Jim's Jottings

Every once in a while a writer or commentator will repeat something Socrates said about the youth of his day, then add that the same words are appropos today.

August 25, 1876 the editor of the Oxford Weekly Journal wrote, "A very disgraceful act in the way of a quarrel took place in this village on Monday evening last, between two or three of the young men of this place; and had justice been done, all would have been placed in the "cooler" over night, and each one been fined the next morning.

"Would not a bar of soap be a nice thing for such young men, instead of the bar they so often patronize. To see young men who might be gentlemen, drink and become rowdies on the street as they did last Monday evening, not only unfits them for society that is good, but causes their friends a great deal of grief, and is a disgrace to the place in which they live.

"We trust that all young men who have any respect for themselves, their friends or those with whom they associate, will never be guilty of an act of this kind, but will endeavor under all circumstances to live normal and respectable lives."

This newspaper, which was loaned to us by Stub Robinson, also told of the starting of a paper called the "Utica Sentinel." The Oxford paper said, "It looks well, but we fear Cully & Co. will find the town rather small for a paper."

The Sentinel is now a daily of 9810 circulation.

I have seen MSU play football 3 times this year... and after seeing Michigan play I came to the conclusion that both teams and both bands who participated October 18 in East Lansing are mediocre.

The selections played by the band at halftime aroused and enthused only the most partisan fans... as did the play of MSU, and Michigan couldn't even please the partisan fan.

Schools vandalized

Clarkston Elementary School on Waldon road was the scene of vandalism over the weekend. A total of twenty-one windows were smashed by rock throwers. Six of the windows were located on the side near the road while the others were located toward the back of the building.

School officials state that the window replacement costs average close to $80 each. This does not include installation

London. Young Bill Offer and a couple friends, all students at Ferris, called the number.

The first response from London was a "Hello," and when Bill asked to speak to Paul McCartney, the phone was hung-up.

The boys from Ferris called again. This time the answer was "He's not here!" and a click.

The operator informed them the call cost $18.00. That didn't bother these boys. They started telling what they had done, leaving out the response from London... then sold that useless information they had gained for $2.00 a crack.

expense. All of the work was completed so that school sessions were not interrupted.

It was not immediately determined when the damage occurred, although school officials state that the building was intact on Friday night.

On Monday evening the new Junior High building on Sashabaw road was defaced with spray paint. Obscene language was used by the painters as they sprayed ten to twelve windows toward the back of the new building. A construction van was also painted with obscenities as was the base of the flag pole. Sheriff's deputies were called as soon as the damage was discovered. The paint had all been removed shortly after school started on Tuesday morning, stated Mel Vaara, principal at that building. Mr. Vaara also issued an appeal to the students over the public address system for respect for taxpayers' property.

Contaminant isn't bacteria

Although hundreds of thousands of gallons of water have been pumped through the new 8-inch emergency lines put in to serve waterless people in southwest Independence, the Health Department was still not approving it for use at our last report.

Various ingredients have been added to the water to clean the lines of the contaminant, but it hasn't worked.

The word contaminant would stike most people as meaning a bacteria. In this case it isn't. What has happened is the plastic lining in the iron pipe and the cement that holds the plastic in place has come loose.

In taking samples of the water, masses of this cement-plastic combination have come out at one time.

The people who manufacture the pipe told Independence township officials that this is only the third time the plastic and cement are known to have loosened from the pipe.

By Jean Sura

Do you remember the story of "The Ugly Duckling"? I have got one to rival it. I guess it would have to be called "The Crazy Goose," and it all started last summer.

We live on a small lake. It adjoins a large tract of land that is a game and wildlife preserve. Years ago somebody planted some wild Canada geese on our lake.

It has made a happy circumstance. With the game preserve so close, the geese have thrived and been productive. In return they have acted as decoys for the migrating Canadas and have provided an unrivaled wildlife show for the residents. The worst thing that can be said of a human kid growing up on the lake is that "he disturbed the nests of the geese," and if this is proven true the kid is in serious trouble with the whole neighborhood.

Each spring, around Mother's Day, the adult geese will introduce their little goslings to the humans and show them how to get hand-outs.

The goose show runs all summer. The little yellow-green puffballs start to grow and change colors. It seems like no time at all when they have developed markings like the adults. Whether it is from instinct or training, they have a fantastic knowledge of formation swimming and flying. We swear that the parents give "formation swimming and flying lessons" to the adolescents. The parents are fiercely protective but the young are strictly disciplined.

Anyway, this summer the show had an added attraction. Along about the middle of the summer four young, white, domestic goslings appeared on the lake.

"Hey, grab your camera and come get a picture of this," Gene yelled one day.

Dutiful wife that I am, I left the butter to sour in the churn, tripped over the spinning wheel and jumped to the command.

I grabbed my camera which is called an idiot box. It is called by that name because it is so automatic, supposedly, only an idiot could miss a good picture. Anyway, I dashed down to the lakeshore and there was the picture you see.

One of the white goslings had either been kidnapped by the Canada geese or had run away from home of its own accord.

The rest of the summer, it spent in the midst of that family. The other three whites tended to their knitting and stayed by themselves.

In fall the offspring of our lake geese often mate with the wild migrating critters and leave with the large flocks.

