Jim's Jottings

With Judd Arnett on an extended vacation from his back page position in the Free Press I'll take over his title "Under my government" for this week.

Under my government there would be no secret or executive sessions of any governing bodies. They have two to four weeks to meet over a cup of coffee between regular meetings without having to close the doors to the public on meeting days set by resolution.

Under my government a man couldn't run for any public office if he made over $25,000 a year. And, his annual income limit would be less for lesser offices than the presidency of the United States. The 25 grand is the limit for presidential candidates.

A man hardly ever runs for anything above a state senator any more who isn't a millionaire. I suppose some of these type seek office because they think they can save the country, but I get the feeling that most are just after personal prestige and satisfaction.

The Common Man hardly ain't represented at all anymore no how.

Under my government, news casts concerning presidential candidates would be limited to 60 seconds a week per man and 10 column inches per week in newspapers until the National conventions. After that there would be a blackout of speeches by nominees until 30 days before the election.

Under my government telephone companies could have their choice of publishing one master directory each year supplemented by books for each town in the area; or they could publish the master directory one year and the individual exchanges the alternate years.

There are 13 inches of Shermans in the newest Pontiac Area directory and that isn't one of the most common names.

Under my government antique dealers would be forced to put "sold" signs on all tables when my wife walks in the door. She now has three tables she can't find room for in our house plus the ones she did find room for in the house.

Under my government all the money that is spent on junkets for state and national legislators would be directed to golfers, subsidizing a week for each during the winter months to Florida, Arizona, or the Bahamas. As much would be gained for the country in the way of collecting background material for making decisions, researching projects in backward or even forward countries, and becoming better informed as there is by sending our elected officials to Mexico to study their penal system or some of the other ridiculous excuses they come up with.

Under my government strikes would be outlawed. Contracts would be settled by a jury. Each side would have one man plead their case before a presiding officer, selected by the jury, and a 12-member jury. Majority decisions would prevail. And, strikes that would have the greatest effect on the public would be heard first. No case would last over a week.

Differences between countries could be handled the same way.

And, under my government all holidays would fall on Friday, no one would be allowed to change the time, only personal phone calls could be made on Sunday to my home, complaints to the editor and publisher would first be cleared through a clergy, road commissioners would be elected, allocation of school funds by the county would take precedence over a jail, slush funds that allow court house construction and wings thereto would be directed to roads and schools, and a "Follow the Golden Rule" month would be named for each of the twelve.

Swimming pool vote to be held Monday

The decision on whether to build a community swimming pool at Clarkston High School will be decided on Monday, April 15. Voters that day will decide whether they wish to extend the present school debt over a longer period of time.

The special election is a result of a petition submitted by the Clarkston Area Jaycees. The board of education reminds however that "Only people who have property assessed for taxes and their lawful husband or wife are eligible to vote."

Polls will be open on the 15th from 7 A.M. until 8 P.M. at the six precincts in the township. They are located as follows: Precinct #1 Independence Twp. Hall; Precinct #2 Sashabaw Elementary School; Precinct #3 Independence Twp. Fire Station #2, 7825 Sashabaw Rd.; Precinct #4 Clarkston Elementary School; Precinct #5 Pine Knob Elementary School Building; and Precinct #6, Andersonville Elementary School Building.

A citizens committee, headed by Robert Brumback has been working for the passage of the issue. One of the committee members, Everett Mac Dougall, a swimming coach at Royal Oak High School is urging its passage. Mac Dougall, for nearly 10 years has conducted swimming classes for area youngsters at his own beach on Deer Lake. Long a champion of swimming instruction for all children, he cites the area's lakes as a prime reason why youngsters should be accomplished swimmers.

The committee of 30 have been studying plans since last December. Committee members are stressing that "It will not require a vote to increase millage. It will only mean an extension of the current debt as the millage to operate the pool was approved by the voters in 1966."

"The committee also hopes that voters realize that the proposed pool will not detract from other school building plans; will not set back any building program or change plans for securing other teachers," Brumback stated.

"If the vote is an affirmative one, the scope of the pool's operation will be community-wide," state committee members. The physical education program on all levels could be broadened. A family program of swimming, 12 months a year, would be set up through the Adult Education department and swimming and life-saving courses would be available to youngsters of all ages.

As yet, no actual plans of design have been submitted. Cost estimates are $750,000 for a T-shaped Olympic-size pool, but committee members thought that costs could be pared to perhaps in the area of $675,000. Brumback told the News on Monday.

Other pools in surrounding areas and their relative programs have been given careful study by the committee.

Chief Phillips announces

Robert G. Phillips, Clarkston village chief of police, has announced his candidacy for the office of sheriff of Oakland county on the Democratic ticket.

Phillips has been in law enforcement for over 15 years, including 8 years as chief in Clarkston. His other police experience includes being auxiliary policeman for Lapeer, deputy sheriff of Oscoda county, director of Civil Defense for Independence, Oakland county sheriff department identification officer, Oakland county water patrol and he is a member of the Oakland county protective services.

He is currently second vice president of the Oakland county law enforcement associations. He also belongs to two gun collector groups, and three veterans clubs. He is a veteran of World War II and Korea.

Phillips, 45, lives with his wife, Vivian at 55 Orion road. They have two sons, Jack and George and 2 grandsons.

His family background in law enforcement includes an uncle who was 27 years chief of police of Lapeer and another uncle who was sheriff of Lapeer county.

Listed as his platform highlights are: 1. To deliver strict but fair enforcement. 2. To equip the department with the necessary facilities and scholastic education needed to operate as one of the largest and most efficient law enforcement organizations in the state.

3. To administer a closer relationship between the administrative branch and the working element of the department. 4. To accomplish and maintain a much closer working agreement with the Oakland county prosecutors office. 5. To upgrade the prestige of the sheriff department of Oakland county.

Lloyd Sibley candidate for Co. treasurer

LOYD M. SIBLEY

A Clarkston man, Lloyd M. Sibley, 129 N. Main, has announced that he is a candidate for the office of Oakland County Treasurer in the Republican primary election, August 6.

He is former chief deputy treasurer, having been employed by former county treasurer Charles A. Sparks (deceased) from 1935 to 1965 in all operational phases of that office. He was appointed chief deputy treasurer in August 1951 and served in that capacity until November 1965. At that time the present treasurer, James Seeterlin, was appointed and he replaced Sibley with another chief deputy.

Since February 1966 Sibley has been employed by the Department of Equalization as a real estate appraiser. Prior to entering the county's employ, Sibley was employed by the City of Pontiac in the departments of city assessor, auditor and treasurer.

Sibley, 58, was born in Clarkston and resides here with his wife, Gladys (Anthony). He received his education in the Clarkston school system and in general business administration at the Pontiac Business Institute. Becoming interested in the political field, he became active in both township and village governments serving 8 years as village councilman and 25 years as village assessor.

