Hair that had fallen to her waist is about to fall at the feet of Christina Smart. The eight and a half year old received her "first cool cut last week at the House of Style."

Thirty-one students graduate with honors

Four Clarkston High School Seniors graduated with Summa Cum Laude honors. They were Mike Schweitzer, Clayton Wilson, Joette Schultz and Chris Maier. Of these four, Mike had a 4.00 average--in other words a perfect academic record for his four high school years.

Magna Cum Laude honors went to four other seniors. Any senior who has a cumulative grade point average of 3.50 to 3.799 is presented with this award. Following are the students who graduated with this honor: Carol Quertermous, Hugh Rose, Linda Heath, Priscilla Wice and Jack Frost.

In addition 21 seniors were presented with Cum Laude honors. Any senior who has a cumulative grade point average of 3.00 to 3.499 is presented with this award. The following students were so honored: Carolyn Trent, Carita Lassfolk, Brenda Woodworth, Sue Powell, Lynn Howey, Mike Dougherty, Victor Serda, John Gettel, Christine Quinlan, Cynthia Glavach, Paul Taylor, Gary Haviland, Jack Sansom, Wanda Atkins, Sharon Rundell, Cheryl Slade, John MacGregor, Roberta Tate, Jeanne Shoots, Richard Sutton, Terry Dutcher and Neil Stalker.

Of these 21 students, Carita Lassfolk is an exchange student here from Finland for the year. And Victor Serda, who at 25 years of age decided that he wanted to get his high school diploma has been attending high school classes here for the past 3 years as well as holding down a full time job. He was a high school drop-out many years ago in Texas, but since coming to this area has completed work and graduated with honors. He is married and the father of 3 children.

Voters return incumbents to board of education

Voters in Clarkston school district on Monday returned the two incumbent board members to office and turned down the half mill proposal for the Vocational Education set up.

Only 532 voters went to the polls during Monday's heat wave. They re-elected Ronald Weber and Melvin Pohlkotte to positions on the Board of Education.

Following is the total of votes received by the candidates:

Ronald Weber	287
Melvin Pohlkotte	266
Richard Yarbrough	235
Ingrid Smith	228

The millage proposal for Vocational Education Centers passed by a vote of 4-3 within the county although Clarkston voters turned it down. There were 322 no votes and 145 in favor of the proposal. Over in Macomb county it was turned down, but that county proposal was for 1 1/2 mills.

Of the approximately 7,000 registered voters in the Clarkston district these totals by precincts reflect the light vote cast in Monday's election.

Local youths at 4-H Club Week

Richard Theriot and Beryl Austin, both of Clarkston will be attending the 1967 4-H Club Week now being held at Michigan State University.

More than 1,000 Michigan 4-H members, including 25 from Oakland County will be attending. This year's theme will be "Teen Citizenship". Each day's program will give emphasis to different areas of citizenship. The delegates will learn more about their responsibilities in society, teenage motivation, boy-girl relationships, and self and family understanding.

The 4-H'ers will be divided into 30 different club groups, led by 90 specially trained teenage "leader-developers." Volunteer 4-H leaders will serve as a resource people for the groups. The entire program has been planned by a committee of 4-H'ers selected from last year's delegates.

This year will be a "first" for parent participation. Parents of the delegates have been invited to join them for the Friday evening and Saturday program on a "teen-parent search for understanding."

Fence contract let

The fence along the Deer Lake Beach is expected to be completed by June 26 according to township officials. It is being installed by the Anchor Fence Company. Recently three members of the Township Board went to Holly where they inspected the beach in that town and talked with officials there regarding its maintenance. The township board here will be operating the beach on a lease arrangement from the Village of Clarkston.

To curtail profanity

New disorderly persons law here

Rowdyism, profanity, and indecency are a few of the things listed in a new disorderly persons ordinance adopted by the Clarkston Village Council Tuesday night. They weren't just listed, but penalties were spelled out for such antics that are covered in the ruling.

The ordinance, copied after the City of Sylvan Lake, was prompted by disturbances at the Mill pond where swimmers gather late at night and meet in the adjacent parking lot.

