Jim's Jottings

I'm not a nut on psychology, but certain things sound reasonable and seem worth practicing in dealing with people. Particularly my family.

Through reading, listening and lessons I've picked up the ideas. Practicing them comes when I remember what I read, heard or learned. From one of the books I read prior to getting married has probably helped in this area.

Our minister gave the book to Hazel and I during our pre-nuptial lecture...er visit. It said in part, "The husband should remain the wooer after the wedding, just as before."

It also preached patience, understanding, and the reminder that the couple should say "I love you" to each other rather frequently.

From listening and through a Dale Carnegie course the "I love you" phrase has stuck in my mind for dealing with children, too.

It's sort of the "you get more with sugar than vinegar" technique.

I practiced this on son Jim, age 13, last week. He hasn't come down off cloud 9 since and it's been a week. Columnist Jim Fitzgerald, editor of Lapeer County Press, and the widest circulated column writer in Michigan, wrote once that he quit mentioning his children's antics in his column after they got old enough to read it. It was to save embarrassment.

I feel a little bit the same, but Jim doesn't read anything he doesn't have to and this is one of those things.

It started when he did something I felt very wrong. If there hadn't been others nearby I'd have belted him. But since this would have put me in a worse light than he I held back.

Then I got busy at my work and thought of what punishment would be strong enough to impress him. This gets tougher as the years go by. Spankings haven't been too successful, cross words either, he has no interests I could withhold, nor work I could expect him to perform without supervision.

Why not try love? Have you ever told your teenage son you loved him? Psychologists say we should. And, I believe it. But doing it is not easy. It's downright difficult. Later I tried to think if I ever told Jim I loved him before. I don't recall it.

Love in his mind means kissing and hugging, I think, and he's still opposed to this, again, I think.

So after 48 hours of thought on approach I started talking to Jim. I told him things about my experiences with my father while his age. He's never heard this before. Perhaps the time will never arise again for me to tell him. But I feel in time Jim will recall what I said last week and be able to reason as to why and how I react to him as I do.

I don't know if I did the right thing. He may do something equally wrong today as he did last week. Jack Valentine told me once of a remark he made to one of his sons, "I don't know if I'm doing the right thing in the way I treat you, but I only have one opportunity and that's the way we do it. I may be dead wrong, but this is the way it is."

But, I do know this much today. Jim has been a different boy around the house since I told him I loved him, and I'm glad I expressed my feeling to him. Why don't you try it? You may think they know it because it's natural for a parent or because of what you do for him, but saying it out loud means much more.

Honored at U of M

Ronald L. Walter, a 1961 graduate of Clarkston Community Schools, has recently been honored by an invitation to join the Editorial Board of the Michigan Law Review.

The Michigan Law Review is a periodical published by the University of Michigan law students to serve the legal profession, courts, and the public by timely discussion of legal problems. Members of the board are selected on the basis of their academic record from the top 5-10 percent of the law student body.

Ron received a bachelor's and a master's degree in accounting and finance from Michigan State University before entering the University of Michigan Law School.

Pianist gets through Interlochen in golf cart

A 17-year-old Clarkston pianist drives a golf cart. But not to play golf. Dick Carlson drove the golf cart while at International Music Camp at Interlochen, Michigan last month. It was the only way he could get himself around, for Dick has muscular dystrophy.

Dick who lives at 80 Robertson Court with his mother, Mrs. Lois Carlson, and his sister, Sue, has been playing the piano for five years. He said he has been interested in playing the piano all his life and about five years ago he decided to learn.

Interlochen Music Camp selects only the most talented young musicians from the United States and foreign countries for special instruction. Dick was one of the few selected by the camp, but he was reluctant to accept the offer because of his handicap. But the offer of the golf cart solved his problem.

The car was contributed free of charge by Andy Anderson, Cushman cart distributor in Pontiac, Dick said. His dad made the arrangements to get it for him to use while he was at Interlochen.

Dick plans to continue playing the piano.

Great success Township Recreation program

The summer fun recreation program which included four playgrounds, a theatrical training program, and three little league baseball leagues, was a great success in number of participants and spectators.

Your baseball program entertained 576 boys, 5697 spectators, and 32 managers and sponsors.

