Two of many men with a dedicated interest in the welfare of the young people of Independence Township are Ralph Trahm, Case Worker of the Clarkston Area Youth Assistance Committee and the Township Supervisor, Duane Hursfall.

M-15 junkyard to be screened

The Marine City Nursery Company of Marine City has been awarded the contract to screen three junkyards in Oakland County. One of these is located on M-15, north of Clarkston.

J. Oliver Smith of Pontiac is the project engineer. Seventy-five percent of the cost will be financed with federal funds and the remainder with state funds. Work is expected to be completed on the projects by next September.

The three projects will involve an expenditure of $12,802. The other two junkyards are located on M-59 at West Highland and on M-19 at the south edge of New Haven.

The work is under the direction of the Michigan State Highway Commission.

REFLECTION OF A QUEEN—Cheryl Mansfield, a senior, will reign over Clarkston High School's homecoming festivities this week. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

Traffic accident at school injures girl

A Junior High School student on her way to school Monday morning was struck and injured. Marilyn Biondi, 12, is a patient at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, with a broken leg as a result of the accident. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Biondi of 6156 Cramlane Drive in Clarkston.

Driver of the car was Lillian Mager, 35, of 9590 Woodside in Clarkston. She told sheriff officers who investigated that she saw Marilyn look to the right and assumed that she would also look to the left, but instead the girl walked into the right front of the car. A deputy in the sheriff department, Fred Olson, was a witness to the accident. There was no traffic violation listed on the report by that office.

Marilyn was taken by ambulance to the hospital where surgery was performed on Tuesday. It was hoped that the surgery would make it possible for the girl to walk with crutches as soon as possible. The break occurred between the hip and the knee.

The accident occurred at 7:55 at the intersection of Waldon Road and Cherry Lawn Street.

made big plans to go duck hunting at the Hiawatha Club with some of the boys last week, but like most of my plans, they went awry. However, since no one was expecting me at the office I decided to take one of them "home" vacations. Hazel went to work as usual and I tended to home and tried to remember the few hundred things she'd asked me to do during the last years. Things have a way of getting done, thankfully, and this, plus poor memory, left me with enough leisure time to relax, watch the world series, and start cleaning the garage. The car never got done. I did get the vacuum cleaner fixed, repaired three bikes and fixed the nose on Susan's new lifted dog. It was good to spend some time with 5-year-old Susan. I learned she is no trouble. I wouldn't know she was in the house. She's got to be a great joy to her mother, who just be envied by others, for quietness alone. I heard the children speak the Lord's Prayer three nights in a row, beating my old record. I was in bed and one day Susan and I walked down the street and bought a pumpkin. She seemed to thoroughly enjoy our sitting in the middle of the kitchen floor cutting out Halloween faces. These things are probably stuff to most dads. It made me realize how few things I do with my kids. For instance I don't remember decorating Easter eggs with the kids and the eldest is 13. I haven't cut out a pumpkin in years. Fix a bicycle? I own one. I realized I haven't taken the time to pet our dog in weeks. What I haven't figured out is if I'm lazy or if my values are misaligned. I got too many obligations to let laziness creep in, though I certainly have the time sometimes. It's got to be my value alignment. Let's see... business

Receives award for outstanding carrier service

Edward Jennings, 14, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Jennings of 6475 Waldon Road has been named to receive the Pontiac Press Outstanding Carrier Boy Award. These are presented each year by the Inland Daily Press Association.

He is one of 10 boys selected by the Press and those 10 boys spent 2 days this week in Lansing. Activities there for the boys included watching an MSU football practice and meeting with Duffy Daughterty. Tuesday evening there was a banquet and movie for the boys' entertainment and on Wednesday the group toured the capital and the Oldsmobile plant.

Following that the boys returned to Pontiac and afterwards to Harvey's Colonial House for a banquet and award presentation.

Selections are made by their District Managers. The 10 boys were picked from the 1024 Press carrier boys. Criteria for the judges decisions were their individual efforts in building a route. They are also selected on the basis of citizenship, scholarship, service, courtesy, honesty, perseverance, salesmanship and promptness.

Edward has served as a Pontiac Press carrier for about one year.

Pancake supper Monday

Plans are nearing completion for the Rotary sponsored Pancake Supper. It will be held in the Clarkston Community Center at 90 N. Main Street on Monday evening, October 23. Serving will be from 5 to 7 P.M.

Rotarians who sponsor this affair annually use the proceeds for their pledge to the Library Fund, for their donation to the Crippled Childrens Fund, and their 2 December projects - shoes for needy children and the Christmas decorations for the village.

Tickets may be purchased from any Rotarian or at the door.

first; playtime next; then family. I don't see anything wrong with that, unless business and playtime are transposed. Maybe I should take a few more days to be with my family to think about it.

Sewage disposal plant problems

Closure threatens Ski Resort

Pine Knob Ski Resort faces the possibility of not being allowed to open this fall.

In a letter sent to the resort owners by Oscar Boyea, Oakland County sanitarian in the county Health Department, it was pointed out that they had 30 days from the date of the letter to correct problems in their sewage disposal system. The letter was dated October 11, 1967.

A copy of the letter was sent to both supervisor Duane Hursfall and clerk Howard Altman and was read at Independence Township Board meeting Monday night.

It stated that the lagoon disposal area and septic system had been viewed by the county and state Water Resources Commission and they set forth seven areas where corrective measures are necessary.

Boyea said the sewer plant was badly neglected, it was sludged up, the gravity draining wasn't satisfactory, and protective fencing was needed, among other things.

The first contact with the ski resort on their sewage problem was made by the county September 27, 1962. Further contact was made in November, 1966 and again in May of this year.

Boyea's letter pointed out to the owners that if the disposal system had not been clarified by November 11, 1967 the county health department would recommend Independence Township and the Water Resources Commission to no longer allow Pine Knob Ski Resort to use the lagoon, or ponding system, for a sewage disposal plant.

Supervisor Hursfall and clerk Altman found some fault with the health officer's suggestion the township and Water Resources Commission do the closing of the resort. Hursfall said, "The matter is entirely the county's responsibility. They say they will notify the township and Water Resources to discontinue the lagoon. The county has the power to close the area until repairs are made."