Councilman Keith Hallman, who serves on the police committee for the council, said he was called out at 2:00 Saturday night and 3:00 Sunday night by the police on complaints of neighbors.

Loud profanity was being used as well as abusive language to the village police. No citations could be written because it wasn't felt the previous ordinance was strong and broad enough.

The new ordinance, which was given immediate effect, covers a wide range of activity. Unlawful assemblage, disturbing the peace, loitering, assault and assault and battery, indecent and immoral language, acts and pictures, peeping toms, even prostitution are part of the new law.

Also included was carrying firearms, air rifles, and slingshots except under certain variances.

The penalty of anyone convicted under this ordinance is a fine not to exceed $100 and or imprisonment not to exceed 90 days.

In other action Tuesday night, Beattie Ford was awarded the contract for a new village truck. It replaces the present 11-year-old dump-snow blade truck. Beattie's bid was $5242.95, Matthew-Hargraves Chevrolet bid was $5982.81 and GMC's bid came in at $6575.28.

are with our smelly colognes, hair sprays, attention to close shaves and trimmed mustaches and neatness of dress, under it all their flesh hangs loose.

Now, I don't write this to mean it's true 100 percent in all people, but think of the men and women you know and see, if it isn't true in the majority of cases. What this does for the male girl, watchers is give them a lifetime of eyestrain.

Thanks to Dick Buechler I was able to participate in the Indianwood Invitational last week. We won, then lost, and I won't bore you with the details. I will bore you with something else that happened the last day, Sunday.

Rod Jacobi, Oxford MD, was teamed with Bruce Sanderson, Oxford data processor and politician. They were doing fine. They lost Friday, but won Saturday, which put them against George Wait, Oxford potato magnate and his partner, Ed Johns, Birmingham builder.

Now we'll back up. George's wife, Elda, has been expecting her sixth child for about 9 1/2 months and Rod is her doctor. Don't get ahead of me. Jacobi and Sanderson defeated Wait and Johns Sunday morning and headed out for the championship round for the third flight, consolation.

George went home and took Elda to the hospital. Rod was called off the course after 3 holes . . . but not by George. The next time George saw Rod was after the baby was delivered. George practically went into shock. "What are you doing here?", he charged.

"You have a golf match to play. John (Rod's partner, Dr. John Van de leuv) could have handed this. Who called you? You could have won that match! You could have won that match!"

I don't know if George cooled down enough to ask if it was a boy or girl, but it was a boy, Daniel Lloyd, and he comes home to 5 other "D's", Denise, David, Debbie, Darcel, and Dennis.

In 1940 one man on the farm fed himself and ten others; today he feeds himself and 35 others. This is the result of mechanization, better seeds and better agricultural practices, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Still going strong, this dental team was spotted last week in the process of flouride treating, at the Bailey Lake school.

ATTENTION: BOYS

Clarkston area boys in the 10-15 year age bracket who are interested in playing in a summer golf league are asked to attend a meeting on Friday, June 16 at 10 A.M. It will be held at Waterford Hill Country Club.

STUDENT HONORED

Thomas North of 8480 Foster Road, Clarkston is one of the students on the Honors List for the recently concluded Winter Session at Oakland Community College. He is a student on the Highland Lakes Campus.

Public lecture in Oxford June 18

"The Key to the Mystery of Creation" will be the subject of a one-hour public lecture on June 18, by Thomas A. McClain, C.S.B., of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship.

The lecture will explore the underlying spiritual nature of the universe as a creation of God, and how it affects everyday life, including spiritual healing. It's being sponsored by First Church of Christ, Scientist, Oxford, and will be given at 4 p.m. in the church edifice at 47 S. Washington Street.

TO BE RE-ASSIGNED
Marine Private Marshall R. Gratz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall W. Gratz of 7200 Clemeent Road, Waterford, was graduated from eight weeks of recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego.

He will now undergo about three weeks of individual combat training and then, after leave at home, will report to his first Marine Corps assignment.

The intensified Marine recruit training emphasizes rigid physical conditioning and survival techniques, both at sea and ashore, to develop self-confidence and endurance. Marksmanship with the M-14 rifle and 45-calibre pistol are equally stressed, and close order drill instills the traditions of Marine Corps teamwork.

