About to begin day camp, this group of Girl Scouts tramp over and down their first hill of the day. The girls and their leaders are camping at the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club this year.

Parade to highlight July 4 celebration

The traditional Fourth of July celebration in Clarkston is once more being planned. The Independence Township Fire Department, however have announced that they will not be having the fireworks display this year. Chairman, Harry Fahrner is urging citizen participation so that the parade will be one of the biggest and the best that the village has ever had.

The parade is scheduled for 10 a.m. on the morning of the Fourth. It will commence in the north end of town at the corner of M-15 and Miller Road. Three cash prizes will be awarded to the winning parade entries.

It is hoped that Associations, clubs and organizations will enter floats in the parade. The firemen also hope that there will be a lot of youngster participation, old cars, and horse units.

Watch the News next week for more information regarding the festivities and parade.

Emergency Test to show skill

Thousands of radio amateurs throughout the United States and Canada will be taking part in this 24 hour event this weekend (June 24 and 25) this is the annual demonstration of their skills and preparedness in providing emergency communications.

Individually and in organized club groups, hams in almost every community in the county will set up portable and mobile stations in camping areas, parks and other permissible sites for the American Radio Relay League Field Day Contest.

Each individual or group will attempt to score as many points as possible by contacting other field day stations during the period from 4 P.M. Saturday until 4 P.M. Sunday. This is the 32nd such outdoor event. Boys and girls and men and women all participate. Some will set up and maintain the equipment while others operate the gasoline-driven, generator-powered rigs, prepare the meals and keep official logs for the station.

The primary purpose of this event is to provide simulated emergency training in the use of communications equipment under conditions that may be required when normal communications channels have been disrupted by disasters such as hurricanes, tornadoes and such.

In our local area, among other will be Motor City Radio Club, at Colomiere College, (Rear of Property). Visitors are welcome to come and observe the operation.

More time for attorneys

Judge Thaddeus MacKrowicz in Federal District Court in Detroit adjourned the Motion for Summary Judgment in behalf of Merle Bennett Dixie Highway, Clarkston on Monday. It was adjourned without date—in other words to give attorneys time to prepare additional briefs and written arguments. Mr. Bennett is a member of the Independence Township Board, one of the 5 defendants.

The Judge granted Nicholas Manzella and his attorney Stanley Kurzman two weeks in which to file the additional briefs and then in turn Mr. Bennett and his attorney, Sanford Lakin, of Detroit, 2 more weeks to file an amended answer.

Manzella has filed suit against the Independence Township Board in Federal Court. A previous suit filed in Oakland County Circuit Court was thrown out by Judge Farrell Roberts earlier in the year.

Manzella's complaint is based on the fact that he was discriminated against in that he was not treated similarly to other Class C license holders. He also charges that his hearing before the Township Board lacked due process all of which was a result of a conspiracy to deprive him of his license, according to his attorney Stan Kurzman.

AT BOYS STATE

Mark Adams of 6206 Sunnydale, Clarkston attending Boys' State under the sponsorship of the American Legion has been elected Judge of the Court of Appeals for the fictitious county of Crosswell. He is one of 3 Clarkston boys in East Lansing this week for this annual meet.

Former Ford Farm

Plan 324 acre housing development

A 324 acre development adjacent to the Village of Clarkston was outlined at the Village Council meeting last week. The area includes the 300-acre former Ford farm plus another 24 acre parcel.

Explaining their plans to the Council were Lloyd Kirby, John Halveston, Mahlon Benson and Ed McNamara. They have initiated the purchase agreement and have employed Richard Ahern, architect from Ann Arbor, to plan the area.

First sketches were shown the Council. The development will be along the lines of the cluster housing principal. They are taking advantage of the numerous trees and accentuating terrain to provide isolation, views, and picturesque settings.

There is several hundred feet of frontage on Deer Lake, however, the waterfront is rough and a community recreation area is expected to include a swimming pool for all residents.

There will be both single family residential areas and multiple dwelling units. They pointed out that they didn't plan the "barracks" type, but a terraced, or high rise, or multiple on the same level. Ahern had examples of the multiples he'd suggested to the developers and they were much different

Very general outline of area included in housing development explained to Clarkston Village Council. See adjoining story for details.

Their plans are to start developing a portion of the area as soon as possible. This would be approximately 75 acres and closest to the village boundary.

They expected it to take about 5 years to complete. Single family units would start at about $35,000.

A central water system is being planned and sewers are expected to be provided for in future developments. They pointed out that the varying terrain in the first parcel make septic tank disposals much more practical and the size of lots should cause no problem in the future for drainage fields.

