Many pictures of the July 4 parade are in this issue of the Clarkston News. Sponsored by the Volunteer Fire Department, the parade drew many comments of it's being the best of all. Judging the features were Marilyn Burkelow, Helen Rossano and Duffy Bell. John Ronk was general chairman.

Village council adopts new ordinances

Two ordinances were adopted at the regular meeting of the Clarkston Village Council on Monday evening. One ordinance patterned after a similar one adopted in Southfield pertains to the regulation and control of selling model glue to minors. The other one deals with zoning changes within the city.

Violation or failure to comply with the glue ordinance shall be punished by a fine of not to exceed $100 or by imprisonment not to exceed 90 days. The term "Model glue" as used in the ordinance shall mean any glue, adhesive, cement, mucilage, dope, plastic solvent or other adhesive of the type commonly used in the construction of model airplanes, automobiles, boats, and other unassembled model kits, containing toluene, acetone, xylene, butyl, alcohol, hexane, tricresylphosphate or other toxic ingredient.

A public hearing will be held at the regular August meeting on August 14 for the purpose of reviewing the zoning changes. Publication of the ordinance will be completed in the Clarkston News prior to that date.

It was reported at the meeting that the paving program in the village is going as well as can be expected considering the rainy weather. An extensive repair program is being carried out as well the new paving which is being done. It is hoped that the work will be completed this week.

New riot helmets and decals for the police cars have been ordered and will be delivered shortly. Council members also engaged in discussion relative to small pay increases and some promotions within the police department.

BULLETIN — Tuesday night Harry Fahner, 10 Robertson Ct., was named to the Clarkston Village Council. He's a constable, member of the fire department, village players and works for GM. He replaces Harold Goyette who resigned 2 months ago.

Tax time again!

Just when the reader and listener tires of hearing about a new State income tax, a possible surcharge added to his federal income tax and threats of a raise in the gasoline and cigarette taxes, word of more taxes due comes through.

The Village of Clarkston taxes are due and payable now. For the convenience of taxpayers, Village Treasurer, Mary Ann Pappas will accept your payment either by mail or during the hours of 9:30 A.M. until 12:30 P.M. on Monday through Friday.

States; the state parties (where states give samples of state products); and the elections for national officers. Friday was an extra day before returning home, so the Clarkston JC's spent the entire day sightseeing with a farewell Michigan Party as a finale on Friday night.

The 1968 National JC Convention site is Phoenix, Arizona-- and the convention club of the Clarkston Area Jaycees is already busy making plans to earn money needed to attend.

School board increases insurance coverage

The regular July meeting of the Board of Education was held on Monday evening with the full Board present. Approval of the minutes of the special meeting on June 15 when the board was reorganized was given. Re-elected to the same offices were the following: Ronald Weber, President; Walter Wilberg, Secretary; and Melvin Pohlkotte, Treasurer. The financial report was also accepted.

Richard Huttenlocher of the Huttenlocher Insurance Agency was present at the meeting to discuss the existing School District coverage with the board. Huttenlocher made various recommendations for changes.

The comprehensive and general liability packages were increased to $500,000 limits from the previous $100,000 and $300,000 limits. This was done at an additional cost of $170 per year.

Also increased was the boiler and machinery coverage to $500,000 at an additional cost of $32 per year.

Added to the insurance portfolio was personal injury and liability insurance coverage at an increased cost of $118.

Mr. and Mrs. Puckett who reside adjacent to the Sashabaw Elementary School attended the meeting. They complained to the board of children from the school frequenting their yard. They requested that the board erect a fence on the south boundary of the school. No decision was reached, however the board agreed to research the matter further and to respond either negatively or positively before September.

Mr. Barrie reported to the board on the teacher status at the present time. A small percentage have left the system to seek employment in other systems. Most of those leaving have done so because of retirement, marriage or husbands being transferred out of the area.

At the present time, 14 elementary teacher positions remained to be filled. All are filled at the secondary level with the exception of 1 Industrial Arts position.

Negotiations are still in progress with no contract agreements settled as yet, he reported.

Highlights of National Jaycee Convention

Seven couples from the Clarkston Area Jaycees attended the National Jaycee Convention in Baltimore, Maryland the last week of June. The Jerry Bradleys, Don Hamakers, Bob Newlins, Roger Olneys, Jerry Powells, Dick Wiltons, and the Lew Wints traveled by chartered bus, along with Grand Ledge and Pontiac JC's. The entire Michigan delegation was housed in the Washington Hilton Hotel in Washington D.C.

Congressman Jack McDonald arranged for Michigan District

18 JC's, of which Clarkston is a part, to take one of the special tours of the White House. This proved to be one of the highlights of the trip.

