The kids watched while the barn burned.

The toll of an innocent little fire was high to the family on Orion-Clarkston road. Independence firemen were kept busy, not only extinguishing the fire here, but over the surrounding countryside.

Authority action may put disposal site in Independence

By Jim Sherman

With the rejection of the new countywide waste disposal plan by the Southeast Oakland County Incinerator Authority, it appears Addison Township will not have the dump site and Independence Township will.

This would be true if the county accepts the plans as proposed in the refuse disposal study of Jones and Henry Engineers, Ltd. of Toledo who were hired to make the study.

The study came under the responsibility of the Oakland County Drain Commission. At the time, 19 months before it was presented, there was considerable hassle among supervisors over whether the drain commission or Department of Public Works would supervise the project.

The drain commissioner won out primarily because his is an elected office. Early this month the county Department of Public Works, through the legislative committee of the board of supervisors, sought state action to allow the DPW to operate the refuse disposal system.

Plan A of the Jones and Henry study located the county refuse disposal site on the Addison-Oxford township line. This plan was recommended by the engineers if the Southeast Oakland County Incinerator Authority agreed to be included in the plan.

Plan B located the county refuse disposal site on the Independence-Orion township line on Baldwin road between Indianwood and Clarkston road. This alternate plan excluded the incinerator Authority.

March 12 the Authority moved to oppose any incorporation of its facilities within a countywide waste disposal plan. The board of trustees of the 14-member authority directed its general manager to prepare a resolution to that effect for submission to the county board of supervisors.

If the county decides to accept the Jones and Henry study as written the dump site would be located in Independence. Plan B and A also call for an incinerator in the southwest corner of Independence township. Transfer station for this area is Oxford and the convenience centers stay about the same, about 3 for each township in northern Oakland.

John Walts, Jr., 15, surveys the damage in his home on Snowapple drive.

Fire guts home

"People are so very kind; I just don't know what to say." These were the words of Mrs. John Walts, last week.

The kindness she spoke of came after the nightmare that started at 6 a.m. last Wednesday morning, when the furnace motor froze and caused a fire that severely damaged the Walts' home, at 6479 Snowapple Drive.

When the fire started, three of the Walts' children, Sandy, 19, John Jr., 15 and Pam, 8, were sleeping in the house. Both Mr. and Mrs. Walts were at work.

The girls, whose rooms were closest to the furnace room, were awakened by the smoke. They ran down the hall and ducked under the flames, which were shooting out of the furnace room and leaping up the wall and ceiling.

John was awakened by the commotion and joined them at the home of their good neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Poole.

The girls had carefully herded the family's three poodle dogs with them. Tragically, the littlest pup ran back into the house and lost his life.

Mrs. Walts, who works at the Sashabaw Products, was notified by her supervisor and rushed home. Mr. John Walts, Clarkston's Chief of Police, who was on duty with the Sylvan Lake Police Department, was informed of the fire when he, ironically, returned to the station to get a rain-coat. The fire had been extinguished by the time he reached home.

The Walts had just recently finished redecorating their 13-year-old home. Firemen estimated that damages would run from $12,000 to $16,000. It is not known at this time if there was any insurance. The damage was confined almost completely to the interior.

In the meantime, neighbors and friends were gathering around, doing what they could to help the unfortunate family. Mr. and Mrs. Walts are staying, for the present, with the Poole family and the children are staying in the homes of friends in the neighborhood.

The Walts have one other son, Wiley, 22, who is in the army. The immediate shock is over. Now begins the heartbreaking work of cleaning, restoring, replacing and rebuilding a home.

Hunting hearing Tuesday

Recommendations for closing portions of Independence Township to hunting will be made at a meeting called by the Natural Resources commission at 7:30 April 1 at the township hall.

This is the second public hearing on the proposed township hunting ordinance. Restrictions are being considered for areas below I-75 and Walters Lake. The primary reason for the action is the split of lakes between Waterford and Independence townships. Waterford is closed to hunting and Independence isn't. This has caused some problems.

Jim's Jottings

Hitting a bad shot while playing golf in Florida in winter is as close to a traumatic experience as I want to come.

Up here in the summertime if you shank a shot you can color the air blue. You can slam your club down, fling it into the air, and kick the wind.

On a golf vacation in Florida, my reaction is the same for a moment. Then quickly comes the thought of lovely, soft, green greens, warm breezes, and you remind yourself if you were back home you wouldn't even be playing your favorite summer sport.

So, at the start of a temper tantrum there is also the urge to soothe, to relax and enjoy. Given a few more days and I'm sure I could have conquered that impulse to attack the ball, club and course.

As you have gathered by now I have been vacationing with clubs in Florida. And, what I have to say about it I will bore you with for more than one week. There were six in our group and we had enough experiences for more. I'll just title some of them and you'll see.

The airplane wings iced up and we had to turn around, we were robbed, we were weathered in and had to hire pilots to fly us out, we played the finest golf course I ever saw, and our 3 sons had a ball.

This was a golf trip of 3 fathers and 3 sons. The plane was an Aero Commander, a 2-engine job, belonging to George Wait. He took son, Dennis. Dick Buechler, co-pilot on the way back, had son John, and I, co-pilot on the trip down, had son Jim. The boys are 17, 12, 14, respectively.

We left Detroit City Airport about 2:30 March 12 afternoon. We refused in Knoxville cause we couldn't see the top of the Smokies for clouds. It was dark when we neared the Florida line headed toward St. Augustine. Ice started forming on the wings at 3500 feet, we came down to 2500 and the ice melted, then it started forming again so we turned around and headed back for Alma, Ga.

Ice adds weight quickly and the plane wasn't equipped for deicing.

Next day was lovely again, we checked into the Ponce de Leon motel in St. Augustine and were on their golf course before noon. Next day, through a friend of George's, Bob Marshall of Palatka, Fla., we were allowed to play a private course near Jacksonville.

