Jim's Jottings

The last time I told you I'd quit smoking cigars it lasted 3 weeks. If I stay away from them another 4 days it will be 3 weeks again. I will also be dead. There is no question in my mind that I won't make it.

In the early days of lighting stogies I assured Hazel I wouldn't form the habit. And, in my own mind I knew that if the cigar smoking habit did develop I could quit with no trouble. After all, I had quit smoking cigarettes and I was a 2-pack-a-day.

There were other circumstances involved with the fag quitting. Like a doctor told me I had to. Even then I continued trying. I'd light one, take a puff and butt it... light it again, take a puff and butt it again. It'd take half a day to finish a cigarette.

But, you know, there is something that makes the flavor change once a man of medicine tells you to quit.

In the last couple years I've hinted to my doctor to tell me I had to quit smoking cigars. A word from him, even if he lied, might help. Trouble with this plan is that your subconscious rationalizing reasoning takes over and within seconds destroys all the common sense rational reasoning you were going to use if you got the urge again.

One other thing you can't do if you want to quit smoking: That is keep a cigar around so you can show yourself you have the will to look, but not touch. I tried that trick for 6 months. I couldn't get by the first 15 minutes in the morning. If there was one on my desk I lit it.

During the months it took me to drop the last dirty old cigar butt I came up with a fine list of reasons that were sure to discourage me from lighting another: Show my children I was strong of will, set a good example for them, no more burned holes in my shirts, no more smelly clothes, my coffee and Hazel's floor would be free of ashes.

The new-car smell would last longer if I ever buy another new car, I wouldn't stink up the office or friends' homes, no more burned noses or fingers, and there were more.

It didn't take more than a second to discredit all the excuses. My mind has never worked so fast on

Teachers-Board to vote

Ratification expected soon

Negotiations on the '69-'70 contract between the Clarkston Board of Education and the Clarkston Education Association (CEA) progressed toward completion this week.

Legal terminology for the section regarding binding arbitration was being supplied by attorneys Harvey Wax and Charles Kelley, who represent the groups.

The contract, in its complete form, was expected to reach the teachers by Wednesday, October 22.

Previous action taken by the CEA requires that the contract be in the teachers' hands for 24 hours before the vote for ratification can be made.

Accordingly, with no further delays, the voting should take place today.

If things proceed on schedule, the School Board, according to spokesman Milford Mason, will probably call a special meeting tonight to voice their final approval of the contract.

The negotiations which began last March were marked by the teachers' returning to the classrooms in September without contracts and subsequently withholding their services on September 29.

After 13 days, with the Clarkston Area Schools closed, negotiations were resumed. General agreement was reached on October 14 and the teachers returned to the classrooms pending the ratification.

Hanson named head coach

B. J. Hanson has been named varsity basketball coach at Clarkston High School. Doug Pierson will take his place with the J.V. squad. The appointments were announced by Ralph Kenyon, Athletic Director for the Clarkston schools.

Hanson has successfully handled the Freshman and J.V. squads as well as being assistant football coach here for the past 7 years.

In addition to his coaching responsibilities, he instructs physics classes and is the head of the Science Department.

A graduate of Michigan State University, Hanson received his Master's degree from Western Michigan University. He was head coach in basketball and football for 13 years at Middleville before coming to Clarkston.

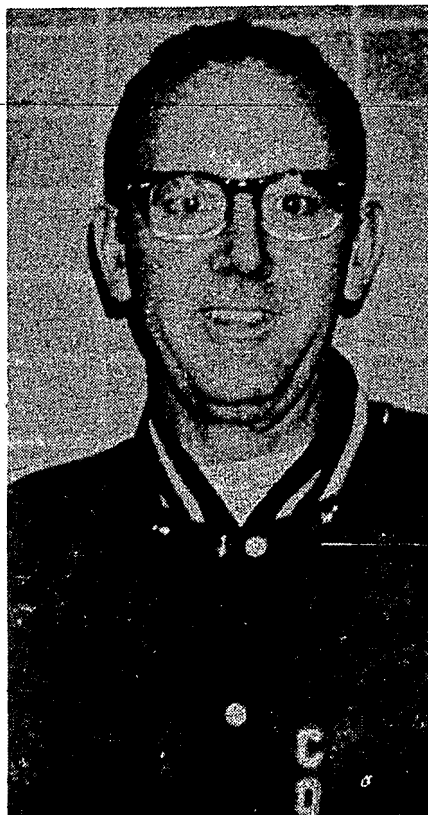

Mr. Hanson's wife is also a teacher and the librarian at Clarkston High School. The Hansons have 2 daughters, Jan, 19, and Bev, 16. They make their home on Snow Apple Drive.

