said, but the darkness made it impossible to locate him.

The Independence Township Fire Department assisted in the search with rescue boats and spotlights.

Vows Spoken by Fireplace

Francois Burger was married Saturday evening, May 2, to Arthur McClelland of Walled Lake. The wedding took place in the home of her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Pike of 6410 Paramus. Reverend Lewis Sutton performed the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. before the fireplace which was decorated by a huge spray of white gladiolus, candelabra, and palms.

Mary Lou Albright, daughter of the groom, attended Francoise at the altar and Everett Pike served as best man.

The bride carried a nose gay of variegated red and white carnations centered with a red carnation. Her gold dress was simply cut and she wore red accessories.

Mary Upward served the four tiered wedding cake at the open house for close friends and relatives following the ceremony Mrs. Ralph Jones attended the guest book and Gennifere Pike was in charge of the couples gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. McClelland who will live at Walled Lake, plan a delayed wedding trip to be taken in June. She has a son and family and he has a daughter and family in California and they will visit them at that time.

Jaycees to Cover Township this Week-end

The Clarkston Area Jaycees will be going door-to-door this Saturday, May 9, looking for articles to sell at their auction the following Saturday, May 16.

According to Paul Wilmot, co-chairman for the auction, an all out drive to cover the Township of Independence will begin this Saturday morning at 10:00 A.M.

The Jaycees will meet in the parking lot downtown where several member members have donated the use of their trucks. They will then divide into teams and start door to door covering the Township seeking anything of value for their auction.

Residents of the area are asked to look around their attic, garage or basement for discarded articles which they wish to donate to the Jaycees. Anyone with articles to donate who will not be home on Saturday, or who would like them picked up before Saturday, please call Paul Wilmot at MAPLE 5-2508 or Jim Gardner, co-chairman, at MAPLE 5-1385, and they will have articles picked up when ever you choose.

The auction will begin at 10:30 in the vacant lot in the center of Clarkston, Saturday, May 16. There will be seats available for early arrivals and a professional auctioneer will be on hand. The Jaycees refreshment wagon will also be on the scene.

According to Mr. Wilmot, articles, such as automatic washers, an electric stove, and power lawn mowers, have been donated.

Largest Settlement Reached Out of Court

A $300,000.00 settlement, reached out of court in the Barret Edward Smith suit against Michigan Producers Dairy Company and Loren H. Davis, the company's driver of a semi-truck and tractor, was followed April 30 by an order from Wayne County Circuit Judge Joseph A. Moynihan, Jr., dismissing the suit with prejudice and without costs. The settlement was the highest ever reached in Michigan, and one of the highest in the country.

The Smith suit was filed in June of 1962 by the firm of Houston and McLay of Waterford Township. Smith a viola player in the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, was struck from behind by the company's truck while returning from Ann Arbor to Detroit about midnight May 21, 1962. His car was stopped in the right hand lane of I-94 just east of Belleville Road behind a stalled car in the same lane, a 1963 Ford. Smith did not turn out into the fast (passing) lane because he was aware of lights from vehicles approaching his rear. One of the vehicles, a milk products transport, instead of either stopping or turning into the fast lane, plowed into the rear of Smith's Volkswagen and, in turn, drove it into the rear of the Ford which was propelled all the way to the fence at the side of the freeway.

Smith suffered severe injuries which almost completely paralyzed him, and will remain a quadriplegic the rest of his life, according to medical specialists of the Rehabilitation Institute of Detroit, Inc. and other doctors.

The Lesson will conclude with these lines, from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The great truth in the Science of being, that the real man was, is, and ever shall be perfect, is incontrovertible; for if man is the image, reflection, of God, he is neither inverted nor subverted, but upright and God-like" (p. 200).

