States and stages of human progress will be explored in the Bible Lesson on "Man" at all Christian Science Churches this Sunday.

Bible selections will include the following from Romans (ch. 12): "Be not conformed to this world; but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God."

Readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include these lines (p. 296): "Progress is born of experience. It is the ripening of mortal man, through which the mortal is dropped for the immortal. Either here or hereafter, suffering or Science must destroy all illusions regarding life and mind, and regenerate material sense and self. The old man with his deeds must be put off."

What Should Our Law Officers Be Paid?

TAXPAYERS ARE HAVING to dig a little deeper each year to meet the rising cost of crime in our Nation. Since this heavy financial burden is directly related to the amount of lawlessness occurring, the report of some 2,259,100 serious crimes committed in 1963 offers no encouragement for immediate relief from criminal violence or the cost of fighting it. This total represents a 10-percent increase over the 1962 figure. In the past 5 years, crime has increased five times faster than our population growth.

It is not surprising, therefore, that crime costs are becoming a big issue in every community. Not only are more citizens being victimized with greater frequency, they are also being charged more for their misfortune. Presently, a conservative estimate of the annual crime bill is 27 billion dollars.

Experience has shown that in all fields of competitive endeavor the best strategy for winning is a good, bold offense. A good offensive for effective law enforcement encompasses many vital components.

Law enforcement agencies cannot wage a successful campaign against the criminal forces when inadequately equipped. It takes sufficient funds, outstanding personnel, and proper training programs and facilities to uphold law and order. These basic requirements are so closely interwoven in the makeup of professional law enforcement that the lack of one jeopardizes the overall achievements of any agency. Further, to single out one as more important than the other is subject to question. However, career police executives over the years have sought to attract top caliber personnel. Without exception, the one main obstacle has been the meager salary which they could offer. Consequently, many outstanding prospects do not bother to apply, and a good percentage of those who enter the profession are forced to leave for jobs with better pay in order to support their families.

Let us take a look at some of the pay scales for the average officer who daily risks his life protecting and defending his fellow man. The entrance salary for patrolmen in some of our cities having more than 500,000 population is barely $90 per week. In a number of smaller communities with less than 25,000 people, the entrance pay drops to approximately $50 per week. The average monthly earnings of full-time police employees in local governments are about $483. This compares with $308 for firemen, $512 for public utilities workers, $555 for school teachers, and $560 for public transit employees. These figures lend credence to the contention that our society demands more for less from the law enforcement officer than from any other public servant. To be sure, there are some encouraging trends for fair and just compensation for officers. The annual salary for first-year policemen in one major city is approximately $8,000, with an appreciable increase in pay for all members of the department scheduled for the first of next year. There are other cities whose pay scales compare favorably with this. Even some smaller towns operating on much lower budgets start their officers at approximately $7,000 annually.

Certainly, there are many factors to weigh in arriving at equitable pay scales for law enforcement. It is not expected that blanket wage level for all areas could be agreed on, or justified. It would appear, however, that the marked difference in the lowest and highest figures cited for cities of similar size is a gap which should be greatly reduced - upward from the bottom.

Virtually every hamlet and metropolis is directly and deeply involved in the crime struggle. As the intensity of the battle heightens, the crime toll rises and the cost multiplies. None can dispute that the time for reversal is at hand.

I say to all Americans, let us grab the offensive. Let us take the positive approach by investing more of this cost in the improvement of law enforcement, thereby seeking dividends in crime reduction. Let us begin by raising the pay of officers to a fair and just level to attract outstanding personnel. And finally, let us supply the forces of law and order with the strength, the facilities, and-most important - the support needed to discharge their obligations.

"GET THE BIG PICTURE"

is a traffic safety rule we stress with our drivers at all times—but especially now that school is starting again. Every telephone company worker who drives one of our cars or trucks is taught to be especially alert whenever a youngster appears anywhere in the "big picture"—behind or to either side of his vehicle, as well as ahead. That way, a child's impulsive decision to stop or change direction can be seen in time to avoid injury. "Get the big picture" ... just one of the good habits Michigan Bell instills in its driver employees through a company-wide, year-round safety education program.