In his new assignment, Hanson will replace popular Bud McGrath who Nothing is really clear. I think cigar. Soon, I'm sure, I will have reasoned that dying of lung cancer at the age of 45 can't be all bad, that I would be killed by a car anyway, and that I will die at 43 of mental anguish if I don't have a cigar.

resigned from the coaching assignment to spend more time in his field of counseling.

Suras build a dream house

By Jean Sura

I eased myself into my most comfortable bathrobe one night (the one with the hole under the arm, not for company), figuring it was the night as the saying goes, "that no man nor beast would be out." I sat down in our recliner chair. When I bought this chair, it raised the eyebrows of my interior decorating minded friends and I got a million dollars worth of hot air from a few. Anyway, I was just down-shifting myself into an evening of bliss when the cabin was attacked.

"Mom, Dad, guess what? We're going to be your neighbors. We have found this great old house up the road a few miles. It just needs a little work."

"Okay, Mr. Blanding, when do we start?" chimed Big Dad. For those of you who are too young to remember, or those of you too old to recall, Mr. Blanding was the guy who bought an old house and made a million dollars writing a book about his million dollars' worth of experience, expense and frustration.

The difference in this situation is that in the movie, Mr. Blanding was played by Cary Grant, he was wealthy and had all the work done for him. In this case, Big Dad and Tom are doing the work with Jan and I getting the ticky-tacky assignments like woodwork, and we don't have a money free.

We've made some marvelous discoveries.

The reason that people in olden days slept in those little beds is because they couldn't get a normal sized bed up their steep, narrow stairways. We discovered this on moving day.

"No problem," said our heroes, "We will just hoist it up over the roof and swing it in through the window."

Four hours of playing Tarzan didn't help. It just wouldn't work, so they put all the window frames back on and lowered the thing back to the ground, took it in and set it up in the living room. Neat!

"Well, that isn't so bad," said some optimist. "The bed fits downstairs in the living room, maybe the stove and refrigerator will make it up the stairs." That was when Jan really started to cry. So we changed the subject and started on the wallpaper. We rented a steamer and really got down to the nitty-gritty. And believe me, it is gritty.

Under 100-year-old wallpaper you are not apt to find old gold certificates, money or rare jewels. You are apt to find old rough, sandy, crumbly plaster. You are apt to find holes where lighting fixtures or heat pipes were once installed.

We did discover that wallpapering can be fun — for somebody else. We can prove that wallpaper paste really sticks.

"Go soak your head," they said to me after they had accidentally dropped a cup full of paste. My short hair is now a necessity.

It looks like a long winter. Little Matt is the first kid I know that has cut his teeth on rusty old nails, chewed on antique window glass and eaten a bushel of 100-year-old wallpaper and paste before he had his first birthday.

"We are really coming right along," said Tom (he has got to be the nutty one). "This place is going to be just great. We're right on schedule too. What atmosphere! Can you think of a better place for a Halloween party?"

Harvest dinner

"Trinity United Methodist Church of Waterford will hold their annual Harvest Dinner on Friday, November 7, from 5:00 to 7:00 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at the door or from any W.S.C.S. member. A Christmas Bazaar and M.Y.F. candy and bake sale will be held in the basement beginning at noon of the same day.

Semi-finalist for scholarship

Kevin B. Urick, son of former Clarkston residents now residing in Armada, placed as a semifinalist on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. He is the first student from Armada High ever to have achieved this honor.

Last February, 750,000 students across the country took the NMSQT. Kevin is one of the 15,000 semifinalists appointed to compete for about 3,000 scholarships. He can become a finalist and be eligible for a scholarship by taking another examination and submitting his academic and extracurricular achievements.

The test itself consists of five parts: English Usage, Math Usage, Social Studies, Natural Sciences and Word Usage. The test was developed to show the ability of students on a national basis.

Kevin was initiated into the Honors Society of Armada High School last year. This year he is serving as Editor-in-Chief of the school news which is published in the Armada Times every other week. Kevin is also very active in sports, playing on the varsity football and basketball teams, and is also a member of the track team.

He is planning on majoring in journalism in college.

Past DPW action makes township reluctant to turn over sewer management

Speaking before the Waterless Homeowners Association a couple of weeks ago, Howard Altman, Independence Township Clerk, said, "If Independence can undertake a project like this (laying water mains to waterless homes) with our short resources I leave it to your imagination to determine what an agency of greater magnitude could have done if they got on it."

Not too well hidden in that statement are two points. 1. That the county DPW could have contracted to get water lines run to homes where wells had been dried up by construction of the Clinton-Oakland Interceptor.

2. The reluctance of the DPW to take immediate action on behalf of, and in the interest of local residents, bothers township officials. This is probably the main reason Pontiac and Independence townships have formed the North Oakland Public Utility Authority.