The Crazy Goose part of the story is that yesterday, the skies were overcast as they are apt to be when the geese do their serious flying, and I saw a flock winging and honking and calling in their own wonderful way. Guess who was winging and honking and calling right along with them? You bet, it was the crazy white goose that thinks it is a Canada. Apparently it has been accepted by the Canada Goose Society, with no questions asked.

It sure looked strange but maybe there is a lesson somewhere in the story. I wonder how Canada geese work out a problem like that. It surely seemed peaceful.

I'll think twice before I use the expression "Silly as a goose."

Ortonville Old Mill is Haunted

An aura of mystery surrounds the Old Mill as Halloween draws near. Strange sounds are heard nightly and a Mr. Ken Roundings was seen carrying a coffin into the building one night recently. Many UFO's have also been sighted in the area.

The Ortonville Community Historical Society has been informed that a band of SPOOKS are invading the Mill on Halloween and they are inviting everyone with a strong heart to come over and meet them. Frankenstein, Black Ghosts and a fortune-telling witch can all be seen in the Chamber of Horrors. Both children and adults are invited to join in hair raising fun on Spook the Mill Night, Friday, Oct. 31 from 7-11.

Taking temperatures

When you're told to take a person's temperature, it is often assumed that everybody knows just how this is done properly. And when it isn't done just right, the resulting misinformation can be dangerous.

Hold the instrument firmly at the top (never by the bulb) and shake it with a quick flick of the wrist until it registers 95°F or less. To read it, roll it back and forth between your fingers—still holding it by the top—until you can clearly see the ribbon of mercury. The degree of temperature is recorded at the top of the ribbon.

Make sure the patient hasn't had a hot or cold drink within 15 minutes prior to taking the temperature. Place the thermometer under his tongue, tell him to close his mouth, and leave the thermometer in place for at least three minutes.

Read the thermometer again, carefully and quickly. An arrow usually marks the normal range between 98° and 99°. Slight variations are usually not important, but should be noted.

After using it, the thermometer should be cleaned with cotton balls saturated in cool water and soap. Rub firmly to get into the grooves and around the bulb. Never put the thermometer in hot water, since it reads only up to 110°F and will break at higher temperatures. Clean it off twice, and then "rinse" with clean cotton saturated with cool water. Always store the thermometer in its case when not in use, to keep it clean and safe.

The silent citizen

There's a real wild picture in the Oct. 10 issue of Time magazine of a man with no mouth. It's titled "the silent citizen." It's a full color photograph, not a drawing, of a man whose face appears normal except for skin and whisker stubble where the mouth usually is.

It's most eye catching, naturally, and a side note says Time provided the space at no cost for the creative use of Dancer-Fitzgerald-Sample, Inc. advertising of N.Y.

The short message with the ad tells about the silent citizen. We endorse the message and reprint it here:

Students riot. Races clash. Crime grows. Traffic snarls. Cities decay. Millions of people say nothing, do nothing. The silent citizens. Men without mouths.

Other voices are heard. Loud voices, with passionate convictions, crying for action. Whether their causes are good or bad, right or wrong, the silent citizen looks away.

He's often well informed and he has good ideas of his own, but he saves them for his wife and friends and people he meets at cocktail parties. He never bothers to get them across to his congressman or his newspaper or City Hall or the school board. He never comes out in the open to confront the other point of view.

If he stays silent long enough, the other point of view wins out... unless its supporters suddenly become silent too. Then they go nowhere together, silently waiting for time to run out.

Thought nor decision sudden

Considering the "precaution" taken by secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Robert Finch, prior to announcing that cyclamates might be injurious to your health, we can't get too worried

"If It Fitz . . ."

Keep the generals busy

Mostly to help General Carl Turner and the military-munitions complex, I infiltrated a peace rally on Moratorium Day.

But I admit I hedged my bet, just in case my theory didn't work. I told my wife to spend that day driving around town with her headlights on.

The marvelous thing about a democracy is the instant control we little people have over big things.

Imagine. All I had to do was stand in front of the court house and listen to some anti-war speeches and presto! Hanoi is encouraged and the Vietnam war is prolonged. Nixon said so. And maybe General Turner won't have to sell his guns.

Imagine again. Just in case my presence was misunderstood, and actually aided the protesters' efforts to end the war, I had a perfect self-destruct mechanism. All my wife had to do was flick on her carlights and she wiped out my stand at the court house. The Nixon men said beaming bulbs in the sunshine meant non-support for Moratorium Day. My wife could cancel my vote without getting out of the car, a curb service which might soon be offered on election days. What a splendid country.

It took no small amount of bravery to attend the Moratorium program. Peace rallies aren't very big in 6,000-population towns and at first I figured it would be a pretty harmless thing. But then some smart people wised me up. Our city manager went on the radio and said the cops were ready for trouble. The VFW commander said the rally was run by Communist dupes. Spiro Agnew said war protesters get mail from Hanoi. And an anonymous phone call warned that I'd make an easy target about drinking low calorie pops.

The news was broken by a female journalist on Long Island. Finch denied it until after the stock market closed Friday.

Interviewed at the time he said he deliberately held off until the market closed so it wouldn't have any effect.

Our man in charge of our health admittedly waited until the stock market closed before telling us cyclamates caused cancer in mice or rats. We wonder how long he knew it before Friday afternoon? He knew the sweetener caused cancer before Friday afternoon. But, really, how long before?

