CLARKSTON, MICHIGAN 48016

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1978 3 SECTIONS NUMBER 26

At her job as receptionist in Dr. Hamilton's office, is Cheryl Gura, Senior High co-op student. Cheryl has held the school sponsored part-time position for the past year and a half.

Seven persons injured in one accident Sat.

Seven passengers were injured and taken to the hospital following a three car crash at the intersection of Sashabaw and Maybee Roads Saturday evening. Four of the seven still remained in the hospital on Monday. The accident occurred at 8:15 P.M. according to a report issued by the Oakland County Sheriff Office.

Robert Klein, 21, of 1695 N. Bretton Drive, Rochester and his two passengers, Nancy Baker, 16, 2553 Leroy Lane, Orchard Lake and Williman Genik, 22, of 1676 Northumberland, Rochester all received type A injuries.

Injured in the second car was the driver, James Simpson, 19, of 5845 Rowley, Drayton Plains who received type B injuries. His three passengers, Linda Davis, 17, of 5741 S. Alsbury, Waterford and Victor Forbes, 16, 281 Airport, Waterford both received type A injuries and a third passenger Juanita Rodriguez, 16, of 2941 Chrysler, Waterford received type B.

All of the injured were taken to Pontiac General Hospital. A driver of the third car, Isabel Midlin, 30, of 6647 Langtoip, Orchard Lake was not injured. She was the only one of the three drivers able to make a statement. She told officers that Klein was travelling north on Sashabaw Road at a high rate of speed when she saw Simpson pull out in front of him. Simpson in turn struck the Midlin auto.

Klein was cited with speed too fast and Simpson for failure to yield the right of way.

Voters nominate Frank Russell for village president

A total of 257 voters went to the polls in the Village of Clarkston to vote in the first Primary election to have been held here in about 3 years. The office of Village President was the only in which there was opposition. For that nomination Frank Russell received 150 votes while David Leak, now serving as Trustee of the village received 88 votes.

Leak had been committed to pressing for annexation and also to revitalization of the downtown area. Russell said last week that he felt that the study committee on annexation was needed. However he felt that an unhealthy condition would exist if the majority of people were residents, not by choice, but by action of the council.

Voters cast their ballots as follows for the other offices:

TRUSTEES:
H. Fahrner 187
D. Cooper 192

E. Kimball 151
J. Hagen CLERK
A. Pappas 212
TREASURER
M. Pappas 211
ASSESSOR

R. Thayer 209
Of the 257 votes cast, 16 were invalid. Voters evidently did not realize that they cannot split their vote in a primary election. Democrat candidates are listed on one side and Republican candidates on the opposite side, and voters must vote only one side of a ballot. The ballot also must be folded so that the perforated corner is exposed.

The board of canvassers met after the polls had closed. Members of that board were: Robert Waters, Mrs. J.L. Chipman, James Huttenlocher, and Kenneth Jonson.

The General election will be held on Monday, March 11.

event, bringing aesthetic delight to the audiences and honor to the performer. Hew was president of The Detroit Musicians League for three consecutive years (1961-1964) and was elected patron member of Muphi Epsilon in 1962.

His master performances have brought him recognition in other parts of the world. He concluded his concert tour of Latin America by playing the "Coronation Concerto" for piano and orchestra by Mozart with the North Western Symphony Orchestra of Mexico. From the Latin American critics he received extravagant praise. They acclaimed him "virtuoso of the great but almost extinct school of virtuosos"; a gigantic pianist.

Mr. Schrott's whole life is dedicated to music; a performing artist extraordinarily gifted for his sensitive interpretation and a highly gifted teacher.

Friends and music lovers in the Clarkston area are invited to share the afternoon with Mr. Schrott.

Noted performer to give concert here on March 17

The Clarkston Conservatory of Music is honored to present Walter Schrott in a piano concert on Sunday, March 17 in the Little Theater at Clarkston High School. The concert will begin at 3:30 P.M.

As a performing artist; Mr. Schrott is eminently qualified by the richness of his academic background. Born in the great music center, Vienna, Austria, he was graduated from the Vienna State Academy and the Vienna Conservatory in both piano and orchestral conducting under Nilius, Maticic, and Karajan.

For post graduate piano study he worked with L. Gombrich, assistant to Leschetizki, who himself was a student of Carl Czerny and a teacher of Padewski and Arthur Schnabel. Mr. Schrott also had the privilege of studying with Carl Friedberg in New York, who was a pupil of Johannes Brahms.

Mr. Schrott's reputation as an artist is well known in the Detroit area. His concerto recitals at the Detroit Institute of Arts were an annual musical took him ice fishing the other day and he never got a bite, just like his father.

The business meeting which precedes the meeting has been cancelled for February.

And, like my father used to do, I stopped the car the other night to count the cars in a train. My old man was a railroad man, and probably still is at heart and pension. Riding with dad as a youth it almost seemed like he waited at crossings for a train to go by and he could count the cars.

I don't know why, he was a car checker and had to walk the lengths of several trains every night in the Durand yards. In later years he's said it was common now to see trains of over 100 cars, but in the old days it was rare.

So, I sat and counted the cars just to see how many more than 100 it had. There were six locomotives leading the way and every car was identical, apparently new and carried the marking PCCX. But I was disappointed, there were exactly 100 cars, not the 200 I hoped for.

This is going to end up a family column and I didn't intend or want it to be. But one last comment. My daughter, Luan, is 10 and been taking piano lessons about 2 years. She's practicing the "Wedding March". My son, Jim, is 13 and been taking piano lessons over 5 years and hasn't hit a note of that song.

How does that interest in walking down that short, short aisle get planted so early in members of the much fairer sex?

Still time to enter "Sound of Youth" talent show

Clarkston Area Jaycees are still actively seeking entries for their talent show "Sound of Youth". The show will take place on March 16, but the deadline for entries is March 1st, states Bob Bennett one of the co-chairmen.

Robert Brumback, school social worker has entry blanks or they may be secured from the two chairmen, Bob Bennett and Jerry Powell. The show will be comprised of three categories: Male vocalist, Female vocalist and vocal-instrumental groups composed of 5 members or less.

The show will be presented at the High School on Saturday, March 16. Winners there will go on to Flint for the State championship show. That contest will be held in April.

State winners will compete in national finals with the chance of winning a recording contract, cash prizes and a 20 day performing tour around the United States. The National Show will be conducted in Washington D.C.

Jim's Jottings

By Jim Sherman

I have the opinion that everyone should know themselves first, before making comments on others. This self analysis isn't easy and certainly there are parts that we'd just as soon not admit.

