BIRTH

A daughter Robin Lee was born on July 22nd to Mr. and Mrs. Douglas M. Mowry (Mary Lee Volberding) of Sturgis, Mich. Proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Russell L. Mowry of Sturgis and Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy A. Volberding of Deer Lake Rd.

Obituary

James James Wedel a retired Carpenter of 440 Glass Rd., Brandon Township died July 29 at the age of 82.

Services were held last Thursday at the Lewis E. Wint Funeral Home. Burial followed at Lakeview Cemetery with the Reverend Wayne E. Paterson of Christ Lutheran Church officiating.

Mr. Wedel is survived by a sister Mrs. Katrine Wedel of Denmark and a niece Mrs. Pedersen of Chicago, Illinois.

Clarkston Rotary School Budget To Be Aired

On Monday, July 28 the Clarkston Rotary Club was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Berg at their Saginaw Trail home. Jess who is the owner of Berg Cleaners and a past president of the Clarkston Club opened his home and beautiful swimming pool to over 30 members of the local club. Mrs. Berg served a delicious meal and the only complaint heard by this reporter was that most of the Rotarians were suffering from over-eating.

Did you know that as of the 1st of July, there were 11,804 Rotary clubs and an estimated 534,300 Rotarians in 125 countries. New clubs organized since 1 July 1963, total 266, in 40 countries.

Harvey Johns who for 37 years has been with General Motors Truck and Coach in Pontiac and is head of their plant protection dept. presented a very informative program to Clarkston Rotarians Monday, August 3rd on Alaska. Mr. Johns who has traveled many miles gave a complete and detailed account of what to expect in making a trip to our 49th state.

An open meeting will be held at the Board of Education office Monday, August 10 at 8 p.m. for the purpose of a public hearing on the 1964-65 school budget.

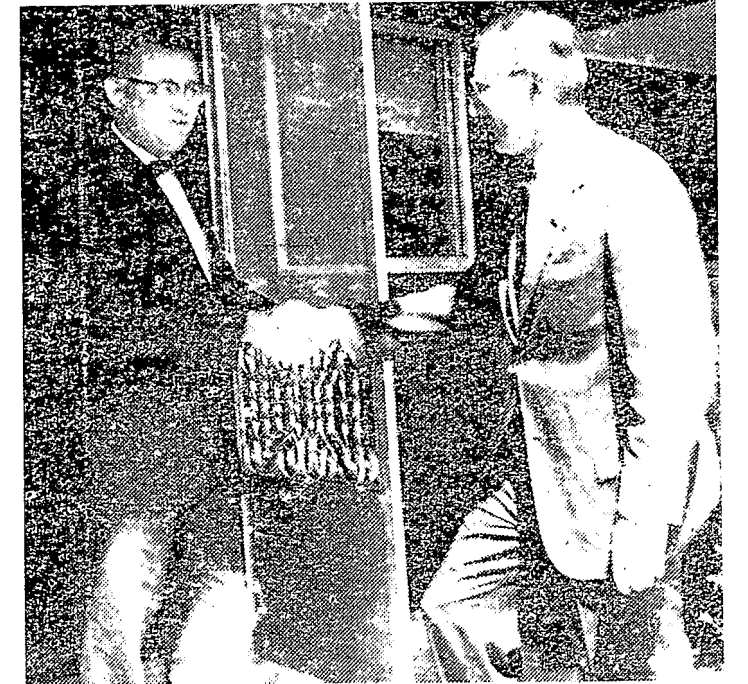

The estimated receipts for the ensuing school year are up $145,000.00 to $2,192,120.00 and the estimated expenditures will increase $125,000.00 to $2,182,000.00.

The additional revenue is the result of an increase in enrollment and a change in the State Aid Formula. There will also be an increase in operation revenue as a result of the Board of Education decision to transfer 2 mills of tax levy from debt to operation.

The total school tax levy for the 1964-65 school year will be decreased by .08 of a mill from 27.39 to 27.31. The tax rate will be divided 11 mills for debt and 16.31 for operation.

A major portion of the increase in expenditures is due to two items, the operation of the new Bailey Lake Elementary will cost approximately $24,000.00 for custodians and utilities and the increased teaching staff will cost an additional $85,000.00.

Bullard's Host Coffee Hour

Approximately twenty-five women attended the morning coffee hour to hear Mr. Dickerson speak briefly on his views and answer a few questions.