He is a member of the First Methodist Church, Pontiac Lodge 810 BPOE Elks, and is a member and past president of the Oakland county Sportsmen's Club. He also holds an honorary membership in the Oakland County Townships, City and Village Treasurers Association.

In announcing his candidacy Sibley said, "The office of county treasurer requires a person with knowledge well diversified in the many duties of the office. He has to cooperate with and advise the several local units of government as to their responsibilities as required by the General Property Tax Laws."

"Above all," Sibley went on, "he must give fast, courteous and efficient service to the public. My 30 years of service in the employ of the County Treasurer, 14 of which I served as chief deputy, I believe qualify me for the position of county treasurer. If nominated and subsequently elected, I shall always consider and operate the treasurer's office as a public trust."

Board discusses reports, pool plans, building plans

The Board of Education in their regular monthly session Monday night devoted considerable time discussing the proposed swimming pool which will be voted on by school electors next Monday. Consensus of opinion among board members was that the matter is one for public decision and therefore the board as a whole wishes to remain neutral on the matter.

They are acting in accordance with state law which requires that a special election must be held when the board is petitioned by 5% of the school electors of a district. Act #325 of the Public Acts of 1966 of the School Code is the law which directs school boards on this matter. According to this same law an election must be called within 60 days from the time the written request is received.

The request in this instance was petitions submitted by the Clarkston Area Jaycees on February 12, in which 391 signatures requested the referendum. According to R. A. Weber, Board president "The board feels that they are honoring the wishes of those who petitioned by calling for the election."

He went on to say that there were no strong feelings among the board members relative to the issue.

"We, as the Board of Education wish to remain neutral, but shall honor the wishes of the voters in Monday's election," Weber went on to say.

In a session that lasted until 1 A.M. the board conducted routine business and made the following recommendation, "that a public address system be installed in the Andersonville School and that the one which was installed in the Junior High School in 1952 be completely re-done. Andersonville is the only elementary school which does not have a P.A. system."

They also discussed and approved the price quotation received for veneering of the original Sashabaw Elementary School on the south side of Maybee Road. The cement block building, designed for veneer was never bricked as an economy measure. It is now deemed advisable to do this. An insulated brick veneer exterior, expected to cost $10,000 will be applied in the near future.

At Monday's night session the board signed a contract with the County Intermediate School District for erection of the Vocational Center (one of four to be located in Oakland County). This one is to be erected in the Clarkston district -- the site still not determined although negotiations are underway for various pieces of property.

In another report submitted to the board, the cost of sick leave was outlined in a detailed report. From September through March, the report read there were 1325 days of staff absenteeism. This includes sick days, unavoidable days, such as deaths, funerals, field trips, conferences etc. Total cost for this time loss was placed at $33,000. It is estimated that by June 14, this figure could run to $40,000. The report went on to say that this averages 6 days absence per year per teaching employee.

Reviewed was a progress report of the 2 1/2 million program for school facilities which was voted on in June 1966. Subsequent approval was then given to the program by the State Board of Education Office and the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission.

Three major building plans are included in this program for additional facilities. They are: The Southeastern Junior High School on Sashabaw which will be ready for occupancy in the fall of 1968; a new Administration building, a new bus terminal. Another Elementary building may have to be built in a couple of years.

First on the tentative agenda would be the Bus terminal and garage. It is hoped that bids may be let for construction of this facility before the year is out. To be located in the area of the present bus parking lot in back of the High School it would replace the present building. Built to house 48 passenger buses when the district operated about 12 vehicles, it is now trying to take care of 73 passenger busses and the present fleet of over 30 vehicles.

When the new bus garage is completed the existing garage will become a central warehouse and distribution point.

Second on the construction schedule would be a new Administration building. Board members are of the opinion that the proper location for this building would be on school-owned property on Clarkston-Orion Road, adjacent to the proposed Township library building.

This site would also become the future site of another Elementary building. The present elementary buildings are now operating at capacity. Those in charge feel that working with present population figures with a re-shuffling of loads in other buildings and by combining 6, 7, and 8th graders the district could get by for another 2 years without construction of this facility. Many factors are involved, the board was told. A declining birth rate reduces the necessity of as much elementary school construction but this could change rapidly with migration fluctuations or a lot of building construction in the area which could be triggered off by the coming water and sewer facilities to the county.

Relating the need for the administration building, school officials state that more area is needed by the High School for special services such as counselling guidance etc. The present administration building would make a desirable acquisition for this type of use. As office procedures become more mechanized a larger building better adapted to the use of machine book-keeping and record storage facilities is needed, the board learned.

County reapportionment makes big districts in North Oakland

By Jim Sherman

The one-man, one-vote ruling by the Supreme Court concerning local governments certainly spreads out representation on the county board of supervisors for north Oakland county. It also substantially reduces the number on the county board. It'll go from 86 to 27. Since the ruling is so recent, April 1, several questions are still not answered. One is: can a township supervisor also hold office as district supervisor?

Another, when can the election be held instituting the new districting? Too, the state district court of appeals hasn't ruled on the challenge made against the reapportionment plan drawn by the county committee last year. This ruling has been promised Tuesday, April 9. The whole problem of reapportionment on the local level has been in limbo for months. The state constitution said reapportionment could be done, but each township was to continue having one supervisor. This doesn't follow the one-man, one-vote principal and has been held unconstitutional. Named to set up the reapportionment in counties in Michigan were the clerk, treasurer, prosecutor and chairman of the Republican and Democratic parties. In Oakland this meant 4 Democrats and a Republican. It was the Republican, Joseph R. Farnham, who challenged the plan. He charged gerrymandering by the Democrats. The four Democrats are John D. Murphy, clerk-register of deeds, James Seeterlin, treasurer, S. Jerome Bronson, prosecutor and George Gogasian, Dem party county chairman. Murphy hauled out the map for us Thursday and reviewed the districts of north Oakland county. It shows Oxford in District 23 with 5 other townships and Addison in District 1 with 2 other townships. Orion and Pontiac townships are in District 22 along with Lake Angelus and a north portion of the city of Pontiac.

Rose township joins with Highland and its neighbors. More specifically, Oxford, Brandon, Grove and Holly, Springfield and Independence and the villages of Oxford, Ortonville, Clarkston and Holly are in District 23. District 1 is composed of Addison, Oakland and Avon Townships and the village of Rochester.

vision for a full-time county manager. Maybe this is the Home Rule.

Union Good Friday services at United Presbyterian

The Clarkston Area Community Good Friday Service will be held this year at Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church, 5331 Maybee Road, just east of Sashabaw. The host pastor will be the Rev. Mark Caldwell, a member of the sponsoring group—the Independence Township Pastors' Association.

Other members of the group, and the churches they represent, include: Rev. Frank Cozadd, First Methodist; Father Conrow, Colombiere College; Rev. Harold Cranston, Drayton Heights Free Methodist; Rev. Alexander Stewart, Church of the Resurrection—Episcopal; and Rev. Arlon Stubbe, Calvary Lutheran.

