

Clarkston Clean-up Week May 25-29

True to her word, Mrs. Alfred Collins, who lives on Pine Knob road with her husband, small son, and a wide variety of farm animals, kept her promise to call us when their mother donkey, Molly, added her expected new member to the family. The day-old baby is still unnamed.

The week beginning May 25 has been officially proclaimed "Clarkston Clean-up Week" by the Village Council.

Launching the attack on refuse, trash and litter, is the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club.

All organizations and individuals are invited to gather at 7 a.m. on May 25, when the members of the Garden Club will set the standard by raking, cutting, sweeping and picking up litter in the village.

The trash will be picked up by the town maintenance crew and then the Fire Department will hose down the streets and gutters.

Organizations and citizens are urged to tackle projects of their own. The Clarkston News is offering a gilded broom to the group or individual who makes the greatest contribution in the Clean-up Campaign.

Mrs. Walter Cattin is the president of the Garden Club and can be contacted by volunteers who wish to help.

"All we need is good, healthy backs, rakes, brooms and pride in the place we live," said one Garden Club member.

Any group or organization who wish to compete for the gilded broom should contact the Clarkston News so their project can be judged.

Principals named Kresge Foundation aids library

MEL L. VAARA

Mel L. Vaara, who is presently the assistant principal and athletic director at the Clarkston Junior High, has been named to be the principal of the new Sashabaw Junior High School. The school will open in September.

Mr. Vaara graduated from Northern Michigan University with a B.A. degree. He earned his Masters degree from Michigan State University.

Vaara has been with the Clarkston school system for 13 years. During that time he has taught at both the elementary and junior high level. He has served in his present capacity for the past 4 years.

In addition, Mr. Vaara has been active in coaching. He coached the high school varsity track and cross country teams for 6 and J. V. basketball team for 7 seven years.

He is a 5-year member and past president and secretary of the Township Recreation Department.

An active member of the Calvary Lutheran Church, Mr. Vaara lives with his wife, Jo, (a former Clarkston school teacher) on Northview drive. The Vaaras have 4 children, Anne, Liisa, Ingrid and Tasha.

GUS N. BIRTASAS

The newly named Assistant Principal of the Sashabaw Junior High School is Gus N. Birtsas.

Mr. Birtsas began teaching in the Clarkston schools in 1952. The present chairman of the Junior High English department has taught English at the Junior High School and has coached varsity teams in baseball and J.V. football and basketball at the High School.

Prior to coming to Clarkston, Mr. Birtsas taught history and government and coached at schools in Eau Claire, Michigan.

Married to the former Carolyn

Yoder, the Birtsas and their 2 children, Anne and Tim, live at 43 Robertson Court.

Mr. Birtsas was graduated from Kalamazoo College with a B.A. degree and was awarded a Masters degree in Secondary Administration from Michigan State University.

WILLIAM R. POTVIN

William R. Potvin, who has been appointed Assistant Principal of Clarkston Junior High School, has been with the school system since 1963.

Mr. Potvin, who was born and raised

"We are pleased to advise you that the Trustees of the Kresge Foundation have approved a grant of $10,000 towards the construction of a new Independence Township Library."

This statement in a letter from President, William H. Baldwin, gave the Independence Township Library building project an additional boost last week.

If local contributions continue to come in as anticipated, the addition of the generous gift from the Kresge Foundation would make possible the reinstatement of several, if not all, of the deletions from the original plans. These deletions were made necessary by the sharp rise in construction costs due to the builders' strike last summer. These deletions included: black-topping and concrete walks, kitchen unit in work room, plaque, exterior letters, resilient flooring, ceramic floor and base and marble thresholds in toilets, metal coat rack, display case, acoustic ceiling lay-in, and book depository.

At the present rate of construction, and allowing a month for moving, the new library should open some time in September.

The continuation of payments on pledges that were made in the local fund drive should total $60,000. This, in addition to the $33,000 Federal grant, the Kresge gift and other anticipated funds come close to covering the cost of approximately $110,000 for the building.

Furniture and additional books will be loaned by the Wayne County Federated Library System.

Jim's Jottings

The following is an example of the kind of things that keep me awake nights... Now that Pontiac Motors has come out with the "Judge", will tv show "Laugh In", which is sponsored in part by Ford, drop the expression "Here comes da judge"?

Stub Robinson just got around to tell me recently about the time he shot himself in the finger. It was reported to police as all gun shot wounds are supposed to be, and a state trooper showed up while Stub was getting mended.

The officer asked Stub, "What was the first thing you did?" He replied, "I limped!"

Last week I caught my thumb between a V-belt and pulley. It hurt. And, I noticed the first thing I did was limp. Stub's right.

The second thing I did was reflect aloud on the ancestry of that tractor to which the belt and pulley were attached.

While in Florida having my money stolen, we flew to Lantana one day to be guests of Dr. Verne Peterson at Palm Beach National golf course.

Between 9's we stopped for lunch. I noticed the waitress brought "Coffee-Rich", a cream substitute for our coffee. So, I asked, "If you serve a diet-type cream why don't you serve saccharine instead of sugar?"

She said, "Mr. Rich owns this golf course and Coffee Rich is his invention."

That's what I call a good reason for serving it.

During all his campaigning Richard Nixon complained to the press that all the pictures that appeared of him showed a smirk on his face. The photographers or editors came to the conclusion Nixon had a built in smirk.

However, Life magazine consented to have one of their picture takers do nothing but photograph Nixon's face during a 30 minute speech. 400 pictures were taken for him to review.

All had smirks. Nixon's conclusion was that the photographer's camera clicked

I watched him deliver his address on Vietnam Wednesday night, and the smirk is rather obvious and built in. If it isn't the sure smirked at some most serious moments.

Definition of anatomy: something that everyone has, but somehow looks better on girls.

Wear a Poppy

"Wear a Poppy." This is the request of the American Legion and their Auxiliaries. Get one on May 22, 23 or 24.

