News goes compact

Governor William Milliken and the compact "News." See Jim's Jottings.

Jim's Jottings

We searched our mind for some time for a special way of bringing Clarkston News reader's attention to the change from standard to compact size. Rather early in our thinking we thought of asking Governor Milliken to pose with an issue.

We dismissed the idea, but it kept recurring. A phone call to his press secretary brought us in touch with Dale Arnold. He thought the Gov. would be willing.

The next step for us was to prepare a copy for a single issue. We had to write the story of our switch and reasoning behind it, so we did it early instead of putting it off until the last deadline like we usually do.

A large picture finished the front. Three more were added to give us a press run. It adds up to some expense, but heck! It's only money, and besides my mind was made up.

We sent the dummy paper to Lansing, Arnold arranged for a photographer, Ed Frye, to take the picture at the governor's convenience, and here it is.

We are most appreciative of Mr.

By Jim Sherman

For the past 6 weeks we have been leading up to this change with mystery ads. We didn't expect anyone to attempt holding his breath, nor did we expect an earth tremor at the announcement.

We simply wanted to attract extra attention to this issue.

This is the second major change to the Clarkston News in just over 3 years. The first came June 13, 1966 with the introduction of offset printing. This gave the News sharper quality pictures and economically allowed the printing of more pictures.

Now comes the compact News. Or, putting the pictures and smaller size together we have the "compact-pictorial News."

As most of you know, we also own the Oxford Leader and the Ad-Vertiser, both circulated in Oxford, Addison, and Orion townships, primarily. Both are also compact in size.

Some Clarkston area residents wondered when we would switch the News to compact after we purchased this paper in 1966. These people were in favor of the smaller size and urged the change.

However, making major changes in a hometown newspaper is not done without considerable thought and discussion. From printing the Oxford Leader compact for 5 years we knew the advantages offset the disadvantages.

We learned there was much more convenience to the reader in having a smaller page size to contend with. And, that is the secret word in the business... "convenience." Make the paper for the reader... in content, make-up, and size and it will be "convenient" for the reader.

Before making the switch in Oxford we met Lloyd Hollister, treasurer of Rotary International, and owner of 6 of the most successful weekly papers in the U.S., in the northern suburbs of Chicago.

We asked him if he felt we should switch to compact size. Without hesitation, and with emphasis, he said, "It is the only size a newspaper should be."

We feel very much the same way.

Through the addition of another unit to our web offset press we are now also able to add another color to the News. The printing of color is not a major thing for people of Oakland county. It's available at the Capital Cities' papers, Pontiac Press, Lakeland Tribune and Inter-Lake News, plus the Detroit News and Free Press.

But it is new to the Clarkston News. It represents a major investment for this hometown newspaper.

***

We hope you readers are as enthusiastic over the change to compact size for the News as we are. For those who are a little uncertain, please read it for a while, and see if you don't learn to like the new size.

We would enjoy hearing from you, whether in favor or against:

Milliken's cooperation. It was a kind gesture on his part. We couldn't get him to say he prefers the compact size papers, but at least he doesn't dislike them.

I do have one afterthought about this picture, and that's the purpose of this column. News readers may feel cheated or that they missed something. The paper Mr. Milliken holds is a dummy... false. I don't want this impression to last.

The Governor's understanding and cooperation helped us to bring the attention we wanted to this size change. The readers have missed nothing. In fact, they will benefit from the change.

The News, like the Leader in Oxford, is now an easier paper to handle, will be brightened at times with color that is now available through our purchase of another printing unit, and will give smaller advertisers the advantage of having their ads dominate more of a page.

Too, the paper will still fit the bottom of most bird cages; however, you may find it less convenient for wrapping big fish.

The News is unable to print all the pictures of the Labor Day Parade in this week's paper. Watch for them in future issues.

Making every lick count was Dryfus, the ice cream loving collie belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Prucher.

Teachers start year without contract

The Clarkston Education Association met on August 28 and voted 120 to 30 to report for work as scheduled while negotiators continue to work at coming to agreement on contract terms for the 1969-70 school year.

Thomas Brown, president of the CEA said in a prepared statement, "The action to return to work was taken by our members reluctantly. But we have a responsibility to our students and the community. We hope our willingness to return to school without a contract will demonstrate our good faith to the Board."

Fact-finding hearings have been requested in an attempt to resolve the impasse in the negotiations. No date has as yet been scheduled for the start of testimony and the presentation of evidence.

Parents-to-be class offered

The first in a series of eight classes for Expectant Parents, offered by the Oakland County Health Department, will begin Monday evening September 15, 1969.

The free classes held weekly from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., will be offered at the Oakland County Health Center, 1200 North Telegraph Road, Pontiac, Michigan. Registration may be accomplished by calling the Health Department in Pontiac, 332-9255, ask for Education Office.

The classes are taught by Public Health Nurses and are co-sponsored by the Oakland County Medical Society and various adult education departments throughout the county.

Attempt Solley Burglary

A window was broken in an attempt to gain entrance to Solley's Appliance Store on M-15, on August 27.

"Apparently they were frightened away by the ringing of the burglar alarm and the barking of the dogs who guard the store," said Mr. Solley. "They did reach in the window and take a small stereo that was close by."

Solley reported that there was considerable damage in the store from broken glass.

The store has been robbed 5 times in the 7 years they have been in business at this location.

"Our insurance adjuster estimates that burglary claims are up 3 times higher than in 1968," said Solley.

No arrests have been made in connection with the break-in.

Slips can be costly

More than 19,000 persons will slip and die in falls this year.

Approximately 60 percent of these fatal tumbles will happen in the home. This can spell money worries for the homeowner or the renter even if the person falling is a non-resident of the home or rented property.

Of the 28,500 accidental deaths recorded in urban dwellings and farm homes in 1967 by the National Safety Council, 11,700 resulted from falls.

Home accidents caused another 4.3 million persons to be disabled. And the National Health Survey estimates there were an additional 17 million persons who suffered less serious injuries.

Home accidents will cost more than $1.5 billion this year alone in lost wages, medical expenses and insurance administrative costs.

I don't look it, do I?

By Jim Fitzgerald

I had barely reached my new station in life when someone whacked me over the ego with it.

There was this young doll in our office, see? She was here to sell the advertising manager on holding a cooking school. He took one look and reached for his apron. I took one look and quickly requested an introduction so I might find out why my pineapple upside down cake is falling right side up.

"Ah yes," the ad manager said to the doll. "I'd like you to meet our editor, Jim Fitzgerald." And, hardly breaking syllables, he turned to me and asked, "How's the new granddaughter, Jim?"