The organist for the day will be Mrs. Betty Skarritt, of Sashabaw Presbyterian. Ushers will also be provided by the host church.

The worship will begin at 12:00 noon and conclude at 3:00 p.m., the traditional time when Christ was taken down from the cross. The afternoon will be divided into half-hour segments, and worshippers may come and go between sessions as they wish.

The offering received during the afternoon will go into the treasury of the Association to help underwrite the cost of a Public meeting called by Boundary Study Committee

At 8 p.m. April 23 the Clarkston Village Boundary Study Committee will hold a public meeting at the Township Hall Annex. Members of the committee are asking any and all citizens or governmental officials to attend the meeting and give their views regarding extending boundaries of the village of Clarkston.

The committee, chaired by Ray Haeusler, has been meeting every Monday night since their appointment by the council February 12. They have reviewed all previous reports and held some interviews.

When appointed the committee was asked to give a progress report within 60 days and make their recommendations in 90 days. This week a progress report was sent to Keith Hallman, member of the council, sex education seminar to be held the first three Thursdays in May.

Meditation themes will be based on the Seven Last Words of Christ, spoken on the cross. Congregational hymns will also be featured, as well as periods of silent and public prayer.

who made the initial contact with the chairman.

Members of the committee besides the chairman are: Jerome Willford, Norman Daniels, Clifford Gardner, Charles Fletcher, Lewis Wint, Dr. Herbert Swanson and Henry Woolfenden.

Bound over

Warren McQueen of 12 Main Street, Clarkston was bound over to Circuit Court following an examination on March 21 in Justice of the Peace William Stamps office. He had been charged with felonious assault.

McQueen was taken into custody on March 6 when officers had to enter his apartment by force. They found McQueen, 40, inside with a Springfield automatic .22 rifle. Four burners on his gas range were turned on according to undersheriff Donald Francis. Another resident in the building had reported smelling gas. The apartments are located above the stores on Clarkston's Main Street.

Any registered voter is eligible to run for county supervisor in his district. Candidates will run on partisan (Republican or Democratic) tickets.

Last week's Supreme Court decision extended the 1-man, 1-vote principle to local government. It was based on a Texas case. The principle was established 4 years ago for the U.S. House of Representatives and for the State Legislatures. Then attorneys began arguing that inevitably the rule would be extended to include local government. Anticipating this, the Michigan Legislature 2 years ago passed a law that counties be reapportioned into districts of equal population for county boards of supervisors. This law ran afoul of the state constitution that requires at least 1 supervisor from each township. The State Supreme Court threw this law into limbo until last week's decision.

The 1960 census was followed in setting up the districts. After the 1970 census the districts will have to be reviewed and redrawn if there have been major population changes. In cities in Oakland it means that a supervisor will be elected by the people instead of appointed by the city commissioners.

The new court decision has nothing to do with County Home Rule which is possible under State law. Most important part of the Home Rule law is proposed, and which will likely be approved, has a district variation of 4,456 residents. The largest being District 8 with 25,993 and the smallest District 1 with 21,537. Next smallest district is 15 with 24,829.

The plan was approved by the appointment board May 12, 1967.

If the court of appeals renders its decision this week, Murphy said the new supervisors would start their 2-year term of office in January. This means they would have to file petitions by June 18, run in the primary August 6 and be elected in November.

The reapportionment doesn't upset the local governing body, except the supervisor of the township would not have a seat on the county board. There would still be the clerk, treasurer and trustees governing the townships.

Clarkston students take honors at regional fair

Clarkston High School's efforts were well rewarded at the annual M. I. E. S. Regional Fair held last Saturday at Dondero High School in Royal Oak. Ribbons were won in 18 places for the drafting department, three for the metals area and 10 for the woods area according to Chester Bowling, Student Intern in charge of the exhibits.

Winning top honors in drafting was Ron Gallegly with a pictorial drawing of a connecting rod jig. Ron had spent 300 hours preparing the drawing for the fair. He and Rick Mielke who took a second will compete at the M. I. E. S. State Fair which is to be held on April 25, 26, and 27 in Muskegon.

Scott Adcock took a first award in woods with a chess board and also one in metals with turned chess pieces. He will also compete in the state competition with Richard Fox who won a 1st with a dough box and Tom Gerzhimowicz who won a second with a set of lamps.

At Central Michigan University on Saturday other Clarkston students were doing well. Competing were 22 different schools with 116 students represented. Clarkston High students took 4 first places. Rick Leaf and Dave Milligan won 1st place in Power technology. They have thus earned an opportunity to compete at Eastern Michigan University on April 20 in the state contest.

Also earning a first and a chance to compete in the state contest were Don Mayo and Steve Lyons in electricity, Drake Stalker and Gary Stelmach in Production design and Kirt Stalker in Mechanical Drawing I.

Taking second place in auto service was Louie Champau and Bob Dougherty. Also taking a second in drafting mechanisms was Terry Buntow.

All students and the instructors were enthusiastic over the results and are looking forward to next year's competition. They would like to thank Beattie Ford for the use of the auto which was used in the auto servicing contest.

M. I. E. S. Regional Winners in the Drawing division of the Senior High were: (1 to r) Terry Buntow, Brian Hoxsie, Gary Stelmach, Ron Gilbert, Mel Fender, Rex Worden, Robert Hoy, Bill Williams, Mike Stitt, Drake Stalker, Gary Klann, Tim Sexton, Rick Mielke, Walt Gallegly, and Ron Gallegly. The instructor on the left is Mr. Pierson, and the one on the right is Mr. Thibault.

Winners in the Clarkston Senior Highs Electricity Department were: Mr. Johnson, Don Mayo, Steve Lyons, Frank Whitlock, Rick Franklin.

The M. I. E. S. Student Industrial Competition found these Drawing students receiving awards: (1 to r) Mr. Pierson, Drake Stalker, Terry Buntow, Gary Stelmach, Mr. Thibault, Ron Gallegly, Kirt Stalker, and Bill Coyle.

Couple wed. Saturday to live in Rochester

Miss Darlene Marie Craven became the bride of Steven L. Barnett in a ceremony performed at First Methodist Church, Clarkston on Saturday evening, April 6. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Craven of Wealthy Street and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Barnett of Oak Vista.

Rev. Frank Cozadd officiated at the 7:30 double ring, candlelight ceremony. The bride was escorted by her father to the altar which was decorated with vases of white mums and white snapdragons.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of chantilly lace over taffeta. Fashioned with elbow length sleeves, and a bell shaped skirt, a chapel train trimmed in lace fell from the waist. Her elbow length veil was secured with a headpiece of petals formed by seed pearls. She carried a cascade of white roses which were centered with a red and white rose corsage.