How can a man think there is a possibility of cyclamates causing cancer in us, which he must have or he wouldn't have banned it, and put it off for any reason?

among all those unwashed demonstrators because I'm over 30 and don't even have long sideburns.

I was scared, I'll admit. But I was also worried about General Turner. I figure he's one of the big things we little people should do something about. So I contributed one more warm body to the rally, determined to do my backslash best to keep the general in business.

You've read about General Turner. He's lately been defending himself before a congressional investigating committee. The Chicago police chief says he gave General Turner a mess of guns to be put in an Army museum. Turner admits he sold the guns and pocketed the dough. But, says the general, the chief knew darn well the guns were for him and not for the Army. The chief says the general is a liar.

I'm really not concerned about which man is fibbing. What bugs me is this: What is one of our generals doing selling his guns?

Hasn't he got anyone to shoot?

What's this country coming to, anyway? Geez.

We obviously need every war we can get. Otherwise, we won't be getting our money's worth out of our generals. And if there's one thing we don't need, it's more waste in the Pentagon.

Also, a war shortage could increase welfare problems. Munition companies would fail and they wouldn't be able to hire retired generals as vice presidents. All that brass on breadlines would be embarrassing to our great nation.

So that's why I was a turncoat at the peace rally. In my devious way, I was fighting a war gap.

Reformation celebration

Last Sunday, October 26, was unique for 103 people. They gathered to celebrate an event 452 years old, but they also met to welcome the future. These people are members of Calvary Lutheran and St. Daniel Roman Catholic Churches, and for the first time in Clarkston's experience these two groups worshipped together on the anniversary of the Protestant Reformation.

The celebration began with a prayer service at St. Daniel at 7:30 p.m. The congregation stood while the participants processed. The Rev. Fr. Francis Weingartz, Rev. Arlon K. Stubbe, and lay readers Richard Hall and Dallas Lippincott took part in the service. After an opening hymn which praised God for all blessings, a brief prayer for Christian brotherhood was given, and the first Lesson was read.

One of the unintended pleasures of the evening came during the singing of a new folk hymn, accompanied by guitar. Though neither congregation has used it often before, it seemed that the message somehow carried the melody along: "We are one in the Spirit, We are one in the Lord, and we pray that all unity may one day be restored. And they'll know we are Christians by our love, by our love."

The service closed with a Prayer of the Faithful, during which people were urged to offer their own petitions for unity and Christian brotherhood, the reciting together of the Nicene Creed — a commonly-held statement of faith from the year 325 A.D. — and the singing of a final hymn.

After the half-hour service, everyone drove to Calvary for an hour of refreshments and fellowship. Coffee, punch and cookies were supplied jointly by women from both congregations. A special display in the narthex gave people a chance to closely examine the various educational and worship materials of both denominations. Pastor Stubbe and Fr. Weingartz were both available during the hour for questions and discussion.

The response from those attending was excellent. Many suggested further meetings in the near future, perhaps a Christmas caroling session or a joint meeting of youth groups of women's organizations. One person suggested that a steering committee be formed to plan year-around observances of Christian unity between the two churches, and all expressed the feeling that "once a year is just not enough."

452 years ago, Martin Luther began a reform movement which, unfortunately, had very damaging results for the Church along with its improvements. Perhaps, in a small way, history was made in Clarkston last Sunday evening when two small groups of Christians came together again. The Church is still being reformed!

Snow job

by Haslett Hemmor

Seems like everyone likes to yack about the forgotten man. While back it was the teachers that figured they'd been forgotten. Some folks say that because of this or that, they've been forgotten or maybe shut out by the skilled trades union.

Me? Far's I'm concerned, I work my job down at the garage and, more often than not, I hope they do forget me. Least I hope they forget to get on my back about the monthly inventories, that there's no time to take and stuff like that.

Maybe more forgotten than people are most of our roads. Other night on TV this character is talking about how great it is we have 3 million miles of roads, including 22 thousand miles of freeways. Fellow says that for every 150 miles of regular roads, we now have a mile of super-highway.

My beef, and I sure can't be alone, is that the one mile of super gets 10 times as much service as the 150 miles of ordinary roads. Comes a heavy snow and every blamed piece of plowing equipment works for days on that little one mile, and the 150 miles of road - 'specially right in front of my house - sit and wait. So do I.

It's a common sense fact that we must be paying maybe five times as much for road care as we used to pay. It's a sure enough cinch that we don't get 1/5 the service we used to on side roads.

Time was that gravel roads got manicured maybe once a week. Now we're lucky if they get a lick-and-dab scraping couple times a year. Nothing wrong with supers, but it would sure be nice if you could get to 'em to use 'em instead of sitting there stuck in the middle of a big old mudhole waiting for hours until the wrecker can finally get to you for the third time in a week.

Now all this is no secret, and they'll maybe find a cure for the common cold before they cure the road problems, but it sure does steam folks up.

Take old Matt Lyman, for example. His daughter, Theresa, set her wedding date for February 24.

Tessie's no beauty queen and she was crowding 26 or 27 when she finally found a live one. Nothing wrong with Tessie, understand, nothing anyway that plastic surgery and losing 60 pounds wouldn't help.

An only child, Tessie was, and old Matt had made a barrel of wine for her wedding when she was six. Guess he'd near come to the conclusion he was going to have to drink it all himself. All Tessie's girl friends married and raising families and all.