When Independence Township officials learned of the plight of their citizens in the Woodhull Lake area they immediately went to work to help. The problem came when the officers, mostly Altman, were extra busy trying to get the materials together to apply for a state grant for sewers. Supervisor Duane Hursfall was on vacation in Colorado.

Continuing work on this, Altman, with the backing of the township board, went to the DPW for assistance, then when little was forthcoming, he contacted engineers and well experts to see about getting water to the needy people in some other way than trucks.

The DPW did have a court decision to back up their director, R. J. Alexander's, opinion that the DPW should do nothing. His board overruled him and they did something, but not as much as they could. The expression we've heard of the DPW and other county, state, and national agencies being aloof and unconcerned with anything but the final goal bears some truth.

In this case the director was ready to ignore immediate human needs. Pontiac and Independence township officials are concerned with this being DPW attitude when it comes to maintenance and supervision

Romance on a bus

By Jim Fitzgerald

Until he showed up feeding squirrels, I had forgotten My Most Unforgettable Character, Harry Holmes, the singing bus driver.

Back in the late 40's, Harry drove the bus that went by my parents' home in Port Huron. Two blocks later, headed for downtown, he also drove by my girlfriend's home. I didn't own a car, so it was often Harry's responsibility to get Noreen and me to the movie on time.

Usually, I'd board the 7 p.m. bus at my corner, and then Noreen would get on 2 blocks later. This way I didn't have to pay her fare. She was a working girl and I was a struggling veteran trying to get through college on only $75 a month for beer.

It didn't take long for Harry to realize he was important to our romance. After he'd pick me up, he'd begin looking for Noreen. (She didn't always board at the same corner because sometimes she had to walk a block to Shamaly's Market to sell empty beer bottles to raise her bus fare. We were a wealthy couple). If Noreen were nowhere in sight, Harry would slow down to 5 mph to give her more time to materialize.

Harry was easily the town's most popular bus driver. It wasn't simply that he was always friendly; always had a corny joke. He was also a singer. Not very good, but louder than the motor. And properly inserted into the lyrics was always the name of the next street. If you missed your stop it was probably because you became bemused and thought Hoagy Carmichael had written something called of the sewer systems in their communities.

For some reason or other, we've never been able to pin down the reason, township officials and village officials within the township aren't the most cooperative units in the world. This has been our observation in the areas we are most closely concerned with.

For this reason we were especially happy to see Independence and Clarkston get together on capacity in the sewer interceptor. There will be more cooperation between these two as the sewer progresses like sharing of lines and right of ways.

There are many ways the two could benefit from good communications. Planning, water, and police protection might be included.

Perhaps the cooperation started with this sewer project will be the beginning of a fine romance in which the people could profit by the courtship.

But, if this is all the farther the cooperation goes, it delighted us to see them get together and we commend them for it.

thought of Harry again . . .

Suddenly there he was, the star of a feature story in my hometown newspaper. He's retired now and spends much of his time in a lawn chair, feeding peanuts to pigeons and squirrels.

"I feed them rain or shine — that's half my life now," he told the reporter. "You have to keep busy or you just rot away . . . all I want to do now is live in Port Huron until I die."

Harry lives smack on his old bus route. Boy, what I'd like to do is go home and ride that bus and get off at Harry's corner and hand a bag of peanuts to my Most Unforgettable Character.

But I'm so damn busy earning bus fare, I'll forget to do it. And then I'll think of it again when I read Harry's obituary.

Noreen and I were an addition to Harry's repertoire. He let the other passengers know when his favorite couple made connections successfully. And, whenever one of us went downtown alone, he wondered aloud what the trouble was. He took a real interest in the courtship, following the ups and downs closely and vocally. Whenever I boarded a homeward bound bus alone and beery, he would tch-tch steadily for 10 blocks. I would have walked 15 miles rather than take another girl onto Harry's bus.

The Readers' Digest would end this tale with Harry bussing Noreen and me on the first leg of our honeymoon. But alas. She found another, a guy with a car, and I left town on another bus line. It was 20 years before I

Wolves sharpen fangs for homecoming

Last Friday night was Dad's Night at Clarkston's home field, and dads of the Varsity and Junior Varsity football teams and cheerleaders were there. They were honored on the field before the game.

At that time, Coach Rakow was asked what his chances were of winning the game. He replied, "We're going to try."

And try they did, only to be swamped as the Northville Mustangs triumphed over the Clarkston Wolves by a score of 31-10.

Starting the first quarter, Northville kicked off to Clarkston's 16-yard line and there the ball stayed until the Wolves punted out. Northville caught the ball on the 50 and ran it out to Clarkston's 43-yard line.

Then in a series of plays Northville nailed their first 6 points. The kick for the extra point was no good. When the Mustangs took hold of the ball again they made 7 more points, making the score 13-0 in Northville's favor.