For instance, I would judge myself a conservative. That is, I want conservation in governmental spending and that of my family. When it comes to my spending I want everything justified. But, how easy it becomes to justify new golf clubs, a transistor radio, new car, or fishing tackle.

However, I become conservative when around others and its my time to pay a bill, or when I need a sabre saw and I can borrow one free, or when my wife things she wants a new pair of shoes.

I didn't fully realize how conservative I was until the other day when I was about to put on some hair dressing. I needed something to control my wavy tresses, but since I was going to get a haircut that day I put the tube back in the medicine cabinet. What a waste of hair tonic, I thought. It would be lying all over the barber shop.

We had three bright and dry days in a row last week and on the second one I washed my car. Driving down the road shortly after Gumperson's Law popped into my head. It's this law that says if you wash your car it will rain, or in my case, everytime I pulled out to pass a car there were two puddles of water for me to splash through.

One thing I didn't know was hereditary was beginner's luck. I never experienced it in poker, golf, deer hunting, or anything. So far my son hasn't either. I

Chow time for these cows and Steve and David Halsey are right in there with the bucket brigade. The youngsters may not know that this is Future Farmers of America Week, but if their love of these farm animals last week was any indication, they will no doubt realize it in their future.

Keeping track of the kids seemed to be a full time job for some parents who attended the last Saturday's show "The Clown Who Ran Away" . . . Other children were content to sit and wait for the curtain to go up.

Missionary educator at Ortonville

Miss Vivian Otto, a Methodist missionary educator to Rhodesia, will speak at Ortonville - Seymour Lake Methodist Church School of Missions at the Ortonville Church, 32 Church St. at 7:30 p.m. on February 25.

Miss Otto is in the United States for a year's furlough from active missionary service.

A missionary of the Methodist Board of Missions since 1949, she taught primarily at teacher training schools at Old Umtali, Mutambara and Nyadiri, all in Rhodesia. From 1958 to 1966, she also served as headmistress at various schools there.

Born in Saginaw, Mich., Miss Otto is a graduate of Eastern Michigan University, and Asbury Seminary. She has also studied at Yale University and Garrett Theological Seminary.

This picture is proof positive that Future Farmers of America are close by. With this FFA's nationally honored week, we found this scene at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Halsey on Big Lake Road. Mr. Halsey and his sons, Steve and David felt some nice cold water was in order for this farm animal, but the young bull seemed to prefer the comfort of the warm barn.

PAPER TABLECLOTH available at the Clarkston News office. Just $3.60 per 300 foot roll. Ideal for parties, receptions and club dinners.

The present your son wants least...

He'd rather have a football, or a new bike. He'd never ask for insurance. But it's something he really needs.

Just like a money tree, State Farm's Junior Protector Policy can grow with your son to give him cash for college . . . for emergencies. Or, it can keep growing when he has a son, too. And, guaranteed insurability allows him to expand coverage in the future. Call me today.

State police need tracking dogs

The Michigan State Police are again in need of German shepherd dogs for the department's canine tracking program.

Potential donors are requested to contact any State Police post for more information.

The male German shepherds must be of pure strain and, if possible, registered. The dogs must be from one to two years old, large, big boned, and at least 24 inches tall at the shoulders. Ears must stand up and the dog should have no noticeable scars or odd or unusual markings.

Donated dogs that are accepted will be trained with trooper handlers for use as replacement teams or for assignment to several new locations not yet determined.

A 14-week school for training handlers and dogs is tentatively scheduled to start the latter part of March. The training will be under the supervision of Sgt. Richard H. Abbott, East Lansing, who has been associated with this State Police program since it began in 1960.

Tracking teams currently are assigned to East Lansing, Ionia, Flat Rock, Pontiac, Bay City, Flint, Jackson, Battle Creek, Paw Paw, Mt. Pleasant, Grand Haven, Cheboygan, Houghton Lake and Marquette.

Clarkston bounds past Holly and Milford

Clarkston increased their winning streak to 6 in a row by defeating Holly 72-50 and Milford 69-58.

The Wolves played their last game in the Holly gym and came out on top with a hard fought battle. The game was much closer than the score indicates. Clarkston held only a 49-44 lead after 3 quarters of play. But during the 4th quarter the Big Blue put on their working clothes and poured in 23 points to only 6 for Holly. Jerry Ostrum provided 8 of his 21 points in this quarter. Ostrum's 21 points are his personal high in a Clarkston uniform.

The Wolves spent a lot of time on the free line, Holly had 35 fouls called on them. The Wolves could only hit on 22 out of 42 attempts, otherwise, the game could have been broken open much sooner.

Eric Hood also had 21 points for his high water mark of the season. Eric did have trouble from the stripe as he missed 8 attempts, 6 of them in a row and 3 of them were bonus situations.

Mark Erickson had trouble finding the hoop, but ended with 14 points. Kurt Maslowski followed with 7 markers.

Milford game

Rebounding and shooting is the name of the game and the Wolves had plenty of those ingredients to dispose of Milford 69-58. The components of the Victory were Granger, Hood and Erickson. The three of them provided 54 of the 69 points and 45 out of the 48 rebounds.

Hood and Granger worked like Beavers on the boards as Hood had 22 and Granger had 15. Both of them enabled Clarkston to out rebound Milford at both ends of the court. Granger played his finest game of the year and how about that tip in of a missed shot in the 3rd quarter. As one coach put it — "It was worth the price of admission".

Granger made 7 out of 9 attempts for 14 points and his counterpart Hood had 22. The last part of the mixture Erickson ended the evening with 20 points. All three of them had the hot hand at different times in the game. Erickson found the range at the start of the 2nd half and pumped in 4 quick jumfilling the net with 6 field goals. Erickson gave the fans something to cheer for by hitting on 4 straight free throws. Two of them coming on a bonus situation and 2 of them on technicals called on the Milford bench. Those 4 tosses put the game out of reach and the Wolves were home free and a step closer towards 2nd place.

For a while Milford gave Clarkston a lot of trouble and it caused some alarm for the Clarkston bench.

Milford opened up a quick 14-5 lead, as Davy Powers had pers, Granger took up the rest of the 3rd quarter and hit on four in a row. Together they had 16 of the 22 points in this quarter.

Hood saved his best offensive play for the last quarter by the hot hand with 8 points before the game was 5 minutes old. Clarkston did close the gap to 14-9. Both teams played even up for the second period and Milford had a 29-24 half time

Clarkston trailed Milford, 29-24, at halftime Friday night, then came on to outscore the visitors in the following two quarters to win, 69-58. Above Eric Hood gets away a shot against Baker. Hood led the Wolves in scoring with 22 points and Baker lead Milford with 15. No. 43 for Clarkston is Larry Lewis.

