PAINT JOB--Someone or some ones have taken it upon themselves to decorate the vacant school buildings corner Maybee and Pine Knob roads. There are several words on the other side and in living color. Arca residents asked the township board if they might paint the building and use it for meetings. It is currently on the painting schedule for the township.

Teachers hope to open school on schedule

Teachers of the Clarkston Community Schools, in an effort to reach a suitable agreement with the Board of Education, have called in a representative of the State Labor Mediation Board. The first meeting was held on August 2nd, at which time only one Board of Education representative was present. As a result, no decisions were made.

At the second meeting, held August 16th, the Board of Education conceded that the school calendar is negotiable, and tentative agreement was reached on one of the three major impasse areas. Several meetings have been held since the August 16th meeting, in an effort to reach agreement. The next meeting with the mediator was held August 23rd.

A meeting of the membership of the Clarkston Education Association has been planned on September 5th, for the purpose of ratification of a master agreement, or, in the absence of a master agreement, to further instruct the CEA negotiating team. At a meeting of the membership held before the close of school last June, it was agreed that, in the absence of a master agreement, there would be no opening date of school. Every effort is being made, however, to see to it that the Clarkston schools open as close to the customary date as possible, states Gerald Granlund, President of the Clarkston Education Association.

Though dad seldom left the table when there was corn to be eaten, when he did, or turned his head, his charges would grin at their mother and start up, or down, their ear mimicking dad.

This mimicking apparently lead to habit, unless it is coming out on 3rd generation. I say habit, or, because 5-year-old Susan goes through an ear of corn just like her granddad, who she has never seen eat corn on the cob. Non-stop, eyes widening.

But, perhaps, just perhaps, she is mimicking me. I seldom eat in front of a mirror so I don't know what I look like eating corn, and I don't believe what members of my family say about my eating habits any more than my father did.

There is no truth to the rumor that John Fetzer is buying Fenway Park in Boston so he can burn it down, thus not having to have his Tigers play there any more.

Council gets limit change recommendations

June 12 owners of the former Ford farm, northwest of Clarkston Village asked that their property be considered for inclusion in the village limits. This matter was turned over to the Village Planning Committee, and Monday night this group submitted their report.

Chairman of the committee was E. James Mahar and serving with him were Willis E. Kushman and David K. Leak, all members of the Council.

There was no discussion of the plan at Monday's meeting. The councilmen took it home for study.

The report gives the following recommendations: 1. That the council take all necessary legal steps to extend the village boundaries as described in the plan and shown on an accompanying map.

2. That the Council enact a new zoning ordinance necessary to protect all natural resources and control new construction within the expanded areas.

3. That the council enact a new building construction ordinance necessary to regulate standards of construction within the village.

4. That the council enact a new street construction ordinance necessary to regulate standards of construction within the village.

5. That the village negotiate with Independence Township on provisions covering sewage facilities and related financial considerations.

6. That the new zoning, building construction and road construction codes be enacted to be effective on date of expansion. Some preliminary study has been made on these codes.

The recommended boundary extension includes more than the 324 acres of former Ford property. There is an extension suggested that would push the limits out surrounding the village.

Some discussion on the recommendations could come at Monday's special meeting of the Council.

Sailing regatta scheduled

Everett MacDougall is urging all participants in the Sailing Race on Deer Lake Labor Day to dock their boats at his dock now through Labor Day.

He has received several entries already for the race which will be sponsored this year by Bob's Hardware. Trophies will be awarded for the winners.

The course for the race which will start shortly after the completion of the Parade

Lunch price rise

School Board accepts contracts for bus drivers, cafeteria help

The Board of Education held their regular August meeting on Wednesday evening instead of August 14 as scheduled. Several items were on the agenda including a progress report on the status of teacher negotiations. Representatives of the board have been meeting daily with teacher representatives. A member of the State mediation board was present for the August 16 session and will be at one meeting again this week.

Melvin Pohlkotte, Treasurer of the Clarkston Board of Education tendered his resignation to the Board in July to become effective on August 31. Mr. Pohlkotte has moved to Indiana where he is establishing a business for himself. He had been re-elected to the Board of Education in June for a two year term. His successor will be appointed by the board at the September meeting. By virtue of his office, as treasurer of the board he served on the Oakland County School's Budget Committee. When the board re-elects a new treasurer, that person will continue to serve on the County committee.

In other business the board heard a report from the Municipal Finance Commission. No approval has been given by that commission for the sale of bonds to construct the new Junior High School. Already construction is lagging by 7 months. Until that approval is granted, the bonds cannot be sold nor construction started.

A contract has been ratified between the board and the school bus drivers and the cafeteria employees. Cafeteria workers were given pay increases which will insure wages of $1.60 per hour by 1970 to comply with minimum wage laws.

Among benefits gained by the school bus drivers are two paid holidays and being paid for a trip if school is called due to inclement weather.

The board also heard a request for permission to put a partition between the wood shop and the metal shop.

A contract was awarded to the Ed Powell Construction Company for $9200 for work on the baseball field. Work should be completed by the time that school starts. It was agreed that all grassed areas would have an underground watering system installed.

Approval was given for an increase in the price of school lunches. The lunch program operated at a $13,000 loss last year. Even though part of this amount was the cost of new equipment, due to increased labor costs and food costs for this year, there was no alternative but to raise the lunch prices.

In the elementary and Junior High school, the standard lunch will now cost 35¢ instead of 30¢. In the Senior High there will be a 5¢ increase in the standard lunch while the salad plate will be raised from 35¢ to 45¢ and the adult lunch will now cost 60¢ instead of 50¢.

Fewer surplus food products are now being received from the government. At one time shipments were being received regularly of such items as roasts, ham, chicken, turkeys. This supply has now dwindled to ham-burg and occasionally turkeys at holiday time.