The Theatrical training included some 60 boys and girls, under the watchful eye of Miss Dorothy Wilson, who donated

Fight house fire 2 hours

The Independence Fire Department spent two hours fighting a house fire at the Paul Walden residence, 4547 Major Street, last Thursday, August 1. The fire gutted most of the down stairs of the two-story dwelling, including the kitchen, living room, bath room and hall, assistant fire chief Tink Ronk said.

Other calls answered by the fire department were: a re-susitator call at 12:49 p.m. Thursday; another re-susitator call at 8:41 p.m. Saturday, August 3; and a house fire on Lakeview at 12:54 p.m. Sunday, August 4.

Million gain in first half of this year

The value of building permits issued during the first six months of 1968 in Independence Township increased by more than a million dollars over the same period in 1967.

Permits issued from January through June this year for construction totaled a value of $2,929,928, as opposed to $1,770,508 last year.

The number of building permits also increased from 163 last year to 212 this year. These include permits issued for home and commercial construction, garages, repairs, additions, conversions, swimming pools and demolition.

The value of permits issued by the Independence Township rose for every month this year over the same month last year except June, when the value dropped from $355,647 to $347,730. The number of permits also dropped from 32 to 31 during June.

During July of this year 63 new building permits were issued with total construction valued at $852,786. These include 22 new homes, 16 garages, 20 remodeling and additions, 3 swimming pools, 1 office and laundry and 1 relocated dwelling.

Gary Defendorf

Funeral services for Gary Defendorf, 22, were held on Thursday from the Hill Funeral Home in Grand Blanc. Burial followed in Crestwood Cemetery.

Mr. Defendorf died on July 29 in University Hospital, Ann Arbor as a result of burns received at a Civil War weapons demonstration near Hillsdale.

He lived at 9418 Dixie Highway in Springfield Township and was an employe of Fisher Body in Flint. A graduate in 1963 of Grand Blanc High School, he was an officer of the Rough Riders Cannon Club of Davisburg. He is survived by his wife, Linda; his mother, Mrs. Margaret Defendorf; and two brothers, Gay and Robin, both of Grand Blanc.

CORRECTION:

In last week's obituary for Gerald Frick in the list of survivors, the names of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earle Frick of 5135 Sashabaw Road were inadvertently omitted.

"Lord, it is good for us to be here"
(Matthew 17:4)

Habit can stifle and even enslave a person in the chains of monotony. It's all too easy to get into a "rut". When parents think that they know their children and that there is no need whatever of keeping an eye on them, of listening to them, of encouraging them, you can be sure that someday these parents will learn things that will astonish them. And if children think that they know their parents, they may be treating them like old pieces of furniture which they use and never give a second thought of its value until some stranger comes along and admires it. If a wife thinks that she knows her husband and, above all, if a husband is sure that he knows his wife, and therefore they feel no need to pay attention to each other, nor to consult and speak together, one may well conclude that they no longer love one another and that, as a matter of fact, they no longer know one another. And it is then, unfortunately, that they begin to know someone else.

Such is the alarming effect of habit. It can so easily break up homes, kill love, and undermine faith. All this simply because of routine.

Couldn't this possibly be the reason why Jesus took Peter, James and John up a mountain one day and was transfigured before their eyes? What a break from the ordinary when His face became as dazzling as the sun, his clothes as radiant as light! For the Apostles were just like us, creatures of habit. They were living daily with Jesus, and in spite of that, or better, because of that, they did not know Him. They saw Him every day. They ate and drank with Him, and they were up to their necks in work. They needed a vision, a Transfiguration, exactly as we need a shock, a light, a revelation, so that we may wake up to what we are doing each day.

Finally, Jesus decided that it was impossible to continue like this. He took them apart and led them far from the crowds among whom they were persons of importance, of bustling activity. For they organized the crowds and picked the ones whose turn it was to receive attention. Jesus led them away from all this, up a high mountain into solitude, up a mountain where there was nothing but rocks, a place of deep silence. There they became calm. They learned to keep silence. They were relieved of their worries and their ambitions. They were alone with Him and they began to pay attention to Him, to look at Him, to see Him, and they began to notice Him as He really was.