Clarkston's entire week was a busy one--climaxed by Michigan JC Past President Wendell Smith being elected one of ten national vice-presidents; and being named one of the five outstanding state presidents in the nation for 1966-67. Some of the other high points of the week were President Johnson's keynote address; the Parade of

Reading workshops deemed very successful

By Faith Poole

Midway through a summer reading program in the Clarkston Elementary Schools, Miss Genevieve Van't Roer commented that the program was going very well and that the children were benefitting a great deal.

The workshop is being conducted in cooperation with the Federal program Title I of the Economic Opportunity Act for elementary and secondary schools.

The program started for the summer on June 19 and will conclude on July 28. A staff of 15 Clarkston certified teachers are holding the classes and supervising the field trips. Purpose of the course is to assist children who are retarded in reading and for reading improvement.

This year, stress is being placed on experiences outside of the classroom. Children, with their teachers and some parents acting as chaperones have attended a baseball game in Detroit, toured the Rouge plant, visited a planetarium, various libraries and went to a rehearsal of the New York Symphony orchestra at Meadowbrook. Bus transportation is provided if the group is large otherwise private cars are used.

In addition to the usual classroom work, children this year are enjoying the benefits of a speech therapist and a musical instructor. The latter person is helping with rhythm and to improve coordination.

The individualized program which has been in existence for 1 1/2 years has had a total of 175 children enrolled in this years program. The students range from the 3rd through the 8th grades. A staff increased over last year is now able to have average class size held to 5 or less students. Children who are attending have all been recommended by their regular classroom teachers, but attendance for the workshop is purely on a voluntary basis.

It is being conducted this summer at the Sashabaw, Pine Knob, Bailey Lake, and Andersonville schools with some pupils enrolled at the Junior High building.

Last year afternoon teacher training sessions were held with a CMU professor training the instructors. Because so many were trained last year, that phase of the program has been eliminated this year, thus allowing more money to be available for other elements of the program.

Miss Van't Roer herself is taking two courses this summer at the County Office relative to the program. Prior to taking on the administrative duties of this Federal program, she was the Principal at Andersonville school for 15 1/2 years. Classroom teaching she did for 15 years before that.

Inasmuch as the Title I program has to be approved on a year to year basis, it is still not known what will be planned for next year, but Miss Van't Roer affirms that there will be some type of remedial program. Her enthusiasm for and dedication to the task of enabling the child to be a better reader is evident as she discusses the full program that the Clarkston school system has been able to carry out.

"In order to be a good reader, the student must bring something to the page," she states. To this end, she gears the program and works with her staff to make it possible for every child to be able to accomplish this.

The Washburn Follies played their way to a third place finish.

Zip Code works for new library

The Clarkston Women's Club will sell the 1967 Zip Code Directories for a summer project this year. The sale will begin July 15 and end August 15, 1967.

The directories although small and compact for easy handling have 35,000 listings. Listed are all the main post offices in the United States and also on the back cover are the 2-letter State Abbreviations which have been authorized by the U.S. Post Office Department for use in conjunction with Zip Code.

All members will have the directories to sell and the proceeds will be contributed to the Independence Township Library Fund.

Jim's Jottings

If you have your radio on WJR at certain times next week you will hear Marshall Wells or someone say . . . "One of the seldom recognized public servants in our community is the editor and publisher of your local newspaper. He is the dedicated journalist who week after week provides local communities with the news and discussions at local council meetings, progress and problems of school districts, club and church activities and just about everything of interest that is going on in your respective community."

There's more, but modesty prevents me from printing it all. My first smart-aleck impression is to say "I think I'm going to be sick." Further thought gives me a warm feeling that our efforts in this work are recognized by someone outside the industry who don't have a great deal to gain by promoting our business.

The thought comes from Detroit Edison. The complete text will be given on WJR, WHLS, Port Huron and WAAM, Ann Arbor prior to July 22.

Besides giving this vocal tribute Detroit Edison, will, on July 22 entertain some 200 editors and publishers of hometown newspapers serving some 400 communities in southeastern Michigan to a luncheon and a Tiger vs. Yankee baseball game.

The words of tribute are fine, but the meat, potatoes, and ball game get things down to the personal basis from which kind words might come for the utility company . . . if the Tigers win.

Just a bit of background on this sixth annual event. In a way we can thank the demise of the Detroit Times for it. One of their reporters, Chuck Manos, found room with Detroit Edison in public relations. One of his first suggestions was to improve relations with weekly editors by giving them lunch and a ball game. Edison likes it and so do we.

"Finding a new oil or gas field is no guarantee of financial success." That's a quote from American Petroleum's Oil Facts. 90 percent of the oil or gas wells drilled in 1966 were dry.

Now I know why I don't invest in oil fields. The other reason is no one asked me or I probably would have been suckered into that 90 percent.