The board also listened to a report on recent Supreme Court decisions as they pertain to school operations.

A report was also given on the cost of installing a cyclone type fence on school property at the Sashabaw School. Cost of installing this fence, which has been requested by adjoining property owners would be $1667. A motion was made to provide this fence if these same property owners would assume half the cost for fence and construction.

Attractive trophies will grace the homes of three winners after this year's Labor Day Regatta. To be held on Deer Lake, entries for the race are being taken by "Mac" MacDougal or at Bob's Hardware, where you can also see the trophies.

Reschedule Council meet, P.O. takes option

The purpose of the special meeting of the Clarkston village council Monday night was to have village attorney, Jack L. Banycky, explain the legal steps necessary to follow up proposed zoning changes.

However, Mr. Banycky said he had not gotten the message of the meeting until Tuesday. It was on his desk when he went to his office on Tuesday morning.

He has the steps outlined and will present them at the special meeting Monday at 8 p. m.

In the absence of the attorney president Bob Wertmen heard from citizens in attendance. Many of the objections and suggestions were repeats of those made at the Public Hearing last week.

Councilman Keith Hallman informed the meeting that an option had been taken on the Methodist Church property by a Mr. Bridgeman of the Post Office Department. The department has previously shown an interest in the property on Buffalo street and said it met with their requirements.

This property is part of that being considered for rezoning to commercial.

Injured in accidents

A car rolled over on Clarkston Road on Friday when the tie rod broke. Taken to Pontiac General with type A injuries was a passenger in the car, John Clevering 36 of 186 S. Broadway, Lake Orion.

Driver of the car was Robert Miner, 23 of 5048 Drayton Road, Clarkston. He told sheriff officers who investigated that he was unable to control the vehicle. The accident happened at 4:33 P. M. in front of 5851 Clarkston Road. The mailbox at that address was hit and portions of the lawn torn up.

In another accident reported by the sheriff's office, two men received type C injuries. Malcolm Johns 40, of 5902 Andersonville

A trophy and treat were in order for this team that really dug in and walked away with first place in the Pee Wee Baseball League. The boys were backed by the A & A Trenching. Gathered at the home of one of their managers before leaving for a treat at Ted's last Tuesday, in the front row, left to right, are: Kenny Gragg, Matt Coleman, Stan Drozdowski, Mickey Nagel, Paul Reimbach. Second row: Bobby Schultz, Eddie Ball and Jay Noonan. Third row: Stan Hubbell, Kevin Ridley, Tom Ross, Mike Bennett and Brian Weber. Fourth row: Manager Ken Ross, Pete Noonan, Sponsor: Chuck DeClerck, Manager and Tim Ross, Coach.

Road, Waterford had stopped to make a left turn when he was struck by a car driven by Dickie Shaffer, 17 of 489 E. Glass Road, Ortonville. This accident happened on Sunday at 1:35 A. M. on Dixie Highway just south of M-15.

The fire was reported at 7:04 P. M. Five trucks answered the alarm.

There was extensive damage to the house and contents which were both insured. A fireman, E. McGill was treated by a local doctor for a cut which he received on his hand.

Firemen estimate the loss at $25,000 with $10,000 being the amount estimated on the contents.

Cause of the fire, which is still unknown is being investigated by the State Police.

LOCAL MAN ATTENDS LIFE INSURANCE SCHOOL

Gerald K. Harkari, 5484 Drayton Road, Clarkston, was one of 17 district representatives who recently attended a sales training school at the home office of Aid Association for Lutherans, Appleton, Wisconsin.

The school consisted of analysis and discussion sessions on life insurance principles and their application to modern day problems. Current and future trends in the life insurance industry were treated, as well as audio-visual sales training techniques.

RETREAT CANCELLED

A Retreat at Camp Agawan scheduled for this weekend for members of the Methodist Youth Fellowship has had to be cancelled. Those in charge state that there was just not enough response.

Varsity football practice starts Monday, 2-a-day

Football uniforms for varsity players were issued Tuesday, however, head coach Ralph Kenyon is quick to point out that anyone not contacted, but wishes to try out, is welcome. There are more uniforms to be given.

Coach Kenyon expects to be greeting prospective Wolves Monday morning when the first practice is set for 9 a. m.

Until school starts there will be twice-a-day practice. The morning session is from 9 to 11 and the afternoon from 1 to 3.

Uniforms will not be given to freshmen and sophomore prospects. These will be distributed a few days after practice starts for the varsity.

The first game on the schedule is at Oxford September 15, 8 p. m.

The first home game is September 19 when the junior varsity meets Oxford. The first varsity game is with Bloomfield Hills September 22.

Book store hours

Hours for the Clarkston Community Schools Book Store have been announced this week. In the elementary and middle school days that the store will be open are August 28-Sept. 1. Hours will be from 8-12 and 1-3:30.

Notes on the Orchard

By Constance Lektzian
625-2378

Out in the Orchard summer appears to be calling it a day—or a season. The chill weather has put a damper on the swimming enthusiasts, but there is a scramble to get the winter bowling teams re-organized. Husbands who meet at the lawn borders during grass cutting stint are apt to stand and discuss the advisability of putting snow blades on the mowers. Vacations are squeezed into the remaining days before school starts.

All the way from Toronto Canada came Mr. and Mrs. Lekas and their two sons. They were guests this past week-end of his brother and sister-in-law, Nick and Annetta Lekas of 6655 Plum Drive who entertained at a family party for them Friday night.