And we also need a reawakening, a vision, a Transfiguration from time to time. We need to get away from the hustle and bustle of everyday living. We need moments and minutes of silence, of solitude, of prayer, when we give a little time to Jesus, to Him alone. Then we will come to know, little by little, either in the calm of the great outdoors, or in the peace of a little chapel, much more, and our eyes will be opened. We will begin to see very clearly both God and ourselves. We will know what we are concealing, the evil that we do knowingly or which we refuse to know. His face will become so beautiful and tender that no other has ever been so attractive. Then we too will say to Him, as others have done before us: "Lord, it is good for us to be here! Ah, if only I could stay here always like this! If only I could always remain the same! Let me set up my tent here and dwell here forever!" (Matthew 17:9)

Joins News staff

First thing Joe Backus had to learn was where to plug in that fool typewriter.

The Clarkston News has a new member on its staff for the next few weeks while the present editor, Mrs. Faith Poole, recuperates from an operation. His name is Joe Backus, of 3785 Hough Road, Metamora.

Joe was just graduated from Michigan State University in June with a Bachelor of Arts degree in journalism. He is 21 years old and single.

He was graduated from Oxford Area Community High School in 1964 and went from there to MSU. "I became interested in newspapers during my sophomore year at State while taking a journalism course," Backus said. "It seemed like as good a racket as any. But don't quote me on that."

He did well in his journalism courses and worked for a year as a reporter and copy editor of the Michigan State News, the student newspaper. If there was any doubt in his mind before, he said, there is none now about wanting to be a writer.

Joe's duties while at the Clarkston News will include reporting, feature writing, editing, writing editorials and taking pictures. "If there is any time left over and I am feeling ambitious, I may even try my hand at writing a column," he said.

His hobbies include hunting, sailing and all other water sports, skiing in the winter, and photography. He is also an avid reader and likes to talk to people.

Backus is trying to get into the Coast Guard Officer Candidate School. If accepted, he thinks he will go sometime this winter. "I have had to fill out huge stacks of forms in triplicate and quadruplicate for my application. After all that work, I had better be accepted," he said.

He said he doesn't know much about the town of Clarkston, but that he wants to learn about it and meet the people.

"Also, I have never been in this capacity of a newspaper before. But last week I worked over on the Oxford Leader with Clem Cleveland, and that should be enough

VILLAGE OF CLARKSTON

Special Meeting
July 24, 1968

Meeting called to order by President Russell.
Roll: Present: Cooper, Hagen, Mahar, Kushman; Absent: Fahrner.

President Russell was asked by the Building Inspector to appoint an Electrical Inspector for the Village. The name of Clayton Frick was suggested and President Russell was to contact Mr. Frick to see if he would be available for this position.

Trustees Hagen and Mahar were to contact Mr. Haeusler for the purpose of discussing the establishment of a Boundary Study Committee.

The Clerk was instructed to contact the Village Attorney in order that he be requested to attend the August regular meeting for advice on ordinances regarding the Mill Pond.

Moved by Cooper, "That the meeting be adjourned." Seconded by Mahar. Motion carried.

New deputy worked for Independence

Secretary of State James M. Hare has appointed William N. Hettiger of Detroit as deputy secretary of state, second in command of the widespread Department of State with offices in every county in the state. Hettiger, 43, succeeds James F. McClure, Haslett, who resigned his post effective Friday, July 26. The new appointee was named chief assistant secretary of state in June. Hettiger has been a financial consultant for Independence Township, through Stratton Associates, for about 18 months. "Although Bill Hettiger is a comparative newcomer to our state operation, he is thoroughly familiar with the Department's many activities," said Secretary of State James M. Hare. "He brings with him vast knowledge of state government, administration, and politics, three indispensable qualities necessary for his new position."

Formerly president of a Detroit municipal consulting firm, Stratton Associates, since 1963, Hettiger lists extensive background in municipal affairs. He is a former township supervisor from Grand Traverse County, and served as executive secretary of the State Municipal Finance Commission in 1956-61. A member of the Governor's Commission on Metropolitan Problems from 1957-60, Hettiger was also a member of the Superintendent of Public Instruction's Committee on School Financing in 1958-59.

Booth-Candido vows spoken at St. Michael's

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Candido will make their home in Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario following their Saturday marriage. The bride is the former Marcia Mary Booth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Booth of 9825 Marmora Road, Clarkston. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Candido of 144 Carufel Ave. in Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario.

The nuptial mass was said at 1 P.M. Saturday, August 3 at St. Michael's Church in Pontiac. Father Wyzocki repeated the mass in the presence of 300 guests.

The bride's white organza and Peau d'ange lace gown had an empire waistline and was fashioned with A line skirt. There were lace appliques on the gown, a scalloped lace hemline and the sleeves were bell-type with matching lace and seed pearls. She carried an arm bouquet of American beauty roses.

