Public Hunting Rifle

Sighting-in Day

The D. R. Wilson Rifle and Pistol Club of OCSC, located at the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club, Waterford, Michigan, will hold a sighting-in day for all hunters in the area on Sunday, November 8, 1964. The club 100 yard range, with 8 shooting bench rests, will be open from 10:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M. The range is 1/2 mile East of U.S. 10, on Waterford Road. Refreshments will be available at the OCSC clubhouse nearby. Members of the club will be on hand all day to help hunters properly sight-in their rifles.

Try out your shotguns on the Skeet and Trap fields nearby.

The club is offering this opportunity as a public service to hunters in this area as a part of a statewide program conducted by the Michigan Rifle and Pistol Association and a nation-wide program by the National Rifle Association. Throughout the country are taking part in this program to conserve our game by helping to assure clean hits.

A correctly sighted-in rifle is an important step to safe and accurate shooting and increase the percentage of clean kills, says Mr. Walter Perry, Chief Rifle Instructor of the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club. He has taught hundreds of our local Junior riflemen how to shoot accurately and safely. Familiarization, firing and knowledge of the point of impact of the gun being used adds enjoyment and safety to the fine sport of hunting.

Children's Book Week

November 1 through 7 is Children's Book Week. Here are some ways we can help our children enjoy books and reading:

1. Read aloud to your children. It will bring your family closer together and enrich your children's lives. And it will be fun.

2. Parents should set aside time to take their children to the library. If they do not already have library cards of their own, help them to get and use them. At our Clarkston Library it is $1.00 per family.

3. If possible, give your children books... and shelves on which to put them. Teach your children the value of good books that they will read and reread.

4. Help your children take an inventory of the books in their own home libraries. Alphabetize books by author or title or classify them by type (adventure, biography, fiction, science, etc.). Take the time to look through their books and enjoy them together.

There are many new books at the Clarkston Library available for children. Some are:

Fiction: Betsy's Little Star, Carolyn Haywood; Eddie and the Fire Engine, Carolyn Haywood; Rhyme, Eve Merriam; The Birds, and the Beasts Were There (Animal poems selected by William Cole); All About the Human Mind, Robert M. Goldenson, Ph.D.; Papercraft, Joseph Zeeming; Marco Polo's Adventures in China, Horizon Mag.; The Land and People of Ghana, J. Kirk Sale; "Butterflies," "Water Beetles," "Snails," and "Spiders," by Dorothy Hogner, and All about

Non-Fiction: Reading Can Be

"Dirty Work at the Crossroads" to be Presented

Unique in the area of Community Theater is the fall experiment of the Clarkston Village Players. Scheduled for their fall production is a three act melodrama "Dirty Work at the Crossroads; or Tempted, Tried and True." The unique factor is that the play will be performed in the players own theater a converted old railroad depot.

Neither the milk train nor the commuter stop at Clarkston anymore but they do barrel past the depot every evening. The wall of the trains going by add a nostalgic air to a gay old form of American theater.

Featured in the cast of "Dirty Work at the Crossroads" are Marietta Jones as the heroine, Nellie Lovelace, and Pete Rose as the wicked villain, Munro Murgatroid. Also featured in the cast are Harry Farmer, Pat Briedenbaugh, Juanita LaPere, Martha Bennett, Dick Leaf Rande Sarscher, Julie Wilford, and Fun, Munro Leaf; The Coconut Thieves, adapted by Catherine Fournier; Ukrainian Folk Tales, Marie Halun Bloch; Rimbles, Patricia Evans; It Doesn't Always Have to Rhyme, Eve Merriam; The Birds, and the Beasts Were There (Animal poems selected by William Cole); All About the Human Mind, Robert M. Goldenson, Ph.D.; Papercraft, Joseph Zeeming; Marco Polo's Adventures in China, Horizon Mag.; The Land and People of Ghana, J. Kirk Sale; "Butterflies," "Water Beetles," "Snails," and "Spiders," by Dorothy Hogner, and All about Aviation, Robert D. Loomis.

