Local woman to sing in

"Overture to Opera VII"

Performances of "Overture to Opera VII" for Clarkston school students will be presented on March 18 at Pontiac Northern High School. Scheduled for 1:30 p.m. on that day, the students will be bussed-in from Clarkston according to Mrs. Frank W. Lambert who is serving on the education committee for Clarkston.

"Overture to Opera VII" is sponsored jointly by the Detroit Grand Opera Association, Oakland University, and the University Center for Adult Education. The "Overture" season will run from March 10 to May 2, and cover the Detroit metropolitan area and southern Michigan.

The cast has been recruited from leading operatic voices in this section of the country and includes 19 principal singers and one understudy. Among the newcomers to "Overture" is Nancy Fox Hoover of Clarkston. She received her B.M. degree in applied voice at West Virginia University School of Music, in Morgantown, West Virginia. She did her post-graduate study majoring in lieder and opera at Mozarteum Academy, in Salzburg, Austria. She has had private study with Ludwig Bergman, Marian Manderer, and Marjorie Gordon. She won several awards while at the University and is a member of Actors Equity.

Her experience includes four years in summer stock in New Hampshire and Pennsylvania, and several operatic roles while in Austria. Nancy and her husband, David, who is with the Oakland University faculty, now reside in Clarkston. She appears in this year's "Overture" in the role of Monica, in "The Medium".

The program is produced by Dr. David DiChiera, acting chairman of the Department of Music at Oakland University. Commentary and interpretation are offered by Dr. DiChiera at each performance.

there is a threat to mental or physical health, when pregnancy results from rape or incest, or if there is a possibility of a defective child.

I wonder what the results to such a question would have been 25 or 30 years ago.

A big majority of people support continuing the legislation that prohibits liquor sales in Michigan on Sunday. Likewise, a big majority favor legislation which would make it a violation of the law for public employees (policemen, firemen, teachers) to strike. The electorate also favors a state-wide lottery.

The questionnaire indicates people want much stronger laws in dealing with crimes. We apparently want less use of probation by judges, stiffer penalties for violent crimes, and even the death penalty for snipers of firemen and policemen.

The only other question I'll deal with that was on the questionnaire concerns demolishing the present Capitol Building. Bishop's electors said they favor it. He put the cost in at $25 million.

I don't know what you think of surveys, but I feel they generally reflect the thinking of the people for a much wider area than just the 63rd district. They are one of the tools that must be used in making decisions. I would hope that other representatives in Lansing would look at Bishop's survey unless they conducted their own. Loren Anderson, Roy Spencer and other neighboring representatives of the 63rd district might do well by studying the Bishop survey.

Sewer interceptor work to start in early summer

Present plans for beginning construction on the Oakland County sewer line are for early May. The interceptor will collect waste water from at least six central Oakland County Communities. They are the townships of Avon, Independence, Orion, Pontiac, Waterford and West Bloomfield. The announcement came from R.J. Alexander, director of the County Department of Public Works. Bonds for the project have already been sold, and application for a federal grant to assist in the cost of the project has been made.

It will connect with the Macomb County sewer interceptor and construction on that is supposed to start in June. This will make waste-water treatment service available to Warren, Mount Clemens, Utica and Fraser, and the townships of Sterling, Shelby, Clinton, Harrison, Macomb and Chesterfield.

This is all part of a four-year $114 million Detroit River basin program to reduce wastewater pollution.

Construction could be accelerated in 1968 if House Bill 2646 presently being considered in the Senate is passed. Money totaling $7.2 million of federal grants would be available to local communities in the State. The water quality standards act adopted in Michigan calls for creating an environment ideal for game fish and all forms of aquatic recreation such as boating, swimming, water skiing, and scuba diving.

Sheriff reports area accidents

A driver received type C injuries in an accident at the intersection of Sashabaw and Maybee Roads at 9:25 P.M. on Friday.

Vladimir Vicko, 22, of 773 Farham, Lincoln Park was taken to his own physician for treatment. He told sheriff officers who investigated that an oncoming car cut in front of him causing him to leave the road.

At 11:55 A.M. on Sunday a car driven by Robert Myers of 6909, Williams Lake Road, Waterford was struck by one driven by John Landau, 43, of 3143 Bird Road, Dearborn. Myers had slowed down preparing to turn left, he told officers when he was struck by the Landau auto. Landau stated that he had started to pass when he was forced to the left. Neither driver was injured. The mishap occurred at Ortonville and Hadley Roads.

A similar accident occurred Sunday at 2:10 P.M. on Eston and Goodale Roads. A car driven by Melvin Hoolihan, 35, of 196 Carr in Pontiac was stopping to make a left turn when struck by an auto driven by Mary Ann McCullough, 33, of 8761 Thendara Blvd., Clarkston. Dorothy Hoolihan a passenger received type B injuries in the accident. The second driver told sheriff officers that she saw the Hoolihan auto preparing to stop so she hit the brakes but skidded into the car.

Clarkston driver wins new Mustang

Two young Michigan drivers, Paul Brinich of Clarkston and Randy Burgess of Hamilton, are among 30 young persons across the country who have won new cars in Ford Motor Company's "Safe Driving Incentive Program for Young Americans."

Almost 150,000 young people participated in the program and more than 3,200 received awards. Contestants qualified by driving without chargeable accidents or moving traffic violations from June 1 to August 31 last year. They also answered tough but practical questions concerning what they would do in certain potentially dangerous driving situations, and wrote safe-driving slogans.

As first-prize winners, Mr. Brinich was awarded a 1968 Mustang hard-top and Mr. Burgess a 1968 Mercury Montego hardtop. In a congratulatory letter, Henry Ford II, chairman of the board, said it was "gratifying to learn that so many young Americans share our concern for traffic safety."

The company awarded 15 Mustangs, 15 Mercury Montegos, 200 Philco-Ford portable stereo phonographs and 3,000 Philco-Ford transistor radios in the competition.

Ford conducted the program last summer for licensed drivers who had not reached their 25th birthday by August 31. It was prompted by the fact that drivers in the 15-to-24-year age group have a disproportionate number of motor vehicle accidents. Winners were selected by an independent judging company.

Senior scouts who gave much of their time and effort to making the "Thinking Day Program" the success it was, are: Nancy Cole, Sue Tower, Rosalind Byers, Jane Richard, Ann Miller, Janice Easton, Becky Byers, Sandra Nagel, Sheila Cole and Beverly Morse.

With one more scouting job "well done", this stage full of "Thinking Day Program" presenters get ready to "Follow the Piper" and vacate the stage.

This years Blue and Gold scout banquet saw scout leaders both coming in and going out. Taking over the responsibilities of scoutmaster was Mr. Freitag (center). This position was recently held by Mr. Vosie, to his left. Jim's Jottings

By Jim Sherman

Donald Bishop is the state representative for the 63rd district (which includes Oxford) and he has disclosed the results of a recent survey among his constituents. When I received mine I chided Don about a question under "education."