So young Wilson Woodward moves into the area. Conservation guy, he is. Has something to do with fish. Works down at the hatchery.

Wilson's what you might call a bachelor kind of fellow. We all called him "Young Wilson" on account of old Wilson Thompson has always been the only Wilson in these parts. Young Wilson Woodward is 35 or thereabouts and soon he's having dinner three, four times a week with the Lymans.

Tessie's sure no beauty queen, but she can cook. Guess maybe it's because this chubby girl so loves to eat and her Ma can't cook for sour apples. Could be there's truth to the old saying about the way to a man's heart. Leastwise, it was the way to Young Wilson's and they set the date.

Her Pa insisted that they marry at the house. Could be he was thinking about the problems of moving that barrel of wine to a hall in town. Anyway, date's set for February 24 and Mama Lyman is near going out of her mind hanging wallpaper and trying to get Matt to put up the storms that he should've put up last November.

History is made at this year's Powder Puff game, as the Junior girls outrun the Seniors to earn a victory by the narrow margin of two points. The final score was 14 to 12.

SEMCOG report shows Independence growing fast

The Planning Division of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) has issued a report on the number of dwelling units authorized in the Detroit region. The report covers the first six months of 1969.

According to the study, first-half residential permits increased 15.4% over last year in the Detroit area. A total of 15,273 units were authorized during this period of 1969 compared to 13,237 for the same time in 1968.

All counties except St. Clair registered gains, ranging from a low of 7.7% in Oakland to a high of 58% in Monroe.

Clarkston is on record as authorizing a total of 3 single-family dwellings and no two or multi-family units.

Independence Township is reported as gaining 91 single-family and 133 multi-family units, as well as having one demolition for a net total of 223.

Springfield Township is credited with 35 new single-family dwellings.

Ortonville showed an addition of 3 single-family units, while Brandon Township added 43.

Orion Township lists 74 single-family, and Oxford Township 23.

The figures show that Independence Township is the seventh largest growing area in Oakland County during the past six months. Southfield leads all with a net gain of 796; Troy also had a sizeable increase of 587; West Bloomfield, Farmington, and Bloomfield Townships and Madison Heights also recorded larger increases than Independence.

Wolves bow to Kettering in Homecoming defeat

By Mike Saile

Clarkston Wolves lost their Homecoming game Friday to the Kettering Captains by a score of 36-6.

At halftime the queen, Karrie Garlak, was presented with a tiara and a bouquet of roses by last year's queen, Vikki Hall. Sophomores won the float contest with a tortoise carrying the world on its back. The theme for this year's Homecoming was mythology.

Clarkston scored their only points in the game during the second quarter. The Wolves punted the ball to the Captains' 3-yard line where Kettering fumbled and the ball went into the Wolves' hands. On two more fumbles and three plays, the Wolves' Dan Hallman crossed over the goal line. On a run for the extra points, Kurt Richardson, No. 42, slipped and was tackled.

The Captains scored one touchdown and two extra points on a run in the first quarter. In the second quarter Kettering scored two touchdowns, one run for the extra points and also a kick for one more point. At halftime Kettering had a lead of 23-6.

During the third quarter the Captains gained an additional 7 points on a touchdown and kick. The fourth quarter gave them six more points, giving them their final tally of 36 points.

Tomorrow night the Wolves will meet the Milford Redskins on Milford's home field.

Juniors triumphant

Two lost contact lenses delayed a Clarkston football game last week, but the holdup wasn't the only unusual event of the evening.

The football players wore pony tails and sneakers and giggled a lot. The mini-skirted cheerleaders cheered with surprisingly deep voices.

It was the annual Powder Puff game with the senior girls pitted against the junior girls, and for the first time in four years the juniors came out on top, beating the seniors by a score of 14-12.

Making touchdowns for the victorious juniors were Beth Cowen and Debbie Molter. The extra and winning 2 points were picked up by Val LePere on a run.

First to score were the seniors in the first quarter, Jody Hawke carrying the ball, and then Debbie Peters added 6 more points in the second on a 70-yard run.

The juniors scored their first six points in the first quarter and picked up the winning 8 points in the third.

There was some talk following the game about the junior girls taking on the school's varsity team, which has been winless all year.

Mr. Jim Chamberlain, head coach for the seniors, now has a clean shaven face. He had recklessly promised to shave off his mustache, should his team be defeated.

Assisting Chamberlain as coach was Chris Krenger.

Coaches for the juniors were George White and Jim McArthur.

Serving as refs were Toby Colter, George Kinser and Paul Tungate.

Members of the winning team were:
Offense: Carolyn Jorgenson, Cindy Porritt, Debbie Molter, Val LePere, Pam Jones, Cindy Gerber, Karen MacDougall, Linda Champeau, Beth Cowen and Linda Slade.

Cross Country team places third

The Clarkston cross country team last Saturday did its best, but came in third out of 24 schools in the regional meet at Oakland University.

Their team score of 83, topped by Pontiac Northern with 49 and Brother Rice High School of Birmingham with 52, means that the team will not compete in state finals. Only the top two teams are eligible.

Two team runners, however, will take part in individual competition in the state finals. They are Fred Seyler who placed third, and Dan Dankert, who placed fourth. To be eligible for state competition an individual must place among the top ten.