Marie Luzi. Performances are scheduled for two weekends, November 6, 7, 13 and 14. Curtain time is at 8:30 at Clarkston Railroad Depot on White Lake Road.

Rotary Anns Taken to Europe

On Tuesday evening of last week the Clarkston Rotary Anns met in the home of Mrs. Paul DeLongchamp. Mrs. Harold Goyette was the co-hostess.

At the business meeting the group voted to give the Clarkston Girl Scouts $25.00. On account of the Christmas party for the Crippled Children at the Elks Temple on December 8, the Rotary Anns decided to have the Christmas meeting on Tuesday evening, December 1 and dispense with the November meeting which would be just one week earlier.

Following the business meeting Mrs. Ronald Walter introduced Mary Wertman, Lurie Wilford and Cindy Humphrey. These girls were among the 20 students who spent 6 weeks in Europe this past summer and studied foreign languages in Switzerland. The Foreign Language League School, with headquarters in Salt Lake City, sponsored the trip. The girls told of their experiences and made the trip interesting by showing colored slides which had been taken by Carol Kieft.

To close the evening-dainty refreshments were served.

A Day in the Life of A Hospital Bride-To-Be

Dr. Alfred Hamilton, left, congratulates the 'hospital bride' and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stephens, following their vows at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital last Saturday

Monday. Being in the bed next to the bride made this story an exceptionally fun and event-filled experience for me. Perhaps this will help you to understand how I know so many of the small details.

When admitted to my room in Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital on Monday afternoon, October 26, I found that one of my three roommates, Donna Wolf of 4651 Indianwood Rd., Independence Township, had just returned from an emergency appendectomy and was obviously not in the best of health.

Due to the fact that I had surgery Tuesday morning, Donna and I didn't get to know each other until Friday. As we talked, Donna decided to use her marriage license which, thanks to ill health and other complications, was sitting idle and due to expire that following

This decision started a hubbub of excitement in our room and throughout the hospital, for that matter.

Saturday morning Carlene (Mrs. Al) Thompson of Bender Rd. in Drayton Plains, another roommate, and I decided to send flowers to Donna who was to be married in our room, in bed, at 7:30 that same evening. To order the flowers without letting Donna know, I closed the curtain between us, took the phone under the bed covers with me and proceeded to call the florist.

Thanks to one of Donna's sisters, Mrs. James Cumberworth of 4648 Indianwood Rd., her "special gown" and wedding cake were taken care of. The next problem was Donna's hair. She had been through quite an ordeal, as a matter of fact, was lucky to be alive, so we decided a new hair-do was a must. A quick phone call to Coiffure par Anne and a couple hours later a beautician, Martha Halsey of Clarkston arrived loaded down with hair dryer, curlers and the such.

Later that afternoon Donna's sister arrived with the gown and several nurses and aids rushed into the room to give their approval.

Arrangements were made for The Reverend Robert Gregory of the First General Baptist Church of Drayton Plains to perform the ceremony. Ironically his wife was also a patient in that hospital.

The only way we could figure out to let the hospital know when the ceremony was over, was to tie tin cans to the back of a wheel chair and wheel the bride up and down the halls. But, we decided there would probably be objections and dismissed the idea.

The hour drew closer as the

Hazelett Rites Are Read

Vows and rings were exchanged by Cynthia Darlene Keller and James Lindle Hazelett recently in the Clarkston First Methodist Church.

The bride wore a gown of silk worstering styled with chapel train. Her bouffant silk illusion veil was secured by a headpiece of silk and pearls. She carried a cascade of white rose buds centered with white orchids.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Spencer of Pontiac and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Emma Hazelett of Waterford and the late Mr. Donald L. Hazelett.

Linda Kay Hipp, maid of honor, and Linda Keller her sisters bridesmaid, wore gowns of pink satin and wine velvet and carried white carnations and pink rose buds.