Each year, members of these organizations make the request. They ask that you wear a poppy in honor of those who gave their lives to protect and secure our freedom.

Wearing the poppy is a fitting tribute to those who died defending the way of life in which all true Americans believe.

Starting originally as a token of tribute to the veterans of World War I the program has been broadened to include the defenders of both World Wars, the Korean and Vietnam conflicts.

The purpose of the Poppy program is to honor the war dead and assist the living victims. Funds from this voluntary donation go toward rehabilitation and child welfare funds.

The Poppies are made by disabled veterans of all wars, working in V.A. hospitals and workshops.

This work provides these veterans with both money earned and occupational therapy.

"All the money collected (which was about $700 last year) is spent in assisting our veterans or their families right here in Independence Township," said Mrs. John Lynch, Poppy Chairman for Campbell-Richmond Post 63 Auxiliary.

"Veterans in need do not have to belong to the Legion or any other organization," continued Mrs. Lynch. "We spent every cent we collected last year and could have used more in this worthy cause."

"Wear a Poppy?"

Beach opens June 7

Deer Lake Beach will open its official season on June 7. The Beach will, for the 2nd year, be operated by the Independence Township Recreation Department.

A family charge of $10.00 will enable property owners and residents of Independence Township, with their guests, to enjoy swimming, boating and scuba-skindiving.

Fishing will be allowed for a fee of $2.00.

The facilities will be open from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. every day until September 14.

For the safety and comfort of all, animals, glass containers and baseball games will not be allowed. It will be necessary that children under 12 be accompanied by an adult. Lifeguards will be provided and the area will have general supervision. Picnic tables will be available.

Permits can be obtained at the Township Clerk's office. Proof of residency will be required.

Dressing up the windows of the Clarkston News office, while saluting Michigan Week at the same time, are students and teachers from the Pine Knob school. While Mrs. McCurdy and Mrs. Moore reach the higher spots, we find Billie Moore (seated from left to right), Chris Kushon and Consie Weekstrom. Giving their outdoor viewing approval were Douglas Stevens, Chris Walker and Terry Evans. Displays were also brought by the Andersonville Elementary.

Drug seminar report

This is part 2 of a series of lectures on the problem of drug abuse that was presented by the Clarkston Area Youth Assistance Committee, in conjunction with the Clarkston Area Jaycees, Jaycettes, Women's Club and Clarkston and Bailey Lake PTA's.

PART 2

Dr. Henry Wormser, Assistant Head, College of Pharmacy, Wayne State University, "Drugs: Their Identification and Effects."

"My concern is that there be an awareness and basic understanding of the depth of drug abuses, and an appreciation for drugs in general." We are all dependent on drugs in some fashion, be they aspirin or coffee or tranquilizers or diet pills.

This means that the drug problem is not limited to teenagers or hippies; it is a matter that affects and concerns us all. Adults abuse drugs too!

Basically, the problem can be attributed to three sources: (1) those persons, who through ignorance or carelessness fail to follow the correct use of prescribed drugs; (2) those persons who refuse to cope with reality in any but a diluted or diffused fashion; and (3) those persons too young or unprotected to know better (especially small children).

"Drugs" is a broad term, and can be generally defined as "any substance that produces profound effects on the body." In this sense, even water is considered a drug.

Those drugs that cause the greatest problems, however, are relatively few in number. Opium was the first "problem" drug and arose in the East. Its derivatives became even more widespread. Morphine, for instance, was carried in large quantities by Confederate soldiers during the Civil War, and became a real source of drug abuse, just as it is in Vietnam today.

In 1914 the federal government tried to control the drug problem through the Harrison Narcotic Act. But efforts such as these have not worked very well.

Today the crime syndicates manage the drug traffic in this country, maintaining better laboratories and better paid staff than most research institutes in the country.

Drug abuse, then, has been a long-standing problem. Basically, our problem is three-fold: (1) many people are ignorant of drugs and their effects; (2) many misinformed people handle the problem in an emotionally-charged way, which only adds to our difficulties; (3) we have come to believe that there is a pill or drug to answer any trauma.

Strictly speaking, there are three key terms in dealing with drug abuse.

Tolerance is "that state which develops in the body when all cells are insensitive to a substance, and increased dosages are required to gain the same effect. Psychological dependence is a habitual state in which the person feels emotionally deprived if the drug is withdrawn. Physical dependence is a bodily reaction that comes when a drug is withheld. An addict is a person in whom all three states are present."

There are a number of drugs that are especially conducive to addiction, opiates and barbiturates being the generally accepted classes. They are of two kinds: (1) Down drugs, which act as depressants or narcotics and cause sleep; and (2) Up drugs, or stimulants, which create a state of controlled tension in the system.

The first group contains such substances as morphine, opium, heroin, nembital, seconal and capsules or "goof balls." The second group contains such innocent things as tea and coffee, and the more serious drugs of amphetamin, cocaine and their derivatives.

The most talked-about drugs these days are the hallucinogens, like LSD and marijuana. They cause disruption of the senses, and lead to "trips," day-dreaming and psychotic episodes. Some persons follow a degenerative pattern while on the drugs: they commit suicide or undergo a psychotic disorder from which they never recover. There is also some evidence that continued use of such drugs increases the danger of chromosome damage, particularly that of a sexual nature, in the second and third generations following.

Marijuana is a more difficult drug to discuss than most, since its effects are apparently only at the time of use and since conclusive evidence of chromosomal damage is still lacking. However, we do know that it is an impure drug, since it is not refined in a lab before being sold. It contains resins which are harmful, especially hashish, the strong form of marijuana usually sold in England and European countries.

Though marijuana is not proven to be physically addicting, it is possible to become psychologically dependent on it, and it can lead to more potent drugs, once a state of tolerance has been reached.