Patricia Louise, daughter of the Lauren White's of 6718 Transparent Street, celebrated her fourth birthday on August 16 with her three brothers and sisters helping her cut the birthday cake. Patricia's celebration is usually a joint one, held with four other children born the same day in Mt. Carmel Hospital. The five mothers try to get together every year for a birthday party for the two girls and three boys, but this year one of the other children was ill, and the party, in the planning for the past year, had to be cancelled.

The many friends of William Edward Keely of 6415 Waldon Road will be glad to know that he is well on his way to recovery after recent eye surgery in Pontiac General Hospital. His family is looking forward to having him at home this week-end. Best of luck, Mr. Keely.

Tom and Charlotte Ruppe of 6631 Plum Drive just returned from a week's vacation in Ontario, Canada. Geck; also five grandchildren and two sisters.

Larry and Deanna Stelmach of 6289 Waldon Road had a very welcome visitor from the upper peninsula. Miss Kathy LaButte of Garden, Michigan and a sister of Deanna, has been a house-guest of the Stelmach's the past week.

Jaycettes busy with projects

The Clarkston Jaycettes again this year will be having their Labor Day concession stand and a booth next to the concession stand for the sale of waste baskets, beach bags and curler bags made by the Jaycettes. Also Friday and Saturday there will be homemade baked goods for sale. Chairmen for this event will be Nancy Tilley and Adele Powell.

This coming Saturday, August 26th, the Clarkston Jaycees are hosting a regional golf tournament at the Arrowhead golf course. The Jaycettes will be working all day helping serve dinner to 100 Jaycees.

The Jaycettes cooked and served dinner to the Clarkston Jaycees at their regular meeting on July 19th at the Town Hall. The tables were decorated with steins filled with flowers.

August 11th and 12th four couples from Clarkston traveled to Benton Harbor for the State summer meeting. Many workshops were very informative. Couples attending from Clarkston were the Lew Wints, Richard Wiltons, Robert Newlins and Bob Jones.

Completes training

Gary S. Smith, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Smith of 69 E. Washington Street, Clarkston has just graduated from Officers Training School and has been commissioned a Second Lieutenant. He entered the service in October 1966. Currently, he is stationed at Fort Benning, Georgia where he is in training in Jump School.

His Officers Training was taken at Fort Gordon, Georgia. A Clarkston High School graduate with the class of 1960, he attended MSU, where he graduated in 1965.

Couple speaks vows at Dixie Baptist Church

Dorothy Suzanne Allen and Philip Anthony Hunter spoke their wedding vows on Saturday evening, August 5. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Paul Vanaman at the Dixie Baptist Church.

The bride, who is the daughter of the James Allens of Holly wore a gown of silk peau de soie. The sheath style gown had a chantilly lace cage with a cathedral train of matching lace. Her bouffant shoulder length veil was of illusion and was secured by a crystal and satin point cluster. She carried a cascade arrangement of pink roses and white carnations.

Honor attendants for the bride were Mrs. James Fish, Catherine Hunter, Judy Vanaman, Katherine White and Nancy Smith. They wore empire silk sheaths with a chiffon cage in hot pink and rose pink. Tawny and Tamera Fish were the flower girls.

Don Harkey served as best man and the bride's brothers Gary and John served as escorts with Charles Bishop and Robert Norris. Ushers were James Fish and Bernard Blain.

For her daughter's wedding and the reception which followed Mrs. Allen wore a peach crepe sheath with a sheer velvet flocked coat. The groom's mother chose a satin tunic dress of beige lace.

The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hunter of Wayne.

Around the Town

By Shirley Lynch

Phone 625-1065

Rodger Smith, home for summer vacation from classes at Michigan State University has a souvenir of the summer, a broken right arm. This is one souvenir he feels he could do without.

A family reunion was held at the Davisburg park Sunday with members coming from seven states besides many Michigan cities totaling seventy. Mr. and Mrs. William McCurdy were thrilled to see so many and it was the first time they have been able to see some of their tiny grandchildren. Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Romi of Dexter and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Dale of Holland were elected the committee in charge again for next year's reunion because of the wonderful job that was done at this one. A buffet of fried chicken, corn, salads and desserts surrounded a beautiful cake with the number twelve years decorated on top in honor of the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Toobin took their trailer last weekend and spent a few relaxing days in Northern Michigan and one of the state parks.

Mrs. Leland Walz and Mrs. Charles Kidd were co-hostesses with Mrs. Robert Kidd at the Kidd residence last week for a bridal shower honoring Miss Sharon Messer of Pontiac. Mrs. Charles Messer and Mrs. Merle Riddle, Miss Messer's mother and future mother were among the guests that evening. Miss Messer will be the bride of Clark Riddle of Clarkston August 19.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Seffens and family spent a week vacationing in West Branch.

Mr. and Mrs. Burt Wheeler joined Mr. and Mrs. Rob Wheeler Saturday evening for dinner and a show in Detroit. The occasion was their Fourth wedding anniversary August 5th for Mr. and Mrs. Rob Wheeler.

Dinner and dancing at the Elmwood was enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. Todd Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson and the Whiley Kings, Saturday evening.

Guy Riddle SA is spending his 14 day leave with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Merle Riddle. Guy will be able to attend the wedding of his brother Clark before returning to Great Lakes Naval Training where he will attend special training classes.

Janie Velber celebrated her fifteenth birthday, August 12, with a party which four of her friends from Detroit attended. Pizza and pop with lots of dancing to the latest records was the order of the evening.

At home with the chicken pox is Mark Davenson five year old son of the Richard Davenson's. Mark's older brother Terry is waiting his turn but kind of hopes that they'll wait till school starts.

Seven couples from the Clarkston area attended open house Sunday at the home of the Felix Bellows in honor of their twenty fifth wedding anniversary. Their son and wife Mr. and Mrs. Ronny Bellows were the hosts for the occasion. Many out of town friends joined them with one couple from as far away as Florida.