Junior bridesmaid and flower girl Susan Wall and Cynthia Stevens wore floor length gowns of pink satin with pink accessories and carried white carnations with pink rosebuds and a basket of pink rose petals.

Robert Hutchinson was best man. Others on the esquire side were Chuck Hazelett, James Higgins and brother of the groom, Robert Hazelett.

After a church reception, the couple left for a northern honeymoon.

Museum's Large-Scale Model Reveals Details of Living Cell

With unusual clarity the nermost details of the structure of a living cell are revealed in this three-dimensional plexiglass model in the American Museum of Natural History in New York City.

The 120-pound model, pictured with its creator, Fredoun Jalayer, of the Museum's technical staff, represents in cross-section an idealized cell magnified 40,000 times. It is part of a new exhibit, "The Origin and Structure of Life," designed by Dr. Dorothy E. Bliss, the Museum's associate curator.

Such minute details of cell structure have been discerned
only in recent years from studies of photos taken through electron microscopes. The model represents information gleaned from hundreds of such photomicro-graphs.

A cell may be described as a tiny chemical "factory." Each cell produces thousands of different chemicals and chemical reactions which are necessary to maintain the life of the cell and the organism of which it is a part.

At the molecular level, the materials that make up living things do not themselves "live,"
but are organized in a complex, interacting relationship which we call "life." This remarkable "organizer" is found in every cell. It contains a complete set of instructions, or master plan,

for building the entire organism.

The organizer is a complex chemical called DNA (shorthand for deoxyribonucleic acid). DNA transmits genetic information from one generation of living things to the next and organizes their activities so that they perform their roles in maintaining larger organisms. The genetic information, which determines whether an organism is to be a flower, a tree, a frog, or a human being, is contained in a code built right into the DNA molecule's structure. The code in a single molecule, if put into English instructions, might fill a 1,000-volume library.

Most of the DNA is found in the nucleus (marked N in the photo). This round, doublevalued object might be called the "headquarters" of the cell.

In the nucleus one sees the darker, denser nucleolus (Ns),
which is believed to be a center
of synthetic activity and possibly a storage area for chemicals.

Other letters identify these objects: (E) the beaded sac-like endoplasmic reticulum, a site of protein production; (R)

the heads—both free-floating (arrows) and those covering the nucleus and the endoplasmic reticulum—which are the ribo-somes where the final stages of protein synthesis take place;
(C) the centriole, a particle important in cell reproduction;
(G) the Golgi bodies, which secrete chemicals; and (M) the mitochondria, or "powerhouses," of the cell, which provide much of its energy.

All these fascinating objects,
in the jelly-like cytoplasm surrounding the cell nucleus will provide subjects for investigation for years to come before all their secrets are learned.

Other interesting features of the exhibit in the Museum's new Hall of Biology of Invertebrates are a large model of a DNA
molecule, and films, models, paintings, and photographs suggesting how life may have arisen
on earth some one and one-half billion years ago.

The exhibit, which is sponsored by Eli Lilly and Company, will be giving students a "short course" in biology at the molecular level for many years.
Visitors will find the American Museum at Central Park West and 79th Street.

Four straight years of accident-
free flying brought a citation today to Edwin J. Beattie of 6265 Snow-

Naval Air Reserve squadron he commands at the Grosse Ile, Mich.
Naval Air Station.

Beattie, who holds the rank of commander at the island air station

Admiral George P. Koch, Chief of Naval Air Reserve Training.

Captain Nathan R. Lincoln Jr.
presented it in the admiral's behalf at a special hanger ceremony this morning. Capt. Lincoln is commanding officer of NAS Grosse Ile, headquarters for "Weekend Warrior" Reservists for the five-state Midwest region.

As a Reservist, Cmdr. Beattie drills one weekend a month at Grosse Ile and spends two weeks

each year on active duty for training. He heads Attack Squadron 731, which flies Douglas A-1E "Sky-raiders," an anti-submarine aircraft.

Similar safety awards received today by 12 other Grosse Ile squadrons added up to 55 years of flight operations without a single accident.

