Jim's Jottings

Apparently without meaning to do so, a gal named Francine Gottfried created considerable disturbance a couple weeks ago on Wall Street. She said she was just a plain girl, but a crowd of men estimated at 10,000 turned out one day just to see how plain she was.

I couldn't get a flight out of Metro to see the phenomenon for myself. But this plain girl, it seemed to onlookers, had considerable going for her. Like 43-27-34.

I wonder about a couple things I read about this incident. First of all how did the measurements of this plain girl become known so quickly? Does one of these Wall Streeters, or a reporter, have such a keen and experienced eye that his judgment is accurate to the half-inch?

Or, did some over-anxious or funny-thinking personnel man ask this information during the job interview? Maybe it's a standard question on the application.

But if this were true and the firm sticks to proper questions to assure no job discrimination is taking place between the sexes, what does the male put in this blank?

Regardless, shortly after Francine appeared on the scene and was taken off, other gals from throughout the country, also with considerable proportions in the same general area of the body, took a jet to New York.

Now then, this all started out as my way of telling you I have two gals working for me in the Clarkston News office who have the same dimensions as Francine. Exciting isn't it?

I didn't really realize this until Monday and they have both worked for me several months. There has been no traffic jam on Main street. No call from studios seeking to sign them to contracts. And I didn't ask them to stay home to avert any crowds of male gawkers.

The fact is I wouldn't have known Carolyn and Joanne had measurements equal to Francine except that I saw them with the Free Press turned to the right page spread out between them and one working the adding machine.

How did these gals determine they had the same dimensions as Francine by using an adding machine?

Well, Francine's figure figures out to total 104 inches. Caroline and Joanne can match it. Their measurements total 104 each.

Did you know the word "dirt" is upsetting to certain people? Not dirt, meaning smut or offensive, but it is taken offensively by men in the gravel mining business and nurseries.

If you ask a gravel miner for dirt he cringes and says it's aggregate. If you talk to a nursery man about dirt he may frown and ask you to use the word soil.

Try it next time you see one of this type people. It's fun.

This is written with the Tigers leading St. Louis 12-0 in the sixth game of the World Series. What happens from now on isn't important to me. That fifth game, which Detroit won, 5-3, was the most exciting game I ever saw or heard. They redeemed themselves so well after being humiliated in the third and fourth game that I don't care if they win the series or not.

They gave me a great lift, as they must have Tiger fans past-present and future.

Soc et tuum, Tigers in 1969.

Custody hearing set for Wednesday

Four of the five children of Mrs. Florence Lewis, who was found guilty of child cruelty last week, will remain wards of the Oakland County Probate Court, at least until some time this week.

A hearing to determine who should have custody of the children was scheduled for Wednesday by Probate Judge Norman R. Barnard, who made the decision at a preliminary hearing three days after Mrs. Lewis and Paul Maczko were found guilty of chaining two of Mrs. Lewis' children together in the garage of the Maczko home at 9052 Ortonville Road, Clarkston.

Mrs. Lewis' oldest son, Frederick, 10, who testified that he had been chained to his brother by Maczko, is currently with his divorced father in Duluth, Minnesota.

The Oakland County Probate Court will retain temporary jurisdiction over the other four children, who are being housed at the Children's Village in the Oakland County service center in Pontiac. They are Ricky, 9, Catherine, 8, Bernadette, 6, and Joseph, 4.

Mrs. Lewis and Maczko will be sentenced October 30 by Circuit Court Judge Clark Adams. They face a possible sentence of four years each.

Tax deadline, zoning, trees Council topics

Monday is the last day for paying village taxes without penalty.

Clarkston clerk, Art Pappas reminded the Council Monday night that October 21 was the shut off date for paying taxes in Clarkston. After that the tax rolls will be turned over to the county and any taxes paid will have the penalty added.

A request for rezoning the property at 64 N. Holcomb was received by the Council and turned over to the Board of Appeals. John Adams, owner of the property, asked for the change from A residential to B residential. B residential zoning allows multiple dwellings.

In sending the request to the Appeals Board the Council asked that initial action be taken within 30 days to call the public hearing.

Tree cutting in Clarkston was discussed in a letter to the Council from village forester, R.W. Osgood. He said most of the trees cut were diseased

Efforts continue

New library report

Many people have doubtlessly been wondering why our new Township Library is not under construction.

Architects plans were ready in May, but with the knowledge of a new Building Trades Contract it was deemed unwise to call for bids until a settlement was reached.

The bids were finally received and opened August 20. Examination showed the lowest of ten bidders, $30,000 higher than the Architect's estimates, and our $90,000 in available funds also $30,000 short.

elms. The first one spotted along Main street was on private property, Osgood said, and with the cooperation of the owner it was removed.

He plans to have the state time all trees on Main and a few elsewhere in the village.

He strongly commended that no tree planting on right-of-ways be started until after sewers are put in. At that time he suggested the Council consider putting the trees on private property to establish a tree line.

The next meeting of the Council will be October 28. It expected more information on sewers will be available at this time from Oakland County Department of Public Works.

QUEEN VIKKI HALL. Vikki, a senior at Clarkston High School, presided over Homecoming festivities last weekend and was crowned officially at a dance following the game. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Hall, 4425 Elmdale, Drayton Plains.

THE TORCH DRIVE, the annual fund-raising drive by the United Fund, was kicked off Tuesday with Keith Hallman, owner of O'Dell Drugs, presenting a check to Mrs. Harold Nicholson, business chairman for the Clarkston area. The drive will run until November 8. The theme for this year's campaign is love, with emphasis on love for one's fellowman.

Additional funds are, however, necessary and it is the intention of the Library Committee to talk to many people who for one reason or another were not given the opportunity to pledge when the drive was conducted in February 1967. Voluntary increases in previously made pledges will be most gratefully received. The Clarkston Women's Club is still collecting pledges and these pledges can be mailed to Box 254, Clarkston.

With some $60,000 in cash and pledges and a definite commitment of $32,000 in Federal Funds it is the feeling that these funds must be used—they will make possible a fine library that we so greatly need and that we can be justly proud of and that all contributors will be happy in the knowledge of their part in making the project possible.

Study continues

Propose School Ad building

More planning and study is going into the proposed new administration building for Clarkston School District.

At their Thursday night meeting the Board of Education voted to have superintendent Dr. Leslie Greene and school architect, Richard Prince, continue working on plans for the new unit.

The site chosen is on Orion road. This is the property from which 3 acres were sold for a new township library. In the future there are plans for a new elementary school on the site, also.

Mail packages early

"Mail Christmas packages early to servicemen overseas," says the Post Office. The following periods have been designated for mailing Christmas parcels overseas to members of the Armed Forces:

Surface transportation—October 14 to November 9.

Space available parcel airlift—October 21 to November 23.

Parcel airlift—October 28 to November 30.

Air mail—November 30 to December 11.

The present administration was built 10 years ago and is reported to have outgrown needs. Initially the building was built with the idea of being able to add on, however, Dr. Greene pointed out at the meeting that methods of handling school business have so changed in recent years that there would be a loss of efficiency if new rooms were built on the end of the present building.

One of the changes in methods has been in processing equipment. This is now housed in the meeting room. There would be a separate area just for data processing in the new facility.

In the plans reviewed Thursday there are stations for a receptionist, 9 secretaries, administration offices, meeting room that could be divided in 3, and other office space.

In giving approval for further study the Board asked Dr. Greene to consider more storage space and the costs if more room might be needed than the 8800 square feet proposed. The present building has about 3,000 square feet of space.

An estimated cost of the new plans are $230,000, made by the architect.

See a related editorial on page 7.

Several uses for the present building was offered by Dr. Greene, should the new building become a reality.

1. Special education and remedial instruction center.

2. Center for diagnostic and remedial reading personnel.

3. Business education program center.

4. Center for coordination of instruction activities with visual aids, resource material and curriculum coordination for both elementary and secondary schools.

The need for diagnostic and remedial personnel was pointed out by Dr. Greene when he mentioned the number of employees they now have in this area. There are 3 speech correctionists, 3 social workers, a diagnostician, and part-time psychiatrist.

The new administration building would be financed from funds available from the 1966 bond issue. Other money from this vote went for the North Sashabaw Elementary School, bus garage, and new Junior High School.

Entered as second class matter, September 4, 1931, at the Post Office at Clarkston, Michigan 48016.

WINNER OF THE $500 savings bond in the Key-No contest recently completed was Mary Alice MacDougall, 7095 Hillside Drive. Publisher of the Clarkston News, Jim Sherman, made the presentation. Mrs. MacDougall's lucky entry came from those turned in to Bob's Hardware.