Shannon Lynch has returned home after spending a week visiting her cousin Beth Seavy of Holly.

Martha Delany has just returned from Florida where she was the house guest of the Adam Woods, former residents of Clarkston, at their home in St. Petersburg.

An exciting time was had Friday when the Kenneth Love family took off for a spur of the moment day doing and seeing things they wanted to do but could never find the time. First they went to a state park and went swimming, drove to Flint where they had dinner, visited with friends, took a picnic supper to another friends home from there they took another dip before a movie. All happenings occurred between a number of ice cream cones, sundaes and several banana splits.

Mr. and Mrs. George Davis and family have just returned to Clarkston after spending three weeks visiting many of Mr. Davis' relatives in Canada. While there they took Mr. and Mrs. George Davis Sr. on a tour of Expo '67 but because of so many wonderful displays they went back several times in order to see it all.

Miss Melodie Carter of Detroit is the house guest of the Sam Turner family this week. Mrs. Turner took Melodie and Sue Turner on a tour of the Mall where they spent the day selecting school clothes. Lunch was enjoyed at the new Pontiac Room in Hudsons. Miss Carter will be returning to her home later this week.

Ill at home with the measles is little David Pontie four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Pontie. David's grandmother, Mrs. Tillie Pontie of Jackson, promised to visit him as soon as the spots are gone and he can hardly wait.

"Stonehenge" new musical at Little Theater, Aug. 25 and 26

Area theater-goers who saw the Clarkston High School production of My Fair Lady and last summer's musicals, Finian's Rainbow and Oliver, will again have the opportunity to see many of the young actors and actresses from those shows in a new musical play, Stonehenge, to be presented at the Clarkston Little Theatre Friday and Saturday, August 25 and 26 at 8 p.m.

The play, an original musical by Shirley Moore and directed by Lee Moore, concerns the mystery surrounding the building of the Stonehenge monument in England. Both the scientific and the ancient religious views are presented in song, dialogue, and dance pageantry; and another answer, the influence of music and beauty on all creations of man, is offered.

Mary Wertman (Eliza of My Fair Lady and Sharon of Finian's) will portray Althea, the soul of music and beauty, singing the beautiful "Seagull Lullaby." Paul Walker (Col. Pickering of My Fair Lady) is back as the comic astronomer, Astro, handling humorous routines with his sidekick the scientist Morton (Norm Kapson, Oliver's Mr. Bumble). Paul is joined by his father, John, his mother, Marion (The Sowerberry undertakers of Oliver) and his brother, Craig. John sings the Minstrel solo in "The Ballad of the Blue Stone," joins Greg Donohoe in counterpoint in "4000 Years Ago" and sings the "Seagull Lullaby" with Althea. Marion Walker portrays Morton's "magic" wife Hilda, and son Craig is featured as the boy who rescues the wounded seagull from Deirdre, high priestess of the sun god. In the role of Deirdre is Charlene Backlund.

Backlund (Mrs. Pierre of My Fair Lady and featured in both Finian's and Oliver). Deirdre's Priestesses are Diane Lundy and Jodie Strother (both "veterans" of My Fair Lady, Finian's and Oliver) and Karen Kapson, Linda Lashmet (Fagin's "gang" of Oliver) and Nancy Svetcos (Oliver's Bet) and Kathy Donohoe.

The sea captain is Ron Lundy (Finian of Finian's Rainbow and Sykes of Oliver). His wisened mate, Murdock, is played by Lance Leroux and the remainder of the crew are Chris Rose and Dennis Jacobs (dodger in Oliver), and Kurit Priebe, Greg Donohoe, and Mark Taylor.

Featured as the architect, Dr. Thurston, around whose attempt to solve the mystery of Stonehenge the play revolves, is Gary Fitch (another veteran of My Fair Lady and Oliver). Paul Taylor (My Fair Lady's Doolittle) is the clown Aubrey, who cavorts in song and dance with the Stonehenge children.

Completing a total cast of fifty are Denise Forget, Leslie Carmean, Jane Kier, Debbie Fortin, Denise Fortin, Gail Vincunas, Beth Ann Own, Ruth Ann Robinson, Sandra French, Sandra Wilcox, Cindy Fletcher and Karla Robinson. The Stonehenge "young folk" are Connie McIntyre, Florie McIntyre, Danny Kapson, Joe Fortin, Fred Moore, Diane Fortin, Sam Moore, Roxanne Swain, Frances Moore, Jamie French, and Marcia Wilcox.

The staging is done in a semi "Greek-chorus" style, and Timm Wall (who lighted both Finian's and Oliver) provides some unusual mood lighting. Art and scenic projection is again in the capable hands of Ruth Ann Robinson.

Tickets for Stonehenge may be purchased from cast members or at the door.

Seymour Lake

By Gladys Sherwood

The Seymour Lake Improvement Association held their annual meeting on Sunday, August 20 at the Town Hall in Ortonville. Topics discussed were weed control, drag racing, and clean up of the area. An election of officers was held with these people taking office: William Devan, President; William Travis, Vice President; Mrs. William Devan, Secretary; and Mrs. Charles Miner, Treasurer. Board members are Mrs. Thomas Ryan, C. West, L. Kessell and Gerry McDowell. There will be another meeting later this fall to discuss weed control with a speaker on Lakes and Weed Control by a bacteriologist.

The Seymour Lake Homecoming was attended by a larger attendance than usual. The vocal duets were given by Messrs. Ballard and Cook with the latter at the organ. Two organ and piano numbers were played by Barbara Taylor of Clarkston and her teacher Mrs. Cook. Don Ritzenheim spoke briefly on "Orphans of the Living". An orphan himself, he based his oration on foster homes and the adopted child. The hardest part was for the child to say father and mother, but by

Proposals can be confusing

At last week's public hearing on proposed zoning changes in the Village of Clarkston it was mentioned that newspaper accounts were confusing. Indeed they can be. We don't know if the speaker had the Clarkston News in mind, but he could have.