The Board put the letter on file with the comment that they plan to follow through with the Health Department recommendations and said, "Pine Knob faces the possibility of not opening."

In other action Monday night, Hoffman Electric was given the contract to rewire the fire station on Church street. The bid, excluding fixtures was $769.64.

Pitching in to make this year's Pancake Supper another success will be Rotarians, Lou Lessard, Ed Rummins and Paul DeLongchamp. Proceeds from the Rotary Clubs annual event will help in the financing of various community projects, including the library fund, the crippled childrens fund and street decorations at Christmas.

C H S Band- resplendent in new uniforms

For the first time in 15-20 years there are beautiful new uniforms for the Clarkston High School Band. The band members are outfitted in them for their appearances at the home football games.

Ordered from the Ostwald Company Inc. of Staten Island, New York, they are deep navy in color with a white contrast. For parade work the band will wear the complete uniform which consists of white spats, the hat with plume, white gloves and the overlay. For concert work, the overlay is not worn and the uniform then consists of a single breasted suit.

There were 120 uniforms ordered at an approximate cost of $80 each. The old uniforms had been altered so many times and so many replacements ordered that it was difficult to complete a matching outfit. Trousers had been shortened so many times that fittings were becoming increasingly difficult.

The school bought the uniforms outright to conform with a school policy which frowns on money solicitations or benefits to raise the considerable amount of money involved in such a purchase.

The band under the direction of Joseph Washburn, who is starting his second year of band directing in Clarkston, appeared in the Labor Day parade, at the University of Michigan Band Day in Ann Arbor and at the Fire Prevention Parade in Pontiac. In addition they will be at all the home football games before beginning their concert series.

These concerts will include their annual Christmas presentation, the appearance of the Wayne-Oakland County League Honors Band and the Michigan Orchestra Band Association concert scheduled for March. Other concerts will include the annual Spring Concert and a march in the Memorial Day parade.

CHS Band is under the direction of Joseph Washburn.

Wolves lose to Northville

By Mel Vaara

The dreams of an undefeated season went out the window when the Mustangs defeated Clarkston 7-0. The contest was played in a constant down pour and it impaired the play of both teams. Neither team had a sustained drive more than 25 yards and one could see that some kind of break would win the game.

Northville did get that break when their outstanding linebacker, Ron Gloetzner, intercepted his second pass late in the fourth quarter, ran it down to Clarkston's 35. On a big 3rd down, a tackle eligible pass play netted 14 yards. The final 8 yards were covered by Terry Miles on a reverse. Only 3:38 showed on the clock when the winning score crossed the final stripe.

The Wolves had the ball once more but failed to move in the sloppy field.

The defense for Coach Kenyon played their usual fine game and without the great defense the score could have been higher. The Wolves played almost the whole game with their backs to the wall. They crossed the mid-field stripe only three times.

Northville always seemed to have good field position throughout the game. One would think with the good field position that the Mustangs outgained the Wolves. However, Clarkston outgained Northville 90-67 on the ground. In the air the tables were turned with Northville having a 65-27 yard edge. Northville also swiped three passes thrown by Johnston and Palladino.

By keeping Clarkston in the hole it certainly hampered the Wolves' vaunted passing attack. Northville many times played an eight man line, and had their linebackers rambling by blowing straight at the quarterback. Many times they guessed correctly on the snap count and the lineman had a difficult task in making the block.

Conditions could have been much worse, but the kicking of Lyle Walter kept Northville from getting good field position. Lyle kicked 6 times and averaged 40 yards per punt!

This Friday Clarkston will play Brighton in the Homecoming game. Brighton has done quite well this year. They have speed in the backfield, so the defensive team will get another stern test.

feated Holly.

This was a hard fought battle with both defensive lines doing an equally good job. Holly had one fine offensive back, but Clarkston was blessed with three - Bruce Hardy, Dennis Storrs and James Decker.

Clarkston scored three touchdowns to hold a 19-0 lead until late in a game, an error by a defensive back gave Holly its lone touchdown.

The Junior Wolves scored their first touchdown on a pass from Steve Warman to a vastly improved Mark Walter. The play covered 8 yards.

Dennis Storrs scored on a 22 yard pass from the same boy, Steve Warman. Bruce Hardy (now on the varsity) scored on a one yard plunge. Steve Kratt scored the only extra-point on a pass from Warman.

The defense is getting stronger every game and this time the defense was led by David Spencer. Spencer looked good on off tackle plays.

Just got through watching the Bump - Duffy Show - I can see why State humiliated the Wolverines. State looked great, could go on and break the record for the most consecutive wins in Big-ten Play.

It seems to me that the Fraternity boys should have left "Spartan" where it was and instead taken some of those Spartan ball players.

As I said, "The winner will be playing in the Rose Bowl game." State looked very good and Michigan will have to pick up the pieces and work towards a respectable season.

Sport styles to be modeled

Plans are underway for a Style Show to be held at Spring Lake Country Club on Tuesday, October 24. Under the direction of Thelma Booker the affair will be combined with a luncheon to be held at 12:30 on that date.

There will be sports clothes from the Spring Lakes Sports Shop as well as a Trunk showing of Belgium knit dresses and coats.

Ladies wishing to attend are urged to call the club for reservations.

An estimated 2 1/2 million youth are now engaged in some phase of 4-H work.

Assistant coach Bill Mackson makes a uniform adjustment on lineman Ray Hipsher.

Area accidents reported

A driver who was trying to read a road map as she drove lost control of her car on Tuesday, was injured and taken to the hospital. Lorraine Lewis, 20, of 403 E. Court Street in Ludington told sheriff officers that she lost control of her car on I-75 just north of Baldwin Road as she looked at the map. Subsequently the car rolled over and she was taken to Crittenton Hospital in Rochester with Type A injuries. The accident happened at 8:15 A.M. that day.

A passenger was injured in an accident on Maybee Road east of Clintonville Road Thursday night report sheriff officers who investigated. The driver was Hugh Woody, 17, of 7020 Felix Drive in Clarkston. His passenger was Dick Bennis, 16, of 78 Hamilton in Pontiac. Bennis received type B injuries and was taken to his family Doctor for treatment.

Woody told officers that as he came around a curve, the car started slipping, he panicked, lost control and hit a tree. Woody was not injured. The report states that the accident occurred at 9:15 P.M.