The questionnaire asked for yes or no answers or no opinion. The question was "Should there be more or less control (of education)? Now try answering that yes or no. Don drew the conclusion that his electors wanted less state control 45 to 28 percent.

Some of the other answers in his survey are more interesting and enlightening, and a lot less confusing. 84 percent of the 1200 people answering the questions favored legalizing abortions if

Committee of 1, now 11

Kraud wants changes

The "Committee of One" became a committee of 11 last Tuesday night and the backing of more was promised if needed.

Robert Kraud, of 6771 Wealthy, section 18 of Independence Township, rented the Junior High School gym and called for "voters and taxpayers" to "give me an hour of your time."

His ad in The Clarkston News read in part, "If you own property in Independence Township, if you were a little surprised at your last tax bill -- you should not be asking what your government is doing for you, but what it is doing to you. The future of your community and its effect on your pocketbook is being decided now."

Tuesday, he outlined three goals he had in mind: 1. Ask township officials to review the township Planning Commission, 2. Repeal section 10 of the new zoning ordinance that deals with Planned Unit Development or "cluster housing", 3. Demand a public hearing on the Clinton-Oakland sewer project.

Kraud said he first became interested and aware of the township planning commission's work 18 months ago. At that time, he said, he attended a public hearing of the commission with other residents of Section 18.

"When 75 percent of the taxpayers in that section voiced opposition to changing the zoning from agriculture to Residential 1 and the commission recommended the change anyway the struggle became a personal one," Kraud told the audience of about 70.

He showed the people the first zoning map published in The News prior to the adoption, which had R-1 in section 18, then the adopted map, which showed this section still agriculture. He said this was done following his appearance before the board and he felt he had been "bribed" when the zoning remained unchanged.

Kraud quoted some planners at one of the meetings he attended saying "that anyone who owned more than a normal size lot "would be taxed off their land in 5 to 8 years." "When they said that," Kraud told the gathering, "They declared war on me." Kraud owns 8.5 acres off Holcomb, north of I-75.

In commenting about the planning commission, Kraud said he wanted the membership reviewed because, "1. I question their intellectual capabilities, 2. They either have personal interest, or 3. They feel they are superior to property owners and know better what you need."

His contention that the planned unit development section of the zoning ordinance should be repealed was based on his belief this would give greater population to an area, allowing building on smaller lots. He said the "hired planners say people are coming and through zoning, officials are going to see that they do."

On the third point, a public hearing on sewers, Kraud said this project would likely be the biggest project this township faces, along with water. He urged the people to get behind him in "demanding" a public hearing to explain how much it is going to cost the individual the Annex Building each Wednesday evening. In presenting the certificate Captain Clifford E. Moore, CAP, Oakland County Group Commander, told the Board that their support of the CAP Cadet Program had enabled several of the Squadron's cadets to participate in National Special Activities during 1967. The International Air Cadet Exchange saw C/Major Robert Grace visit Great Britain, and the National Flying Encampment—Glider allowed C/ILT. Gary Klann to earn his private pilot-glider rating. Other cadets visited Alabama, Illinois and New York representing Michigan at other Special Activities.

In concluding his presentation Captain Moore told the Board that he sincerely hoped that 1968 would see other Clarkston area cadets attending Cadet Special Activities as "young goodwill ambassadors representing their community, state and nation."

tax payer. He mentioned the cost in Rochester for sewer and water hook up at $3300 each and payable over a 10 year period. Other costs were mentioned from the audience for other communities.

Kraud also suggested the township board be asked why they changed engineering firms. "How many bids did they get, how was it handled, I'd like to know," he said. He also wondered at the cost of engineering. The head of the Committee of One said he hoped that more people would turn out for his hearing, but proposed a committee be formed then so the people can be heard. He figured the township officials would listen more attentively to a group and "the bigger the group the better."

Asked from the audience "Where do we start fighting?", Kraud said, "We have 5 elected officials. If they don't hear, we get new officials, but I think they will listen. If we can't get someone else to run for of-

Clarkston beaten by Waterford Twp. and Brighton

The Wolves lost two games last week, losing to Waterford township 60-41 and Brighton 68-62.

Waterford contest

It was a completely frustrating game for Clarkston as everything went wrong. They couldn't find the hoop, passes went in all directions and the defense fell apart. Coach McGrath used everybody except his assistant Coach Hanson and everyone played the same way.

When you don't score things happen and all went wrong for the blue. To make things worse, Gary Ostrum injured his knee in the Milford game and was unable to play. This spark plug couldn't play in the Brighton game and his play during tournament time is highly doubtful.

Here are the shooting differences of both teams.

Clarkston had been defeated by an average of only 5 points per game and this loss to Waterford was by 19—AMEN!

J V splits two games

Clarkston's J.V. won over Waterford township 50-49 and lost to Brighton 59-49.

The Waterford game was a big win for Coach Hanson's army as one of his star guards Steve Warman was wearing a Varsity Uniform.

The Township crew had a fine ball club as three of the starters were juniors. When you have to play minus one starter and against juniors and your team still comes out on top, it sure is a tribute of the all around Brighton team and lost 59-49. The Wolves had a bad shooting night and scored on only 12 out of 52 points for 23%. Brighton had 26 for 54 for 48%.

Bruce Hardy once again led the team in scoring with 15 points but scored on only 4 out of 18 shots, that's only 22% shooting.

Kelly did a much better job in this game and responded with 12 points. Don Brown and Tom Grace were next with 7 each.

I really can't say for sure, but I think Bruce Hardy has set a record for scoring on a J.V. ball club—will have to do some checking up!

The win now gives the hustling Wolves a record of 11-6. They have outscored their opponents 911-876.

Tournament predictions

"CLASS A"
Just about everyone predicts Detroit Pershing will win their second Class A title in a row. Coach Will Robinson and his H.S. all American Ralph Simpson are almost a sure-in—I look for them to have plenty of trouble getting out of their own District and Regional play. In fact Detroit Murry-Wright defeated them last Saturday. East Lansing and Ypsilanti are undefeated but watch Saginaw or Flint Central from the tough Saginaw Valley Conference. My pick will be someone from that conference.

"CLASS B"
Without a question it will be a team from the U.P. Menominee won it last year and are 16-0 this year. They could have trouble with Ishpeming as they defeated them by only 2 points in the regular season. Holland Christian usually plays Class C ball but they expect to get in the Class B competition, they are a tough tournament team. River Rouge is again in the thick of things, but don't have the usual depth. Oakland County has two good teams in Romeo and West Bloomfield but both of them are in the same district.

Yes, the U.P. all the way with either Menominee or Ishpeming.