Mrs. Dale Calkins of Clarkston was Matron of Honor and the bridesmaids included the bride's sister, Mrs. Gene Moore, Miss Nancy Candido, sister of the groom and Miss Beverly Barker, the bride's cousin. Their floor-length turquoise linen gowns had venetian lace on the sleeves and hemline. They wore three-tiered veils with medallions of matching lace, accented with bows of the same lace. They carried bouquets of white daisies and baby's breath.

Best man was the groom's brother, Reno Candido. His other attendants were Gene Moore, David Farrell, and Robert Zucato.

The couple greeted guests at a reception held at Al Hanoute's Showroom in Lake Orion following the ceremony. They then travelled to Niagara Falls and Montreal on their honeymoon. They will reside at 270 E. Belfour Ave. in the Sault. Mr. Candido, a graduate of the Sault Technical School is employed by City Board of Works. His bride who is a teacher and MSU graduate will be with the Separate School Board in that city.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Williams (Suellen O'Dell) of Utica are announcing the birth of their first child a daughter, Jennifer Rae, on July 29. She weighed 7 lbs. 5 oz. The Maternal grandmother is Rowena O'Dell of Clarkston, Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. S.G. Williams, of Mt. Clemens.

SECTION TWO THE CLARKSTON (Mich.) NEWS Thurs., Aug. 8, 1968 5

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Hazen H. Jones, 4120 Woodstock, Waterford Township, announced the engagement of their daughter, Pamela Marie, to Douglas Van Taylor. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy D. Taylor, 11022 Big Lake Road, Davisburg.

Taylor has served four years in the Air Force and has attended San Antonio College for three years during that time. He was graduated from Waterford Township High School in 1963. Miss Jones was graduated in 1966.

Their wedding is planned for November 1 at Williams Lake Church of the Nazarene.

Dixie Baptist anniversary

August 14th will mark the 14th anniversary since the first service of the Dixie Baptist Church. With only 22 people attending the first service, they met in an old building with a leaky roof. The church now has an auditorium that will seat 1,000.

In comparison to the few people in the first service, they now average 450 in Sunday school and have 50 teachers. The present membership is over 1,000.

Due to the steady growth of the Dixie Baptist Church, they plan to break ground in the spring for a new Sunday School wing adjoining the present car port and foyer.

During the past 14 years the church has had only one pastor, the Rev. Paul S. Vanaman.

A special 14th anniversary service is scheduled for August 11.

"Christmas in July"

Christmas came early to Clarkston this year. On Wednesday evening the Richard Bullens and Charly Robinsons entertained at a "Christmas in July" party. The lawn at their Robertson Court homes was the setting for the affair. A gaily decorated Christmas tree, the traditional mistletoe and holly and a Christmas punch bowl added to the holiday decor. The hostesses greeted guests attired in the latest of holiday fashions, while the hosts spelled out their best wishes for the season on their shirts. One host bore a great resemblance to Santa Claus.

Following cocktails and dancing the group adjourned to the Clarkston Cafe for the traditional holiday turkey dinner. Table decorations were in keeping with the party theme.

An exchange of gifts concluded the evening's festivities.

Beach-Weaver vows repeated July 23

First Methodist Church in Clarkston was the scene of the July 23rd wedding of Edye Beach and Jack Weaver. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Herbert Beach and the late Mr. Beach. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Fenton Weaver.

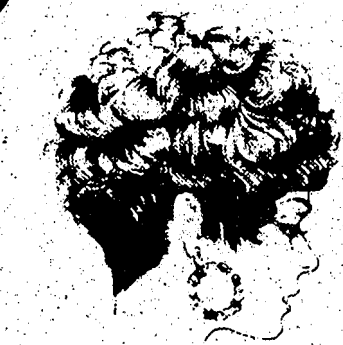

Rev. Frank Cozadd officiated at the double ring ceremony witnessed by members of their immediate families. The bride's brother, Herbert Beach gave her in marriage.

A street length dress of lace over taffeta was the choice of the bride for her wedding. Two crowns of seed pearls held her shoulder length veil and she had a corsage of white carnations and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Dave Hodge was Matron of Honor and best man was Ronald Bentley of Grand Blanc. Guests were entertained at a reception and buffet supper at the home of the bride's mother on Middle Lake Road following the ceremony.