Ponte Vedra was the name, and such beautiful greens, water and sand traps I'd never seen. We had to have caddies or carts: Jim and I took a caddy. He'd tell me to stay to the left, I'd hit to the right, when anyone was near I dubbed, when there was water I'd peek... but it was fun, I kept saying.

The third day we flew down to play golf with 3 more Oxford men, Dr. Verne Peterson, Harold Pickford, and Jerry Olrich at Palm Springs National course near West Palm Beach.

200 miles south of St. Augustine brings 10 to 15 degrees higher temperatures and George and I also found it brings 10 to 15 more strokes to a game of golf... but it was fun.

Next week I'll have less on golf and more on traveling with 3 boys and the story of how 3 grown men were robbed of $1200 while sleeping.

Pipeline across Independence stalled by second thoughts

Perhaps Michigan Consolidated Gas Company will have to do more than provide a letter of intent before Independence Township Board gives them permission to cross the township with a 36 inch line.

At their February 4 meeting the board agreed to allow the line if the gas company would put in writing their agreement to restore torn up roads and driveways to their original condition, and use discretion in crossing Spring Lake golf course.

February 28 the township received the gas company's letter in which they said they would do as the township requested.

However, Tuesday night township clerk Howard Altman said township engineers say phase 1 of the sewer program shows sewer lines would cross the new gas lines at least 14 times.

The board delayed action on the gas company letter pending 2 things. 1. That engineers Johnson and Anderson be contacted to see if there would be additional expense to township residents due to sewer gas lines crossing, and 2. That the township planning commission be asked to reexamine the building code section dealing with "essential services".

Altman said the planners might want to improve local restrictions as to use of right of ways by various utility (pipeline) companies whereby 1 utility company gives right of way to another without local approval.

Altman said the letter from Michigan Consolidated Gas complied with the township requirements, then he moved, and the board passed, to rescind the motion of February 4 until the planning commission had time to consider the code, the consulting attorney review the contract and engineers review the route.

The pipeline is to run from Millford to Mt. Clemens and is a transfer line only. It will not serve people along the route. It is to be 36 inches in diameter and covered by about 36 inches of earth.

Michigan Consolidated hopes to start as soon as all communities agree to the contract. On February 4 all but 3 had agreed.

Could have furnished house from clean-up bee finds

Jim Bolin, 4581 Maybee, organized a workbee in his neighborhood a week ago Saturday, and what they cleaned up would have furnished a house and then some, according to Mrs. Bolin.

There is an area near their house that has been used as a dump for some time. People in the area have complained in the past, but took the dump apart piece by piece.

In all, 29 people, adults and children, turned out. Bob Wiand of Dixie highway brought his bulldozer, Dr. Olsen, a landowner nearby, brought 5 teenagers, the ladies prepared a lunch, and when the day was over the area was clean.

Some of the things carried to the edge of the road were: 4 refrigerators, some furnaces, 13 television sets, 2 ranges, overstuffed chairs and sofas, 15 mattresses and springs, the usual garbage, cans and animals, and a pink toilet.

Detroit Edison had agreed to pay half the bulldozing costs, but when Wiand turned in only his costs of $32,000, Edison paid it all.

The debris made an obstacle course of the road and the county had agreed to haul it away. They thought they could do it in one load, but it took 2 full days.

The neighbors plan to keep the area cleaned up. They are on the watch for dumpers and when they are spotted, neighbors will prosecute. They mean it, too. Last year they went to the prosecutor 3 times. In each of those cases the guilty parties picked up their debris.

This isn't the first time these neighbors have gotten together to help their area. In the past they cleaned up one of Dr. Olsen's fields and made a ball field for their youngsters.

Blame it on the capricious nature of women or spring. These good natured lasses agreed reluctantly to be photographed 4 days after the school administration ruled that slacks were acceptable dress in school.

Hey, you! Let's go

During the rash of fires in Independence last week, 35 with 11 in one day, able bodied men were pressed into service who weren't members of the volunteer department.

For fighting grass fires the firemen strap "indians" on their backs. These are tanks with hoses and the water goes with the man when the truck can't.

These are what some of the unsuspecting volunteers carried. Department officers were asking bystanders near fires to assist them. According to assistant chief Tink Ronk they did a good job, too.

Adult Ed adds

An eight week course in beginners oil painting will begin on April 8th.

The classes, part of the Clarkston Senior High's Adult Education program, will be held on Tuesday evenings from 7-9. The charge will be $10, with Mrs. J. Hagen instructing.

In 1961 the Clarkston council was asked to go along with the road commission of Oakland on installing two poles at the corner of Washington and Main to hold up the traffic light.

The 1969 Council learned Monday night the decision of their predecessors not to spend $250 at that time is going to be costly soon. The cost of the poles now is $600 each.

Robert Osgood, traffic engineer with the county road commission, and forester for the village of Clarkston, told the Council they will again be asked to cooperate with the county and state on new lights at that corner.

He said the county had surveyed crossing signals in the county and found 10 inadequate. Clarkston has 1 of them. He said a new controller is badly needed. Estimated cost of the controller and lights is $2,000. However, Osgood added, they are waiting for estimates before seeking official council action.

Lights on roads receiving federal funds, like M15, come in pairs now. When estimates come in the village will be asked to pay 25 percent, the county 25 percent and state, 50 percent.

Should the village decide not to go along, the alternative is a flashing light. Osgood commented, "You can imagine the problem pedestrians will have crossing M15 if a blinker light is installed. The present light is far below standards of Oakland County."

During Monday night's council meeting a letter from Osgood was read of his resignation as village forester. He said there was too much pressure on his time. He has held the job since its inception in 1958 and was paid $100 a year.

The council accepted the resignation and passed a resolution of thanks and appreciation for his years of service. Osgood offered to help the village all he could in their tree trimming and planting program.

