tion Mr. Thomas said, "Clarkston has a fine school system. The teachers and administrators are of top quality, but for professional development, I feel that I must accept the new position." He went on to say that the community owes Dr. Green a debt of gratitude for the manner in which the Clarkston school system is developing and is being administered.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas who live at 6601 Pear street have two children, a son, David 12, and a 9 1/2 months old daughter, Tara Lee. They are members of St. Daniel's Catholic Church. Fluoride treatments being given to 400

Over 400 Clarkston youngsters are receiving fluoride treatments this summer through the sponsorship of the Clarkston PTA Fluoride clinic. Grades which were eligible to participate in this program are children who were enrolled in: second, fifth and eighth grades during the '65-'66 school year.

For three weeks the treatments are being given in the Clarkston Elementary building, then the technician and helpers will move to the Pine Knob school for the last 2 weeks.

Miss Janette St. Louis of Drayton Plains, a dental student at University of Michigan dental school is the technician in charge. She is being assisted by two helpers, Kathy Gettel and Sue Kirby. Attendance at the clinic involves four appointments. During the first session the youngster's teeth are polished and the first application of fluoride applied. The subsequent three appointments are merely for the fluoride application.

For several years the PTA has cooperated in sponsoring this clinic. It is on a voluntary basis with a $2.00 fee being charged each child for the 4 applications. Usually the program takes place during the school year but the group being unable to secure a trained technician during the year were forced to postpone the program until the summer months.

Joy Marie Wilmot, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wilmot of 6231 Orion Road, Clarkston was receiving her fluoride treatment at the Clarkston Elementary school last Friday. Under the sponsorship of the PTA, the treatments are being given by Jeanette St. Louis, dental technician. At the left Joy is having her teeth cleaned, below, she is seen receiving the fluoride treatment and then the final smile when the treatment is over.

The boy drowned in eight feet of water while swimming with a 15 year old friend. They were about twenty feet off shore when the accident occurred. Oakland County Sheriff's divers located the body about two hours after the accident which occurred about 3 p.m. on Sunday.

A Pontiac man was killed when a speeding inboard cruiser rammed his fishing boat on Oakland Lake late Sunday night. Walter Balaskey, 30, of 174 Florence, was fishing with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin West of 4875 First, Independence township. They were all thrown into the water and suffered cuts and bruises.

Shortly after the accident, Harold Ions, 52, of 4489 Parnell, was arrested by Oakland County Sheriff's deputies. He was arraigned on Monday on a manslaughter charge when he appeared before Bloomfield Township Justice Christian Powell. He is being held at the Oakland county jail on $1,000 bond. A preliminary hearing will be conducted on Friday.

Planning commission recommends adopting zoning amendment

A Public Hearing was held by the Planning Commission of Independence township on Thursday evening, June 30 relative to the R3 Zoning amendment. This deals with the establishment of trailer parks within the township.

Approximately 30 people attended the meeting in addition to the 9 Planning Commission members. The majority of the spectators present voiced their objections to the establishment of the proposed trailer park which would be constructed in Section 35 on the east side of the township. Stanley Eaton and James D. Humphrey have requested from the State Health department permission to construct this park.

The Board in its action Thursday night recommend that the R3 Zoning amendment be adopted. It will now go to the Oakland County Coordinating Committee, then back to the township board for final action.

Firemen plagued with grass fires

Independence township fire department made 8 fire runs last week with all of them being for grass fires. In addition, they were called once for use of their resuscitator and once to remove a squirrel from a stove vent. There were 24 calls which the department answered for the month of June.

The grass fires were quickly extinguished although one fire at 8:05 p.m. on Thursday burned over about 1/4 acre on Orion road. It had started in a ditch.

Of the 24 calls received in the month, 14 of the alarms were for grass fires, 2 were for the use of the resuscitator and 3 for the inhalator and there was 1 false alarm. There was also a fire in a car on Orchard drive, an overheated oil burner on Old Orchard trail and smoke damage in a restaurant on the Dixie.

Local firemen are asking residents to use extreme caution about burning during this extremely dry and hot weather.

Virginia Jaycee's honored here

A party honoring Jaycees from the State of Virginia was hosted by the local Jaycees on Sunday evening, June 26. It was held at the C.A.I. building and included a buffet dinner for the visiting group.

Local Jaycees are asked to play host to and look after visiting delegations from other states when the state organization is host for the annual convention. Clarkston Jaycees were assigned those members coming from this southern state this year during the annual convention which convened last week in Detroit.