There is no easy answer to the proper use of drugs. The best approach is to say that there is no drug problem as such. There is a social problem, our inability to cope with life as it is. To help cure our dependence on drugs, we must first know the risk involved in taking them and secondly, decide on the merits of drug usage, when we have weighed the side-effects against the benefits. We should not wait to educate people. We should start with the very young children and give them a basic understanding of drugs. They should not be treated as candy, or locked away somewhere, to promote curiosity. Children should be given the facts, and taught to treat health and their bodies with respect.

Next week:
Judge Eugene A. Moore, Probate Court, Juvenile Division, Oakland County: "Drugs and the Law."

Green thumbs will be watching for the annual array of summer color offered by the Clarkston Jaycettes, on Saturday, May 24th. From 9-12 that day, members will be out, once more, working to make their sidewalk sale of geraniums the success it has been in the past. Shown above are Jaycette members, left to right, Mrs. Larry Thompson, Mrs. LaVern Erickson and Wendy Ripley, 3, possibly a future Jaycette.

Netters suffer first loss

By Kirk Phillips

TENNIS
In the West Bloomfield meet the following Clarkston High boys picked up victories in singles: Mark Griffiths, Dave Kelly and Kirk Beattie. In the doubles, O. J. Bullard and Marc Waterbury were winners.
The first loss of the season was to Lapeer as Kirk Beattie and Dick Ruelle were the only players to pick up wins.
Then came the stinging blow at the hands of Clarenceville and Kirk Beattie and Dick Ruelle were the only victors. The Bloomfield match was a pulse gripper as Kirk Beattie and Dick Ruelle were once again the victors.
Dave Kelly had Andover's Steve McGraw on the ropes and then lost a heartbreaker in three sets 6-2. In the league meet Mark Griffiths, Dave Kelly, Scott Robbins, Mark Walters, Marc Waterbury and Kirk Beattie all went to the quarter finals before falling.

This week the Wolves play in the regional "A" tournament at Flint and the chief competition will be coming from Lapeer and Flint Central. If someone from Clarkston can qualify they will then go to Kalamazoo next week for the state finals.

BASEBALL

Clarkston is now 5-5 in league plays. Last week the Wolves were beaten by Bloomfield Hills Andover by a score of 12-5. Tom Lane picked up the team's first home run and sophomore Tom Gates picked up another. The Bloomfield game saw the Wolves without the services of the seniors as they were returning from their senior trip.

In the Clarenceville game, errors plagued the Wolves as they lost by the score, 4-0. Clarkston's lone run came when senior Rich Porritt walked with the bases loaded.
This week the Wolves will face the Northville Mustangs and they have a rough customer in Fred Holdsworth, Jr. The Wolves will have to contend with the big bats from Northville—Bernie Bach, Terry Mills and Stan Nirider.
Then the Wolves will get a chance to even the score with the Kettering Captains and their ace right hander, Dennis Wooster.
Saturday, the Wolves will play their first twin bill in the school's history as the Oxford Wildcats provide the opposition.

VARSITY GOLF

Coach Pierson saw his linkmen lose to the Bloomfield Hills Andover Barrons by a score of 205-200. Jim Navaree carded a 40 for medalist honors.

This Friday is the league meet at Burroughs Country Club in Brighton and the Wolves are the defending Wayne-Oakland League champs—good luck, boys.

VARSITY TRACK

In the recent meet with Waterford Township the Wolves placed second as they finished behind the hosts. Avondale finished third in the meet.

This week Clarkston will face the Kettering Captains and their top half-miler, Kevin Reibe. Next week the league meet will take place at Milford.

TIGERS

I hope that none of the citizens from Clarkston are down on Willie Horton. It's been said a hundred times, remember who helped the Tigers win the pennant last year with 36 home runs and a batting average of .285, Willie Horton.
I hope the fans grow up and give him a lot of respect, which he deserves, in this week's game with the California Angels.

Safe driving

Road-E-O here

The Clarkston Jaycees will sponsor a Safe-Driving Auto Road-E-O which will hold its first round on May 24, at 10 a.m. at the Clarkston High School.
The Auto Road-E-O is the nation's top youth safe driving contest for high school students.
Contestants will compete with other high school students of the community to demonstrate their driving ability and knowledge. Winners will go on to other competitions.

Behind the wheel of a new Mercury automobile, they will have a chance to win prizes by demonstrating how well they can handle a car in traffic, maneuver and park. Part of the test will include a written quiz to check the entrants' driving knowledge.

There is no entry fee, and the local contestants will be counseled by members of the Jaycees organization. These local Jaycees will select the course, judge and conduct the entire event.

Entry blanks must be filled in and returned to the local Jaycee chapter immediately.

TENT INSURANCE—For the past 13 years it has rained the day of Kingsbury School's Old Time Country Fair. The committee isn't relying on the law of averages; they're stretching 4 huge tarpaulins for booth and people protection. Rain or shine, the fair will go on Sunday, May 25 from noon to 5 p.m.

Safety check mower

It's that wonderful time of year again—Spring. The flowers are in bloom. The bird's on the wing. And the grass... well, the grass has grown tall and mangy, and it needs cutting.

But before you start another season of lawn mowing, read these hints for a safer, as well as more beautiful, lawn.

A spring check-up is in order for a power lawn mower that has been lying unused all winter.

Be sure that guards are all in place, that the blade is sharp and firmly attached, the wheels and handle are fastened tightly in place, and all controls are working properly.

Also note whether the mower leaves a stain of gasoline after it has been standing for a while. If it does, check the gas tank and lines to see if a leak has developed during the winter.

The operator might do well to check on himself, too. Is he wearing the proper clothes for using a power lawn mower? Loose, baggy slacks are out; the cuffs might get caught on the machine.

The hazards of golf

The origin of the word "fore" as used by golfers has been lost in antiquity. The use of the word, however, is even more important today than it has ever been. (For non-golfers, it is a word of warning shouted by a player or others if a golf ball is accidentally coming close to another person.)