Mayor Lindsay to speak for McDonald

Congressman Jack McDonald (R-Mich.) announced today that New York Mayor John Lindsay will campaign on behalf of McDonald's bid for re-election on Friday, October 25.

"I am very pleased Mayor Lindsay will visit the 19th District," McDonald said. "The Mayor has been most helpful to me with my work on the Republican Task Force on Urban Affairs. His energetic approach to problem-solving on a local level has often served as a model for the type of new legislation I have introduced and supported in the House of Representatives."

McDonald's campaign office said the details of Mayor Lindsay's schedule are still in the planning stages, but there will definitely be a rally at the Pontiac Mail scheduled for approximately 4:00 P.M. on the 25th.

Clarkston dumps Northville, 13-6

By Kirk Phillips

The Wolves finally gave the fans something to cheer about—a long awaited victory over the Mustangs of Northville. Remember last years crushing defeat at Northville by the Mustangs? The Wolves came back to squelch the Mustang's title chances as the home team finally put together their best blocking game of the season.

The defense went right to work, as the Wolves kicked off to Northville. When Richard Adams tried to get the Mustangs moving, the defense was there at the right time, forcing them to punt.

The Wolves got their hands on the pigskin and quarterback Bob Paladino mixed his plays beautifully with Bruce Hardy, Jeff Keyser and Rich Porritt carrying the ball.

They brought it down to the one with halfback Jeff Keyser scoring his first touchdown of the season on a one-yard dive. Chris Poole, scoring the extra point, made the score Clarkston 7, Northville 0.

The Mustangs got their hands on the football again, but the defensive work of Bill Anderson, Bill Wertman, Doug Green and Gary McMillan was a masterpiece.

The Wolves passing game started to click, with Paladino mixing the running along with the passing attack to split end Eric Hood. The Wolves again scored with Jeff Keyser, hitting paydirt for the second time in the evening. This young man played his finest game in a Clarkston uniform with two touchdowns. Keyser's second touchdown

CHRIS POOLE had to get some attention from Dr. Bullard Friday night. The team physician said that Chris had been hit in the same place on his right arm several times and has a calcium growth started. The big lineman and full-back wears an extra pad over the injury.

was a five-yard pass from quarterback Bob Paladino, making the score Clarkston 13, Northville 0. The conversion attempt was no good. Each team had their hands on the ball and couldn't score when the first half ended.

When the second half started, it looked probable that the Wolves might have lost a 13-0 lead. The Mustangs were starting to penetrate in Clarkston territory as they marched to the 16-yard line.

Quarterback Richard Adams looked for split end Fred Holdsworth, and over threw him. Defensive back Gary MacMillan, picked off the pass in the end zone, bringing the ball out to the 20 yard line on the touch-back. Neither team could move the ball very well in the 3rd quarter as each team held the other scoreless.

The Mustangs went to work with 6:35 left in the game. Adam's hit Holdsworth on an almost impossible, but excellent, catch at the 17-yard-line. On the next play Barry Deal swept around the end to the Clarkston six yard line where, four plays later, Adam's scored on a keeper from the one, making the score 13-6. The extra-point attempt failed.

Well, as figured, the Mustangs would try the on-side kick and it worked, giving the Mustangs the ball. They got the ball, but four plays later, Bruce Hardy intercepted a pass to stop the Mustangs' threat of salvaging a tie. It was a great victory for the Wolves as they gained their first league win.

What a great way to start against Northville. Next week the Wolves venture to Sloan Memorial Field in Brighton, to take on Dan Lantz's Bulldogs, who are winless after four games. Let's hope the Wolves will bring home another win to get ready for the big one on October 25th against Art Paddy's West Bloomfield Lakers.

CLOSING IN on halfback Rich Porritt, no. 23, are a couple Northville defenders. Porritt helped the Wolf team to a 13-6 victory over the Mustangs in the Homecoming game Friday.

The Junior Wolves remain undefeated by downing Kettering. They are coming close to an undefeated season. With only two contests remaining it looks pretty good. Last Tuesday they beat Kettering by a score of 25-19. The following boys scored one touchdown each: Rick Prasil, Mark Swanson, and Tom Gates. Kurt Richardson scored with a 60 yard touchdown. This week they are idle. The games left are against Milford and Brighton.

Punt, Pass and Kick

The Eighth Annual Punt-Pass and Kick Junior Sports Program was held October 12 at the Clarkston High School. The project was co-sponsored by the Clarkston Area Jaycees, Waterford Area Jaycees and Waterford Optimist.

Of the 165 registered, six Waterford boys and twelve Clarkston boys were presented with trophies by Dick Flannery of Flannery Ford in Waterford and Richard Rollman, chairman of the program.

In the eight year olds, Steven Doyon was first place winner; John Boss second and Jim Birtas, third. Among the nine year olds, Mickey Gardiner was first, Lewis Warren, second, and Richard Armstrong third. Bill Keller was first in the ten year olds, Dennis Franks second and Mathew Schatz third.

Scott Wheaton took the first place trophy in the eleven year olds, Alan Glasenapp, second and Terry Johnson, third. Among the twelve year olds, Mike Grace was first, Mike Spring second and Chris Skel-lenger third. Among the thirteen year olds Bob Bartenbaker was first, Jeff Weichel second and Gregg Fogg third.

First place winners will compete in the zone competition at Wisner Stadium Saturday, October 19.

Harry Golden Dem speaker

Harry Golden, noted writer and fighter for human rights, will be the featured speaker at the 19th Congressional District Democratic Organization's annual dinner. The dinner is scheduled for 7:00 p.m., Monday, October 28 at Raleigh House, Telegraph near 10 Mile Road in Southfield.

Golden has agreed to appear at the dinner to support the candidacy of Gary Frink, the Democratic nominee for Congress in the 19th district.

Net proceeds of the dinner will be used in the Frink campaign, according to 19th District Democratic Chairman Aldo Vagnozzi.

make new home here

Mrs. Charles Bain

Waterford Community Church, E. Hardys of 6200 Overlook, was the setting for the marriage of Miss Charlene Kay Hardy of Clarkston and the Donald E. Bains of 5248 Rossiter, Waterford. Reverend Robert Winje officiated at the 7:00 p.m., double ring ceremony. Parents of the couple are the Russell

The groom's mother made the bride's floor length gown of satin and imported lace, featuring a scoop neckline, chapel sleeves and a bell shaped skirt. For her veil the bride chose a pillbox hat with bouffant veil. White carnations and lily of the valley made up the bridal bouquet. Mrs. Carl E. Hardy, of Clarkston, served her sister-in-law as Matron of Honor, with Mrs. Rodney Mellen, Mrs. Don Spangler, and Miss Debbie Kojima as Bridesmaids. Their gowns were of the A-line styling in aqua satin, featuring a scoop neckline and elbow length sleeves.

Attending the groom as best man was Mr. Richard Bain, the groom's brother. David Corbin, Dan Baker, and Rodney Mellen served as ushers.

The bride's parents received guests at the reception held at the Mountain View County Club in Waterford after the ceremony.

The bride was a 1966 graduate of Clarkston High School and is now employed as a payroll clerk at Hawk Tool while the groom graduated from Waterford Township High School and is now employed by Pontiac Motor Division as a machine operator.

The couple will reside in Clarkston after a northern Michigan honeymoon.

Members of the Waterford Fashion Your Figure Club met Wednesday evening, October 9 at Howes Lanes Green Room for their annual banquet. Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Yoder was crowned queen by last year's queen, Mrs. Lois Kottman. Thirty-six members and guests attended.

Table decorations were given as door prizes. Mrs. Wayne Ostrand, president, was Mistress of ceremonies. Mrs. Carl Carpenter serves the club as vice-president. Mrs. Gerald Hodge is the secretary, and Mrs. Barbara Whitehead serves as Treasurer.

The club meets at Schoolcraft School on Maceday Lake Road on Wednesday evenings from 7 to 9. Any woman or girl over 18 or girls of 16, if sponsored by a member may join the club.

Club to dance

The Shirts and Skirts Square Dance Club will hold a dance Saturday, October 19 from 8 to 11:30 p.m. The club meets the third Saturday of each month at the Independence Township Hall with caller Bob Longe. For information call 682-5095 or 682-5895.

Caverly-Eghigian spend honeymoon in Florida

Mrs. Paul Eghigian

Miss Kerry Caverly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Caverly, of 5800 Waldon, was married to Mike Eghigian, son of Mr. Paul Eghigian, of 6335 Sashabaw, September 21 at the Community United Presbyterian Church.

The bride wore a floor length gown with long sleeves, natural waistline and a chapel train. Her matron of honor, Mrs. Roger Mayer of Pontiac wore a sleeveless, floor length, yellow brocade dress featuring an empire waistline.