After a trip to Port Austin, the couple will reside on Washington Street. The couple are both employed at Rudy's Market.

Musical week at N.M.U.

Some junior and senior high school students from Clarkston are getting a taste of campus living next week. The University, located at Marquette, Michigan in the Upper Peninsula, is offering courses in drum majoring, baton twirling, band, chorus, almost anything and everything pertaining to school music.

Miss Beth Tobin, music teacher at Clarkston High School, has been up at the school for several weeks taking additional courses in the study of music. In past summers she has served as accompanist at the workshop in chorus. It was through her efforts and interest that so many Clarkston students heard of this program.

Some of those attending are: Debbie Hoopengartner, Donald Lee, Dawn, Debbie and Diane Fox, Tammy Mahar, Linda Parrot, Sue Fredericks, Debbie Jones and Robin Crater.

Cook-Duvendek vows spoken here Saturday

Janet Elaine Cook became the bride of Patrick H. Duvendek in a double-ring ceremony performed at New Hope Bible Church, Clarkston.

Janet is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G.C. (Doc) Cook of Pine Knob Lane, Clarkston. Parents of the groom are the Jerry Duvendeks of Prudenville.

The 2 p.m. nuptials were read by the Reverend Elden V. Mudge, pastor of the Church in the presence of 200 guests. The altar was decorated with white gladiolus for the occasion.

The bride wore an empire styled A-line, bridal satingown with embroidered appliques of venice lace. The sleeves were wrist length. She wore a removable chapel train and her bouffant veil was held by a circle of the same venice lace.

She carried a bouquet of white rosebuds and orchids.

Honor attendants were Marlene Gilmore, Brenda Cook and Karen Brisbois. They carried matching bouquets.

Paul Bradley, of Houghton Lake, served as best man. Larry Hart and Rick Hacker were groomsmen.

Ushers were the grooms brothers, Michael and John Duvendek. The duties of flower girl and ring bearer were performed by Wendy and Bobby Norman, twin cousins of the bride.

A reception was held immediately following in the Church parlors. Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Duvendek left for a Niagara Falls honeymoon, and upon their return will reside in Flint, where he is employed.

Five Clarkston High School students are among the 37 high school students who attended a journalism workshop at the University of Michigan from July 22 through August 2. In the picture on the top are Claudia Gordon, 109 Wompole; Connie Rush, 8550 M-15; and Gail Cowling, 5790 Clarkston Road. In the lower are Jim Navare, 6711 Wealthy; and Kirk Phillips, 6421 Church. All are with Professor John McNamara, of Ferris State College, who taught at the workshop. The workshop concentrated on selectivity and personal attention. Students in the program have a choice of two areas of study: school newspapers and yearbook production.

At music workshop

Lucinda Ellert of 6619 Rose-lawn in Clarkston is among the nearly 900 high school students who attended the music division of the Midwestern Music and Art Camp at the University of Kansas in Lawrence June 16 through July 28.

Lucinda is the daughter of the Ernest Ellerts and during the school year writes a column "Just Among Friends" for the News.

Music campers were offered specialized training in four bands, three choirs, two symphony orchestras, private study, music theory and small ensembles. Sixty artist teachers are available for private study in all fields of applied music. Music campers have presented weekend concerts under the direction of eighteen guest conductors including Victor Alessandro, of the San Antonio Symphony and Col. Vivian Dunn, of the Royal Marines in London. The Midwestern Music and Art Camp, now in its 31st season, has more than 2,300 high school students from all 50 states in its 10 divisions. The other divisions are art, ballet, speech and debate, journalism, science and mathematics, Latin, German, French and Spanish. Students are housed in air-conditioned dormitories on the K.U. campus.

Seek Pixie King, Queen

The second annual Pixie King and Queen contest will be held for Labor Day by the Clarkston Area Jaycee convention club. The winners will ride in the Labor Day parade and will also be awarded a $25.00 savings bond.

Children from ages 3 to 6 are eligible to enter the contest. Entries should be mailed to Mrs. D.G. Hamaker, 5525 Kingfisher, Clarkston, or Mrs. R. Wilton, 6175 Paramus, Clarkston, by August 13.

A snap shot no larger than 4 x 5 inches should be submitted. Include name, address, age and telephone number on back of snap shot. Ballot boxes will be displayed for voting at 1 penny per vote in local stores prior to Labor Day.