Notes on passing of time-- Friday evening our family attended the wedding of one of my high school friend's daughter. I think it is the first child of a high school friend to go to the altar. I'm getting older. And, I was just thinking that in a couple years I'll be able to shoot my age for 9 holes. I average around 44.

What a fine community exchange Tecumseh, Michigan and Tecumseh, Canada had last week. 1,000 people from the city in Michigan traveled by caravan to their sister city. They were treated to a big parade, dancing, inter-city baseball game, etc.

It's the third time the cities have gotten together. The last time was 17 years ago when Tecumseh, Michigan was 125 years old. This time it was to celebrate Canada's 100th confederation birthday.

Ned Seath to play with Firebirds

Football steals the sports scene at two sites in Oakland County on Sunday (July 16) with the Detroit Lions opening camp at Cranbrook and the Pontiac Firebirds of the Midwest Football League starting their training camp at Wisner Stadium practice field.

A squad of 50 players have been invited to the opening of the Firebirds' camp under new head coach Tom Tracy, former professional star with three NFL teams.

Many outstanding former local high school players, ex-college stars and those with pro and service football experience are among the griders seeking berths on the Firebirds' roster.

A couple rugged competitors for defensive line positions are Ron Clark, a 6-4 and 265 pounder, and Ned Seath, 6-2 and 225, both former all-Service players with the U.S. Marines.

Among local players after positions with the Firebirds are ex-Pontiac Northern stars Chris Payne and Mike Samlouw; Robert Urbain of Farmington; Joe Kowaleski of Rochester; Dick Smith of Avondale; Dave Draper and Bill Haviland of Waterford.

Honey moon in Canada follows Saturday vows

A wedding breakfast at the Old Mill Tavern on Saturday, July 8 followed the 11 A.M. wedding of Carol Ann White and Craig Rolfe Smith. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. White of 6501 Balmoral in Waterford and Mr. Smith is the son of Mrs. Rolfe Smith of Maybee Road, Clarkston and the late Mr. Smith.

First Methodist Church in Clarkston was the setting for the nuptial ceremony. For her wedding the bride chose a traditional gown of silk-organza. It featured lace appliques on the bodice and sleeves. Her chapel length train and controlled skirt were appliqued with smaller matching appliques. She carried a bouquet of baby white roses interspersed with Lilly of the Valley.

Serving as her sister's Maid of Honor was Lou Ann White and the bridesmaid's were Susan Smith of Detroit and Carole Melstrom of Rochester. They carried bouquets of daisies and wore wreaths of daisies.

Sheldon B. Smith was his brother's Best Man and serving as ushers were Neil Norgrove of Detroit, Bruce Annett Jr. of Pontiac and Robert Lamb of Union Lake.

The couple traveled to Canada on their honeymoon.

Open House for Newly Weds

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lektzian of 6563 Plum Drive held open house for their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Sheppard, Sunday July 9 from noon to 6 P.M. Andrea and Keith were married recently at the Birmingham Unitarian Church in Birmingham.

A buffet of Armenian and American food was served to approximately sixty friends and relatives of the bride and her husband. A color scheme of olive green and dusk blue was carried out in the table settings. The punch table and buffet were decorated with several large white bouquets of starburst mums and gladiolas in antique vases. A three tiered white iced bridal cake was topped with a flat bouquet of white starburst mums. The cake, however, was made up of chocolate layers, the groom's favorite cake.

With a cooperative weatherman, picnic tables were set up on the lawn. Covered with olive green and blue cloths, they were centered with white planters filled with ivy and small starburst mums.

The young couple are at home on Delaware Street in Detroit. Both are working on their advanced degrees at Wayne State University and Keith will begin teaching at Michigan Lutheran Junior College in the fall. Andrea is working at Michigan State Department of Vocational Rehabilitation.

Taste of college - a week for women

While the kids are enjoying a summer break from school, Mom will have a chance to go back.

College Week for Women, an annual event at Michigan State University, gives every woman in the state a chance to get a taste of college--or a refresher. It's scheduled for July 25-28 at MSU, sponsored by the University's Cooperative Extension Service.

Homemakers can live in the dorms and eat their meals there. They attend classes taught by MSU staff members and other qualified instructors from the area. And when classes are over, special events that are educational and fun are planned.

Through special arrangements, classes taught on Thursday are designed to stand alone for homemakers who can only attend one day. These classes do not depend on information presented either in the preceding or the following class.

Homemakers may choose from such varied class topics as "My Family, My Abilities and Me," "The Changing World of the Consumer," or "Leadership Skills in Organization." "Meal Planning for Large Gatherings," "The Designed Environment," "Natural Beauty Potential for Michigan," "Three R's of Reading: Read, Revise, Revitalize," "Your Family Tree: Leaves, Roots and Pests," and "Psychology for Modern Living."