Her bridesmaids were Mrs. Jack Weaver, of 54 Washington, and Miss Sue North, of 8480 Foster Road, both of Clarkston. They wore blue, floor length dresses with white lace around the empire waistlines. Flower girl was Shirila Serta, and Eric Fereshetian performed the duties of ringbearer.

Best man was George Laseck, and William Warren and Glenn White seated the 75 guests. Following a reception for 110 at Jayson's, the couple spent two weeks in Florida on their honeymoon. They will make their home at Independence Square Apartments.

The bride is a 1968 graduate of Clarkston High School. The bridegroom, an employe of Oxford Mining, was graduated from MacKenzie High School in Detroit in 1961.

Busy month for Jaycee groups here

Some of the Jaycette's of Clarkston joined with the Davsburg group recently for a district meeting. This involved the nine locals of District 12 and was conducted by Mrs. Robert Tilley of Transparent Drive, vice president of the district.

There were workshops on Community Service and Ways and Means. Mrs. Lewis Wint of Clarkston presented the workshop on Membership Orientation. A coffee hour followed the meeting.

Trotting back home to Clarkston with door prizes from this event were Mrs. Richard Johnson, Mrs. Robert Bennett and Mrs. Richard Wilton.

Just this past week-end, the State Fall Board Meeting was held at the Soo in the Upper Peninsula for the Jaycees and Jaycettes.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hamaker of Kingfisher Lane—he's Clarkston's Jaycee president—along with the Jerry Powells of 22 Church Street attended with Mr. and Mrs. Art Ripley of 6729 Amy Drive.

Mr. Richard Wilton, of 6175 Paramus Drive accompanied the group as District 18 vice president. The week-end was filled with workshops and meetings. Topping off the event was a banquet at which the Clarkston Jaycees won an R & Raward for format of internal projects.

The day Tammy Mahar celebrated her sixteenth birthday—October 9—was the same day she played half back in the Powder Puff football game. This didn't leave much time for blowing out the candles on her birthday cake. After a family dinner that included 11-year-old brother, Rich, Tammy had to hurry out to the football field. Along with all this, there has been a steady stream of people coming into the Jim Mahar's at 46 Miller Road to help build—of all things—a gold Buddha. This was one of the floats featured in the Homecoming Parade and also was used as part of the decorations at the dance.

The William Mansfields of 6593 Clarkston Road welcomed home daughter Cheryl, who is a freshman at Albion and son Jim who is a junior at Eastern Michigan University at Ypsilanti. Cheryl and Jim arrived in Clarkston Friday to attend the Homecoming game and dance.

The James Freitag's of 6561 Transparent Street had a busy birthday week. Little Darlene Freitag celebrated being two years old Sunday, October 6 and her sister Diane was 9, Friday, October 11. Gathered around the table for the family dinner on these occasions were the other little Freitags, Debbie, Denise, Dannie, Doreen, and Doris.

On Wednesday, October 9, the Dallas Lippincott's of Snowflake Drive along with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lippincott of Deer Lake Road and Mrs. Dallas Winslow of Grand Blanc went to Holly for a family celebration at the younger Charles Lippincott's. The event was the birthdays of Glenna and Barbara, daughters of the Holly-dwelling Lippincott's. Also present were Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Williams of Goodrich maternal grandparents of Glenn and Barbara.

The Canterbury Dance Club which held forth at the Edgewood Country Club Saturday, October 5, welcomed Clarkstonians Mr. and Mrs. Jim Mahar of 46 Miller Road as new members. Approximately 200 couples attended this semi-formal dance which signaled the start of the fall season festivities for this club.

The Mt. Bethel Methodist church held a very successful harvest dinner on October 9. The church dining room seats about 75 and the tables had to be set up three different times for the over 200 people who enjoyed the baked chicken family style dinner. Mrs. Ellison Austin of Kier Road was chairman for this event.

DANCE CLUB

The Gary Duncan's home

On Big Lake Road was the scene of a special meeting of the Saturday Night Dance Club on October 12. Fourteen couples gathered around while Bob Newlin, chairman of the Club for the past year explained the duties of the various committees.

Don and Sharon Cooper are the chairmen for the coming year while the secretarial duties are under the direction of the Ted O'Rourke's. Tom and Dorothy Tackaberry handle the spot of corresponding secretary and the office of treasurer is held jointly by the Harry Fahrners.

Orchestra and arrangements will be handled by Dick and Rustie Leaf; decoration and publicity will be under the direction of the Mil Masons and Tom and Sally Lamm hold the office of membership chairmen. A fabulous buffet supper was served by the Club's outgoing committees.

CHILD STUDY CLUB

Mrs. George Osmond of 6627 Hummingbird Lane was hostess to the Clarkston Child Study Club for their meeting Thursday, October 3. She was assisted by Mrs. Glenn Brancheau as co-hostess.

Speaker of the evening was Mrs. Georgia Roed, music teacher in Waterford Township. Her theme was "Your Child and Music" and she demonstrated how ordinary household items, such as pans and wastebaskets could be used in teaching a child rhythm.

She included a list of records that could be used to stimulate a child's interests in music. Fourteen members, including the newest member Mrs. David Bickerstaff of Langle Street, attended. Guest for the evening was Mrs. Judy Nichols. A social hour followed with a question and answer period directed by Mrs. Roed.

The Michael Thayers of 46 Orion Road, along with children Jeff, Greg, Michelle, Kurt and Brett, sallied north to Cadillac October 12. They took a weekend cabin there just for the sake of enjoying the beautiful autumn colors in that area. Part of the luggage included a special birthday cake to celebrate Mr. Thayers birthday on Sunday, October 13.

The Albert Givens, of 6100 Waldon Road, were originally Canadians, and in addition to celebrating the traditional Pilgrim Thanksgiving in November in this country, they also honor the Thanksgiving of their homeland. This falls on October 14, and they entertained at a family dinner Sunday, October 13. Coming down from Kitchener, Ontario, were the Givens nephew and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Givens. They were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Phil Givens of Midland and children Marc and Scott.

The Nick Lekas' of 6655 Plum Drive were another family that drove northward over the past weekend just for a scenery cruise. Young son Nicky was along and they found the autumn beauty well worth the trip.

The Clarkston Evening Extension study group had a busy week. Tuesday and Thursday, October 8 and 10 special workshops were held at the 4-H Fairgrounds from 9:30 in the morning until 3. Six members from Clarkston packed a lunch for these long sessions. Coffee was served to members from all over Oakland County who put in many hours caning chairs, making glossy fruit, candles, paper and satin flowers and padded pictures.

Sandwiched in between these two days a regular meeting was held Wednesday, October 9 at the home of Mrs. Richard Thomas of Oak Hill Road. At this meeting, plans were made for the Christmas Bazaar to be held November 9 at the 4-H Fairgrounds. This event is open to the public.

Eight regular members attended the Wednesday evening meetings along with one new member, Mrs. Marietta Moore of Tappan Drive. The group was served coffee and dessert.

"THE LONG LOOK"

Rev. Frank A. Cozadd
First Methodist Church

This world of ours has been around a long time. Centuries pass. Generations come and go. Civilizations blossom and decay. The course of human history is never smooth.

In the midst of the pessimism so prevalent today, it is good to hear the words of Dr. Arthur Compton, the Atomic scientist, who said, "Recently there has been much talk to the effect that our knowledge and power are expanding faster than our moral sense. I do not believe it. Everything in our present world seems to belie the statement. Rather, I believe that the Creator of the universe has, from the beginning, had a plan for shifting moral responsibility onto man's shoulders as fast as he can take it... with the raising of the curtain on the atomic age we have been called to unprecedented spiritual greatness."

God is ready to lead us onward and upward if we will go. There are always new life forces at work which God creates and of which God has matched the evil of men with an emergence of new life and power. We do well to remember that this is still God's world. God is still in charge of affairs, and, as always, refuses to suspend his laws to satisfy our impatience. We need a long look.

What's right, is right! District needs offices

The Clarkston Board of Education is mulling over a decision on whether or not to build a new administration center for Clarkston School District.

The mulling didn't just start, though some might think so since only recently have some architect's drawings appeared on the Board's table.

As long as three years ago Superintendent Dr. Leslie Greene and the Board realized the quarters, built 10 years ago, were getting crowded and more area would have to be forthcoming.

What has happened to the school district has necessitated proportional growth in administrative offices. In the last 7 years enrollment has jumped by 2,000 in Clarkston Schools. The staff in the ad offices has been doubled.

Along with it has come more sophisticated equipment, IBM machines, printing equipment, etc., that has been housed in these ad offices. Without this kind of equipment even more personnel would have had to be hired by administrators.