New girls organization

The Pioneer Girls Pilgrims will be starting Monday, August 26, at First Baptist Church of Clarkston. Girls going into grades 3-6 are welcome. The time is 4 to 6 p.m. Mrs. Mildred Grate will be Chief Guide for 3-4 grades and Mrs. Basil Taylor will have charge of grades 5-6.

The older groups, Colonists (grades 7-8) and Explorers (grades 9-12) will begin the early part of September. Any girl is welcome to come. The girls learn many worthwhile things and also benefit spiritually.

THE NEW BABY can be properly announced to friends and relatives with Birth Announcements from the Clarkston News, 5 South Main, Clarkston.

Coho are comin'

By Bob Beemer

Spent a weekend in Empire, Michigan, prowling the surrounding countryside. The lady at the fish store where I went to buy some Ciscoes said she heard coho were being caught around Frankfort. Since it was only thirty-some miles and the family was sunning themselves, yours truly made for the waterfront.

The man at the dock said he was sorry. The captain of the only charter boat left in the harbor had gone home to Beulah and wouldn't return 'til the next day.

This didn't leave much choice but to wander discontentedly around town and learn what I could about the coho situation.

Only a couple of blocks downtown I spotted a sporting goods shop run by ex-insurance man Dave Anderson. What really drew me to stopping was that part of the shop advertising a coffee corner.

Any shop like this is usually a great place to make friends and get all of the local dope. Coffee is 15 cents a cup if you get service and only 10 cents if you serve yourself. I can recommend both the coffee, gossip and friendship there.

I mistook Dave's brother-in-law, Floyd Hamner, for the owner but he soon put me aright and introduced me to Dave's son. When the talk got around to coho, this young sportsman with a bit of prompting was showing me a picture of a day's catch from last year.

I nearly fell out of my chair when I saw the seven coho with one a size nearly dwarfing my young friend who was holding it. I asked if he caught any of them.

"Well, I caught the one I'm holding," he replied.

That's enough to make a grown man cry. The fishing must have been absolutely great. They assured that such was the case.

However, reports of coho as yet at Frankfort were slightly premature. My disappointment must have stuck out all over because that miracle of miracles occurred. Floyd asked how I would like to take a little expedition over to Crystal Lake and try for some of those two to three pound rainbows which are average for this lake.

Forty minutes later we were lazily trolling the dropoff while Floyd gave me the word on how he catches coho.

"Primarily," he said, "to buy new rods would be a waste of money." He prefaced his remarks that this was only his opinion. "Don't use your same old small reel as they are not built to take the punishment a coho can and does dish out. Just your regular spinning rod or old boat rod will do. But a bigger reel is definitely in order. Most of the boys use a Mitchell Salt Water job."

"For baits the most popular are all Helin Flatfish." He reported. In order of effectiveness: X-4 Coho, silverbelly and blue back; U-20 in silver; and U-20 in fluorescent red. All were trolled between six and twelve feet down.

If you intend to go first class and get in on a charter, we got recommendations unqualifiably for two men. Stanley Nelson and Gene Sensing are both men of great experience generally on the water and Lake Michigan in particular. You can write to Stanley Nelson, Frankfort, Michigan and Gene Sensing, 111 Second Street, Frankfort. They'll give you details on costs, number of fishermen at a time and what tackle if any they will provide.

Just to make sure we don't get taken in by any false reports of coho being caught, Dave has promised to act as correspondent for the LEADER and will let us know as soon as there is good fishing. Good enough for us to travel that far.

While we were discussing all this, Floyd and I managed to catch only one twelve inch rainbow which we allowed to grow up. Not bad for two hours trolling. We didn't count the six other strikes.

When the coho hit, I'll see you on the lake—but, I'll be with Floyd. It was at his invitation.

Michigan. Besides, I can't see where such a buy is any great bargain.

Look at the way these old farm houses are built. They have giant kitchens. Women love 'em, they tell me. But, why is today's mother so enchanted with a massive kitchen? She doesn't have the wood stove. She, for the most part and there are the exceptions, doesn't find herself canning jugs full of provisions for the family's winter.

More practically, the lady of the house has all the conveniences which make meal preparation secondary to her day's activities. There are the prepared foods, frozen and canned, tumbling off the grocer's shelves. And, if she isn't up to fixing the evening's meals, a telephone call to the local Colonel Chicken fills the house with all the homespun aroma of fresh dumplings and things.