As Northville kicked off, Kurt Richardson, No. 42, got hold of the ball and ran 70 yards to the Mustangs' 30-yard line. In the next few series of plays Bill Latimer, No. 41, scored Clarkston's only touchdown in the game.

In their first attempt at the extra points, Clarkston was penalized for illegal procedure and a 5-yard penalty was imposed. Using the old fake-the-kick-and-pass play that Brighton once used against the Wolves, the team managed to score 2 points, making the score 13-8.

Starting the second quarter it was Northville's ball, fourth down on their own 7-yard line. The center hiked the ball way over the kicker's head and Clarkston made 2 points on a touchback.

The Mustangs then made a hard drive and scored another 6 points, making the score at halftime Wolves, 10; Mustangs, 14. In the early third quarter, John Hux, No. 15, slipped and was out the rest of the game with a sore arm.

Northville, making another drive, scored 6 more points and the score stood 25-10 at the end of the third quarter.

In the fourth quarter, Richardson was out two plays with a sore leg but was back in condition shortly. At the close of the quarter, the Mustangs scored 6 more points, bringing the final score to 31-10.

Tomorrow night is Homecoming with the Clarkston Wolves facing the Kettering Captains. Kettering hasn't been doing too well this season, so the game should be a match.

At half time the queen, who is Karrie Garlak, and her attendants, Linda Simms and Donna Carter, will lead the Queen's Parade. With them will be Nadine Blackett, senior maid; Linda Slade, junior maid; and Crinker Kojima, sophomore maid.

They are: Den 1—Mrs. Della Cooper and Mrs. Nancy Brancheau; Den 3—Mrs. Marilyn Williams and Mrs. Dorothy Holcomb; Den 4—Mrs. Jeanette Morse; Den 5—Mrs. Judy Brumback and Den 6—Mrs. Roberta Taylor and Mrs. Barbara Hamaker.

Webelos receiving Activity Pins were: Kurt Townsend, Aquanaut; Reed Swanson, Artist and Athlete; Steve Strzelecki, Aquanaut, Artist, Athlete and Traveler; Brad Fairse, Artist and Geologist; Ken Ballard, Artist; Doug Cinader, Artist and Athlete and Geoff Becker, Artist, Athlete and Traveler.

Doug Kotola was presented with his Denner Bars and Mike Glowzinski received his Assistant Denner Bar.

A Bear Gold Arrow was earned by Reed Swanson.

In keeping with the Bucaneers Theme of the month the boys dressed as pirates and led by Assistant Den Mother Jean Strzelecki presented a skit which was climaxed by all the boys singing, "Blow the Man Down." Following this they all took their turn at "walking the plank."

Cubmaster, Mr. Palmer Swanson, introduced the Boy Scouts from Troop 126 who are currently serving as Den Chiefs in the Pack. They are: Terry Johnson, Den 5; Dan Hollis, Den 4; Paul Glowzinski, Den 6; Rip Crandall, Den 1; Mike Strzelecki, Den 2; Matt Strzelecki, Den 2; and Tim Humphreys, Webelos Den 3.

The opening and closing flag ceremonies were handled by Webelos Den 3.

At the October pack meeting, the following boys received awards:

Kenneth Staley, Bobcat; Doug Roosa, Bear and recruiter's patch; Jim Allard, Bear.

The boys came in Halloween costumes and were rewarded with candy and apples.

The audience participated in a ghost story led by Ken Whittenton.

The next committee meeting will be on Wednesday, November 12, at the Burdicks' home at 180 Glenburnie Lane. Any parents interested in having their boys, ages 8 to 11, join Cub Scout Pack 49 are invited to attend.

On Saturday, October 18, the Webelos of Pack 49, led by Mr. Jim Allard and Mr. Stanley Roosa, were the guests of Mr. James Ladd of Kingfisher St. for the Scout Jamboree on the Air. The boys were able to contact and talk with scouts from New Hampshire, New Jersey, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Alabama and Louisiana. They listened to scouts from Oklahoma, Nebraska, New York, and Connecticut. They also were able to hear a broadcast from Germany. The boys attending were Keith Staley, Doug Roosa, Leif Gruenberg, Jim Falardeau, Tom Lowe, Bob Bradley, Jon Rose, Brian Collins and Jim Allard.

On Sunday, October 19, twenty-one of the boys from Pack 49 were joined for an outing by their fathers. The weather was wet, but this didn't stop them from enjoying a trip to the cider mill in Goodison, where the boys saw apples being made into cider. They returned to the Herbert Rose home on N. Holcomb, where they played games and had cider and doughnuts.

FLU Special

Every two or three years, public health experts predict an epidemic of influenza in the U.S. — and they are generally right. Such has been the case this year, with flu now raging from coast to coast, through 35 states.