As we said before, Erickson and Granger had the hot hand and Clarkston outscored Milford 22-13 in the 3rd period. McGrath had one surprise starter in the 3rd quarter, John Craven. John didn't score from the field, but he seemed to settle the Wolves towards a winning attitude. He didn't make the same mistakes that caused turnovers by some other guards.

Clarkston outscored Milford 23 to 16 in the last session. Milford's chances for any come back were rained when their two top scorers Granger and Powers fouled out.

J.V.'s win 9 and 10

The Junior Wolves won their 9th and 10th games of the year by defeating Holly 66-60 and Milford 64-55.

As in the past the two guards for the J.V., Warman and Hardy led the team in scoring. Together they responded for 37 of the 66 points. It was a close game for the first 3 quarters, but Bruce Hardy cranked up his shooting arm and he hit for 7 straight shots from the end of the 3rd quarter through the middle of the 4th.

It was a little different story in the Milford win as the forwards had 37 of the 64 points. Steve Warman did lead the team in scoring with 16, but the big boys had most of the glory. Tom Grace had his personal high with 14 points. He looked real good and Coach Hanson was very pleased with his performance. Grace does well in practice, but has trouble putting it all together for a game. Scott Robbins added 9 valuable points to the cause. Freshman Don Brown equalled his high for the year with 10 points. Since Brown has been inserted in the line-up (he missed the 1st 5 with an ankle injury) the J.V. has lost only one game. Steve Kratt and Bruce Hardy had 10 points between them.

This Friday the J.V. will play Brighton.

Clarkston J.C.'s lose to Waterford 79-77

The Clarkston Area J.C.'s lost out in the District 18 Basketball tournament to Waterford. Clarkston ran into a buzz saw in the name of Harrington, as he accounted for 30 of the points.

Those that saw the ball game witnessed a well played contest with the biggest lead by either team never more than 5 points.

Dick Lipper and Jerry Powell led the Clarkston cause with 20 points each. Bob Brumback had 15, Hal Weston 14, Jerry Hennig and Dick Chartier 4 each.

It looks like Ortonville and Waterford will play for all the marbles for the title.

Tournament time is just right around the corner and in the next issue we will attempt to pick out the teams to watch. Everyone looks forward to Hal Schram's prediction in the Detroit Free Press, but the teamsters are blocking his choices. I have some vital facts on the U.P. teams.

Clarkston will again be hosting a tournament and 5 teams will be working for the Class A trophy. Pontiac Central, Pontiac Northern, Waterford twp., Waterford Kettering and Clarkston will be in the tournament.

PAPER TABLECLOTH available at the Clarkston News office. Just $3.60 per 300 foot roll. Ideal for parties, receptions and club dinners.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

On February 13 Troop 126 held their annual buffet style supper and Court of Honor at the Senior High School.

Three boys started on the first step of Boy Scouting by receiving the tenderfoot rank. They were, Mike Fahrner, Mike Smart, and Ray Bosquez.

Mr. Cal Meyers, District Executive for Manito District was there to present the Eagle palms, one of the highest awards in scouting to Rick Svetkoff and Mike Packer. Practically all of the other boys received some kind of award. Unfortunately, we are not able to list each boy individually but we should congratulate them for their hard work.

Our scoutmaster, Al Domrose and his Assistants also deserve credit for the interest and help they give the boys. Also thank you Mrs. Whitmer and Mrs. Anderson for organizing the dinner.

*Judy Ann Weaver weds
Ronald Bentley, Saturday*

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Bentley are spending their honeymoon in the ski country of Aspen, Colorado following their Saturday, February 17 wedding.

The ceremony was performed at First Methodist Church, Clarkston by the Rev. Frank Cozadd. The bride, the former Judy Ann Weaver, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fenton S. Weaver of 132 N. Holcomb Street. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Bentley of 247 Rochdale in Rochester.

For the candlelight, double ring ceremony, the bride wore an A line gown of candlelight satin. It was fashioned with an empire bodice and bell sleeves. A wide panel of imported chantilly lace encrusted with seed pearls cascaded from the bateau neckline to the hem. The full court train was appliqued with lace medallions. Her very bouffant silk illusion veil was attached to a matching lace petal headpiece. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

The bridal attendants, Jane Louise Weaver, the bride's sister and Mrs. Gerald Urlick of Clio wore royal blue. Their gowns were empire style in velvet with a scoop neckline and puffed sleeves. There was a satin bow at the waist with streamers falling to the floor. A matching satin bowheadpiece secured their veils. They carried carnations which were tinted blue.

Best man was the groom's brother, Gerald Bentley of Rochester. Ushers were the groom's other brother Arthur and the bride's brother, Jack Weaver.

A wedding reception hosted by the bride's parents followed at Holiday Inn in Pontiac. Mrs. Weaver chose a coat and dress ensemble of aqua in silk and wool worsted. The groom's mother wore a coat and dress ensemble of gold brocade. Both had a cymbidium orchid corsage.

Following the ten day honeymoon in Colorado they will make their home in Grand Blanc. The bride is a graduate of Oakland University and the bridegroom a graduate of General Motors Institute.

Are you sure the ground hog didn't see his shadow on that eventful day? At this point it seems we have never had anything but cold weather. Only all those new seed catalogues make spring a possibility.

Attention - all you Legion Auxiliary members - just got word that the regular business meeting of the auxiliary of the Campbell-Richmond American Legion Post #63 is to be held Monday February 26 at 7:30 P.M. The Post is located on M-15 and this is for members only. A coffee hour will follow.

The Clarkston Evening Extension Study Group held their meeting last Wednesday February 14 at the home of Mrs. Louis Seffens of 6080 Waldon Road. The lesson for the evening "Communications with People" was given by the hostess. It was of such great interest that the group plans to present it again for the benefit of those who were absent. A discussion and coffee hour followed the meeting.

Coming down from Bay City last weekend were the Dale Johnsons, who felt sure that the weather in these parts would be better than it was up there. Sorry to say it wasn't but their visit with the Jack Dougherty family of 6562 Pear Street was very enjoyable.

Sunday February 11 was a big day at the Norman Miller's on 6641 Transparent Street. It not only was the 10th birthday of their youngest son Ricky, but was also the day their oldest, Randy, received his Boy Scout God and Country award. Open house was held in the afternoon with guests coming from Lake Orion, Oxford and Pontiac. A buffet table was centered with two large cakes, a birthday cake for Ricky and one marked with congratulations for Randy. Among the guests was the boy's grandmother from Royal Oak, Mrs. F.B. Van Woert.