We don't know when plans started being drawn on paper. At least one preliminary drawing had been presented prior to Thursday's meeting of the Board. With architect Richard Prince and 2 associates present, the Board considered space, location on the school property on Orion road, exterior design, and listened to suggestions from the architects and superintendent.

Then the Board began its discussion. The first point made by Fernando Sanchez was that he was having a difficult time justifying the expense of a new administration center to the people he had talked to. Such a new building is likely to cost around $300,000, and when compared to a new elementary school, it is about a third the cost.

Greene reckoned that this was probably true. He expressed the thought that the Board would be criticized by some people if they approved the new building. He compared it to an auto company building cars without engineering and administration offices.

Sanchez said, "Sometimes I wonder if it wouldn't be better."

The remark brought a smile, but the point was made. Factories have to have office space for administration, and as they grow, more area is needed for administration personnel.

Schools have frequently been compared to factories. The product they turn out is kids with educations.

The present ad space is now crowded to the point where more space is needed. Back when the decision was made to build the present building consideration was given for enlarging. It still could be, but the needs have so changed that building on more rooms would not create more efficiency, and in fact, may decrease efficiency.

And, "efficiency" is the key word in the entire program.

Administration offices are the central nervous system of the district body. If this part of the system doesn't function properly, at peak efficiency, it isn't likely the rest of the body will function properly either.

Twice the Board of Education has given approval to the architect and Dr. Greene to proceed further with preliminary plans and study on the ad center.

Though this doesn't mean they will give the final okay when its time to make the decision, it does (along with our observations) make us feel they will give the nod in the not too distant future.

The Board, in our opinion, recognizes the need for a new administration center, but is hesitant at present because they know a favorable decision will bring considerable criticism.

What's right, is right! It is right that the administration needs more space and it should come in the form of a new building that will bring physical plant efficiency to a department in the school system that has proven personnel efficient.

The money is available from a previous bonding issue. True, it could be used for classrooms, but this does not

1 bath a week is plenty

By Jim Fitzgerald

Something a poet said recently has given me nerve enough to write a column my mother said I wouldn't dare write or she'd shoot me. It's about taking baths.

The poet is Phillip G. Bronstein who, the newspapers said, intends to write some angry verse about such folk heroes as Mr Clean and the White Knight.

"The soap companies, the plumbing industry and Madison Avenue have brainwashed the people of this country," Bronstein said. "Everybody is jumping in and out of their tubs and showers. The entire nation is obsessed with being clean. One Saturday night bath a week is enough for the normal human being."

Boy, I hope Mother read that. The first bath I can remember, I was probably about 4 years old. I had been playing hide and seek with my older sister, Terrible Jean, and some other roughnecks. They couldn't find me because I'd hidden in a barrel in my grandfather's barn. It was a barrel of tar. Jean finally pried me free. When we got home, the neighbors thought the block was being integrated.

Mother usually supervised the baths at our house. This didn't mean she scrubbed backs. She guarded the bathroom door and checked against fake baths. I was not above filling the tub with water and then stirring it with a stick to produce the sounds of a boy bathing. I would also soak a towel and splash water on the floor. Then I'd dampen my hair in the sink, button my pajamas to my neck, and run for bed.

The tar bath was something else. It was man's work and my father rolled up his sleeves and scrubbed with a brush usually used on the basement floor. He got me so clean he said I should probably be re-introduced to my sisters so they wouldn't think a stranger was sticking his nose in the frosting bowl. The bath hurt but there was one consolation: I'd fallen in the tar on Tuesday which was not a regular bath day. Wednesday was. So at least, after getting so clean on Tuesday, I could skip Wednesday's bath. I thought, But mother sentenced me to the tub again Wednesday anyway, simply because it was Wednesday.

From that day forward I have known that my mother and mothers everywhere are duped shills for the soap industry. I wouldn't be surprised if most of them are getting kickbacks from Proctor & Gamble—probably free cold cream, the better to slither with.

I perfected my fake bath technique in high school. I was on the tennis team which practiced everyday. On bath nights I'd tell Mother I didn't need one because I'd taken a shower at school after practice. Beautiful. Until the Sunday the pastor took up a special collection to remodel the school gym which was in such poor shape "the shower hasn't worked in 2 years." Oh my. Incidentally, old dogs can do old tricks. Today, I tell my golf buddies I'll skip a shower at the club because I'll take one when I get home. And I tell my wife the same thing I told Mother about tennis practice. Only the game has changed.

Poet Bronstein is absolutely correct. A bath a week is enough. In fact, what with the incredible powers of Command and Right Guard, a well-sprayed man might go dry even longer if he is careful. He should always know which way the wind is blowing and position himself accordingly. And he should never perspire (I'd say sweat but Mother is angry enough already).

I realize that, on hot days, a man must remain completely inactive to avoid perspiration. Which I think is marvelous: I often just sit in a cool tub all day. The only trouble is I can't sleep for fear someone will turn the water on.

Onward and Upward.

New York Football: 47-29-38, hike

By Joe Backus

Every few years a new fad springs up somewhere and sweeps the country like a thunder storm. A few years ago, it was the hula hoop. Next came the Polack jokes. Now another fad is arising in New York and is attracting new adherents all over the country.

It began simply enough—merely a girl walking to work. This wouldn't seem like such a big thing. After all, girls have been walking to work ever since women entered the labor force.

But there was something different about this girl. Francine Gottfried had something most girls don't have—a 43-inch bust line.

As a result, her now famous walks along Wall Street to her job at the Chemical Bank and Trust Company attracted as many as 20,000 men who work along her route out onto the street for a better look.

Francine's walks and the reaction they stimulated from the crowd began a new trend in Wall Street. This trend soon reached the proportions of a fad. Hardly a week goes by without at least two or three girls who think match or better Francine's measurements trying to attract a larger audience.

In one respect, however, this fad differs from most other fads in recent years. Participants are restricted to the relative few who meet the rigid physical requirements.

The other half of the fad, the watching, is not limited. It is becoming more and more popular. In fact it is becoming so popular that radio stations from Baltimore to San Francisco are waging campaigns to find girls who can match Francine's 43-25-37. It wouldn't be surprising if it soon became our national pastime.

Interestingly enough, these Wall Street walkers appear to be the envy of many women. The girls in our office got out the adding machine last week and proudly announced that their measurements tallied up to the same figure as Francine's do. It's funny that I had never noticed it before.

It seems to this observer that a number of parallels can be drawn between this new fad and the sport of football. It would be easy to imagine what this sport will be like when it develops into an organized game.

The defensive team lines up on both sides of Wall Street. The object is for the girls on the opposing team to get from one end of the block to the other.

Francine, the $100,000 a year full back, leads off with a seven-yard run through the middle. "It's not really the backs we are interested in," says one of the tacklers.

Back in the huddle, the quarterback calls for a draw play. Halfback Ronnie Bell, number 50-22-37 is supposed to take a fake hand off and draw the defending players to the opposite side while the runner dashes up the sidelines.

"Down, set, 47-29-38, hike," calls quarterback Geri Stotts. No sooner does the play begin when a blue uniformed referee blows his whistle and calls a penalty. It is a five-yard penalty against the defense for holding.

The coach goes in to give his girls a little encouragement. "Go on out there and really bust 'em up," he says. Jeanne Cairoli, 50-26-38, replied, "I think a nice looking girl with a big bust could stop anybody in the world."

On the next play, Sheila Moore, 42-24-37, and Suzanne Zulkowski, 43-24-36, both run down the street hoping a pass will be thrown their way.

Again the referees call a penalty, this time for roughing the receiver. "You've got to wait until the pass has been caught before making body contact," the referee says. "You know, those ain't shoulder pads they're wearing."

Finally, the game ends, with the girls making it to the end of the block. As the players leave the field of play, one spectator can be heard to say, "I think all the crazy girls who play this game belong in a booby hatch."

Candidate "Coffees"

Three "Coffees" have been scheduled for Republican candidates in Clarkston October 21, 22, and 23.

Loren Anderson, GOP candidate for re-election to the state legislature in the 61st district, will be a guest at all three and Richard Wilcox, GOP candidate for the county board of supervisors will attend one of the coffees.

Mary Beth Huttenlocher, 6757 Park Lake Drive will host Mr. Anderson at 10 a.m. Monday and Jean Frechette, 9241 Eston Road will host the 8 p.m. meeting Tuesday.

Mrs. Olga Anderson, 5868 Kingfisher will have both candidates at her home at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

The public is invited to all three of these Republican "Operation Coffee Cup" programs.