Golf is essentially not a dangerous game. However, in recent years there has been an increase in accidents, causing in some instances, serious injury. Players run their motorized carts into trees, bombard one another with golf balls, clobber their fellows with clubs and invite electrocution by playing during thunderstorms.

Most golfing injuries are inflicted by the golf ball that drops from out of nowhere. Such injuries are often slight for the ball has traveled far enough to lose its initial speed. But at close range a ball can deliver a fatal knockout blow.

Generally these accidents are caused by a lack of common sense and courtesy. A player gets impatient and tees off before those ahead have played their second shots or are safely out of range. There is also the matter of slices and hooks which sometimes plague even the pros. You should give warning if you see someone in the path of your wild shot, and keep on the alert yourself for flying balls from other fairways.

A surprising number of golfers are clobbered by golf clubs. Make sure that bystanders are not within the arc of your swing, and to protect yourself, don't walk behind a person holding a club.

At the first sign of rain, golfers should take shelter. Lightning strikes most often during the muggy lull preceding rain. Standing in the open, the golfer is often the highest object in the area—making him a perfect target for lightning. The nearest lone tree, the classic lightning target, is a booby trap. Take shelter in a building or crouch in a ditch of sand trap.

Earn "letters"

John Walter, 145 Holcomb, Clarkston, and David Tuttle of Ortonville were among the athletes who received awards at Oakland Community College's Auburn Hills, Highland Lakes and Orchard Ridge Campuses, for 1968-69. The awards were distributed at the third annual OCC All Sports Banquet recently.
Walter received his "letter" for swimming and Tuttle, for cross country.

Wasn't it fun to grow up together?

by Marguerite Slater

Are you as tired as I am of excuses laid to "The Communication and Generation Gap?" Every adult, no matter what the quality of his childhood, can look back at his parents and see how silly they were and how very smart he was—but no one recognized it! Now, poor communication is talked about freely and it gives both sides an excuse to keep on making the same mistakes.

My mother must have been a delightful person all of her 88 years but I only knew her after she was 23.

I discovered at about age 6 that she made horrible mistakes in judgment. She developed greatly as I started to teach her something about child-raising. I am sure the hard knocks she got, through me, eased the pains of my two brothers, when they finally ventured into the family circle. They had less to do with the education of mama!

Having made a statement of fact, I should give logical proof and along with it I ask every adult to hark back to his childhood and pull out a situation or two when the "child was father to the man."

On a warm summer day, when I was about 6, (seems 100 years ago) I suddenly decided I had to ask my mother something very important. Inasmuch as she was next door at Mrs. McMullen's, I walked over—to find them in the living room, enveloped in cigarette smoke; their heads were in a big white cloud.

Such scrambling, such fanning the air with magazines, stuffing things under sofa pillows, you'd never believe!

I wasn't impressed except that I knew papa wouldn't smoke "coffin nails" but only cigars. No one smoked "coffin nails" unless they were "toughs."

The most amazing thing to me was that mama seemed very mad. She grabbed me by the arm and didn't let go until she had me seated in front of her in our own house. That was when she began to show the communication and generation gap, I guess.

She said, "Now I don't want you to tell anybody that you saw Mrs.

Avoid blisters, as they can lead to serious infection. The fluid that forms in a blister is there for a healing purpose. Do not puncture a blister unless absolutely necessary, as this invites infection. It is best to have medical advice before piercing a blister.

McMullen and me, smoking cigarettes because they weren't cigarettes. They were cubes and people smoke them when they have a bad cold." I still didn't quite get the idea because they looked like cigarettes to me.

She got madder than ever when I said I didn't know Mrs. McMullen and she had had colds.

She knew right then I was two jumps ahead of her because she said "No impudence from you, Young Lady, Go to your room."

She knew she'd fumbled the ball and she was angry at herself. But do you know something—for a long while I didn't have the same confidence in her.

Years later we always had fun rehashing goofy things like that out of the past.

She was ashamed, but proud, of the only real spanking she tried to give me. Against her order not to, I had chewed the parafin from off two glasses of black currant jelly.

She turned me upside down over her lap and gave me about 3 good whacks with her bare hand. Then, she let out a yell and grabbed her hand, dumping me off on the floor.

She always had pretty, little, soft hands anyway and there in her palm was a large, purple bursted vein—aching like the devil.

She told me I never held a grudge and that in this calamity I took her by the hand and put it under the cold water faucet.

Disgusting little thing, wasn't it?

But the joke was on both of us as the C and G Gaps were there just as they had been since Early Man. But who cared? No one needed fancy terminology to cover errors in judgment—read early history of man, especially the Bible and it is always the communication gap.

So what's new in your little world?

Lady golfers

start season

Mrs. T. Fraser Carmichael and Mrs. James Haggerty, of Clarkston, were in attendance when the Women's Association of the Indianwood Golf and Country Club started their season of golf on May 15.

Pairings for the day's play were made over coffee and rolls and a innovation, a shot-gun start, met with unanimous approval.

This mode of play enabled all the players to be on the course at one time and then reassemble in the dining room for luncheon and the awarding of the day's prizes.

The Association's annual brunch on May 3, was highlighted by a style show, featuring the latest in golfing fashions. Club Pro, Sal Pomante, held a brief golf clinic for the benefit of the 70 women that attended.

Colleges need war veterans

By Jim Fitzgerald

Chuckles, but not cause it's funny

We've had some comment on our report of the interview with probate judges, Barnard and Adams, along with Children's Village director, Jim VanLuven, and juvenile program director, Jim Hunt.

One person asked, "Do you believe that stuff they told you?" And, another said, "They're always crowded just before they ask for money or more buildings."

Some comments came from a visitor to our office who was assigned to Children's Village by the court. He's been out of there about 2 years.

First he said he got a chuckle out of the Jim's Jottings about the interview. He did allow that some of it was true, but he said the buildings were "closed a lot longer than 4 days at a time, and not just for maintenance."

