VOLUME 38 10 CENTS

CLARKSTON, MICHIGAN 48016

THURSDAY, MAY 9, 1968 2 SECTIONS NUMBER 37

In spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of . . .

It's been reported that Gov. George Romney is willing to accept a position as Republican vice presidential candidate under Richard Nixon. Senator Robert Griffin is supposed to have made this comment or commitment on a Lou Gordon show Monday night. This is being written before that and I don't plan on staying up to watch.

If Mr. Romney plans on staying in public life I feel he must do so by seeking the highest post possible on the national level. Since he didn't get the necessary backing for the presidential nomination, the vice presidential office is next high.

His other alternative is to hope the Republican candidate for the office of president is successful, barring Romney's getting on the national ticket, and an appointment to the cabinet comes his way.

The people of Michigan have given the governor tremendous support at the polls. But, this I expect to change rapidly. Not because he fails to do a good job, but because the people want to support a winner. In quitting the national race suddenly in New Hampshire Romney may have done a wise thing in the national picture; but in Michigan the voters found their leader backing down.

Many voters here were proud to have a Michigan man running for the highest office in the land. Now they find the man they backed is not acceptable in other areas of this nation. And, they will be reasoning . . . if he's not accepted by citizens outside this state, should we accept him here? If he's not good enough for others, is he good enough for us?

I think he is. I also think he's a better man than any of the announced candidates from either party to lead this country. At the same time I'm reluctant to support a man who has reached his peak in political life.

With no apparent Democrat on the horizon for governor of the state Romney could probably win another term here. That would be about the end of his chances of being re-elected. If the Democrats could get behind Secretary of State James Hare at the next election Mr. Romney might not even win re-election.

There is, of course, still the chance of a nomination in Miami in August. With Nixon getting opposition from Nelson Rockefeller a deadlock could develop. It should, too. Neither of these men have very great

Building permits, nearly 3/4 million

The Independence Township building report for the month of April has been issued. Seventy permits were given with a total valuation of $73,443.00.

New houses represented the largest number of permits with 31 issued for that purpose. Valuations listed for these permits was $534,400.00. $25,463.00 was the total value of 14 permits issued for new garages.

Eighteen remodeling and addition permits were granted. These represented $58,380.00. One swimming pool permit was given valued at $5,000. There was one for an odorizer station at $900 and a shed for $300.

Two permits were also issued for demolitions.

Public invited to hear speakers

The Clarkston Area Youth Assistance Committee is having their Adult Education Program on May 8th and 15th in the basement of the Township Hall.

The public is invited to hear Ed Hoot speak on the "School Influence" on Wednesday May 8th.

Bernard Poniatowski will speak on the 15th on "Peer Grouping Relationships. Refreshments will be served."

Both sessions will run from 7:30 until 9:30.