Local Democrat Files For Office

John C. Poage

John C. Poage, 6109 Overlook Drive, Clarkston, has announced his candidacy on the Democratic ticket for the office of Independent Township Trustee.

Mr. Poage, married and the father of two daughters, has resided in the Clarkston-Waterford area for the past twelve years. He is employed by the Waterford Township Schools as a teacher of United States History and American government at Waterford-Kettering High School.

Mr. Poage, who is a combat infantry veteran of World War II, is a member of the National Education Association, the Michigan Education Association and the Waterford Education Association. He has held numerous offices in the WEA, most recently as Legislative Chairman.

He holds a Bachelor of Science and Master of Education degrees from Wayne State University.

Mr. Poage, who has long advocated active citizen participation in local community affairs, indicated his candidacy was motivated by a concern to see Independence Township develop in an orderly progressive manner, thereby avoiding the unfortunate consequence of stagnation.

Should Your Boy Play Football?

Editors Note: This is the fifth in a series by Bill Hanson, Line Coach at Clarkston High School.

The young man all dressed up in the game uniforms of a high school football team were not always that large or as self confident as they seem to be. They have continued to grow since infancy and will continue to grow as they move toward their adult years.

During the developmental period of their lives, they have many needs. Almost all of the problems, at this age, relate to the need for affection, for adult approval, for peer approval, for independence, and for self-respect. Actually this list does not exhaust all possible needs of the individual. However Professor Lee J. Cronbach, of Illinois University, feels that this is a representative list if you do not consider physiological needs such as the need for food, need for shelter or a need for sleep.

Through athletics the individual has an excellent opportunity to help satisfy these needs. In this article, I would like to consider the need for adult approval, the need for peer approval and the need for self-respect.

In football, the young man has an excellent opportunity to gain the approval of adults. There are so many things to learn and to improve after they are learned, that the individual, if he is at all conscientious and willing to work on the necessary techniques, will improve in some ways. As this improvement is noted and pointed out by the coach, parents, and spectators, the fellow certainly is gaining the approval of adults.

Many times the major fact that a fellow goes out for football, will gain him a certain amount of peer approval. Youngsters are so eager to accept an individual who has something to contribute. They often have you seen some youngsters ranging off on the edge of a group with no one paying any attention to him? This situation will usually continue until he can show them he can do something. As the individual tries and his accomplishments in an athletic event grow, so will his acceptance by the other youngsters, provided of course, he is otherwise desirable.