A thorough study of basic military subjects; hygiene; first aid and sanitation; and the customs, courtesies; history and mission of the Marine Corps serve to polish the new Marine's recruit education and prepare him to join Marine combat forces.

GRADUATES FROM GREAT LAKES

Seaman Recruit Terry A. Boucher, 18, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Boucher of 13120 Rattalee Lake Road, Davisburg, has been graduated from nine weeks of Navy basic training at the Naval Training Center at Great Lakes, Illinois.

In the first weeks of his naval service he studied military subjects and lived and worked under conditions similar to those he will encounter on his first ship or at his first shore station.

In making the transition from civilian life to Naval service, he received instruction under veteran Navy petty officers. He studied seamanship, as well as survival techniques, military drill and other subjects.

WILL RECEIVE FURTHER TRAINING

Marine Private First Class Danny R. Riggs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Riggs of 9450 Cherrywood Road, Clarkston has been graduated from the Aviation Mechanical Fundamentals School at the Naval Air Technical Training Center in Memphis, Tennessee.

The four-week course introduces students to mathematics, physics and the principles of electricity, magnetic theory and the construction of aircraft batteries.

This month-long course prepares Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard personnel for entrance into more advanced courses at the center.

GRADUATED APRIL 13

Seaman Recruit Stuart P. Coleman, 18, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart G. Coleman of 3461 Ardeth, Drayton Plains, has been graduated from nine weeks of Navy basic training at the Naval Training Center here.

Tom Carmichael plays

Championship badminton in Jakarta

By Faith Poole

A three week world tour, a chance to play with the United States Thomas Cup Team and appearances as guests of the Indonesian and Japanese governments have all been day to day activities for a Clarkston man recently.

Thomas Carmichael, Jr. arrived home in Clarkston last Friday from a far-eastern tour climaxed by participation in the International Badminton Tournaments held in Jakarta, Indonesia. He was one of the members of the United States team--the only member ever to be on the team from one of the midwestern states.

The Thomas Cup is to the game of badminton as the Davis Cup is to tennis. He was chosen last December to be one of the representatives in the semi-finals in Jakarta last week. Other members on the team came from Massachusetts, Texas and California.

Badminton is the national sport in Indonesia. The badminton tournament is greeted with as much fervor there as our World Series is here. The teams played every time to upwards of 10,000 people. The team members state that they were treated like celebrities and were besieged for autographs. Upon arrival in the country they were greeted by General Soeharto, the acting president. They were also entertained by both the British and American Ambassadors while in the city of Jakarta. Indonesian newspapers were full of pictures and accounts of the tournament and they were taken by escorted motorcades through the city.

Even practice sessions were watched over by armed guards. One AP reporter was to be granted an interview with the American team. When he could not present the proper credentials to the guards at the door, he was brought by gun point to the Americans who vouched for the terrified newsman.

The tournaments were played at Senayan Stadium--reported to be one of the world's most beautiful stadiums. Members of the American team besides Carmichael included Jim Poole of New Orleans, Don Paup of Torrance, California, Larry Saben of Los Angeles and Stan Hales of Pasadena. Jim Poole won the singles match and also the doubles match while playing with Don Paup.

Carmichael, who holds the distinction of being one of the 25 best athletes in this sport in the world has only been playing the game for the past 10 years--starting at the age of 17. This is considered to be a late start in this fast-moving game.

His list of Badminton titles is lengthy. He holds the title of Midwestern Champ in Mens singles, and Doubles and Mixed Doubles. His partner in the Mens Doubles was James Stevens of Plymouth while Mrs. Delphine Bedford of Detroit was his partner in Mixed Doubles. His national standings show he placed 5th in national competition in singles, 6th in mens doubles and 7th in mixed doubles. Standings are determined by a panel after reviewing the accumulative tournament wins throughout a season.

In preparation for his qualifying on the U.S. team, Carmichael played 5 nights a week. He plays with the Flint, Grosse Pointe and Plymouth Badminton clubs, in addition to playing with a group from Ypsilanti.