Coach Bruce said, "Saturday the boys ran the fastest they ever have, with each one clocked under 10.51 minutes for the two-mile track."

The team went into the regionals unbeaten in dual competition.

Finals are scheduled next Saturday at the Washtenaw Country Club in Ypsilanti.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Tremper

Tremper's celebrate golden anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Tremper will be honored on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary with a buffet dinner dance on November 1st. Two daughters, Mrs. Norman Edwards and Mrs. Robert L. Morse of Waterford, will attend the party at the Mountain View Country Club. Also attending will be three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

The couple, who live at 3913 Nelsey Rd., were married at Central Methodist Church in Pontiac on October 30, 1919.

Mr. Tremper retired in 1964 from the Foley and Beardslee Lumber Company after 25 years of service.

Around the Town

by W.O.S.

The Homer E. Richmonds, of 6101 Overlook Drive, Clarkston, were surprised by their children and many old friends and neighbors a few days ago on the advent of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary.

Daughters Virginia, Dayton, Ohio; Pat, Columbia Station, Ohio; Sandra, Traverse City; Caroline, Pontiac and their families, and Michele, at home, were in attendance as was their son, Donald from Ann Arbor. Sons Allan, Irving, Texas; Harry, a career Army officer now serving overseas, daughters Mary Ann, Louisville, Ky.; and Nancy, a student at Ohio State University, were unable to be here.

Former neighbors and old friends from the southeastern area of Michigan came to pay their respects.

The reception was held at the American Legion Hall in Clarkston, where a buffet was served.

The Clarkston area Jaycees will hold their Halloween party on Saturday, November 1, at the Loyal Wing Club. Everyone is expected to come in costume and it promises to be a most enjoyable evening.

The Springfield Township Senior Citizens, Joggers will meet at noon on Saturday, November 1 in the Township Hall, Davisburg. Cooperative dinner and meeting will be held at this time.

Brad Funk of Cramiane is a patient at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

Rusty Leaf was the hero of the Thursday night "Bonfire" at the High School. When she arrived to take pictures there was no sign of the makings for a fire so she got busy, gathered them up, and it was one of the best.

The annual Mothers' Tea was held on Thursday, October 23 in the room of Mrs. Mabel Marsh, third grade teacher at the Bailey Lake School. The purpose of the tea is to build a better relationship between the school and home, and also to explain to the mothers the school's policies which are often misconstrued by the children. The tea was well attended by twenty-one mothers who were enlightened in many areas.

Mrs. Richard Fox has returned to her home on Sashabaw road after an eight-day stay at Pontiac General Hospital.

The sophomore class wishes to express our appreciation to all who aided us in our task of building the (winning) homecoming float. Special "thank yous" to Mr. and Mrs. Tower, Mr. and Mrs. Miller, Haupt Pontiac and the parents who offered their support and cooperation.

Thanks Again,
Class of '72

Membership is theme of tea

The Membership Tea for the Waterford-Clarkston Business and Professional Women was held October 23, at the Independence Square Club House.

Madlyn Vick, District 10 Membership Chairman, was guest speaker. Her topic was "Membership."

Refreshments were served.

Jaycettes aid Viet orphans

The Clarkston Jaycettes are working with eight chapters of District 12 Jaycee Auxiliary in initiating a drive for clothing and supplies for the Phuoc-Thien Orphanage and the villagers in An Khe, Vietnam.

The needs of these people were brought to their attention by Army Sergeant Jack Handy of Birmingham, who spent one year of duty in Vietnam and who recently returned to An Khe. Sgt. Handy spent several months in active combat duty, during which time he experienced a partial hearing loss. He was then transferred to a civic pacification program for the Vietnamese in An Khe. He and an Army Lieutenant are in charge of an area which contains 12,210 people.

The orphanage is in this area.

"Medical supplies and food can be obtained," he said, "but otherwise the children and villagers have nothing." The 63 children in the orphanage are mostly the children of Vietnam ministers, missionaries and hamlet chiefs who were assassinated by the Vietcong.

The articles needed are:

1. Clothing - particularly in the size 3-10 range, lightweight jackets, as the lowest temperatures are in the 40's. These articles need not be in perfect condition as they can be mended by the older girls in the orphanage.
2. Books - any condition as long as they are readable.
3. Puzzles and games - any toys, as these are non-existent there.
4. Candy - non-perishable and individually wrapped, such as your children receive on Halloween.
5. Pens and pencils - any condition as long as they are usable.
6. Writing paper - even if it is used on one side.
7. Any pieces of chalk and scrap material.

Also needed are boxes for shipping any articles. Any donations to help pay the shipping charges would be appreciated. Checks may be made payable to: The Pontiac Jaycee Auxiliary, 2384 St. Joseph Rd., Pontiac, Michigan 48053.

Any of the Ogg Cleaners in the Pontiac area may be used as a drop off station. The central drop off station is the National Guard Armory in Pontiac. The shipping deadline is November 15, so all articles should be there by November 8.