Over 100 Jaycees and their wives from Virginia arrived in Detroit on Sunday afternoon by caravan. The local Chapter had buses and escorts waiting for them in Detroit and brought them directly to the C.A.I. in Waterford where the party was held. They were also the Virginia party's official hosts during the remainder of the convention.

There was a fine exhibition of old cars in the parade. These are great crowd-pleasers in any parade.

A crowd estimated at more than 2,000 people attended the 4th of July parade. There were many horse units in evidence. Pictured here are some of those on parade. Fred Beardsley is the driver in the foreground.

CARL F. INGRAHAM for CIRCUIT JUDGE

Around the world tour enjoyed by local residents

Judicial culture on an international level was recently exchanged by Asian representatives and the President of the American Judicature Society, Henry J. Woolfenden.

The Society, founded in 1913, is America's only national organization devoted exclusively to the improvement of the administration of justice. With a membership of 22,000, the organization has gained a unique reputation for pioneering judicial reform throughout the country.

Mr. Woolfenden had earlier been requested by the Asia Foundation to confer with Chief Justices of fifteen Asian countries, on a trip that would take him and his wife around the world.

Henry and his wife Helen, left their Clarkston home at 90 North Main on March 12, with Tahiti the first foreign touchdown.

Five days were spent there, setting the future time pattern for the next three months.

Lunches or dinners in the Woolfendens' honor, preceded or followed the enlightening conferences attended by Chief Justices, lawyers and educators.

The Clarkston couple's travel agenda also took them, as tourists, to other countries. One week was spent on a one hundred foot houseboat at Srinagar, in Kashmir, India, with another week on the Greek luxury liner, Stellamaris. In all, twenty countries were visited. Of the twenty, Greece, Australia and New Zealand, were classified as the couple's favorites.

Following their last visit, which was to Russia, the Woolfendens boarded a Pan American jet at Helsinki and arrived back in the States on June 17.

Their daughter Caroline, her husband and five children were at the New York airport to welcome them home. After spending the week end with them, Mr. and Mrs. Woolfenden continued on to Ann Arbor, Michigan for a visit with their eldest daughter, Joyce, and her family.

Fascinating memories linger on as they now face the monumental job of catching up on the accumulated mail and unpacking, with souvenirs and gifts they purchased while abroad, arriving in the mail to keep the memories alive a little longer.

Reading workshops in progress at Clarkston schools

A Reading Workshop is being conducted in Clarkston schools under the direction of Genevieve Van't Roer. It is being done in cooperation with the Federal Program Title I of the Economic Opportunity Act for elementary and secondary schools.

The program started on June 20 and will continue through July 29. There are 2 hour sessions for the youngsters which this year number 183. For the first time there are Junior and senior high school students participating. It is geared strictly toward Reading Improvement.

A staff of 10 Clarkston certified teachers are holding the classes. Afternoon sessions for the teachers are conducted from 1:00 - 3:00 p.m. by Paul Oberlee of Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant. Mr. Oberlee, through lectures and visual aids is helping the instructors with lesson plans, etc., and to re-evaluate the program.

Miss Van't Roer, who was formerly principal at the Andersonville Elementary school is the coordinator. She resigned that position on February 1st to take on the responsibilities in this field.

The workshops are being conducted in all of the Elementary schools which includes, Andersonville, Pine Knob, Sashabaw, and Clarkston. These schools encompass grades 1-6. Average class size for the workshop is 10 pupils. Children who are attending have all been recommended by their regular classroom teachers, but attendance for the workshop is purely on a voluntary basis. Classes were conducted during the second semester of last year for these elementary grades, but this marks the first time that the program has encompassed Junior and Senior high students. Classes for these students average slightly above the 10 pupils.

Miss Van't Roer, who is very enthusiastic about the program states that "it is very much an individualized program." Field trips to local facilities such as Cranbrook may be held later during the summer.

Camp Agawam opened June 26

A year-round program of action and adventure is the goal of Boy Scout troops in the Clinton Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, according to Arthur J. Brooks, Council president.

The local Scout council, which serves Oakland and Macomb counties, has a full schedule of camping this summer season.

Camp Agawam, the council's training camp located near Lake Orion, will open on June 26 for seven, one-week camping periods. Anticipated attendance at the camp this season will be about 1,000 Scouts, according to George R. DeCourcy, Clinton Valley Council executive vice-president in charge of camping.

This will be the initial season for Scout camping at the Lost Lake camp, a 2,284 acre reservation near Clare, which was acquired by the council last year, and is undergoing a major development. Nineteen Scout troops from the local council will spend a week of wilderness camping at the northern site during the current summer camping season.