The play will be presented sometime in May.

be held at Clarkston on March 28 and 29. Larry Thibault is in charge of the fair.

Student Council recently voted in favor of getting a microfilm reader as an addition to the library facilities. The microfilm reader works by taking pictures of pages in magazines and storing them on film, making it easier to store magazine content. Student Council's first reaction to the microfilm-reader was that it would be unsuitable for Clarkston High School since it could only be used by one person at a time. Claudia Gordon, editor of the "Wolf Cry," spoke before the council, pointing out the advantages of the microfilm reader and urging them to vote in favor of it. Another vote was held and Student Council voted in favor of getting the microfilm reader for a trial period of one month.

The mothers, alumni and faculty reigned victorious over the girls' varsity basketball team by an overtime score of 23-19. Cindy Swick, girls' varsity manager, acted as the girls' coach, while Miss Janet Modestitt, who usually coaches the girls, was coach for the mothers, alumni and faculty.

Medicare dead-line

"There are only a few days for some people in the Clarkston area to sign up for full protection under Social Security's Medicare program," Eino J. Heino, the local District Manager announced today. "Anyone over age 65 has through March 31 to sign up for the medical portion of the program," he said.

Many of the people who have failed to sign up for Medicare and are still working do not realize that they are still entitled to Medicare protection as long as they are at least age 65. A number of other people took the hospital protection of the program and did not sign up for the medical coverage.

According to the law, anyone, age 63 or over, has only this last chance to sign up for the medical portion of the Medicare program. "We feel that these people should contact us right away so that we can give them a full explanation of how Medicare operates," Heino emphasized.

Medicare is already providing protection to 95% of people over 65. Official figures show that 33 million doctor bills were submitted in 1968 and Medicare paid one and a half billion dollars in bills for doctors' services.

The local Social Security office is at 21 South Glenwood in Pontiac. The hours are 8:45 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. Monday through Friday and special evening hours until 7:45 p.m. each Wednesday.

what's a funny place for a phone?

That depends a lot on your sense of humor. If making tracks across a clean carpet to get to a telephone leaves your wife a little less than happy, then perhaps there's nothing so funny about an extension telephone in the garage or workshop.

Extension telephones make sense. They save time by letting you use a telephone wherever you are.

Call your Michigan Bell Business Office or ask your telephone man. For as little as ninety-five cents a month (plus tax) you can put an extension in any funny old

Basketball agony and ecstasy end

'68 finals

For the fourth year I have enjoyed the Michigan High School Athletic Association's state basketball finals at East Lansing. It started at 2 p.m. Friday and ended at 9:49 Saturday evening.

Hard practice and sheer determination is put to use to reach the playoffs every year. The third week in March is the most spectacular sports event of the year. The players, fans, coaches and cheerleaders make up this colorful pageant. The thrill of victory, the agony of defeat, is keenly felt by those who watch.

I don't know how Lofton Greene does it, but he's accumulated enough trophies to sink a battleship. Big Bill Kilgore and Dwayne Johnson shared the spotlight in this year's game when the Panthers downed coach Don Jackson's team from Kalamazoo Hackett, a team who downed West Bloomfield to make the finals.

Let's take a look at the undefeated Titans from Saginaw St. Stephens. With only 50 seconds left on the clock they tried desperately to get the ball. With an undefeated season and pride at stake, Rick Lawler came out of nowhere and stole the ball and layed it home free for two, giving the Titans the lead they didn't relinquish as Lawler scored 3 more points to give Coach Sam Franz his first Class C title and an undefeated season.

Meanwhile Gordy LeDuc's boys from the U.P. Marquette Baraga were whooping it up. They came down to show they weren't a bunch of farmers the Cadets from Detroit thought they were. The Cadets learned—the hard way.

Here come the bride: for the second straight year Bob Hendrickson from Grand Rapids Ottawa Hills won the Class A title in two years on the plays of Larry Ike and Ernie Johnson. It looks like Dick Oulette, coach of Ypsilanti, played the bridesmaid for the second straight year.

Another year is recorded in the books and players such as Ernie Johnson, Ric Lawler, Larry Ike, Bob Leanes, Steve Hempton, Bill Kilgore, Ed Trice and Jim Essian are now in the past and another era will start in 1970.

Here are some comments from the coaches:

Class A Bob Hendrickson: "The

boys represented their school and Grand Rapids very well."

Class B Lofton Greene: "We've come a long way—we've done it again."

Class C, Sam Franz: "I knew the boys wouldn't let me down, their pride was all here."

Class D, Gordy LeDuc: "What a way to close our school year: a state title."

A cheerleader named Jane from St. Stephens had tears of joy in her eyes. "I knew we would win all the time."

'Spring Thing'

The Cadette Girl Scouts of Northern Oakland County are earning money to add a "comfort station" to their Round-up site at Camp Sherwood.

They will hold a bazaar on April 12 from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., at the Tel-Huron Shopping Center in Pontiac to earn money for their project.

The girls ask that you circle the date on your calendar and come to their "Spring Thing."

Hawaiian Islands Vacation

By Rustie Leaf

The very next best thing to four weeks in Hawaii just has to be three, and that's what it was for Mr. and Mrs. Rodger Weeks, of 6287 Snowapple. The vacation began on February 24th, when the Weeks and Mr. and Mrs. William Cross, friends from Owosso, walked up the gangplank of the SS Lurline in San Francisco. Ten of the island-living days were spent in Honolulu, with another five on an island hopping tour. The four flew home to the warm greetings of their five children and their daughter Judy's fiancé, Glen Miracle.

Coming home for the holidays are former Clarkston residents, Pat Mallams, now Mrs. Chesty Zutut, of Park Forest, Illinois, is expected at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mallams, at 6668 Northview. The Zutauts will be bringing their three children, Tommy, Bradley and John. The five will be added to the number which is expected to grow at a family reunion to be held at the home of the Frank Mallams.