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

Last year, I asked the Michigan Youth Commission to draw up a complete blueprint of state and local services for "vulnerable" children and youth.
 The report recently submitted by the commission is the most definitive effort so far to survey the many problems of delinquent and potentially delinquent youth.
 Among the ideas which clearly emerged from the report was this: If we wish to deal effectively with the problems of youth offenders, we must concentrate on prevention, as well as rehabilitation.
 If we want to keep young people from becoming youth offenders, we must first prevent juvenile delinquency. To prevent juvenile delinquency, we must see that children have ample opportunity for constructive use of their leisure time, and learn to use it well.
 In addition, we must be sure that there are enough employment opportunities to go around, because without productive employment a young person is likely to turn to unlawful means of livelihood. But in order for a boy or girl to get a job, he must have skills and training — and that means education. He must have the "sound mind in a sound body" that will enable him to take advantage of educational and employment opportunities, and if he suffers from physical or mental handicaps, help will require special care and training.

 In the last analysis, however, the most important things a child must have are motivation, goals, and standards of behavior — and these come basically from the family.
 Without a strong and secure family to grow up in, a child starts life with two strikes against him, and all our efforts to help him mature into a decent and productive member of the community are that much less likely to succeed.
 Another thread that runs through the commission's recommendations is the need to coordinate and mobilize our total community resources to solve the problems of our youth.
 The role of government — federal, state and local — is a vital one, as the report indicates. But government alone cannot do the job.
 We all need to work together — government, private agencies, civic organizations, and volunteer citizens — and most important, we need to work in harmony.
 Above all, the report stresses the necessity of concentrating our

Budget Tips For The Worlds Fair

More than 400,000 Michiganians will be among the 35 million tourists who flock to the New York World's Fair this summer, predicts Jerry E. Fisher, Automobile Club of Michigan touring manager. This is the largest number of Michiganians ever to attend any single attraction in history.
 New York's biggest show of all time opens April 22, signaling the influx of tourists which will continue through October 18.
 The location is the original site of the 1939-40 World's Fair at Flushing Meadows, Queens, in the center of metropolitan New York. It's nine miles east of Times Square, opposite Manhattan, six miles from John F. Kennedy International Airport (formerly Idlewild) and two miles from LaGuardia Airport.
 The Fair's bigness literally staggers the imagination. It is as large as your first county fair midway looked to you but wasn't.
 Imagine a grassy, tree-shaded, fountain-splashed area 17 football fields long and 17 wide. Suddenly it is filled so no corner looks empty, with buildings varying in efforts on preventive programs wherever possible.
 We cannot afford to forget that any major city can spawn delinquents faster than the state of Michigan can build facilities to house and rehabilitate them.
 If we are going to solve any of the problems of youth, we must act vigorously to stop them before they start, or our battle will be lost.

shape from a huge eggshell and a rectangular box to a graceful Oriental temple.
 The Fair will provide a peek into future industrial and scientific miracles in everything from your home kitchen to space ship travel. It'll sell products and brag of U.S. accomplishments, offer fun and religion, food and fantasy, entertainment and education — all in liberal doses. In short, it'll sell the image of progress.
 A visitor will be able to do everything from whizzing overhead on a monorail, looking down on the Fair, to scooting along on the ground in a private golf-cart-like vehicle. (Made in Michigan by Battle Creek's Clark Equipment Co.) One can eat a full 10-course meal for $15 or make do on a hot dog or hamburger. There are 113 restaurants, ranging from snack bars to the fanciest of eateries. featured is everything from Hong-kongburger (hamburger and noodles) served from a motorized rickshaw to a three-hour luau at the Hawaiian pavilion.
 What'll it cost to see the Fair? "The average tourist can expect to spend at least $20 to $22 a day," says Fisher. This doesn't include transportation. AAA estimates the average family of four, two adults and two children, using an automobile for transportation, can expect to spend approximately $350 for three days at the Fair. This includes expense both ways. Those who want to do sightseeing around New York City can expect this to cost around $25 a day.
 From Detroit, the distance to Ohio, Pennsylvania and New Jersey is 673 miles by the seamy turnpikes, and by the Windsor Buffalo-Albany route, 740 miles.