"CLASS C"
The U.P. has nothing to offer in this class. Crystal Falls and Wakefield are the only threats. The L.P. has a bundle of possibilities in last year's semifinalist Detroit All Saints, last year's champion Mt. Pleasant Sacred Heart, on the Lake Michigan side Charlevoix is undefeated, Oakland County's Orchard Lake St. Mary is tough, and so is Homer.

There are a bushel more—your pick is as good as mine—How about Detroit All Saints?

"CLASS D"
The U.P. is always loaded in Class D and this year is no exception. Leading the Pack is Ewen-Trout Creek. These two towns merged into one school district and instead of one gas station now there are two. These towns are small but they know how to play basketball. Twice this year they have scored 135 points and 151 points. They will have some trouble getting out of the Regionals as Hermansville and Baraga have fine records.

In the L.P. Adrian Catholic, Lawrence and Benton Harbor St. John will give any team a run at East Lansing.

My pick of course is Ewen-Trout Creek.

BRIGHTON GAME

The Brighton contest was a see saw affair with Brighton getting the upper hand in the last 56 seconds to win 68-62!

With 56 seconds left and a jump ball situation the ball rolled out of bounds in favor of Brighton. Randy Needham of the Bulldogs hit a short 8 foot jumper for a 2 point lead. Clarkston tried to work Erickson loose for a shot but fouled and lost the ball on a turnover. Only 18 seconds were left and Rick Wellman fired in another goal.

Clarkston couldn't get a shot off and with one second on the clock, Rick Wellman again scored on a lay-up.

This loss just about left any chance in rising any higher than 3rd place in the W.O. League. Still not too bad considering the Wolves lost 5 out of their first 7 ball games.

When Clarkston was 1 and 3 in league play I heard a half-time interview between Mike Mason and Kirt "Dude" Phillips. At that time Kirt predicted Clarkston would take 3rd place in league competition. Kirt is quite a predictor when it comes to sports and if I might say, a good one too—

Eric Hood led the team in scoring with 19 points. Erickson had 18 by the end of the 3rd quarter, but failed to garner a point in the 4th quarter.

Larry Lewis had his best scoring night in a blue uniform by scoring on 7 of 11 shots for 14 points. This by far was his finest game. Lewis and Hood were the only Clarkston boys to score in the 4th quarter. Each of them had 3 field goals.

Clarkston and Brighton had 26 field goals each, but Brighton spent more time at the charity stripe, 31 chances to only 19 for the Wolves. Brighton made 16 and Clarkston hit on 10.

Hard work and effort on the part of Women's Club members made it possible for this $200 check to be served to the Library Fund, on a silver platter. The check was from this year's Rummage Sale and brought the total contribution by the Club to over $2,400. Making the presentation at the February 22 meeting was the Club's president, Mrs. Barton Connors. Accepting in behalf of the Library Advisory Board was Mrs. Evan Leonard.

Notes on the Orchard

By Constance Lektzian

This fresh snow may not be a welcome sight to anyone but the skiers, but it at least covers up the winter's debris that seems to have collected along the edges of our roads. Only three weeks away from the official beginning of spring - it's going to have to warm up in a hurry.

Mrs. Edward Backus of Burgundy Street entertained last Tuesday night, February 27. Seven ardent pinocle players trekked over for an evening of cards. Present from Waterford was Mrs. Dennis Alden of Warringham Drive; Mrs. Dale Walinski was there from Davisburg; from Pontiac came Mrs. David Walinski and Mrs. Robert Rabideau; Mrs. Bruce Brown and Mrs. Allen Tunny were there from Lake Orion and Mrs. John Q. Adams from Maybee Road. It proved a very enjoyable evening.

That North Sashabaw School

PTA is hard working and ambitious. Saturday, February 17 they presented a movie in the morning from ten until noon, showing three reels of old time comedies. Over 300 pupils attended and reported a hilarious time. Mrs. Jean Head of 4944 Clinton Drive, president of the PTA, was in charge of this successful fete. She also has some of her members busy selling sweatshirts with the school insignia.

Phillip Sommers Jr., of Flemmings Lake Road, assistant pastor of Maranatha Baptist Church, returned home Wednesday from a trip to Nebraska. His purpose out there was to set up arrangements for a summer tour of the Youth Choir of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baynes of 7939 Tappan Drive along with children Mark and Linda went to Cobo Hall last Sunday to attend the final showing of the Flower and Home display. They reported that the Department of Parks and Recreation outdid themselves this year. The woodland scenes and formal garden displays were very beautiful. All of this entails bringing in living trees and plants and is a tremendous amount of work.

Young Mark Baynes probably wishes he had stayed in Detroit Sunday. After arriving back home, he decided to take a wooden go-cart out for a spin now that the roads were free of snow. He tipped over and fell into some glass, and needed 25 stitches in his left leg.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Carter of 7473 Church Street had a double celebration Sunday, February 25 for their two children. Rich who was officially three years old on February 27 and Scott who will be one year old March 4, cut their cakes together. The early celebration was so that the boys' great aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Penoskie who are leaving Friday for a month's tour of Europe, could be present. Also on hand for the birthday dinner were grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Mike Penoskie of Rankin Michigan and Mrs. Martha Carter of Pontiac. Centering the table was a large cake flanked by two smaller ones, just for the children themselves.

Wendy Thompson, daughter of the Larry Thompson's of 6645 Almond Lane, had a privilege rarely granted a six year old. She attended college - for the week-end. Wendy was the guest of her aunt, Carol Hiske at Lansing's Michigan State College for the Little Sister week-end, sponsored by Carol's dorm. She arrived at the college Friday night February 23 and stayed until Sunday evening. All the youngsters attending got to visit the campus, eat in the dorm dining room and listen to the chorale and musical groups planned for their entertainment. All of which put these little ones in a state of big-eyed excitement.

Monday, February 26, eleven little children arrived at Michelle Nelson's house about one in the afternoon to help her celebrate her 4th birthday. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Nelson of 5488 Console Drive and in addition to her guests, brother Michael II, age 21 months had a hand in helping with the festivities. On hand also were her grandmother Mrs. Melvina Cooper of Pontiac and a trio of aunts which included Mrs. Betty Lewis of Pontiac, Mrs. Dianne Ruelle of Waterford and Mrs. Judy Soustin of Drayton Plains. The color pink was carried out even to the pink iced cupcakes. In the evening another birthday dinner was celebrated at the Nelson home with grandmother Mrs. Lucille Nelson and aunt Kathy of Drayton Plains.

Mrs. Richard (Nora) Barry of 6543 Plum Drive enjoyed her February 21 birthday with dinner at the Old Mill Tavern, which included husband Richard, of course, and a few close friends.