"NO HUNTING" signs. Two sizes, 8¢ & 15¢. Clarkston News, 5 S. Main.

Maybe one does acquire a taste for clothes, or, as some educators advocate, "the clothes kids wear to school do have an effect on their behavior."

I honestly can't remember whether there ever was a time when I got turned on by any fashion craze. Summer and winter, since before I was in high school and even today, my wardrobe is basic and simple, Levis and a shirt.

Today, I've modified slightly. During the summer, up until hunting season starts, I wear light-weight wash-and-wear pants with a short-sleeved dress shirt. No tie. Ties are neck stretchers designed by frustrated hangmen and the only time I wear one is when I attend a wedding or a funeral and a few miscellaneous occasions that amount to the same.

Right about this time of year, I swing into my winter attire. That's levis and a wool shirt. During high school, I remember one fashion thing that turned me on. That was a time when everyone wore long key chains. One end of the chain would hitch up to a belt loop and the other, with a gob of keys, would be dumped into your pocket.

I never had any reason for the keys. In fact, the keys didn't fit any locks that I knew of. But, you could walk down the halls in school, swinging this gold-plated hunk of scrap iron like you were some big deal right out of the movies. Quite a foolish looking spectacle.

Today's kids, wearing their love beads, boys with their heavy necklace pendants and junk like that; they aren't anymore foolish than the long, dangly keychains that we used to whip around.

For the most part, today's kids look a heck of a lot neater than when I was their age. Sure, there are those rascals who don't take baths, walk around with their long floppy hair and mean that this is the best way to spend the money.

We think the new administration center should be built to the needs of the administration, and if criticism follows so be it.

S2/c Richard Shaughnessy spent a few hours at his home here on Sunday. Richard is now studying at the University of Chicago.

On Wednesday morning Charlotte Etes, R.N., from the Oakland County Health Department and school nurse for this district, was in Clarkston and talked to the Junior and Senior girls of the High School and explained to them the Bolton Act which establishes the U.S. Nurse Cadet Corps.

The first meeting of a new Junior Youth Group will be held on Sunday afternoon beginning at 5 o'clock at the Methodist Church. Boys and girls of the seventh and eighth grades are cordially invited to be present.

Mrs. Ann Scrace, who was 88 years old on Tuesday, was honored at a family gathering at her home on Sunday afternoon. There were 25 guests present.

GIFTS TO SERVICEMEN in Vietnam are being sent by members of Girl Scout Troop 453. The scouts are (from left) Sandy Easler, Barbara Lohf, Tammy Norman, Monica Josie, Becky Yoh, and Kathleen McGille. They are sending the packages of books, pop corn, candy, brownies, soap, cards, stationery, comic books, tooth brushes and tooth paste to two Clarkston servicemen, Jerry McGille of Eastlawn and Ron Burrill of Pear Street.

Women's Christian Society elects officers

The Clarkston Women's Society of Christian Services has announced the names of its 1968-69 officers. They are: Mrs. Floyd Gordon, president; Mrs. Ronald LePere, vice-president; Mrs. Robert Irwin, recording secretary; Mrs. Robert Carr, membership secretary; and Mrs. Charles Beach, treasurer.

Other officers chosen were:

Mrs. L.D. Riley, spiritual life secretary; Mrs. Clifford Irwin, missionary and education service; Mrs. Frank Russell, Christian social concerns secretary; Mrs. Cleon Kortge and Mrs. B. Hansen, chairmen of local church activities; and Miss

Ada Scrace, publicity chairman.

Also chosen were: Mrs. Arnold Mann, chairman of memorials committee; Mrs. Fred Mast, Mrs. Harold Goyette and Mrs. R. Johnston, nominating committee; Mrs. Spencely Butters, music coordinator; and Mrs. Frank Cozadd, pastoral representative.

The society will hold general meeting every fourth Wednesday at 10 a.m. The Harvest Dinner will be held November 8 and the Bazaar will take place December 6.

Terrell presides over Players

Monday night was the first meeting of the fall season for the Village Players. Jim Terrell of Garden Court, conducted the business meeting as the new president of the organization. Other new officers include Vince Luzi, vice president; Mrs. Marie Luzi, recording secretary; and Janice Walker, corresponding secretary.

The first play this year will be "Barefoot in the Park", directed by Vince Luzi. Tryouts were held following the meeting and all the roles were cast at that time.

NEW EAGLE SCOUTS from Clarkston Boy Scout Troop 126 are Randy Miller (left) of 6641 Transparent, and Michael Redwood, of 6106 Snowapple. The award ceremony was held Tuesday night. The two ninth graders each earned 21 merit badges and collected money for muscular dystrophy for their service project. They have been in scouting for three years and are planning to continue into the Sea Explorers in Ship 194.

Clarkston Wranglers elect Pam

The October 2 meeting of the Clarkston Wranglers was presided over by Becky Rankin. New members at this meeting were Jim Bortz, Nancy Frederick, Debbie Marsac, Mike Marsac, Kenny Quisenberry, Jenny Rekawek, Elizabeth Russell, Paula Thorn, and Dorrie Trarop.

The club discussed having matching breast plates, saddle blankets, reins, or coolers for our horses for parades. Several colors were suggested. Our leaders will look into prices of materials and present this to the club at the next meeting.

Next, we had election of officers. They are: President, Pam Gillis; Vice President, Becky Rankin; Secretary, Lynn Race; and Treasurer, Tom Quisenberry. Mike Zerbe announced that the Clarkston High School Horsemanship Club is having a trail ride on October 25 and a horse show on November 2. The Wranglers are invited to participate in both activities.

One of our leaders, Mrs. Quisenberry, suggested that we have our meetings at the American Legion Hall. The members agreed that since the club is getting so large, it would be a good place to have meetings. It was suggested also that the dues be raised. This was discussed and tentatively decided against.

On October 23, we will have a costume Halloween party from 7 to 10. Each member may bring one guest.

Secretary, Lynn Race

Weekly Health Tip

Just as we have emergency hospitals for physical ailments, a number of 24-hour emergency clinics for the emotionally or mentally ill are now in operation in the U.S. The emergency staff responds to a crisis call from a distraught family, clergyman, the family doctor, a neighbor, law officer, or even the patient himself. It has often saved the disturbed from jail and commitment to state institutions.

NEW CHIEF of the Clarkston police department is John Walts. Above he accepts the congratulations of police commissioner Harry Fahrner, right and village president Frank Russell. Both men recommended Walts for the job that was left vacant with the resignation of Bob Phillips. Walts has been on the part-time Clarkston force for 4 years.

A RED CROSS BLOOD BANK collection will be sponsored by the Clarkston Women's Club Friday, October 25, from 2 to 8 p. m. at the Clarkston Community Center, 90 North Main Street. Those in charge of the collection are (from left) Mary Beth Hughson, Mary Muscat, and Vicci Hamilton. For appointments, call Mrs. Muscat at 625-2251. Walk-ins are also welcome.

North Sashabaw has open house

Monday night a combined PTA meeting and open house was held for North Sashabaw and Sashabaw Elementary schools.

The original Sashabaw school now contains only the first and second grades, the remainder of classes being held at North Sashabaw.

The PTA president, Mrs. Jean Head, held a brief meeting and introduced the teachers. An explanation of the Helping Hand program was given and a request for volunteers for home room mothers.

Children's movies are to be given on Saturday mornings from ten to twelve and are slated for October 12, December 14, February 15 and April 19. It is necessary that some parents be in attendance on these dates and it is hoped that some of the fathers of the elementary children will be able to chaperon at the school for these events.

A book fair is scheduled for four days in November. Approximately 300 parents attend the Open House, visiting the classrooms and meeting with the teachers.

Horticulture report

Clarkston Farm and Garden Club

Have you tried crystallizing dried plant material and weeds? The results will vary with the different specimens and the exciting possibilities are unending.

The crystals may vary from the smallest droplets to one as large as is appropriate for the scale and strength of the material. The size of the crystals is determined by the strength of the solution, and the length of time the material is processed.

The basic recipe is:
1 lb. of rock alum
to 1 quart of water
Heat the water and alum until all the crystals are dissolved, allow the solution to cool slightly and pour into a tall fruit juice can or glass jar.

Suspend the dried material, heads or pods down, so that the material to be crystallized is fully covered. As the solution cools the crystals will deposit on the material. When the first suggestion of formation of crystals is noticed continue to watch closely until they are the desired size.

Remove from the container place the stems ends in a can or a piece of styrofoam so that the stems are separated, and allow to dry. If not separated immediately the dried crystals may be broken when separated later. The solution may be used many times, reheat until the crystals are dissolved and use as before.