A total of 65 of the council's 130 Boy Scout troops are registered to attend a council camp for at least one week this summer. Scouts attend the council camps with their home troops, DeCourcy said, under their own volunteer troop leadership.

In addition, several troops have made plans to conduct camps and tours on an individual unit basis at sites other than the council's two training camps.

Edward H. Leland, executive of the Clinton Valley Council, announced that the Camp Agawam director will be Charles M. Stewart of Ortonville.

$2,500 increase okey

Whereas we found considerable objection to the proposed $5,000 increase in salaries for our state senators and representatives, we have no objection to their receiving the amount settled on, $2500.

This sets their salaries at $12,500 with $2500 for expenses. In recent years our elected officials in Lansing have been spending considerable time at the capitol, plus they have more committees going to the people for hearings on various proposals. The cost of living increases, and the wages-per-hour on the job has decreased.

There are exceptions, of course. Some legislators don't fulfill their obligation as elected officials, but the majority do and they deserve the increase.

The increase also had to come this year. This was the last pay hike possible for four years. Legislators begin 4-year terms next year and cannot raise their pay for a current term.

We don't agree with the argument that higher salaries will induce better men to petition for election. We have had more contact with the men in Lansing this year than ever before, and we found them very considerate, practical, sound in judgment . . . good elected officials. Again, there are the exceptions, but basically their decisions would have been the same if they made more money.

Change the draft now

GUEST EDITORIAL Stuart, Florida News

"I'd like to try the real estate business but the Army will get me if I graduate. I guess I'll study sociology until the war is over."

"Taking a PhD will keep me from the draft for three more years."

"We don't want to stay out of the draft. It was a choice of taking law or teaching."

These are college students talking to the nationally known pollster, Samuel Lubell. Mr. Lubell recently completed a survey in which he talked to more than 500 students in 36 colleges.

The problem is the basic fairness of the draft. The draft has served us well since World War II. But times have changed.

The draft is necessary and will continue to be. No small part of the effectiveness of our armed forces in time of war always has been that they were drawn from a cross-section of America—rich and poor, educated and uneducated, from farm and from city.

Only a properly conducted draft can assure such a balanced fighting force. This means a draft which will supply the necessary number of men, flexible enough for quota adjustments up or down as the needs change, taping a cross-section of the population. In short, the fairest possible system.

So long as men were being called up merely for "cold war" duty, the present system, with all its deferments, was not a matter of great public concern. But when the draft is taking many men who will risk their lives in a dirty, hot war, it is a different matter. The reasons on which deferments are based become much less valid.

The fairest system is a straight lottery. Such a drawing would show no discrimination. Every man, and his family, would know that if his number came up, so be it—it would be hard, but fair. This has been the traditional American way. Let's get back to it.

Reaching out . . .

-GOD'S CONCERN-

Once long ago a good father faced a family situation which tried him sorely, which led him close to spiritual defeat. Why did this great misfortune come his way? What should he do? What could he possibly do that would even begin to set things straight for his loved ones? Those were the burning questions. Sleepless, he went out into the night to walk a stretch of country road under a bright moon, and as he trudged along alone, he cried out, almost in despair, 'O God, what shall I do?'

Forthwith words not of his own mind or will were on his tongue and he heard himself saying, 'O God, what can You and I do together, what can we do?' With a start he knew afresh that God was concerned and was involved with him in his baffling situation, that the solution was in God's hands and would be shown him.