Linda Bennett was Maid of Honor and the bridesmaids included Cindy Mosier, Terry Barnett and Marty Tisch. The Honor Maid was gowned in a sheath dress of peacock colored chiffon and carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations centered with red roses. The bridesmaids wore aqua chiffon dresses and carried bouquets of red and white carnations. All of the girls had petal shaped head pieces.

Best man was Rod Allen and performing the duties of ushers were John Craven, Edwin Barnett and Brian Glover. The Community Center was the scene of a reception following the ceremony hosted by the bride's parents. Decorations were in the same peacock and white theme and the collation table featured the four-tiered wedding cake.

Sisters are "Sweethearts"

Saturday night at the annual "Orchid Ball" at West-

For the occasion Mrs. Craven wore a beige sheath dress with matching lace coat. Mrs. Barnett's gown was of pink lace. Both mothers wore corsages of white carnations and roses.

For travelling to the Ozark Mountains where the couple will honeymoon the bride wore a green wool suit with yellow accessories and the corsage from her bridal bouquet. Upon their return on April 15, they will make their home in Rochester. Both graduates of Clarkston High School, the bride is employed at GMTC Credit Union and the bridegroom is employed by Moote Electric Company.

tern Michigan University, Bobette Buehrig was elected the Sweetheart of Sigma Pi Fraternity for 1968-69. A junior at the University, she is an English major and was recently elected President of Little Sisters of Sigma Pi Fraternity.

Three weeks ago her sister, Heidi had been elected Sweetheart of Alpha Xi Delta Sorority of which she is a member and presently serving as Secretary at Northern Michigan University at Marquette. She is a sophomore there and also an English major.

These sweethearts are the daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Buehrig of Clarkston Estates. This was good medicine for Dr. Buehrig who is presently a patient at Pontiac General Hospital.

Quilt display at antique show

Area residents who annually patronize the Antique Show sponsored by All Saints Episcopal Church in Pontiac will note that the dates have been announced for this year's show. It will be on April 16, 17, and 18 in Stevens Hall, 171 W. Pike Street at Williams. Hours are from 11 A. M. until 10 P. M. daily.

Dealers from Michigan, Ohio and Indiana will offer authentic antiques, with no reproductions for sale.

Handmade quilts, made by the women of All Saints, and available for purchase, heirloom quilts and flowers will add a festive note to the decor in the dining room and on the balcony Tea Room overlooking the show. Home-made desserts, breads and salads will be featured.

O.E.S. Secretary Edith Tower honored

Austin Chapter No. 396 Order of the Eastern Star of Davisburg honored their Secretary Edith Tower on Saturday, March 30th with a pot luck supper at 6:30 p. m. and a short program after with parts of "this is your life".

The officers formed two circles around the altar representing a record of service to the chapter. There were eight secretaries from other chapters. Her family consisting of five children and grandchildren were all present with the exception of one daughter. There were several past Matrons of Austin Chapter present for the occasion. The Worthy Patron, William Leach, that served with Edith in 1940 when she was worthy Matron was also present.

She was presented with several lovely gifts. Edith has given fifteen years of service to Austin Chapter as secretary and fifty years of faithful service to the Eastern Star.

No operator's license

An accident at the intersection of Dixie Highway and Maybee Road on April 4 sent three persons to Pontiac General Hospital. They all had type B injuries according to a report issued by the sheriff's office.

The accident occurred at 12:15 A.M. Injured were Doris Schram of 7395 Burton, Inkster and Minnie Michaels of the same address. They were passengers in an auto driven by Jacob Patton, 56 of 800 Chainter, Marine City.

They collided with a car driven by Monnie Anderson, 48 of 5140 Westview, Pontiac. They collided as one of the cars attempted to turn into a restaurant. Injured were the two women passengers and Anderson.

Patton had not had an operator's license for 10 years he told the officers who investigated.

Missed curve

Narrowly escaping injury were four persons riding in an auto on Crosby Lake Road, south of Andersonville Road at 11 P.M. on Saturday. Driver of the car was Patrick Loe, 34 of 419 Morning View, Utica. He told officers that as he came around a curve, he skidded into a tree. He was cited for speeding. In the car with him were his wife and two children.

Accident prone need curbing

In Michigan you can kill a person with your automobile and suffer no loss of your driving privileges unless convicted. You can have a whole string of accidents and likewise maintain your driving rights—unless convictions push your point total to 12 or more. Then the Secretary of State can demand a driver re-examination.

This is the problem of the accident-prone driver, which the Secretary of State James M. Hare has termed one of the biggest loopholes in the state's traffic laws.

Hare seeks to plug the loophole through an amendment prepared for submission to the current legislature.

Under the proposed amendment, a driver could face suspension or revocation of his operator's license if:

1. He has in one or more instances been involved in an accident resulting in the death of a person.
2. He has within a two-year period been involved in three accidents resulting in personal injury or property damage in excess of $200 and the subsequent police report indicates moving violations.

Twenty-eight states have laws providing for suspending or revoking driver licenses for accidents resulting in death, injury, or substantial property damage.

Some states have made accidents as well as a specified point total a basis for taking away driving rights.

Curiously, Michigan had a more stringent law governing the accident-prone driver before the point system went into effect in 1958.

Then the law provided that the Department could suspend or revoke a driver's license if there was reason to believe that driver was incompetent, had disqualifying physical or mental disabilities, was habitually reckless or negligent, or had in one or more instances "driven a motor vehicle in a reckless or negligent manner and had thereby caused death or injury to any person or serious damage to property."

When the point system was adopted, the law retained the provisions as to incompetency and disabilities, but eliminated the reckless and negligent provisions and the death-injury-damage clause. In place of these items, lawmakers inserted the words: "Or whenever any person has charged against him a total of 12 or more points . . . within a period of two years."

A 1967 Michigan study of 40,000 drivers, each with 12 or more points, showed that 83.6 percent had been involved in only one or no accidents in the preceding two years.

Points do not necessarily mean accidents and accidents do not necessarily mean points. This is the reason for quicker action against accident-prone drivers without reference to their point totals.

What kind of person is the accident-prone driver? He is often the emotionally-disturbed, the angry, the inattentive driver. He is many times aggressive, impulsive, intolerant. He is the driver who has a lot of "near misses," which even careful drivers experience occasionally. He is the driver who makes more driving errors than most.

But there is really no adequate definition, except that an accident-prone driver is one who has more accidents than the average—and certainly more than he should.

Last week, Calhoon and I took our lawn mowers in for their yearly service and maintenance. To bring you late comers up-to-date, Cal and I haven't mowed our lawn in . . . going on two years now.

It is a fact. We do own a lawn mower, but it hasn't been out of the garage in two years. Every fall and spring, I take the machine out, check it over, lubricate it, put some gas in the tank, start it up, and run it for a couple of minutes. Then, put it away.