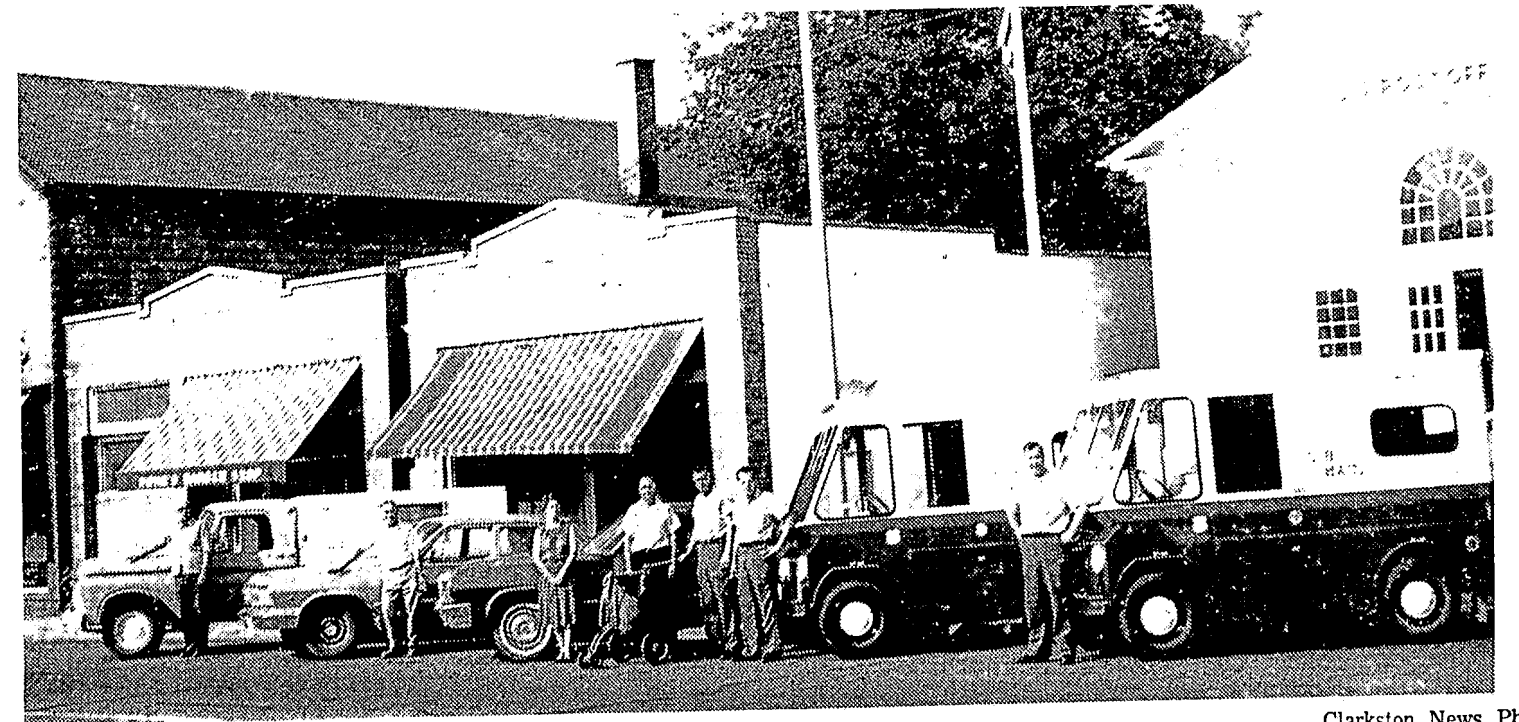

Many young fellows move into high school with a mighty low opinion of their abilities. They have just been through a period of hav-

BEFORE: This picture, taken around 1920, shows post office facilities as they used to be in Independence Township. Serving a population of approximately 2500 were: (from left) Lorene Chestnut, Julia Smith, Albert Hammond, E. Waterbury, Elmer Vliet, Postmaster John Smith and John Hammond, father of the present Postmaster Elizabeth Ronk. The Postmaster of the first office in Independence Township (location known only as section 15) was Thomas Johnson. From 1862 to 1870 Guy Seldon was Postmaster; from 1870 to 1877, Sarah P. Seldon; and in 1877 to ?, Mrs. Phoebe J. Abbey.

In 1900 the post office moved into what is now O'Dell Drug Store with John Smith as Postmaster. Moving to the present Standard Oil Co. on Washington in 1920 the PM was Charles Myers. Four years later the present Clarkston Shoe Service building became the new home of the post office until 1936 with Floyd Andrews as PM. Mrs. Elizabeth Ronk, present Postmaster, took her job in 1936 when the office was moved to its present location, the former Township Offices building. (Note: All above dates approximate.)

Ray Klien. A regular carrier, John Adams was not present for the picture. Other Clarkston P. O. employees are Marlon Lawson and Edith Holcomb, clerks; John Ronk, assistant to the PM; and substitutes, Wilma Ruggles, Edward Rush, Barbara Sutes and Emily (Kay) Bliss.

Clarkston JC's Sponsor Junior Golf

The Junior Golf program, sponsored by the Clarkston Area Jaycees, is in its final week at Waterford Hill Country Club. For the past six weeks twenty-five youngsters have been learning and practicing the fundamentals of golf. Instructors include: Kelly Burnette, Dr. Alfred Hamilton, Dr. Harold Ford, and Frank Ronk.

The Junior Golf program is divided into three parts. The first two weeks were devoted to instruction and practice on the driving range.

The second two weeks were held on the par-3 course and the final two weeks were held on the regulation course.

Through the cooperation of Waterford Hill Country Club it was possible to offer this program at a nominal fee.

Chairman Announced

Mrs. O. F. Foster, 970 Baldwin Rd., Clarkston has been named chairman of the Oakland County Republican Party's "Operation Coffee Cup" in the 1st Campaign District which includes Clarkston, Holly, Ortonville, Oxford, Lake Hills, county-wide Chairman for the operation.

In an effort to give as much "grass roots" exposure as possible to all Republican candidates running for office, Mrs. Foster will be responsible for arranging coffee meetings for the candidates and voters in the homes of Republican and Independent women throughout the district. These meetings will run from 45 minutes to an hour and only one candidate will appear before a group so that attention will be focused on the individual running for the specific office.