Detroit, March 21st, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Halsey of Andersonville road took as their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Halsey and two of their three children, Wendy and David. (Steve was confined at home with the mumps); Mrs. Roscoe Adkins and daughters, Dixie and Sheryl; and the Halseys' daughter, Martha and her fiancé, Marc Cooper.

Another couple who found the trip to the Ice Capades both beautiful and chilly were the Jim Mahars, who live on Miller road. The Mahars, with their twelve-year-old son, Rich, and the Robert Maloney family from Pontiac, found their front row seats added to the excitement of the action on the ice, but managed to keep a cool arctic breeze flowing by. Still well worth it, especially when the Maloney children were chosen from the audience to ride in the red and white balloons which were part of the floor show.

Patrick Tilley, the victim of an accident some weeks ago, is reported still in traction, with several more weeks of confinement expected. Anyone wishing to give Patrick's morale a boost could certainly do so with a card or letter, sent to Room 259, Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, 50 North Perry, Pontiac.

NEW BIRTHS Mr. and Mrs. Roger Thompson of Ortonville, added another member to their family on March 11th. The arrival of Kevin Michael made it a three-boy one-girl family for the Thompsons. Kevin weighed 8 lbs., 3 oz. at birth.

Mr. Thompson, who was formerly in charge of the Co-op program at the Clarkston Senior High, is presently with the Co-op program at the Westwood Heights School.

Grandparents include Mrs. Estelle Thompson of Milford and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Watts of Ortonville.

Posters have been placed throughout the area, announcing this weekend's arrival of the stage production "Mouse Trap." Through the showmanship efforts and goodwill of the Clarkston Village Players, the proceeds from the mystery play will be donated to the growth of the Women's Club Library Building Fund. Tickets for the Friday, Saturday and Sunday matinee may be purchased from any Club member, or from Mrs. Lew Wint, home at 5929 M-15, or Dr. Denne's office at 22 South Main. Mrs. Lew Wint, Sue Whitenton and Mrs. Harry Fahrner, all club committee members, meet at the present library.

Geranium sale May 22-23

Mr. Robert Peterson, violist with the symphony and director of the Pontiac Central High School orchestra, presented a preview of the March 25 symphony concert.

The program, set for 8:30 p.m., Pontiac Northern High School auditorium, will include Respighi's Pines of Rome, the Academic Festival Overture by Brahms, and Mozart's Horn Concerto No. 3, featuring Edward Sauve, French horn player with both the Detroit and Pontiac symphonies.

Plans for the annual geranium sale to benefit the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra were announced at the Monday meeting of the Women's Association of the orchestra. The event is scheduled for May 22 and 23 at the Pontiac Mall.

Pledges at Adrian

Miss Marie Pope became a pledge of the Epsilon Xi Chapter of Sigma Kappa Sorority at Adrian College on Monday, March 10. Epsilon Xi officially became the 105th Collegiate Chapter of National Sigma Kappa on March 2, and now joins the over 100 Collegiate Chapters and 200 Alumnae Chapters of Sigma Kappa Sorority.

Miss Pope, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Pope of Clarkston, is a freshman at Adrian College.

Anticipating the arrival of parents and grandparents were the James Freitag family on Transparent. A Sunday dinner was planned for Mr. Freitag's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Freitag, and their two children, Janet and Tommy.

"Poison" film available

Pharmacists throughout Michigan are participating in a public education program on poison prevention, and preparedness in case of an accidental poisoning.

Over one-half million children are accidentally poisoned in the United States each year. More than 2,000 deaths could be attributed to poisoning by either solids or liquids, of which the largest classification is medicines.

In 1967, there were 72,661 ingestions among children under five years of age. More than half of the fatalities occur in children under four years of age.

To attempt to reduce these alarming figures, the Michigan State Pharmaceutical Association is undertaking a program to educate the children and teach them to respect drugs.

The MSPA and its local societies have obtained copies of a six minute color-sound cartoon film entitled, "Sniffy Escapes Poisoning". The film will be premiered on television throughout Michigan during National Poison Prevention Week, and it is expected that it will be shown in connection with children's programs throughout the year.

In this cartoon, a young boy attempts to give medication to his sick dog. When he gets to the medicine cabinet, the tablets and capsules become life-like and explain to the boy that too much medicine can be harmful and that only Mom and Dad should handle medicine.

Following Poison Prevention Week, the film will be available for showing at elementary schools, nursery schools, and children's groups. Persons interested in viewing the film or showing it to a group of young children (suggested for ages 3 to 10) should contact the Michigan State Pharmaceutical Association, 1812 Michigan National Tower, Lansing, Michigan 48933. (phone 517-484-1466).

Stan Midgley in Oxford

Stan Midgley will be in Oxford Wednesday, April 2 at 8 p.m. to personally narrate his film, "Adventures in the Northwest."

This travel and adventure film will be at the high school auditorium on Pontiac street and is sponsored by the Oxford Rotary Club.

from Keith Hallman

In an emergency — for serious external bleeding, apply pressure directly over the wound, pressing the wound together. Use a first aid dressing, clean cloth, or even the bare hand if necessary. When bleeding has been controlled, do not remove the dressing. Use a tourniquet only as a last resort.

Kutting Korner

by Jean Sura

I mentioned spring house cleaning last week and Mrs. D. T. called and suggested that it might be a good idea to get at the medicine cabinet first, to celebrate "poison week."

It really is a good beginning. I don't save old pills intentionally, but I was amazed at what had collected in our bathroom cabinet.

While I was at it, I cut up a few plastic gallon jugs and containers to hold various objects under the wash bowl. A small pint container holds fingernail clippers, files, etc. A tall narrow soap container is great for combs—I just cut off the top.

Regular curlers fit in a cut off gallon jug. First aid equipment, bandages, etc. in the bottom 3 inches of a gallon jug that I cut.