The Ted Womack's of Shelley Drive along with Joyce and Larry Thompson of 6645 Almond Lane went to the Olympia Stadium Thursday, February 22 and watched the Detroit Red Wings play Boston. It was exciting, interesting - and Detroit lost in the last few minutes of the game.

The Waterford Pack 199, which includes many Cub Scouts Dens from the south-eastern corner of Independence Township, met Saturday night at 6:30 at the Sportsmen's Club for their annual blue and gold banquet. Over 100 parents and boys attended. Entertainment included a marionette group and a clown act. Along with Wolf and Arrow Badges, Bobcat pins were presented.

February 26, Monday evening, was the regular business meeting of the North Sashabaw PTA board. Present were Mrs. John Q. Adams of 5141 Maybee Road, parliamentarian; Mrs. Jean Head, president; Mr. Jervis, school principal; Mr. Leppenan, teacher vice-president; Mrs. Carole Smith, secretary; Mrs. Lois Dunn, membership chairman; Mrs. Evelyn Smith, hospitality and Mrs. Phyllis Karpovch, home room chairman. Plans were made for the forthcoming book fair to be held for 4 days in the spring. It was also decided that in the coming school years movies would be shown in the school once a month as a money raising project. A report was given that 397 sweat shirts with the school insignia have been sold. The group discussed the possibility of sending a delegation from the PTA to the Child Problem Clinic to be held at the State University in East Lansing March 19. A spelling bee with students from the 5 and 6 grades will be held at the PTA meeting Monday March 4. The PTA board will award prizes in the form of trophies and gift certificates for the purchase of books to the winners. A flag ceremony by the Girl Scouts will be held at the same PTA meeting. A thank you note was read at the board meeting from this Scout troop written in appreciation of money given to the

An evening of entertainment and surprises are in the cards for anyone attending the March 4th card party sponsored by the Clarkston Jaycettes. Door prizes will be given and dessert served at the social which will be held in the Community Center. It will begin at 8 p.m. Setting the stage are Donna Draper (from left), Barbara Hamaker, Sharon Hawke and Lenore Hagstrom.

The Circuit Riders—a Guiding life

A familiar part of the pioneer scene was the Methodist circuit rider. He could match his farmer counterpart in poverty and struggle and did just as much to bring a civilizing influence to this section of the country.

The circuit riding era in Michigan started in 1816, the church having been organized at the Christmas Conference in Baltimore in 1784. During most of the time when these itinerant preachers combed through the swamps and forests of Michigan, they worked for a salary of $100 for single men and $200 for married ministers with a $16 allowance for each child. The men had one great fault to find with these yearly wages—they very rarely received them.

Most of the early settlers to whom these men preached lived a scrub-penny, hard scratch existence and couldn't pay these ministers in cash. They gave them instead oats and hay for their horses, or cabbages and potatoes for themselves. Many of the preachers went to their annual conference with the news that they had received less than half the money wages due them. The life of a circuit rider was one of such hardship that half of those who died before 1847 were under 30 years of age. One preacher noted that he received the payment of twenty-five cents for presiding at the wedding of one of his fellow-circuit riders. Another told of the time when his only trousers were thin at the knees and he had no money with which to buy another pair. He had the legs cut off, turned around and sewed back on.

The Methodist circuit riders who tended the Upper Peninsular regions got around mainly by canoe in the summer and snowshoes in winter. Down in this area, most of the traveling was done by horseback and the preachers gave their first concern to the care of their horses. This was the best mode of travel for a region described by the Surveyor-General in 1815 as being an interminable swamp. The riders, with a schedule that called for preaching once during every weekday and twice on Sunday, rarely rested. From diaries and journals passed down through the years give a glimpse of the hardships and difficulties that these men lived with.

Rarely did a preacher arrive at his destination without having first to ford a river or cross a swamp. He usually struggled up to a farmer's home cold, wet and tired—but ready to preach. These early journals were filled with experiences of digging their horses out of bogs, swimming them across rivers and creeks swollen by spring rains, and, having lost their way in the woods, spending the night in a brush hut, listening to the howls of wolves. These men preached in barns, school-houses, homes and taverns—anywhere in fact, where there was shelter and a few people. Sometimes, in isolated sections, his audience might consist of one family. He was a welcome visitor in any family circle, for in addition to his Bible and discipline, he brought seldom heard news of the world outside and an occasional letter.

The circuit rider married, buried and christened the families of these early settlers. He often arrived at the home of a farmer in making his rounds to find a wedding party waiting for him or a baptism set up that needed only his presence. He conducted prayer services at the graveside of someone buried days before. The great need these pioneers had for the spiritual comfort he was able to give them accounted for as much of his success as his own preaching abilities.

One of the best known of these early circuit riders was Elijah Pilcher. A determined devout man, he was a senior preacher at the age of 21. At one time or another, he served in most of the circuits in southern Michigan. There is a record of his having been in the village of Pontiac, and since Independence was then part of Pontiac township, he and his colleagues could have preached in this area. He became well-known not only because of his zeal and devotion to Methodism, but also because he was a prolific writer and kept diaries and journals of his experiences. In later years, he wrote several books dealing with the early Methodist Church in Michigan.

Reverend Oliver Green came to Independence in 1837 at the age of 12 with his parents. In his youth, attended a meeting of one of these circuit riders and made the decision to become a Methodist minister. Later, he became a circuit rider himself and served for 11 years in Indiana. Coming back to Michigan, he was given the White Lake Circuit and preached throughout there for 4 years. This would have undoubtedly meant that he served in the Independence area. It was known also that he served in Pontiac, Owosso, Corunna and Linden. His family shared all of his hardships, and finally when his health broke, he bought a farm in Independence where he, his wife and four children were able to enjoy some of the comforts that were denied him in his earlier career as a circuit rider.

Elder Oliver Earl (Erle) a Methodist preacher in the early pioneer days of Independence, lived the last thirty years of his life in Sashabaw Plains and is buried in the Sashabaw Cemetery. Due to the care and concern of his family in preserving his records, we have a complete picture of the personal history of the early circuit riders to come to this area.

Oliver was born in Cairo, New York in 1791, son of an English emigrant. An American citizen, he had the unhappy experience of being captured by the British drafting men in 1812. Forced into the British Army, he was expected to fight his own countrymen. He got around this by careful aim—right over the heads of the U.S. soldiers.

For some time after the War of 1812, he taught school in Canada and it was here that he met his future wife. Attending a party one night, he was standing near Elizabeth Williams when she came in. As he started to sit down, Oliver pulled the chair from under her. Hooped and petticoated, she felt only the pain to her dignity, and she was furious. "You're a fine gentleman!" she snapped. That beginning led to an extremely long and happy marriage.