But for our real yard tenders, we're finding out that they require more attention than originally thought. Last year we bought two ewes and a ram. This spring we thought that we would have increased the size of our flock by at least two. No such luck.

The only thing around our plantation that multiplies are the guinea pigs. Just had another litter of three hatch out last night. But, guinea pigs don't help much with lawn mowing.

With the sheep, and we knew that the day would come, we would have to have them sheared. I can trim the horses' hooves and pull their shoes, but I have never seen anyone shear sheep. Going on the premise that I see how something is done, chances are good that I can do it myself.

With the number of horses

"If It Fitz . . ."

'I just have to comb it out'

By Jim Fitzgerald

I noticed my wife had a fresh hairdo. This is always easy to spot because hair fresh from the beauty shop doesn't look good to me. It looks stiff and phony, like the smile on a manikin. Most men agree on this. I find myself asking my wife the same question my dad asked my mother:

"Good Lord, what have you done to your hair?"

And Pat gives the same answer Mother always gave:

"It will look alright once I comb it out."

I am not even sure what "comb it out" means. But if it will improve the hairdo, why don't they comb it out at the beauty shop? And if there's something wrong in there that has to come out, why pay a beauty operator to put it in there in the first place?

None of this is going to endear me to Mr. Phyllis and the rest of the hairdressers, but nothing personal is intended. The operators are merely making a buck by taking advantage of the general nuttiness of the female sex. They are no more evil than the merchants who sell stretch pants to 200-pound mothers, or mini-skirts to knock-kneed grandmothers.

But of all the goofy things women do in the name of vanity, the goofiest has got to be the relationship between milady and her hairdresser.

Most women would rather break a leg than a beauty appointment. One morning my wife was so sick in bed I wouldn't have gone to the office except I wanted to make sure my Blue Cross was paid up. But she went to the beauty shop that day. She fainted once, and staggered continually, but she got her hair done. Two friends brought her home and put her to bed with her head in a breadbox. She didn't move until 1 p.m. the next Friday when she had her next hair appointment.

Sometimes it is necessary for a woman to be out of town on her appointment day. Something minor, such as dinner at the White House, will persuade Mabel to alter her schedule. But she still must have her hair done. This means she must find a woman who uses the same operator and talk her into trading appointments. Such exchanges are not made lightly. Women construct their weeks around their hair appointments. A switch can disrupt the temper and digestion of entire families.

One example: Junior meets Mother in the beauty shop every Friday after school. One Friday she trades appointments and doesn't tell him. All women look alike under hair dryers. For 3 hours, Junior talks to a strange woman who always wanted a son. He goes home with her and now his real mother has no one to empty her waste baskets.

Which might as well bring us back to the fresh hairdo mentioned in the first paragraph. It was ahead of schedule. My wife gets her hair done on Fridays but this was a Thursday. I asked how come?

"I did not have my hair done," she explained, "this is a wig."

"Are you getting bald?" I asked sympathetically.

"Most women have wigs now," she said. "They come in handy when you don't have time to fix your real hair, like after swimming."

"That should be just the thing for you," I said. "You never get out of the kiddie pool and you get angry if the kids splash your knees."

"You are a riot," she said.

"That wig looks exactly like your real hair," I said. "If you are going to switch hair, why not switch colors? I wouldn't buy 2 black cars in a row."

"That is so no one will know it's a wig," she said.

"I know because it doesn't look natural," I said. "That wig looks like you just had your hair done."

"It will look alright once I comb it out," she said.

"Right after you tell me how much that thing cost," I said. "I am going to shoot myself."

"Don't miss," she said.

Another Day

DeWitt Narrin—One of Groveland's earliest settlers

It was nearing the end of summer in that year of 1837. DeWitt Narrin, almost nineteen years old, had come out from York state in the spring to take up government land for a home for his future bride and himself. The land claim safely in his pocket, he had spent most of his time putting up a log cabin and clearing ground for next year's crop.

Working alone in this tract of 160 acres he had claimed in Groveland township, as much as a week would go by in which DeWitt would never see or speak to another person. This caused him a little concern. The nearest neighbor was three miles away—three long miles through the woods over a bumpy, hard to follow trail. Eighteen year old Lucy Rood, waiting back home for him, was the youngest of nine children and enjoyed having people around her. She hadn't hesitated in agreeing to come west next year but the young man knew that she had no realization of the life that faced them. He had heard of young pioneer wives who, unable to face their lonely isolated existence, had packed up and gone back east. It must have been then that DeWitt made a resolution to do all he could to dispell the loneliness of this backwoods farm.

Returning east, he and Lucy were married in September. The following spring the Asher Rood's watched as their youngest child and her new husband boarded a canal barge for the start of their emigration westward. Surrounded by the boxes and bundles of farm and household equipment, they made a leisurely trip through the lake country of York state. Once in Buffalo, DeWitt hunted among the bustling teams and wagons for a conveyance to hire to get them to the sailing vessel that would take them across Lake Erie. Sometimes this part of the trip could take as long as two weeks. If the captain had mail or freight to drop off or produce to pick up, he didn't sail directly across the lake, but stopped along the shore line at the straggling little villages and settlements.

Once in Detroit, Lucy and DeWitt bought a team and wagon and started down the Territorial Road for Groveland. They passed through Pontiac, a cluster of log houses and a church and probably spent a night here. For the first few years they lived in Groveland; they had to make the long trip back to Pontiac where there were gristmills and stores, for all their family provisions.

There were more hardships than dollars for the Narrin's in their early years but the farm and the family both thrived. After a day's work, DeWitt would hitch up the ox team and he and Lucy would set off on a trip of five or six miles to spend the evening with neighbors. There were hoe downs, sings, quilting bees and barn raisings and the Narrin's got to as many as possible. Naturally they took their children and after a time the wagon bed held quite a crowd. Lucy and DeWitt became the parents of five daughters and two sons and were a very close, devoted family.

DeWitt had attended the district schools in the east and probably had more education than the majority of the early settlers. Possibly it was for this reason he held many township offices including the one of treasurer for eight years in succession. He helped to lay out some of the roads in those days, planning them as well as adding his brawn to the job. In 1862, the Civil War broke out and for three years the 44 year old DeWitt served honorably in the 27th Michigan Infantry. Lucy was left alone to manage the farm but by now most of the children were old enough to help her.

It was after the war, in 1867, that DeWitt built a frame house to replace the log cabin that had been their home for so long.

When DeWitt died at the age of 63, almost 45 years had passed since he had entered Groveland to clear his farm-land. He was one of the first settlers in that township and in his lifetime he helped bring about many changes.

Letters

Dear Editor:

We would like to take this opportunity to let the people of Independence Township and the Village of Clarkston know that we appreciated so much the effort they put forth in trying to defeat the bringing of a junk yard into our Township.

I'm sure everyone knows by now that Roy Bros. sued the Township for failing to rezone a parcel of land on White Lake Road from suburban farms to heavy manufacturing so that they might use the property for a junk yard.