Kristin N. Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean A. Smith of 69 East Washington, Clarkston, is among the 118 Michigan State University students who achieved an All-A record during summer term.

Names of the students will be placed on an honor role that offers "recognition of the highest attainment in scholarship." All-A students from spring and summer terms -- nearly 600 of them -- will be honored by MSU President John A. Hannah at a banquet Tuesday evening, Oct. 31, in the MSU Union. Miss Smith is a junior majoring in elementary education.

Time for pictures!

There were pretty hair-do's for the girls -- the boys looked neat and combed! Reason -- Senior portraits were being taken the first of this week. The Powell Studios of Detroit, chosen again to do the photographic work for the class were on hand on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. Hours this year were scheduled for after school and evening, so that the students could be accompanied by their parents.

Notes on the Orchard

By Constance Lektzian
625-2378

Garage sales are enjoying a big boom in the Orchard. Three girls held one just the other day. They opened with less to sell than they had expected -- reason being that they liked each other's 'junk' so well they were buying like mad before the opening morning.

In anticipation of the fact that the weather is bound to get worse very soon, the Edwin Brodkorb's of 6681 Pear Street took a trip to Marion, Indiana over the week-end to visit their son and daughter-in-law, Ed and Ethel Brodkorb and especially young Debra and David, their grandchildren.

Sunday being a good day for visiting, the Ralph Wallace's of Birmingham came to Clarkston and enjoyed dinner with the Larry Thompson's and their family at 6645 Almond Lane.

The Jack Dougherty's of 6562 Pear Street along with son Kirk and daughter Peggy drove to Frankenmuth for one of the famous chicken dinners. They were accompanied by the Ray Elmy's of Pontiac. The dinners up there have earned their fame but on Sundays there is apt to be a long wait. The Dougherty's and Elmy's had good appetites after standing in line for an hour and a half.

It was anniversary time for Carole and Charles Evans of 6544 Plum Drive and they celebrated by going out to dinner and attending the "Sound of Music." Congratulations on your anniversary and may you have many more.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Pine of 6121 Waldon Road, deciding that the weather around Clarkston was so miserable, drove to Prescott Michigan for the week-end. They visited Mr. and Mrs. William Bittner who years ago traded city living for northern Michigan.

Just back from Baltimore, Maryland are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Givens of 6100 Waldon Road. While there they were guests of the William Taft's. Their trip also included a stop at Gettysburg for a sight-seeing tour. A delightful way to spend four or five days.

The R.J. Taylor's and their three sons, John, Don and Jimmy of 6325 Clarkston-Orion Road spent the week-end visiting in Homewood, Illinois. They were guests of Mrs. Taylor's sister and brother-in-law, Margaret and Robert Leonix. The visit was very enjoyable but the weather turned Sunday's return trip into a miserable In homecoming court

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Thompson of 6645 Almond Lane and Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Hovey of Tappan Drive were among those that met for an evening of pinochle at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Hudson of Drayton Plains, last Saturday night. Refreshments were served later in the evening and the table was highlighted by a beautiful prize winning raspberry torte.

The many friends of Mrs. Ernest Meeker will be sorry to hear that she has been confined to her home by a recurring back trouble. Best of luck and we all hope she will soon be up and around.

As it is everywhere, it's giving time in the Orchard. The United Fund Drive is on. For any of us who may think we never use the benefits provided by the United Fund -- remember the playground program of last summer? That was made possible by our contributions to this Drive.

Avon Players present

"Mary Mary"

First presented by Roger L. Stevens at the Helen Hayes Theatre in New York City, Jean Kerr's "Mary Mary" is the vehicle chosen by Avon Players to open this season.

A hilarious fun packed comedy, the action centers around what happens when Mary is called upon to rescue her ex-husband from the clutches of the Internal Revenue Department.

The original role of Mary was filled by Barbara Bel Geddes. Tom King, director, has chosen Mrs. Ray Stiger for the part. Mary's rival, Tiffany Richards will be portrayed by Mrs. Jack Lawson. Publisher, Bob McKellaway will be Dave Holderness. The tax lawyer is played by James Jackson and the Hollywood 'would be star' is handled by Duane Utech. The splendid cast represents some of the most outstanding talent of Avon Players.

Entering their 21st season, Avon Players have come to be rated as a semi-professional, rather than an amateur group because of the effective use of their fine talents. The membership though concentrated in Rochester extends over most of Northern Oakland County. The play will open October 13th at 8:30 P.M. at the Playhouse on Washington Road, north of E. Tienken at Rochester. Other performances will be the 14, 15, 18, 19, 20 and 21st. Mrs. V.M. Zink is in charge of the box office. All seats are reserved.

The Clarkston Jaycettes held their October meeting on Wednesday at Calvary Lutheran Church. Hostesses for the month were Mrs. Roger Olney, Mrs. Robert C. Jones, Mrs. Jerry Bradley, and Mrs. Don Cooper.

The three guests were members of the Rochester Jaycee Auxiliary. They left with the group the new doll "Dimwit" which the group must present to another auxiliary within a month by making a visitation to their meeting.

On the program was Don Kratt from the Sheriff's department who gave instructions on mouth to mouth resuscitation. Each member had the chance to practice on a realistic manikin.

Nine members attended the Fall District Meeting which was held in Ortonville on Monday night, October 9.

Next month the Jaycettes are going to put together 100 school kits to mail to the children in Vietnam.

MSU jerks major in foul foolishness

By Jim Fitzgerald

Do the job

Michigan's legislature is in special session primarily to consider reorganization of the lower courts in our state. This responsibility falls upon the legislature as a result of the constitutional convention of 1962-63. This says the justice of the peace system has to be abolished by January 1, 1969.

There have been times in the past when the legislature has put off, stalled, and delayed decisions that were inevitable until the eleventh hour. This takes away time that could be used for carrying out the wishes of the lawmakers.

Let's hope the legislators can agree quickly on a good lower court system and give ample time for enacting their programs so the transition can be smooth as possible.

State Rep Roy Spencer (R-Attica) wondered if it was like that when I attended Michigan State University.

Like what?
"The Same Old S...!"