Elizabeth's religious convictions were firmly set in the Episcopal Church and she insisted upon their oldest son being christened in that faith. On his son's baptismal day, Oliver went fishing. It was at this time that he became convinced that his future lay in the religious world. Soon afterwards in 1816 he entered the itinerancy of the Methodist Episcopal church and afterward joined the Methodist Protestant Church. He preached until his death in 1864 at the age of 72.

At first Oliver was assigned posts in New York State but he had no regular church and the young couple never had a great deal of money. They became the parents of 11 children, 8 of which lived to maturity. Oliver's heart was touched by the hardship of any passing stranger and he would give or loan anything they had to help someone else. At one time, Indians raided their home and took everything they could carry away. Only one thing did they ever recover—a wood framed mirror that Oliver discovered hanging in a saloon and which he redeemed for $3.50.

Sent to Michigan in 1835, Oliver and Elizabeth with 7 children settled first on the banks of Lake Angelus. A year later they took up a piece of land from the government on Sashabaw Plains in Independence township and remained there for the rest of their lives. Oliver preached the first burial service at Sashabaw for a Mr. Beattie, interred near where the first school-house stood. A year later Aaron Beardslee was also buried here and this was the beginning of the Sashabaw Cemetery.

Elder Earl made his life a testimony of his deepest convictions, giving the best of his thoughts and energy for his faith. He married the young people, counselled with the church members, buried the dead and blessed the children. His circuit took in more than the Plains area. He was among the first to preach the gospel in Orion township where the meetings were held in the houses of prominent settlers there. In 1837, with a Reverend Britton he organized a class at Oxford, composed of five couples. By 1843, after years of preaching in the school-house, the Oxford class had increased so much it was decided to build a church.

These elders, along with many others of the same convictions, did much to shape the lives and thinking of those early pioneers.

Our thanks to Mrs. Donald E. Adams who loaned us the history and records of Reverend Oliver Earl, great-grandfather of Judges Donald E. Adams and Clark J. Adams.

Meeting scheduled

COG, a rising power

Those governmental units that first rejected the invitation to join first the Committee of One Hundred, then the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments (COG), when the name was changed, should take another look.

The COG serves the 6-county area of Oakland, Macomb, Monroe, St. Clair, Wayne and Washtenaw.

The COG was formed through authority of the Regional Planning Act. It was this Act that led to the formation of the Detroit Metropolitan Area Regional Planning Commission, (DMARPC). This was replaced by the COG.

COG has also taken the place of the Supervisors Inter-County Committee. It was this group that asked the Metropolitan Fund, Inc., to make a study of inter-governmental services and relationships in southeastern Michigan. This study formed the basis for the formation of the Committee of One Hundred, which recommended the structure and the program of the Council of Governments.

Now, as to why local governmental units should join COG. First, the COG's full name is "Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments, a regional planning commission." It is made up of legislative representatives of cities, villages, counties, township, and school districts.

Under the law allowing regional planning commissions the following can come under their scrutiny: all types of research studies, may make and adopt plans for the physical, social and economic development of the region, and may provide advisory services to the participating local governmental units and to other public and private agencies.

Such a broad field of activities provided ample opportunities for the concerns and program of the COG.

Membership on the COG is important both from the standpoint of what they might be able to do for you and to keep informed on what they might do to you. It is, of course, another step toward big area government. So was the Supervisors Inter-County Committee and DMARPC.

The COG will be, is, planning our area. As they get further along they will probably assume the duties of the local planning commissions. When they decide a dump, recreation area, prison camp, school, or any other public facility is to be put in our area the decision will likely hold.

When approval is needed for urban renewal or other government grants and loans it will probably go through the COG. So will applications for school, village, township and county bond issues.

Like all, seemingly, bureaus of government, what they are allowed to do under the law, the will . . . and they will look for authority to do more.

A Federal report a few years back recommended elimination of some 2000 units of government in the U.S. The COG is an outshoot of the recommendation. It has the support of the Department of Housing and Urban Development and is financed in part through a Federal Grant.

Local units of government should become a part of it, getting a voice in decisions, learning what's coming in regional planning, that they may better serve the communities they represent. We know of no local unit from our area that has thus far joined the COG.

This is about nuts.

Double K Fancy Bridge Mix nuts. Warm, fresh out of the revolving tray in the white case in most any drug-store nuts.

Delicious.

When I clerked in a drugstore, 25 years ago, my idea of a rich man was the guy who bought those Fancy Bridge Mix nuts. I used to swipe a handful when the pharmacist was pharmling and boy, there was no better eating. But for 10 cents you didn't get enough to plug a soda straw.

When investing money in those days, a guy had to think of quantity as well as quality. That's why I bought Holloway suckers instead of Heath bars, jawbreakers instead of caramels - I could suck a lot longer than I could chew. It wasn't just that I wanted to be eating all day. It was also my big sister, Terrible Jean. If I finished my candy before Terrible Jean finished hers, she always said, "Haha, your candy is all gone and I've still got a lot left." This made me feel bad.

Of course, sometimes she finished first and I said the same thing to Terrible Jean. She would then slug me and that made me feel worse.

But anyway. All these years, I never bought any of those nuts. When they were free at parties, I'd gobble a fistful every time the hostess turned her back. When she was looking, I would delicately extract one cashew from the dish and nonchalantly drop it on my tongue, slowly savoring the salt before quietly crunching the meat. I not only wouldn't pay for my own nuts, I was sneaky about the way I ate other people's nuts. I was a peanut phoney.

It was only the other day that it occurred to me that I was being silly. It was in a drugstore and, by reflex, I was gazing into the Double K case and wishing I could afford $1.05 for half a pound of those mixed nuts.

Suddenly I remembered what had happened the day before. My wife had sent me downtown to buy a birthday gift for son Eddie to take to a friend's 9th birthday party. The limit is $1 plus tax, she instructed, and I followed orders, getting a couple of 50-cent model cars. I also grabbed a birthday card from the nearby rack.

"My gosh," exclaimed Pat when I delivered the goods. "You certainly are the last of the big spenders."

I naturally protested, pointing out the 50 cent price tags.

"Yes," she said, "but the birthday card also cost 50 cents. Whoever heard of paying 50% of the gift price for the card? The limit is 10%."

All of which you may think is a pretty dumb reason for me to finally buy some mixed nuts. But I did. A whole half pound. I'd show her how really big spenders operate. No limit.

The bag of nuts caused quite a stir at home. My wife was the first to spy them.

"Who bought the expensive nuts?" she asked.

"I did," I confessed.

"You never buy nuts," she charged.

"Something's screwy," Eddie agreed, "Daddy never buys nuts."

"I simply bought them because I am a big boy now and I can afford them," I explained. "For 25 years I have wanted to buy a bag of Double K Fancy Bridge Mix nuts. Now I have. I am no longer a grubby child. If I want some expensive peanuts, I am going to buy them. I am a new man."