Sponsor of the tour was the American Badminton Association. The group raised $10,000 to send the 6 men abroad. The money is raised by the same means as the Olympic funds are--through donations, private and corporate.

During the last week that they were in the Orient, the United States team was invited to Tokyo as guests of the Japanese government. While there they put on exhibition matches with the Japanese team in Tokyo. They flew from Indonesia to Japan for the invitational.

Late last week the team began their flight home, via Guam Honolulu, Los Angeles and Detroit.

Also an ardent golfer, Carmichael was a varsity golfer for MSU during his attendance there. Holding a 2 handicap at Indianwood Country Club, he last year won the Indianwood Invitational with Thad Schmidt of Drayton Plains. However, he was unable to defend his title this year as he was on tour with the Badminton team.

A salesman for A.B. Dick Company of Detroit, he is also a member of the National Guard. He was a 1961 graduate of MSU--his major, advertising.

Cherring him on from home is his charming wife, Diane--the former Diane Bever of Plymouth. Too young to root for his father yet is Tommy III the couple's 1 1/2 year old son. They have resided at 5965 Paramus for the past 1 1/2 years. Mrs. Carmichael, a special education major has the new Class B type room at Bailey Lake School--a class for the retarded child, opened only this year. Prior to their move to Clarkston, she had taught in Redford as a speech therapist and had also done work at Hawthorne Center in Northville.

Carmichael's parents, the T. Frazer Carmichaels reside in Drayton Plains.

It was clean up time for this baseball diamond. With rakes of all sizes and shapes, the field was relieved of much unwanted debris by the Little Leaguers.

A "Husband-Winning" Dessert

Can she bake a cherry pie? Tradition has it that an affirmative answer to this question is the mark of a marriageable girl. If you have trouble producing a "husband-catching pie," then try this Deep Dish Cherry Pudding. It's absolutely error proof and so yummy he'll never notice that it's not "pie shaped." The crust is a flavorful combination of crushed cookies and spices and canned cherry pie filling which eliminates the tricky cooking of cherries.

Deep Dish Cherry Pudding

| 1 (10-ounce) package LORNA DOONE Short-bread, finely rolled | 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind |
| 1 1/2 teaspoons ground cinnamon | 2 (1 pound, 6 ounce) cans cherry pie filling |
| 1/2 teaspoon ground allspice | 1 cup chopped walnuts |
| | Whipped cream or ice cream |

Combine the first three ingredients. Reserve 2/3 cup for topping. Spoon remaining into a buttered 8-inch square cake pan. Press firmly against bottom with back of a spoon. Stir lemon rind into cherry pie filling. Spoon over crust. Toss nuts with reserved crumb mixture; sprinkle over top. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 F.) 30 to 35 minutes. Serve warm or cooled. Top with sweetened whipped heavy cream or ice cream if desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Law enforcement necessary

Crimes of violence, such as forcible rape, murder, aggravated assault, etc., which increase sharply during the long hot months, are no longer the only major crime problem of many communities each summer. Some areas are haunted by an equally grave danger—riots and anarchic demonstrations which leave devastation and ruin in their wake.

This danger places a tremendous burden on law enforcement. Already hampered by undermanned staffs, police authorities are forced to marshal their strength in expected trouble spots and leave other neighborhoods without proper police protection. Nevertheless, responsible police officials recognize, as do all right-thinking Americans, that all citizens have an undeniable right to petition and demonstrate for causes they support. In fact, enforcement officers spend much of their time protecting and guarding marchers and petitioners.

However, police officials, as well as the general public, are becoming weary of persons who, for self-aggrandizement and monetary gain, exploit noble causes and agitate peaceful groups into rioting mobs. Some so-called leaders seem to "blow hot and cold with the same breath." Their preachments are beginning to have a hollow ring. They claim to support nonviolence but do they? For instance, to publicly pinpoint certain cities where riots and violence may occur seems to be inconsistent with the doctrine of nonviolence. Rather, it is more like an open invitation to hotheads and rabble rousers in those areas to move into action on cue. It puts them on notice that they are expected to riot. Where are the reason and judgment in this type of leadership?