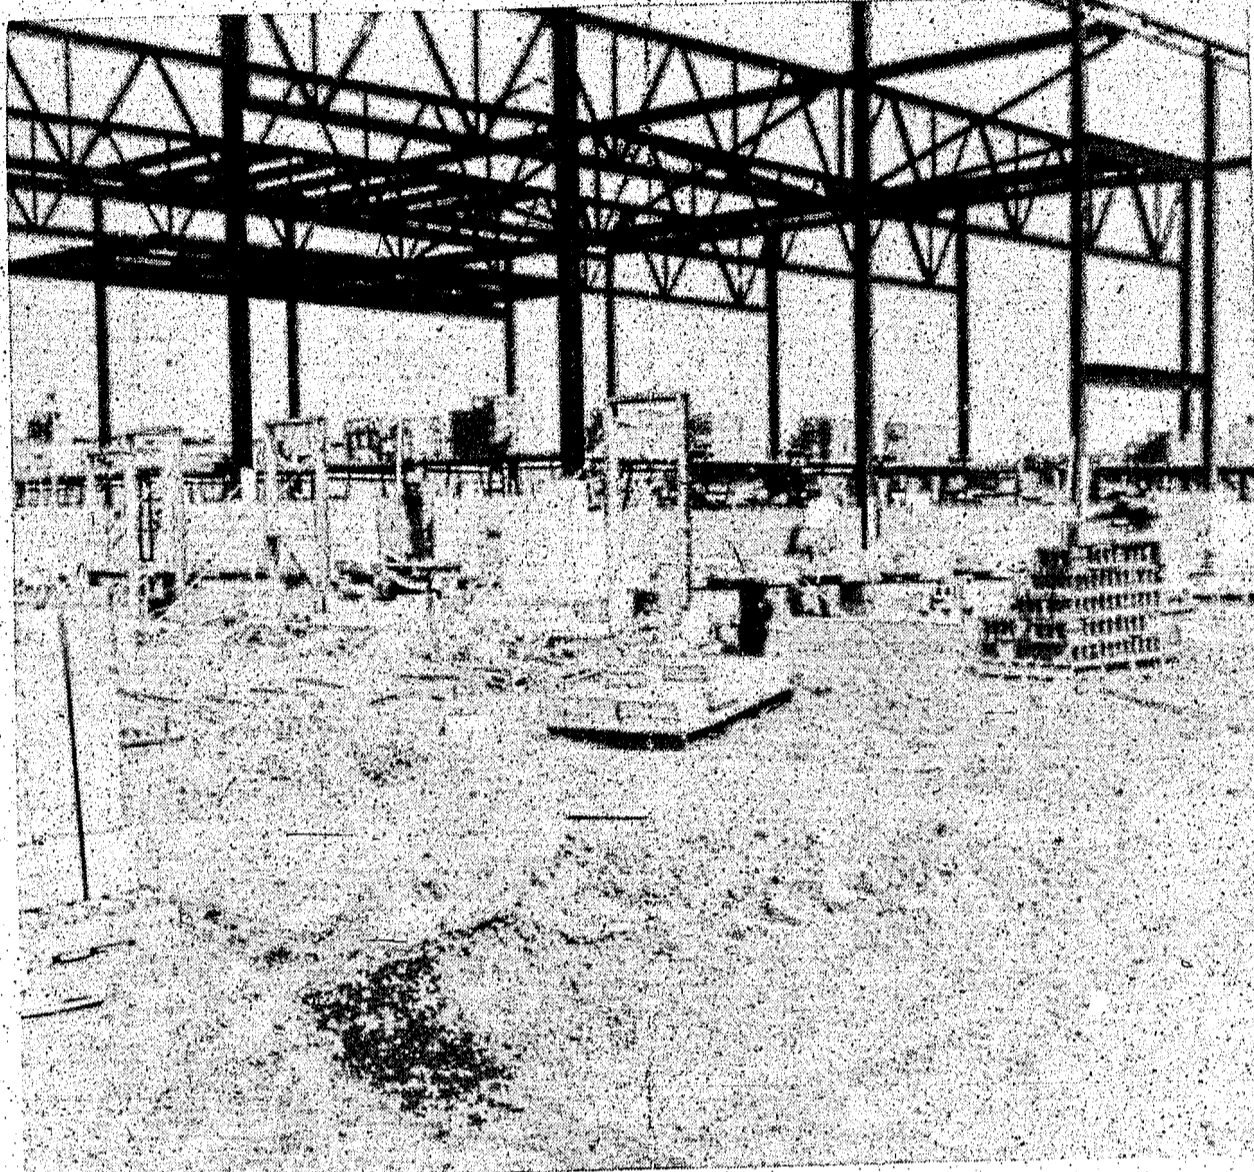

acceptance, at least among the people I know and in the things I read . . . and my reading isn't confined entirely to Time magazine.

The most frequent comment about Nixon is "he's a 2 time loser." This is true, but not on the national level. He did lose his bid for the presidency to John F. Kennedy, but his other loss was in California. Besides this comment there's another one the news media hasn't let die. That was Nixon's statement following his last defeat. At this press conference he criticized the press for their stories on him and said, "Gentlemen, this is my last news conference."