"I told you there was something screwy," Eddie said.

After my family had its jollies, I sat down with a sexy book and began gobbling my peanuts. Man, I felt wealthy and mature. But the nuts didn't taste so good. I didn't even finish the bag.

Now that I am convinced I can finally afford them, I probably won't buy any more mixed nuts. And I won't get such a nostalgic twinge from gazing longingly into a Double K case.

Growing up and getting rich isn't all that much. I think I will drive to Detroit and challenge Terrible Jean to a Holloway sucker slow-suck contest. †

Mr. James Sherman
Clarkston News
Clarkston, Michigan
Dear Mr. Sherman,

Regarding Jim's Jottings on the activities of the rural schools in your February 15th issue, I missed something during my school life or did it happen before my time?

I attended a one room country school nearly sixty years ago and passed the State Eight Grade Examination from it.

After High School and County Normal I taught fifteen years in rural schools. One finger meant, "May I get a drink?" Two fingers, "May I go to the toilet?"

I cannot bring myself to believe that teachers were ever that inquisitive as to request what kin of relief a child sought. Did I miss the teachers who demanded this or as I said before, did it happen before my time? Please let me know.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Norman Klein

Member of "Blue Key"

Cynthia Grogan, 4729 Monterey, Clarkston, was among a group of students honored at an initiation tea of Blue Key of the Auburn Hills Campus of Oakland Community College, Sunday, Feb. 25, at Auburn Hills.

Cynthia is also one of the students at OCC who will be recognized in "Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges". This has been announced by Arthur Jalkanen, Dean of Students.

Like all students in Blue Key, she was selected upon the recommendation of a faculty member and must maintain a scholastic honor point average of 2.5 or better.

The goals of the Auburn Hills Blue Key are to promote goodwill and hospitality to friends and associates of the College.

The student Key is available to act as host to visitors and for activities of campus interest. Student Keys also serve as hosts and guides to high school students seeking information about the College.

Today is the day he's been talking about for as long as I can remember, he retired. Even when I was a little fellow, my dad would chide some of his buddies who had retired. He'd say, "Boy! it must be great to sit around and collect that rocking chair money."
He was only kidding. Like most men, he's been his happiest when overworked. In a way, he's set a tough example. There were times when he took jobs that weren't pleasing to him and gradually, by going to night school and keeping the best interests of his employer uppermost in his mind, he established himself.

Like most kids in high school, I was always threatening to quit. At that time he was the dumbest man I had ever met. He didn't understand anything and as far as I was concerned, he didn't have the perception to see that times had changed.

Doggedly he would insist, "Not only are you going to stay and graduate from high school, but you're going on to college and get your degree. I don't care what you study, you're going to stay in school until you're finished."

Business-professional women meet at Howe's Lanes

The February dinner meeting of the Waterford Clarkston Business and Professional Women's Club was held at Howe's Lanes on Thursday, February 22 with 17 members present. Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Phillip Peterson, District 10 Director, and Miss Judy Brewer, a guest of a new member, Mrs. Winston Farmer.

Speaker for the evening was Mrs. Richard Tucker, who gave a very thought-provoking talk on "Our Children in a Controversial World" The question her talk brought was "How are we teaching our children to handle the many controversies they will face in today's world?"

Mrs. Tucker is the wife of Dr. Richard Tucker, Professor of Indian History at Oakland University. She has traveled around the world and lived in India for two years; where her husband was doing research on India and where the eldest of her two children was born.

Mrs. Peterson asked that the group help the rest of District 10 to collect money to purchase a kidney machine for the Michigan Kidney Foundation. The machine would be donated to the Wayne County General Hospital. It is hoped that the district will be able to collect enough money to purchase at least 1 kidney machine and possibly two.

Mrs. Genevieve Van't Roer was appointed chairman of the Nominating Committee. Mrs. Elizabeth Ronk and Mrs. R.A. Richley will serve with her. The spring business meeting of District 10 will be held April 21 at the King's Arms in Southfield. The mystery gift was won by Mrs. Wm. H. Stamp.

Next meeting of the Waterford Clarkston Business and Professional Women's Club will be held at Howe's Lanes on March 28.

Having arrived on this earth, at least a million years ago, the fifth child of parents destined to go on and have another four, . . . I swear I am not a spoiled child.

Having married a man, seventeen years ago, who wanted to spoil me but ended up with five children in seven years instead . . . I swear I am not a spoiled wife . . .

BUT . . . I WANT MY BOOK BACK.

Little did I know when I threw away that sweet dinky little book with all those precious phone numbers in it, that I was losing some of my best friends, almost forever. By the time I now find them in that big new efficient collection of numbers, I haven't time left to call them. It's enough to make one flip his cool to live within 200 feet of someone but find yourself forced to finger walk through 400 telephone numbers (I counted them) just because you happen to have always spelled Fahrner, Farhner. Yes, that big book is for the birds, or to quote Clem Cleveland . . . "or something". Last week was a heavy week on necessary calls to Connie Lektzian. It was enough to make a grown woman cry. Do you think I could remember that darn k. I do now, cause I fooled em. I crossed out all the other numbers on the page.

It isn't just the spelling. We know many people with very common, ordinary last names, but only after the "big bad book" arrived did we realize how important their first names were. When Dick became Lyle and Pete became Arthur, I suspected I should have kept the wee one. To compound the felony I sent out all of our Christmas cards signed Dick and Rustie, instead of Walter and Elvera . . .

"We dabble in everything"—a secret to happy retirement

By Faith Poole

"We don't have time to do all that we would like to do"—this from a retired couple who make the most of their leisure time. Fred and Eleanor Steiner live at 88 Orion Road and a visit with them could convince one that time was fleeting and that it was time to get embarked on a hobby.

Having recently celebrated their 51st wedding anniversary, this active couple do wood-working, wood cuts, painting, sculpturing, china painting and fused glass pieces. There is still not time enough for the things that they would like to work on. Mrs. Steiner says "I believe in increasing one's knowledge constantly. I want to learn something new every year."

She has two kilns in her basement as well as a copper kiln and is now yearning for a loom. Mr. Steiner has his own garage workshop, where every morning he goes and lights a fire. "If I feel like working I do, and if I don't, well we do something else."

Mr. Steiner is a retired carpenter, but retired mainly because of ill health. He has not worked actively for 12 years, yet just this winter he has made a dozen revolving bird feeders and continually making candle sconces, and candle sticks, picture frames, wooden compotes and fashions walnut tables to hold stained glass or tile work panels. He also pursues his hobby of wood cuts—the designs which Mrs. Steiner makes for him to execute. Then he frames the completed object.