In the past, law enforcement, with rare exception, has met its responsibilities during riots and disorders in an exemplary manner. Some police officers have been killed and many have been assaulted, abused, and maligned for no greater sin than enforcing the law. However, I am sure that the public, every man, woman and child regardless of his station in life, can rely upon responsible law enforcement to discharge its duties of protecting the lives, liberty, and property of all citizens.

Local, county, and city authorities should speak out and let everyone know that law and order will prevail. They must support the enforcement of law and make it abundantly clear that mobs, riots, and senseless destruction will not be tolerated. And too, all Americans must remember that under our system of government there can be no true liberty for one unless there is liberty for all.

Lincoln once said, "There is no grievance that is a fit subject of redress by mob law." This is an ageless maxim. The lawful way is the only way to secure equal rights, liberty, and justice for all citizens.

25 YEARS AGO IN THE CLARKSTON NEWS

The Addis family reunion was held on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Walter in Clarkston at the picturesque home built in 1850 by Jeremiah Clark, the founder of Clarkston. The exquisite yard and well kept grounds, sloping gently to the unique mill pond, with its numerous trees, proved that the occupants of this old home are as patriotic as the original owner, who was accompanied to the new state of Michigan by his father, Jeremiah Clark, a veteran of the American Revolution.

Helped marines ashore

Hospitalman Michael D. Gerbeck, USN, son of Mr. Herman E. Gerbeck of 3770 Austinwood Court, Waterford, took part in an amphibious assault near the "demilitarized zone" (DMZ) which divides North and South Vietnam, while serving aboard the command ship USS St. Paul.

As part of an operation named "Beau Charger", his ship helped put a special landing force of U.S. Marines into the southern buffer area of the "DMZ", for a search and destroy sweep through the free zone just south of the Ben Hai River. The Marines were landed by small boat as well as by helicopter.

The Leathernecks who made the sweep are Marines of the First Battalion, Third Marine Regiment, who first evacuated the South Vietnamese civilians from the area before beginning the sweep.

While "Beau Charger" was underway, pilots from U.S. aircraft carriers in the South China Sea and Tonkin Gulf flew air strikes over the area, and attacked targets indicated by the ground forces below.

Why Do They Have to Grow Up?

by Jim Fitzgerald

"They are working on a 'worthy cause,'" my son explained when I asked him how come his mother and sisters were spending the day spending money downtown.

The worthy cause, I soon discovered, was his birthday. I am now the father of a 9-year-old wise guy.

For instance:

Eddie recently accompanied me to the city dump. We watched the dump manager climb onto his tractor and push huge mounds of trash into the incinerator. That guy drove right through the open door and into the roaring flames. For a few seconds you could hardly see him and I was getting worried. But then the tractor backed out with the driver unburned.

"I wonder if his Timex watch is still running," Eddie said.

Or:

My mother (not my wife) showed Eddie my high school graduation picture. Although I was a handsome, slim young man, Eddie said he liked me better the way I look today, fat and jowly.

And he sang it to me: "I've grown accustomed to your flab . . ."

A WOMAN ASKED me the other day how come I don't write as much about my children as I used to. This column should shut her up (Shut up, Grandma).

It is true that my kids got a lot more ink when they were babies. Fathers can be excused from bragging about their kids when they are brand new. But it gets pretty nauseous when Dad shows you a picture of Junior who has the biggest newspaper route in town and he's only 26 years old.

It is even more nauseous when Dad is a columnist-editor who sneaks up on you readers, under the guise of informing or entertaining you, and then hits you in the head with the bright sayings of his children who are actually not near as bright as your children, for gosh sakes.

So, you may wonder, if the Big Blow recognizes parental nausea when he excludes it, why does he persist with this 9th birthday nonsense? A splendid question. One answer, and a true one, would be simply that I like nonsense. There isn't enough of it in the world and I must share all I can, even at the embarrassment of my relatives who really don't like the notoriety. (Except for Aunt Madeline who makes several copies of every column about her and reads them aloud at weddings, baptisms, birthday parties and funerals).