He added that when attendance in the buildings is low, like in the summer time when as many children as possible are released to their parents, relatives or friends, big kids are put in with small, and bad kids put in with younger, less delinquent types.

He gave a considerably different view on these two points than our hosts 2 weeks ago. This boy also said the judges didn't run the juvenile homes. He didn't think they knew much of what went on at the Children's Village.

He made one other comment, not covered in our article. He said the school provided for the youngsters was set up for "dummies." He thought the feeling of administrators was that all boys and girls who are confined by the courts were slow learners or retarded and they teach accordingly.

He said he did the work with ease (no challenge) and he is also getting good grades in Oxford high school. He'll graduate next month.

"Look at us go! This is the fastest car on the road!"

"Second fastest."

25 YEARS AGO IN THE CLARKSTON NEWS
MAY 19, 1944

On Tuesday night a family dinner was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Perry honoring their son, Charles, who left on Thursday to start his training in the U.S. Navy and also to honor the birthday of Mrs. Terry's daughter, Mrs. Irvin Yoder, of Drayton Plains.

College students from Ann Arbor who spent the last weekend at their homes here were Mazy Wompole and Anne Russell, Mazy celebrated her birthday on Saturday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Wompole.

Mrs. John Davies returned to her home in Detroit on Monday after spending several days in Clarkston with her nephew, Glenn Howland, and Mrs. Howland.

Everett Butters was a guest at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Duane Hursfall this week while he was on a business trip to Michigan.

I know how to end all the foolishness on our college campuses. But first we have to bring the troops home from Vietnam.

As you can see, I am herewith going to solve 2 tremendous problems which have long stumped the best minds in the nation. Isn't it amazing that you paid only 10 or 15 cents for this newspaper? You big spenders should buy two and send one to President Nixon.

First, let's deal with Vietnam. All the U.S. has to do is say, "hurray, we won" and get out. Sure, nobody is going to be fooled. But when we finally do cease fire, in 6 months or 6 years, nobody is going to believe whatever phony reason Washington gives then, either. The marvelous difference is that, using my brand of phoniness, 600 or 6,000 or 60,000 young men will not bleed their last drop into the Vietnam mud.

Sure, I know the dominos are supposed to fall Red as the U.S. retreats. I doubt it but, if so, so what? Do you think the average Vietnam citizen will be worse off without U.S. troops shooting? When you have been hungry and homeless and caught in a stupid crossfire all your life, it is hard to imagine that tomorrow is going to be worse. What could happen, the sun fall on the chicken coop?

Ok, that takes care of the war. Now I get devious. The next step is to discharge our troops directly into our colleges on the GI Bill of Rights. For taxpayers, it will be cheaper than killing Viet Cong. For the ex-soldiers, anything is better than working for General Hershey and an education, even if force-fed, is sure to make them more smart than sick.

As for the colleges, and this is the important part of my plot, the influx of thousands of veterans could be a last-gasp reprieve from the death house.

War veterans simply wouldn't put up with all the nonsense now messing up our campuses. I remember from World War II,

The ex-GIs were there for 3 reasons: to learn, to drink beer and to renew relationships with females. They sneered at such childish things as panty raids and snake dances and water fights. If some punk freshman had barred an ex-infantry sergeant from entering the library because there were not enough black history books inside — the sergeant would have thrown the freshman over the clock tower.

Constant readers (Mother and Aunt Madeline) know I am not against dissent from our youth — or from their parents. I support anyone who protests war, racism, the draft or unsalted popcorn. But the protest must be peaceful in that it does not interfere with the rights of others — to get an education or to get across the street. When the protestors break laws, they should be prepared and willing to pay the penalty, ala Martin Luther King. They shouldn't holler for amnesty while still wiping the blood from their hands. A lot of dumb laws need breaking. But a lot of dummies are breaking any old law just for kicks.

A major point in my plan is that black men are fighting much more than their share of the war in Vietnam. This would mean a lot of black veterans on the campuses. They could plant some convincing combat boots into the fannies of their Negro brothers who don't realize that, just because it is immensely more justified, black racism doesn't make any more sense than white racism. And a bomb in the Literature Bldg is as senseless as a bomb in Saigon.

It is a minority of students who are making battlefields of our campuses. But the majority are sitting around watching. Veterans of bloodier battlefields could spur that majority to laugh or throw the silly kids out of the dean's office and back into class.

Then a guy could get down to peaceful studying, beering and wenching.

A penny saved

by Haslett Hemmor

Other day old Eff and I were doing our weekly grocery shopping at Grogans. It's my job to push the cart and teach up for the high stuff—Eff being so short and all.

Shopping with Eff takes a spell. She's what you might call a "comparative shopper." She doesn't compare brands like some folks. She doesn't figure if 11½ ounces for 57c is a better buy than 19 ounces for 76c.

Eff knows exactly what brand and what size she wants. What she checks is if some cans or packages are stamped a lower price than others. New stock comes in, you know, and price goes up or down. Lots of times they don't cancel out the old prices—just add stock and stamp the new price on the stuff just put on the shelves.

Some shoppers, particularly those in a hurry, give us a real fishy look when we pile cans up in the aisle to check 'em out. Forty, fifty big cans of juice block off cart traffic pretty good. But there's no way, no way at all, to speed old Eff up.

Got to agree with her that 4 for 99c is a lot better than 3 for 79c. When Eff finds a difference, like that, we may wind up with 8 or 9 cans—however, many are stamped with the lower price.

Takes a good hour to do 15 minutes shopping with Eff—longer if she spots any goodies I've sneaked in while she's piling cans or boxes or jars in the aisle.

If we get to checkout without Eff's finding what she calls my "exotics," she says nothing. Grumbles about it afterward, but it's kind of understood that if my mushrooms or cookies get to checkout, they stay. Otherwise she puts 'em back. Even all the way across the store she takes the "exotics" back. Won't let me. Doesn't say a word but back they go.