Proposed changes are confusing in the fact that there seem to be so many, and a single one may be confusing when the writer tries to interpret legal descriptions of property in layman's language.

There are three proposals currently before the Village Council plus sewer and water programs. There is a proposed master plan, proposed boundary extension to the northwest, and the above mentioned proposed zoning changes.

We expected people attending the public hearing to have more than one of these in mind Monday night. However, all appeared to understand the meeting was for the single consideration of the zoning change. This speaks very well of the citizens. They knew exactly what the meeting was called for.

There could have been confusion from our stories describing the areas involved. One would have to be completely familiar with every street or followed the description on a map as he read. We had to write it the same way one eye on the map all the time.

The speaker also suggested the Council write and draw their plans and make them available for public consumption before a public hearing. This is not required by law, except for publication in a legal newspaper of general circulation in the area, but it might be good public relations.

We know of a village that does this on proposed changes, however, the Township did it on their recent public hearing on zoning. It did cost them a lot of money, but it also informed the public well in advance.

It might be something the Council should keep in mind for future public hearings.

25 YEARS AGO IN THE CLARKSTON NEWS

Members and representatives of various clubs and organizations in Independence township met at the Township Hall in Clarkston and organized the Independence Township Home Front Committee, a working group for the duration of the war. Officers elected were A.E. Butters, Chairman; Mrs. Mallory Slickney, Vice Chairman; and Ralph Habermas, and Patricia Herke Secretary's-Treasurer; Mrs. Earl Terry, publicity; Mrs. W.H. Stamp, sponsoring committee; Floyd Andrews, Howard Huttenlocher and Lloyd Megee.

The W.S.C.S. held a Silver tea at the home of Mrs. Herbert Baynes. The ladies spent the afternoon rolling bandages to be used for China relief.

At the Rotary meeting the wives of the members were guests and together they enjoyed a picnic supper in the Club rooms. Honored guests were Private Louis Warden and Mrs. Warden who were home for a few days from Orlando, Florida.

WMU Graduate

Jacquelyn Kay Morris of 5715 Sally Road, Clarkston received her Bachelor of Science degree and secondary provisional teaching certificate from Western Michigan University. The annual commencement was held on August 11 in Waldo Stadium. A total of 1836 students received degrees and heard Dr. Paul W. Briggs, a 1934 WMU graduate. He is superintendent of the Cleveland Ohio Public Schools, the 9th largest school district in the country.

ENDS FIRST TERM

Miss Kay Granger, daughter of the George Grangers of 5194 Woodlawn, Clarkston has returned home from her first term at Mich Tech at Houghton. Studying to be an electrical engineer she has been residing with her brother Bill and his wife Linda in Houghton. Bill is also attending the University there.

Togetherness in the Bathroom?

by Jim Fitzgerald

A group of us were discussing the varied stupidities of Togetherness when a woman named Hazel said the most incredible thing:

"Now they have his 'n her Johns, side by side in the bathroom."

"Ok Hazel," I said, "we were having a serious discussion about oversize sweaters with 2 neckholes for cozy couples at football games. We were talking about families who wear matching shirts and go hiking. There are even some nutty boys who wear their hair the same way as their girlfriends."

"But Hazel, old girl, do not give me any ridiculous jazz about his 'n her toilets. Please."

But Hazel kept right on talking, a habit not uncommon to the female bunch. She said she could prove there were bathrooms with twin Johns. I said she must mean public restrooms, with quintuplet and more Johns and WALLS, for gosh sakes, in between. She insisted no, she meant in private bathrooms, in homes just like mine only paid for, with no wall.

I told Hazel's husband to take his sick wife home, which he did, grumbling, naturally. I went to bed and dreamed about my days in army barracks where the Johns sat in long rows, each unsheltered, and dangling in front of each one was a U.S. Training Manual, hanging from a string attached to the ceiling. That's how I learned how to take apart an M-1 rifle. But I never did get enough John time to learn how to put it back together. It must have been something I ate, or didn't.

Anyway, I woke up remembering the Togetherness of asking the guy next to me what page he was on. And I laughed aloud, thinking of PLAYBOY magazine hanging in front of his, and GOOD HOUSEKEEPING in front of hers, and I knew that Hazel had for sure been kidding me.

Two days later the mail brought me a full page, full color ad clipped from AMERICAN HOME magazine, April issue, page 129. There they were, side by side, in the same bathroom, no wall between, his 'n her Johns. The Kohler people sell them.

On the sink Hazel had scrawled, "Do you suppose the second one could be a foot bath?"

THE NEXT TIME I saw Hazel, I apologized for doubting her. She accepted graciously ("What'd I tell ya, ya boob?") and thus began another group discussion.

"Kohler's 2 Johns are obviously not twins," I pointed out. "Putting it as coyly as possible, I'd say one was for standing and the other for sitting. I submit that it is not intended that they be used at the same time."

"So then what is the sense in having the two of them there, side by side?" asked Hazel's husband who always asks the most pertinent questions because he has been in group therapy longer than the rest of us.

"You can get an answer to that from any woman who has sat down without looking after her husband forgot to put the seat down," answered Hazel.

"Yeah, yeah," said 2 other women.

"That's strange," I said. "When I was a boy, my mother always used to give me heck for forgetting to put the seat UP."

"That's because it's supposed to go up before, and down after, and you weren't doing either," explained my wife. "I don't blame your mother."