So, knock out the kitchen. What about those spacious rooms with their ten foot ceilings? Heating all that space above the head is just a winter time liability enjoyed by the local oil or gas company (sorry, electric company, too).

The spacious rooms don't serve for huge family gatherings and places for the men (notice the plural of man) of the house. The guys who have been breaking their backs all day harvesting found these big rooms a good place to flop and feel the comfort of space and cool air. Dad tumbles home from the office and just wants to be cool, left alone and air conditioning takes care of his problems. The family cango off to the other room and watch T.V. Small rooms, that is all that one needs today.

Besides, even with all the seeming bigness of these fine old house, I'll wager that there isn't one in a hundred made to have furniture brought into them. A thousand years ago when they were built, dad built the furniture right in the room where it was to stand and rot its days out.

Calhoon, with her latest purchase of bedroom furniture for Laurie's room is classic. We had to just about tear the upstairs out of a nice old farmhouse to get the chest-of-drawers out of the house. Now that the chest is over to our house, I'm having even more of a problem just to get it to the little girl's room. Even when I do, I'm not sure that it is going to fit.

Of course the antiquey thing wouldn't fit up our stairs. We tried. The only solution is to tear out the upstairs window, load it through and carry it down the hall, if it will fit, and then into her room. To get the upstairs window out, I have to buy new windows... they're ordered and Uncle Milt Francis at Nowel's just laughs. He hasn't got any sympathy. While ordering one set of windows, I might just as well replace all the upstairs glass... Even after the windows are installed, there isn't any guarantee that the chest will fit in the house. It might just end up sitting in the downstairs hallway and Laurie will have to use it that way until she makes a home of her own someday. Meanwhile, while you're meditating about some of these more casual simple problems, just think, the only thing that you now have to maintain is the harmony between you and your neighbor. When you find that little country house, and none of them are little, you'll have to forsake your rocker and catch the roof before it falls in, or something.

So I was not surprised to see another wicker chair arrive and I reacted with great calm.

"Good lord, woman," I screamed, "there is not room on the porch for another one of those back-breaking chairs. What are you going to do with this one — unravel it and knit yourself a new wig?"

"It is not going on the porch,"

"If It Fitz . . ."

Wicker wacky wives are wicked

By Jim Fitzgerald

Pat said, "it is going in our bathroom."

"Hey," I said, "that's funnier than knitting a wig out of it. Keep it up and I'll let you write the column some week. A wicker chair in the bathroom! That's a good one. What are you really going to do with it?"

"It is going into the bathroom," she said. "I am not kidding."

I could tell she meant it. I could tell by the way she trembled and turned red when I fell on the floor laughing. I asked her what she was going to do with a wicker chair in the bathroom.

"I am going to sit in it," she explained.

"Why can't you sit where the rest of us sit?" I asked sensibly. "It will be handy for when you come out of the shower," she explained further.

"A guy could get marked for life," I said.

"I will put a cushion on it," she said.

And she did. A purple cushion to match the toilet paper.

THAT IS JUST ONE example of my furniture trouble. Let's move into the family room. Pat no longer likes the furniture there. She bought it but now she hates it. She doesn't come right out and say she wants new furniture in the family room. But I get the message . . .

The other night Eddie was bouncing his 10-year-old frame up and down on the living room couch. A couple of times he grazed the ceiling on the upbeat. This is usually a mortal sin, cruel punishment to be prescribed by a wrathful mother who puts slipcovers on her slipcovers.

But:

"Isn't he athletic?" she asked me. And to Eddie she said: "Try jumping on the chair, too, dear. I think those springs will give you a bigger bounce."

And then there's the business about our checkbook. A while back I began to notice that there was never any money in it. No matter how many deposits were made, the balance was always 2 skips out of the poverty program. Past experience prompted me to examine the checkbook closely, page by page. I found what I was looking for on the back of the blotter inside the book cover. There was a column of figures totaling $890. At the top of the column was printed "F.F."

I hit her quick with it, before she could think:

"F.F." means Furniture Fund and you have $890 in it, right?" I snarled into her ear just as she was dozing off one night.

"You are a sneak," she said. "I am a sneak. She has milked me for $890 in hidden deposits and phony withdrawals. She probably juggled those figures in the dark of night, in the basement behind the furnace, while wearing a black cape and a stealthy look. But I am a sneak."