Most of this year's flu has been the A-2 virus, nearly identical to the type which swept the nation in 1957. However, the number of deaths is higher than expected.

In most adults, influenza is a relatively mild disease that sends the patient to bed for three days with sniffles, coughing, nausea, diarrhea, cramps and various aches and pains. However, it can also reduce one's resistance to more serious diseases, such as pneumonia.

Vaccines have been developed and are now widely available. Doctors urge their "high risk" patients—especially older people with chronic heart and lung ailments—to take advantage of this protection.

But once the flu strikes, there isn't much that can be done. Get plenty of rest and drink extra fluids, and use aspirin to reduce the pain and discomfort. By staying home, you will also protect other people and lessen the chance of spreading the disease.

A quick thinking Clarkston Boy Scout announced to another Scout somewhere in these United States that they were now having their picture taken for the local newspaper. Each scout was given a chance to use the "mike" in the radio equipped room at the James Ladd residence on Kingfisher to participate in the Scout Jamboree of the Air.

Stalled car causes crash

The car driven by Kathleen Marie Putsey, 19, of Orion road, stalled on the Clarkston road just west of Dubuque road at 2 a.m. on October 18. She turned off the lights in an attempt to start the engine.

John Wm. Starr, Jr., 17, of Milford, told sheriff's deputies that he was unable to see the stalled car and crashed into the back of the vehicle.

His passenger, Deborah Rappuhn, 17, of Easton road, was treated at Pontiac General for face and neck lacerations.

According to county records, Jeanne Marie McFarland, 22, of Cedargrove lost control of the car she was driving at Clarkston-Orion road and Sashabaw and turned over. The accident occurred on October 19 at 2:52 a.m. Miss McFarland was not injured.

PTA start year

Because the schools were closed it was necessary to postpone the Open House originally scheduled to start the year at the Pine Knob Elementary School. The meeting has been re-scheduled for October 27, at 7:30 p.m.; however, the open house will be held at a later date.

The theme for the '69-'70 school year will be "The New Generation."

Those in attendance will hear Mr. F. Gerald St. Souver of the Oakland County Prosecuting Attorney's Office. His topic will be narcotics with special emphasis on the "shoulds" and "should nots" for both parents and teachers.

A membership drive is under way. The class having the largest percentage of parents join the organization will be treated to a trip, by bus, to the Paint Creek Cider Mill at Goodison, on Thursday, October 30. Dues are 75c per year.

Refreshments will be served after the open house and a free baby-sitting service will be provided to enable all interested parents to attend.

Kutting Korners

by Jean Sura

Nutrition experts are again warning that it is extremely important to serve breakfast to young and old alike. Here is a recipe for Corn Flake - Pineapple Bread which provides cereal, fruit and some of the other important ingredients for a balanced breakfast. It is baked quickly and keeps well.

Corn Flake - Pineapple Bread

- 2 1/2 cups sifted flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 2 cups corn flakes, crushed, to make 1 cup crumbs
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/3 cup butter or margarine
- 2 eggs
- 1 can (8 3/4 ounce) crushed pineapple, undrained (about 1 cup)
- 1 cup chopped nuts

Combine flour, baking powder, salt, and soda in sifter; sift and mix in corn flake crumbs. Combine sugar, butter or margarine and beat until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beat well after each addition. Add dry ingredients and pineapple alternately, a small amount at a time, mix; stir in nuts. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F) until done, about one hour. Cool in pan 5 minutes; turn out of pan and finish cooling on rack. Yield: 1 loaf 9x5x3 inches.

My friends, Mrs. Beuchler and Mrs. Meagher should notice that I haven't made the same mistake that I did with the recipe for Hello Dollies. It seems that I forgot to mention what size pan to put them in. In case anyone else is interested, the size of the pan that I used was 9x12 inches.

Speaking of Hello Dollies, I got carried away and strayed from the original recipe. It seemed that I didn't have any nutmeats so I substituted peanuts. I don't like coconut so I left it out. The combination that I ended up with wasn't too bad but I wouldn't recommend it. To top matters off I baked it in a pyrex pan and didn't lower the temperature of the oven so I ended up with a rather chewy, singed batch. Guess I will have to chalk that one up to experience.

The lesson involved is always to remember to lower the oven temperature by 25 degrees if baking in pyrex unless it is specified.

A gal named "Annie" wrote. "Saturday," she said, "I decided to make German potato salad, according to your recipe for Sunday night company. You had recommended that it is better the second night. But I got to sampling and the samples were so good I ate half of it and my company had to settle for the cañned variety. I ate the rest of my goodies on Monday. Only gained three pounds but it was worth it. Thanks to Mrs. Dennis, your cousins and you."