Ways to Ease Varicose Veins

Varicose veins are dilated, tortuous, venous blood vessels lying just under the skin. They occur most frequently on the inner side and back of the calf and on the inner side of the thigh.

The veins have lost their elasticity and their function of maintaining return flow of blood is impaired. This leads to impaired circulation and consequent decreased nutrition of tissues.

Varicose veins often are a hereditary characteristic, says Today's Health, the magazine of the American Medical Association. Pregnancy and prolonged standing contribute to the condition in predisposed individuals.

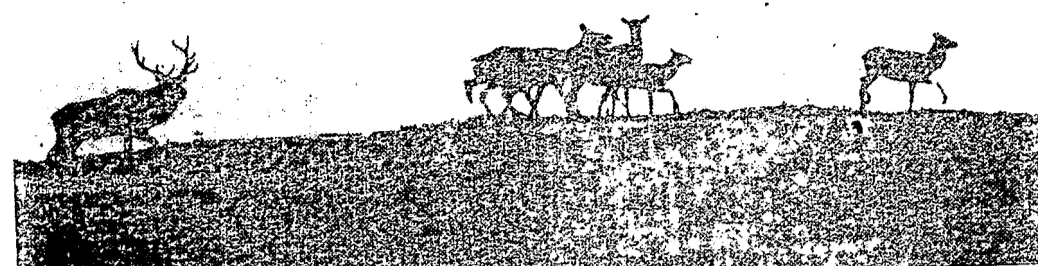

If varicose veins "run in the family," you probably will develop them despite any preventive measures. However, there are simple measures which can delay their occurrence and make them less bothersome once they have occurred.

If possible, choose an occupation that doesn't involve long hours of standing, the Today's Health article urges. Avoid clothing that might constrict the veins at the groin and knee and interfere with blood flow.

When sitting, minimize venous pressure in the legs by elevating them on a stool or chair. When you must stand for long periods, elastic stockings or elastic bandages may be worn — but only on the recommendation of a physician, since complications can develop in persons with additional circulatory conditions.

Varicose veins not only are a hindrance to health, they also are undesirable for cosmetic reasons. Early treatment will prevent complications such as dermatitis or ulcers of the leg. A physician will determine the most appropriate treatment, after considering the size and locations of the veins and the age and general health of the patient.

Elk Silhouettes in Bugling Season

High on a hill overlooking their homeland in the Pigeon River area of the northern Lower Peninsula, a bull elk and his harem appear as silhouettes against the clear sky of a fall evening. This scene, caught by the camera lens of Conservation Department photographer Bob Harrington, tells another elk mating season underway. This seemingly quiet setting was anything but that. Full-chested bugling sounds could be heard miles away as other bulls challenged this antlered giant for supremacy over his small band of cows and calves. Throughout the elk country, these trumpeting calls echo over hills and valleys from late September until about mid-October, hitting their fall-time spectacle, ask locally in the counties of Chippewa, Presque Isle, Osego, and Montmorency.—Mich. Chemical-Surgical Techniques At WSU Improve Nose Function

The effects of surgery on a young patient.

DETROIT—Scientific knowledge of manufacturing chemicals has combined with the surgical skill of a Wayne State University doctor to aid patients through transformations such as that shown above.

Prof. G. Jan Beekhuis, chairman of Wayne State University School of Medicine's otolaryngology department, has been using a Michigan-made silicone rubber compound to improve the function and appearance of the nose.

The surgical technique is used for a "saddle nose" operation. A saddle nose is one which has been flattened considerably, usually due to an injury which may have occurred in early childhood. The nose in these cases has not properly developed.

The above picture (left) shows a profile view of a saddle nose on a teenager prior to surgery. The other picture (right) shows the results of a combination of the silicone substance and surgical skill.

In the past, surgeons attempting to repair the nose often found it necessary to obtain "building" material, such as cartilage or bone from other areas of the body, thus necessitating two operations. With the new substance only one operation is necessary.