As for Rockefeller, the most prominent comment is, "he's a divorced man." With the Democrats being the majority party the Republicans can't risk losing any votes to the groups that frown on divorce. Though the argument may be weak, there are those, including me, who wonder, "Do I want the man in the most revered office in the world to be divorced?"

There's just something about my up bringing that says this is wrong. And, don't get the idea I'm against divorce. It has to be sometimes. But not by our president.

Trouble with the above reasoning is that I've eliminated everyone but Romney and Charles Percy.

Giving evidence to the future of the new Junior High school on Maybee Road are these steel structural supports. Completion is hoped for by the fall of '69.

Township will seek library construction bids on May 13

The Library Advisory Board met with the architect on Friday to review the plans and specifications for the Independence Township Library. According to tentative plans the township board will be asking for bids to construct the facility beginning May 13. These bids would then be returned to the Township office by June 3 in time for the regular township board meeting. It is hoped that barring unforeseen circumstances, construction could start by July 1st.

The building will be located on a site on Clarkston-Orion Road near Snowapple. This parcel was formerly owned by the Clarkston Board of Education.

Plans for the facility which is estimated to cost about $90,000 were drawn up by the architectural firm of Nordstrom-Sansom Associates of Dearborn. The firm recently drew up plans and designed a library for the City of Southgate and two for the City of Dearborn Heights. Both of these libraries are now in operation.

The engineer for the firm has been working on the specifications for the building. William Cobb, Independence Township Building Inspector has given his approval to them relative to the township building code. One copy has been forwarded to the Library Services Branch of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. It is from that bureau that a $32,816 grant will come to aid with the construction.

Fire destroys home

An Independence Township home burned to the ground on Wednesday morning. Fortunately the mother and three children were away when the fire broke out. The house located at 4240 Fowler, just off Sashabaw, was owned by Rex Egres. It was a four bedroom, two story structure.

Three trucks from the Independence Township Fire Department answered the call as well as one from Waterford. Three walls and the roof were down when the local trucks arrived. The fire was reported by a neighbor. "There was partial insurance coverage," state firemen. They estimate the damage to be about $8,000 on the contents and $20,000 on the house itself.

Firemen also blame a defective oil water heater as it was in the area of the heater that the blaze began.

The fire was reported at 10:06 A.M.

intention to do so. The library fund drive was spearheaded by the Clarkston Community Women's Club, an organization which each year earmarks their Birthday calendar sales for the fund. That sale is currently underway for this year.

Library facilities have been desperately needed for some time, with an aim to helping relieve the congestion at the school library and to provide expanded service for township residents.

This group of wide awake Clarkston High school seniors apparently did not mind getting up at dawn. For them it was the beginning of their one and only Senior Trip . . . this time to New York and Washington.

Council calls hearing on multiple dwelling request

A public hearing has been called for May 27 on the proposed rezoning of five lots on Surrey Lane. It will be at 8 p.m. in the village hall, 27 S. Main.

The request for rezoning came from Gerald Savoie. He proposes to build multiple dwelling units, eight to a unit. The drawings presented to the Council Monday night showed 4 such units, however, final plans are not complete.

Present zoning in this area is Residence A multiple dwellings are allowed in Residence B areas. The request is to change the zoning ordinance and map for lots 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5, inclusive, to Residence B.

The village council will be conducting the public hearing. They indicated at the last meeting that they would meet the following night to make a decision. Savoie said he had 90 days option on the property and the request had been before the council and zoning board of appeals for 60 days and he urged them to make a decision as soon as possible.

An advertisement on the public hearing appears elsewhere in this issue.

Birthday calendars on sale now

The Clarkston Community Women's Club wishes to announce that the Community Birthday Calendars will be on public sale in front of the Clarkston office of Pontiac State Bank on Friday, May 17 from 3-6 P.M. and on Saturday, May 18 from 9-12 noon.