The underlying theme of College Week, "Michigan-Yesterday and Today," will provide an opportunity for Michigan illustrator, Robert Thom, to discuss history of the state. He'll use illustrations of Michigan's history that he prepared for Michigan Bell Telephone Company. The illustrations will be displayed on the campus, also.

Dick Gringhuis, artist with the MSU museum, will trace Michigan's history from prehistoric times to the country store of the 1900's.

Women from various parts of Michigan have researched history of their own communities and surrounding areas for months. They'll present the stories they've discovered, complete with authentic costumes, at a pageant Thursday evening during the week.

Truck backs into car - WRANGLERS MEET

A truck stopped on the highway and then backed into another car on Clarkston Road on Thursday afternoon. The driver of the truck according to Sheriff deputies was Neil Sohn of 30900 Orchard Lake Road in Farmington.

He stopped on the highway, then backed up. Driver of the auto was Hazel Chipman of 6097 S. Main Street, Clarkston. She stopped for the truck, and also started to back when he did. Sohn stated that he did not see her in time.

Neither driver was injured in the accident which happened at 4:05 P.M.

The 4-H Wranglers met on June 30. Vice President Lynn Race conducted the meeting with 9 of the 17 members present.

On July 8 a representative from MSU came to the Fair Grounds to give a demonstration on the proper riding and showing of horses. It was announced that there will be no contest events at the Fair this year. The Wranglers will be at the Fair on Tuesday and Wednesday, August 1 and 2.

The next meeting will be held on Thursday, June 13. It will be a clean-up day at the fairgrounds. The Wranglers will be repairing the fence there at that time.

She told officers that as she was rounding the curve on the I-75 entrance to Ortonville Road that her car started pulling to the right and she could not control the car, thus hitting the guard rail. Sheriff officers cited her for failure to have her car under control.

She received type C injuries but was not taken to a hospital.

Why the big switch to electric heat?

Good news travels fast.

Talk about your bargains! Edison has again lowered the rates on electric home heat. This time, a healthy 10% over the previous rate. Altogether a 30.5% reduction in the last eight years. No wonder the big switch to electric heat is on.

The low rate's only part of it. People also like our three-year, money-back guarantee. We give you a written estimate of operating cost; your heating bill may be less than the estimate, but not a penny higher. It's guaranteed, provided installation is made by an Edison-approved contractor on Edison lines. New low rates. A three-year, money-back guarantee. Pretty good reasons to investigate electric heat. There're others. Give us a call. We'll give you all of them. And without obligation.

EDISON lowers the cost of all-electric living.

A time for highway safety

With the summer holidays in full swing, the roads are jammed in every direction. A disturbingly large number of these motorists and their passengers will never reach the beaches, the mountains, and other holiday centers, and of those who do, another large proportion will not get back home. They will finish up in a hospital bed—or worse.

The laws of probability are inexorable in this massive variation on Russian roulette. The best one can hope for is a slight reduction, or not too great an increase, on the previous year's figures.

Predictably, the motorists will lay the blame on the authorities for failing to improve a road here, straighten out a dangerous curve there, install traffic lights at a bad junction, or do something about an insidious black spot.

No doubt this is true up to a point. Road improvements do reduce accidents, but this fact should not be allowed to obscure the overwhelming reason for the ghastly toll.

It cannot be repeated too often that the motorist himself is the prime cause of accidents—far more important, even, than mechanical defects in the vehicles. Police and road safety officials are perplexed by the problem of getting this simple message across to drivers. Certainly, far too many motorists fail, consciously or unconsciously, to adapt their speed and conduct to the prevailing conditions.

Even the most careful driver suffers the occasional lapse in concentration—and there, possibly, lies the kernel of the matter: Human beings are not machines. We are very fallible, and prone to silly mistakes. Nevertheless each man owes it to his fellows to discipline himself as far as is humanly possible.

Increasingly restrictive measures in the form of speed limits, police patrols and vehicle checks are inevitable. It is essential though, that such a campaign be accompanied by redoubled efforts to bring home to the motorist that the question of life and death is very largely in his own hands.

When a motorist complains at the high cost of motor vehicle insurance, he usually thinks in terms of the cost of repairing dented fenders or a crumpled door. He would do well to think in terms of repairing human beings, because that is immeasurably more important than any car wreck.

Any man who has mown down a fellow human and seen the consequences in terms of pain and injury or death is likely to be a more careful, more considerate driver henceforward, but society cannot afford to allow each motorist to learn the lesson the hard way.

A sportsman who wielded his rifle with the same casual abandon as so many drivers handle their equally lethal motor cars, would quickly find himself in trouble. The dangerous driver deserves the same social ostracism as the dangerous gunman.