You'll notice that I dropped 3 letters. If I didn't, my mother would cancel her free subscription. But so there'll be absolutely no doubt which 3 letters go in the blanks, I'll add that the word comes illustrated — there's a picture of a John and a roll of toilet tissue.

Disgusting? Rep Spencer thinks so. And a good part of his disgust probably springs from the fact that this silly filth is subsidized by taxpayers — you and me, Dad.

"The Same Old S...!" was the headline on a handbill, recently distributed at the Student Union on the MSU campus. One of the bills reached Spencer and he forwarded it to me with this note: "Our students are certainly not deprived of their freedom."

The handbills were published by a group called United Students. Here's the last paragraph: "United Students must become a real student union; if we unite to demand our rights, and let the administration know we're tired of letting some doddering old f--- run your life, come to the United Students meeting in the Union Sunday, Sept. 24 at 7 p.m."

What bugs the United Students is that the college brass imposes some restrictions on where and how students live. Girls must be back in the dormitories before dawn and boys' housing must be approved and so on. The handbill said: "They still tell us where we can live, what we can do where we live, and a lot of other crap that is none of their business."

United Students admitted it had won one concession from the administration — girls can now stay out later. But this is just a crumb, the handbill complained, designed to keep the students from exploding in a real revolution.

"The administration would rather promote fornication than upheaval," the handbill explained.

SO HERE WE GO again. Just when I think I'm a real swinging liberal, along come some young punks who make me feel like Grandfather Goldwater.

I suspect that MSU, and all universities, are full of young people mature enough to police their own conduct, in class and out; no rules needed. But these youngsters are pretty busy learning and they don't have time to distribute filthy handbills or stage loud protests because Susie Co-ed has a curfew.

It is the immature jerks who join such groups as United Students. There aren't many of them but they make a big stink as they peddle their cruddy ideas. Mostly, they are seeking attention. Unfortunately, they often get it. The result is that people "on the outside" think colleges are full of irresponsible clods.

"Those nuts want more freedom?" says Joe Taxpayer. "They should have less. They should be locked up in restrooms where they can print on the walls. I don't know what's happening to college kids today."

What's happening to the majority of college kids is they are being tarred with the same brush that should be crammed through the teeth of the kooky minority.

If I had a son who wanted to join the United Students I would tell him this:

"YOU ARE NOT on your own at MSU. You are subsidized by the taxpayers. They are paying for most of your education. You couldn't afford to live on that plush campus and attend classes in those marble palaces and learn from those highly-paid professors if it wasn't for the poor slob taxpayers."

"You are accepting the taxpayers' money. They are betting that your education is a good investment for our society. You should damn well be grateful, not snotty."

"The taxpayers elect the people who run the college. If you don't like the way it's run, you should be too proud to sponge off it. Get out and pay your own way. You might even go in the army."

"Until you are sensible enough to appreciate your opportunity, and until you show some respect for the people who are providing it, you don't deserve to go to college."

If there had been United Students when I attended MSU, that's what my dad would have said to me. Δ

Ripples from the Pool

By Faith Poole

A sure sign that Christmas is coming - a truck load of Christmas trees coming down from the north that we passed on I-75 late Sunday afternoon.

The Agriculture department is really wasting the taxpayers' money - last week I counted and found 5 copies of their Michigan Crop Reporting Service report in my mailbox. In the upper right hand corner it reads Postage and Fees Paid - U. S. Department of Agriculture. I've tried before in similar instances to write a letter explaining that this newspaper is getting several copies of the same mailing - but with no avail. Usually another stencil is cut with our name and we begin to get another mailing on top of the originals.

Part of an editor's job is checking for proper spellings. Now we find that we may have help. Several "offbeat" dictionaries are hitting the market in force. One of these might be just what we need for Christmas.

out the Bad Speller's Dictionary, a paper-back which arranges commonly misspelled words by their wrong spellings and gives the correct spelling alongside.

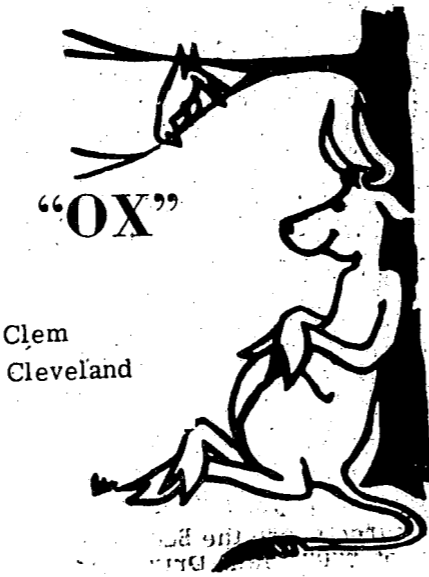

The Amateur Psychologist's Dictionary, published last year, aids "those who don't know their panics from their Phobias and their nymphomaniacs from their narcissisms."

An Insult Dictionary, which tells "how to snarl back" in colorful English, French, German, Spanish and Italian, has been issued recently.

And the Lover's Dictionary, listing numerous endearing phrases, is another multi-language guide.

He's all boy. The knees are out of his britches, dirty faced, grubby hands - the works. That's my son, Kevin, the Ballet Dancer.

A couple of weeks ago I went for a few days of hunting in the north. I leave the comforts of Calhoon's Noah's Ark, with fear and trepidation hanging heavily on my mind - I never know what I will find when I return. Calhoon is unpredictable enough, even when I'm home.

The other day when I returned from hunting, tired; I looked around and saw nothing unusual. The boxes of kitchen cabinets were piled all over the place, just as I had left them. The llama was running free in the front yard, horses in the pasture, dogs acting goofy, cat yowling, birds singing, guinea pigs beeping, fish splashing, rabbit quiet, goat banging his head into the stone wall. Everything was just as I had left it.

Patiently I waited. Calhoon didn't contribute any information. No great announcements like, "Now Clem I don't want you to be angry. But, while you were gone . . ." Nothing like that. Everything was peaceful in its confusing sort of way.

As I got home before the children; they were in school, I had a chance to get my hunting gear unpacked and put away. Cal talked to me about what she and the children had been doing while I was away. She didn't give an inkling that anything unusual had happened.

We were outside walking around the back pasture when the kids got home. Joy and exaltation! There isn't any reward that can compare to the warm greeting you get from your children.