Price of the calendar is $1.00 plus 25cents for each listing. All proceeds will be donated to the Township Library Building fund.

Clubs already contacted are asked to please send their completed listings to Mrs. Ron Bausek or Mrs. Arlon Perry.

PTA installation at Bailey Lake

The last meeting of the year for the Bailey Lake School PTA will be held Thursday evening, May 9. Scheduled to commence at 7:30, it is the group's annual installation night.

There will also be a report on the School Fair and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hunt, who attended the State conference of the PTA will discuss happenings at the conference.

At 8:15, there will be a band concert to conclude the evenings entertainment.

Place your cleanest pan here.

This 11-year-old frying pan borrowed from the all-electric kitchen of Mrs. R. L. Phillips, Detroit, Michigan.

If it's this clean, you don't have to read this ad.

You probably have an electric range already.

There's no flame with an electric range. So, there's no sooty combustion to dirty up pots and pans or soil kitchen walls and curtains. It's the cleanest way to cook.

With many electric ranges, you can forget messy oven cleaning. They clean themselves, automatically, for about 7½ cents per cleaning. There's free installation, too. Buy now at any retail dealer and Edison will pay installation cost. (As long as your electric range is installed on Detroit Edison lines in any existing residence up to and including a four-family flat.) And Edison repairs or replaces electric operating parts—no charge for parts or labor.

For a bright difference in your pots and pans—and maybe even in your family's appetite—switch to an electric range. EDISON

Tennis

The tennis teams' 19 game winning streak was broken when Bloomfield Hills won 3-2. Mark Erickson and Kirk Beattie lost in singles play. The doubles team of Tom Bullard and Dave Kelly also lost. Kim Beattie won in singles and Mark Waterbury and Mark Griffiths won in doubles.

The team will have a chance for a revenge when they play Bloomfield Hills at home next Monday May 13th. It was a disappointing loss for the team, but I am confident they will make amends on May 13th. Clarkston took out their feeling the next day when they took on undefeated Rochester. Rochester went home with their first loss 5-2.

The Wolves also defeated C'ville 5-0 and Northville 3-2. The tennis teams record for this year is 9-1, for two year stretch 22-1. Not bad, hey tennis fans!

J.V. Baseball

The J.V. baseball team ran into a bunch of hitters by the name of Waterford Kettering and they pounded out a 19-5 victory. Coach Bill Adams used his whole pitching staff plus his center fielder on the mound, but Kettering didn't show any sympathy towards anyone. This loss gives the team a 1-9 record.

Golf

The golf team keeps rolling along as they defeated Rochester at Bald Mount and they won one, Kettering Lapeer at Pontiac Country Golf Course.

Tracy Tuson was the medalist in the Lapeer Kettering match. He had a score of 39, followed by Marty Browns 40, Jim Navarre 40, Lyle Walter 41 and Dave Thomas 43.

The final score in the above meet was Clarkston 160 - Lapeer 162 - Kettering 164.

The golf team defeated Rochester 169-171. Again Tuson won the top honors with a 41 followed by Navarre, 43, Walter 43, Maslowski 44, Brown 45, Hipsher-51.

The golf team is off to their finest season with a record of 7-2!

Varsity baseball

The Varsity team lost two games to Northville and Holly.

The Northville score was 5-0. Northville scored 4 runs in the 7th to wrap up the contest. Rich Johnson was pitching a two-hitter until the roof fell in the 7th inning.

Holly scored the winning run in the bottom of the 8th to win the contest in extra-inning.

Clarkston had a golden opportunity to take a 1 run lead in the 6th, but a Clarkston runner missed 3rd base and eventually Holly won the game.

Tom Grace made a rare start for Clarkston and pitched well giving up only two runs. Bob Palladino was the losing pitcher, as he gave up the run in the 8th.