Had a call for help from Mrs. Joel Cohen of 6642 Wealthy Street. Maybe some of you know where filo leaves can be purchased locally? Mrs. Cohen is Serbian and these large sheets of pastry are used in making some of the delicacies of that country. They are also used in Armenian, Greek and Syrian cooking and are extremely difficult to make from scratch. The nearest source we know of is downtown Detroit. The Cohen's - when he has time from his teaching post at Oakland Community College - are training a Hungarian Komondor for the Michigan Dog Shows which answers the question about what on earth is a Hungarian Komondor!

About 20 gals from the Orchard trotted over to 6607 Plum Drive, Tuesday evening, February 20, to a demonstration hosted by Mrs. Bud Verhey. It was a showing and discussion of cleaning materials and methods, confronting us with the fact that spring cleaning time is here again. What a horrible thought! A dessert buffet was served later in the evening.

Wednesday, February 21, the Campbell-Richmond American Legion Post #63 made a flag presentation at the Clarkston Junior High. In a 6:30 P.M. ceremony, each of the five dens of Pack #126 were presented with an American flag. Making the presentation was Commander Louis Seffens of 6080 Waldon Road. Mr. Floyd Tower of 177 Main Street who is the Legion Director of Americanism in Michigan, gave a talk on the care and display of the flag.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Landon are announcing the birth of their first child, a boy John Bryce on February 12. Weighing 8 lb. 2 oz. he arrived at St. Joseph Hospital in Pontiac. The baby's father is a teacher at Bailey Lake School and his mother is the former Betty Katherine Farmer. Proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Winston Farmer, Sr. of Ortonville Road and Mr. and Mrs. John B. Landon of Waterford.

Sounds recalled

There are sounds mixed with magic in one's memory—sounds that come down through the years of riding the breezes of time. There are sounds one remembers from the long ago before life became mechanized and the pressures of science took the flavor of life from daily activities.

Do you remember the lonesome, longdrawn calls of steam engines that floated far over a wintry countryside? Remember the dry, crunchy squeak of sled runners on hard-packed tracks of snow? . . .

There are men in city offices who remember the impatient whinnying of the horses when they opened the barn door in the morning; they remember the hungry, low-pitched moaning of the cows. There was the ping of white streams of milk as they hit the bottom of the milkpail and the soft whish as they went into the building head of froth.

Perhaps you can recall a woodburning kitchen stove and the cheerful crackle of good oak and maple; the song of the old tea kettle on the second cover; and the tinkle of the bell on the party line wall telephone. Memories are anchors with the past. A man cannot live in the past; he cannot prevent progress. But sounds remembered can help one live in the midst of today's clamor.

Don't say cheese -- sue instead

By Jim Fitzgerald

With the help of William Boyan, I may sue the State of Michigan.

Boyan is asst. prosecutor of Mercer County in New Jersey and he might be for laughs—if you are a judge. But he has a law degree and an impressive title and I have avoided trouble with the Bar Association ever since I learned the Elite Bar and Grill couldn't belong. So I take Boyan seriously.

The Associated Press told his incredible story. Boyan hired a photographer named Gunkel to take pictures at his wedding. Boyan claims the pictures turned out "grotesque and repulsive" and he is suing Gunkel.

The pictures were so horrible they couldn't go in the newspaper, Boyan says. The lack of publicity hurt his private law practice, cutting his income. Gunkel should reimburse him for this loss, Boyan insists.

Boyan also wants Gunkel to pay him $2,000 to cover expenses of a trip to the Netherlands to visit the bride's parents. This trip was necessary to soothe the feelings of his in-laws who were angry because there were no decent wedding pictures.

Naturally, the bride and groom couldn't go to the Netherlands without the matron of honor, the best man, and the soloist who sang at the wedding. Gunkel should pay their expenses, too, Boyan says.

Boyan also points out that his bride is a professional model and "an excellent subject to photograph."

It is enough to make one wonder if Gunkel went to the right wedding, isn't it? But I'm certain he did. I'm certain Gunkel stands guilty as accused because Boyan is a member of the legal profession from whence we reap so many of our politicians. Would he lie for a few lousy thousand dollars?

Besides, I think I have spotted Gunkel for the dirty bird he is. He must be the guy who invented the photo machines which Michigan uses to take pictures to go on driver's licenses. And that's what I want to see Boyan about as soon as he's done plucking Gunkel. The photo on my license has caused me terrible anguish for which Michigan should pay dearly.

It's like this: I am usually late getting to wherever I am driving. I won't drive over 40 mph for fear of being stopped by some smart cop who will want to see my license. The last time I got caught speeding I was humiliated in front of my entire family by a New York state policeman.

This cop looked at my technician likeness and began mumbling.

"Why are you mumbling, officer?" I asked.

"I'm not mumbling," he answered, "I'm counting chins to make sure it is you."

Finally he laughed, shook his head, and said, "By golly, that is a picture of you. For awhile I thought it was Jackie Gleason."

At various other times my license picture has precipitated comment on my: 1) Nose—"It really is that red, isn't it?"; 2) Eyes—"They're mostly red, aren't they?"; and 3) Over-all face: "I've seen better hanging in post-offices, ha-ha."

With wisecrackers like that patrolling our highways, it is no wonder I proceed cautiously. Arriving anywhere late has definitely hurt my income. If I'd been 5 minutes earlier to a Legion meeting once, I would have won a $25 raffle. Several times I've arrived at theatres 2 minutes after tickets quit selling at matinee prices. And I've also been tardy for several bargain cocktail hours.

Lord only knows how much my license picture has cost me in real cash and crippling humiliation. I'll let Boyan decide how much I should sue Michigan for. If he can get Gunkel to finance a Netherlands honeymoon for his entire wedding party, he certainly should be able to make me rich enough to buy my own cops.

I can think of only one thing that might stump a lawyer as smart as Boyan. To sue Michigan, it might be necessary to serve a subpoena on Gov. Romney while he is in the state.

Onward and Upward.

Ripples from the Pool

By Faith Poole

An enthusiastic group of eighth graders heard News columnist Constance Lektzian discuss some of the early history of Clarkston last week. With her she took several household items loaned to her by the Oakland County Historical Society. We got a peek into the box and the first item we saw was an antique tooth extractor. No wonder people carry that inborn fear of a dentist's chair! Several household necessities (in those times anyway) were included in her display, such as a boot-jack, powder horn, bullet maker, candle molds, ruffling iron and many other small objects.