A native of Lafayette, Indiana, and a one time stage carpenter he met his wife when she came from her home of Danville, Illinois (also the home of Senator Dirksen) to visit in his city. Following their marriage there, they came to Detroit for a short time and then moved to Clarkston about 45 years ago. After their arrival in Clarkston, Mr. Steiner worked for Edwin and Lee Clark in "The Vulcan Company", located where the present Savoie Building Center is. There, they did brass and wrought iron work doing a lot of bank vault work, mausoleum work, cemetery gates etc. He kept at this occupation for 15 years, before launching out as a carpenter. He worked with a Birmingham contractor for a number of years before becoming self-employed here.

Remodeling homes was one of his specialties and his own home bespeaks of his trade. All hinges and hardware in the home he fashioned himself from wrought iron. He also did a great deal of cabinet and repair work. Much of the interior work around the altar of the old Baptist Church is the handiwork of Mr. Steiner and all of the wooden letters on the present Baptist Church sign were done by him.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Steiner in their Orion Road home—this room with its northern exposure is Mrs. Steiner's art studio.

One end of the dining room in the Steiner home was converted into a storage and display area by Mr. Steiner. Displayed are hand-painted china and ceramic pieces, the work of Mrs. Steiner. Family antiques and art work done by the couple further enhance the appearance of the room.

Mrs. Steiner a few years ago read an article explaining the process of making fused glass. She immediately became interested in the process and now many items in their home attest to her hobby. She learned most of the art from a Birmingham artist, Svea Kline. The process involves using two pieces of glass with bits of colored glass forming a design fused between. She makes all of her own designs and for her "Flower Garden" design she won a prize at the Mall Art Show. A dining room window has fused glass panels in it depicting her design of a bird feeder, country garden and other designs. She collects different colors of sand to use in the process and bits of broken glass, even such odd items as a copper dishcloth or razor blades have been used. One of her prized pieces contains bits of colored glass from the old Baptist Church windows.

She is also an accomplished artist, doing both oils and water colors. She took art lessons from both Kate McLean and Edith Porter and now sells an occasional painting. Once she exhibited four at the Mall Show and they were all sold. China painting and ceramics are other hobbies. Her most prized ceramic pieces are copies of school art work done by her grandchildren and put on plates.

Some of Mrs. Steiner's fused glass panels have been inserted in this window frame for an unusual effect. The compote at lower left is some of the handiwork of Mr. Steiner while the piece of sculpture was done by the "lady of the house".

In addition to exhibiting at various art shows, Mrs. Steiner has her own display on one of her living room walls.

Other hobbies include sculpturing. Some of this work was done on alabaster stone brought home from Alabaster, Michigan. She has given lessons on ceramics in her home. There seems to be no limit to this lady's capabilities. She has even done upholstering, various kinds of needlework and presently is making an unusual glass candle container from various imported wrapping papers, some gifts of visiting missionaries. Most of these activities she has perfected since their four children grew up. They are the parents of four; one daughter, Mrs. George (Margaret) Hunt of Livonia, and three sons, Burton of Drayton Plains, and Donald and Martin, both of Clarkston. Nine grandchildren and a new great grandchild complete the family.

Active in their Church and its activities, there are limitations on their other activities as Mr. Steiner spent considerable time in the hospital last year, but after talking to this interesting, enthusiastic couple, one would wonder just when they would have time to do more. Retirement has become full and meaningful for both of them and their pride in their home, family, church and community is evident.

Girl Scouting in Sashabaw neighborhood

Service to others is an important part of Scouting for girls. On Saturday, February 11, Brownie Troop #9 put service into practice by delivering books and puzzles to the Children's Home, and Valentines and games to the Crippled Children's Home, and Valentines and tray favors to the Pontiac State Hospital. Mrs. Richard Butler, leader, and Mrs. Ray Klein, co-leader, and six Brownies representing the 17 girls in the troop made the deliveries for the troop's project.

Brownie Troop #986 also gave 110 valentine tray favors to the Pontiac State Hospital. Bright red hearts shot with arrows of gum and reading, "I chew you for my Valentine", and napkin ring size cups, wrapped in madras paper and filled with hard candy, were delivered before Valentine's Day for the girls by their leader, Mrs. Donald Constable.

Junior Troop #907 with their leader, Mrs. Joseph Crosby, attended the matinee performance of "Hans Brinker and The Silver Skates" on January 20 at the Clarkston High School Little Theater. On Wednesday, February 14, the troop held a Court of Awards which their mothers attended. The girls had chosen the Bluebird for their Troop Crest. All the girls received this crest, five girls received the Collector Badge, two received the Magic Carpet Badge, one received the House-keeper Badge and one received the Homemaker Badge. The mothers were presented with hand-sewn mitt dust cloths which the girls had made for them. Cupcakes, coffee and punch were served to top off the event.

The Girl Scouts of Junior Troop #733 have been very busy finishing their Book, Active Citizen and Home Health Safety Badges. They are now working on the Drawing and Painting Badge with the aid of troop consultant, Mrs. James Lowe. Their first lesson was on charcoal sketching. They had a fun time Valentine Party on February 12, too. Newly elected officers for Troop #733 are: President, Sandra Bliss; Secretary, Cheryl Helzer; Treasurer, Cheryl Beal; Patrol Leaders, Kathy Watson, Gayle Brokenshaw, Marsia Fay and Patty Palmer.

Fun is an important part of Scouting, too. Junior Troop #639 took in a day of ice skating at Spring Lake in January. Afterwards they went to the home of their co-leader, Mrs. Bogner, for hot chocolate and potato chips, home movies featuring the comedy teams Abbott and Costello and Heckle and Jeckle, and topped off the outing with dancing to records.

Brownie Troop #152 had planned a big sledding day on February 7 but they were "melted out", so they took their sledding party to the home of their leader, Mrs. Walter Guibord. There, they had a cook-in of hotdogs and chocolate and put on delightful impromptu skits and plays. So who cared if the snow melted!

Crippled Children's society Rotary program

Dr. Ernest Denne has announced that the program for the March 4 Rotary club meeting will be presented by the Oakland County Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc. The group which meets at Howes Lane will hear Mrs. Nancy Ramsey and Mrs. Skelley from that society.

The program will include a short skit with songs and dance. Six children from the society will be participating. They are Jan Marie and Della Jean, twins, age 4; Sharie, age 4, and Barbara, age 4, all who have cerebral palsy. Two other four year olds, Regina who is a spina bifida and Ralph who is an accident victim will be taking part.

Mrs. Ramsey is the acting Executive Secretary for the Society replacing Mrs. Elizabeth Kirkby who is retiring this year. Mrs. Ramsey was formerly the Director of a business school in Chicago and in the public relations field.

Mrs. Skelley, a registered music therapist has been with the society for 18 years. She is now Special Education teacher for the children who will be part of the program.