SAVE STEPS BEAUTIFULLY! Put a colorful extension phone wherever you'd like to reach, not run, for your calls. Wall phone, desk phone, Princess® phone ... there's a style and color for every room. Call our Business Office to order yours today.

POINT TO REMEMBER—telephones are everywhere. And that's exactly what makes your phone so valuable to you. Because your doctor, your TV repairman, your son's school all have phones of their own, you can reach them instantly and easily. And that goes for countless other people and companies you may need to talk with in a month's time. In fact, Michigan Bell now serves over 3,300,000 telephones throughout the state, each adding to the potential usefulness of your phone.

Better Breakfast for Teenagers

If Americans are well fed, why aren't American teenagers getting their daily food needs?

One answer, is that they're skimping on or actually skipping breakfast.

Research on teenage diets reveals that the older the child, the poorer the diet. From childhood to teenage, the percentage of young people with poor diets increases sharply. Six out of 10 girls and four out of 10 boys have poor diets. The teenage girl is the poorest fed member of the family.

One reason the teenage girl is not as well fed as the teenage boy is that she needs about one-third fewer calories. Teenage girls need 2,400 - 2,600 calories; teenage boys, 3,100 - 3,600, according to the National Research Council recommended daily dietary allowances.

The fewer calories you eat, the more important it is to make all of them count. Your diet must contain all the needed nutrients for health and vitality. If you skip breakfast, about a fourth of these nutrients are lost from your diet and can't be replaced.

Don't worry about gaining weight if you eat a good breakfast. If you're not hungry you won't be so tempted to snack between meals. Breakfast is the energy-supplying meal that keeps your body in tip-top running order. It keeps you looking and feeling alert and attractive and prevents an 11 o'clock slump.

A good breakfast supplies nutrients lacking in teenage diets; vitamin C in fruit or juice; calcium in milk; B vitamins and iron in cereal products and eggs.

Caution!

Keep poisons away from children, warns a Michigan State University extension safety specialist.

Each year 600,000 children under 5 years of age swallow poisons, says Richard Pfister. About 450 of substances found in their homes, these cases are fatal.

Children about a year old are most likely to get into cleaning and polishing materials, rodent and insect poisons, solvents, and kerosene, he says. All these materials are often stored close to the floor, under sinks, or on low shelves.

They are a prime target for the youngsters whose hands move faster than his feet.

The National Safety Council's theme this year is, "Safer American Families Everywhere," says Pfister. They recognize the seriousness of poisoning by medicines and common household cleaning agents by the more than 100 death per month from these preparations.

Modern labeling laws require that hazardous products be marked to indicate their degree of danger. However, the small child can't read and is prone to eat anything despite irritating fumes or obnoxious taste or smell.

It's up to parents to keep these poisons out of the reach of children, says Pfister. In 75 per cent of child poisoning cases, the toxic substance was within easy reach.

He urges parents not to tell children that medicine is candy to induce them to take pills without fussing. They may later take a dangerous overdose in the innocent belief there can be no harm. Some other way of persuasion can end this chance.

If a youngster should swallow a nonedible substance call a doctor at once, he says. In some cases symptoms are slow to become apparent. If possible have the container handy so you can tell the doctor the brand name and contents so that he can determine the best remedy.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

Last week I held a meeting in my office with Detroit officials regarding juvenile problems in that city. Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanaugh three members of the Detroit common Council, Detroit Police Commissioner Ray Girardin, Detroit Judge James Lincoln and other state officials and legislators attended the meeting.

We have cooperated in establishing a Committee of Ten to seek immediate and long-range solutions to Detroit's juvenile problems.

I tried to point out that one of our needs is for more than a sporadic, crisis-to-crisis communication between the City and the State. We must work together toward solutions of problems which are of equal concern to us. I think that the Committee of Ten is a method by which we can meet both our short-range need for immediate solutions and our long-range need for better cooperation and communication.

There is a desperate need for prevention of delinquency and rehabilitation of delinquents at the local level. If we just talk about institutions, we'll never get ahead of our problems - because Detroit can produce delinquents faster than anybody can build institutions to house them. In this regard, Michigan is increasing the number of beds available for delinquents by 80% in the three-year period from 1963 to 1965.