Oh, that dirty bum. That dirty, rotten, no-good bum.

I mumbled that the granddaughter was fine, thanks, all the time sucking in my gut and tightening my chins, waiting expectantly for the doll to say my goodness, you don't look old enough to be a grandfather.

This was a week ago and she hasn't said it yet. I guess I'll exhale.

Everyone asks me how it feels to be a grandfather. I always make some lame crack about it being ok, except I feel a little strange sleeping with a grandmother. This is a real kneeslapper and folks think ho-ho, the big clown doesn't know any better, he's happy about being branded an old man overnight. Not so.

It was just the other day I was worrying about getting called back into the army. I'd read the war news and then check the bus schedules to Canada. But they don't draft grandfathers, do they? I might better worry about beating my wife to the mailman on the day the Social Security check arrives.

Seriously, folks, I am finding it a traumatic experience to become a grandfather while I am barely over 40, with 2 kids still in grade school and a swinging mother who tells people I am her little brother. What's bugging me, I guess, is that I remember my paternal grandparents.

Grandpa was old, with pure white hair and a bushy moustache and a 1928 Dodge you had to crank. Grandma was also old and she always had flour on her face. She used to feed me sugared orange slices which were a lot better than the horehound candy. Grandpa slipped me. Grandma made great pancakes and stewed rhubarb and she'd let me listen to funny records by the 2 Black Crows on the phonograph that had to be cranked more than the Dodge.

My grandparents, who died before I was 10, were the kind Norman Rockwell used to put on Saturday Evening Post covers, usually coming out of church.

Kindly but crochety, feeble but determined, please pass the buttermilk. As played by Walter Brennan and Jonathan Winters in drag.

All these years, whenever anyone said Grandpa and Grandma, I envisioned The Old Couple, in bed by 9 and up at 5 with the snow shoveled off the walks before breakfast. The good, straight people.

But now I'm a grandpa and I'm worried about some doll thinking I look it. It's no wonder I'm uncomfortable. I feel like Dean Martin being inducted into the WCTU.

Grandpas should be dignified and wise and well behaved, with all the old fashioned virtues.

OK, I'll start practicing. It may be a while yet before I quit looking at the dolls.

But the next 1928 Dodge I see, I'll crank it. †

Feather Frechette packs a wallop for a pretty, 5 foot 3 inch hundred pounder. Her wallops have been measured and they average about 210 to 225 yards and enable her to shoot a round of golf with a score very close to par. Her handicap is 5, which would be envied by most men golfers.

Feather, who is 22, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Frechette who own and operate the Clarkston Golf Course. This circumstance has provided her with the opportunity to play golf but hard work and hours of practice have been expended to hone her game to the degree of sharpness it has reached.

At 7 she started to play in the junior golf program which the club sponsored. At 13, Mrs. Frank Lovell of Birmingham, volunteered to sponsor her as a guest in the District Junior Golf Association. While she could not compete for awards or prizes, this experience gave her an opportunity to play with other youngsters of similar ability.

It was Mrs. Lovell, who is well known in Michigan Golf circles, who drove Feather to her first real golf tournament in Buffalo.

Mike Dietz had given Feather golf lessons while he was the professional at Indianwood Golf and Country Club but he was at a club in Florida when she hit a slump at 14. Combining business with pleasure, the Frechettes took their daughter to Florida and she spent 2 weeks working with Mr. Dietz.

"I'll never forget those 2 weeks," she said laughingly, "Mr. Dietz had me out on the practice range all day long. I wasn't allowed to play on the course at all. Each day we would work with one club. We started right after breakfast and I took a break for lunch and then went

The saying "Drive for show and putt for dough" is probably true so Miss Frechette spends time practicing on the greens.

right back until late afternoon. Finally, after about a week and a half of this routine he asked me if I would like to play a few holes. Believe me, I was delighted. My game was never better."

Feather attended Clarkston Schools for about 3 years as a tuition student. Irregular school district boundaries put her in another school district. Eventually she graduated from the Kingsbury School in Metamora and went to a girls' high school in West Palm Beach, Florida. Her father's illness brought her back north for her senior year. She got her diploma from Bloomfield Country Day.

In June, Feather graduated from Northwood Institute with a degree in Business Administration and a certificate in Retailing.

She hopes to put her knowledge to work along with getting experience by working with her parents at their club.

In answer to the question, What about professional golf? she answered, "There was a time when I hoped to turn professional but that is an exhausting and exacting job and I believe that I would rather, at least for the present, put my schooling to use right here."

Feather's poise and manner indicate that she has been well schooled in many things beside golf. She is a most attractive young woman of great charm. She is a heck of a good golfer! She is an interesting person.

Federal rap

by Haslett Hemmor

I'll call this friend of mine "Fred" so the I.R.S. boys won't decide to put a big red tag on his file and really clobber him next year.

Appears as if they don't like Fred's return (seems right dishonest to call him "Fred"). Anyway, they don't like the idea that Fred claims $260 for church contributions. Fact is, they don't much like any part of old Fred's return.

Been retired six years, Fred has. Used to work for—better not say what kind of job he had—but anyways, they had a retirement plan that gives Fred $225 a month. So's he can even live without eating up his little savings, Fred works at odd jobs.

Fred figures that with his small income, it's no great shakes to make out his own return. Sister did it until she moved. Fred guesses he can make out his own tax form as well as the next one. Widower, Fred is, and has lots of time on his hands, anyway.

Real careful like, he keeps a little pocket notebook on $3.00 for fixing the Wilson fence and $2.25 for putting up Daniel's screens and $5 for helping at the auction. Spends a dime for candy and he writes her down.

So anyway, meek little old Fred gets this notice just last week that this and that is being questioned and bring in the proof. "Appear," the letter says, "on the 29th at 9:15 a.m."

Now Fred HAD planned to go visit his sister in Chicago. She has a week of vacation at that time. But here's an order to drop everything and come a running.

Fact is, Fred calls to try to get the date changed, and they tell him real mean-like that he better have proof of giving his church $260, and that there are several other real bad things. Maybe he never got around to actual asking for a new date.

Come 9:15 on the 29th, Fred's there waiting like for his own execution. More he sits, the guiltier he feels. He tells the girl a couple of times that Mr. Ewart wrote him and that he did say 9:15. Fred's scared that somehow Ewart doesn't know he's there, and he'll be mad. She just chaws on her gum and says, yes, yes, she knows—but Mr. Ewart is real busy right now. "Working on a big tax fraud case," she says real confidential like. "I'd hate to be in that guy's shoes." She nods toward the closed door back of her. Now old Fred is maybe the meekest and most honest fellow around. He just stares at that closed door and feels more than ever like a bank robber.