Across our desk this week came a request for a sizeable number of copies of our paper to be mailed to a 5th grade class in New Orleans. A former pupil in Clarkston is now attending school there. Her teacher and a teacher here are in the process of setting up "sister grades". Their primary interest seems to be in an issue that would contain some historical notes on Clarkston. We hope we can oblige.

The Village Players are elated over the success of their play "The Clown Who Ran Away." The Sunday performances turned out to be a real family day—with mothers, fathers and all the kids attending. Total tickets sold for the four performances amounted to 1270.

President Johnson's proposed tax to curb foreign travel of Americans is having its day in congress. We can't help but laugh up our sleeve a bit, because we just have notice of a new book out. Publisher is the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and it is called "Immunization Information for International Travel." The preface of this book makes this statement, "Once again this year Americans will be travelling for pleasure or on business." One way to halt the travel might be to halt the publication of this book.

Saturday evening, March 16, is the date that the Rotarians have set aside to take their wives to the Ice Follies.

us and sent a card. He also sent along a note telling me that he sympathized and understood my problems with Calhoon's propensity for animals.

There wasn't any heart balm in Costello's card last week. In the envelope there was a penny post card, the picture kind that cost more than a penny. The picture on the card was of a deer ranch in the central part of that state.

A young gal wearing shorts was feeding a llama and deer were all around her. Llamas we know. Calhoon has a guanaco and they're wild creatures that look very much like a llama.

On the back of the card Costello wrote, "Tell Calhoon that you know where some well fed llamas hang out. If I see they are starving, will let you know so she can rescue them."

Calhoon's fame has traveled far and wide. Even folks in Florida know that she's a soft touch when it comes to saving poor animals. Everyone knows that Calhoon thinks that all animals are poor and she's anxious to get them into her barn.

To make things even easier for Cal, Costello sent along another card in the same envelope. This card was the usual kind of P.R. material issued by the over zealous Florida Chamber of Commerce. On the back of this card was a map printed in three colors. Blue for the ocean that surrounds Florida, the place where all the hurricanes come from.

Even we poor souls in the frozen north know about hurricanes. That's why we're up here. Getting back to Costello's card. He had marked on it showing such principal points of interest as where the deer ranch is, the place Cal is to get her llama and Winter Haven where I'm to get my boat worked on.

I don't have a boat. Maybe it was meant that I could get a boat at the boat works named after that fine fellow, Costello.

On the other side of the card with the map are five pictures: one is of the human pyramid of water skiers. . . four girls in bathing suits on top carrying flags. With the way ladies' fashions are going, you can take that last sentence anyway you want to.

Another picture is of the darling kite man. . . a guy is flying suspended from a kite. He too is wearing water skis. The other three pictures are of lovely southern belles dressed in full length period gowns standing amidst a tropical splendor. Everyone is taking pictures of the belles. Since there doesn't seem to be anything else going on, I'm not too much interested in doing something that I do all the time anyway. . . take pictures.

Now, I feel better. At first, when I got Costello's card, I felt a pain deep inside. I wanted to go down and enjoy the sun and get away from these sub-zero temperatures. I have thoroughly digested the Florida material and feel as though I have had a vacation. Even the southern belles don't look as good as they first did. I'm sure that Cal won't mind letting a few animals remain poor, or something.

Dick Bullen with his English Border Collie pup, "Chris". Here Mr. Bullen has vegetable and flower plants started in anticipation of the warm weather to come.

Winter is still very much with us and will be for many more weeks. But at the Richard Bullen home at 50 Robertson Court there are roses in bloom and an abundance of azaleas, cyclamens, and mums are all in a riot of color and blossom.

Stepping down to the lower level of their home which overlooks Parke Lake, we examined pots of tulips, hyacinths, and daffodils all of which should be blossoming at Easter time. There were even dainty blue wood violets in bloom.

A home greenhouse is part of a retirement hobby for Dick who retired during this past year. "Twas a compromise," states Isobel, "he would have liked a farm." But his green thumb is apparent as we looked at flats of tomatoes and lettuce, both of which will be bearing within a month.

The greenhouse was installed in mid-November on a foundation which Dick had prepared on ground level. It attaches to the house in a "lean-to" design. A seven section affair, it measures approximately 10' by 20' with a separate door to the outside. It faces the south, recommended for growing conditions in which 3-4 hours of sunlight are needed daily.

The particular model that the Bullens chose is manufactured by Lord and Burnham in Irvington on the Hudson, New York. They are distributed in Michigan by the Marsh Greenhouses of Rockwood.

Known as a "cool greenhouse" a temperature of 55 degrees is maintained. When the sunshine raises the temperature above that level, automatic expandable louvers open from the roof to allow for ventilation. The sun's rays could push the temperature up to 70, 80, or 90 degrees without these louvers. The shade from the surrounding large trees will help provide the necessary protection from the hot summer sun.

A natural earth floor helps maintain the proper humidity. The unit has its own heating system complete with two thermostats.

Although it was installed in mid-November, it was December 1st before equipment was assembled and the Bullens were down to business in "flower raising".

Some interesting experiments are now in process for Dick, among them propagating African Violets from leaves and seed. The latter method is said to produce plants that will bloom more rapidly than the traditional method of using a leaf. The only difference may be in the ultimate result—which could be a surprise as to color, etc.

Tomato plants are now growing at the rate of an inch a day, and there is a flat of lettuce which will be ready to accompany the tomatoes in a tossed salad within a month.

Dick is also experimenting with the merits of plain garden dirt versus "sterilized dirt".

A few strawberry plants are in bloom and berries are forming. These plants were dug out of the snow by Richard Colton and Dick after they had first dug away the snow and the berry's winter covering.

The wood violets are interlopers—having clung to the base of some rose bushes that were transplanted from the cold

December outdoors to the new greenhouse. They are now rewarding the Bullens with the fragrance that wood violets produce.

The traditional greenhouse plants lend color to the room. Cyclamen, azalea, poinsettias, impatiens, mums and scarlet amaryllis interspersed with African violets are all in luxurious bloom.

Two hanging baskets, lined with moss, and containing vinca vine and other greens have come to vibrant life. They had been discarded by Charly Robinson when the hard frosts hit last fall. Now, they will be ready for full life again when the geraniums (already started) are added in the spring.

Flats of marigolds, pinks, and Sweet Williams have recently been started. The tulips and daffodils were put in pots early and allowed to remain in the winter weather for 60 days. When the January thaw arrived, Dick hastily dug them up and brought them into the greenhouse.