When they saw me, they came running up the drive. Their faces were beaming. They had lots of things to tell me. Much had happened while I was away. "And daddy," said Laurie, "we ate T.V. dinners every night. You don't like them, but we do and mommy was fixing them just for us as a treat."

"Daddy, daddy, listen to me," piped Kevin. "I'm taking ballet lessons."

"You're taking what?" I asked.

"Mommy has signed me up for ballet lessons. I take those every Monday night. I'm the only boy in the class. It's just great," he said.

Laurie said, "Oh daddy, Kevin's just a pest. I was supposed to take ballet lessons. Mommy took me over to sign up and Kevin acted so silly that mommy signed him up too. He just does stupid things in the class, just to make the little girls laugh at him. He's so silly."

This whole business of ballet lessons had caught me off guard. I didn't know how to react. There wasn't anything I could say. All I remember was that I had promised to go with the children to their next lesson. I couldn't believe it. My grubby son was taking ballet lessons. This made my mind boggle.

Later Cal explained. It seems that Kevin took a fancy to the idea of Laurie getting some preferred treatment. To help prevent a case of small scale jealousy, she had enrolled him into the dancing course. "It won't do him any harm," she said defensively.

"He doesn't take it seriously," she continued. "Like at the last lesson, Mr. Pate De Foie Gras, that's the children's instructor, told them not to kick their feet out like this." She demonstrated. "He said, 'When you kick like that, it looks like you kicking the wall down. You don't want to look like that, now, do you girls?'"

Where upon, Kevin started to kick the wall - thump, thump, thump.

"This made the girls laugh. The mothers who were sitting around me thought it was cute. Mr. Pate De Foie Gras just sort of gave Kevin an evil look. I don't think it's going to last too long," she said.

The thought of this grubby little monster trying to kick the wall down restored my faith in his potential manliness. Besides, as he says, he's the only boy in the class, or something.

Another Day

By Constance Lektzian

Bravery personified in early settlers

Despite the fact that women didn't have a voice in the government during the early times when Michigan was being settled, most of them managed to have quite a bit to say around the homestead. While men both by law and inclination, were masters of their house and their wives and daughters anything they inherited or earned, many a determined woman found ways to change her husband's mind on these matters. In reality, few men ever exercised all their legal prerogatives if for no other reason than the fact that it wasn't easy to find a wife.

Not all the men who emigrated from the east to carve out farms in the Michigan woods were married. These bachelors, when they finally had time for courting, discovered their greatest competition was from the widowers. Not only did the bachelors not have established farms and businesses to offer, but the married women in the communities busied themselves at matchmaking for the widower with a young family. This might have been done in a sort of self defense - for the neighboring wives often had the job of caring for these half orphans until their fathers found a second wife.

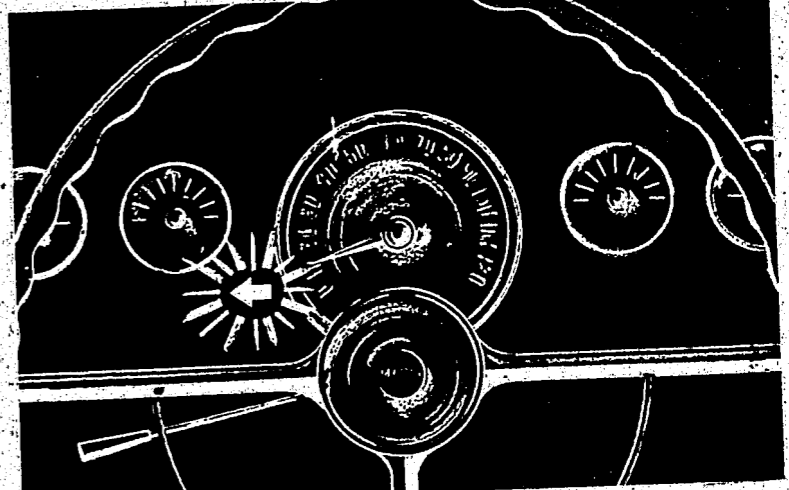

The women who lived to tell their grandchildren about the early pioneering days - and their number was not great - were the ones who seemed to hold on in face of every kind of discouragement. Sometimes they survived because they outwitted the elements and dangers of their own surroundings.

Emily Green hadn't been raised to battle wild animals. Her family had lived in better than average comfort in the East. But she and a young nephew lived to tell an exciting tale. She had been staying with the Davises, her sister's family. On this particular August night in 1833 only Emily, Mrs. Davis and young Francis were in the cabin. Mr. Davis and the older boys had gone to the Big Meadow in Brandon to cut hay. About midnight, Mrs. Davis awakened Emily with the news that there was a bear right outside the cabin. Emily was sure her sister was mistaken for bears were seen only infrequently. But there he was - snuffling around the garden. And beyond him was the makeshift barn where the livestock was penned for the night. If the bear ruined the garden and killed the livestock, the past year would be for nothing. Young Francis clamored down from the loft where he had been awakened by the commotion and the three stood together, nervously wondering what they could do. Suddenly young Francis dashed past his aunt and mother, snatched up an ax and ran toward the bear, the women right after him. In his surprise attack, he was able to land several blows. Then the bear, as angered as he was injured, charged toward Mrs. Davis and the young boy, driving them back into the cabin. Emily found herself alone in the yard, the bear between her and the cabin. She knew full well that the bear could kill her with one swipe of his paw but she wasn't about not to try defending herself. A hoe had been left leaning against the fence, and using that for a weapon, she frantically chopped the blade into the bear's skull again and again. By now, too, the ax blows were taking effect and slowly the bear keeled over at Emily's feet. The three were as amazed as they were grateful to think they had killed a bear with only an ax and a hoe. Another round in the battle to stay alive in the early Independence days.