At just 11:25 Fred is looking at his big old pocket-watch for maybe the hundredth time when through that door walks lawyer J. Wellington Smurthwaite. (Guess I dare call him by name because—being an attorney and all—he can defend himself pretty good.)

Now Mr. Smurthwaite was the administrator for Fred's brother's estate and later he drew up a will for Fred and did some work for him on a title or something.

"Hello there, Fred," says Mr. Smurthwaite, "these bloodhounds on your trail, too?" This here examiner, Mr. Ewart, is standing in the office doorway now. He turns kind of purple when Smurthwaite booms out the crack about bloodhounds.

"Sometimes," says Smurthwaite, like he was talking to a cozy little group of 5,000 people, "sometimes these baying hounds find that they're barking up the wrong tree. Right, Ewart? Now, Mr. Ewart, sir, what did you want to see my client about?" He smiles at old Fred.

Plain as the nose on your face, Ewart has just been horse-whipped in his tangle with Smurthwaite. He says please come in.

The way Fred tells me, Smurthwaite takes over and after about thirty minutes plus some digging for the church receipt and things out of Fred's grocery bag full of papers, it's over and they're on their way. Seems Fred is due a $37 refund.

"Please, Mr. Smurthwaite," Fred asks him when they're out of the building, "How much do I owe you?"

"This one is on me," says Smurthwaite. "When I saw you there all white and practically trembling, I figured that Ewart was maybe going to get back at you for the lacing I gave him. Didn't have the heart to toss you to the wounded lion."

Police endorse helmet statute

Oakland County police chiefs indicate they will strictly enforce Michigan's new motorcycle helmet law, but they will not be more strict with cyclists than any other traffic offenders.

The law, which became effective September 1, requires motorcycle operators and passengers to wear a helmet approved by State Police.

The chiefs told the Traffic Improvement Association of Oakland County they are convinced the enactment will reduce serious injuries and fatalities. They cited the state's favorable experience with such a law two years ago. After the legislation was enacted in 1967, motorcyclist deaths went down to 86, a 20 percent drop from the previous year's 104.

In 1968 the Michigan Supreme Court ruled the law unconstitutional, and the motorcyclist death toll rose to 114, a jump of about 33 percent over the previous year.

With passage of the new helmet law, Michigan joins 37 states which have similar enactments. They have been upheld in a U.S. Supreme Court decision.

MRS. LARRY PAWLEY

Uncle performs ceremony

The Reverend Edwin DuBois united Teresa Walters and his nephew, Larry Pawley in matrimony at the Waterford Community Church on August 29.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Walters chose for her evening wedding, a floor length gown of peau satin. It featured a chapel train and hoop skirt. A crown of alencon lace, seed pearls and crystal secured her bouffant veil of silk illusion.

She carried a satin covered Bible which the groom's grandfather had gotten from the Holy Land. It was trimmed with white carnations and roses.

The bridal attendants were dressed in gowns of dotted swiss in pastels of pink, blue, green, yellow and lavender.

Sandra Hawthorne was her sister's matron-of-honor. Jane Powell, another sister of the bride, Charlene Bracey of Charlotte, and the groom's sister, Gail Pawley were the maids. The flower girls were Linneya and Rochelle Hook, nieces of the bride.

Joseph Borman of Grand Rapids was the best man and William Powell, Roger Riley and William Zeeb were the groomsmen. Jerry Hawthorne and Gregg

Gephart seated the guests and Jimmy Freeman acted as ring bearer.

After a buffet reception the bridal couple left on a trip to northern Michigan. Upon their return they will be living in Grand Rapids where they will attend the Grand Rapids School of Bible and Music.

Kutting Korners

by Jean Sura

What is the best way to cook corn? The gals at the luncheon I attended suggested these methods:

Bring enough water to cover 8 ears of corn to a boil.

Add 1 T. sugar

2 T. cream

Put in the corn and boil 6 minutes (time it).

Fit for a king, says Eleanor K. She says that salt in the water makes the corn tough.

I bring salted water to a boil. Add corn and cover. Bring water back to a boil. Serve.

If the corn is young enough the salt doesn't hurt it in my opinion.

Tip of the week. Do you have a problem of starch sticking on your iron?

Take a wet cloth, dip it in baking soda and wipe it over the starchy area.

***

How about a simple celery casserole for a convenient vegetable? Try this one. It can be prepared ahead of time and refrigerated. Be sure you don't crack your casserole if it is cold.

Celery Casserole

4 c. chopped celery (cook until tender)

1 can celery soup

½ c. chopped pecans

Place in buttered casserole. Add melted oleo to crushed Ritz crackers. Bake at 350 for 45 minutes, can be prepared the day before. All it needs is warming through. So qualify the time accordingly.

Fanning the appetite

Apple Filling

Deposit 3 cups sliced fresh apples in greased 8½ or 9" round baking dish. Combine ¼ t. almond extract, 1 cup of brown sugar, ½ t. cinnamon, and 2½ pinches of nutmeg. Sprinkle over apple slices.

Bake at 400 degrees for 30 minutes.

Stiltskin

Sift 1½ cups sifted flour, 1 T. white sugar, 3 t. baking powder, ½ t. salt. Cut in 1/3 cup shortening.

Beat 1 egg and combine with ½ cup milk. Add liquid all at once to flour mix. Stir until flour is moistened.

Remove apples from oven. Spoon dough over hot apple slices, spreading it slightly with back of spoon. Sprinkle with 2 T. sugar.

Bake in 400 degree oven for 30 minutes or until golden brown. Serve warm. Makes six servings.

Birtsas family visit Greece

By Rustie Leaf

The dream of a lifetime came true on August 2 when the Gus Birtsas family on Robertson Court left from Detroit Metro Airport for Athens, Greece.

Mr. and Mrs. Birtsas, 11 year old daughter Annie and 9 year old Timmy made the flight which terminated in reunion with Mr. Birtsas' family.

In the 3½ week trip the Birtsas' saw much of the country.

Happy to be returning home the family was delighted by the reception the neighborhood children had planned for them. Signs of welcome were posted among the decorations that draped the porch and garage of their home.

***

The marriage of Cindy Harlyvetch, to Guy Wilson, brought former Clarkston residents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Pasternak, back for a brief visit. The Paternaks, who lived on Warbler Street, returned with their children from their present home in Boston. Arriving with the couple and their two daughters, Tena and Tricia, was their four week old son, Jerry.

***

It was four days away from the sounds of TV and ringing phones for Mrs. John Adams and her sons, Tim, Gerry, Barry and Paul as they shared camping quarters with Mrs. Chester Adams and her daughter Janise, at Paradise Beach. It wasn't far but it was effective, as the gals shared their outdoor venture. While on the campout, Paul celebrated his eighth birthday. The birthday was celebrated again the following Monday with relatives at home.