The case was heard before Judge Robert Templin and in spite of protests from many of the adjoining property owners and developers of Timberlane Estates who are planning on building homes in the thirty thousand to forty thousand dollar bracket, Judge Templin ruled that the property be rezoned for use as a junk yard.

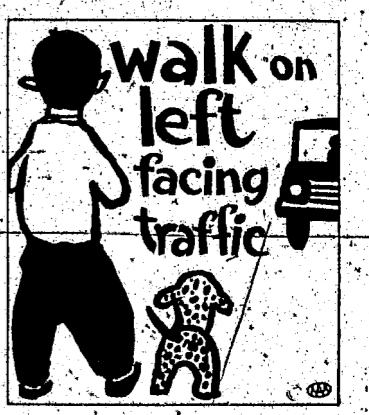

It is hard for us to understand why none of the members of the Township Board, except Mr. Harold Bauer, who voted for it, were called to the stand to testify as to why they voted against it.

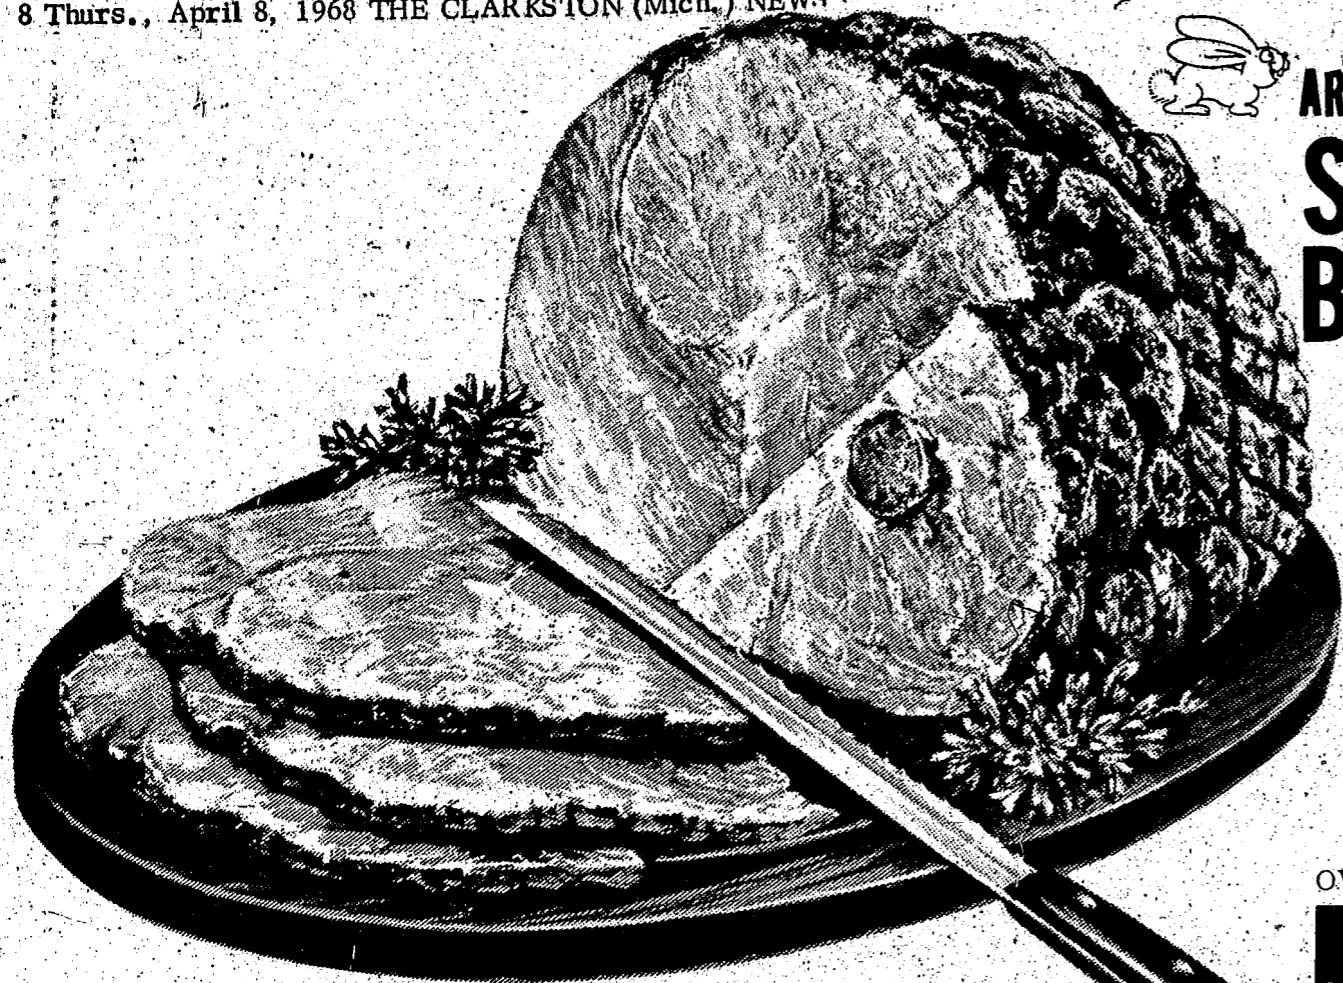

It was testified to in court by Mr. Jean Roy that our Township Supervisor, Mr. Duane Hursfall and our Township Treasurer, Mr. Kenneth Johnson, told Mr. Roy that they would have the property rezoned if he should purchase it.

Mr. Hursfall told me that he had more important things to do than to sit in court all day.

Why Judge Templin made the decision he did when we hear so much about civic pride and beautifying our country today, is also hard to comprehend.

Sashabaw neighborhood Girl Scout mother-daughter banquet

Arrays of lovely spring flowers decorated the tables of the Sashabaw Neighborhood Girl Scouts Mother-Daughter Banquet which was held Friday evening, April 5, at the CAI Hall. Place cards were made of single lollipops with trimmings added to transform them into individual flowers set in free form mint cups. Each troop designed and made their own place cards and provided two or three centerpieces for their tables. The variety of colors and flowers brought spring indoors for the 568 mothers and daughters who attended. Cadette Mary Pettigrove welcomed the girls, their mothers and daughters. These guests included: Mrs. William Swick, Mrs. Orville Gardiner, Mrs. Willard Bircheite, all past Neighborhood chairmen; Mrs. William Coleman and Mrs. A. DeNise, school secretaries; Mrs. James Michaels, District Chairman; Mrs. Albert LaMacchio, Executive Director of the Council; Mrs. Orval Warren, Neighborhood Chairman; Mrs. Fred Kluesner, Troop Consultant; and Mrs. James J. Lowe, Troop Consultant.