Friends bring "ailing plants" to be rejuvenated and there are always new plants, obtained from a local greenhouse to grow and nourish. Two other Clarkston families, the Jerome Wilfords and the Phillip Smiths had installed greenhouses prior to the Bullens. All are avid "winter gardeners".

Both Isobel and Dick have many other hobbies, interests, and activities including travel. So, in answer to my question, "what do you do about the greenhouse when you are away on a trip?", Dick's sparkling reply was simply "have a good neighbor".

Vacation in Montreal

Home from a six day trip to Montreal and the Province of Quebec are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wertman. Accompanying them were Gerry's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Clelland of Hudson, Ohio.

The two couples departed from Windsor by train arriving in Montreal early the next morning. The interest in that area was engendered a few years ago, so they went back for more sight-seeing trips. Among the places visited were Mont Tremblant in the Laurentian Mountain area noted as famous ski country. "Snowy, cold and interesting" was the way the couples described the area.

Before returning to Michigan there was time to tour some of Montreal's art museums, French restaurants and sea food places for which that cosmopolitan city is noted.

Clarkston cadets participate in special screening

National Headquarters, Civil Air Patrol, has announced that the national quotas for 1968 Cadet Special Activities have been expanded and more activities scheduled. The Cadet Advanced Activities will send 172 CAP cadets and their escorts to 25 nations on the International Air Cadet Exchange. This year six female cadets will tour Great Britain as IACE representatives. The Cadet Leadership School at Reno-Stead Airport, Nevada will hold four two-week classes with 100 cadets attending each class. 105 CAP cadets will receive their private pilot's license after attending the CAP Cadet Flying Encampment - Power.

Cadet Intermediate Activities will see 52 qualified female cadets attend the Aerospace Age Orientation Course at Maxwell AFB, Alabama; 52 cadets attend the Air Training Command's Jet Familiarization Course; 105 cadets will have the opportunity to solo at the Flying Encampment, Power - Solo; 52 cadets will go to Oklahoma City, Oklahoma for the FAA Orientation Course; 52 cadets will attend the Jet Orientation Course at Perrin AFB, Texas and 52 cadets are scheduled to attend the Space Age Orientation Course at Chanute AFB, Illinois.

As a Cadet Initial Activity 200 CAP cadets will attend Spiritual Life Conferences to be held throughout the country.

This year 54 Michigan CAP cadets were endorsed by their unit commanders, schools and churches as being eligible to attend one of the CAP activities. On Saturday, January 6th the cadets assembled at Vandenberg Service Center for the 1968 Cadet Special Activities Screening.

The cadets were divided into three groups and conducted through the three portions of the screening. Lt. Col. Fern Ludwick CAP, Michigan Wing Staff, tested the cadets' knowledge of CAP history, aerospace, military customs and current events with a written examination. The cadets also wrote an essay to see how well they could express themselves on a given subject.

The cadets were interviewed by a Screening Board composed of State Representative Joseph Snyder of St. Clair Shores; Lt. Col. Richard Turner USAF, USAF/CAP Liaison Office; Major McClarnon USAF, Executive Officer, 1st Combat Support Group, Selfridge AFB; Major Walker USAF, Chaplain, Selfridge AFB; Lt. Col. Charles Klann CAP, Commander, Michigan Wing CAP; and Major Elvira Hauslein CAP, Michigan Wing Aerospace Education Officer.

The ballroom of the Service Center became an indoor parade ground for inspection and drill. Monitored by Sgt. Gerald Casperson USAF, USAF/CAP Liaison Office, the drill portion tested the cadets' knowledge of drill execution and command ability as each cadet had a turn leading the flight in drill.

Luncheon at the Officers' Club at Selfridge AFB was also a part of the screening as cadets were graded on their manners and conversation during lunch.

Captain JoAnne Presley CAP, Michigan Wing Staff member and 1/Lt. Kathleen Hawkins CAP, Clarkston composite Squadron assisted the screening personnel.

WSU Medical Prof. Studies Mysteries of Human Sneezing

DETROIT — "Ker-choo!" You sneezed, and you don't know why? It may be an on-coming cold that triggered this "violent expiratory effort," as doctors describe it, or it may be something else.

"Actually, doctors don't know as much as they would like about the sneeze," says Dr. Miles Taylor, a professor who specializes in nose ailments in Wayne State University's School of Medicine.

"The condition that sets it off is always an irritation of the membrane which lines the nose," he says. "But there are so many ways this membrane may be irritated — including psychological stimulation — that it's hard to pinpoint anything."

If the cause is really connected with a cold, you'll probably know it because of other symptoms, he says, and you should cover your mouth and nostrils with a handkerchief or disposable tissue to protect others from the cold germs.

"The tiniest of the droplets which you expel may stay in the air and travel a considerable distance. The best way to keep the germs from contaminating others and from living on inside your own pocket is to sneeze into a tissue and dispose of it," says Dr. Taylor.

But the cause of your sneeze, if not cold-connected, may be any of these:

1. Vasomotor rhinitis — a condition where the lining membrane of your nose swells due to a chemical change in it. (Then you're likely to have attacks of sneezing in the morning.)
2. Pollens or dust in the atmosphere. (This cause is especially potent when your body has developed a "true allergy," or a predisposition to a certain irritant.)
3. Bodies in a finely divided state which we ourselves use deliberately — such as pepper or snuff. In this case the sneeze is a protective reaction.

A WSU cadet stifles a sneeze.

If you feel that you're going to sneeze and want to bring it on, look at a bright light. This is an example of reflex sneezing: sneezing brought about through the nervous system.

Another example of reflex sneezing — found only in certain people — is rapid cooling of the limbs — effective when they walk out in the cold insufficiently clothed, especially with bare arms or bare legs.

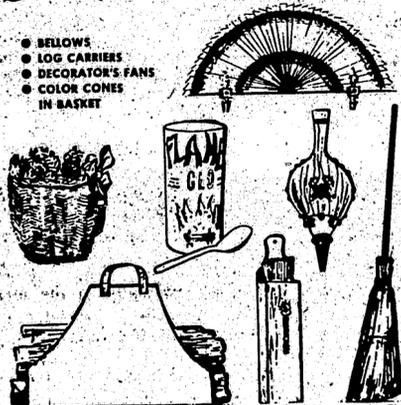

"There is one thing that every motorist should remember about sneezing," Dr. Taylor points out. "One's eyes are closed, and he is almost completely incapacitated as a driver during the half-second or so when his sneeze occurs. So if a driver feels a sneeze coming on, he should take some precautionary action — slowing down, gripping the wheel firmly, being sure his forward movement is free of obstructions."