***

If you happen to catch a marlin in your favorite local pond, don't be surprised. If word about the threat from Clarkston reaches the marlins near Baltimore in time, they may all make a swim for it. One of the entrants in this weeks Marlin Tournament in Maryland is Norm Daniels of North Holcomb Street. Norm, and three of his fisherman friends, are casting their sights on a big one in the deep sea fishing competition.

The family hopes he will bring one home that's big enough to mount, preferably from wall to wall.

Three brothers, out of town grandparents, and other relatives helped Danny Campbell celebrate his twelfth birthday, on August 29th. Topping the traditional cake was home made ice cream, a traditional treat for the Campbells of Northview Drive.

Although Mrs. Ken Becker hasn't taken up the sport herself, she did sound enthusiastic over her husband's interest in Hill Climbing. The Hill Climb meets are held among motorcycle club members, with competition in different levels. The Beckers recently returned from Port Huron where their neighbors on Buttercup Lane, Mr. and Mrs. David Hawkins, won second and fifth honors, respectively, in individual Hill Climb challenges.

***

Neighbors in the Walters Road and Flemmings Lake Road area took advantage of the summertime weather to gather and meet at the home of Mrs. Gerald Hess, for a morning coffee visit. Newcomers, greeted by Mrs. Hess and her neighbors, on August 29th, included Mrs. James Koslosky, Mrs. Jerry Strahley, Mrs. Atkinson and Mrs. Long.

Gazing hopefully into the window at Clarkston Sporting Goods are Doyle, Ralph, Annie and Greg Moore. A quirk of fate might win for them one of the bicycles or other prizes that are being given by the Village merchants at the close of Village Days.

Accuracy paid off in pop at the Carnival at Clarkston Village Days.

What is so hot about a merry-go-round? You just go up—and down—and around.

Wolves practicing hard for Rakow

Coach Paul Rakow directs the Wolf squad through fall workout.

It's a new season for the Clarkston's gridiron Wolves, but more than just the season is new. There's a new head coach, Paul Rakow, and he brought a new formation with him.

One thing, not necessarily good, is there aren't many from last year's squad around to teach new habits. There are only 12 returning lettermen, and just five of these, all linemen, were starters last year.

Rakow is quite pleased with what he has seen so far. He said they have fair size and average speed, but are showing the enthusiasm he likes. Physically, he says, they are in good shape and there have been no injuries in practice.

He's bringing the multiple I formation to Clarkston. Last year coach Ralph Kenyon ran the squad from the wing T. Rakow likes the multiple I because the opposition has to do considerable more preparing.

While the coach was somewhat satisfied with the condition of his players, he also noted they had a lot of work to do. Conditioning is part of it, but timing, learning plays, and finding the potential of each player will take most of the time before that opening game against Oxford Sept. 12. That game is in Oxford at 8 p.m. It will be played on their new field, behind the high school on Pontiac street.

The first home game is against Bloomfield Hills Andover Sept. 19, at 8 p.m. The first junior varsity game is at home against Oxford at 2 p.m. Sept. 20.

Rakow complimented his assistants for their efforts the first week of practice. He said, "I don't know who is working harder, the coaches or the boys."

Working with Rakow on the varsity is Gary Domanski and Bill Mackson. The junior varsity coaches are B. J. Hansen and Paul Tungate.

There will be a "meet your team" night Wednesday, Sept. 10 at 7:30 on the football field.

Jr. Varsity quarterbacks Matt Gilford, and Lyle Johnson practice hand-off timing. Their first game will be played September 20 at 2 p.m. at home against Oxford.

Adult Ed Program announced

Once again the Waterford Township School District announces its plans for their fall adult education program.

Under the Adult Basic Education Act of 1966, Waterford Township Schools will be able to offer free basic education classes to adults.

Classes in reading, mathematics, English for the foreign born, lip reading for the hard of hearing and citizenship will be offered.

Classes will be limited in size and it will be possible to give individual assistance to each student.

The purpose of the program is to help adults improve their basic reading, writing, spelling and mathematics.

Also included in the program for this year will be extension classes from Oakland Community College, Bishop Sewing Classes, Adult high school day and evening credit courses.

Registration for fall term will be held in the library at Waterford Kettering High School, 2800 Bender Street, Drayton Plains from 7 to 9 p.m. on September 8 through 11.

Registration for the Adult basic Education classes will be held on the same dates at Waterford Mott High School, on the corner of Scott Lake Road and Pontiac Lake Road.

Mrs. David Slenkard and daughter, Cindy, try their skill at the Jaycee sponsored game called "add-em-up."

Classes will begin on September 22, and end on January 19.

This program is open to all residents of the Waterford School District and surrounding area.

Vets home loans available 10-20 yrs

The Veterans Administration reminded returning veterans today they are eligible for home loans for 12 to 20 years after they get out of service.

Robert M. FitzGerald, Manager of the Detroit VA Regional Office, explained that eligible veterans who served after January 31, 1955, will have a maximum of 20 years from the date of their discharge or until March 3, 1976, whichever is later, to take advantage of their G.I. home loan benefit.

To determine the expiration date of his own eligibility, each veteran who served after January 31, 1955, can assume that he has 10 years after his discharge from active duty plus one year for each three months of military service, Mr. FitzGerald explained.

Thus, he said, a Vietnam era veteran with two years service, for example, would have 18 years after discharge to use his G.I. Bill Loan guaranty entitlement.

Nationally, 254,383 applications for VA loan guarantees were received for the 12-month period ending June 30, Mr. FitzGerald said, adding that 6,191 applications were received at the VA Regional Office in Detroit.

Mr. FitzGerald pointed out that the 1969 total of 254,383 only slightly exceeded the 253,755 national total for 1968 when 5,301 loan applications were received at the VA Regional Office in Detroit.

These national totals for 1968 and 1969 were the highest since 1957.

The growing volume of applications in 1969 is attributed primarily to the increasing number of young Vietnam era veterans, Mr. FitzGerald said. He noted the G.I. interest maximum was upped to 7½ percent in January 1969 to increase the availability of credit for veterans desirous of owning their own homes.

Mr. FitzGerald said that "while activity last year was good, it could have been much better if more mortgage funds had been available for G. I. loans."

He added that a continued shortage of mortgage funds could hamper G. I. loan activity next year.