 Driving time from Detroit via the United States is some 13 hours. By the Canadian route it's at least 15 hours.
 Once in New York City, sleeping accommodations become the biggest daily expense. The average motel costs $18 to $24 daily for two persons, a hotel $14 to $34 for two.
 Plan to spend at least another $3.50 to $4.50 daily for parking unless the motel offers this free, Fisher advises. At the Fair grounds, parking will cost another $1.50 a day.
 "Motel and hotel accommodations should be made at least two months in advance," says Fisher. "And don't forget to make reservations along the route, both going and returning."
 The Auto Club needs two weeks to make New York reservations, according to Fisher, adding that the prospective visitor should be ready to forward on to three nights lodging costs in advance to confirm reservations.
 Where to stay in New York depends largely upon how the visitor gets there — by car, rail or air.
 For those going by automobile, accommodations in midtown Manhattan, Flushing or Brooklyn are recommended. Those who want to see the sights of New York City in addition to the Fair should strongly consider Manhattan's advantages while LaGuardia or Kennedy air terminal accommodations are convenient for those who go by air.

 Food is the second most expensive daily item. A light breakfast or lunch costs only 25 cents — if you like doughnuts and coffee. It jumps to $1.50 if you're partial to ham and eggs. Automat lunches are available under $1. Just to be practical, however, put down $1.50 to $2 for lunch.
 Dinner, as everywhere, is the most expensive meal. If you want to eat in one of New York's or the Fair's better restaurants, it will cost at least $10 a person. Other places a complete steak dinner costs only $1.19. But for an average dinner, figure around $2.50.
 The day's expenses also should include transportation in and around New York City and admission to the Fair grounds.
 From Manhattan, the bus fare is $1 and the IRT subway 15 cents. From Brooklyn, the subway is 20 cents. Both LaGuardia and Kennedy airports will have limousine service for 50 and 80 cents respectively. These are one-way fares, one person.
 The Flushing area is within walking distance to the Fair.
 Upon arrival at the entrance, the gate fee is $2 for adults and $1 for children to age 13. Unless, of course, you've purchased admission tickets in advance of the opening at a discount.
 Money spent at the Fair is expected to average $7.20 for each adult and $5.45 for children, AAA figures. This includes food, admission and 30 cents subway fare.

Mothers Plan Strawberry Festival

Mothers of coeds at Bloomfield Country Day School will meet Thursday, April 30 from 3 to 5 p.m. at the Bloomfield Hills home of Mrs. Robert C. VanderKloot for a preview of their forthcoming "Strawberry Festival."

Mothers attending from the Clarkston area include Mrs. Thomas H. Wilson, 8555 Clement Road, Clarkston; Mrs. Richard M. Spitzley, 1100 Mead Road, Rochester, Mrs. A. James Stirling, 5988 Delano Road, Oxford.

Mrs. VanderKloot, a founder of the private school for girls, will also host more than 100 alumnae, friends, faculty and mothers of prospective students.

Daily-decorated booths will only give a small sample of what's to come at the "good old-fashioned fun day" slated for Saturday, May 16 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the school grounds, 1050 East Square Lake Road, Bloomfield Hills. Booths include:

The Botique, where handmade items abound, from the highly useful to the merely decorative. Look for strawberry-trimmed towels, big-enough-for-a-barbecue apron, framed patio bricks and unique hat stands.

The Baked Goods Booth, where tempting goodies will feature strawberries, of course!

The Farm & Garden Booth, featuring patio mits, "green thumb" gloves, fresh geraniums, artificial flower decorations, strawberry soaps.

The Parcel Post Booth, where surprise gifts from 'round the world can be bought.

Thieves Market — a better-than-ever White Elephant Sale.

Features for the youngsters include pony cart and tugboat rides, all sorts of games and loads of strawberry-filled goodies.

Students at Bloomfield Country Day will offer samples of their artistic ability, such as paintings as sculpture, to their guests.

Night Golf now at Country Club

Local golfers' dilemma of not enough hours to play and extremely congested courses has been solved for the first time with the opening here of Pontiac area's first lighted, par-3 length golf course and complete golf center. The pioneering lighting installation seems certain to trigger a local trend to golf at night, the only weekday time usually available for recreation.

Waterford Hills Country Club on the Dixie Highway in Clarkston, has lighted its new, nine hole, par-3 golf course which measures 1100 yards and plays to a par 27. The lush course is the first local course to be illuminated. Along with the golf course there is, also lighted for night play, a 300 yard, 40-tee driving range and an 18-hole miniature golf course. Also, the finishing touches are being put on a regulation size 9-hole course of which the last two holes are presently being lighted so that the golfers can gain an extra 30 to 45 minutes of play.