Slick Trick

When you travel by car, give each child a metal cake pan with a sliding lid. Inside, they can keep crayons, coloring books, pencils and paper. When the lid is closed, they also have a writing surface.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Ralph Wilson are announcing the birth of a baby girl, Vicki, born in St. Joseph Hospital on October 28. She weighed 7 lbs., 13 oz. Awaiting her arrival at home is a sister, Wendy Kay, 2 1/2 years old. Proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Maslowski of Drayton Plains and Russell Wilson of Clarkston.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Thibert, 6480 Eastlawn, Clarkston, are the proud parents of a 7 lb., 5 oz. baby boy: Ralph Edward, born October 16, 1969. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Humphreys of Pontiac. Ralph Edward is the 45th grandchild. Paternal grandmother is Mrs. June Dovigi of Ontario. There is one sister at home, Michelle.

Carol Steward and Chuck Roberts, newcomers to the Clarkston Village Players, will have lead roles in the November 7, 8, 14 and 15 melodrama, "Pure as the Driven Snow" or "A Working Girl's Secret." Tickets for the play, which will be presented at the depot, may be obtained from members or at the door.

Jack Smith, manager of the Bateman Realty Company, makes good use of the antique brass coat rack in his office.

Interesting people

By Rusty Leaf

Tastefully blended in the decor of the offices at the Bateman Realty Company on the Dixie Highway is the timeless beauty of antiques and the priceless value of modern living.

The antiques, which range from striking Tiffany lamps to brass coat racks and contrast the modern surroundings, are the personal furnishings of the manager, Jack Smith, an antique collector for over 24 years. These years go back to the time when Mr. Smith was a farm auctioneer.

He has always harbored a special love for the beauty of Tiffany lamps, and owns over thirty-one similar items. Six of the Tiffany lamps possess the required Tiffany signature. One of the lamps, of unknown value, has been insured by Mr. Smith's insurance company.

After serving in World War II, Mr. Smith began antique collecting. However, this hobby took a back seat when his parents' home burned. This led him down his second path of searching.

He relates how on one of these searches he found an old trunk which revealed a leather wallet containing a portion of newspaper printed two weeks after the death of George Washington and detailing the events of the president's funeral. (The paper has no way of being authenticated.)

In the meantime, the hobby, which began for Mr. Smith many years ago, is now shared daily with employees and visitors to his office.

Free booklet

A new bulletin detailing how to prepare venison for the dinner table is now available through the Cooperative Extension Service at Michigan State University.

Entitled "Venison . . . Upper Peninsula Style," the 20-page pamphlet offers guidelines for the handling of deer meat from the moment the animal is shot through dressing out, skinning and cutting up into traditional dinner parcels.

Drama seminar at Meadow Brook

Meadow Brook Theatre season ticket holders can become real "theatre buffs" this year. Christopher Ross-Smith of Oakland University's Academy of Dramatic Arts will lead a weekly seminar "Meadow Brook Theatre - Stage and Backstage" to examine both practical and aesthetic problems involved in professional theatre production.

Ross-Smith's series, beginning October 17, will focus on Meadow Brook's current productions and draw from the theatre company and staff to uncover areas of acting, training, direction, production, lighting and even costuming.

With such popular productions as "Black Comedy," "The American Dream," "The Cocktail Party," and "Pygmalion" scheduled, the Friday evening seminars promise to be both enlightening and enjoyable.

Season ticket holders may register for "Stage and Backstage" at reduced fees; others wishing to attend will also receive tickets to this fall and winter's stage productions.

For information and registration, contact Oakland University's Division of Continuing Education, Rochester, Michigan 48063. Phone 377-2000, extension 2171.

Sermon title

"Go ye and learn what that meaneth, I will have mercy, and not sacrifice: for I am not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance." These words of Jesus are part of this Sunday's Christian Science Lesson-Sermon titled "Everlasting Punishment."

A passage from "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy explains that Jesus "rebuked sinners pointedly and unflinchingly, because he was their friend; hence the cup he drank."

Services, open to the public, will begin at 11 a.m. at First Church of Christ Scientist, Oxford.

A SPIRITUAL Message

ST. DANIEL'S CHURCH
Father Francis A. Weingartz

"Above all hold unfeignedly your love for one another, since love covers a multitude of sins." 1 Peter 4:8.

THE POWER OF LOVE

Love finds the element of good in everyone and builds on it. It does not magnify defects. Love sees the other person's point of view even when it cannot be embraced. Love knows how to disagree without becoming disagreeable. Love rejoices at the success of others instead of being envious. Love can put up with another's peculiarities. It does not scorn, ridicule or belittle. Instead, it tactfully inspires faith, hope and charity in those who make mistakes.

You will add meaning and purpose to your life if you show by daily practice that you understand that love makes reasonable allowance for the faults and weaknesses of others. St. Paul says: "Bear with one another's burdens, and so you will fulfill the law of Christ." You will add new meaning to your life if you show by your example that you recognize that love strives to make a bad situation better instead of merely "griping" about it. The more you are motivated by love of others, the fuller, richer and more purposeful your life becomes. And so strive to grow in love. Ponder frequently and prayerfully this good advise of Paul, the Apostle: "Love is always patient and kind; it is never jealous; love is never boastful or conceited; it is never rude or selfish; it does not take offense, and is not resentful. Love takes no pleasure in other people's sins but delights in the truth; it is always ready to excuse, to trust, to hope, and to endure whatever comes."

Teach stone polishing at lapidary show

The members of the Family Lapidary Club of Waterford Township are busy planning and preparing their booth and exhibits for the 1969 Gem and Mineral Show sponsored by the Michigan Mineralogical Society which is to be held in Detroit November 1 and 2.