In spring of the same year Emily helped kill the bear; another woman came here from the East who had just as much determination and bravery, though of another kind - Martha Vliet. Leaving New Jersey with seven children was in itself an undertaking and the fact she arrived with her family intact and in good health attested to her ingenuity. It was late in the day when the Vliet's turned off the Saginaw Trail and stopped the team of oxen at the sight of their future home. Martha had been keeping a worried eye on the provisions and was only too well aware that once settled, there would be little chance of getting out to buy supplies. For a while, at least, the woods and lakes would have to fill their larder. As her husband, William, started to unload the wagons, he mentioned the fact that it had been a long time since their last meal. Martha lit up her pipe, the equivalent of today's housewife's cup of coffee and a cigarette. She had seen a small lake in the valley as they drove up the hill and she tried to persuade her husband to go over and catch some fish. William, tired as well as hungry, grumbled that he could hardly fish without a line, hook or bait. Martha was ready for that argument. She cut off a length of her clothesline and got a hook from the oxen's harness. And the bait? After a struggle with her feminine vanity, she took a snippet of red flannel from her red petticoat. And with that her husband brought home a 20 pound fish and the renewed enthusiasm that the Vliet family could survive in Michigan.

Figuring I had more right in my living room than they did, I refused to budge or work in a silent house. I had taken the afternoon off and I was going to stay. At first the dribble had managed to provide that touch of humor every peanut butter sandwich eaten alone needs. Gradually I realized I was watching some old friends from way back, you know, the ones you used to prop the baby's bottle for. It did my overweight heart good to see Porchia in her tight fitting tent and Marsha's double earlobes. it was okay to watch but when they hadn't been able to find a brighter day, after searching that many tomorrows, what love of life could be left for me, sitting there without a writer...

THE FIRST PAGE OF Adventure

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

I have to confess that once I thought mothers read to their children to entertain them—and keep them quiet. But it wasn't long before I began to see the results of storytime in my own youngsters' interests and understanding.

Obviously a child's imagination just keeps pace with the growth of his mind and body. Apparently it is in well-chosen stories that he first encounters the challenging adventures that will later become part of his own life.

Now I fully appreciate the skill and experience that underlie my Church's program for moral and religious training. Bible stories aren't some harried teacher's solution to a disciplinary problem. They are fundamental steps in the development of character and conviction.

So I am grateful to God who has given us the cherished narratives of man's spiritual discoveries. For my youngsters they have been the first page of adventure... and of faith!

MEN in SERVICE

Airman Greg Klark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don G. Klark of 6191 Sunnydale, Clarkston, has completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Texas. He is now assigned as an administrative specialist with a unit of the Strategic Air Command at Castle AFB, California. Airman Klark, a 1966 graduate of Clarkston High School, attended Oakland Community College in Union Lake.

Marine Private First Class Vaughn Wagner, son of Mr. Norman Wagner of 6490 Manson Drive, Waterford, completed two weeks of training under simulated combat conditions in the fundamentals of day and night patrolling, employment of infantry weapons, survival methods and assault tactics at this Marine Corps base.

This individual combat training is given every Marine after his graduation from recruit training. Taught by combat experienced non-commissioned officers of the infantry training regiment here, it prepares the young Leatherneck to become part of the Marine air-ground combat team.

While in the field he was taught how to use hand grenades, a compass and the principles of map reading and land navigation. He learned how to detect and disarm mines and booby traps and, while being exposed to live machine gun fire, he learned to advance safely from one point to another.

From this course, he is scheduled to go on to more advanced training before being assigned to his permanent unit.

Aboard the "Sea Dragon"

Hospitalman Michael D. Gerbeck, USN, son of Mr. Herman E. Berbeck of 3770 Austinwood Court, Waterford, is in the Gulf of Tonkin, off the coast of North Vietnam, aboard the heavy cruiser USS St. Paul.

The cruiser, flagship for the Commander of Cruiser-Destroyer Group Seventh Fleet, is participating in "Sea Dragon" operations. "Sea Dragon" is designed to sever supply lines to enemy troops in South Vietnam.

The St. Paul is the only all-gun heavy cruiser in the Seventh Fleet.

Completes hospital course

Newest elementary school, North Sashabaw

Clarkston Community School's newest school, North Sashabaw, welcomed its first students at the beginning of this school year. It is on Maybee Road, directly across the road from Sashabaw Elementary School.

All schools are operated as one unit under the same principal, John Jervis. Since the new school has more students Jervis spends the majority of his time in the new school, but, considerable time is spent at the older unit.

Jervis, 6271 Church, has been principal at Sashabaw for 4 years. He has been in the school system since 1956, teaching math 2 years at the junior high and teaching 6 years on the elementary level.

He is a graduate of Western Carolina College, Cullowhee, North Carolina. He received his bachelor's degree in 1956. His college was interrupted by Army service. In 1960 he received his Master's degree from the same Carolina college. He is married and has a daughter in the sixth grade.

Jervis is most excited about the new school and the way it is equipped. "The instruction room, where we can seat 125 students, is an outstanding facility for teaching. We can take the fifth grade teacher who is strong in math, or science, or whatever, and put the entire fifth grade enrollment in the room.

"The room is equipped with microphones and speakers, screens for projections, risers for groups, blackboards, and there's lots of room to bring in teaching aids," Jervis said.

There is a library, maintained by two teacher aides, music room for both vocal and instrumental, materials center, 2 conference rooms for teacher-parent-pupil talks or for counselors, kitchen, health room, teacher lounge, and 17 classrooms.