Mrs. Foster was hostess in her home on Tuesday, August 4, for all "Coffee Cup" District, City and Township Directors in the County for coffee and a talk by Ely M. Peterson, a Republican candidate for the United States Senate in the September Primary.

Engagement Announced

Adele Helene Lynady

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Lynady of Pear St., announce the engagement of their daughter, Adele Helene, to Mr. Jerry Powell, son of Mrs. Ben Powell and the late Mr. Ben Powell of Orion Rd. Miss Lynady attended the Society of Arts and Crafts in Detroit and Mr. Powell formerly attended Michigan State University in East Lansing.

Know Your Michigan Law

By Attorney General Frank J. Kelly (This is a public service article explaining in general terms a provision of Michigan law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law upon their private legal affairs should consult a private attorney.)

County fair time is just around the corner. While most Michigan citizens will have a good time at the fairs they attend, a few will be fleeced by sellers of merchandise who do not keep their word.

Each year, sellers who do not have a sales tax license issued by the Michigan Department of Revenue, are active in selling goods at the various county fairs. Because most of us generally buy from local merchants who collect the four percent sales tax from us and remit it to the Revenue Department, we may assume that all sellers will do the same. Unfortunately, this is not so.

Complaints received by my office indicate that frequently these out-of-state sellers do not remit any sales tax to the State of Michigan. This happens despite the fact that the buyer of such goods pays the tax to the seller and is assured if will be taken care of.

Michigan law requires the buyers of goods in such instances to pay a use tax equal to the sales tax. The only way to protect yourself in such a sale is to demand to see a copy of the seller's sales tax license. If he has one, you are protected. If he does not, beware.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

The demonstrations and other parts of the continuing struggle for human rights that our country has been experiencing for months will continue to be of significance for some time to come. To help understand today's struggle for human rights, it is helpful to distinguish between two dimensions or phases.

The first phase or first dimension is the drive to eliminate inequalities resulting from deficiencies in public policies or accommodations and other areas. This drive is being conducted, and will continue to be conducted, in the courts, in Congress, in legislatures, in local councils. The goal is to close the discrimination gap, and eventually to eliminate it. The goal is to back up public policy with public authority.

Michigan's public policy in human rights is clear. We have had a public accommodations statute since 1885, and a fair employment practices act since 1955. But both of these were superseded by our new state constitution, which was adopted by a majority vote of the entire electorate, and which spells out an unequalled public policy in human rights. Our state constitution contains the strongest, clearest, most direct statement of civil rights principles in the nation. And our Constitution also creates a bipartisan civil rights commission, with broad powers to deal with problems in education, jobs, public accommodations, housing and any other problem area that may develop in the future. With our new state constitution plus the clearly expressed attitude of the vast majority of our people, Michigan is in an unequalled position to deal peacefully but promptly and without violence or disorder with all shades of problems of human justice and equality.

The second phase or dimension is even more important, and even more difficult. The second phase is to eliminate racial prejudice in the hearts and minds of individuals, because such prejudice is the wellspring of discrimination. This second phase is even more important, because until prejudice is eliminated, public policies and practices will be resisted either openly or silently. And if there were no prejudice, then laws and public acts to enforce the spirit and words of our Declaration of Independence and our United States Constitution would be unnecessary.

The aim of this struggle against prejudice must be to destroy the distorted attitudes and feelings which stifle the aspirations and actions of twenty million Negro American citizens.

To eliminate prejudice requires three basic things:

1. The willingness of all to judge others for what they are as fellow human beings honestly and objectively.
2. The realization of each that respect and recognition cannot be forced, but can only be assured when it is deserved.
3. The readiness to grant this respect and recognition, freely and openly, when it is deserved.

This campaign against prejudice will succeed only insofar as reason prevails. It will succeed only insofar as hatred, however justified it may seem in the mind of the hater, is subdued. For we need only casually glance back at the train of human events to be assured of the futility of fighting hate with hate.

Above all, the campaigns for equal human rights and against prejudice must be campaigns for a principle, and not campaigns against a people.

The need for understanding and good will is a two-way street. Those who are victims of discrimination must recognize that their cause must reach the human heart, and it is usually a trying and unsatisfying journey to the heart and conscience of our fellow man. They must recognize and encourage actions of good will. They must nurture and develop those often unfilling but necessary "steps-in-the-right-direction," not being satisfied and complacent, but alert and understanding.

As Americans, when we recognize a wrong, we frequently go all-out and to excess in trying to right that wrong. This causes me to stress that we cannot pursue civil rights by encouraging civil wrongs.