For variety, experiment with other household crystals. Epsom Salts, for example forms a long slender crystal that makes a beautiful cluster at the end of a spike.

Overnight pack trip for Boy Scouts

Seventeen scouters from Clarkston Troop 189 camped out Saturday night on the northern shores of Deer Lake. All the Boy Scouts, with hike-master Raymond Loba of Maceday Lake, hiked from the Clarkston Calvary Lutheran Church to the campsite.

Each Scout had to carry his own tent, bed roll, clothing, utensils and food for his own campfire dinner and Sunday morning breakfast.

The pack-in was one and one-half miles from the church, making the complete bag-pack hike a distance of three miles. More than half the scouters passed their first class hike requirement.

Troop committeeman and transportation chairman John S. Mayo, 6872 Bluegrass, stayed with the troop until sack time and troop institutional representative Richard Butler, 8344 Ellis Road, joined the troop at breakfast. He rode to the campsite Sunday morning on his horse.

Troop 189 is planning a campfire court-of-honor for Monday evening, October 28. Complete details will be announced later, but all Scouts and boys interested in Scouting will be invited to attend with parents. Gary Graham Troop Scribe

Homecoming was colorful and fun

THE BAND FLOAT sports a fire-breathing dragon and is pulled by a convertible carrying several cheerleaders.

WINNING FLOAT is a dragon constructed by the sophomores. Sophomore maid Linda Champeau has tamed the dragon for a ride in the Homecoming parade.

BUDDAH rides the junior float, which was runner-up in Homecoming float contest. Along with him is junior maid Karrie Garlak.

KIM BLASEY rides the freshman float in the Homecoming parade.

CHEERLEADERS from Clarkston High School practice flips and pyramids in the gymnasium for the Homecoming game against Northville Friday.

SENIOR FLOAT—carrying senior Ann Latoza, was pulled by a beetle decorated to look like an elephant.

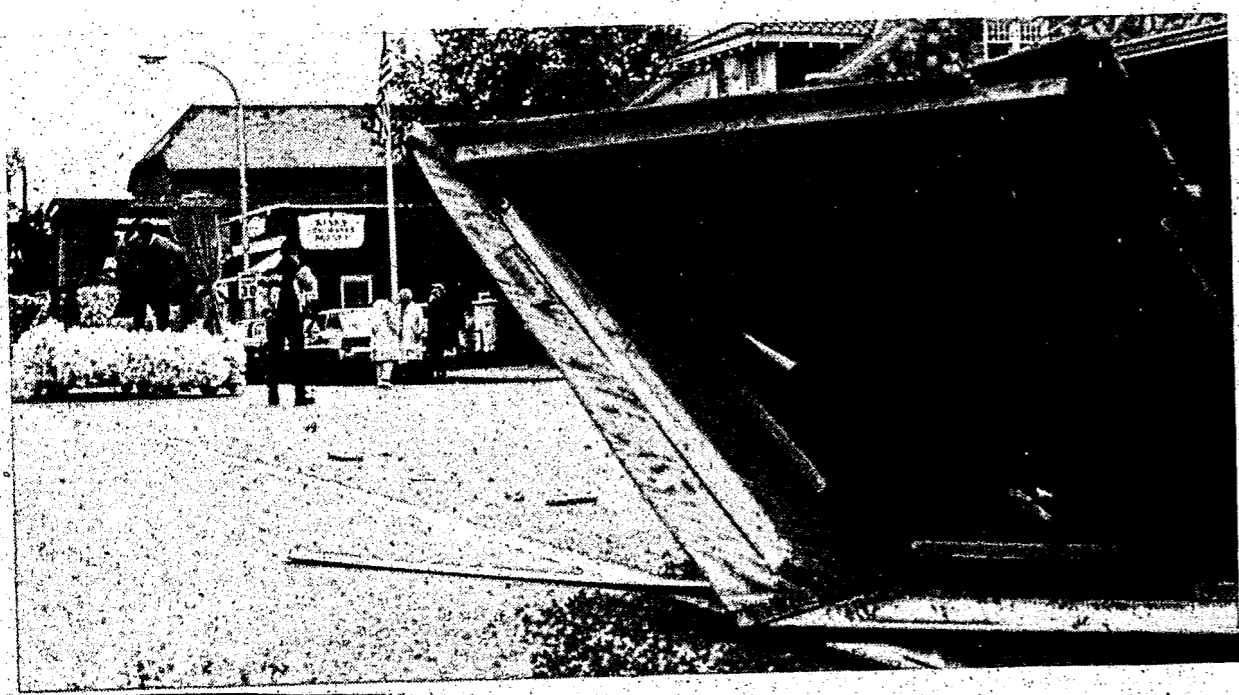

POSING FOR THE Clarkston News after halftime activities Friday night were 3 queens (2 official) and a king. On each side of Queen Vikki Hall, are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Schrubba, Cathy, 5, and Chris, 7, of 5935 Warbler. The youngsters participated in the ceremonies. To the left of Vikki is last year's homecoming queen, Cheryl Mansfield, who presented the roses.

NOT TO BE OUTDONE by the varsity football game, the Powder Puff game had a King. He was Chris Poole, 270-pound lineman-fullback on the Wolves team. To the left of King Chris is Tom Grace and to the right is Craig Hutchins. They entered the field at halftime in a pickup.

CRASH—the senior float couldn't withstand the high altitudes, at least not when there is a banner strung across Main Street. The first time under the banner, the float fared well enough, but on the return trip the banner was too low and emerged triumphant as it pulled the top of the float onto the street. A truck passing under the banner a few minutes later, however, pulled it from its lofty position.

SENIOR POWDER PUFFERS gathered for a picture after their 6-0 victory over the juniors last Wednesday night.

Another Day

Mt. Bethel Church- 131 years of serving

by Constance Lehtzian

When the early settlers came into Michigan from the east, they brought with them all the farm equipment and household necessities they could carry or could afford to have freighted on the Erie Canal. One intangible that came west that didn't require baggage room was the deep religious convictions of many pioneers. Their plows and axes cleared the wild country but their abiding beliefs did even more to settle and stabilize their new homeland.

Twenty-four year old Gabriel Ogden brought his young bride, Sarah Egbert, to Michigan in May of 1837. The Erie Canal barges brought them to Buffalo where, in a sailing vessel, they crossed Lake Erie. Here in Detroit, Gabriel scouted the city for the best wagon and ox team available. Sarah trotted along with him, jostled by the crowds of new settlers and land speculators, awed by the sight of the grim, sullen, sometimes drunken, Indians in Detroit for the collection of their treaty money.

Unlike many young couples who came to Michigan because it was one of the few places they could afford to settle, the Ogdens could have stayed in New Jersey and lived a prosperous life. The fathers of both of them were wealthy farmers and their families must have felt some parental agony at seeing these young people deliberately move away from the comforts they could have been given.

Gabriel had a privilege only enjoyed by children of the well-to-do in the early 1800's—an excellent education. He had gone to school until he was 21 years old, completing a collegiate course at Goshen, New York, studying surveying and civil engineering. In addition, he was an expert carpenter. When he came to Groveland, he brought along a wonderful, and probably expensive, set of carpenter tools. Undoubtedly, the surveying instruments were part of the baggage for when his time permitted, Gabriel practiced this profession, too.

At $3.00 an acre, Gabriel bought 240 acres, putting up a log cabin that first summer. Sarah had the luxury of a cook-stove but this proved a mixed blessing. More than once, in poking up the breakfast fire she was startled to see an Indian crawl out from behind the stove, where he had crept to curl up in the warmth. Once an encampment of 300 Indians stayed near them, the light from their council fires flickering across the cabin door where Sarah watched and listened apprehensively.

The Ogden's, along with the Blodgett family and the Horatio Wright's, who were also settlers in Groveland, were deeply isolated. The nearest roadway was the Saginaw Turnpike, and any visitors had to leave this and follow a trail marked by blazed trees to get to their houses. A journey to Detroit for provisions was by ox team and took two nights and a day.

By and large, the young wives of these pioneer families did little complaining over the luxuries they had left behind. One thing that fretted them was lack of a place of worship. In Sarah and Gabriel's case, they had been raised in families where the expression of deep religious convictions and regular church attendance was as natural as breathing. Gabriel talked the matter over with the other men in the community and that first winter, meetings were held in the homes and later, the schoolhouse, in Groveland. The Ogdens had been married in Mt. Bethel, New Jersey and it was after this town that the Mt. Bethel Methodist Class was named.

A Reverend Smith, who was preaching in the section under appointment from the Ohio Conference, was their first minister. As was the custom then, he must have served other churches as well. This meant traveling by horseback from one little community to another, over trails that wound faintly through woods and skirted past swamps. Even if he had been affluent enough to possess a buggy—and he usually wasn't—these trails weren't smooth enough to accommodate one.