Incidentally, looking forward, it won't be long before you will be planning your Thanksgiving Dinner. If so, you might want to use a thistle or weed arrangement for your table. This is about the last chance you will have to get out and get them before the bad weather sets in. While you are out in the open, pick up all the pine cones that you can carry. I am going to print a method of soaking them so that they will burn in multicolor and make an excellent gift.

How the coho got its name

Earliest recorded use of the name, coho, appeared in 1878. It was written co-hue in a report of that year by the Department of Fisheries of Canada. It was an Indian word spoken in the valley of British Columbia's Fraser River.

By 1884, co-hue had changed to coho (sometimes cohoe). We learn all this from W. E. Ricker, Chief Scientist of the Fisheries Research Board of Canada.

We hope the News becomes a pleasant reading habit for you.

Letters to the Editor

Our library!

A loud Amen to the thoughts expressed by "A Neighbor" in last week's Clarkston News.

As a bystander I have watched the growth of this Library from "Baskets of Books" to the many thousands now on its shelves.

Since 1967, through its membership in the Wayne County Federated Library System, you can draw from hundreds of thousands of books available within this system. This includes the books of 50 member Libraries, City of Detroit Library and the Michigan State Library.

When the new library opens, many of the hoped for furnishings will be absent, this writer understands, because many people who should have made pledges have not done so and many pledges made have not as yet been honored.

This is our library—Let's help it grow.
A Friend

Public spirit

The Clarkston Co-operative Nursery, in the name of the community, would like to extend a "thank you" to the Clarkston United Methodist Church. Although the nursery is a community organization and is completely non-denominational, the Methodist Church has been most helpful in enabling the nursery to become a functioning organization.

In renting their facilities to our group, the church is encouraging a project which will be of benefit to this community and deserves a vote of thanks from all the citizens in this area.

Mrs. Ann Dean, Secretary,
Clarkston Co-Op Nursery

Have spirit

Oct. 17, 1969

Dear Sir;

There recently appeared in the Clarkston News two editorials about which I would like to comment.

Perhaps you are not aware of some of the community spirited activities sponsored by our local teachers' organization. They've established a yearly scholarship for C.H.S. graduates, they sponsored a public forum before the school board election, and recently, during the orientation of new teachers, they conducted a tour of our area and handed out a booklet which promoted many local businesses— including a plug for the Clarkston News.

Secondly, as a teacher at Sashabaw Junior High, I was puzzled by your referring to it as "teacher oriented." It certainly is a beautiful building, where teaching is made pleasurable by many modern conveniences, but I think it could more correctly be called "pupil oriented." Some of the advantages are individual lockers, gym lockers, wider hallways, a comfortable, carpeted library, an air-conditioned movie room, an extra gym area, science laboratories, practice rooms for music and a well-equipped industrial arts department. In planning this building, we tried to make it as advantageous to the learning situation as we could, because we want the best for our children.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Thomas O'Brien

Continuity

Dear Editor:

Today's mobile and transient generation needs to look now and then to the past and their ancestors for continuity and stability. In this respect we read with pleasure your article on Jacob and Harrison Walter, written by Constance Lektzian and published in the September 18th issue of your newspaper.

For the purpose of continuity, perhaps some of your readers might be interested to know that the Walter family didn't "just fade away" but because of circumstances moved to other sections of the country.

Samuel Walter, son of Harrison, was married to Nina Bryan, and lived in Clarkston for many years. They have two surviving children. Agnes, is married to H. T. McDaniel and they now live in Charlotte, North Carolina. Their family includes one daughter, Mary, one son, Hugh Thomas, Jr. and three grandchildren.

Another branch of the Walter family has sprung up in California. Harrison, son of Samuel, now lives in Willits, California. He is the father of three sons, Harrison Walter, III, Samuel and Mark.

These young Walters are— always intrigued by stories of their grandparents. If any of your readers have stories, anecdotes, old photos or clippings of the Walter family, we would be very pleased to have copies for our sons. Thanks.

Sincerely,
Harrison Walter, II

Dear Jim,

We received the subscription renewal card from your newspaper at our office last week.

I take pleasure in wishing you many years of continued success.

Dead Reckoning . . . Litter and little people

by Don Lytle

Recovering from our laughter, my wife and I reflected on the cause. Our little Jon of twenty-three months had put somebody down.

The home football team was losing badly. Boredom engulfed the crowd and it sought any diversion. Teeny boppers ran footraces through the stands; the GTO set enjoyed the sexual revolution by openly necking or smoking in less than adult fashion among the labyrinth of braces under the stands, while the adults gazed glassy-eyed at the field dreaming of the approaching basketball season when their sons would rightfully prove themselves.

From our vantage point along the adjoining chain-link fence, the home stands seemed to be transformed into a single mind—oblivious to the war on the field. But the war went on just the same, the thuds and groans necessary for young boys to prove themselves men, and my wife and I watched while Jon played out his dreams at our feet. Then it happened.