The discussion went on considerably from there, but no firm decisions were reached. It was finally decided that I write Mr Kohler and ask exactly what he had in mind with his side-by-sides — Togetherness or Separatness?

In the meantime, I bid you Onward and Upward, flushed with success. Δ

Indian legends of Independence

The pioneers who came to Independence township in the early 1830's had some dealings with Indians in this area and according to history, all transactions appear to have been peaceful. At least there are no tales that any of our early settlers took up arms against the red men to hold their land.

Polly Vliet evolved her own scheme to get rid of the Indians when they became unwelcome visitors. The Chippewas and Ojibways who lived to the north of this settlement left their wigwags and walked the Saginaw Trail to Detroit each year to collect their treaty money. One of the greatest injustices the white men did the Indians was to introduce them to fire-water, the Indians name for whiskey. That was the commodity on which the Indian spent most of his money and it put him in an ugly mood. More than once Polly was startled by the appearance at her door of a drunken brave muttering that he wanted "Napanee and cushagan" (bread and tea). To get rid of them as quickly as possible, she handed them a cup of the brew and a chunk of bread, but tea and flour were not easy items to come by and Polly didn't always have enough of these things for her own family. Finally she hit on what proved to be a solution. When she knew it was time for the Indians to start homeward from Detroit, she always kept a pot of water boiling over the fire with a big dipper handy. The next time she heard the grumbled request for tea and bread, she turned her back to the door, dipped up some of the boiling water and threw it over her shoulder. There would be a scuffled departure and the angry exclamation "Heap bad squaw!" but the Indians soon learned to go elsewhere for their begging.

When the George Miller family with their six children first came to this area in 1837, their closest neighbors were a group of 300 Indians who had about 75 ponies staked out around their village. The three Miller boys, Samuel, David and young George became close friends with the Indian's boys. When the young Indians passed the word along to them that there was to be a pow-wow that night, the three waited until their parents were asleep, slipped down from their loft bedroom and walked through the woods to the council fire, where they sat in the background with the Indian lads and listened to the tribal elders making plans.

As late as a few years before the Civil War, there is a recorded mention of Indians still living in the Clarkston area. Frank Yeager, who grew up to become a far-famed blacksmith, related that when he started to school, the pupils could look out and see rows of Indians, stolid and quiet, watching the white youngsters learning their three R's. Unfortunately, there is no evidence or record that anyone ever took the trouble to help the Indians around here get an education.

There were Indians in this region whose history became legends. Sashabaw Plains was once part of the hunting grounds of a tribe whose chief was Sashabaw. This Sashabaw became friends with Oliver Williams who settled in what is now Waterford township near Silver Lake. Sashabaw made frequent trips to see his white friend and relied on him for advice. The Indians roved from the plains to Waterford's lakes, finding all the hunting and fishing needed to keep them in food and clothing. It is said that Sashabaw became the victim of an incurable disease and at his death, was buried on the banks of Silver Lake near the Williams home.

Sashabaw had a half brother, Wa-me-gan a young giant in size who was considered one of the bravest men in his tribe. He was their greatest hunter as well, absolutely fearless in facing the wild animals. It was this fearlessness that led to his death. One day in early winter, he came upon a huge bear. Wa-me-gan failed to down him with his first shot, and apparently not having time to reload before the bear attacked, he went at him with his knife. A battle followed which must have been terrible, judging from the condition of Wa-me-gan when they finally found him. Days passed and the storms were setting in, when Wa-me-gan's sons finally decided to set out in search of their father. There were three of them, Ke-o-quim, Mashquet and As-a-bum, and aided by two of William's boys, they started out to find their father's trail. The drifting snow had covered most of the tracks and it was days before they found the tracks of before they found the tracks of blood. Following these, they found Wa-me-gan, reposing against a pine tree in Sashabaw Plains. He had dressed his wounds and then drawn his blanket over his head to await the end. His sons were too late. They took his body to Silver Lake where he was buried beside Sashabaw and then they

By Lucinda Ellert

About two weeks ago several Clarkston residents were rather excited simply because they were going to camp. These teenagers between the ages of thirteen and fifteen were going to a music camp at Northern Michigan University in Marquette Michigan. Some of the youths representing Clarkston Senior High School were Robin Prader, Beth Ann Eisenlohr, Mike Smith, Krinker Kojima, Richard Klein, Lucinda Ellert, Kim Mayo, and James Gordon. The camp was held from Sunday, August thirteenth through Saturday, August nineteenth.

Last week August twelfth, the Boyd Eisenlohns took their daughter Beth Ann and me up to Marquette, Michigan where we would be participating in the music camp being held there. We left around 6:30 in the morning and got to the Straits about 10:30 where I got pictures of the bridge, ate lunch and looked around in various gift shops. Then we crossed the fantastically huge bridge and were on our way again. We arrived in Marquette about 4:30 Clarkston time, 3:30 their time. Beth and I checked in and got the key to our dorm room and then went out with Mr. and Mrs. Eisenlohr to explore the town and eat dinner. The next morning we had to fend for ourselves. In the afternoon after all of the four hundred campers had arrived we had a meeting in the campus theatre building where we found out rules, schedules, and activities. After that we went to out classrooms for tryouts and orientation. For recreation there were swimming, dances, movies, tennis, and games.

Besides the regular band and returned to avenge their father's death. After a long hunt they found the bear, wounded but still able to fight back. Killing him, the sons returned with the bear to the Indian settlement, where the tribe, mourning Wa-me-gan, feasted many days on the bear meat. There is a road and a section of the township named after Sashabaw, and Wa-me-gan apparently was not forgotten either. In Springfield, near the edge of Independence Township, is a lake and a street named Wa-me-gan.