The Show Chairmen for the Family Lapidary Club are Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Kasten with Mrs. William Rescoe and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Taig assisting as co-chairmen.

The committee and other members of the club will take the cutting, grinding and polishing equipment from the club grinding room in the CAI Building to the Light Guard Armory in Detroit, where it will be set up in an instruction and demonstration booth which has been one of the most interesting features of the show in previous years.

Each year members of the club man the booth, instructing visitors in the art of the lapidary. Persons visiting the booth are each given a free lesson in grinding and polishing a stone and leave with the polished stone as a souvenir that can be readily made into a piece of jewelry. This experience may be the beginning of an interesting and absorbing hobby that may last a lifetime.

Besides the instruction booth members will have more than 50 display cases exhibiting their prize specimens and examples of the lapidary art.

Visitors to the Gem and Mineral Show at the Detroit Light Guard Armory, East Eight Mile road, Detroit, on either Saturday, November 1 from 9:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. or on Sunday, November 2 from 9:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. will see exhibits by members of many other clubs, as well as commercial exhibits where one may buy finished jewelry and other gift items as well as the material for making them.

Scientific Prayer

Before men could fly the first airplane, they had to do more than want to fly, they had to learn the laws of flight to set them free from the earth.

Similarly, when men pray and seem to receive no answer, can it be that they have something first to learn about prayer... and about the benevolent laws of God?

Hear Harold Rogers, C.S., of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship, speak on "Scientific Prayer."

Ah,

go ahead, man,
- you can afford it

by Don Lytle

"Sophistication" is a word literally on the lips of babes these days. (Its elocution is sweet but can be sticky!) The word is usually used in a context suggesting worldly wisdom, desirability or some other kind of appealing quality. However, consider its original meaning.

Historically, sophists were ancient Greeks well schooled in specious logic. That is, sophism was a clever but false method of reasoning practiced by teachers, philosophers, politicians and other clever men of the day. Sophistication originally meant "falsification and artificiality."

The popular definition of the word seems to be an almost about face from the original. Americans boast of the sophistication of their technology, their children, their tastes, their entire society - sophistication for the sophisticated Americans. The word now seems to suggest desirability worth purchasing, depth worth worshipping. Sophistication and its derivatives are very "camp" these days, but I think we should call a spade a spade. We should consider our sophisticated luxury for what it really is.

Someone has said that the greatest reward of the luxurious life is simply more luxury. Maybe that is why I get uneasy when Detroit suggests that I now need a third car in my two-car garage. "And it keeps our sophisticated economy going," the economists quickly add. (Do they really mean "false and artificial" economy?) Indeed, it seems the prerequisite for being a patriot these days is to consume ravenously, to overextend oneself in the name of mother, flag and God. To be sophisticated, one need only to consume. How grand! How expensive! Somehow a sophisticated gloom hangs over me when I consider the sophisticated expenses that will invade my sophisticated budget maintained by a very unsophisticated income if I buy another sophisticated automobile.

Just how sophisticated can we afford to be, anyway? Seven per cent of the world's population consuming thirty-four per cent of its raw materials while the rest of the world stares at our theatrics in disbelief. I often suffer stage fright when I consider our quality of performance. And does the world, a captive audience, like the play? I think we know that answer. A full house but the majority can't even afford the popcorn and popcorn comes cheap.

The god is Gross National Product; the altar is bloody and worn with much use. On this altar the new believer must relinquish his simplicity for economic complexity and loss of spiritual identity in a consumer-oriented society where luxuries become necessities as a matter of economic course. Proud consumption is now his code of ethics, the advertisement his Bible, the Jones next door his great high priest.

To hear of an occasional American who loves this religion of luxury and sophistication but who frequently feels threatened by it, who sometimes snaps and snarls and squirms when he is forced to face himself within it reactivates my faith in man's deep desire not to be dominated or manipulated. (Even the subtle persuasion of Detroit is sometimes transparent.)

"I wonder what it would cost to enlarge my garage to make room for my new GNPSS wagon, my inboard-outboard, my new snow-mobile, my twin motorcycles, my giant barbecue grill - and the new Automaton 390 Rally Sprint Model J-4, should I buy him that car for his graduation? He's a good kid but I don't want to seem extravagant ..."

Ah, go ahead, man, you can afford it. After all, it's your economic duty and you are a sophisticated American.

Drug usage topic for CAP

Under the auspices of Chief William Stokes, Waterford Township Police Department, Lt. David Putnam will be the guest speaker on November 5 at the Clarkston Composite Squadron Civil Air Patrol.

The program is scheduled for 7:00 p.m. at the unit's headquarters at the Terminal Building, Oakland-Pontiac Airport, and will be aimed at the teenager who might unwittingly be introduced to drugs. STORY OF HALLOWEEN

by Richard A. Young

Tomorrow night, ghosts and goblins will rule the skies and the imaginations of men. Witches can best be seen at the exact moment they emerge from behind dark clouds. Their peaked hats and long brooms show clearly just as they break into the fringe of light surrounding each Halloween cloud. Look closely, it may be your neighbor's wife.

Until recently the evening of October 31 was spelled always with an apostrophe, Hallowe'en. Before that, this night was called "Hallow Even" because of its being the eve or vigil of All Hallows, the last evening before the festival of All Saints, which occurs November 1.