But what really got me going on goofy Eddie was his mother, the magnificent mourner. She decided Eddie was getting too old so she dragged out his baby pictures in order that his dead childhood might be properly mourned. My wife looking at old snapshots is an emotional orgy you have to see to believe. And she insists that everyone present share in it.

"Oh, remember when he disappeared at Lake Michigan and we found him in a phone booth. . . he was so cute. . . look at that expression. . . why do they have to grow up? . . ."

She went on like that for several hours, continually poking pictures in my face. I tried to ignore her, politely, but I guess her question seeped into my brain—the next day it came back to me in capital letters.

There was a National Guard display downtown. Jeeps, mortars, machine guns, artillery and other military hardware. Climbing all over the olive drab weapons, looking down barrels and fingering triggers, were dozens of little boys. They all looked about 9 years old.

I went into the office and there was a mother, about my age, asking to see pictures we'd taken. I the military funeral of her 19-year-old son, killed in Vietnam.

So I thought I'd write a little nonsense about my little boy, while he is still a little boy and hasn't grown all the way up into a world full of adults who never did grow up. Δ

Our heartiest congratulations go this week to Mike Schweitzer in his attainment of a straight 4.00 point average in High School. This outstanding record was accumulated at the same time that Mike was also active in various sports activities and other school functions.

MSU sure goofed when it came to listing their graduates this year. They had bride-to-be, Lynn Ellsworth listed as Keith L. We were able to correct their mistake just in time to record her pre-wedding parties.

Mrs. Ron Weber, wife of "Buck" Weber, school board member underwent surgery late last week. She is said to be improving satisfactorily at this time. She is in room 533 at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Howard and Shirley Altman were called home shortly after checking in at an Atlantic City, New Jersey hotel recently. Reason—daughter Stephanie was to undergo an emergency appendectomy here at home. Latest report finds Steph improving rapidly and the Altman's planning another vacation.

From the Michigan Department of Agriculture comes this bit of intelligence, "Lightning kills more people than tornadoes in an average year, and June is the month of most lightning danger in Michigan." John Calkins, PR man and writer for the Ag Department sends us this information. We just have to believe this as many years ago Marion Lawson in the Clarkston Post Office and I went to high school with John in South Lyon. Even though John's career in the public relations field has kept him busy, writing and picture taking through the years, first with "Ford Times" and later with American Forest Products, he was always noted for his imaginative sense and leadership qualities as a youngster. On one of his jobs he used to call on weekly editors, but evidently fortune has smiled on him and he now spends his time at a desk in Lansing.

He goes on to say that lightning kills an average of 230 people per year in the U.S. and causes an estimated $100,000,000 in property losses.

Another Day

By Constance Lektzian

Village smithy— a worker of amazing strength and speed

Railroads had their John Henry with his prodigious show of strength and Clarkston had a blacksmith, Frank Yeager, who left a record of having fitted and put on, 80 horseshoes in one day.

Sarah and Jeddiah Yeager left New York in 1854, bringing their year old son, Frank over the barge canals that threaded through the east, across Lake Erie in a sailing vessel and into Clarkston from Detroit by ox cart. That was in a day of high infant mortality. Most mothers hovered over their offspring the first two years of their life, in an often vain attempt to keep them alive. The very fact Frank not only survived but thrived, seemed to foretell a superior strength and hardiness.

Jeddiah, son of German emigrants, and a mechanic and blacksmith since the age of 14 opened a smith shop in Clarkston, and he followed his trade until word of the Civil War reached the village. Then in 1861 along with many others from this area, he marched away with the Light Artillery. Sarah struggled alone for four years caring for her sons and daughters while word came back that her husband fought at such places as Chickamauga and Chattanooga, Mission Ridge and Murfreesboro. In the fall of 1865, he came back from the south to his shop in the village. From then until his death at 78, he received a pension from the government which seems to imply some sort of injuries. Whatever they were, they didn't keep him from working long, full days at his trade.

Frank with his brother and sisters attended the district school, a log cabin at the edge of the village. Sitting over his slate and books, Frank could look out the glassless windows and see rows of silent Indians, Curious spectators to the education of the children of their interlopers, they never caused any trouble, simply watched in stolid quiet. Later, Jeddiah sent his children to Professor Cochran's private academy, the two story wooden structure built by Nelson Clark on the site of the present township offices.