Wed in Florida

A wedding ceremony in North Fort Myers Florida on February 12 united in Marriage Mrs. Margaret Holser of Clarkston and Melvin Sutherby of Millington. The couple were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C.J. Swartz, the brother and sister-in-law of the bride in the presence of the immediate family.

Following a Florida honeymoon, the couple returned to Clarkston where they will make their home at 9551 Bridge Lake Road.

The Gates family also has a dog named Tiny Tim. Tom was elected the president of the freshman class last summer. At present he participates actively in freshman basketball. Outside the school Tom is a member of the Clarkston Youth Assistance Panel. This panel is a group of Clarkston youths of high school age who meet every so often to hash over all the various problems of teenagers living in the Detroit area. When Tom gets out of high school he plans to go on to college, although he doesn't know where or what he wants to major in as yet. For a career Tom wants to be a professional football player. Tom's main hobbies consist of motor cycling, all kinds of sports, mainly football, basketball, etc., and bowling.

For all those high school students who are interested in a really NEAT summer music camp call me, Lucinda Ellert at 625-1644. This camp is at the University of Kansas in Lawrence, Kansas. It's a six week camp and there are different divisions of art and music. There is art, chorus, orchestra, band, ballet, theatre and several others. The camp starts June 16 and ends July 20. You have to attend for the whole six weeks though, no one or two week sessions. The whole thing costs $385.00 but it's well worth it and quite easy to get a scholarship (I got one for $100). Well decorated, this car belonging to the girls basketball coach, Miss Modessett, helped to relay their satisfaction. The hardest of the eight victories came last Friday when they found themselves down six in the third quarter, but managed to pull a 28-23 favorable score against Waterford Township. Mix and match'n water colors last Sunday were Susan Davis, Linda Kizer, Shirley Mull and Kathy Matlock. Miss Modessett is shown second from the right.

PUT WANT ADS TO WORK FOR YOU

Attend services in the church of your choice

By Reverend Lawrence Kaiser
St. Daniel's Roman Catholic Church

"When you fast, don't go around looking dismal like hypocrites. They disfigure themselves that others may see they are fasting. I assure you, they have received their reward. As for you when you fast, groom your hair and wash your face." (Matthew 6:16-17)

What a strange resolution for Lent, Jesus advises us to make! Not to have a long face, not to publish our efforts, not to make others see what-we-give-up by our bad humor. But, on the contrary, to groom your hair, wash your face, to look pleasant. How different it is for many of us. The beginning of Lent, as a time of penance and fasting, often signals a feeling of "bad news", not "Good News", as it should be. Why are we so gloomy? Why do some begin to fear for what is most dear to them—their wallets, their cigarettes, their food, the television, and so forth. The reason is that we are thinking only of ourselves, of our mortifications which cost, of the cross which we fear. We do not think of God who calls us, who is awaiting us, and thanks to whom all will turn into joy if we turn our hearts to Him.

There are two kinds of religion between which we must choose, the one is true and the other is false. In the false one, we offer to God: painful, sad and miserable things which we impose upon ourselves. It all ends up by giving us, in regard to God, the mentality of a dissatisfied benefactor. When one looks over one's past, one says to himself: "How much I have done for Him! Look at all that I have sacrificed for Him! And what has He done for me?"

The other kind of religion, the true one, regards what God has done for us. It looks at the great and marvellous things that He has done in spite of the poverty and smallness of His creatures. This is the religion of the Magnificat, of the Psalms which chant the marvellous enterprises of God to show us, to persuade us, that He loves us.

Hence penance does not mean a turning towards oneself, a burying of one's nose in one's sins. How is that beneficial? Penance is a turning of oneself to the true God, a finding of God, a coming to know Him, to recognize Him, to marvel at His tenderness, to receive and to rejoice in His forgiveness.

There is all the difference between these two conceptions of religion as there is between Judas and Peter. Judas recognized his sin. He admitted: "I have sinned. I have betrayed innocent blood!" But he stopped there, and the weight of it was so heavy that he went and hanged himself. Peter, too, recognized his sin. Peter's eyes met the eyes of Jesus—he saw his God humiliated, yet tenderness and love, by sorrow and joy and immense hope—by a true repentance. He was no longer clinging to his sin; he was quite detached from it. For he had found One who is far better than sin and despair.

We are Christians if we have come in contact with that God and met His glance. We are Christians if we believe that we should know after so many years of experience—that God loves us, that He takes delight in the love of our hearts, that He is pleased without attention and hurt by our refusal.

Yes, the true God loves men. Man can do without God, but God cannot do without man. A son can forget, can deny his father or mother, but parents will never deny their child. "And even if a mother should forget her infant, I will not forget you, says the Lord. See, upon the palms of my hands I have written your name. You are always before my eyes." (Is. 49:15-16) The hunger that man has for God is as nothing in comparison with the hunger that God has for man.

We are not Christians therefore because we do penance and mortify ourselves for its own sake during Lent. Right at its core, we are Christians because we accept with our total person, with our very living, the paternity of God—God is a father. To be a father means to be the one to love first, to take the initiative, to teach love by loving. Penance, in all its forms this Lent, then, will be meaningful only in so far as it brings us to this realization, which, in turn, must blossom out into a Lent, a year, and a lifetime of sharing with others, and, therefore, of joy, of fraternity, of generosity.

You'll buy
a new furnace maybe once in your life.
Here's how to do it right.

First, call Edison. We'll give you the names of electric heat contractors near you. Each has been Edison-approved as capable and reliable.

Next, the contractor will check your home, review your needs, and recommend the type of heat best for you. He will estimate both installation and operating cost and give them to you in writing. All without obligation. We'll check the quotes if you like.

Then, after your new electric heat system is installed, Edison and your contractor will make any adjustments necessary to the system if operating cost exceeds the original estimate during the first three years of use. At the end of this time, if operating cost still exceeds the estimate, and you aren't satisfied, Edison will remove the system and refund your original price.

That's our new Three-Step Protection Plan. Remember the first step. Call Edison.

Membership night termed huge success by Jaycees

"Membership night held recently by the Clarkston Area Jaycees was a great success," according to those in charge of the affair. Ninety six young men and women from ages 21-35 were present.

"Michigan State Jaycee President Patrick Duggan and his wife Joanie were present and stimulated the meeting with their true Jaycee spirit," state members. "The speech delivered by Mr. Duggan was very inspiring to every Jaycee in attendance."

The Clarkston club now has a total membership of 63 as 11 new members were sworn in that evening by the State President.

Ken Barks, Internal Vice President presented the Jaycee of the Month trophy to Robert Krick. An associate member, Mr. Krick has been very active as co-chairman of the Christmas toys project and the State Hospital children's recreation program. Always interested in the Jaycee movement, his attendance and participation in projects have been noteworthy. He works hard to promote the Jaycee creed in whatever he does.