"In many ways," says Dr. Beekhuis, "the new substance is even superior to cartilage and bone, which when implanted later in life may nose has a tendency to grow out or be partially absorbed. An additional advantage in a case with which the material may be fashioned to any sized shape."

Several surgeons have performed plastic nose surgery using this compound, but Dr. Beekhuis believes he is the first to report a whole series of operations utilizing this material. Twenty-seven of the such operations he has so far performed have been successful.

"The longest follow-up in these cases is about 20 months, which we do not consider an adequate amount of time to make final judgment," says Dr. Beekhuis. "But our experience with plastic implants thus far indicates the reliability of the substance for this type of reconstructive work."

The unique material resists time, heat, cold and oxidation, while possessing some of the more desirable properties of organic materials — flexibility, elasticity and water-repellency. The use of silicones in medicine was first reported in 1930. Since then, considerable experimentation with them has been carried out. Extremely well tolerated by the body, they set up no tissue reaction, nor do they erode or lose their original shapes.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

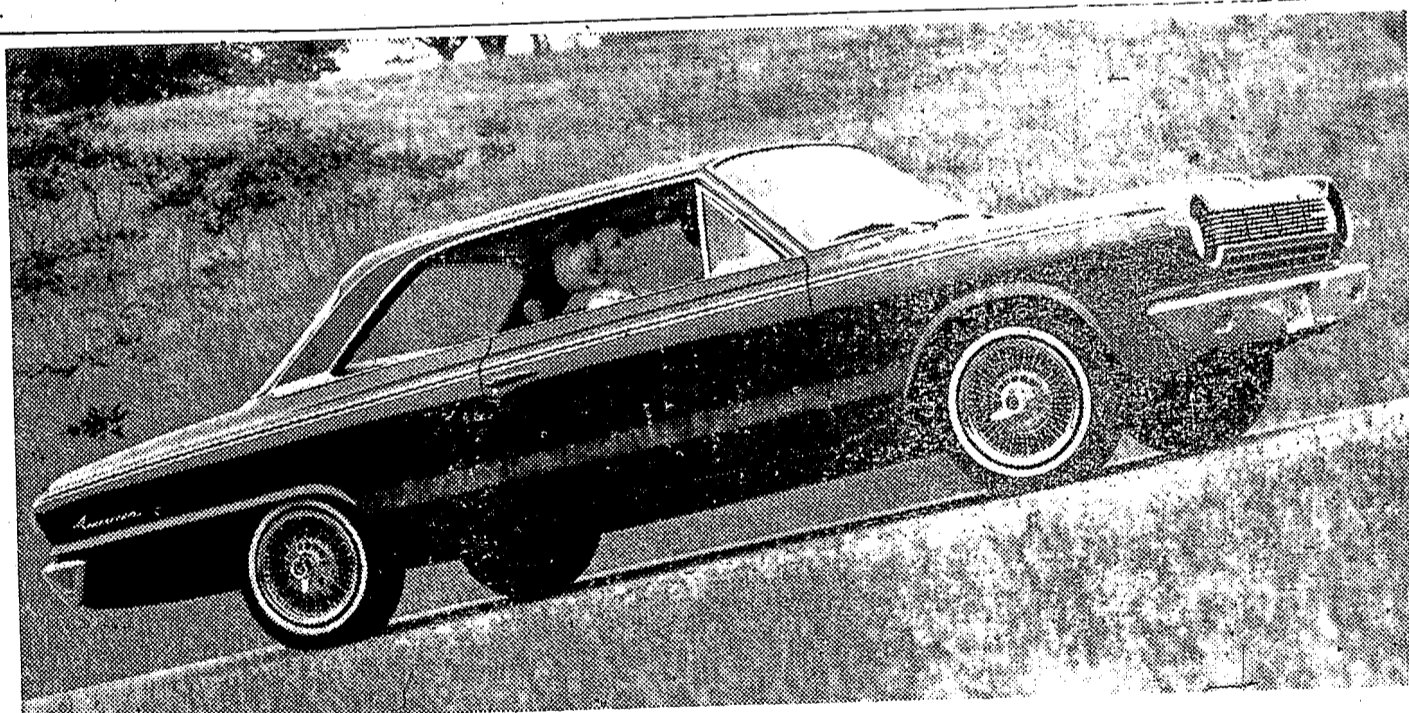

Because the American elementary school reaches the greatest number of our citizens for the longest time, it is responsible for laying the groundwork for healthy intellectual and personality growth.