Guest Editorial

FLEEING FELONS, seeking remote sanctuaries to escape justice for their misdeeds, have always been a perplexing problem to law enforcement. Aside from the obvious threat to public safety and the increased burden on police agencies, these fugitives create other difficulties. For one thing, their success in avoiding capture and punishment encourages others to defy law and order.

Recognizing the growing menace of such far-ranging hoodlums, Congress in 1961 enacted a new law to extend the Fugitive Felon Act. Previously, the FBI could assist local authorities in the investigation and apprehension of fugitives who fled across State lines to avoid prosecution, custody, or confinement for certain specified violations. Under the expanded legislation, the FBI is permitted to work with local and state agencies to effect the apprehension of any fugitive who flees across State lines to avoid prosecution, custody, or confinement after conviction for a crime, or an attempt to commit a crime, punishable by death or which is a felony under the laws of the place from which the fugitive flees.

The significance of the strengthening of this weapon against elusive, fast-moving fugitives can best be illustrated by noting the results attained. During fiscal year 1961 and prior to the action taken by Congress, 1,418 fugitives were located by the FBI for local and State law enforcement agencies. In fiscal year 1963, this number jumped to 2,514, an all-time high.

For example, one large metropolitan police department requested the FBI to assist in the location and arrest of a medical doctor who had fled the State to avoid prosecution for abortion and who was a strong suspect in the murder of the abortion victim. Under the old provisions of the Fugitive Felon Act, the FBI would have been powerless to act, as the crime of abortion was not among the violations specifically named; however, under the new provisions, investigation was initiated immediately. The FBI traced the doctor's flight to a European country, where arrangements were made with foreign authorities for his arrest and extradition. Subsequently, the doctor was convicted in State court on a charge of second-degree murder.

While there has been an appreciable increase in the number of fleeing fugitives located since the Act was expanded, it is believed the full potential of the provision is yet to be realized. In an endeavor to spotlight the maximum effectiveness of this law, a special series of FBI Law Enforcement Conferences is currently being held throughout the country.

In addition to the emphasis being given to fleeing felons, a special feature of the conferences is devoted to a detailed discussion of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (Public Law 88-352). Many police executives have expressed interest in the provisions of the Act and their relationship to law enforcement on all levels. Consequently, our representatives are providing full information pertaining to the FBI's investigative responsibilities under the new legislation. Our inquiries and investigations under this Act are conducted with the same high degree of propriety which has characterized FBI activities in the past, and the results are furnished promptly to the Department of Justice for opinion as to prosecutive action.

These conferences are designed to enhance the effectiveness of law and cooperation in matters of mutual interest and to provide better public protection for every community. By working together and meeting our obligations forthrightly, we can discharge our duties in a manner which will reflect credit in our profession and our Nation.

COMPUTERS HELP US a great deal in providing you with good telephone service. But they can never replace the spirit of service so traditional with telephone people. That spirit is the very human concern which prompts our people to give an extra measure of helpfulness, wherever it's needed. And it's as much a part of Michigan Bell today as it was 'way back before computers were invented.

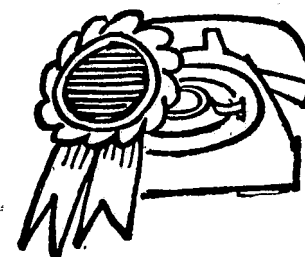

EASY NOW!

Life is so much easier, with a handy extension phone where you work. No more mad dashes to catch the phone in the other room. No more interruptions in your work. The cost? Just pennies a day, after the one-time installation charge. And there's a wide choice of attractive colors to choose from. To order your extension, just call our Business Office or ask your telephone man.

YEARS OF SERVICE—

without a single repair! That's a pretty common story with Bell telephones... even those that take lots of family or business punishment. Toughness is built into your telephone by the engineers at Western Electric, manufacturing and supply unit of the Bell System. They test each phone thoroughly before releasing it for installation in a customer's home. But if your phone ever does need servicing, don't worry. There's no extra charge for repairs!

Offbeat Bugging

POPPING BUGS are light, but bulky, floating lures made of cork, balsa, plastic or clipped deer hair. They are cast with a fly rod, then twitched to make them "pop" and dance at the surface. They are thrilling lures to use, for they stir certain game fish species to murderous attack.