'Way-out' foods now available

A meal in a tablet . . . that far-out notion that has fascinated writers and cartoonists for years . . . is probably closer to reality than most people recognize. But while food technology has nearly reached the goal of a complete, filling meal compressed into tablets the size of common cold capsules, you'll probably never see them on your plate. This is because eating satisfies too many social and psychological needs . . . and it's just too enjoyable to give up.

The research that went into the development of space feeding programs is beginning to benefit the general public as well as the astronauts themselves, however. Chances are we'll never see most space foods as such in grocery stores, for these have been developed to meet specific space-flight requirements for nourishment and compactness. They would not have much appeal for most people under ordinary circumstances. Still, the lessons learned in this kind of research are being applied to create many new food products with consumer appeal.

For example, the technique of freeze-drying in which 80% of the water and thus an equal percentage of the weight of the food is removed has benefited consumers both in and out of this world. Freeze-dried coffee, sandwich fillings, seasonings, such as chives and mushrooms are the first in what is expected to be a long line of products that are light weight, easy to carry, easy to store and equal in flavor to the original quality as soon as the missing water is restored.

The colorless, odorless, tasteless materials used to coat bit-size portions of space foods to avoid crumbling are now being applied to consumer products as well. Bits of candied fruits and nuts are coated to prevent interaction with oxygen and thus prolong shelf life of the cake and muffin mixes in which they're placed. Experiments are underway to determine if such coatings would prolong the freezer storage period of meats.

The next few years will see introduction of a variety of fabricated foods created from new combinations of old ingredients. For example, it's expected that milk will be less important as a complete food and more important as a source of nutrients . . . nonfat dry milk, lactose or milk sugar, whey and calcium caseinate, from which new foods will be fashioned.

Soy protein in various forms is also being employed as a building block for many new foods. Soy protein can be made to resemble meat in texture, flavor and appearance. And it provides the essential protein of meat at a fraction of the cost. It's in this all important task of providing food for a hungry world that foods from soy protein are expected to play their most important role, even though some are already available to Michigan residents (tried the bacon bits yet? . . . they're made from soy protein). These soy protein foods can be mass produced anywhere in the world where food is needed. They're convenient, nutritional and economical. Their impact on world feeding problems has barely been felt, but it will be. And the trend to man-made foods is certain to accelerate.

While you won't sit down to a meal of pills in the year 2,000, you will enjoy meals created from a variety of foods not in existence today. Perhaps you won't be going on a space trip next year, but already you can take advantage of one product that was originally developed, under government contract, for use on long space flights. The product, called Space Food Sticks, is available in some area markets. The sticks, which contain 41 calories each, are said to provide the balanced nutrition of a miniature meal. The 5/4 ounce package of 14 individually wrapped sticks in chocolate, caramel and peanut butter flavors sells for around 59 cents per package. So those "way out" foods may be here faster than you realize.

A SPIRITUAL Message

Calvary Lutheran

Rev. Arlon K. Stubbe

'This Fall I'm really going to buckle down,' I told myself (though the seat belts of life are as hard to use as the ones in my car),

I really have potential, God knows, for grades and girls and all kinds of goings on . . .

Why, I could be captain of the team, or valedictorian of my class, if only I'd put my mind to it;

People say I've got what it takes, if only I'd a-p-p-l-y myself; and quit marking time and wishing and hoping for some grand and glorious god (or somebody) to intervene and set things straight!

Which I know might happen (at least I think) but could take a long time, in coming . . . since the man J. C. said he could come anytime really . . .

But then it's been almost 2,000 years and nothing's happened yet, still no sign of an arrival on the horizon, if you know what I mean.

I guess I'll have to get something going, since it's Fall and all.

But I don't know: there's always tomorrow, I suppose.

*And Jesus said: "Not every one who says to me, 'Lord, Lord' will enter the kingdom of heaven; but he who does the Will of my Father."

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

What would you do?

You just left a bottle about half full of aspirin on a low table top in the bathroom. Your three year old son enters the kitchen with the empty aspirin bottle—What would you do?

First check to see if aspirins are spilled on the floor. The American Red Cross text book used in first aid and accident prevention training tells us to give the child water or milk and induce vomiting at once. Repeat if necessary to remove any medicine in the stomach that is not absorbed into the system. Take the child to your doctor or the emergency ward of the hospital immediately.

It is wise to be prepared for events such as this in the home. Inquire about a first aid class at your local Red Cross office, 334-3575.

Who could think of refurnacing
at a time like this?

Seems like a funny time to talk about replacing a furnace, huh? Actually, warm weather's the best time to make home repairs. Like replacing a cranky old heating system with modern electric heat.

And now's an especially good time to convert. Right now, your Edison-Approved Electric Heat Contractor will give you $100 for your old heating system when you change to electric heat.

Why electric heat? It's comfortable—really comfortable. No chill one moment nor blast of hot, dry air the next.

And operating cost is guaranteed. Call Edison for details, and some names of Approved Electric Heat Contractors.

So if your old furnace won't make it another winter, remember now's the best time to refurnace to modern electric heat.

Saddle Club holds 21st Horse Show

History will repeat itself for the 21st year when the Dixie Saddle Club presents its Horse Show on September 7, at the Glenn Ellis Farm at 9331 Dixie Highway, U.S. 10 near Clarkston.

The only difference is that since it was formed in 1949 the show has doubled and now requires 2 rings.

At least 25 events are on the schedule for the show which will start at 10 a.m. Entries have been received from out-state and all types of events are on the program. Included will be western, walking horses, harness horses, three and five-gaited horses. There will be pony class, junior horsemanship, bending races, working stock horses, colts, ponies in harness, grand parade, pleasure horses, musical stalls, speed and action, and Tennessee walking horses.

Peter Evart, of Davisburg, the president of the Club advises that it will be a grand show, up to the tradition of the shows sponsored by the Club in the past.