Cadette Vickie Smith gave a brief history of Sashabaw Neighborhood Girl Scouts. Highlight of the program was a surprise ceremony for Mrs. Orville Warren honoring her service as Neighborhood Chairman. A procession of three Girl Scouts came forward with Mrs. George Crossman as Mrs. John Klyder made the announcement. Mrs. Warren's daughter, Brownie Scout Kathy, presented her mother with a gold scroll which read "In appreciation of all the time and love given to Sashabaw Neighborhood Girl Scouts we the undersigned present this to our queen, Mrs. Orval Warren." The scroll had been signed by every Girl Scout in the neighborhood, a well kept secret by 404 girls and 52 leaders and co-leaders. Junior Girl Scout, Carol Warren, presented her mother a bouquet of red roses. From a tray full of crowns carried by Cadette Janet Klein, Mrs. Crossman presented Mrs. Warren with a gold crown encircled with Girl Scout emblems. Mrs. Warren's service team was asked to come forward and Troop Organizers, Mrs. Mrs. Richard Butler, Mrs. Ray Klein, Mrs. Arnold Gee, Mrs. Steve Karpovck, Mrs. Alfred F. Watson and Troop Consultants, Mrs. Fred Kluesner, Mrs. James J. Lowe, Mrs. Robert Cooper and Mrs. John Klyder were each delightfully surprised with a crown, too. All the Girl Scouts then stood up and sang "Girl Scouts Together" to their Neighborhood Chairman.

The Banquet program continued and closed with mothers and daughters singing a number of songs together led by Mrs. John Klyder, Cadette Kathy Manley and Mrs. James J. Lowe.

Look who won a new car in Ford Motor Company's Safe Driving Incentive Program.

Mr. Paul Brinich, Clarkston, Michigan

We have a special answer for people who flatly say that everyone in the under 25 group is a poor driver.

You're wrong. Because we know what a large contribution to safety these people can make. That's why we sponsored our Safe Driving Incentive Program for Young Americans.

In this year's program, 30 bright young people won new Ford Mustangs and Mercury Montegos. And they earned them! By thinking safety. Driving safely. They had to pass a tough written test on traffic safety without one mistake! Write a winning 10-word safe driving slogan. And then, drive the entire three-month program period without a chargeable accident or moving violation!

All told, there were 3,230 award winners this year. 30 won new cars. 200 won Philco-Ford Stereo record players. And 3,000 won Philco transistor radios.

Ford Motor Company congratulates them all. We also extend a giant "thanks" to the Driver Education instructors throughout the country who encouraged their students to enter our program, and to our dealers for their support in making the program a success.

For they helped 3,230 youngsters become award winners. And countless more become even safer drivers.

And that makes everyone a winner!

...has a better idea

Hold this up to your mirror—any way you look at it, we're behind you.

When we guarantee an electric water heater, we're really guaranteeing you. Your satisfaction. Your satisfaction with the performance of your newly purchased electric water heater.

You get all the hot water you need. Or you get all your money back. And you have a full year to make up your mind.

Satisfied? There's more. We'll install your electric water heater, free. No matter where you buy. So long as it's an Edison-approved model, installed on Edison lines—in any existing residence up to and including a four-family flat.

And more. A 50-gallon electric water heater, big enough for most families, operates for about $3.30 monthly in normal use. For larger families, an 80-gallon heater provides plenty of hot water for about $5.03 per month in normal use.

Still more. Edison's No-Charge Repair Service. No charge for electrical operating parts or labor. Got the picture?

So, if you're not satisfied with your present water heater, consider a new electric one.

That will put you in a good frame of mind.

Calvary Lutheran lists Easter services

Calvary Lutheran Church will be offering a variety of worship times and experiences this Easter season, beginning with a service of Holy Communion at 8:00 p.m. on Holy Thursday, April 11. The sermon topic will be "The Angel of Death."

On Good Friday the members of the congregation will join other worshippers in the union service sponsored by the Township Pastors' Association from 12:00 to 3:00 p.m.

Easter Day will offer three worship hours, beginning with an Easter Sunrise Service at 6:30 a.m., which will feature a silent administration of Holy Communion.

At 7:30 a.m. an Easter Family Breakfast will be enjoyed. The cost has been set at 99 cents for adults and 49 cents for children, and will include a full menu, with more than enough to eat for all.

At 8:30 and 11:00 a.m. identical Easter worship services will be conducted, celebrating the joy of new life in Christ. No Sunday Church School classes will be held on Easter, but all groups will resume meeting the following week, April 21.

All the friends of Calvary, and any person without a church home are invited to worship at 6805 Bluegrass Drive on Easter Sunday, and to come again often.

Grass fires fanned by high winds

Grass fires continue to plague area firemen and Monday's high winds kept them answering calls all day. Eight fire runs were made on Monday and two more on Tuesday morning.

Two carpools were destroyed or damaged by the high winds on Monday—one on Glenburnie and another on Transparent. A fire ensued when a tree blew across power lines on Pine Knob Road, south of Clarkston-Orion Road. There were other instances of lines being down but no others causing fires.

Tuesday morning the fire department answered calls for grass fires on Waldon Road and also in the I-75 and U.S. 10 area.

Firemen are once more cautioning of the strict enforcement of the ordinance dealing with burning.

The new line will run from Goodrich Farms to the Maybee road site. The school will underwrite a portion of the cost with an advance payment.

Waiver of permit fees were granted the Episcopal church for their parsonage and on Southeastern Junior High.

Tabled until the next meeting was a request for a kennel on Oak Hill road and a request for a pool hall permit for under-21 by Sylvia Thompson for 7071 Dixie Highway. Supervisor Duane Hursfall said he expected to call a special meeting this week to take up these and other matters.

St. Daniel's Roman Catholic Church
Pastor: Rev. F.J. Delaney
Asst. Pastor & Writer: Rev. Lawrence Kaiser

At the Last Supper, Jesus dramatically portrayed the message of his words, his life and his death to his followers: "Jesus poured water into a basin and began to wash the disciples' feet and to wipe them with the towel he was wearing. ... Do you understand what I have done to you? You call me Master and Lord, and rightly so I am. If I, then, the Lord and Master, have washed your feet, you should wash each other's feet. I have given you an example so that you may copy what I have done to you." (John 13:5, 13-15)

Later on that same evening in the garden called Gethsemane, the cost of discipleship, of being a true Christian, of "washing each other's feet", is sketched in these words: "And a sudden fear came over Jesus, and great distress. He said, 'My soul is sorrowful to the point of death.' ... And going a little further he threw himself on the ground and prayed that, if it were possible, this hour might pass him by. 'Father, everything is possible, for you. Take this cup away from me. But let it be as you, not I, would have it.'" (Mark 14:34-36)

Below is the plea of a 20th century Christian who is feeling the pain of trying to take seriously his Master's command "to wash each other's feet". His plea does bring a response!

Lord, why did you tell me to love all men, my brothers? I have tried, but I come back to you, frightened ...