Elementary school gives the child his first glimpse into the worlds of the social studies, art, science and literature — and it gives him an awareness of the vastness of information about these worlds. Here the child learns to read and use libraries. He learns to make judgments and identify fact and truth from fallacy and half-truth. He learns the power of his mind and becomes familiar with his talents and his shortcomings.

Elementary school helps the child develop his personality and teaches him to work and cooperate with others. It strives to give him independence and self-confidence.

The teacher is the child's idol during the elementary school years. Aware of this responsibility, the elementary school teacher works hard to set a good example for her students. She knows that everything she says and does makes a lasting imprint on the minds and memories of her pupils.

The young child is a delight. He is bold, and honest, and fun. The elementary school works to preserve these good qualities while it equips him with the tools for a satisfactory future life.

Changes in the Clarkston High School Program

SCHEDULE CHANGES

When the Clarkston High School students entered school this fall they were introduced to several changes in classroom procedure. The traditional fifty-five (55) minute classroom periods were extended to seventy (70) minutes in length. The instructor in each classroom provides approximately forty-five (45) minutes of regular classroom procedure and then allows the student approximately twenty-five (25) minutes for individual study. During this period the student may begin his homework assignment or may receive individual help from the instructor. This replaces the large type study hall and provides time for individual attention.

Each student takes six (6) different subjects, but each subject meets only four times per week. This allows us one period per week for assemblies and other school programs. This eliminates the taking of students from their classroom for these programs.

TEAM TEACHING

Perhaps the most outstanding change in Teaching Methods in the Clarkston High School was the introduction of "Team Teaching in American History."

This new, but no longer experimental method has several advantages. The students benefit by the fact that the members of the teaching team are teaching in the areas in which they have specialized. Because it accommodates much larger groups, great savings in space, personnel and utilization of Audio Visual Devices can be made.

A teaching team is composed of one or two master teachers and one or more less experienced teachers. In Clarkston High School the teaching team consists of Mr. Bonner, Mr. Mills, and Miss Burnside.

The lesson is presented to the entire group which in Clarkston High School consists of one hundred and fifty students by one or more of the teachers. Following the presentation which may include the use of audio-visual aids the large group of students breaks down into small groups for discussion purposes, or opportunity is provided for independent, individual study.

More information on these changes will be presented at the "High School Back to School Night" November 2.

Calvin E. Rolston, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rolston of 280 North Baldwin Rd., Clarkston, has begun basic training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

The nine-week training includes naval orientation, history and organization, seamanship, ordnance and gunnery, military drill, first aid and survival.

During the training recruits receive tests and interviews which determine their future assignments in the Navy. Upon completing the program they are assigned to service schools for technical training or to ships and stations for on-the-job training in a Navy rating specialty.

Naval training produces the power in seapower by supplying qualified personnel to man the ships, planes and shore stations of today's Navy.

SOME OF YOU HAVE ASKED why we don't somehow prevent annoying telephone sales calls from reaching our customers' homes. One reason is that the law requires us to provide service for any lawful purpose. And selling by phone is entirely legal. Another reason is that many sales-by-phone organizations really do offer outstanding bargains. We wouldn't want our customers to miss out on those.

We do try in many ways to encourage better telephone manners among business people. Gradual improvement can be expected as a result.

Meantime the law of self-defense certainly applies. When a telephone salesperson is rude or over-sistent on the phone... feel free to hang up.