The sneeze can be inhibited, but the several means of inhibiting are not recommended for drivers because they involve freeing a hand from the wheel.

Pressing the forefinger against the upper lip and slightly wrinkling this lip is one way. Another is rubbing the tip of the nose. In either case the sneeze is merely delayed. You'll probably sneeze sometime soon.

Dr. Ruel L. Howe in his book, "Man's Need and God's Action" says, "God created persons to be loved and things to be used. Instead of loving persons and using things, however, we are always tempted to love things and use persons."

By Reverend Frank A. Cozadd
First Methodist Church

The temptation to prefer things to people makes us try to turn people into things. Sartre, the French philosopher, puts it bluntly: "Hell is other people." He is saying other people cut us off, limit us, and circumscribe our freedom. In Sartre's sense, marriage is miserable because you walk into a church to be married a free person and when you walk out you are limited, circumscribed, and cut off.

Are we created to be free of other persons? Nineteen days is the maximum time a prisoner can be kept in solitary confinement without danger of permanent damage to his mind.

Selfishness may make us prefer things to people and make us try to keep human relationships impersonal, but it is only in relationships with other persons that we discover who we are and the real world in which we live. Things demand so much less of us than people. But, other people, because they limit us, provide the straight and narrow way that leads to life.

We must not only teach that people are more important than things, we must also live it. We must put the priority on persons. It is by loving others and being loved by others that we become aware of what is most important in life. In the difficult times of life we do not want some things as much as we want some one. God did not give us something to show us His love. He gave us some one — Jesus Christ. God does not give us something to strengthen, guide, encourage, and comfort us. He gives us some one — a person who is a channel of His love.

Persons are to be loved and things are to be used. As Jesus said, "What will it profit a man, if he gains the whole world and forfeits his life?"

HEART RISKS & YOU

Ways to Be a Winner In the Game of Hearts

The name of the game is heart attack and/or stroke. The stakes of the game are long life and good health.

The Michigan Heart Association says medical research is pointing the way to a winning ticket for this game — PREVENTION — through avoidance of the heart attack risk factors, cigarette smoking, lack of exercise, high blood pressure, high level of blood cholesterol and overweight.

Prevention is not a guarantee; it is a means of giving oneself the best chance possible of avoiding or delaying heart attack or stroke, diseases which cause more than 54 percent — about a million a year — of all deaths in America.

It is a fact, corroborated by research in various parts of the United States including Tecumseh, Mich., that more people with more risk factors get more artery blockages than people with fewer risk factors. Artery blockage is the basic cause of most heart attacks and strokes.

While there is no direct laboratory proof that risk factors cause artery blockage, living with these risk factors is an unnatural way of living, according to Dr. Ross V. Taylor, Jackson, president of the association.

The human body, which can withstand much in illness, hardship and intense exertion, has not developed enough tolerance to overeating, physical indolence, obesity and smoking, he said.

Tolerance, of course, varies with every individual. This is why a few people can have a number of risk factors and keep well for some years, while a few people with few risk factors suffer artery blockage.

There are other risk factors: the immutable ones, age, sex — men under 45 get six to 10 times as many attacks as women under 45 — and heredity.

Recently, there have been many questions about heredity. Is a predisposition to artery blockage inherited? Or are many had risk habits, such as overeating, adopted by children from their parents? There is also diabetes, a disease factor that can be checked by medicine. High blood pressure is also controllable, Dr. Taylor added.

In the main, research involving the heart itself — one of the most efficient, one-way pumps ever evolved and subject to few ailments — has been comparatively successful. Many of the congenital defects — misplaced holes, etc. — can be repaired by surgery. Valve damage (rheumatic heart disease), which also is repairable by surgery, can be averted adequately by treatment of the strep infections that cause rheumatic fever.

But research into the causes, treatments and factors involved in artery blockages is a different story. It is a story of enigmas.

The complexity of blood chemistry has been generally known, but most people think

Inner-city work to be discussed by Salvation speaker

The many services and activities of The Salvation Army will be explained to Rotarians when they meet for the February 26 meeting at Howe's Lanes.

Richard Snyder with the Building Fund campaign office of the Salvation Army of the Detroit Tri-County area will be speaker. "Meeting the Challenge of Riots and Civic Disorders" will be his topic. The program feature is to outline how they are conducting pilot programs in the "underprivileged areas" and having some very encouraging results.

It is felt that this program succeeds by finding outlets for the energies in the minds of these boys and girls who might otherwise become "destructive delinquents," a few years hence.

An integral part of the presentation is their color sound-slide film narrated by Bob Allison of WWJ-Radio, which dramatically unfolds the many services and activities of the Salvation Army.

Reservists offered opportunities

An expanded Civil Air Patrol-Air Force Reserve assistance program which will afford Reservists in some 1,600 communities throughout the nation a unique opportunity to earn retirement points has been approved by the United States Air Force.

According to Captain Charles A. Bailey, Jr., Hq. Fifth Air Force Reserve Region Director of Information at Selfridge Air Force Base, Reservists formerly unable to participate in the Reserve Program due to being beyond the desired 50-mile maximum distance from an organized Reserve unit, can now be assigned to their local, or nearest CAP unit.

CAP, designated by Congress as an Air Force auxiliary, is organized along military lines with a wing headquarters in each state, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico. Michigan's wing has 89 squadrons in 18 groups.

Lt. Colonel Richard Turner, USAF-Civil Air Patrol Liaison Officer, Michigan Wing Headquarters, Selfridge AFB, believes that a significant gain of experienced Air Force Reservists in CAP units throughout the country is bound to measurably raise the overall operational efficiency of the CAP — "already the nation's most accomplished volunteer citizen emergency mission force."

The CAP mission is threefold; to conduct search and rescue operations under the supervision of the Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Service; to aid in civil defense and in domestic disasters such as floods, hurricanes, etc., and to conduct an aerospace education program for its 34,874 senior and

Census to get 1967 employment figures here

A selected sample of households in this area will be asked questions about their employment during 1967 as part of the February Current Population Survey conducted by the U.S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of the Census, according to Robert A. Yerkey, Director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Detroit.

The 1967 survey questions will be aimed at finding out the number of weeks worked during the year, the amount of time lost because of unemployment and other reasons, and the job held the longest time during the year by each person over 14 years of age in sample households.