Going to have fish during the last week of Lent? We like a good cabbage slaw when we have fish. The simplest dressing I know and always good is made by combining 3 T. of cooking oil with 1 T. of vinegar (wine, cider or plain). Add 1/4 t. dry mustard, 1 t. salt and 1/4 t. pepper. Sometimes I liven it up with a dash of garlic powder. You can increase it in these same proportions.

Just put it all in a jar and shake it up. Any surplus will keep in your refrigerator indefinitely.

Speaking of tangy tastes—here is an Easter treat I learned from my mother-in-law. I guess that gives it a Russian origin.

Drain a can of beets and put them through your food chopper. Add horseradish to suit your taste. (Some like it hot.) Chill and serve with your Easter ham. It's both colorful and tasty.

Something different, indeed, is this Happy Birthday wish from Dan Cinader to Barb Cozadd. The large stones on the hillside of the Cozadds' home on Church street helped start Barb's eighteenth birthday out right. Dan confesses he had the helping hand of his friend, John Sexton, in the process. The couple, both seniors at the Clarkston High School, were recently chosen the Class Couple in the recent Mock Election.

Shouldn't worry about additives to food

Stanley F. Yolles, M.D., Director National Institute of Mental Health

Preventing Mental Explosions

Mental illness is America's No. 1 problem.

Alcoholism, drug addiction, marital strife and divorce, racial tension, economic instabilities, inadequate education, urban crowding, violence in the streets all of these and other mental health problems like schizophrenia and depression touch every one of us.

What is being done to solve these problems?

More research is being encouraged and supported by federal, state, and local governments. Programs to train more people to tackle mental health problems are underway.

Most importantly for the sick, services are being improved. In fact, a bold new approach, called Community Mental Health Centers, is becoming the nucleus of the national health program.

More than 50 million people live in areas to be served by some 330 Centers all over the U.S. when they become fully operational, probably within the next year.

The person who needs help is the object of all this. Who is he? Let's look at a specific case.

Our man is 50 years old. Let's call him Henry. He could very well be your next door neighbor, except that he has killed a man for no apparent reason. Was he a vicious beast all along? Henry's history shows differently of this country today. We are just coming to realize the root causes of their distress. We are just beginning to see that Henry's troubles—and indeed all our deep social problems—must be attacked prior to the time that they explode in crises.

Henry had been married 32 years earlier, when he was 18. One day his wife left him, never to return. Henry tried to keep his family of three children together. But they eventually also left him.

On the surface, Henry has been bearing all this calmly. But then he loses his house, one of his most prized remaining possessions. Too, he is replaced in his job by a younger man. This is the thing that finally pushes him over the edge.

That night, in a tavern, he kills a man who makes a harmless joke.

Henry's tragic story is true. There are too many Henrys, as we all know, in every community and neighborhood of this country today. We are just coming to realize the root causes of their distress. We are just beginning to see that Henry's troubles—and indeed all our deep social problems—must be attacked prior to the time that they explode in crises.

Henry's crisis didn't just happen. It was the end result of a long chain of unfortunate circumstances. The mental health center can help break this chain of stress that encircles individual members of a community like Henry. Not only will the centers and hospitals services they are tied in with provide help for extreme cases—centers will also provide a complete program of essential services such as inpatient and outpatient care, partial hospitalization, consultation and education, and emergency services.

A SPIRITUAL Message

By Mark H. Caldwell
Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church

"And when He entered Jerusalem, all the city was stirred, saying, 'Who is this?' And the crowds said, 'This is the prophet Jesus from Nazareth of Galilee.' . . . But when the chief priests and scribes saw the wonderful things that He did and the children crying out in the temple, 'Hosanna to the Son of David,' they were indignant." Matthew 21:10-11, 15

MAJESTY AMONG US

In one of those endless TV military farces so much with us now, an eastern ruler had refused to sign a treaty with the western county unless he negotiated with an admiral. The admiral, however, was busy with a war and in desperation he authorized a very temporary field commission for an ensign to become an admiral in order to sign the treaty. Two other officers superior to the ensign tried to get in on the act and all three so-called admirals were decked out in full regalia confusing the eastern king when in came the real admiral dressed in prisoner's fatigues. He had been arrested by his ambition-ridden staff officers' men for impersonating an admiral!

As we come to the end of the lenten season and as we approach once more the celebration of the triumphal entry of a peaceful king into Jerusalem, we recall that He had come into this world as it were in prisoner's fatigues. As Edwin Markham put it:
"The King of heaven had come our way,
And in a lowly stable lay:
He had descended from the sky

In answer to the world's long cry."

But majesty is not a matter of clothes after all. This King in disguise had impressed people from the beginning with His authority. He could quote the prophets but His own words showed He knew what He was talking about. A look from His stern countenance could turn a lynch mob into confusion as He quietly passed through it. He seemed to be in control of the forces of nature. He could cure a man of his blindness and then forgive his sins, and the latter was accepted like the former by those involved.

Majesty was on this one because of who He was and where He came from. He spoke about life as one who knew the meaning of it. Today, we have unheroes but we need an authentic hero. Today, we look down on the eroded majesty of Europe's royalty, but we need the quiet resplendent majesty of a King like this.

There is nothing wrong with authority if the right one wields it. Let us take a look at this majesty among us. It is an honor to be a subject in the right kingdom!

Right of ways coming less easy for pipelines

It is our opinion that companies that use pipelines will have an increasingly difficult time getting community and individual permission to cross land.

Michigan Consolidated Gas company is experiencing some difficulty now with Independence Township and Lakehead Pipeline Co. has run into obstructions from individuals across the top of Oakland county.

There are the usual objections, not enough money for the land, not restoring land to original condition, and not being able to build over the lines, however, a new objection to us cropped up this week in Independence.