Questions on schools, traffic flow on village streets, boat load on Deer Lake, additional village services such as police and street were raised by Council members. The developers offered full cooperation with the Council in any problems that might arise.

Purpose of the presentation was to ask the Council to extend the boundaries to include the 324 acres. If this move is finally made it would eventually mean about 2500 additional people in the Village of Clarkston and an estimated increase in valuation of between 12 and 15 million dollars, one developer said. The Council turned the proposal over to the planning commission for study and recommendation.

Plans announced for J C Golf Play

The Jaycee Junior Golf Tournament will be played this year at Pine Knob Country Club. Richard Sokol, chairman of the event states that the date is July 8 and the time 1 P.M.

Winners of the tournament will go to Frankenmuth for the state Meet on July 23.

Jim's Jottings

Often used to Eastern Daylight Savings Time yet? I'm sure glad the legislature courts and election examiners gave so much time to DST. It makes so much difference in my life. The only effect it has had been on the kids. The one who is old enough, Jim-Jim, named after the gorilla in the Detroit Zoo, tries to argue with me on the time to come in the house at night. When I called him in the house at 9:30 he says it's only 8:30. "Let's go by the old time. Let me stay out 1 more hour and I'll come in at 9:30 my time." Like General Motors and some counties in the Upper, he thinks changing now only makes confusion. And, my son, like GM and the

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Last weekend, we, the Boy Scout Troop 105, went camping at Silver Valley Campground near Tawas City. On Saturday, after making previous arrangements, we were privileged to take a tour through Wurtsmith Air Force Base, a SAC installation, in Oscoda. There, we met with the entire crew of a huge B52 bomber, who answered all our questions and pointed out and explained many of the component parts of their large ship.

Next we were able to actually enter and examine a KC135 fuel tanker plane, accompanied by its crew. The boys were especially thrilled by the pilot and copilot compartment and the instrument panel for the fuel born operation.

During the remainder of time, we also went fishing for perch on the pier at Tawas City and visited the famous Lumberman's Monument on the AuSable River. All in all, we had a wonderful weekend.

Edison lowers the cost of electric living

Lowered two ways: By free installation of major electric appliances. And by another reduction of electric rates.

Now, when you buy a new electric clothes dryer, Edison pays for installation, exclusive of venting. Your new electric range will be installed free, too, as long as these appliances are installed on Edison lines in homes up to and including four-family residences.

New electric water heaters of approved capacity are also installed free. And you'll get one of the lowest electric water heating rates ever offered.

If your home's heated by electricity, you get added savings. Your rate's been lowered again. This time, 10% over the previous rate; altogether, a 30.5% reduction in eight years.

Like to live the good life? Do it with electricity. Costs less than ever.

Church school Sunday at Calvary Lutheran

This coming Sunday, June 25th has been set aside as Church School Sunday at Calvary Lutheran Church, 6805 Bluegrass, Clarkston. The curved waist was outlined with a silken fold and centered with a tiny French bow. The A shaped skirt fell to toe-touching length. The detachable circular train fell from soft pleats at the waist to chapel length and was outlined with a wide scalloped border of the lace and lace appliques were scattered the length of the train. Silken leaves veined with seed

ON AN EVEN KEEL

Young Stan learned to row this summer. It was hard work but he didn't complain about the blisters. He was a captain in control of his ship, and very proud of his new position!

Being in control is often hard work, even for adults. Many people wish they could control their tempers, or perhaps curtail bad habits, but they fail to find within themselves the strength of will that would help them.

When problems are too big for us, that's the time to ask God for assistance. We are His children and He knows all our weaknesses. Through church attendance and prayer, we can be guided to a more serene approach to daily life. We will find His presence a constant support as we begin to take pride in our new possession . . . self control.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Is your boat registered?

Are you heading for trouble with the law? You might be if you are the owner of a motorboat and you still have not registered your boat during the current three-year cycle which began last year.

The Secretary of State's office say that their records show that about 325,000 motorboats have been registered thus far, the best showing made this early in any registration period but still far short of the department's estimate of a half-million motorboats in the state. That leaves more than 150,000 motorboat owners in Michigan "running for trouble."

Perhaps there is still some confusion about the registrations. Every motorboat--without exception and no matter what size--must be registered. The fee is small--$3.00 for the 3 year cycle. They may be registered at any branch office of the Michigan Department of State. There are offices in every county.

Owners need their prior registration or bill of sale in the case of new boats. In transfers, a $1.00 fee is charged in addition to the registration fee, if it hasn't been paid.

Registration of motorboats is in no way related to annual boat licensing, which involves only boats of 16 feet or more which get into the Great Lakes or connecting waterways.