The Committee of Ten will consist of five state officials and five others named by Mayor Cavanaugh. I have suggested that the Committee submit a report within one month on these points:

1. A specific catalog of the 250-300 hard-core juvenile offenders now on the streets of Detroit - who they are, their offenses, their ages, and, insofar as possible, the kind of treatment they require. The total should be broken into categories, so that all will have a better idea of what we need to do-together-to protect the community and rehabilitate the juveniles. For some, institutionalization may not be necessary.

2. A careful evaluation of available space in existing institutions-city, county and state-which could be used for housing the different kinds of juvenile offenders. The Committee should also investigate the possibilities of the City or State acquiring other existing facilities, not now used for juvenile offenders, and converting them to such use.

3. Since we must consider program, as well as space- and since program means staff- the Committee should also investigate what possibilities there are for City, State or Federal financing of the additional trained staff personnel which would be required.

The Committee of Ten will be headed by co-chairmen, one appointed by the Mayor of Detroit and one by myself. I have named State Controller Glenn S. Allen, Jr., as Co-Chairman for the State.

Other State representatives on the Committee will be Gus Harrison Director of the Corrections Department; R. Bernard Houston, State Social Welfare Director; Dr. Robert A. Kimmich, Director of the Department of Mental Health; and Sam Rabinovitz, Executive Secretary of the Michigan Youth Commission.

I am hopeful that the Committee of Ten, after its immediate task is accomplished, can continue to function in working on similar problems of mutual concern.

Do You Expect To Much?

Do you expect your child to be quiet and not disturb the family with noise. Do you expect him to understand everything you say to him? Do you expect him to meet strangers easily?

Perhaps you expect too much. Two new bulletins released by the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service offer parents guidance on dealing with their young children.

One discusses how much you can expect of a small child. The second helps parents to see the difference between a "naughty" child and a child that sometimes acts "naughty". Both bulletins may be obtained free of charge from your Extension Office, Box 552, Wayne, Michigan. Or write to the Bulletin Office, 10 Agricultural Hall, Michigan State University, East Lansing.

Ask for parents' newsletters, "Do You Expect Too Much?", E-423-A, or "Naughty or Learning?", E-423-B

State Fair Nearing Final Days

Moving into the final five days and nights of what already has been tabbed as one of the greatest in history, the 115th annual Michigan State Fair will present many of its greatest attractions of the entire 10-day run.

Headlining the last five programs are the New Christy Minstrels, a folk singing group who boast two notable achievements — they introduced the hootenanny at the White House and on Broadway early this year. They'll take over the stage of the Music Shell starting Thursday and have the top billing for the remainder of the Fair.

Then there's the traditional auction of the grand champion and reserve steers along with the grand and reserve champions in other divisions of the judging. The auction is slated for 2 p.m. Thursday in the Coliseum.

From that moment until the midnight close on Labor Day, the Fair will present more outstanding events than at any previous period during the first half of the 10-day run.

There'll be band concerts by outstanding high school organizations daily including an appearance of the famed Melvindale marching band, that participated in the Rose Bowl parade in California last New Year's Day, on Friday at 11:45 a.m.

Friday has been designated as Teacher's Day and the top event will be the presentation of special awards to 31 teachers, educators and school administrators for outstanding contributions in the field of Education.

Gov. George Romney will have the spotlight Saturday in the annual Governor's Day program during which he will make a tour of the entire Fair, inspecting and viewing all winners of ribbons in the earlier judging.

Bands from Laker, Milan, Laingsburg and Clinton will present concerts in the afternoon and early evening.

The final two days will be marked by two auto races — the first over a distance of 250-miles on Sunday afternoon and the second over 150-miles on Labor Day.

A brilliant fireworks exhibition, rated by Fair officials as the best in years, will be presented at dusk in the area in front of the grandstand.

Then following the race and the fireworks on Labor Day, the Fair will gradually work down to the official close at midnight when the lights go out and the gates will be locked for another year.