Clerk Howard Altman wondered at the possible additional cost to township residents in their sewer plans. Phase I of the township sewer program shows the sewer line crossing the new pipeline 14 times. Since more care must be given at these junctures there is likely to be extra cost.

If this is true the township officials want to know who will foot the cost. It should be the pipeline company.

There is one other point about the right of ways. Michigan Consolidated says they have permission from the county road commission and Detroit Edison to use their existing right of ways.

These rights were granted to roads and power. Do they have the right to allow other use of the right of ways than was originally granted?

In the case of the county road commission and state highway department, they have increased their minimum requirements for road right of ways. They have gone from 66 feet up to 120 and 240 feet, depending on class of road.

The bordering property owners have been, or will be, forced to give up their rights to allow for wider road ways.

And, the county, and maybe the state, have given permission to companies to use these right of ways that were not first intended for anything but road use.

The property owner, who has his land taken for roads, has no voice left on use of the property. If the county wants to let a pipeline be dug along side the road the land owner is stuck.

There is something about the right of eminent domain, but it is not necessarily for the betterment of the public to allow a gas, oil, or even a utility line to be run where the company chooses whether it be private or committed right of way land.

Maybe these lines will always be allowed by the courts, but we feel there will be more and more cases decided by the judges.

Clarkston, Michigan 48016.
Dear Jim,

Now that our special campaign for debt reduction is over, it is time to express our deepest thanks to those persons who made our program a success.

Certainly you and your staff of employees should receive a special "thank you" for the excellent work you did in connection with our brochure. We have received many comments on its professional quality, and indications that the brochure played an important part in helping families to consider more seriously their part-in-our program.

At this point, our pledges stand at nearly $33,000 which will pay off 80-90% of our debts.

Thank you again for the fine help you gave us. We appreciate it, and look forward to working together again, we hope.

Sincerely,
(Rev. Arlon K. Stubbe)

March 15, 1969

Dear Sir:
I have just finished reading the delightful article about Miss Fanny Irish.

What a lot of childhood memories it evoked! However, Mrs. Gektesian failed to mention another of Miss Fanny's talents—that of children's photographer. I imagine there are very few of my peers that do not remember having their picture taken by her! In this endeavor, she also was a perfectionist. I remember clearly her gentle admonition to "sit still dear" and the re-tying of my sash and hair bow, at least twelve times! Needless to say, my mother still prizes these pictures.

Another recollection of Miss Fanny produces a rather guilty feeling! My best friend, Ann Duffield (Guy Walter's granddaughter) and I used to visit Miss Irish every day. We stayed long enough to be fraying on her nerves. We were then dismissed with a pleasant "come again" and a nicker for each of us! Naturally, we headed

Dancing at the Armory

By Jim Fitzgerald

Here's a hot one for the boys at the Alibi Bar. I've been asked to fill in for the society editor of the Port Huron Times Herald. She's taking a vacation and wants a guest column to run between the girle ads and wedding stories.

Ordinarily, I don't have much to offer the society section of any newspaper. My peau de soie thoughts are few and soiled. But by a coincidence, I have lately been thinking about long-ago dance parties and other such fancy-pants affairs. And to complete the cliché and make the coincidence amazing, these social events occurred in Port Huron.

This fit of nostalgia grabbed me when I read they are going to tear down the Port Huron Armory. They need the space to park cars. Egad. The day is coming when the law will require people to walk sideways to cut down on the room needed between the cars. The first man on the moon will install parking meters. But that's another column . . .

In my boyhood, the Port Huron Armory was dance headquarters of the universe. They had one of those big crystal balls that spun from the center of the ceiling and reflected little lights all over the place. Real class. Once in awhile a name band would be hired, but usually the music was provided by a guy who could play the piano and 3 of his friends who couldn't play the radio without help.

What I remember most about the Armory dances is that they were usually sponsored by the LRT and the girls asked the boys. LRT was not an hallucinatory drug. It was some sort of a Greek sorority which flourished in the public high school. In fact, the LRT is probably still there, numbering among its members the daughters of many of the girls who used to berate their dates for writing my name on their dance cards.

I knew one dance step—the box. I still do it today. Forward, sideways, backward, sideways, forward, do it again, do it again, hot diggity. This is pretty snappy for a few minutes but it gets a little wearisome after a few hours (and a few years, my wife would add if I let her stick her nose in this column).

I remember one steady date who insisted we break the monotony by walking. That was a 1940 dance step where the couples simply walked along the edge of the floor, hanging onto each other loosely. To distinguish it from an ordinary walk to the john, or to the parking lot to neck, you were supposed to take a half step backward every so often. The trouble was, I could never learn when every so often was. I kept heading north while she was going south. She finally decided that was a good arrangement and I haven't seen her since.

A guy got dressed up for a dance in those days. I can even remember pressing my own pants. The girls wore long, crinkly dresses with necklines that teased, not shocked. Every school orchestra copied Glenn Miller or Tommy Dorsey and, with the right head snuggling on your shoulder, that's how they sounded.

For most of the dancing boys, a war was waiting.

Come to think, war is what armories are all about.

I will dance the fanciest box you ever saw on the day they can tear them all down.

I've made a mistake . . . or five

by Jean Sura

I've made a few mistakes in my life.

Mistake Number 1:
I married a golf nut.

I can't accuse him of hiding the fact. He was the only kid in the nursery that wore spiked booties and had a PGA crest embroidered on his bonnet.

His kiddie-kar was the only one on the block that had a striped umbrella and a pocket in front to carry tees.

He didn't call his toy guns 6-shooters. They were sixons, in the third grade he carried notarized affidavits attesting that he had played 72 holes in one day before he was 2 years old (in diapers, so as not to restrict his swing.)

His arithmetic was horrible until he got to the number "Four" and then he could calculate handicaps and figure strokes like an IBM computer.

By seven, his shoulders had developed "pack rat" slouch.