With this loss, it gives the team a record of 2-9. The team has to perk up or this will be the 1st losing season for a Pete Thompson coached team!

Track

Clarkston participated in two meets over the past week.

In a triangular Holly won with 56 points, Brighton 46 and Clarkston 35.

Big indoor picnic planned

Plans are under way by the Clinton Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, for what could well be one of the biggest indoor picnics ever held in Oakland and Macomb counties.

The date is 6:15 P.M., Saturday, May 11 and the occasion is the first annual pot-luck dinner and get-together of the Council's volunteer adult leaders and their spouses. All in all, it will be an evening of fun and relaxation for the 800 persons expected to attend the event in the Oakland University gymnasium.

Named chairman of the committee planning the evening is Wallace W. Edwards, a Council vice president and director of purchasing and production control for the GMC Truck & Coach Division of General Motors Corp.

"This is a new event for the Council," said Edwards, 2825 Otsego, Pontiac, "and we hope it will be the start of a long-standing tradition. Primarily, we're putting together a program with entertainment, some fun for all, a few special awards and a brief glimpse at Council activities. It will be a night to relax."

Tickets will be sold in each of the Council's four districts. Persons involved in Cub Scout, Boy Scout and Explorer units and all other Scout activities are invited.

Chorale to present annual concert

The Jackson Chorale will present their annual concert on Sunday, May 12, at 3:00 P.M. in the auditorium of Pontiac Northern High School. The public is invited and encouraged to attend.

The Jackson Chorale is a group of 30 singers from the Pontiac area organized for the purpose of preparing and performing good choral music from all periods of music history, both for their own musical pleasure as well as for the edification of others. Director of the Chorale is Mr. Gilbert Jackson, presently on the faculty of Pontiac Central High School and director of the Chorale for two years.

This year's program centers around the "Requiem" by Gabriel Faure, a 19th Century French composer. Truly a masterpiece of music, Faure's "Requiem" is unique in that it is tonally intimate and reserved in style. It deals not with death's torment but rather the serenity and tranquility of death. For this presentation the "Requiem" is accompanied by orchestra. Other Chorale numbers are accompanied by Mrs. Paul Miller. Singers from the Clarkston area who are members of the Chorale are Mary Hinkley, Lyn Hollis and Joyce Jameson.

Attend services in the church of your choice

By Rev. H. C. Cranston
Drayton Heights Free Methodist Church.

A little boy, who was told by his mother that it was God who makes people good, replied "Yes, I know it is God, but mothers help a lot." It is true that mothers "help God a lot" in the proper training and development of their children.

The success of many of the great men of the past has been attributed to the influence and training of their mothers. George Washington's mother taught him the Biblical ideals of political and social morality which he kept before the nation throughout his life. Family prayers were held twice a day with regular readings from the scriptures. James A. Garfield's mother was an earnest Christian who taught her children that "the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom." A widow with four children, she not only managed her farm, but built with her own hands a log house which was used as a church. There she taught her own children as well as others the scriptures. The mother of England's famous William E. Gladstone led her son to faith in God when he was nine. He wrote: "All I think, all I write, all I am is based on the divinity of Jesus Christ, the central hope of our poor wayward race." The mother of Dwight L. Moody struggled against poverty in a New England farm. A widow with many problems, she taught her son the importance of eternal values. At seventeen, Moody accepted Christ and a few years later dedicated his life for service. The mother of William Penn so impressed him with the importance of faith in Christ that he took as his life text, "This is the victory, even our faith which overcometh the world."

Times have changed. Modern homes, broadened social activities, increased employment of women have all had a part in changing the daily routine of the mother. But, her role is still one of responsibility to her family as an educator and spiritual advisor.