What I Did on My Summer Vacation

by Jim Fitzgerald

The most unusual thing that happened on my vacation was when the 2 youngest kids put honey in their big sister's hair.

Which I will tell you about in a few paragraphs. First, there were some other things...

Driving to North Carolina, the first stop was for lunch at Howard Johnson's in Lima, Ohio. As reported last year, our many trips to spots of historical importance have added immeasurably to the children's education. Eddie, 9, thinks Howard Johnson was our first president. Chrissie, 11, is certain she knows how engineers decide where to build highways — "they just have to make roads connecting the Holiday Inns."

But back to that first lunch. Chrissie ordered a Summer Delight, which is a gorgeous conglomeration of fruits and sherberts. Before she got one bite, the entire Delight was spread delightfully all over the floor. The vacation had begun.

That evening we were swimming at a crowded pool in Covington, Ky. As my dear wife tip-toed toward the water in her full bathing suit, her dear son shouted: "HERE COMES TWIGGY."

The next day was rough for Chrissie. She didn't like driving in the mountains. When the road came close to 1000-foot drop-offs, she became mildly terrified. Her brother helped by pointing out the white posts and stones strung along the edge of the cliff.

"Those are grave markers," he explained. "Under each one is some driver who didn't make it all the way up the mountain."

Chrissie said to stop the car, she felt sick.

I learned a new travel game on this trip. It's called Slug Bug. The bug is a Volkswagen. Every time you see one, you slug your opponent. In Kentucky we passed a Volkswagen dealership with dozens of bugs parked out front. I thought the Viet Cong had invaded my back seat.

My brain thought up another game called I WAS IN THAT STATE BEFORE YOU WERE! The idea is to be the first to spot the sign and stick your head into Ohio or North Carolina or Kentucky and so on. Normally, in our 8-passenger wagon, Eddie rides in the third back seat and Chrissie in the middle seat. This would seem to give Chrissie an advantage. To get into the front seat, and be first over the border, she didn't have to lunge as far as Eddie. But he is a superior lugger and the game stayed pretty even. On the way home, his major achievement was a spectacular leap which made him first back into Michigan. The windshield wasn't cracked too badly and Eddie will be ok once the stitches are removed.

Our next trip is going to be by wetback, across unmarked borders in the dark of night.

We were away for Father's Day but Eddie didn't forget me. He slipped into a souvenir store and spent 40 cents for a huge button which I wore proudly until his mother saw it and said to take it off or she would leave me for good. On the button it said: "I'm an alcoholic — in case of emergency, buy me a beer."

Chrissie gave me a picture of Smoky the Bear and Mother didn't like that, either. Smoky was on the side of a flask.

We stayed at a lovely cottage in Fontana Village, a splendid resort high in the Smoky Mountains, just over the Tennessee border (Chrissie was first) into North Carolina. There was swimming and horseback riding and dozens of other things for the kids to do. I made sure they went and did them while I slept to 1 p.m. and read to 3 a.m. No TV, no radio, no newspapers. That is Happiness. I read 5 books and will recommend two: DRIESEK, the biography of author Theodore Dreiser, an incredible man, and THE DETECTIVE, a remarkable novel which is much, much more than a cops and robbers story.

Oh yes — about that honey in my oldest daughter's hair. This was unusual because Karen has a job this summer and didn't go on vacation with us. But this didn't stop Chrissie and Eddie. Going through the resort cafeteria line each day, they loaded up on tiny cartons of honey to take home. They put the honey in the glove compartment of the car. The heat, or something, blew the honey out of the cartons.

Karen had left her wig in the glove compartment.

Onward and Upward.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Our humble thanks to the many folks who have purchased the hand made articles made by the patients in the Oakland County Sanatorium. They are on display at Al's Waterford Hardware.

It did spark their interest and give them more incentive and this is so necessary in Occupational Therapy. They have to know they can be a little independent and needed in some way.

Did you know that the sale of these articles is the only means some have of purchasing necessary items of clothing for themselves? Willing Volunteers do this shopping for them in some instances where they have no family.

We wish to thank The Clarkston News for the generous article and picture in one of the April papers. We know the Occupational Therapists are very happy with the results of this endeavor.

We still need the cooperation of all people in this area to keep this a continued success.

Sincerely,

Ripples from the Pool

Police Chief Robert G. Phillips missed his first Fourth of July parade in 14 years this year as they vacationed during that period.

Lucinda Ellert who began the Teen Column in last week's paper feels a bit immobilized this week. On the 4th of July she stepped on a piece of broken glass at Deer Lake. The wound necessitated 5 stitches, but two days later she was hopping about with notebook and pencil in hand.

It's too early to look ahead to Labor Day when the 4th of July has just passed but "Mac" Mac Dougall told us that the Labor Day Regatta on Deer Lake should really be a good one this year. In addition to a local sponsor, there are 15 boats who are already known entires. Watch for more information as the summer progresses.