By the time he reached high school he had won a carload of crummy, little trophies. It's no wonder that his mother sang "I'll Be Glad When You're Dead, You Rascal, You" on cleaning days and gave him the bone out of the roast and the heel of the loaf.

Mistake Number 2:
Young love is a beautiful thing, but I believed it when my girl friends said that if I got him hooked I could change his habits.

Mistake Number 3:
I believed the voodoo doctor who said that if I put a picture of a beautiful, delicate little girl on my dresser I was bound to give birth to the same.

Two golfing idiots later, I realized that my friends and the doctor were pot smokers.

Mistake Number 4:
Bored by the process of untangling yarn from my back molars, I decided to desert the homemade sweater-sock set and make it a family foursome.

This brought up the embarrassing question. Who gets Dear Old Mom for a partner?

Mistake Number 5:
I believed in Mother's Day and Be Kind to Dumb Animals Week. My partners have swapped me for half a wilted lettuce sandwich and a bag of night crawlers. I have been swapped for two Friday nights, use of the family car. I have been swapped for steak dinners and dates with the current homecoming queen. Lately, I have been swapped for free baby sitting.

Now you know I'm just kidding. They, all three, are really, very kind. Just last spring when golf season started, I had pneumonia. You should have seen them. They were falling all over each other to light my cigarettes.

Last week the sun was shining. I suppose I'm up for grabs again. The winners will be sorry. I have a feeling! This year may be my year. I've been reading a lot and I think I've figured what the problem was. I wasn't pronating my wrists enough!

It is time to salute the Camp Fire Girl Organization as they celebrate their 59th birthday throughout the country this week. The Pontiac Area Council of Camp Fire Girls serving girls from seven to seventeen in Pontiac, Waterford, Clarkston, Avon, Lake Orion and Oxford have been celebrating with a variety of programs in the different areas.

The organization is broken down into four (4) age groups starting with Blue Birds, Camp Fire, Jr. High Camp Fire, and Horizon Club and has been active throughout the country since 1910 when it was founded by Luther Halsey Gulick in the state of Maine. Local interest developed in 1914 with a Camp Fire Group at the First Methodist Church in Pontiac. Approximately 1,000 girls are now being served by the local council.

In just one year the Clarkston Camp Fire group has grown to 10 units.

Camp Oweki founded in 1952 serves the girls with day camping, group camping, adventure camping, winter camping and this year, family camping.

$800 given retarded

The Tally-Ho Restaurant, Clarkston, joined with other restaurants in Oakland County in donating their profits from the sale of coffee for a day to the Association for Retarded Children.

The Oakland County Association for Retarded Children netted a profit of over $800 which is to be used by the Association in their effort to improve and initiate better programming for the retarded in the county.

"This type of community effort is vital in the preservation of human rights and dignity for all," said Mr. Brent C. Glazier, Executive Director.

Jeff Keyser, senior, and captain of the Wolves' baseball team is ready for action

Interesting People

Fire chief, Don Beach

Thanks to 30 men of the community, people in Independence Township can sleep more soundly. They are the Independence Township Volunteer Fire Department.

Chief of the Volunteers is Don Beach, who has held that post since 1941. 28 men make up the rest of the department.

Each man is equipped with a monitor that notifies him when there is a fire call. Approximately 10 men are available, at all times.

Men who are interested in becoming firemen are carefully screened through a trial and training period.

An opportunity for precise training procedures occurs when a request is made for the department "to burn a house down."

The department has 2 stations and plans for the third are in the final stages of preparation. The new station will be built at Pine Knob and Maybee roads. It is hoped that it will be ready for use in about 6 months.

Firemen are paid on an hourly basis. For a grass or nuisance fire they receive $2.00 for the first hour. For a house fire they receive $3 for the first hour and they get $1 for each additional hour on all calls.

"We have seven trucks to serve an area of about 15,000 people," said Beach. "This keeps us pretty well protected. Our reciprocal agreement with bordering departments adds to this protection," he continued.

"Our biggest problem is the careless or unprepared trash burner. These people cause a high percentage of our calls and, actually, grass fires are the most difficult to fight. A house fire is pretty well confined to one area but grass fires can leap all over the countryside at the whim of the wind."

"Particularly, this year, which is reported to be the driest spring in over 50 years, special precautions should be taken. Small mesh screen should be placed over the top of all trash burners. Fires should not be left unattended. Water should be available. If people would cooperate in these little ways our calls would be cut in half," he concluded.

Chief Beach was born in Detroit. His family came to Clarkston when he was a small boy, in 1921. He is ably assisted in his duties by Deputy Chief Frank Ronk.

On the force are two father-son combinations, Don and Jack Beach and Gene and Pop McGill. There are two sets of brothers, Ed and Dale Bailey and Frank and John Ronk. Other members of the department are: John Adams, Bill Allen, Howard Bliss, Gordon Gray, Harry Fahrner, Rex Fenstermaker, Harold Goyette, Frank Green, Jack Hess, Dave Ingersol, Bob Jones, Terry Kelley, George Keyser, Bob Morse, George Partlo, Mike Thayer, Bob Tilley, Roger Walstead, Bill Wilson, Ken Winship and Lew Wint.

We salute these men. They are not only interesting people, they give of their time and of themselves to benefit the community.

Council sets salaries for coming year

The Clarkston Village budget for 1969-70 was scrutinized by the council Monday night, however, the only action taken was on salaries. Any changes for the coming year had to be made before April, but the balance of the budget gets the okay the first meeting next month.

The only change was a $100 a year increase to the clerk. Art Pappas will be paid $600 a year. The Council said his work had increased considerably with the 2-a-month meetings started this year.

Twice as many meetings also brought double councilmen and president salaries into the budget. The wages per meeting remained the same for the 6 men, $5.00 a meeting, but there are 24 instead of 12.

In effect, this doubled president Frank Russell's salary. He gets $10 a meeting for 24 meetings.