Susannah Wesley, the mother of John and Charles Wesley, devised for her nineteen children the following rules:

1. Allow no eating between meals, 2. Put all children to bed by eight o'clock, 3. Require them to take medicine without complaining, 4. Subdue self-will in a child and thus work together with God to have his soul, 5. Teach each one to pray as soon as he can speak, 6. Give them nothing that they cry for, and only that which they ask for politely, 7. To prevent lying, punish no fault which is first confessed and repented of, 8. Never allow a (unconfessed) sinful act to go unpunished, 9. Never punish a child twice for the same offense, 10. Commend and reward good behavior, 11. Any attempt to please, even if poorly performed, should be commended, 12. Reserve property rights, even in the smallest matters, 13. Strictly observe all promises, 14. Require no daughter to work before she can read well, and 15. Teach children to fear the rod.

Perhaps today's mother would do well to reconsider the responsibilities to her children, and to God. How many of today's children would say that their parents "help God a lot?"

Jane Taylor wrote:
"Who taught my infant lips to pray
To love God's Holy word and day,
And walk in wisdom's pleasant way?
My mother."
"And can I ever cease to be
Affectionate and kind to thee
Who was so very kind to me, —
My mother."

Brighten your home and town

Spring Clean-Up time is at hand, which means that it is time for every one to participate in a community-wide "spruce up" campaign.

It doesn't take much energy and planning. Simply go through the house from top to bottom, and throw out trash that has accumulated during the winter.

Get out the rake Saturday morning, and rake the yard. Throw a few handfuls of grass seed on the bare spots on your lawn.

Is your garage one of those where the family car "used to be kept"? Today's standard-size passenger automobiles and station wagons frequently won't fit into garages built two or more decades ago. As a result, many garages today are used to store things in—old furniture, boxes, papers, tires and other items of little or no value. Why not include cleaning out the garage among your "clean-up projects"? By doing so, you will not only eliminate a potential fire hazard, but create valuable, clean storage space.

A want ad in this newspaper could get rid of alot of the accumulation, or call one of the agencies who pick up discards and revamp them for resale.

That's all there is to it. But . . .

You'll beautify your home.

You'll help beautify your town.

And—at the same time, by throwing out old newspapers, magazines, empty paint cans, and other trash, you will have eliminated potential fire hazards for that trash is the stuff on which fires feed.

Legislators should pay tax

(From The Almont Times Herald)

Michigan's State Legislators are trying to pass a new measure exempting themselves from payment of the new City of Lansing income tax.

We are astounded, though, that such a resolution could ever be permitted to come into discussion. We are disheartened that our recently up-dated State of Michigan Constitution could be so loose as to permit our elected representatives to exempt themselves from the payment of any tax levy they, themselves, have paved the way for.

It is not conceivable, then, in a fit of personal purse-pinching, our Legislators may exempt themselves from property, personal and gasoline, tobacco, liquor and sales taxes, too?

of one, I'm not averse to having pets. But, when she has her heart's desire set on getting a HYENA. . . I'm at a loss.

Just before I leave the office to go home, I usually give Cal a call to see if there is anything that she would have me bring. Yesterday, like always, I called. She said, "Clem, you're not going to like what I've done."

Using good psychology, I said, "Prithee, tell me what you've been up to today."

She came back with, "Oh! I can't. You just won't understand. And, you won't let me keep it. You'll take it away from me and have it destroyed."

After much conversation, Cal was convinced that I haven't changed; that I'm a gentle warm hearted, understanding and sympathetic sort of a guy. She weakened and said, "I got a hyena." There was a silence and very long moment of silence. I couldn't say anything.

Then, I heard a little bit of chuckling from her end of the line. I said, "Cal, you're putting me on."

She said, "What's the matter? Don't you believe me?" There wasn't anything that I could say. I had to admit that I did believe her.

There wasn't any reason for me not to believe her. She'd done things like this before and just about the time that you stop being a believer, that's just the time she's really telling the truth.

After a few moments of cross-examination, . . . giving her the third degree, I couldn't crack her story. I told her that I was on my way home. Didn't even bother to ask if there was anything that she wanted to have me bring.