I sent our two young girls Carolyn Trent and Alyce Poole out to Mac Dougall's last week to get pictures—wondered why they didn't come back. But when they did, they almost looked as if they had been in the water too. Seems that dressed as they were dressed wasn't the proper way to take pictures. They balanced on a single board to get a picture, rowed in a boat with one oar and had a good time generally even with wrecked nylons, banged up legs and wind blown-hair.

Lew Wint recently attended a Jaycee Charter Night at Southern Michigan Prison in Jackson. It is the third such unit to be chartered within a state institution. Festivities were held in 11-Block with all participants sitting on the floor. There were 24 charter members in the group and Gus Harrison, director of corrections was the guest speaker. Attending besides Lew, who went in his capacity of National Director in charge of Extension were the Michigan Jaycee president, the national Jaycee director for the Midwest and other past presidents. "One of the most inspiring events, I've attended" stated Lew. I believe he wondered what would be entailed as they walked across the yard and had all of their possessions from their pockets impounded until time for departure.

They trained in Camp Shelby, Miss., Camp Carabel, Fla., Camp Livingston, La., and in Hawaii before seeing their first action in the South Pacific. In

Death of a Proud House

Built to last for centuries, nothing remained of Harrison Walter's house but a heap of rubble.

It was one of the show places of Clarkston in the years following the Civil War—that tall brick house of Harrison Walter's. Almost a century later, the new wide roads sliced a swath of front lawn away. The house stood high above the stream of traffic and caught the eye of people passing by. They saw a well built two story brick building with many high arched windows that were screened against the sun's rays with long inside wooden shutters. These windows were in themselves an innovation in this land of long winters where most farmers were thrifty about putting too many openings in their houses.

Born 127 years ago July 15, Harrison Walter was raised on a farm just north east of the village of Clarkston. He went to the nearby school and until he was 18 worked for his father in the intervals of study. He took higher education at an academy, probably at Fenton or Holly. For two winters he very successfully taught school in the Independence area. In spite of all the pride his family took in their learning and scholastic accomplishments, he wasn't satisfied that this was the life for him.

Harrison made arrangements for a farm of his own and he did it with a thoroughness that was later to mark every transaction he undertook. In 1863 he bought 76 acres and incurred a debt of $4,500, not only did he pay off this debt but he put on at least $12,000 worth of improvements. This was a startling amount in an age and area where it was more common to barter than to pay cash for any necessity. He decided, wisely, that an apple orchard would be a good source of income and bent every effort to learn all he could about growing this fruit. Eventually that apple orchard covered 30 acres. This made a fruit-house a necessity and Harrison built one that was 36 x 60 feet, with a cellar 18 feet deep. It had a capacity of storing 5000 barrels.

Not wanting his farm to be dependent on one crop, he turned his attention to raising cattle and sheep. At one time each spring the land that now makes up the Cranberry Lake subdivision rang with the bleating of a thousand sheep that Harrison Walter held over each winter. He bought and shipped about a hundred thousand pounds of wool each year. In fact there were wool stations in Clarkston until the late 1920's, run for the purpose of gathering and buying the wool raised around here. The railroad cut through near the edge of Independence township by then. Once a year Harrison Walter and his friend George Miller went to the depot and waited for the stock cars to roll in. Harrison drove home a carload of sheep and Mr. Miller took a carload of cattle, driving them across the Territorial Road and probably down the planked Depot Road.

A driving, energetic man, Mr. Walter couldn't bear to move slowly. He rode all over the township in a little single seated wagon, constantly urging his horse, "Come on, Florrie, come on, come on." One foot dangling over the side ready to jump out when they stopped. He was noted for his strict honesty and his judgment in business matters was so acute that he suffered few failures. He was proud of his farm and its beautiful house and spared no expense on its upkeep. It was here that he and his wife Mary Howell raised a family of three girls and one son. No amount of prosperity or care seemed to let any family escape the sadness of losing a child in the days before the turn of the century, and Harrison and Mary lost their first child at the age of 11 long before the last three were born.

After his death, the house and farm passed out of the hands of Harrison Walter's family. It still remained for many years a beautiful landmark near the edge of the village. Some time ago, in a senseless act of vandalism, a fire was started under the staircase of the house. Eventually it was considered unsafe to remain standing and the buildings that remained were burned under the watchful eye of the firemen. Today no trace of the once proud house that Harrison Walter's enterprise and energy built.

Airman of the Month gets "Big Mac" Pass

Airman second class, Jerome W. Orth, Kinchloe Air Base Airman of the Month, shows the special Michigan Bankard Airman of the Month bridge pass to Glenn Gustafson, bridge collector.