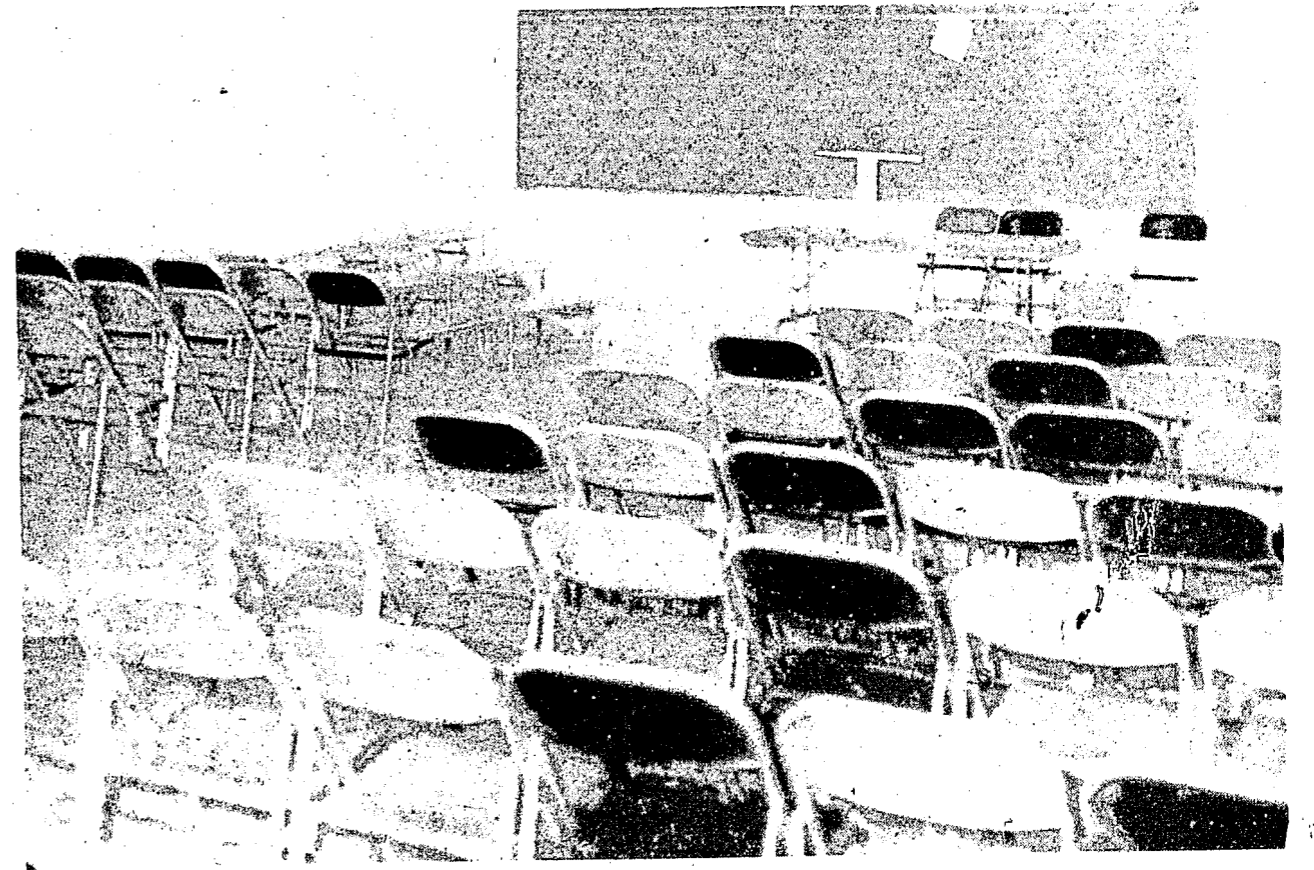

Students in the kindergarten and 3, 4, 5, and 6th grades are housed in the new school. The Sashabaw school across the road takes care of grades 1 and 2. All together there are about 800 students in the 2 units.