All the way home, my mind wasn't on my driving. I imagined this long thick necked, large headed beast with powerful jaws, a rough coat, four toed feet with nonretractile claws and feeding largely on carrion romping around our plantation. The very thought almost gave me a weak feeling in the pit of my tummy.

I hardly even noticed driving up our driveway and walking into the house. Cal was chuckling, making a sound sort of like that made by a hyena.

"Where is it?" I demanded. "You're going to act that way and you're not going to see him," she said.

I apologized for losing my head.

After much apologizing, she brought forward her hyena. It was a wax caricature of a hyena done with careful detail. She had truthfully got herself a hyena . . . truthfully made it

"If It Fitz . . ."

There's no tingle in TV

By Jim Fitzgerald

(Jim Fitzgerald is still vacationing. This rerun first appeared March 30, 1961.)

It's like this: TV never makes me tingle. Never.

Last week I took my women to Detroit to see "The Sound of Music." All of us tingled, from toe to head-top.

I call it tingling. You may call it goose bumps or shivers or just plain thrilling.

It's the feeling you get when a good band marches by, going full blast with cymbals crashing and flags waving. Maybe you tingle when a stadium full of people is hushed while a soldier plays a bugle. Or when a good tenor sings "Danny Boy."

No scientist has ever explained exactly what tingling is. In layman's language, I'd simply call it an emotional reaction to certain stimuli (pretty good, huh?)

It is an uncontrollable reaction. You can't turn it on and off. The wonderful, prickly feeling along your skin comes and goes on its own accord.

Show business is a good source of tingles. Some phases of show business. Not TV.

For instance: Mabel runs into Ruth downtown. They are old schoolmates who haven't seen each other in 20 years. What do they talk about?

Mabel's skin, of course. Mabel has had 2 dozen kids but she still has skin like she was born with. On the other hand, Ruth has a face like an old catcher's mitt.

"How do you do it?" asks Ruth.

"I wash my face with soap," answers Mabel.

Naturally, this makes Ruth feel like a dirty slob. For 20 years she's been washing her face in a home-made mixture of tar and gravel. Doesn't everyone?

Then there's that commercial about "Elm City, USA." From this inspiring message I learned that American women always carry cans of kitchen cleanser in their purses. I never knew that.

The point is: With crud like that popping up between the gunshots, how could TV possibly make anyone tingle? Who experiences an emotional reaction when a garbage truck drives by?

An occasional movie has tingled me. A good book can sometimes do it. But, mostly, it takes flesh.

A peek at my sleeping kids in the dark of night (how can they be such brats in the sunlight?) does it, of course. Loved ones can produce tingles easily. But I'm talking about show business.

A good stage play is the best tingler, especially musicals. Nothing can beat live entertainment when it's good. Nothing can beat the thrill of being RIGHT THERE as the artist performs.

I wouldn't turn a page to see another picture of Liz Taylor because I've seen hundreds. But if she were right around the corner, in the flesh, I'd certainly take a peek.

Rodgers and Hammerstein music is usually good for tingles. "The Sound of Music" is no exception. The plot is thin and there are some dead spots in the second act. But oh, that music! When the orchestra pulls out all the stops, the tuba oomphas, and the singers spout those marvelous lyrics—man, that's living!

There's a contagious enthusiasm in great performances. To be exposed to the genuine electricity you must be right there, not home on the couch, squinting at a 21-inch one-eyed monster and telling the kids to shut up so you can hear.

There are different degrees of tingling. At "The Sound of Music" I caught my wife bawling when everyone on stage was happy.

"I'm crying because it's all so beautiful," she said.

Well, she can cry passing a church where strangers are getting married. I looked around the theatre to see if anyone else was crying while they laughed. There were sobbing women all over the place. And many men were wiping their eyes. That's real tingling.

I even tingle at curtain calls. I get a real kick when the stars take a bow and the audience shows its approval.

If it were on TV they'd come on stage, light a cigarette, and tell how really good a good smoke tastes. Who could tingle to such stupidity?