Oh, she talks alright when we're outside. In the car, she'll jabber all the way home about saving 12c with "comparative shopping" and then I just waste 42c she's saved on that stinky cheese dip junk I've hidden under other stuff.

Last Saturday we were less than 50 feet from the checkout counter when she pulled out the bread to keep it on top. There was my 39c can of imported sardines. Big deal. She grabs it and off she goes to find the shelf to put it back. Thing she doesn't know is the sardines were really a red herring. I just hid the sardines so's she'll find 'em and give me time to sneak in a couple of other goodies.

Must have taken her 10 minutes to return the sardines. Meanwhile I hid my can of olives and jar of marmalade and then pretended to be looking for something in the frozen food cabinet.

So back she huffs, finally, but she's not empty handed. Stacked up in her arms she has 14 of the sardine cans, each stamped 36c. She's really grinning.

Trouble is, I hate sardines. Just thought I'd decoy her with the old sardines. I can't tell her though. I really hate 'em. Eff can't stay in the same room with a sardine can open. Anybody for 14 stinking cans of bargain sardines?

by D. E. Lytel

Detroit area movie goers are a privileged lot. Presently, at least at this writing, the Russian version of Leo Tolstoy's "War and Peace" (a film approaching 7 hours in length) is playing to near capacity crowds.

The screen play is artistically faithful to the original novel as well as an achievement in interpretive photography.

Via 70mm film, the audience follows the loves and struggles of Natasha, Pierre and Andrei in czarist Russia during the Napoleonic invasion of the early 1800's.

That the Soviets did not make obvious propaganda overtones in a film of this nature — perhaps equivalent to America's "Gone with the Wind"—is an achievement for art within an adolescent film industry; or its apparent "faithfulness" is the subtlest type of propaganda.

Personally, I prefer the former view while keeping the latter in mind.

The film cost $100 million, the cast of 120,000 including Soviet actors of all star caliber, the apparent cooperation of the Soviet government, and the availability of Russia's finest cinematographers for this film all blend to create a unique film experience... shot within the confines of picturesque Russia herself.

While Sergei Bondarchuk directed the film, co-authored the screen play and starred as Pierre, a Miss Ludmila Savelyeva, chosen from a 3,000 casted, stars as the evolving teenager on the threshold of womanhood—Natasha.

She is a pleasant marriage of our Audrey Hepburn and Halley Mills. Bondarchuk's work earned him the Lenin prize in Russia and an academy award for the best foreign film, internationally.

The filming of the battle scenes is precision. The gala balls are swirling gowns and smiles and Russian music. Framing, selective focus and a myriad of camera angles (often airborne) all aid the photographic excellence.

In particular a gun duel between the sensitive Pierre and his wife's lover, Dolohov, is transformed into a dance of honorable vengeance by a slow motion camera technique.

The film remains Russian, but credible.

Artistic freedom in America is a part of the scene, but so often the validity of a story is marred by the commercial impetus of the film—it must sell; while in Russia where one would not expect artistic freedom, suddenly we see it. The contrast demands reflection.

Perhaps our 2 political systems will find their bond through the world of film and art. The mistrust and fear that divides us hopefully can be mastered and we as people can begin with more excellence to move toward true peace—not war.

Can an old dog learn a new trick?

By Jean Sura

I've been trying to knock out a column each week now, for several months. It has been a case of an old dog's learning a new trick.

Defeat is an ugly word. I figure that what I lack in talent can be overcome by devious ingenuity and feminine cunning.

My kids normally enjoy an opportunity to be critical but they suddenly developed a case of "silence." Under direct questioning, they muttered something about "it takes time."

Their kindness was the kiss of death!

So, I started scheming.

I heard that a brain functions best early in the morning. I set the alarm clock for a ridiculous hour, before dawn. When it went off, all pandemonium broke loose.

I picked up the phone only to hear the dial tone.

In the process I knocked all the books and magazines off the night stand. When I finally realized what was ringing, and located the clock, I couldn't find the button to stop it. It slipped from my grasp and crashed to the floor.

The silence that followed was broken only by the throbbing of my heart. Stunned, I lay back on the bed. Then it hit me. This is the time of day when the old brain is fertile!

I groped into my robe and with difficulty got my slippers. With heart still pounding, I stumbled downstairs, put on the coffee and opened the drapes.

It was a beautiful morning. There was a stillness on the earth. Even the birds weren't up. I sat down and let the peaceful scene soak into my pores. The reflection of the shoreline in the water was as beautiful as a calendar scene of the lakes in the Canadian Rockies.

In that atmosphere, I was cooked. I could no more have written anything funny or worldly than I could fly. So I just sat there and sipped my coffee and communed with nature. A bulldozer across the lake and my husband's alarm finally brought me back to reality.

That was the end of that experiment.

Next, I tried the tape recorder routine.

Often, I waken to a half conscious state and have great thoughts just before it is time to get up. The trouble is that when I finally do get up I have forgotten them. I figured I might as well capitalize on these great thoughts.

This plan required a tape recorder, placed next to my bed, so I could just flip the switch and, ZAP, record my ideas.

This ingenious plan really backfired. It was successful to the degree that my husband now has documented evidence that I DO snore!

***

My final scheme was the most diabolical. I had read that people put recordings under their pillows and play them through the night. People have learned to speaking foreign languages while they slept. I figured that I could bend the idea a little.

"Okay," I said to myself, "I'll give it a try." The next day I clipped all the copies of Irma Bombeck's column that I could lay my hands on. Then, I dug back in the archives and clipped an assortment of columns that I admired that Jim Fitzgerald from the Lapeer Press had written. I added to this some of my favorite "Jim's Jottings."

I was really on to something now!

That night, I put all of those wonderful columns under my pillow. I hopped in bed and thought, "All right, old sub-conscious, get to work."