The spread of Methodism in the mid-west is attributed in a large part to an early decision to use circuit riders to reach these scattered pioneer families. After 1838, preachers were sent out by a Michigan Conference, ending the necessity of ministers from this area struggling to get back to Ohio for the annual meeting at the end of each summer, often a journey of the meanest kind of hardships.

By 1840, the little community at Groveland built their first church, a low-hewn log structure that measured 22 feet by 32 feet. In somewhat snug comfort it could hold 160 people and had the luxury of two small windows on each side wall. A Sunday School was established at the same time the Mt. Bethel Methodists moved into their new quarters. Bela Cogshall was the settler who became vitally active in the fraternal, social and business life of the section. In a time when 6 or 8 was not considered a large family, the rapidly burgeoning number of pioneer children brought the Sunday School attendance to a higher figure than the church attendance. As the community grew and the roads permitted better travel, the church attendance increased. It was decided in 1870 that a larger building was necessary. It must have been a wrench to some of the first homesteaders to see the old log church come down. Under the supervision of Horace Maltby, a New England type frame structure went up on the same site and was dedicated that year.

The original Mt. Bethel Class of 1837 had six members and no known record of their names exists today. It might be logical to assume they were the husbands and wives that headed the Blodgett, Wright and Ogden families.

It was also in 1840 that the members established the Mt. Bethel Cemetery. Usually a burial ground was next door to the church yard but in this case, it wasn't possible. Surrounded by farm land in active use, the Mt. Bethel church faced a strip of swamp ground. It was just beyond this, on a high rise of ground some 100 yards away, that the cemetery was laid out. Up to that point, the people had family burying grounds on their own farms.

The new building was made possible by public subscriptions in the community. Among these, that of Sara Ogden's for $700.00 was outstanding. Gabriel had left his wife in prosperous circumstances when he died at the age of 38, nineteen years before.

From 1872 to 1897, Mt. Bethel was in joint appointment with the Seymour Lake Methodist Church. From 1897 to recent times, they were joined with the Davisburg church. A small church that still stands in the midst of an agriculture community, there have been no sprawling subdivisions carved out of the farms to increase the membership rolls at Mt. Bethel.

The church has faced many struggles during its 131 year existence. In 1904, it appears there was some sort of accident to the steeple, maybe a wind-storm. In any event, it was necessary to replace the bell as well as the tower and I.S. Bird, grandson of the Ogden's, then a young boy, rode his bicycle up and down the country roads, helping collect the money to purchase a new one. In the frugal living of those times, this collection consisted of a dime here and a nickel there.

Then in July of 1947, the church was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. All the contents were destroyed. This was a dark time for the church. Much planning and money raising had to be done. In 1949, after a great deal of work the cornerstone for the present church was laid. On September 16, 1951, the new church was dedicated. It stands on the site of the first two churches, on the corner of Jossman and Bald Eagle Lake Roads, built by the labor and money of its members and friends and memorial gifts of such things as the bell and the colored windows and the large double front doors. Reverend Donald Hall the energetic and well-liked present pastor at Mt. Bethel, comes from Flint where he is program manager of station WMRP.

One of the staunchest supports of many little rural churches has been the Ladies Aid which at Mt. Bethel had its beginnings in 1879 with the organization of a missionary society. Today, with great numbers leaving the rural area for suburban living,

Health and hunting

By Bob Beemer

Too many of us head for the fall hunting fields without any thought about what kind of shape we are in physically. Tragically each year the news media is filled with reports of men suddenly stricken fatally while deer hunting. No one wants to be a statistic but most of us do nothing to avoid it.

You can start now and be in pretty darn good shape at least comparatively speaking, by the time November 15 rolls around.

Start your reconditioning program with the legs. This is where the real workout comes and the strain is placed on the heart when you are hauling that buck from the woods.

Try at least a week of good long brisk walks after dinner and on the weekend. In this kind of weather and with all the fall colors starting, it should be more of a joy than a chore. Invite the wife along. You can get a few extra points with her this way, too.

After a week of walking, try that supposedly new idea "jogging". It does wonders for the legs and lungs at the same time. As you already know, Governor Romney does this every morning and he looks great for his age.

Next, try to cut down on the number of cigarettes you consume. A little less inhaling and the substitution of a pipe for part of your nicotine consumption is good for you. Your doctor will have some good advice for you if you have any specific medical problems which could conceivably need quick medication. Especially important would be medication you might need a prescription for when you are several hundred miles from your doctor's office and friendly neighborhood druggist.

Old and easily forgotten physical injuries of the past can crop up and ruin an otherwise terrific hunting trip. Last year I forgot an old Navy injury to my ankle and as a result spent a miserable four weeks using a cane. You can bet I'll remember to tape it this year before I start chasing those pheasants all over the countryside.

More drastic in consequence can be those medical problems which, if you are unconscious, you would be unable to explain to people. Diabetes, Rh-negative blood or an allergy to penicillin are only a few problems which can be fatal to the guy who can't talk to his would-be rescuers.

There is a fine organization in Turlock, California, which for a fee will provide you with an identification bracelet letting the world know not to give you a tetanus antitoxin shot when you should be getting tetanus toxoid. This is just an example of what can be accomplished if you are willing to spend a few bucks to stay alive.

Within the next few weeks we expect to be getting some applications for these bracelets from California. If you want one and don't want to wait for us to get them, ask your doctor. He undoubtedly has a blank or two around the office or call me for the address.

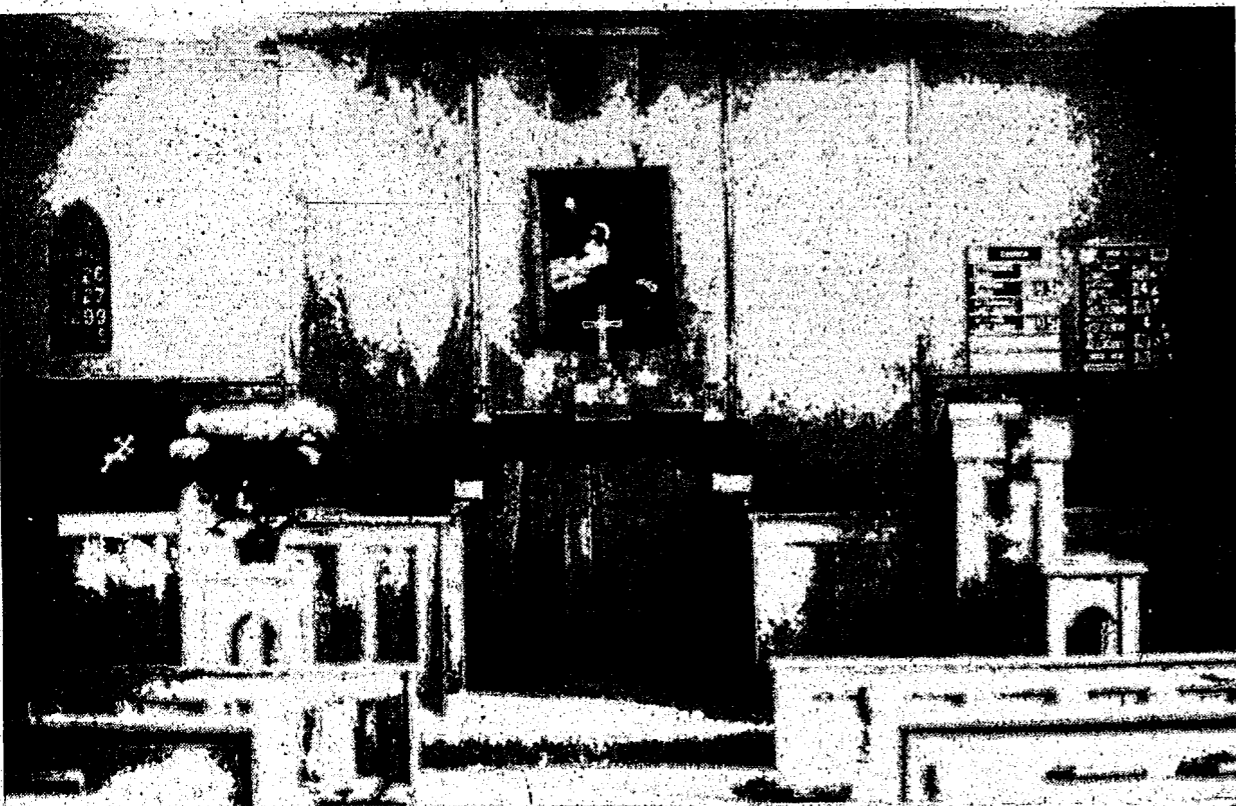

If you problem is relatively simple, see Bill Patterson or your local druggist. Bill stocks some of the same type ID bracelets for people with the easy problems. The only thing missing would be the medical information service the California outfit provides.