A handsome male adult of twenty-five years or so deposited the elbows of his expensive turtleneck on the top edge of the fence next to us and proceeded to study the war games on the field. He sipped coffee—bland, I'm sure—from a styrofoam cup and kept up a steady stream of empathetic grunts and groans as he watched.

That the man tossed down his empty cup after the last quaff was thoughtless; that my thirty-five and one half inch son promptly returned it to its doner was reflexive. Jon, only a head taller than the man's kneecap, was now tapping that kneecap with one hand and holding the discarded cup up to the turtleneck with the other.

The turtleneck bent down to Jon but spoke to us, "What does he want?"

My wife replied, "He wants you to take the cup you dropped."

"What did you say?" Louder now and people looked our way.

My wife repeated the interpretation.

Puzzled, the man seemed to withdraw ever so slightly into his garments for cover. Forcing a smile, nevertheless he persisted, "What does he want me to do with it?"

"He wants you to put it into the litter barrel over there." (Here I must compliment my wife's ability to interpret the language and obscure intentions of the little people. I never would have thought of that retort myself. Indeed, motherhood must have many built-in niceties.) My wife smiled a devilish smile of satisfaction.

Another mother in the growing crowd, herself a student of the little people culture, inserted, "Oh, how cute! Look, George, that little boy picked up that man's litter . . ." The crowd tasting the prospects of still another diversion pressed in for the kill. Some began to laugh.

Realizing he was part of that diversion, the turtleneck grabbed the cup and stumbled to the litter barrel where he deposited the cup. He never returned. Nor did Jon seem to care for he was too engrossed in clearing the area of gum wrappers. I ask you now, what adult can withstand the judgment of the innocent?

The last time I suggested to an adult that he was littering, he almost swept up his mess—with my body. Still, I can't help but believe that if Jon had tried to put down a kid of his own age, that he would have gotten his pacifier bitten in half—or a toy to the forehead.

The suspense, squeals, screams and tears of the tapping ceremony reached a peak when the winner, and 1969 Clarkston High School Homecoming Queen, Karrie Garlak, was tapped. Donna Carter and Linda Sims are her attendants.

Ernie Smits, left, and Pete Rose, far right, assemble supplies for the semi-annual Pancake Supper, which will be held on Monday, October 27, at the Clarkston Jr. High School. Rotary Club members are now selling tickets, or they may be purchased at the door. The butcher suggests a large helping of sausage.

Emergency service given hunters

Deer hunters in Michigan are reminded that the Departments of State Police and Natural Resources provide a free registration service for those nimrods who wish to be notified in event of emergencies in their homes.

This service, which has been available annually, is for genuine emergencies only and is not to be expected by hunters or their families where regular communications facilities can be used without undue delay.

Hunters should tell their families the name of the State Police post or district Natural Resources Department office nearest to their camp where they will be registering.

An accurate location of the camp should be given to the State Police or Natural Resources Departments by the hunters. This registration information should be updated if the hunter changes camps during the season.

This emergency plan works two ways since it also enables the families of hunters to be notified by the authorities in event an emergency arises in the camps.

Should an emergency develop at home, families should notify the State Police or Natural Resources Department office where the hunter is registered. The message will then be delivered from there to the camp.

Calvary Lutheran

The Rev. Arlon K. Stubbe

"And God said to Abram, 'I will make of you a great nation... and by you shall all the nations of the earth bless themselves.'"

Genesis 12:3

Nearly twenty-four years ago, on January 10, 1946 the idea of the United Nations first became a reality. Since then, it has received the tributes and tirades of millions.

Some call it ineffective. Others lament its lack of power. More think it to be idealistic. And a few term it the Devil's tool.

But long before the U.N. was born, long even before Wilson's dream for a League of Nations, man hoped for peace and good will and understanding among peoples of the world.

And that hope finds its basis in God's plan for man. He raised up a rag-tailed bunch of desert-dwellers and called them His. He made of them a great nation, and to them

He gave great influence.

Because it was His wish that they might come to appreciate the fruitful and prosperous life men have when they live under God... and that they might communicate that knowledge to others, with joy. So that, by their examples, all the nations of the earth might be blessed with peace and justice and brotherhood.

This week we celebrate the formation of the U.N. Wouldn't it be a real celebration, if men of good will the world over would join hands under God, to labor for a real union of nations... funded by God's grace and staffed with the presence of His Spirit?

It's still not too late to try.

Buck fever

(Part Two)

by Haslett Hemmor

The longer I sat on that big old stump, the colder I got. It was maybe 5 above but after just plain sitting there for three hours, it seemed like 20 below.

Snow looked a heap brighter than it did back home. Little old jack pines hung heavy with the white stuff.