The only thing I learned is that the columns of Irma Bombeck, Jim Fitzgerald and Jim Sherman all crackle when you sleep on them.

I'm sleepless and bloody, but unbowed.

I'll think of something.

Last Friday and Saturday, the first two performances of "Oklahoma" were given. The musical will be presented again this Friday, May 23, and Saturday, May 24, at 8:00 p.m. in the Little Theatre. Prices are $1.00 for students and $1.25 for adults before the performance; and $1.25 for students and $1.50 for adults at the door.

Tune in tornadoes on your television set

Those of you who are dreading the thought of another dismal summer of television reruns—take heart. Thanks to Newton Weller of West Des Moines, Iowa, tornado-watching (and not the Ajax kind) may become the biggest TV attraction of the season.

According to the May '69 issue of Successful Farming, Weller, a self-taught electronics expert, has developed a method of detecting approaching tornadoes and electrical storms on home television screens.

Any TV set will work, picking up signals from funnels up to 15-20 miles away. If you have a color set, you can see the lightning in color, but the tornadoes still appear white.

To tune in a tornado, you warm up the set and turn to channel 13. Then you adjust the brightness control until the screen is almost black and switch to channel 2. If a tornado is in the vicinity, the screen will become bright and remain so. If there is a program on the darkened channel, it will become visible.

Although the makeup of a tornado is not definitely known, it has been observed that funnels create a vacuum and also generate electrical signals. Channel 2, at 55 megacycles, is the closest channel to the frequency of the tornado's electrical impulses.

If tornadoes have destroyed power lines in your area, a transistor radio can be used to "hear" the storm. At around 550 kilocycles a nearby funnel will create a continuous, regular static. Lightning will register as an intermittent crackling sound.

The benefit of this new method of tornado detection is that it provides definite warning to those within the immediate area of danger. Tornadoes often form suddenly and strike erratically, making detection and tracking difficult. Early observation of a funnel on your TV could give up to a half-hour's warning.

One last important thing to remember about the Weller system, however, is that you should not spend so much time watching a storm approach that you get swept off your feet by the season's newest program.

Fat parents may predict fat children

If you are overweight, chances are your parents are, too.

Genetic traits determine potentialities for overeating, underexercising, and obesity, contends Anita Dean, foods and nutrition specialist with the Cooperative Extension Service at Michigan State University.

The specialist points out that overweight and obesity often follow a family pattern. Eight to nine percent of children of normal weight parents become obese.

"When one parent is obese, the likelihood becomes forty percent and rises to eighty percent with two obese parents," she says.

In most obese families, the pattern of food intake tends to be excessive. Too often, emphasis is placed on plenty of food," the specialist concludes.

Mother's March set June 3

The appointment of Mrs. Curtis Bishop, 6705 Middle Lake, Clarkston, as Community Chairman for the upcoming Mothers' March Against Time, Tuesday evening, June 3 was announced today by Harold Dempster, Chapter President of the Greater Detroit-Southeastern Michigan Muscular Dystrophy Association.

She is joining more than 250 other key volunteers to mobilize the nearly 30,000 other mothers who are needed for the March Against Time, for the victims of muscular dystrophy.

The funds which are raised in this 1969 Appeal will be used to underwrite a comprehensive research program into the causes and cure of this crippling and usually fatal disease, as well as complete patient services program.

Today more than 350 victims of muscular dystrophy are involved in some phase of this extensive patient services program which the Southeastern Michigan Muscular Dystrophy Association has underwritten.

"For many youths, our fight against time is already too late," Dempster added. "But our efforts this year can make a difference for the boys and girls who can still be helped."

Dempster urged mothers who want to make a difference in a child's life, by participating in this 1969 March Against Time, to call their Community Chairman or Fight Against Time Headquarters, WWoodward 1-5400.

Kutting Korners

by Jean Sura

Spring makes men, and some women, think of fishing. After the fun of catching them is over, comes the time for preparation and eating.

While in Florida this spring, I learned a new and delicious way to bake large fish. We used dolphin but I found it good for Coho, too.

Clean and filet the fish and cut into serving size pieces. Butter a large piece of aluminum foil. Place it on a cookie sheet. Place the fish on the foil.

Put in an oven pre-heated to 375 degrees, for about 15 minutes. Take from oven and turn, then spread each piece of fish with a good grade of mayonnaise. Return to oven for about 8 minutes, with the mayonnaised side up.

Test with fork. If it flakes easily, it is ready. You will be surprised. There is not the least trace of flavor from the mayonnaise.

Miss N. M. writes to tell me that this is a good time of year to get out all my records (for the record player, naturally) and give them a spring bath. She cautions that you should use a soft sponge, lukewarm water and light suds to wash the discs.

Be sure to rinse them thoroughly before laying them to dry. I laid them on paper towels and then put a layer over the top to absorb the excess water. I did it on a good clear day so they dried quickly. I turned them over once or twice for good measure.

Some time ago I received a bulletin on proper leather care from a leather company in Texas. Washing the records made me think of it. They recommend that leather furniture should occasionally be treated to professional refinishing. Homemakers can keep it clean simply by using cheesecloth and washing it with a soapy lather. Rinse off the suds and wipe it with a damp cloth and then a dry, soft, clean cloth.

"Never, but never, is it necessary to oil leather," they say, "I'm sure they don't mean boots."

Call 625-3370 if you have any tips on homemaking. Or send us the directions for one of your favorite recipes. Send them to the Clarkston News.

A SPIRITUAL Message

"And when the day of Pentecost was fully come... they were all filled with the Holy Ghost..."

In the Christian Church Pentecost is the anniversary of the coming of the Holy Spirit. When Jesus ascended he instructed his disciples to remain in Jerusalem until they should receive power from on high. As a group of 120 were praying in an upper room in Jerusalem fifty days after his death, the Holy Spirit descended upon them with the sound of a great wind and with tongues of fire which settled upon each of them. They began to speak with other languages and to preach boldly in the name of Christ, with the result that three thousand persons were converted. This tremendous manifestation of divine power marked the beginning of the church which has ever since regarded Pentecost as its birthday.