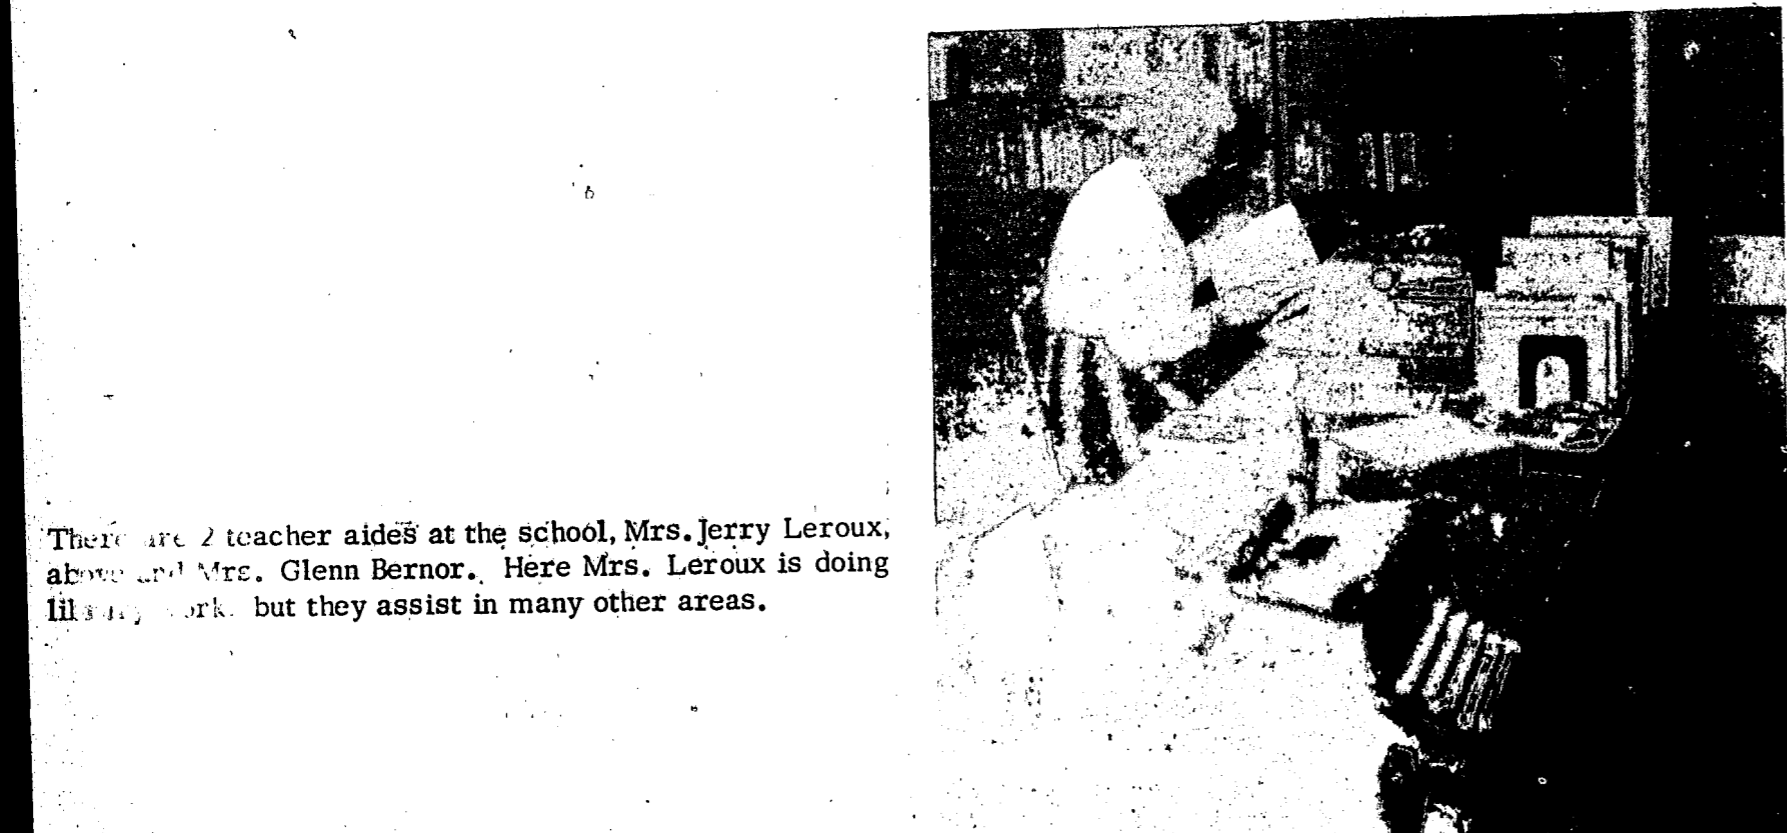

Typical classroom at North Sashabaw. It is the 4th grade class of Mrs. Jacqueline Leppanen. There are 17 such teaching rooms in the new school.

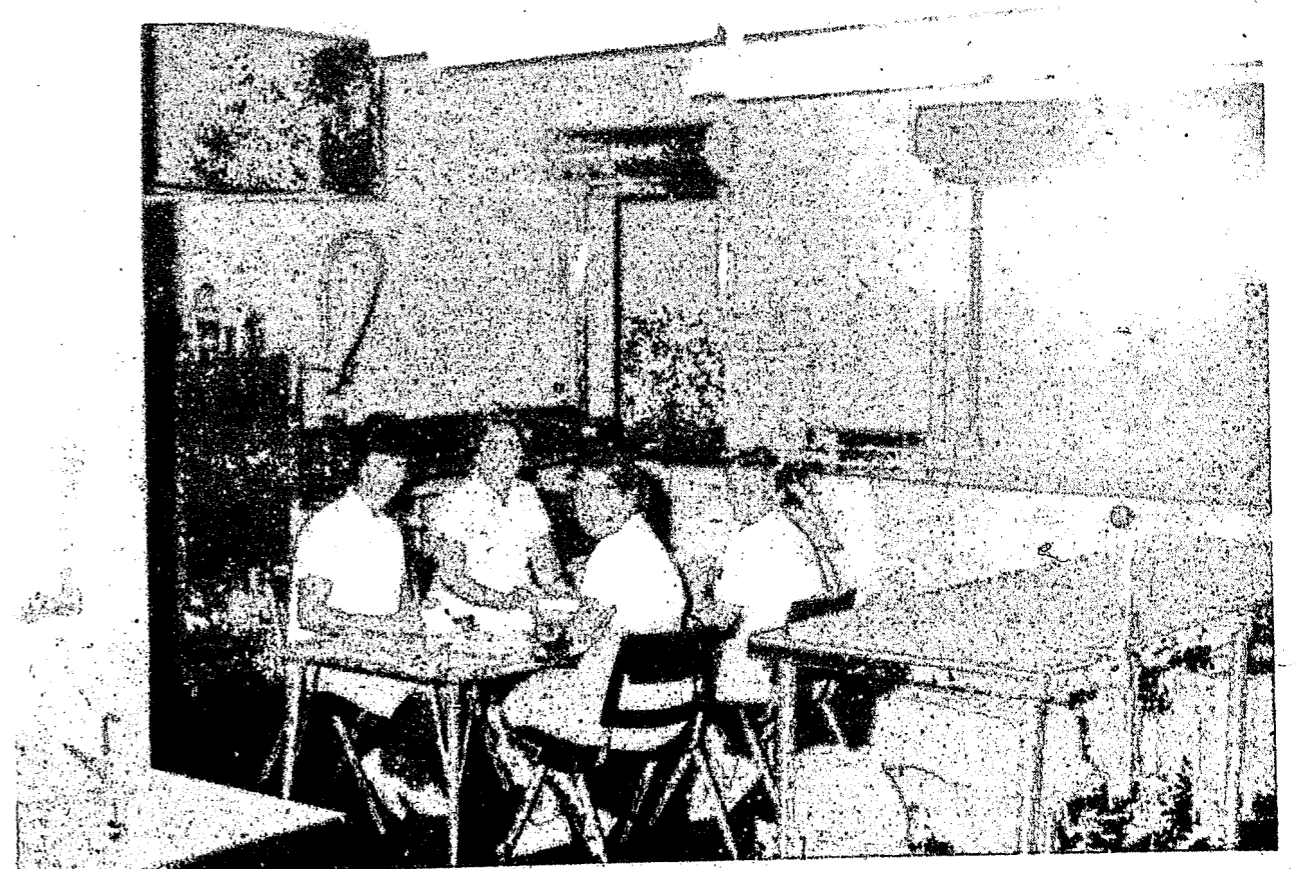

Scenes would best describe the Kindergarten rooms of North Sashabaw school. The youngsters have a well-designed room, fully equipped to give all the advantages possible for learning and teaching. This group's teacher is Mrs. Raymond Cooper.

A new concept for elementary teaching is being employed in this room. It is a large group instruction area and will seat 125 at a time. With this facility an entire section can have the best instructor in a particular area speak to the students. It is equipped for all teaching aids.

There are 2 teacher aides at the school, Mrs. Jerry Leroux, above and Mrs. Glenn Bernor. Here Mrs. Leroux is doing filing work, but they assist in many other areas.

Students at North Sashabaw eat in their rooms. They line up for cafeteria serving and return to their rooms. Working in the kitchen are, left to right, Mrs. Charles Gates, Mrs. John Putnam who is cook-manager, Mrs. Clifford Minor and Mrs. James Dies. The helpers also go to other schools to help at lunch time.