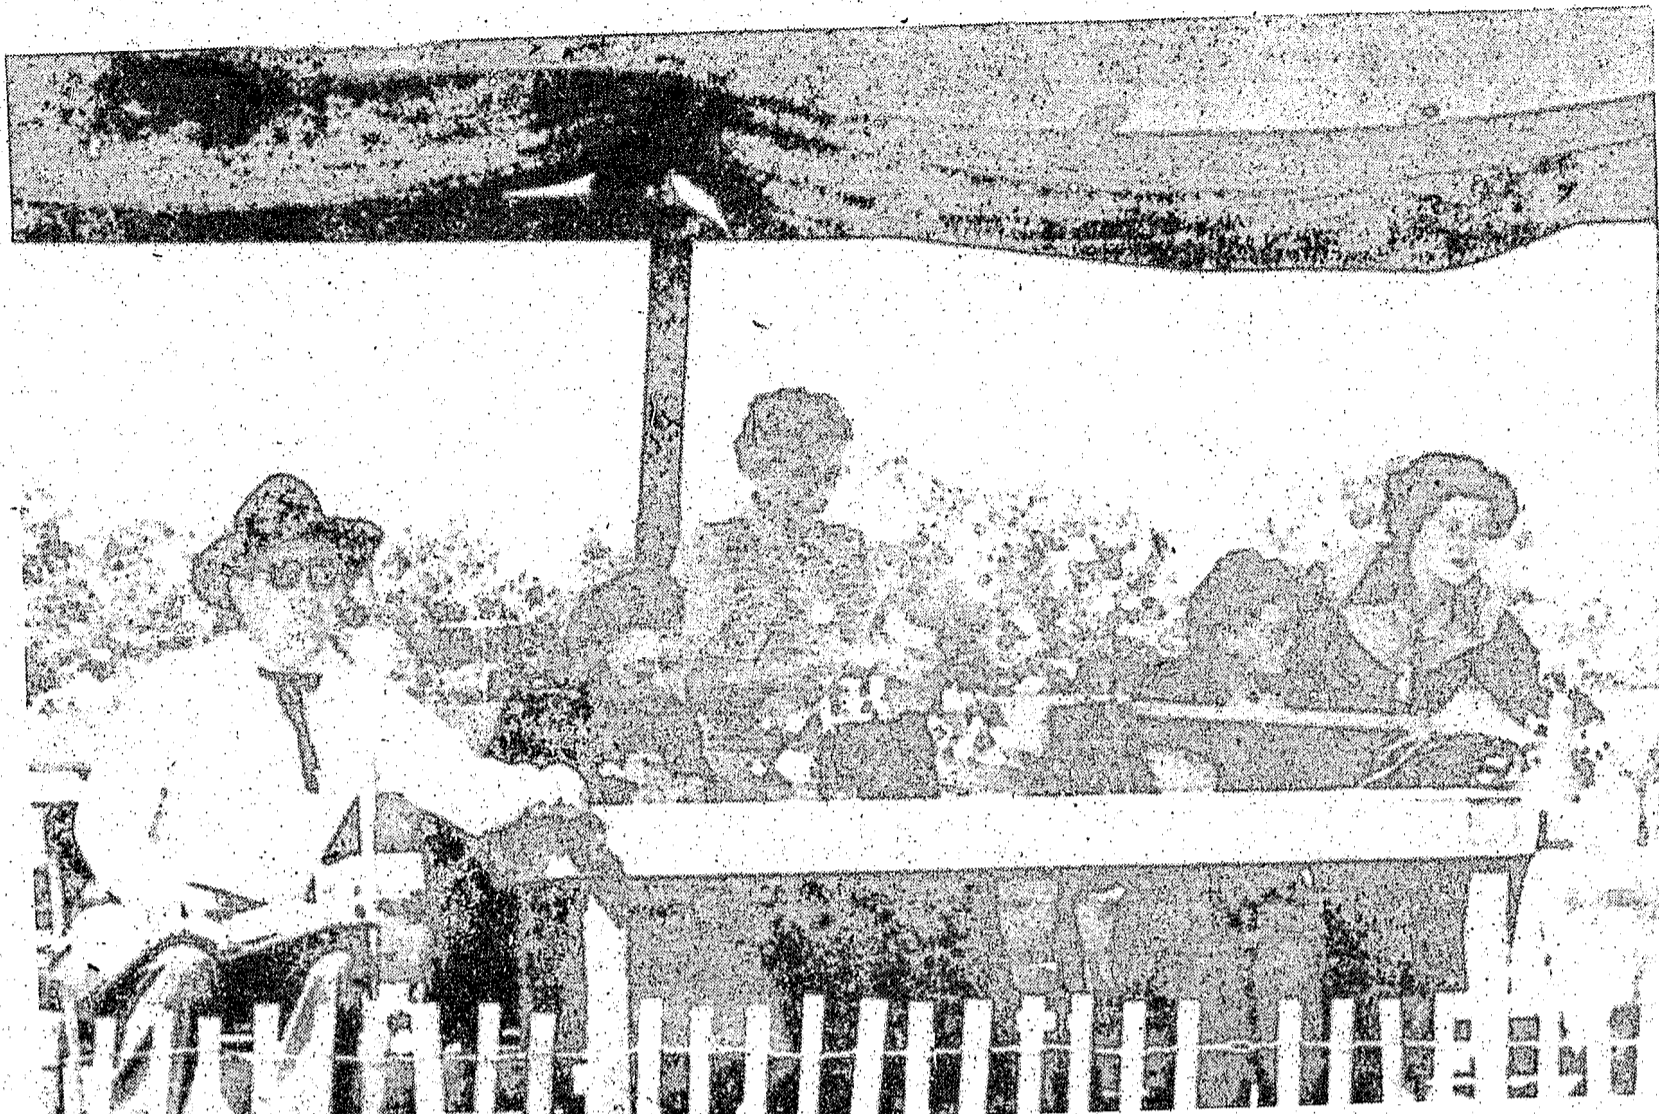

The history of the Dixie Saddle Club reads like a story of Clarkston's past and is a who's who of local residents.

Still riding are charter members Sam Carson and 80 year old Will Sutton who was the first president.

Other charter members whose names have a local ring are Leone McDonald, Laura Perry, Frank Minton, Connie Grubaugh and Janet Noble.