Not anxious for an advanced education, Frank learned the blacksmith trade in his father's shop. He earned his way as a youngster helping out the neighboring farmers and gained a reputation as a worker of amazing strength and speed. In one day, he dug with a hoe 100 bushels of potatoes in three hours and during the rest of the day dug 150 bushels and picked up 45 bushels. He ran an engine in a mill and then acted as cook on a wood train for the railroad. This proved too confining and he worked for four years in several blacksmith shops.

Frank opened his own blacksmith shop at the south end of the village, on the site where the Haupt Pontiac repair department now stands. This was a convenient spot for him, for directly across the road on the corner of Depot Road was the livery stable of Peter Green, one of his customers. Frank had good reason to settle down—he had just married a young woman, daughter of the Benjamin Howes, who bore the strangely appropriate first name of Smitty.

Frank and Smitty lived at 8 East Washington Street in a house that still stands today. The parents of one son, they were considered very solid citizens, belonging to most of the organizations that the village had to offer. Frank was a staunch member of the Prohibitionists, then one of the major political parties.

The husky, strong blacksmith had a streak of the artist. In addition to shoeing horses, he pounded out on his anvil delicate black iron wreaths of flowers. Possibly these were a type of permanent funeral wreaths and they were much in demand. Skillfully made, if any of them were in existence today, they would be considered a collector's item.

When Frank reached the place in life where he no longer wanted to do a full days work, and eventually even he wanted to retire, he moved his shop to the barn at the side of his house.

Not even retirement and age took from Frank Yeager his reputation as a colorful character.

Mythical "51st state" for young delegates

Three Clarkston boys left Wednesday morning for East Lansing where they will be participating in activities of Boys' State. They were chosen by the American Legion. The boys are: Mark Adams, Kim Beattie and Scott Embrey.

It will be the largest American Legion Boys' State in history. 1290 boys, representing every area in the state will attend.

Upon arrival the representatives will be assigned to one of two fictitious political parties and assigned to a city. Three cities make a county and seven counties compose the state. Elections will be held for local offices and gradually the elections will gain importance until a governor and his staff will be chosen. The youths will be provided instruction which emphasizes the responsibilities and duties of good citizenship and the structure and inner-workings of government at all levels. Instructors will be state, county, and community officials. Boys' Staters will also learn how to draft bills, enact them into law, and enforce and administer the laws.

New teen spot opens

Last Friday night saw the opening of a new in-spot for area teenagers. TV's Hullabaloo Scene was open for the first time at 6696 Dixie Highway, formerly known as the Platter Box. It is the second of such facilities planned for the greater Detroit area. The first one opened in Dearborn in March.

The new Hullabaloo, latest of a national chain of 39 such centers will be operated by Ronald Sherwin, vice president and resident manager of Continental Securities Company and John T. Hart, manager of the Pontiac office of the same firm.

Opening night the "Hullabaloo Dancers" came from New York to show and teach the area's youngsters the nation's latest dances. John Angel was also on hand as well as Robin Seymour, popular emcee of CKLW's show and the "Rationals" a group known throughout the state.

On Thursday night, June 15 there will be an open house for parents so they will know what type of facility their youngsters will be attending. It will be held from 7:30 until 9:30.

Hullabaloo will be open Friday, Saturday and holiday evenings from 8-11:30 p.m. This hall will feature the type of live music that is popular with today's young adults. Assisting in the supervision of the center will be security officers whom Mr. Sherwin hired for that purpose.

The Touch Of Time

What marvelous buildings has man erected through the centuries. What lofty and inspiring structures has he created.

But how many of these glorious accomplishments stand intact today? We can see famous ruins the world over — mute reminders that what man builds is not permanent.

Today our buildings contain great slabs of concrete holding hidden wire and steel that will not break with stress. But can we be sure that today's creations will be standing a hundred years or two hundred years from now? Of course not.

Of what can we be certain? What does last?