Lord, I was so peaceful at home, I was so comfortably settled. It was well-furnished, and I felt cozy. It was alone. I was at peace, sheltered from the wind and the rain, kept clean. I would have stayed unsullied in my ivory tower.

But, Lord, you have discovered a breach in my defenses. You have forced me to open my door. Like a squall of rain in the face, the cry of men has awakened me; like a gale of wind a friendship has shaken me, stealing in like a shaft of light, your grace has disturbed me. Rashly enough, I left my door ajar. Now, Lord, I am lost! Outside, men were lying in wait for me. I did not know they were so near; in this house, in this street, in this office; my neighbor, my colleague, my friend. As soon as I started to open the door I saw them, with outstretched hands, anxious eyes, longing hearts, like beggars on church steps.

The first came in, Lord. There was, after all, a bit of space in my heart. I welcomed them. I would have cared for them and fondled them, my very own little lambs, my little flock. You would have been pleased, Lord; I would have been served and honored you in a proper, respectable way. Until then, it was sensible ... But the next ones, Lord, the other men - I had not seen them; they were hidden behind the first ones. There were more of them. They were wretched; they overpowered me without warning. We had to crowd in, I had to find room for them.

Now they have come from all over in successive waves, pushing one another, jostling one another. They have come from all over town, from all parts of the country, of the world; numberless, inexhaustible. They don't come alone any longer but in groups, bound one to another. They come bending under heavy loads; loads of injustice, of resentment and hate, of suffering and sin ... They drag the world behind them, with everything rusted, twisted, badly adjusted.

Lord, they hurt me! They are in the way, they are all over. They are too hungry. They are consuming me! I can't do anything any more. As they come in, they push the door, and the door opens wider ... Ah, Lord! My door is wide open! I can't stand it any more! It's too much! It's no kind of a life! What about my job? My family? My peace? My liberty? And me? Ah, Lord! I have lost everything; I don't belong to myself any longer. There's no more room for me at home.

Council brought up to date with sewers, water drawings

From a dollar and cents viewpoint the most revealing thing on the topo map shown the Council Monday night by Keiff Engineering was that no pumping stations would be needed in the village for sewers. It will flow by gravity.

Since each pumping station costs about $25,000 plus the cost of operation, the savings could be considerable.

Howard Keiff told the council

"we found no problem in grading - it's working out perfectly."

The village engineers had been waiting for the township engineers, Johnson and Anderson, to show where their lines would be coming to the village. Recently this decision was made. The line will come from the north on M-15. It will be continued past Haupt Pontiac, then turn east past Parke Lake, south past the village and cross near Lewis Wint Funeral Home.

Just south of the village limits a pumping station is designated. A few areas outside the village would have use of village lines as carriers. Excavation depths were not given nor was there any estimate of costs.

Keiff also explained the topo map for proposed water lines in the village. He had designs for with and without a storage tank and with and without wells. If the township goes with a water supply at the same time they do sewers the council will have to make the decision on the same.

Without this supply the Council would have to drill two wells, one a 10 inch and the other either 6 or 8 inch. Both would be at one site. A tower requires less gallons per minute per resident by the state from the wells.

Del Lohff, engineer with Keiff, then explained his thoughts on the two major trouble spots in the village on roads. He said all the streets in Clarkston are now blacktopped and now maintenance was the primary concern.

However, he suggested something be done to Waldon and Church. It was his idea to raise Waldon as high as 8 feet in the low area. Since this affects the intersection of Buffalo the engineer also recommended raising that street. "This would improve the traffic condition at both Buffalo and Waldon and Waldon and M-15," he said. Relocating Waldon had been considered, but since M-15 is a state highway anything done in this direction to Waldon would have to wait for the state.

Straightening Church street was proposed on the west end. Village president Frank Russell said he would talk to the land owner to see if an arrangement might be made to acquire the property needed.

Gerald Savoie appeared before the Council to ask rezoning of five lots on Surry Lane. He said he felt the highest use of this land would be multiple dwellings and this was his request. The first unit of 12 apartments would be on lots 4 and 5. It would be 2 story colonial style, brick and have a greenbelt.

Savoie was informed the request would have to go before the zoning board of appeals. This body would make a recommendation to the council for a final decision.

Police Chief Robert Phillips asked the council for a ruling on curfews. It was decided when Pontiac went on curfew the chief would contact the village president and he in turn would get a telephone consensus from the councilmen on whether to place the village under a curfew in times of emergency.

The following appointments were made by President Russell: President pro-tem, Donald Cooper; Police chief, Robert Phillips; Village engineer, Keiff Engineering; Village attorney, Jack Banycky; Health commissioner, Russell Colton; Forester, Bob Osgood; Fire marshal, Don Beach; Deputy clerk, Charles Robertson; Deputy treasurer, Kathleen Waters; Zoning Board of Appeals, Howard Huttenlocher.

CEA and board start negotiations

Professional negotiations between the Clarkston Education Association and the Board of Education for a 1968-69 master contract began with a meeting of the CEA and representatives of the Board on March 26. Meetings will continue on a regular basis until a final agreement is reached. It is hoped that a complete agreement will be reached by the closing date of school in June.

In addition to an updated economic package, the following are among the provisions which will be discussed:

1. A reduction in class size, particularly in the lower elementary grades, in an effort to give teachers more opportunity for individual contact with students in the classroom.

2. A new policy requiring teachers to have a Bachelor's Degree and a provisional or permanent teaching certificate.

3. Upgrading of elementary art, music, and physical education programs by the hiring of instructors and provision of equipment and facilities for these areas.

4. The establishment of an Instructional Council to work jointly with the Board of Education to determine needs for curriculum revisions, text books, and testing and evaluation methods of students.

Jaycee annual Prayer breakfast

Clarkston Area Jaycees will hold their second annual Prayer Breakfast on Good Friday morning at the Spring Lake Country Club in Clarkston, according to Michael Thayer, Vice President.

Breakfast will be served at 8:00 a. m. for the Jaycees and Clarkston area Pastors who have been invited as guests.

Chairman of this year's event is Bob Hagstrom assisted by Mike Thayer.

Speaker will be Milford Mason, Principal of Clarkston High School. Mr. Mason a past charter President of the Clarkston Jaycees, and currently an active Exhausted Rooster of the Jaycees, was last year's Clarkston area "Boss of the Year".

Mr. Mason is chairman of the Higher Education committee of the First Methodist Church of Clarkston as well as a member of the Church mens club.

CHILD STUDY CLUB NOMINATES OFFICERS

The April meeting of the Clarkston Child Study Club was held at the home of Mrs. Richard Johnston on Middle Lake Road. A short business meeting was held and officers were nominated for the coming year.

Guest speaker for the evening was James Marshall, Principal of Children's Village School. He explained how and why the school functions.

Refreshments were served by the co-hostess, Mrs. Donald Paulsen.