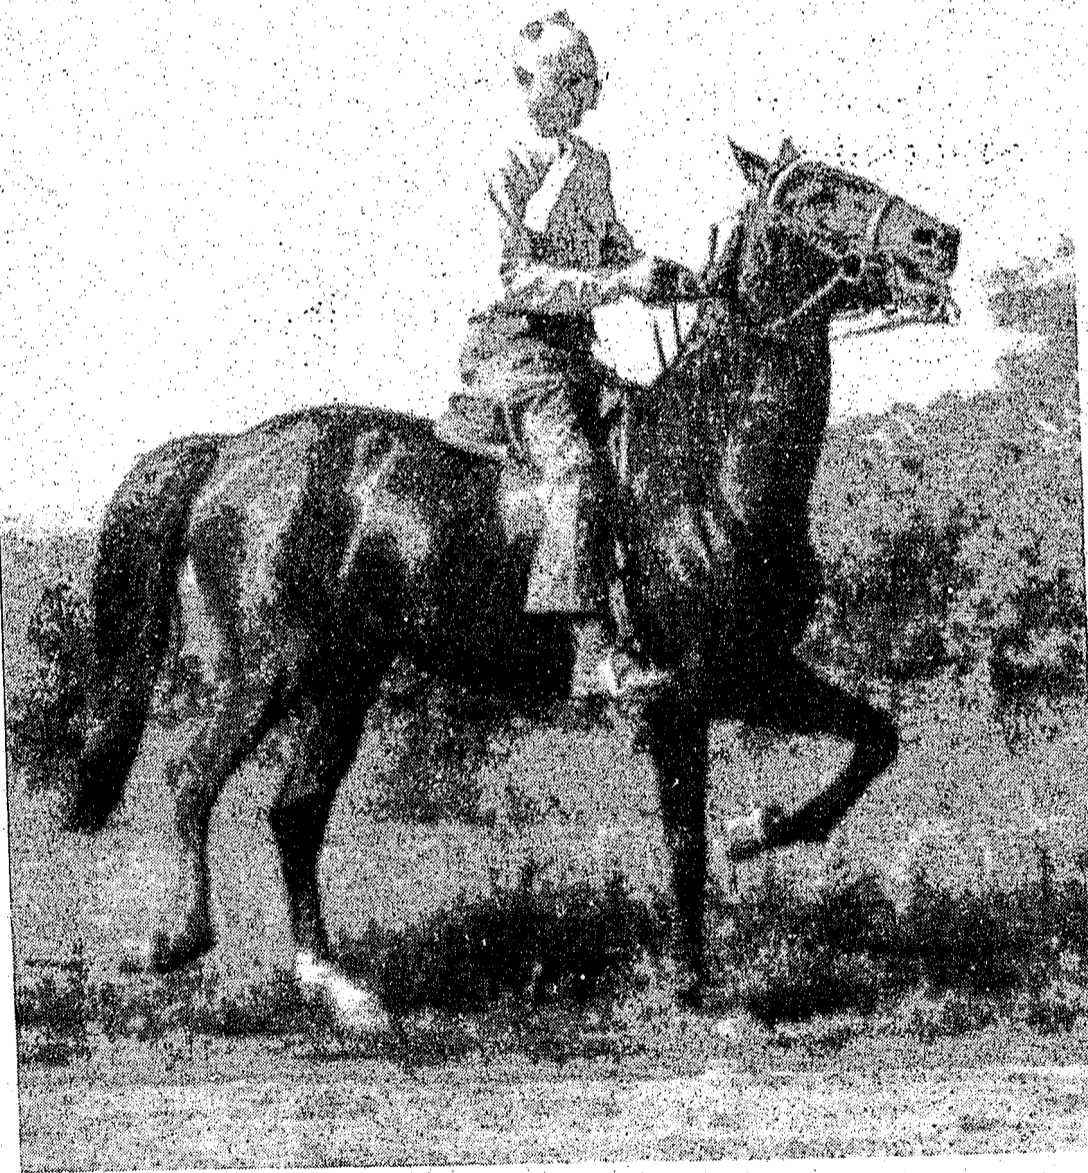

The Glenn Ellis', at whose farm the shows have always taken place, passed from the local scene just recently when Mrs. Ellis died. She was preceded in death by her husband.

For a touch of nostalgia and an up-to-date Horse Show, Mrs. Louise Weeks, publicity chairman, suggests that residents

Serve economy meat

If you feel the need to economize yet realize the importance of providing the family with well-rounded meals, variety meats may provide the answer. Variety meats are regarded as delicacies by food epicures and by the restaurant trade. They're among the best in essential nutrients—high quality proteins, minerals and vitamins. Because they're not in demand, some variety meats are from 1/3 to 1/2 the price of regular economical cuts. There are no bones and there's little fat. Variety meats include edible parts—other than regular cuts of beef, veal, pork and lamb. This list includes liver, sweetbreads, brains, heart, kidney, tongue and others. Appearance and color are the chief guides to quality in selecting variety meats. They should be plump, fresh and shiny, relatively firm and uniform in color. Avoid those which look dried out or show a difference in color around the edges. These are signs that the meat is not fresh.

Variety meats are perishable. Wrap loosely in wax paper and store in coldest part of refrigerator. Plan to use within 24 hours or freeze for later use. Pre-cook brains and sweetbreads before storing.

To freeze liver, slice and place moisture-proof paper between slices. Other variety meats may be frozen whole. Wrap in meal-size packages, seal, label and freeze at once.

Liver is the most nutritious of the variety meats and contains more vitamin

A than any other food. Liver also provides riboflavin, niacin and iron.

Liver varies in color from light red for calf liver to deep red for pork liver.

Calf liver, because of its delicate flavor, is most popular and most expensive. Beef, lamb and pork liver are just as nutritious, much more economical, and quite delicious when properly prepared. Pour boiling water over lamb and pork liver and drain before cooking. Beef and calf liver can be broiled or pan fried. Lamb and pork liver should be braised.

TONGUE—for better-than-usual flavor, simmer tongue in water to which you have added bay leaf, onion, parsley, whole peppercorns or cloves.

HEART—herbs and spices in the simmering water do the same exotic things for the flavor of heart that they do for the flavor of tongue. Bay leaf and pickle spices are especially good accents for the flavor of heart.

KIDNEYS—after cleaning the kidneys and soaking them in salted water, marinate them in French dressing for one hour before cooking. Accents for the flavor of kidneys are—caraway or dill seeds, curry powder or oregano.

SWEETBREADS—as soon as you get them home, wash, then simmer sweetbreads in salted water about 20 minutes. Store them in the refrigerator until you are ready to use them. With sweetbreads, use mace, paprika, parsley or onion.

Count on 3 to 5 servings from a pound of the variety meats. When you figure the cost per servings, variety meats are successful "alternates" for other high quality protein foods on your menus.

We have examined the statements of assets and liabilities on a cash basis, of the various funds of the Township of Independence as of March 31, 1969, and the related statements of cash receipts and disbursements and fund equities for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the accompanying statements of assets and liabilities and the related statements of cash receipts and disbursements and fund equities present fairly, on a cash basis, the financial position of the various funds of the Township of Independence as of March 31, 1969, and the results of operations for the year then ended in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Very truly yours,

Noise is sickening

Studies conducted in Detroit and Los Angeles indicate that one of the most dangerous forms of air pollution may be the filling of the air with sounds.

Dr. Paul Cameron, assistant professor of psychology at Wayne State University, and Dr. Donald Robertson, assistant professor of sociology at Long Beach State College, directed surveys by telephone in the two cities and found that men exposed to abnormally loud noises were ill more often than men who were not exposed to such sounds.

The survey included 4,705 Detroit adults and 1,054 Los Angeles adults. Cameron found that in his sampling those men who complained of exposure to excessive sound experienced 64 percent more illness as those who did not report exposure to high sound levels.