Certainly the gifts of God tower indestructibly today as they have for generations . . . the things of the spirit — faith, hope and love. Our church buildings may crumble or be destroyed, but the fellowship of believers is perpetual throughout the ages.

Discover for yourself the great spiritual truths. Discover for yourself through His Church, those things which endure forever.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .

ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Senior awards presented at assembly

Senior Assembly was held Friday—the traditional time for presentation of awards. The senior awards are an effort on the part of the school to provide recognition to students who achieve a standard of proficiency. All awards are based on a composite of the student's four years in high school.

In some areas, scholarship was the only factor considered in determining the recipients while in other instances scholarship was used as the initial requirement to be eligible but participation in the various activities was also very important.

Master of Ceremonies for the Assembly was Class President, Dan Fife. Miss Grayce Warren played both the Processional and the Recessional. The Class Prophecy was given by Larry Duncan and Priscilla Wice.

The DAR Award was presented to Joette Schultz. The award is based upon scholarship, leadership and citizenship. Final selections are made by senior class advisors, counselors, faculty members and the principal.

Taylor and Hugh Rose. The Debate award winner must be a 3 year member of the debate team and have participated in at least 2/3 of the varsity debate tournaments held during his junior or senior years. Forensics award winners must have participated in a district or league contest during the senior year. Number of years of participation and honors won go toward making the decision.

Chris Maier was the winner of the Science award. The student must have a "B" average in Biology, Chemistry and Physics. The department recommendations are based upon the student's various science activities.

A new award for dramatics was given this year to Hugh Rose.

SPORTS

The Clarkston Junior High finished another successful year of intramural athletics. Many boys and girls competed in a variety of activities. 89 boys finished tackle football, 69 boys finished touch football, 17 boys finished basketball, 16 finished softball, and 43 boys finished tennis. 70 eighth graders competed in the volleyball league. 250 boys and girls competed in the annual all day track meet.

Every athlete that competed in a sport received an attractive certificate, also, all winning teams received a trophy for their performance.

The Rod Treas memorial awards were presented, as well as the outstanding achievements in Football and in track.

All of the awards were presented at the 3rd annual junior high banquet.

The very 1st winners of the Rod Treas trophy some 4 years ago spoke at the banquet. They, Pam Affolder, Tom Allen and Dan Fife spoke on the importance of athletics in high school. Bill Hanson gave a very interesting talk on what the coaches of the school expect from an athlete.

Some 375 athletes and their fathers were present at the banquet and except for the annual hot evening the banquet was a success.

All of the credit for the successful season in the intramural league must go to the coaching staff. Mr.'s Bill Bonnell, Jim Kaslasky, Don Cooper, Bill Potvin, Jim Tyrell, Jim Hall, Gordon Grice and Cliff Irwin. Mrs. Sue Kaslasky is the only female on the dedicated coaching staff.

Jim Hall has left the school system and is in business for himself at Fowlerville. Jim drove from Fowlerville to present his undefeated football team with the trophies. Jim was well thought of at Clarkston Junior High and we hate to lose the likes of Jim Hall.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Last week-end, three boys, Charles Baker, Howard Bliss, and Alfred Watson and one committeeman, Mr. Hugh Rowan of Troop 105 were inducted into the Order of the Arrow. This is an organization within the Scouting movement which is centered in the camping program and which honors those Scouts who best exemplify the spirit of the Scout Oath and Law in their daily lives. Essentially, it is a campers honor society based on the legend and traditions of the Lenni Lenape or Delaware Indians. Back in May at the Manito District Show-O-Ree, these four were selected by fellow members of Troop 105 to be called out as candidates for the Order of the Arrow. But before being admitted into the Order, each candidate had to undergo an ordeal of hard work, silence, and scant food for one day. By passing the ordeal without flinching, each became what is called an Ordeal member which, though it is a position of honor, is only the first of three levels of achievement within the Order. The next highest honor of the Order is the Brotherhood membership and the third and very highest is the Vigil which requires a tremendous amount of hard work and devoted service to attain.

Harold Schoff, another of our scouts became a brotherhood member, Richard Calhoun who was also chosen for induction was unable to attend but will have other opportunities to take the ordeal and become a member later on.