Though the Holy Spirit was initially given on the day of Pentecost, men have subsequently been filled with the Spirit when they have tarried in one accord before God. The Holy Spirit is given to reveal Christ, to guide into all truth, to convict the world of sin, righteousness, and judgment, and to administer the mission of the church.

During this Pentecost season, let us honor the third person of the trinity, the Blessed Holy Spirit.

Springfield board votes rezoning over denial

At the regular monthly meeting of the Springfield Township Board a request by Lloyd Miller for rezoning Agricultural district to commercial and light manufacturing in Section 27 was approved.

The Zoning Board had previously denied this application but was overruled by a 3-2 vote of the Township Board. Voting for the rezoning, Samuels, Fields and Trim. Voting to support the Zoning Board's findings, Van Natta and Rundell.

Supervisor Van Natta reported that a cemetery located on Bridge Lake road north of the Davisburg road had been deeded to the township in 1857. Since the area has never been maintained properly, the Board authorized the supervisor to take what action was necessary to improve the conditions there.

Constable Jim Halsey has been issuing warnings concerning junk cars in the area. After a warning has been issued, the Township writes the offenders a letter indicating that legal action will be taken if the warnings are ignored.

Plans for "Operation Cleanup" are continuing. All old papers or magazines that are tied in bundles may be brought to the Township Hall and deposited there. Charles Weaver, 9208

Dixie Highway, Clarkston, 625-1734, will pick up newspapers and magazines anywhere in the Township if he is contacted. Cleanup day is set for May 24.

Click with these camera tips

The last three stages of the average American's vacation countdown are: 1-Checking the tires, 2-Checking the house windows and, 3-Checking the camera.

A camera is synonymous with vacation for most Americans who turn their pictures and movies into vacation-stretchers that let them relive the fun long after they've returned home.

Pictures today are easier to take than ever thanks to the new cartridge load and automatic cameras that make mistakes almost impossible. And the Michigan Tourist Council points out your pictures can be better than ever too by following just a few simple rules:

- 1-Hold the camera steady and release the shutter with a gentle squeeze. If you have a movie camera, let your subjects do the moving; panning should be slow and smooth.
- 2-Put people in the foreground of pictures to add perspective but don't have them looking directly into the camera.
- 3-Use the camera's viewfinder so that you shoot only what is desired.
- 4-Remember to change focus when switching from nearby to distant subjects; some cameras do this automatically.
- 5-Use a simple exposure guide for general picture taking. These can be obtained at most camera shops.
- 6-Make your pictures tell a story and keep them informal. Alternate between near and distant scenes.
- 7-Watch for dramatic lighting. Don't take all pictures with the sun at your back. Excellent pictures often can be made in early morning or late afternoon when sunlight is dramatically slanted.
- 8-Keep your camera cool, clean and dry. Don't store it in the glove compartment or at the rear shelf of your car; heat ruins film.
- 9-Color film is increasingly popular but be sure you're using daylight film during the day. If it's photo-flood film, use a correction filter or your pictures will be blue and so will you.
- 10-Don't forget to remove the lens cap.

Ban The (DDT) Bomb!

Too often, the use of persistent insecticides has produced damaging side effects for wildlife and potential risks for people. That threat dramatically reared its ugly head about a year ago when DDT was linked with the die-off of about 800,000 young coho salmon in Michigan fish hatcheries. During recent weeks, it sent out even more electrifying shock waves when about 34,000 pounds of frozen coho from Lake Michigan were taken off the market because they contained too much DDT. Such damning evidence against the polluting powers of DDT should be foremost in the minds of property owners this spring when they think about using bug sprays, weed killers, and other chemical poisons to get rid of pests. The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is not against the use of all pesticides. "It is dead set against the few "hard" ones, the persistent chlorinated hydrocarbons, which contaminate the environment far and wide over a long period of time. Among these is DDT, Dieldrin, Aldrin, Endrin, Chlordane, Lindane, Heptachlor, BHC, and Toxaphene. They come in sprays, dusts, and mixed with fertilizers and the consumer has to read the fine print to make sure he's not buying products containing these insidious pollutants. Happily, the Michigan Department of Agriculture has initiated action toward banning the sale of DDT in this state. Property owners who still have DDT and these other long-lasting poisons on hand are urged not to use them. And with the pesticides they do use, they should read and heed the labels on their containers and follow directions to the "T."

Take plenty of pictures and include everything that interests you. Then, when you return home, be selective—keep only those pictures that capture the fun and flavor of your vacation.

Michigan is a photographer's paradise with waterfalls, mighty bridges, towering sand dunes, outstanding zoos, copper mines, automobile assembly lines, great lake freighters to please the eye and be caught in your camera.

The booklet, "How to Photograph Michigan," is available without charge by writing to the Michigan Tourist Council, Stevens T. Mason Building, Lansing, Michigan 48926.

Have a family conference to plan fire escape route

Hundreds of lives are lost every year because members of families have no way of escaping from their burning homes. These tragedies, in nearly all cases, could have been prevented if there had been rehearsals on how everyone was to get out of the house in case of a fire-at-night emergency.

Reports indicate that these persons, mostly women and children, lose their lives because they become victims of bewilderment, fear and panic.

It is recommended that a family "conference" be called to discuss a planned escape route for each one in the event of a fire at night.

Simple precautions such as closing bedroom doors when retiring should be reviewed. Open doors promote the rapid spread of flame, the depletion of oxygen and greatly reduce all chance of escape.

The 10 to 15 minute barrier provided by a closed door may be all that is needed for someone to awaken, alert others and effect escape.

Living quarters should be planned so that each occupied room has more than one readily usable exit. Lacking a second door, a window can be used providing there is a rope ladder or strong knotted rope handy.