In the portion of historical records that contain Indian names, we come up against a diversity of spellings. Sashabaw has been spelled Sash-a-baw and as-a-baw, and Wa-me-gan was also found as Wa-me-ga as well as the present day spelling of Wa-me-gah.

chorus there was a string workshop, a special symphonic band in which the youths were very skilled with their instruments, and a baton twirling section. Also at N.M.U. there is a debaters camp, and a basketball camp.

The chorus department, directed by Dr. James McKelvy, consisted of about sixty youths, ages fourteen through seventeen. The choir was divided into four smaller choirs: the red group, the green group, the yellow group, and the blue group. Each color had two or three sopranos, altos, tenors, and basses. The youths in the yellow group had the best tone quality, and this one was chosen to go to Escanaba to sing for the governor on Friday, August 18. Starting on Monday, everyone worked towards the final day and concert. The choir sang the Schubert "Mass in G", "The Doe" by Hindimith, "The Month of May" by Halsey Stevens, "Be Joyful by Monteverdi and "Lament for April 15" by Avery Clafin.

Dr. James McKelvy, the choir director, is well known throughout the country for his choral directing and conducting classes. He is a graduate of Oberlin College in Ohio and the University of Southern California. He has taught at UCLA, USC, and Berkley College. At Marquette he directs the Arts Choral and the University Choir.

Miss Beth Tobin, a charming young lady, accompanied the choir during their camp rehearsals. Miss Tobin graduated from NMU this past June. She majored in music education and is a member of the Arts Choral. She will be teaching vocal music at Clarkston Senior High School this fall. We are very fortunate to have her here and she is equally pleased to come here.

James Hansen, one of the favorite teachers in the camp also graduated from NMU but he will be taking one more year in order to get his masters degree. He held a conducting class for the students in the camp choir. Some of the other vocal teachers were Steve Denison, who taught us to read music, and Dale Gayan who was in vocal training. Both are graduates of NMU.

In baton twirling the leader of the 60 girls was Miss Ellen Sielaff who is a national champion in baton twirling. Her assistant is Nancy Willman who was the outstanding majorette last year at NMU camp. This year a girl named Shelly Over took the lead in the honor

"An apple a day keeps the doctor away." Everywhere you go around our house, there are apples. Big red ones, little green ones, you name 'em, we got them. They're in bags, overflowing in boxes, the ice-box is full of them. . . . but, no, one dares eat one.

We also have an antique type egg incubator. This contraption is a hold over from the days we were in the poultry raising business. We used to hatch some of our chicken eggs in it. It was a delight, every morning you would get up and dash to the incubator to turn the eggs. Now, it too is full of apples.

Ever since Calhoun got on this sculptoring kick, she has been whittling everything down to size. At first, her projects were small. She started with a hunk of wax and formed one of the most beautiful horses I've seen. Detail was perfect. The stance was absolute. The finish, after it was cast in bronze, gave the illusion that you were looking at a proud animal. Up until she got involved with the apples, I have been her chief router.

Not too long ago, she met a guy who carves apples. She thought that it was so much fun, she issued an order, "No one is to eat any more of my apples". Note the possessive, "MY APPLES".

All day and night, she sits there with the TV going full blast. She isn't aware of what's being shown on the tube; she's deep in thought, whittling giant hunks from her apples. The children are clustered around her. Their tongues hanging out. No one gets an apple. She has become so stingy with her apples, that she won't even share the hunks that would normally litter the floor around her. She eats 'em. Every tiny bit.

After she has carved some hideous looking face into the soft fleshy part of the apple, she puts it in the egg incubator, to hurry the drying process. Last night, she opened the door on the incubator. Pulling the shelf out, she gave me a tour of her museum of shriveled heads. The succulent red apples, in a matter of only a few days, had dried and withered. The results looked like something from out of space. Frightening, but she calls it art, or something.

Light session for township board

It was a light agenda for the Independence Township Board Tuesday night. A couple of complaints were heard and there was discussion on a couple more problems.

Clerk Howard Altman read a letter that had been written to Humphrey and Eaton concerning their proposed trailer permit on Clintonville road. It acknowledged the court order to issue the permits, and stated in event the appellate court reverses the previous decision the permit would be null and void.

Altman reported the fencing at the Deer Lake swimming area is nearly completed, however, until it is entirely finished final payment will be withheld. Supervisor Duane Hursfall reported that Pelton Heights Home Owners Association were donating playground equipment for the township for use at the lake.

A citizen questioned if the township shouldn't be checking the grading, or hill building going on at Pine Knob Ski resort. Rains are causing erosion and other problems on neighboring property. Hursfall has been unable to locate the owners at the site this summer, but is continuing to check the complaint.

Other citizens from the Maybee-Pine Knob road area told the board of extensive painting on the former school house at the corner, which is now owned by the Township. They wondered at the township plans for the building and if they might paint it, clean it up, and have use of it for meetings.

Hursfall said the building had been used by the Clarkston Schools for storage and hadn't been notified of it being vacated. He said this, and all township buildings, were scheduled to be painted this year.

Discussion of leasing a Xerox copying machine for library work lead to an offer to lease the machine for $74.00 a month, not to exceed 3 months. There are some 2,000 books that have to have an average of 6 nearly identical cards made for each. The machine would also be used for other purposes the committee said.

Hunting, or limiting hunting, also came up for discussion. Hursfall pointed out that Senator Lodge had introduced legislation during the last session to allow Independence residence to vote on limiting hunting. It passed the Senate, but died in a House committee.

The same bill is expected to be introduced in the next session. If it passes township voters would have the question put to them on a ballot next year, probably August.

Whether hunting of all kinds would be limited to above 175, or duck hunting prohibited, or just what limitations, if any, might be written in the law won't be decided until after the state passes the necessary legislation.