Now is the ideal time to get a boat registered, before the boating season really gets started."

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

My younger brother is a member of one of the summer drivers training classes. I have been chosen to take my younger brother to his morning classes at seven o'clock. I have a complaint to register with the intrepid educators of this treacherous skill. My complaint is especially registered to those who arranged the schedules. The classes are obviously meeting much too late in the morning. All good Americans arise at the crack of dawn, about four o'clock. Not only does this late class waste three hours of day light, but it forces those who rise at a decent hour to break off in the middle of their morning. I just hope the next time a drivers training schedule is arranged it will take into consideration the living customs of the community.

Liver Pills Are Integrated

by Jim Fitzgerald

(NOTE: Until the June 26 issue, Jim Fitzgerald will be vacationing at his villa in Lum. To fill this space, he has swiped the summer rerun idea from TV. The 3 old columns were prize winners in state or national contests).

MAY 23, 1963

William Grigsby lives in Denver, Colorado. We wish he would move to Birmingham, Alabama, which is an awful fate to wish on anyone, but we have a good reason.

We would like to see Grigsby walk up to one of those "white only" lunch counters and order a ham sandwich. When he was refused service because he has black skin we would delight in hearing him say:

"But I have a white man's liver."

You probably read about Grigsby last week. He is a 47-year-old janitor who was suffering from "incurable cancer" of the liver. Doctors had all but given up. As a last ditch effort, they decided to attempt an operation never before performed—a liver transplant.

It worked, at least temporarily. After the operation the doctors reported that Grigsby was "satisfactorily progressing" after the first apparently successful transplant of a liver from one human to another.

The doctors also revealed that the healthy liver was taken from a white man who had died of a brain tumor a few minutes before the transplant.

Isn't that delicious? We don't mean the operation, which was certainly a remarkable hunk of medicine. We mean the absolute proof that Carter's Little Liver Pills are integrated.

Grigsby's case raises an interesting question: Could it be possible that, aside from complexion, Negroes are constructed the same way as wonderful white folks? If a "white" liver will function in a black man, can the same be said for the brain, the lungs, the eyes, even the heart?

Another question: How many "white" organs would have to be sewed into a Negro before he would be allowed to sit in the front of a Southern bus? Or: Should a black child seeing through "white" eyes be allowed to study in a white school in Mississippi?

Medical science has been making tremendous advances. The wise doctors are not only transplanting internal organs. They are also sewing on severed arms and legs. They shift skin with the ease of a blood transfusion. They borrow new noses and ears and chins and you name it.

It is conceivable that, some day, a white man could be walking around with an Indian's heart, a Chinaman's lung and a Negro's leg. Would you want your sister to marry him?

All of this could be confusing to a Birmingham police dog. Imagine biting a "dirty nigger" and getting a mouthful of white flesh. It would be enough to send a pooch back to Gravy Train.

What if you sold the hot dogs in the dime store in Oxford, Miss.? Would you select your customers by the color of their face or the origin of their digestive organs? Do you draw the color line at chewing or digesting?

How about the many southern ministers who have turned black customers away from their churches? What if they unknowingly rejected the heart of a white saint?

There's no question about it, the great minds of our generation are making this a confusing world. They can spin men around the earth in space ships but can not make a car clock that works.

And they can paste humans together like paper dolls but they can't teach brotherhood. They can plant your liver in a Negro but they can't make you respect him.

What really bothers us is this: If they keep patching people together without regard to race or religion, how is a guy going to know who to hate? Δ work, although there is probably a lot of routine office work involved too. Cathy who is a sophomore at MSU is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lessard and she was Clarkston's 1966 Junior Miss.

We wrote to Congressman McDonald's office suggesting that a picture and more information would be useful in writing the story. We understand that a photographer was called immediately and all is on its way to the News office. It just goes to show what a letter to your congressman can do!

People who have been to Expo '67 doubtless get tired of hearing me question them about it, but am still trying to get enough information to decide whether I really want to go. There are varied reports from some who say they were really gouged when it came to food and rooms, while another party tells of staying with a French Canadian family for 4 days—even enjoying breakfasts with them and personally conducted tours of Montreal—all for a very moderate sum. There were so many delights, to the New York Fair even though it was not noted to be a paying proposition that I hate to be dis-illusioned this time. The Richard Bullens recently returned and the Charly Robinsons left this week for Montreal.