THIS CHRISTMAS, GIVE YOUR PHONE AN EXTENSION—and give yourself the added convenience of two phones at a fraction more than the cost of the first one. What can say more at Christmas, and all year long! To order your Christmas extension phone, call our Business Office or ask your Telephone Man.

SHOP EARLY for the best buys at Christmas. Equally good advice: shop by phone, whenever the weather's too bad or you're too busy for shopping in person. You'll enjoy the season twice as much because of all the time and trouble you save.

Brighton Trips Clarkston 20-14

by Mel Vaara

Brighton's Athletic Director, Bob Scranton, was all smiles as his team recorded their 2nd straight win. Where as it was a sad ending of an evening for the players and coaches of Clarkston. Clarkston did everything in the ball game to score 40 points, but the defense of Brighton stiffened when they had to and held Clarkston 4 times inside their own 15 yard line. Clarkston rolled up to 400 yards but yards do not count on the score board. In fact Clarkston's offensive show was so awesome, the shoeless boy Fortin didn't kick once during the entire ball game.

All the if's we talked about were dispensed with the exception of one, "the defensive if". Dan Fife had good poise at the quarterback post, John Wilberg did well as a two way offensive player. Randy Armstrong continued to impress opposing coaches, the offensive line was equal to the task as they offered good pass protection and opened up holes for Armstrong, Wilberg and Jenks. This game uncovered a fine offensive end in Gary Pearson, as he snared 7 passes, with one covering 47 yards. The defensive team remained the question mark as Brighton gained over 250 yards and had to punt only once during the whole game.

Brighton scored first but Clarkston came right back with a score as one of their many drives finally paid off with Armstrong scoring from 3 yards out and Pearson snaring the pass for the extra point. Clarkston led 7-6. In the 3rd quarter, Fife directed the team to another score with Armstrong again scoring and Jenks running the extra point. It was now 15-6 and looked like a victory for Clarkston. However Brighton was not to be denied. They received a tremendous break when Brighton kicking from their own 15 and on the kick the ball touched a Clarkston player and Brighton recovered on the 50 yard line. Brighton moved into score 6 points. At the end of the 3rd quarter Clarkston led 14-13.

In the 4th quarter with 6 minutes left, another Clarkston drive stopped on Brighton's 15. Brighton moved the ball to their own 35 and with 4 minutes left, Doug Zimmerman broke off tackle for a 65 yard jaunt. Brighton led 20-14. Clarkston didn't give up, as they missed a 1st down by 1 yard and the ball game was over as Brighton ran out the clock.

Clarkston WILL PLAY WEST BLOOMFIELD this Friday. The last football game will be played against Rochester on November 13th at home.

Hospital Bride...

hospital buzzed with the news of a wedding that night. Interns, doctors, nurses, aids and patients passed by our door to wish the bride to be well.

Our supper trays arrived but we were too excited to eat as we should have. Then came the time for Donna to get dressed. Such excitement. The bride was beautiful, but something was missing. She had something old, something new, something borrowed, (which was a little too personal to mention) but nothing blue. We thought and looked but couldn't think of a thing that was blue.

To help complete Donna's dress the nurses came in and put a new binder on Donna's stitches. But still nothing blue.

The flowers arrived and then the guests and the groom, Paul Stephens of Waterford arrived. But, still nothing blue.

Then, to our surprise, Dr. and Mrs. Alfred Hamilton of Clarkston, who happens to be doctor to both of us, arrived on the scene to witness the wedding. Our other doctor, Dr. Ronald LePere was unable to be there.

We told Dr. Hamilton we were worried because the bride didn't have anything blue. He told us to stop worrying (isn't that just like a doctor?), our problem was solved Donna's stitches were blue!

Soon the ceremony began, witnessed by hospital personal and a hall full of patients clad in their robes. Minutes after the vows were spoken, Donna's phone rang and her parents who live in Illinois congratulated the new bride.

The cake was served and soon the guests had to leave, for visiting hours were over.

Exhausted as we were, the three of us settled down in our beds and talked ourselves to sleep.

And that was a bedside view of a hospital bride!