The driving range is available to players wanting to concentrate on tee shots or sharpen their entire game by hitting woods at the range and then irons and putts on the par-3. A green is situated 150 yards out on the range for those who wish to practice irons from this facility. The range is lighted with a combination of mercury and filament General Electric floodlights placed on 35-foot metal poles. The intense lighting allows you to follow the flight of the balls no matter how far you hit them. Also, the 35-ft. mounting height helps keep the bugs away.

Club manager Robert Schmude said he figures to draw the multitude of area golfers who want to avoid the weekend waits or who want to play during the week, after work and dinner. This could make golf as much a local nighttime endeavor as bowling, baseball, softball, football, and all other spectator and participant sports, he added.

Mr. Schmude said that Waterford Hills Country Club decided to light up after determining that night golf is technically feasible and greatly needed. From the need standpoint he explains that during the past five years on the national level the already overcrowded game has experienced a 60% rise in the number of golfers. During the same period there's been only a 20% increase in facilities. Since figures on the local level are even more disturbing, Waterford Hills Country Club decided that the obvious decision must be to light the new golf course and add golfing hours.

The technical feasibility is shown by the 57 General Electric 1000-watt mercury floodlights which project about 10 "footcandles" on the tees and greens and 5 "footcandles" on the fairway. Most main downtown streets are lighted to one "footcandle."

The course has a number of traps, large rolling greens with tricky pin placements, along with many trees and bushes, making the course not too easy to play. The beauty of the scenic course is not marred by the lighting because all wiring is underground. The steel poles help to make the lighting almost unnoticeable in the daytime. They are smaller in diameter and give a much neater appearance than the customary wood poles and the poles, painted green, blend in to the landscape. To the best that can be determined, this is one of the first installations of nighttime golf using metal poles.

The power is being supplied by Detroit Edison and the electrical installation was handled by Rogers Electrical Service of 2256 Dixie Highway, Pontiac, based on lighting layouts and recommendations supplied by General Electric Company's sales engineers.

Mr. Glen Rogers, owner of Rogers Electrical Service and President of Waterford Hills Country Club, was very determined to make this golf center with its outdoor lighting one of the finest in the country. He sees nothing but success in store for their pioneering venture of golf at night. He thinks many local golfers will soon be playing at least one round per week at night - to the chagrin of many a daytime golf widow!

Court Case

The $300,000.00 was paid in three parts: $250,000.00 by Employers Group; the company insurer, $10,000.00 by I.A.A.; and $40,000.00 by the company itself.

Born into a Detroit musical family, Smith left Cass Technical High School in his junior year to join the North Carolina Symphony where he was violist and concert master at the age of 17. He played the next two years with the Minneapolis Symphony before joining the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, and was on his way toward filling the next vacancy in the viola section of the Boston Symphony if all went well. He is now 24 years of age and can never again play any musical instrument.

Joseph Silverstein, former Detroit and now Concert Master of the Boston Symphony, said in a deposition that Smith displayed "the most outstanding command of the viola that I have ever heard up to that time by a man of his age."

Mischa Mischakoff, Concert Master of the Detroit Symphony, said, "In a year or two he could have been the first chair player for any major symphony in the country."

Nathan Gordon, First Viola in the Detroit Symphony, said in his deposition that he was "good enough to join any major symphony orchestra in this country or in the world."

Associate Conductor of the Detroit Symphony, Walter Poole, said, "Mr. Smith was an outstanding talent among good players in the Detroit Symphony Orchestra."

Smith appeared in Judge Moynihan's court in a wheelchair last Thursday, April 30. The Judge had requested the showing of a movie of the rehabilitation treatment, a 25 minute, 16 mm film produced and narrated by Smith's attorneys, supplemented by Hope Smith Dewey, Barrett's mother. After watching the films of Barrett's arduous six months at the Rehabitation Institute, Judge Moynihan said: "Your life was spared for a purpose, and that will be what you make it."

His remarkably brilliant musical career ended, shattered because of one agonizing split-second on the freeway, Barrett Smith now hopes to continue his rehabilitation treatment, to complete his education, and to earn what he can as a music arranger, transcriber and composer.