So that's how I found out we're getting new furniture in the family room. I can only pray it won't be wicker. There's also going to be a new bedroom suite some day soon. I discovered this the other day when my Mt. Healthy sister came calling. Pat showed her around the house and little sister remarked that she liked our bedroom furniture.

"Would you like to buy it?" Pat asked her.

Onward and Upward.

This business of finding a rundown country house has its drawbacks. You might say that this item is directed at the suburbanite who is sitting quietly in the comfort of his deep cushioned rocker thinking about all the joys of living in the country.

He's the kind of guy who dreams that someday he will be able to buy a knocked down, beat up farm house for next to nothing and will be able to raise his family in the big open space of land, sky and trees and all that nonsense.

Just for the record, those days of buying tracts of land with a worn out farm house still standing and paying next to nothing for the package are gone, especially around southeastern

Michigan. Besides, I can't see where such a buy is any great bargain.

Look at the way these old farm houses are built. They have giant kitchens. Women love 'em, they tell me. But, why is today's mother so enchanted with a massive kitchen? She doesn't have the wood stove. She, for the most part and there are the exceptions, doesn't find herself canning jugs full of provisions for the family's winter.

More practically, the lady of the house has all the conveniences which make meal preparation secondary to her day's activities. There are the prepared foods, frozen and canned, tumbling off the grocer's shelves. And, if she isn't up to fixing the evening's meals, a telephone call to the local Colonel Chicken fills the house with all the homespun aroma of fresh dumplings and things.

MAKE YOUR OWN GOOD LUCK WORK FOR YOU

It's easy to win! PRIZES!

Choose your own set of Key Numbers

It's easy to enter!

RULES FOR PLAYING "KEY-NO"

- The newspaper will publish each week, TWENTY DIFFERENT numbers from the total of eighty numbers on the playing form. If a number is published that you have marked on your form that number constitutes ONE Key-No. Each additional number so published and marked on your playing form is an additional Key-No. The total number of Key-Nos. you have in any one game, determines your lucky chance to win.
- EVERY PARTICIPATING FIRM WILL POST A COMPLETELY SEPARATE SET OF KEY NUMBERS EVERY WEEK. NO TWO FIRMS WILL HAVE THE SAME SET OF NUMBERS. EACH IS A SEPARATE GAME AND CONSTITUTES A NEW AND ADDITIONAL LUCKY CHANCE TO WIN. VISIT AS MANY FIRMS AS YOU WISH. CHECK YOUR NUMBERS WITH THEIRS. THE MORE PARTICIPATING FIRMS YOU VISIT THE MORE LUCKY CHANCES YOU HAVE. AWARDS FOR EACH GAME WILL BE PUBLISHED IN THE NEWSPAPER.

INSTRUCTIONS — How To Set Up Your Playing Form

- Choose any ten different numbers on playing form. It makes no difference which ten numbers you choose.
- Plainly mark the ten numbers you have chosen making sure that only those ten numbers are marked, and there can be no question as to adjacent numbers. You may use ink, crayon, or pencil, and either check the number or blot it out as you desire.
- Your playing form is now completely filled in and your numbers are probably entirely different from that of anyone else, however, it makes no difference in your chances of winning as anyone can win.
- FILL IN THE DUPLICATE with exactly the same numbers you have on your playing form. Send duplicate with your name and address to your sponsoring local newspaper. The newspaper must have your duplicate in its files by noon Monday of the week, before the series which you plan to play the game is published.
- Keep the same playing form throughout the entire number of weeks that this promotion runs in your community, as sponsored by your participating local newspaper. More than one entry per person will disqualify any potential winner.
- Use the same number arrangement whenever you play Key-No. Do not make out a new form each week. Mould your form on a card if you like, and carry it with you on trips to town.
- Remember... you do not play on a blank form. EVERY form should have ten numbers marked plainly and your duplicate of these numbers on file at the newspaper BEFORE you can win on Key-No.
- Read our instructions carefully. No corrections can be made on your duplicate after it has been sent in.
- Every adult member of the family living within the trading area can fill in a duplicate and send to the newspaper. . . But be sure to put his or her name on the form you KEEP AT HOME, so that you'll know which card belongs to whom.
- See your local participating newspaper for more complete details and awards involved in each game. The local newspaper and C. R. Holmberg & Assoc. of Denver, Colorado are the final judges on all matters pertaining to this promotion.