"Bluegills are cheaper and better than bacon" I've been hearing a lot lately, as the father in the family persuades me that they are the fare for Sunday morning brunch. His Father's Day gifts from the daughters this year leaned more to fishing equipment than the usual shirts etc. But perhaps more of his delight on his day of the year was that daughter Alyce has turned out to be a real "fly fisher-woman" and could more than match him when it came to fly casting in our farm pond. There is no one more sentimental than fathers anyway and his day was complete when our eldest flew from the "East" and arrived in time for Father's Day.

This time of the year is always the harbinger of fresh strawberries and home-made

Most men who emigrated from the seaboard to the vast west known as the Michigan Territory were concerned over such things as money and transportation. As was Peter Addis. But he had a unique task—he had slaves to set free. This was New Jersey in 1836 when some of the older settled farms were referred to as plantations and owning slaves, while not common, was not unusual. Packing up his wife and new born son, he turned away from a life that must have been much easier than the one he found waiting for him in Independence Township.

In 1832, Peter's sister and brother-in-law, Eleanor and John Green had left New Jersey to settle in Michigan and in all probability, Peter had traveled with them. Stretched out before these young people had been vast forest lands waiting to be tamed into farms. It was a challenge and a temptation to these easterners whose own parents' farm had had most of the hardships planed away several generations ago.

Peter Addis was not a poor man in the standards of the pioneers. An inheritance from his grandfather, a veteran of the Revolution, plus the sale of his own personal property allowed him to come to Michigan well equipped. His wagons carried furniture, books and substantial farm implements. Not what we might consider creature comforts by today's standards but his family escaped some of the crudities that faced most of the early settlers.

The parents of all the early settlers must have felt the same bewilderment that often strikes modern day mothers and fathers. After working to give their children added advantages, their offspring turned their backs on these parental comforts and put themselves in a situation which quite often meant a lifetime of struggle. Today we look with pride on these pioneers, but to their parents they were probably the equivalent of a 19th century family problem.

ice cream. A few years ago I mentioned in a column that I could not locate an old-fashioned ice cream recipe when I was besieged with excellent ones. We just stop counting calories at our house when the strawberry season arrives!

Peter lost no time in entering wholeheartedly into a farming life at the edge of Clarkston village. He and his wife Mary build an attractive house on what was known then as Sashabaw Street, now known as Waldon Road. The house has been continually occupied and is now owned by the Spenceley Butters.

Peter Addis was a devout man who put his convictions into action. At a time when the Methodist services consisted of circuit riders, wading through swamps and jouncing over rough trails to give their sermons in private homes and schools, he donated $500 toward the construction of a church building. All the stone in the foundation of the Old Methodist Church came from Peter Addis' farm, carried by stone boat and oxen team to the corner of Buffalo and Church Streets.

Peter's son Ephraim had been a month old when his parents brought him to Independence Township. As his father before him, he sought more challenge in a less settled community, and after his marriage to Jane Petty, moved to Saginaw. Several years later, their young son died and was brought back to Clarkston to be buried in Peter's lot in Lakeview. Young Peter and Mary Addis.

Jane firmly refused to go back to the North woods and after a stay in Holly where their next four children were born, they came back to Independence and built a house on the old Territorial Road. Sitting on the corner of White Lake Road and what is now Dixie Highway, this is now Boothby's Country Store. When Ephraim and Jane first bought the land from George Van Sycle, a small log cabin stood there. This was their home from spring of 1876 until that fall when Ephraim completed their large white frame house. Ephraim's farm extended southward on the Dixie almost to the side of Howe's Lanes. It also included property across the Highway in what is now part of the cemetery.

Peter thoroughly enjoyed his grandchildren and one of his great delights was to take them to Pontiac to see the Barnum and Bailey circus. Now this circus went to Flint when it left Pontiac and whether for economy or convenience, the entire ensemble walked to Flint. That is, the four legged creatures walked, the two-legged ones rode. That was a gala event and almost comparable with attending a regular performance. Farmers and storekeepers drove their rigs out of the village and lined them up along the Territorial Road. Harassed mothers tried to keep barefoot children from running too close to the colorful caravan wagons and they all stood gaping at the sight of elephants and camels hot-footing it through the dust on their way to Flint. It never failed that one or more of these heavy wagons got stuck in the sandy ruts that pocked the surface of Dixie Highway. Then the elephants were put to work and the Ephraim Addis children, who had ringside seats, watched through the slow, warm summer afternoons as this colorful confusion went past.

Peter and Mary's six children lived most of their lives in this area, and like their parents before them, were hard-working, highly respected people.

Our thanks to Raymond Ephraim Addis of Holly, Michigan, great-grandson of Peter and Mary Addis, who went to the trouble of having these old pictures reproduced for our use. The original wedding picture was printed on glass.