The special card was designed by Michigan Bankard for the use of each Airman of the Month. Michigan Bankard picks up the bridge toll. Orth's first sergeant, TSgt. James Cunningham, looks on. According to State law, free passage across the bridge is prohibited. There are no exceptions, from the Governor on down. At least with this pass the Airman will not have to pay his own toll.

TREASURE HUNT

It was in a green valley, along a river's edge in California that we saw an old gentleman panning for gold last summer. Our boys were ecstatic and insisted that we take his picture. We watched him for sometime, but he seemed not to see us, so intent was he upon the dredgings of his pan.

Immediately the boys started a lively debate, speculating on how it would feel to be in the old man's shoes; still searching for a bonanza, still believing that happiness is found in vein or lode. As I listened to the enthusiastic conversation and watched the animated faces of our sons, I felt sad for the old man who looked for treasure in the sand.

Our boys are already affluent in the joy that comes from loving God and serving His Church. This precious wealth can never be lost nor stolen from them, and may be any man's for the asking.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Recovering from hip surgery three weeks ago at Pontiac General Hospital is Doctor Robert Buehrig of Reese Road. Because Mrs. Buehrig has been at his side especially through his critical stage and through complications that arose, she has been unable to respond to the many inquiries of concerned patients and friends. Doctor Buehrig will remain a patient at the hospital at least another week. Visiting is limited, but prayers and well-wishes are much appreciated.

Sack - Mask

Rainy weather and vacations kept the playground attendance low at the beginning of this week. Those who did make it to the playgrounds kept busy making pictures with crush crepe paper. Later this week, leather kits will be used to create such things as comb cases and wrist purses.

Winners of last week's sack-mask decorating contest at Andersonville were Cherie Smith, age 4 (4-7 year old group), Carrie Holloway, 9, (8-9), and Jim Holloway, 11 1/2, (10-14).

At Clarkston, the winners were John Steele, 5, (5-7), Dede Miller, 8 1/2, (8-9), and Kathy O'Rourke, 10 (10-14).

Sashabaw's winners were Janet Lee, 7, (4-7) Cheryl Dickinson, 10 (8-10), and Julie McDonnell, 14 (11-14).

Has new position

Jack C. Frost has been assigned to a new position in the Lunkenheimer Company field sales organization. He will have headquarters in Detroit. His appointment was announced by Melvin W. Pauly, vice president in charge of sales for the Cincinnati valve manufacturer.

For the past 11 years, Frost has been a sales representative for Henry G. Thompson Co. in the Detroit area. Prior to that he had sales experience with Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co.

Frost, a native of Niagara Falls, Ontario, Canada, is a graduate of Purdue University, and a U.S. Navy veteran. He and his family live at 6125 Cramlane Drive in Clarkston.

Smith is studying Commerce and Wilberg is on the Pharmacy course.

Boys will be boys and this group of Summer Recreation Program participants are hitting it off very well.

Slowing the car, then stopping, completes another lesson on the road for Kathy Wade, a student taking Driver Training. A Junior High teacher, Don Cooper gives the lesson while Leslie Surre goes along for the ride.

Notes on the Orchard

By Constance Lektzian

The John Searights and their three youngest sons, Randy, Scott and Kevin, recently returned from vacationing at Harrisville, Michigan. They visited the Temple Dorr's parents of Mrs. Searight, at their cabin. While there, someone gifted the children with a young raccoon. Playful and affectionate, it seemed a perfect pet. However, the Searights dog, who has been with them so long he thinks he's people, was quite put out at this latest acquisition. In fact, he expressed himself so vocally Mrs. Searight found a new home for the little raccoon.

The neighborhood has broken out in a perfect rash of campers. It seems to be the most popular method of vacationing. The latest to become owners of these tents on wheels were Bud and Betty Verhey of 6607 Plum Drive. After a few week-end trips just to get in practice, Bud and Betty with sons Jerry and Jeffrey and small Matthew, took a ten-day trip northward and found a secluded campsite in Manistee National Forest. The last few days were spent at Torch Lake. They had a ride on the dune scooters at Hart and reported a fabulous time hiking and swimming.

Jack and Peg Dougherty of 6562 Pear Street packed up kit, caboodle and picnic basket and went to Columbus, Ohio to have a family reunion with 114 other Dougherty's. They took along Kristine and her friend, Heidi Buehrig, sons Jack and Kirk and small daughter Peggy. They stayed with the Jim Dougherty's of that town and when they returned, brought their daughter Pamela home for a visit, leaving Kirk down at his uncles for a week.

Instant beauty. The James Carr's of Plum Drive spent one back breaking weekend sodding their lawn. What with four daughters and lots of ambitious friends they had help, but it was still hard work. Now some of the neighbors who are beginning to wonder if anything can ever be done about crab grass and weeds are casting some mighty envious looks their way. Hard work but the results are beautiful.