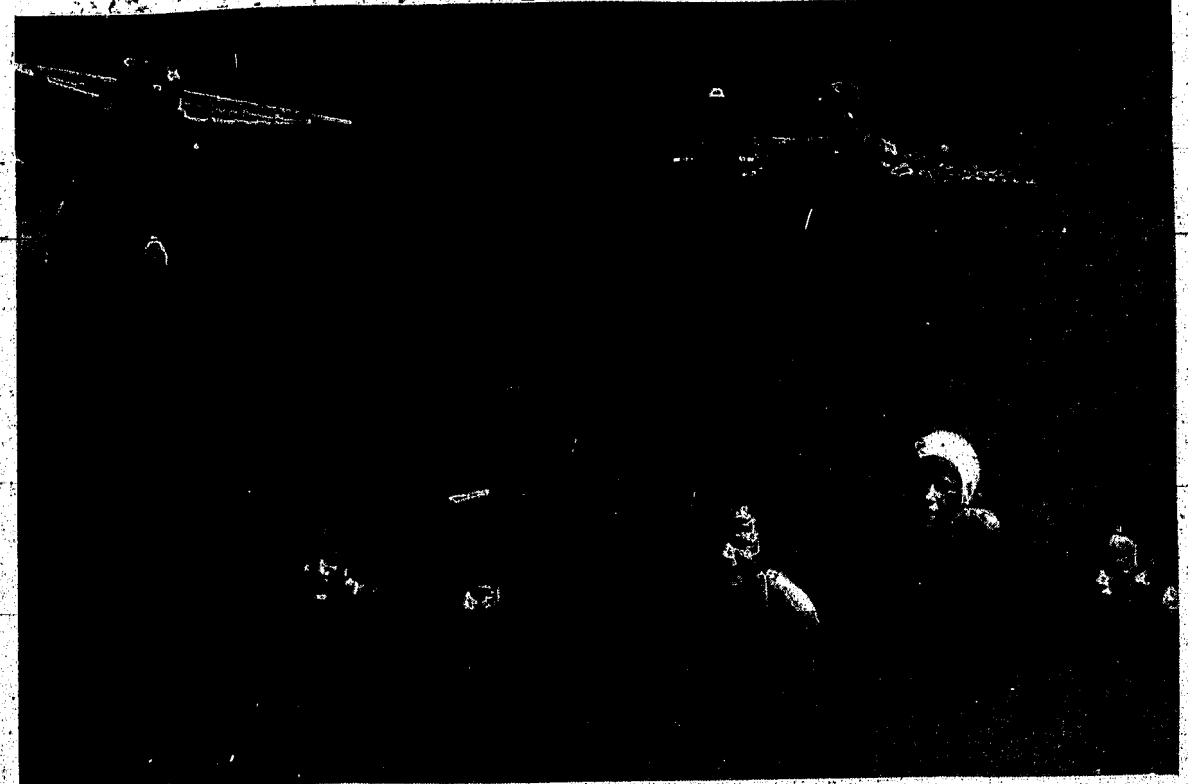

Jesus never doubted or questioned God's concern for all His children. He knew from experience that man's extremity is God's great opportunity and that we never need face life's problems without His help.

Eternal God, our Father: If ever we are so foolish as to think that we are alone to face a heavy task or a great sorrow, forgive us our blindness, we beseech Thee, in Jesus' Name. AMEN.

Going deeper each day is a mystery that centers around a dog named "Fang".

"Fang" is a big, blond, shaggy dog that belongs to the Gus Birtas family. The family live at 43 Robertson Court.

In June the dog apparently vanished with "no trace". Fang's owners have no idea why the dog failed to come home at the end of that day. He loved to wander but did not usually stay away from home all day. His love of children and their love of him had often taken him to school and back, thus making him a dog capable of leaving home and finding his way back again.

The nature of the shaggy dog was slow and easy. He seldom barked and was never known to bite. A normal person would have found him easy to have around and impossible to harm. The fact that two dogs in the North Main area have recently been hit by gun pellets adds to the worry. Someone has let their dislike of dogs lead them to a dangerous act of hate.

The biggest hope is still the possibility that Fang has wandered beyond his realm, and that he is being given loving care by a kind family while another family is heartbroken, but hopeful. Fate's inability to cross these two family paths could be the simple answer. That answer brings about a simple question. Is it possible that somewhere in Clarkston there is an organization that could find civic satisfaction in setting up a central system for locating lost animals.

Most families at one time or another have had a lost animal find them. The animal is lost, hungry and traveling in blind confusion, trying to find their homes. A quick call to a central phone number would eliminate hours of worry. Worry that can be as real as that involving the loss of a family member.

With the strong hope that Fang can be found and an organization established to help lost animals, the case of one dog named Fang rests.

Dear Editor:

Thank you most sincerely for your fine cooperation and news coverage during the 1966 March of Dimes campaign against crippling birth defects.

Without the coverage you gave to the many campaign divisions and activities, we could not have achieved our goal with a 30% county increase.

tion. The University of Michigan Hospital is also receiving the following March of Dimes research grants: Birth defects—viruse research—$93,644.00; Chronic Diseases—$294,000.; and Birth Defect Center—$91,635.00.

Independence Day, Clarkston, 1966

There were many bikes, trikes and toys in the parade. This young man had his attention on someone along the parade route.

Harold Goyette and "Tink" Ronk brought a golf cart to the parade. As firemen they helped organize and run the "show". And much to the delight of the children present they were passing out candy along the parade route.

The "Batman" in his "Bat-Mobile" won one of the 3 parade prizes. He was Gregory Hall and he is pictured here with 2 Hawaiian dancers, Loralee Susan and Jimmy Kesterke. Jimmy is not too happy with the camera-man. They are the children of Mrs. Cherie Littleston Kesterke.