People questioned in the two cities reported the same basic complaints about noise, although Detroiters reported more noise at work and Californians mentioned more noise from traffic and airplanes.

On-the-job sounds were estimated to average between 80 and 90 decibels. Sounds in the home were placed at 70 to 80 decibels. Cameron pointed out that association of sound with annoyance in the survey did not seem to be a factor in its effect on health.

"This suggests that the interpretation placed on sound, that is, whether it bothers you or not, is not the primary factor. Rather it seems that too much sound on a regular basis may be injurious to humans whether it annoys them or not.

I don't think many scientists would be surprised if it were shown that too much sound can make us ill," said Dr. Cameron.

The 1969 Saginaw Fair Premium Book, now being distributed, lists 29 departments in which exhibitors will have an opportunity to vie for cash prizes. Dairy Cattle lead in premiums offered with $7,336.00 to be awarded. Light Horse exhibitors will compete for a share of the second largest premium of $4,647.00 in prize money, and entries in the popular Draft Horse Department will be offered a total of $4,407.00 in premiums.

Enhance your home

with accessories

Is your mantel a dusty collection of clutter or a harmonious arrangement of favored accessories?

The transformation from disarray to balanced design in home interiors can be accomplished quite simply when you make the most of your accessories.

Repetition, variation, proportion, balance, dominance, and subordination are the guiding principles in accessories.

Not all six principles can be used at one time or in any specified order. Start with the basic furniture pieces in your room, then use some of your accessories and whatever principles you feel are needed to arrange an area in your home which is pleasing. It need not be a whole room.

Remember that accessories do not stand alone, they complement and enhance your basic furniture units. Since accessories are arranged against a background, you will want to keep them within the space and shape formed by your furniture.

A new publication, "Arranging Accessories in the Home," is available from the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service office in Wayne. It explains the six design principles and offers additional suggestions for achieving pleasing arrangements of color, shape, and texture.

Record premiums at Saginaw Fair

Exhibitors at the 1969 Saginaw Fair, Sept. 6-13, will compete for a new record high of $60,561.10 in total premiums, representing a more than $4,000 increase over the previous all-time figure for prize money set in 1968, according to Fair Manager Clarence Harnden.

"Living up to our reputation as the largest county fair in American east of the Rockies, the Saginaw Fair is among the top 10% of the county fairs in the nation on the basis of premiums offered and attendance figures," said Harnden. "The 56th Fair held by the Saginaw County Agricultural Society will again emphasize agriculture, husbandry, industry, education and hobbies," Harnden added.

*Good medicine comes in small doses
by Jean Sura*

This week the Clarkston News is appearing in a new small, compact form. The decision to make the change so that it would conform in size with its counterpart, The Oxford Leader, came about after much deliberation.

I could have saved them time in considering if they had asked me. In no way am I delicate or helpless. I may not be as compact as I used to be but I AM 5 ft. 1 in. tall. I know some of the advantages of being "small and compact."

Advantages start when you are a little kid and love your teacher. The smallest kids get the "plum" seats in the front of the room. On the playground, when the volley ball gets tossed on the roof once too often, who would suspect that it is the littlest kid that had the strong arm? They always blame the big, brawny ones.

Even if they catch you red-handed, handing out discipline is pretty tough. Have you ever scolded anybody two feet tall? It makes you feel simply rotten! It takes a hard hearted Hannah to grab a little shorty by the collar and march him to the principal's office. It's physically awkward too.

I think that the greatest benefit I ever got from being small was what we in the family called "The Milk Chute Caper." I was about 18 going on 35.

My dad was a bit of a tyrant about the hours that his daughters kept but he was also a sound sleeper. He backed up his authority by locking the door when he went to bed so we had to ring the bell and let the world, the neighbors AND Dad know that we were late. It was a good trick on his part, and worked without fail—that is, until I discovered the milk chute.

The milk chute at our house was a little door in the back of the house where the milk man could deposit the milk from the outside. Another little door on the inside made the milk accessible without getting your tootsies wet or cold.

This chute was situated right next to the back. The opening measured about 9 x 12 inches.

By opening the chute door, quietly removing the empty bottles and popping the inside door I discovered that I could extend my curfew without getting into trouble.

The first time I tried it I heisted myself through, head first. The result was that when I got in up to my waist the top half of my torso was dangling half way down the basement stairwell. Fortunately, I could reach the handle of the entry door, so I turned the key. I then withdrew (which turned out to be more difficult than getting in), opened the door and walked in.

Next I tried going in feet first. It took a little more agility but had better results because it eliminated all that opening and closing of doors.

The whole deal was a slick caper but one night my dizzy date forgot to put the empty bottles back in the chute before he left.

Dad liked to sleep but he wasn't stupid. He didn't need any help from Sherlock Holmes to figure something was going on when he saw all those empties on the ground the next day.

I don't know why, but Dad and Gene are the only men I ever knew who didn't feel the least bit bad about "chewing out" short girls!

Oh, well, I never liked being kissed good night through a milk chute anyway.

It is better to be small and shine than to be large and cast a shadow!

Good things come in small packages!

I hope!

Win Band Contest

A young group of musicians from the Clarkston area who call themselves the "West End" have been named the winner in a Battle of the Bands contest which was held in Farmington at the Founders Festival on August 16.

Ric Erb, the manager is 18. Terry Worden, 16, plays the rhythm guitar, Frank Milkie, 17, drums, Jeff Deeks, 17, is the lead singer, John Heaton, 16, lead guitar and Mike Durett, 16, plays the Bass guitar.

"Practice really payed off for us," said Terry Worden. "We competed in a Battle of the Bands at the C.I.A. and came in dead last. We were number 5 out of the 5 bands competing. Then we got busy and reorganized and got serious about practicing. It really worked."

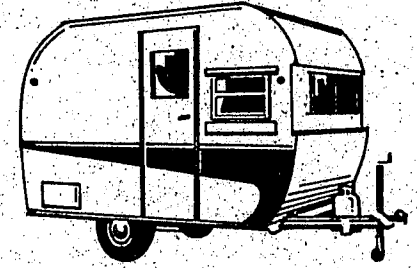

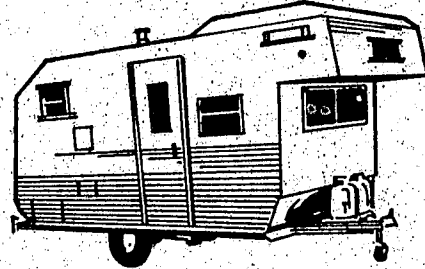

The group, who hope to play several engagements in the area are going to miss their manager, Ric Erb, who left on September 3 for the Marine Corp.