Slope dropped off sharp on my left down to a cedar swamp a half mile or so away. On my right was this small clearing with a little rise you couldn't see over. This, old George had told me, was the top of the great deer run. Here, the old coot said, was where the "big 'uns" showed up.

No use peering too hard over that rise on the right. Like old George said, when they show, they'll show—and with snow on the ground you won't know until they're on top of you. Big old 45-70 weighed a ton even just holding it in my lap. Bent my arms and legs occasional, just to be sure they weren't froze solid. George had warned me not to stomp around to keep warm. "Might as well blow a siren to warn 'em," he told me. "Them big fellows spook real easy. That's how they got so big."

Crow flew past and near scared me off my stump perch. Guess he didn't even see me 'til he was maybe 20 feet away. Swooped up real crazy.

Gettin' on toward noon or later if my watch froze up, though the second hand seemed to be moving under the foggy glass. I'm tempted to uncock the old gun but George said to keep the hammer back because the click would carry a mile in this cold quiet.

As I sit and sit, it suddenly dawns on me that I don't care zilch about hunting—if that's what this is. Only reason I came at all was for those poker games. Bound to be a big one tonight. Maybe it'll last so late that I have an excuse to sleep in tomorrow. Maybe, by mistake, I just sleep all day and be sharper than anyone else for the game tomorrow night. The heat of the little pot-bellied stove in the cabin sure would feel good. I could sit out in my back yard and freeze without driving 400 miles to get to this white wilderness.

A loud crackling snort near scares me into falling over backwards. I've never heard a big buck snort but I've been told about it, and this one has to be a monster. Comes from over the ridge on my right. Just where the trail is supposed to be. Must be close. Mighty close.

I snap the old gun up to my shoulder and hold it on the opening where he's bound to come. It shakes plenty, mostly because it's too darn heavy to hold from a sitting position. Seemed like hours that I held it. Shoulders ached. Arms ached. Still nothing. Must have turned off. Still held it there—shaking and aching.

Saw the rack before anything else. He stopped there just over the rise and just stood there with just that big rack in view from my spot. Wind was blowing toward him, pretty good. Little gust of snow swirled past me and over the hill past those horns.

Then he came on. Right toward me 'til he was right in my sights and not more than forty feet away. Guess maybe he saw me. Stopped. Looked right at me as I tried my best to squeeze the trigger very, very slowly. Took forever to bring that trigger back, then it clicked. Old big, near-black buck must have jumped six feet straight up. Whirled and flew back over the hill. Thought I'd forgotten to load. Opened her up and there was the shell with a nice dent in it. Darned shell must have been older even than this Civil War gun. Picked it out with my fingernails. Threw it away in disgust and reloaded. No more action. Sat another hour thinking about what I'd tell the gang. Looked for the dented shell. Couldn't find her in the snow.

Finally I walked slowly over the rise and down the hill. Scuffed out every track that old buck left all the way down to where he met his other tracks and turned off. Made it look like he'd just turned before the hill.

That night Harold kidded me about the big tracks and the turn off. "Must have smelled you, Haz. Sure must have gotten wind. Didn't you see anything? Didn't you hear anything?"

"Mostly," I say, avoiding the questions, "mostly I've got buck fever for a little of my dough you guys took during the last few months. Let's eat and get the game going."

Going Places with North Oakland County

And Now . . .

a Customer Convenience Center

IN THE WATERFORD - DRAYTON PLAINS - CLARKSTON AREA

As part of our continuing effort to provide customers with better service, we are planning to establish a Customer Convenience Center in the Waterford-Drayton Plains-Clarkston area on a four-month trial basis. The Customer Convenience Center is a mobile office designed to provide services to those customers who reside in areas some distance from a Consumers Power Company office. Such a facility will be staffed by a well qualified representative of Consumers Power Company who will be able to provide you with the following services:

- Orders for gas service turn on or off
- Orders for appliance repairs or service in your home
- Bill payments
- Questions you may have about your bill
- Display of the latest gas appliances
- Sale of small appliance repair parts and gas yard lamp mantles

The Customer Convenience Center will be open at the Drayton Plains Shopping Center, 5000 Dixie Highway, on the following days:

Monday, October 27, 1969	10:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m.
Tuesday, October 28, 1969	10:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m.
Friday, November 28, 1969	10:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m.
Saturday, November 29, 1969	9:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m.
Friday, December 26, 1969	10:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m.
Saturday, December 27, 1969	9:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m.

Please feel free to come to us on the above dates for any service you may desire. If you have no need for service, pay us a visit anyway and take a look at our Customer Convenience Center.

This will be our first effort to provide such service in outlying areas and we hope it will allow us to measure customer acceptance of such a facility. If the idea is well received, it may become permanently scheduled in your area on a one- or two-day a month basis and could be expanded to provide similar service to other areas of our Pontiac Division.