Don't forget to include a first aid kit on your hunting trips, even if it is a bit bulky. Just throw it in the car for the small game season and take it up north for the deer hunting time.

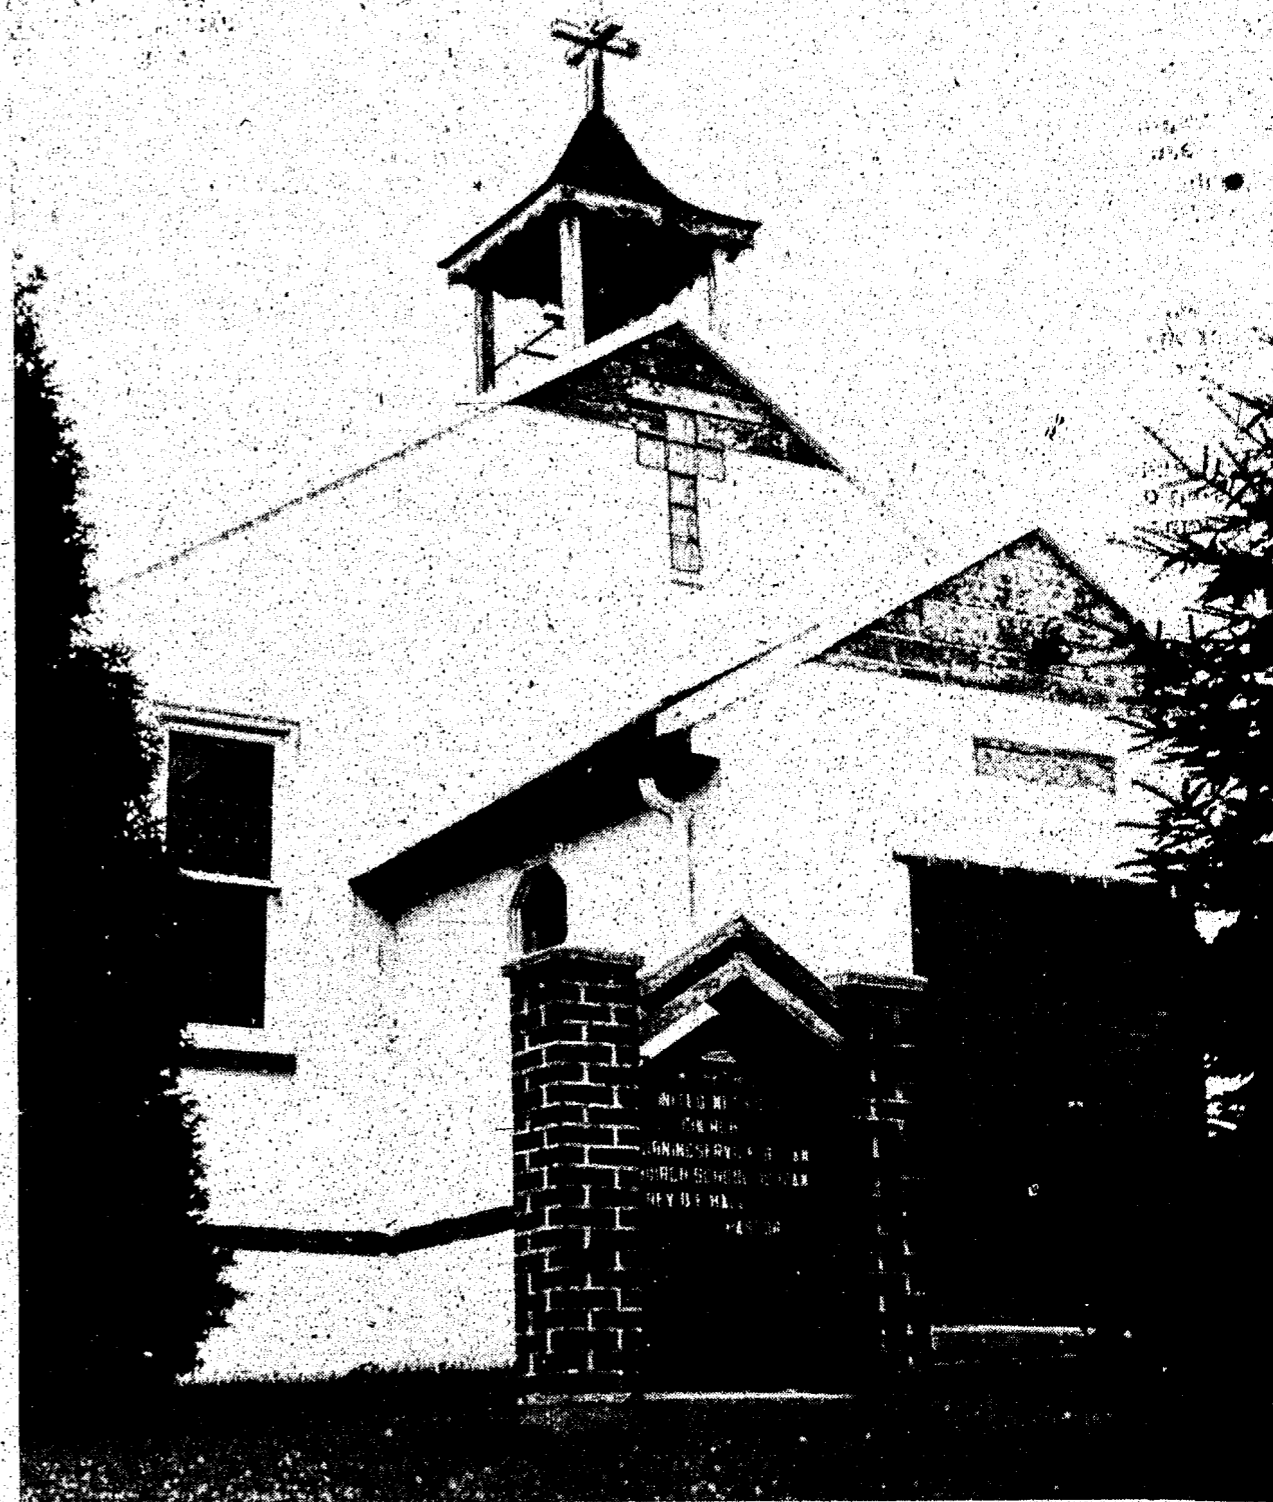

Real soon now we will be writing an article on first aid kits with a full description of a small ultra-modern kit which you can make up yourself with the help of your physician for those wilderness trips. Should be of real interest to you all.

In closing let me remind you we will answer any and all questions of general interest to the outdoorsman in this column if you will drop us a line. Let's keep those cards and letters coming friends.

Get your "For Sale" signs at the CLARKSTON NEWS office. Large size, 15¢ each, 5 S. Main.

Mr. Luther Braley designed and built the new altar for Mt. Bethel.

About 1904 the bell and steeple had to be replaced.

in a time when the struggle of the farmer to stay on top is almost as great as in their forefathers time, members of the Women's Society of Christian Service provide the spark that helps sustain and lead these churches to greater stability. At Mt. Bethel, these women have been actively successful.

A special thank-you to Mrs.

Ellison Austin and Mrs. Maureen Scramlin, both members of Mt. Bethel Methodist Church, for their newspaper clippings and information of the history of their church. Also to Mrs. Ralph Kreiger of Perry Lake Road who sometime ago loaned us a book of biographies of early Oakland County settlers wherein we found the story of the Ogdens.

PO2 John Merkel recently spent a three week furlough at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Merkel, Buffalo Street. John, a graduate in 1965 from the Clarkston Senior High, will return to the Navy for a two year tour of duty in Rota, Spain.

Alan F. Martin

Navy Commander Alan F. Martin, 36, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Martin of 5941 Dixie Highway, Waterford, is serving aboard the frigate USS Norfolk.

The Norfolk recently returned to its homeport of Bahrain, Bahrain Island after a seven week Indian Ocean-East Africa cruise. While on the cruise, the frigate was attached to the staff of Commander Middle East Force.

Middle East Force is normally composed of a flagship and two destroyers. The force patrols the Red Sea, Persian Gulf and a major portion of the Indian Ocean, including the Bay of Bengal. This area includes more than 22 million square miles of ocean and more than 60 percent of the world's proven oil reserves.

Bahrain Island is in the Persian Gulf about 30 miles east of Saudi Arabia and 30 miles west of Qatar.