The treasurer's salary remained the same, $400 a year, the building inspector continues at $100 a year and the assessor will receive $300 a year again.

CAP meets in U.P.

Colonel Charles W. Klann CAP, 6682 Pear St., Clarkston, Commander of Michigan Wing Civil Air Patrol, met with members of CAP units in Michigan's Upper Peninsula during a weekend visit to K. I. Sawyer Air Force Base on March 22nd and 23rd. State auction

The State of Michigan Highway Department announced last week that they had accepted bids made at public auction in St. Clair Shores, on properties in Independence Township. H. A. Hemminger, Detroit, was the high bidder for these parcels of excess land. He bid $71,000 for 40 acres north of Interstate 75 and $1,750 for five landlocked acres southeast of Interstate 75 and the Fleming Lake road turnaround.

The Department said the bids must be approved by the State Administrative Board before title to the land can be transferred.

Courtesy Day, part of the required achievements connected with the celebration of Demolay Week (March 16-22) found this considerate act of cleaning up the streets of Clarkston, by three of a seven man clean up crew from the Clarkston Demolay. 50 years on the go

The Clarkston Order of Demolay were celebrating last week. They were celebrating the 50th anniversary of their order. Their theme was "50 years on the go." And so, they did.

Saturday was the day they used the word "filed" for their motto. On this day they entertained their parents at an evening gathering.

Sunday was a day of "reverence," so they all attended church together.

Monday was "contest" day. To fulfill this motto, the boys teamed up with brooms and rags and swept the litter from the sidewalks of the village.

Tuesday, the "day" of "comradeship" found them bowling with their senior order, the Masons.

Wednesday was a day set aside for "fidelity." On this day they visited the graves of deceased brothers, Jerry Luttman and Mr. Shinkard.

Thursday, "cleanliness" was the order of the day. They washed windshields at the Federal Shopping Center.

Friday they concluded their week by placing flags on the graves of war veterans to show their "patriotism."

They are young men on the go.

Eleven compete

District Forensic Contest

Eleven students from Clarkston High School are going to participate in the Michigan High School Forensics Association's District Finals on March 28, at Southfield Lathrup High School.

The revitalized group, which had been inactive for several years, started the year out with a local competition in which 24 students competed.

The winners, who were picked by a speech professor from Wayne University were then designated to represent Clarkston High at the Pioneer Invitational Forensic Competition at Dearborn High School. 36 schools participated.

In the large field of 70, Mark Taylor, Clarkston Junior, won a trophy for 2nd place in the Serious Interpretive Reading class.

Debbie Thatcher, Clarkston sophomore, speaking in a field of 52, placed 4th in the declamation competition.

Clarkston will send a team of 11 speakers to the District Contest on March 28.

Representing Clarkston in the Humorous Interpretive area, which is a 5 to 8½ minute memorized selection by an approved author, will be Bonnie Millen and Debbie Hoopengartner.

The Serious Interpretive assignment, which requires the speaker to memorize three 5 to 8½ minute speeches and deliver one in each round of the competition, will be handled by Mark Taylor and Polly Hanson.

Radio News competitors Mike Mason and Steve Ashley will be required to write and deliver a 5 minute newscast from news of the preceding 24 hours in the field of general news, human interest, sports or editorial comment.

Kurt Lussier, Kathy Heir and Brienne Jenks will supply the Extemporaneous competition. They are required to take a specific topic and research it. On the day of the contest they draw three subtopics.

They then have 1 hour to prepare a 4 to 6 minute speech on the one subtopic of their choice.

The Declamation competition is open to freshmen and sophomores only. The contestant must memorize and interpret a 5 to 8 minute prepared speech. Debbie Thatcher and Caroline Jorgensen will perform in this category.

Winners from this competition will be eligible to compete in the regional finals of the state contest.

The coach-director for the Clarkston group is H. Allen Bartlett, Michigan High School Forensics Association is sponsored by the University of Michigan.

Fluoride clinic set for schools

Again this year the Clarkston Elementary PTA Health Committee will be conducting a fluoride clinic in all Clarkston schools. This annual clinic is under the guidance of the Oakland County Health Department - Dental Division, and will start the end of April.

A licensed Dental Hygienist will be in charge. The program includes cleaning the teeth and four applications of sodium fluoride for a fee of $3.00. The service is offered to kindergarten, second, fifth and eighth grade students only. New groups of teeth have erupted at these grade levels which should be protected against decay.

If you wish your child to receive this treatment, and have not received the notice from the school, call your school office.

All applications must be in to your school by April 1, 1969.

Haeusler speaks at Rotary

A slide film presentation on the use of safety belts will be made to the Clarkston Rotary Club at a dinner meeting Monday, March 31, at 6:30 p.m. in Howe's Bowling Lanes.

The principal speaker will be Roy C. Haeusler, chief engineer, automotive safety, Chrysler Corporation, who resides at 7031 Hillside Dr., Clarkston.

A nationally recognized authority in the field of automotive safety, Haeusler will make the presentation in his capacity as a member of the Safety Belt Committee of the Traffic Improvement Association of Oakland County (TIA). He will show a new slide film produced by TIA as part of its intensive public education program to increase the use of safety belts throughout the county.

TIA's campaign theme, "It's Lock-It-To-Me Time!" is proclaimed on thousands of bumper stickers, brochures and posters now being distributed in the county. Public service newspaper ads and broadcast messages will contribute to the countywide "saturation" program.

TIA will use "before and after" surveys to measure the effectiveness of its education program. A "before" survey showed only 18 percent of the county's drivers and 11 percent of car passengers wearing safety belts.

Haeusler is chairman of the Automotive Safety Committee of the Society of Automotive Engineers, chairman of the Motor Vehicles Safety Standards Committee of the United States of America Standards Institute, and chairman of the National Safety Council's Traffic Conference.

Industrial Fair coming here