Poppers are made to order for bass fishing, but largely overlooked is the fact that pickerel and northern pike react even more savagely to poppers than do bass. These two species are not often rated as top game fish, but when a long jawed pickerel comes streaking out to explode under a bug, prejudice usually vanishes instantly. And when it's a big brute of a northern pike, the thrills are truly king size, for a big northern hits a bug with a commotion guaranteed to jolt the most seasoned fisherman. And that's the beauty of it: by turning to bugging you get top thrills from two species that are often scorned.

A Gladding Aerofloat fly line is just the ticket for this business, for it will float — and keep floating. This is of vital importance when you're lifting a bulky bug off the water at the end of each retrieve. Gladding shock leaders are also made to order — their reverse tapers beef up diameters right where you need it to keep pickerel and pike from biting off your lures. Ordinary size bass bugs are best for pickerel, but super sizes are needed for big northerns which think nothing of picking off young muskrats and ducklings.

Cast close to stumps, patches of lily pads and weed beds. Put plenty of "tease" into each retrieve, for your bug should simulate some helpless creature trying to flounder to safety. If pickerel or pike are present, you're in for some heady thrills — so stand ready for slambang action!

BOARD OF EDUCATION

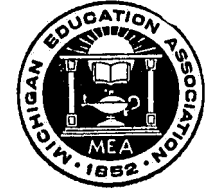

Frequently praised, at times criticized, the board of education must weather all climates of opinion if it is to carry out the responsibility of running a school system that will provide a quality education for children under its jurisdiction.

Although all citizens have the right to attend school board meetings and speak to or question issues on the floor, final decision on school issues resides with the board of education.

In its appointed legislative and judicial capacity the board of education is called upon to project educational needs from nursery school through junior college. Along with curriculum problems, the board of education occupies itself with the important task of maintaining the business of education. In financial considerations the board must adopt a budget able to meet the community's ability to pay, decide the salaries of school personnel, and determine the school building program and what operative school equipment should be purchased.

Points vital to remember are that school board members are voted into their positions in open elections and that members of the board of education represent a cross section of individuals whose prime concern is the student and education.

This is one of a series of education features published as a public service in cooperation with the Michigan Press Association, the Michigan Education Association and this newspaper.

Vows and rings were exchanged by Betty Kathryn Farmer and Bryce Montgomery Landon before Rev. Lewis Sutton of the First Methodist Church and Reverend Lowry of St. Andrews Episcopal Church, in the First Methodist Church.

Daughter of the Winston C. Farmers, Sr. of Ortonville Rd., the bride appeared in a gown of imported Chantilly lace over taffeta. Fitted bodice with scalloped Subrina neckline, sprinkled with iridescent sequins and tiny seed pearls, long tapered sleeves. Bouffant tiered skirt with sequin trim. Removable train edged with matching sequins. A Crystal crown secured her lace edged silk illusion Mantilla. She carried a cascade arrangement of white roses, stephanotis, and ivy, centered with a white, cream throat orchid.

Mrs. W. C. Farmer, Jr., sister-in-law of the bride attended as matron of honor. Mrs. Linda Soncrant and Mrs. Susan O'Neill were bridesmaids.

They wore identical sheath, floor length gowns of teal blue silk Fialle and wore matching accessories, carrying white fans with white roses and pink-tipped carnations.

Miss Linda Drinkard, flower girl and cousin of the bride, wore pink taffeta and carried a basket of daisies and rose petals.

Mr. Winston C. Farmer, Jr. brother of the bride served as best man and Mr. Frank Dennie, Mr. J. D. Carr, Mr. Owen Drinkard ushered.

The Bridegrooms parents are Mr. and Mrs. John B. Landon of Bridge Lake Rd.

Mrs. Farmer chose for her daughters wedding, blue chiffon over taffeta with pink accessories, her corsage was pink roses and blue tipped carnations. Mrs. John Landon, mother of the groom, selected a mint green lace sheath with white accessories, and flowers of pink roses and green tipped carnations.

After a honeymoon in Southampton, Canada, the couple will reside in Pontiac.

SHOULD YOUR BOY PLAY FOOTBALL?

ing two left feet, and all thumbs on their hands. When they go out for football and make a fine block, a good catch, or a tackle on the flashy halfback, their ego goes up in a hurry. Then as they continue to do things successfully, they will find an untold amount of self respect which will not only give them confidence in football, but will begin to seep through into all their other school activities and outside life.

An activity that can contribute heavily to the basic needs of the growing youngsters is certainly worth considering when you are deciding whether or not your boy should play football.