Of course, I realize there are probably readers who don't know what the devil I'm talking about because they don't tingle to anything.

For them, I feel sorry. They are missing a wonderful feeling. Δ

Another Day By Constance Lektzian

The amazing Frank Yaeger

Most people get the reputation of being a colorful character only after they have passed the scene of human activity. Frank Yaeger earned that reputation during a long and varied lifetime.

Born in 1853, Frank was only one year old when he came to this state with his parents, Sarah and Jedidiah Yaeger. Jedidiah, son of German emigrants, had been a blacksmith since the age of 14 and had little qualms about earning a living for his family in this new, raw territory. A blacksmith was almost as essential to a farmer's welfare as his own plow, and Jedidiah was busy from the first moment he set up shop in the village of Clarkston. Not many years after the Yaeger family arrived in Independence township, Sarah watched her husband march away to war. With many other young men Jedidiah had joined the Light Artillery and for four years, Sarah struggled to care for her young children. Word came back that Jedidiah fought at such places as Chickamauga, Chattanooga, Mission Ridge and Murfreesboro and it wasn't until the fall of 1865 that he returned home. From then until his death at the age of 78, he received a pension from the government. Whatever his injuries, they weren't sufficient to keep him from putting in long full days at his trade.

Frank, with his brother and sisters, attended the log school that stood at the edge of the village. Outside the glassless windows stood quiet groups of Indian children, remnants of the tribes which once held the land occupied by the white people. These silent spectators, as they watched while the children of the interlopers received an education, made a deep impression on young Frank.

Later the Yaeger children went to Professor Cochran's academy on Main Street but higher education then, was not for Frank. He was too restless to be so confined. He early gained a reputation as a hard worker. One season he was hired by a local farmer to dig potatoes. In three hours he dug with a hoe 100 bushels, and during the rest of the day dug 150 bushels. For four years he apprenticed at different blacksmith shops before coming back to work for his father. Finally he opened his own shop, conveniently located near the livery stable of Peter Green, one of his customers.

Occasionally Frank turned away from the hearty, heavy work of shoeing farmer's horses and used his hammer and with her own two hands. Now, I just wonder if there isn't a hyena in my future?, or something.

all the township goings-on. So he moved his shop to a barn at the side of the house where he and Smithy lived at 8 East Washington Street. Here he worked on a part time basis, still busy with the teams that his oldtime customers continued to bring in, still able to find someone to argue the merits of his favorite political party, the Prohibitionists, and still able to keep in touch with all the activities of the village. He lived a life that covered the time from early pioneer days to the turn of the century, vitally interested in all of it.

English teachers conference

Miss Jan Gabier, English Department Chairman of Clarkston Senior High School attended the 16th annual conference of the Michigan Council of Teachers of English at Boyne Mountain Lodge, April 26-28. Registration totalled more than 400 educators.

The conference had as its theme new curriculum patterns and their implications for the teaching of English. Dr. G. Carlsen of the University of Iowa, past president of the National Council of Teachers of English and distinguished editor, keynoted the program. Conference discussions in-olved the changing patterns of curricula and the developments in media and materials needed for the new English programs. Principals, classroom teachers, chairmen of English departments, and curriculum coordinators exchanged ideas, saw new films, reviewed books, asked questions and found answers for some long-standing problems.

Dr. Robert Fichteneau, Oakland County English supervisor, and Miss Gabier appeared on a reactionary panel to discuss new and Miss Gabier appeared on a reactionary panel to discuss new curricula changes in the field of English.

The BIG Question

Should I pay $100 or more for my NEW CAR by financing through the dealer...OR should I finance at PONTIAC STATE and SAVE up to $100 or more?

No question about it... if you want to make the best deal on financing that NEW CAR, if you want the LOWEST RATES of any Financial Institution in the Pontiac Area, Finance at PONTIAC STATE BANK and save more than enough to pay for those wanted extras... Why pay more than $4.50-per-hundred a year?