Seeking entries for Pixie King and Queen contest

Children and parents are urged to send their pictures in so that they may be entered in the Pixie King and Queen contest. Sponsors of this event are the Clarkston Area Jaycee Convention Club. A $25 bond will go to each winner and the privilege of riding in the Labor Day parade.

Entries should be sent by August 28 to Mrs. Don Hamaker, Chrm. at 5525 Kingfisher, Clarkston. Included must be the child's name, phone number and age. Pictures are not returnable. Children 3-6 years of age are eligible.

Ballot boxes will be put in a prominent location in Clarkston with voting taking place from August 28 through September 3. Each penny placed in the ballot box equals one vote for the child. The boy and girl with the most votes will be crowned on Sunday, September 3.

Cited for passing on right

A cement truck that was trying to pass on the right hand side struck a car near the corner of Sashabaw and Maybee Roads on Monday night. Driver of the truck which was owned by Tru-Bilt was Hurley Chambers, 25 of 284 Bondale, Pontiac.

Driving the auto was Samuel Burket, 65 of 178 W. Rundel in Pontiac. He was making a turn into the Sunoco station there when the truck attempted to pass on the right.

Neither driver was injured according to the report by the sheriff department. However Chambers was cited for speed that was too fast and for improper overtaking.

On Thursday at 8 A.M., a Clarkston woman was injured and taken to Pontiac General Hospital. She was travelling on Dixie Highway near Haskins Auto Sales and attempted to roll up a car window when she lost control.

Sheriff officers cited her for failure to have the vehicle under control.

Fun, bargains for everyone during Village Days

Plans are nearing completion for the Annual Village Days celebration in Clarkston. Scheduled for September 1 and 2, the festivities will extend over Labor Day to include the annual parade and the second Sailing Regatta at Deer Lake.

Merchants will once again take to the sidewalk with their wares. However bargains and specials will not be confined to the outside of their stores. Businessmen will be well prepared for area shoppers doing their back to school shopping. They will also be offering prizes to shoppers who fill out tickets while shopping those two days.

There will be rides, games of chance and a regular carnival atmosphere when the Jaycees set up their 4 day stand on the Village parking lot and in the vacant lot facing Washington Street. The street will be blocked off for the 4 days and both the Jaycees and Jaycettes will have booths and concession stands.

Don Colton is serving as Jaycee Chairman of that affair and is assisted in the effort by Bob Tilley.

Arrangements have been made for an Art Show which will be held in the former Alger Building on Main Street. A similar display last year drew a great deal of attention.

"Entries are still being sought for the Labor Day Parade", states Bob Skerratt, chairman for this Rotary sponsored event. The parade will start at 10 A.M. from Miller Road and M-15, and will have as this year's theme, "Sunday Comics".

Following the parade there will be a Corn Roast sponsored by Campbell Richmond Post of the American Legion at their post home on M-15. Also following will be the second annual sailing race on Deer Lake. To be known as Mac's Regatta, the affair this year is being sponsored by Bob's Hardware. Several sail boats are already entered in the race. A map of the course will be printed in next week's issue of the News.

IN VIETNAM

Equipment Operator Third Class Charles William Malett, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry I. Mallett of 9548 Dolores Drive, Clarkston has reported for duty at the Naval Support Activity in Da Nang, Vietnam.

The activity was established to meet increased requirements for combat logistic support of operations in Vietnam. Approximately 8,000 Navy officers and men are being assigned to the activity.

Their tasks will include off-loading ships and handling supplies from razor blades to road-graders, aircraft fuel and lubricants, and provisions of all kinds, through the port of Da Nang and over beaches from the demilitarized zone in the north to Chu Lai in the south.

Returns from tour

By Constance Lektzian

Sharlene, the daughter of the Samuel Millers of 8391 Bridge Lake Road recently returned from a five week tour of Europe. Sharlene, a 5th grade teacher at Oakland Elementary school in Royal Oak was accompanied by Miss Beth Fetrow of Birmingham and Miss Gay Baumgartner of Pontiac.

The three girls flew to London where they spent three days before going on to Paris, the Netherlands, Italy, Germany, Monaco and Switzerland. While in Italy they visited Venice and Florence. In Florence there is still much restoration work going on and there is still a great deal of evidence of the flood damage. The three were particularly delighted with Switzerland where they stayed in the town of Zermatt, near the Matterhorn. It is from here that the clog railways take passengers on scenic trips to various heights on the Matterhorn. The girls had some wonderful experiences to pass on to their pupils.

Coinciding with Sharlene's return from Europe, was the ten day leave of her brother, Sp. 4 Samuel R. Miller from Fort Bragg, North Carolina. Their son has been in service over a year. The senior Millers were delighted to have them both home at the same time. Sp. 4 Miller has just returned to his army post and has another year to serve.

happiness is a high hill

It had been a long climb. For various reasons, we were all glad to get to the top of the hill. Jackie rolled down, over and over, to the inviting creek at the bottom. Sally bolted off to climb the neighbor's fence and croon to the colts pastured there. Baby saw the butterflies and struggled to get down. Jack dreamed over the rich soil of the south forty, while I was drawn by the tall-spired church in the valley.

We're happy in the home we've built on that hill. We've a dog and a cat and swings for the children. Summers, we race down the hill to cool off in the creek. Winters, we get the sled out and take it singing down the slope.

The kitchen windows frame a lovely view of the valley and our church. On Sunday mornings, when its deep-throated bells call us clearly to worship, we go down the hill together to its doors. We enter reverently and joyfully, knowing that much of our happiness and security stems from God's love.

Wherever your church may be; in valley, on hill, or city street, you will find the same glorious opportunity to sustain and strengthen your faith.