The '66-'67 theatre season at the Fisher ended Saturday night but the Richard Barry's of 6543 Plum Drive got in on the last performance of "Odd Couple". The actors, George Gobel and Phil Foster turned in a hilarious performance.

"Arts and Flowers" festival "Artists in Action" will be a Saturday, July 15 feature of the Union Lake Business and Professional Womens Club's Third Annual "Arts and Flowers" Festival. Participating artists who will be demonstrating their techniques in a tented area near the intersection of Cooley and Union Lake Roads are Hilda Black, Irene Cotcher, Ingvor Davison, Hazel Nauman, Edith Porter, Lillian Richardson, Margaret Sarratoni, Viola Vis and Florence Weick.

Last year, local artists entered 170 pieces in this show. Date for accepting entries has been revised and is limited to one day only, Monday, July 10 from 12 noon to 9 p.m. at St. Patrick Church Annex on Hutchins Road. On Tuesday, Robert Thom will judge the show and prize winning entries will be on view at Union Lake merchants' store windows through July 20.

Local men open advertising firm

A new Advertising Agency was launched in Flint less than two weeks ago. Two local men have united with a Pittsburgh man to form Rossano, Mahar and Wilson Advertising Inc.

Nicholas Rossano of 107 N. Main, Clarkston and James Mahar, 46 Miller Road, Clarkston both veteran Ad men have launched the venture and are installed in temporary quarters in Flint awaiting completion of a suite of offices.

Serving as Art Director and a partner in the operation is Carl Wilson of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. He formerly had been with Campbell Ewald Agency.

Rossano had been associated with Johnson and Mayhew Ad Agency in Flint and Mahar had been with Mac Manus John & Adams Bloomfield Hills for the past 6-1/2 years.

Wilson, who hopes to move to this area will serve as the Art Director in the new firm. The other two men are both active in Clarkston Civic affairs with Mahar serving as a member of the Village Council.

Snakes create menace

Residents out on Perry Lake Road in the Cranberry Lake Estates have seen just about all the snakes they want to see. Not just the common garden variety, but real honest to goodness rattlers.

They must have been coming out of a den, but 7 snakes were seen and killed within a short period of time. This particular area has 8 homes and a combined total of 21 children running around. This makes a worrisome task for mothers and fathers as they try to protect the youngsters from these frightening reptiles.

Residents sought the help of the Conservation Department but were turned down. They took to private measures and at last report had dumped fill dirt in an area where a nest was thought to be.

Grim reminder were two dead snakes in the backyard of the Siefert home that had been killed just in case anyone had wanted to see what a real rattler looks like.

Wheelock Hospital receives payments

Wheelock Memorial Hospital in Goodrich received $62,892.31 in Medicare funds for inpatient care during the first year. The payments were made by Michigan Blue Cross, acting as fiscal intermediary for Medicare Part A.

More than 725,000 Michigan residents are enrolled in Part A of the Federal program to help the elderly meet hospital bills. Wm. S. McNary, Blue Cross president, said that Medicare payments have been increasing in the last few months even while the program's efficiency is improving.

On June 29, Blue Cross began paying hospitals four times each month, instead of twice. This, in combination with two methods of providing the hospitals with funds on an advance or accelerated system, has helped hospitals.

In summarizing hospital services provided during the first 12 months of Medicare, McNary said that Michigan Blue Cross handled about 160,000 inpatient cases and about 125,000 outpatient bills. This did not include home health care cases or nursing home care.

Sees action aboard ship

Hospitalman Michael D. Gerbeck, USN, son of Mr. Herman E. Gerbeck of 3770 Austinwood Center, Waterford, was a crew member aboard the heavy cruiser USS St. Paul when the ship engaged in a gun battle with enemy shore batteries off the coast of Vietnam.

Projectiles from the St. Paul's five and eight-inch guns destroyed one of the enemy's coastal emplacements and triggered a large, and several smaller, secondary explosions.

COMPLETES TRAINING

Marine Private Phillip A. Robertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robertson of 4510 Major, Drayton Plains, was graduated from eight weeks of recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot here.

He will now undergo about three weeks of individual combat training and then, after leave at home, will report to his first Marine assignment.

The intensified Marine recruit training emphasizes rigid physical conditioning and survival techniques, both at sea and ashore, to develop self-confidence and endurance. Marksmanship with the M-14 rifle and 45-calibre pistol are equally stressed, and close order drill instills the traditions of Marine Corps teamwork.

A thorough study of basic military subjects; hygiene; first aid and sanitation; and the customs, courtesies, history and mission of the Marine Corps serve to polish the new Marine's recruit education and prepare him to join Marine combat forces.