The Current Population Survey is taken each month from a representative sample of households in 449 areas throughout the United States chiefly to obtain national estimates of current employment and unemployment. The identity of households is confidential by law, and the facts obtained are used for statistical purposes only.

Fire Control Technician Third Class James R. McCormick, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCormick of 9947 Dixie Highway, Clarkston, participated in "Bead Stringer" as a crewmember aboard the guided missile light cruiser USS Oklahoma City.

"Bead Stringer", a U.S. First Fleet training exercise was held off the coast of Southern California and lasted from January 4 through the 13th. It was planned to prepare the 23 ships and nine air units that participated, for conditions prevailing in Southeast Asia.

The exercise included advanced training in surface warfare tactics, anti-submarine, air and PT boat warfare operations, and shore bombardment. It was highlighted by surface-to-air missiles fired against drone aerial targets, live rocket and bombing attacks against targets in the San Clemente, and Chocolate Mountain impact ranges, surface gunnery and air strikes to sink the target ship Ex-USS Abercrombie.

Marine Private Harold G. Hatley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willben L. Hatley of 6217 Delhi, Clarkston, was graduated from eight weeks of recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot here.

He will now undergo from two to four weeks of individual combat training and then, after leave at home, will report to his first Marine Corps assignment.

The intensified Marine recruit training emphasizes rigid physical conditioning and survival techniques, both at sea and ashore, to develop self-confidence and endurance. Marksmanship with the M-14 rifle and 45-caliber pistol are equally stressed, and close order drill instills the traditions of Marine Corps teamwork.

A thorough study of basic military subjects, hygiene, first aid and sanitation, and the customs, courtesies, history and mission of the Marine Corps serve to polish the new Marine's recruit education and prepare him to join the Marine combat forces.

Has individual combat training

Marine Private Kenneth C. Papke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Papke, Jr. of 2362 Pauline, Drayton Plains, completed two weeks of training under simulated combat conditions in the fundamentals of day and night patrolling, employment of infantry weapons, survival methods and assault tactics at this Marine Corps base.

This individual combat training is given every Marine after his graduation from recruit training. Taught by combat experienced non-commissioned officers of the infantry training regiment here, it prepares the young Leatherneck to become part of the Marine air-ground combat team.

While in the field he was taught how to use hand grenades, a compass and the principles of map reading and land navigation. He learned how to detect and disarm mines and booby traps and, while being exposed to live machine gun fire, he learned to advance safely from one point to another.

From this course, he is scheduled to go on to more advanced training before being assigned to his permanent unit.

Abraham Craft-early educator

ABRAHAM CRAFT

When Lydia Ann Craft came west to Michigan with her husband, Charles, and his family, she was a 15 year old bride. Young marriages were not the rule of that day, contrary to popular belief. Life was too difficult and most parents made strong objections to their children making a home of their own at an early age. In this case, the senior Craft's, Abraham and Huldah, were anxious to go to Michigan. They felt strongly that at their age if they were going to make a fresh start, it should be now. Still in their early forties, they heard many tales of the vast land that was obtainable in that territory. They couldn't be deterred by the fact that their 17 year old son didn't want to leave without his sweetheart. In the end both families consented to the marriage and the young couple made the journey westward.

It was a slow, arduous trip down the Erie Canal on barges that moved so slowly that the two youngsters often jumped off and ran along the banks. It was expensive too. People riding the canal not only paid their own ticket, but paid freight by the pound for all their household items and farm equipment. In Buffalo they had the usual wait for the busy lake steamers and Charles and Lydia had time to look over the town, only a busy frontier village but big and cosmopolitan in their eyes. To Lydia, raised in a light house on the shores of Lake Ontario, this must have seemed the ultimate in adventure.

This was in 1835, and when the family finally arrived in Detroit, it was to find this, too, a busy gateway to the rest of Michigan. Everyone was in a hurry, anxious to get to the place where they could make their claim to a future farm. The youngsters, along with Charles' family, purchased wagons and ox-teams and started the trip to Springfield township. Here they took up land from the government and settled to a life of farming. The Craft family was to own and occupy this land for to follow, setting the time for them to be in the class room before their pupils arrived and keeping them at school long after the last child had left, checking to make sure everything was in order. There seems to have been little so-called home work, most of it being

Of Charles and Lydia's seven children, Abraham, named for his grandfather, was the sixth child. He was a boy with an intense driving desire for an education. He lived on the farm for 18 years, attending the district schools, whenever they were held. This was not always on a regular schedule. The schools usually opened for a four month period in the summer, starting in June and four months in the winter, starting in December. Somehow this fitted in best with the work to be done on the farm. Sessions of education also depended first, on the board's finding a teacher and secondly, getting the money to pay a teacher's salary. A haphazard struggle at best, and possibly one not to Abraham's liking, for in later years he insisted on a continuous session of school and worked hard to get good teachers.

After two years at Holly high school, Abraham taught for a year and saved the money to go to Fenton high school. In those times, there seemed to be a drastic difference in the courses offered in various high schools. When money and teachers of higher education weren't available, the high school curriculum was apt to be rather elementary; or if the school board was of the opinion that some courses weren't applicable to the way of life in that community, they weren't offered. There simply wasn't the supervision that there is today. This probably had profound effect on Abraham Craft's teaching tactics. He graduated from Fenton in 1880 and returned to teaching for a couple of years. This was followed with a course at the Detroit Business University.

It was in 1885 that he was appointed principal of Clarkston High School, the old wooden two story building built by Nelson Clark as a private academy. It was later sold to the district and became the Union School. At that time, high school was completed by the 10th grade but Mr. Craft, or Professor Craft as he became known, bent every effort to round out the educational values of the courses offered here. He was a strict disciplinarian, not only with the pupils but the teachers as well. He laid out rules for them done at school under the supervision of the teachers. And there were only three other teachers besides the Professor.

While Professor Craft took an interest in politics and some of the social activities in his community, his main interest was always education. For ten years he was county school examiner in Oakland County and then school commissioner. When he married, it was to a young woman as interested in education and civic affairs as he, Carrie Jennings, daughter of the editor of the Fenton newspaper, the Independent.

In his own words Professor Craft stated that education should be that which makes boys and girls "of quick perceptions, broad sympathies and wide affinities; responsive but independent; self-reliant but deferential."

We have searched for a long time for a picture of Professor Craft, once asking in the Clarkston News if anyone knew of such a picture. No response. Last Sunday, wheeling down the corridors of Clarkston Junior High with our six year old son on the way to see "The Clown that Ran Away" we glanced up at the wall. There he hangs, a framed picture of Abraham L. Craft.