Many beliefs and observances connected with Halloween go back before the Christian era. Superstitions of Halloween have been traced to the fall festivals of pagan peoples.

The Druids of ancient era held a three-day celebration at the beginning of November. This was a period of thanksgiving marking the end of all harvests for the year. For the Druids, this was the beginning of the new year and the festival of the sun god. On the evening before November 1, the Druids built bonfires to drive away any spirits of the dead that might happen to be roaming in the vicinity. They believed that on October 31 the lord of death gathered together all the souls of the dead and decided which living animal forms they should assume. To the Druids, the cat was sacred.

Later, in early Rome, a similar celebration, the festival of Pomona was held at about the same time of year. Pomona was the goddess of fruits and gardens. The Romans, too, had great bonfires.

With the coming of Christianity, celebrating at this time of year became a feast honoring all saints. Peasants accepted this as a religious period but hung on to many of the old pagan beliefs and customs which had become the legend of Halloween.

Many, in these years, believed completely that the future could be told on that night by those who jumped over lighted candles.

The custom of masks may have originated with the "guisers", young people in the British Isles who disguised themselves in grotesque masks and carried lanterns carved from the large turnips which they collected as they frolicked from one village to another throughout the night. In the north of England, Halloween is still known as "Nutcrack Night," a carry-over from harvest celebrations.

In early Scotland, as in most other places, the evening involved a strange blend of awesome superstition and frivolity. Burns' poetry captures the humorous and richly imaginative flavor of the early Scotch rural district celebrations.

Among strange tales handed down over the centuries is the legend that anyone born on this night has the ability to see and to talk with the supernatural beings floating about through space since the beginning of time.

Origin of the Jack-O'-Lanterns carried on Halloween apparently may have come from early Irish folklore. There is a story of an early Irishman named Jack who was barred from heaven because of being extremely miserly; Jack was also forbidden to enter hell because he had previously played jokes on the devil. For these reasons, he was condemned to walk the earth with his lantern until Judgment Day.

Belief in witches and witchcraft may have started with the ancient Egyptians. Elements of the same old witch legends were believed by the American Indians. Opinions of the Christian Church on witchcraft have varied over the centuries. By the end of the fifteenth century thousands of women accused of witchcraft had been executed in "civilized" countries.

Even in America the general belief in witchcraft was once common. Here "witches" were often charged with making wax images of their victims and sticking pins in the images to cause illness or death. Similar practices with dolls were actually carried on both in Africa and by the American Indians.

Many cat superstitions are directly connected with the various legends of Halloween. If a cat sits contentedly beside a person on Halloween, some think this forecasts prosperity for the lucky person. If the cat rubs against one at this time of year, it means good luck and the good fortune is said to increase if the cat jumps into your lap.

Another old superstition, perhaps original in frugal Quaker Pennsylvania, is that anyone eating a dry crust of bread before going to bed on Halloween may have any single wish fulfilled.

The Lutheran Church observes October 31, or the Sunday nearest, as the start of the Protestant Reformation. Nevada became a state October 31, 1864.

In some sections of America, the vandalism and property destruction once practiced in only milder versions once a year have become a year-around practice.

they commanded the Salvation Army Citadel. Their daughter, Amy Evangeline, is with Mrs. Cheydleur in Pontiac, where they are residing.

To some, the Salvation Army is a Red Shield thrift store; to some it is a big red truck driving through the neighborhood to pick up an old dresser; to some it is an elderly lady ringing a kettle bell at Christmas; to some it is a summer camp; to others it is a meal ticket, or a ride, or a food order or a place to stay overnight or get clothing after a fire. To very many grateful men, the Salvation Army is a cup of coffee and a doughnut on the front lines, or a telephone call home, or postage stamps. All these are the Salvation Army, but this is not the complete picture. The Salvation Army is a non-denominational part of the Christian church.

Mrs. Cheydleur announced that the worship service held at the Salvation Army on Sunday mornings at 11:00 is open to all who are not attending any other church at that time. There is also a meeting for women, held bi-weekly at 10:00 on Wednesdays, which is open to any ladies regardless of church affiliation. She explained that this women's group is the "service club" of the Salvation Army, and that any women interested in helping others in this way are invited to attend.

Kutting Korner

by Jean Sura

I'll trade a recipe (my mother's) for pumpkin pie filling if somebody will tell me how to make a 1 crust pie shell where the edges don't all fall down and run back into the pan. I have already tried putting it on an inverted pan but every time I make a pie shell it all breaks up and becomes a terrible mess.

I know I can depend on you for the answer so here is the recipe for pumpkin pie filling.

Pumpkin Pie Filling

- 1 large can pumpkin
- 1 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 1/2 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/2 teaspoon cloves
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ginger
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons lemon extract

These amounts are sufficient for 2 pies. (Preferably 8 inch, but will go 9). If you want to divide the recipe in half just get the smaller can of pumpkin that is now available and cut every other amount in half. Put all the ingredients in a large bowl and beat with a rotary egg beater.

Bake at 425 for 25 minutes and then lower heat to 375. Test for doneness by cutting with a sharp knife. If knife comes clean, pie is done. About 1 hour.

Kids might be interested in the history of pumpkin pie. Indian Squanto taught the colonists to plant pumpkin. Naturally, the Pilgrim women turned it into pudding, England having been long known for puddings of many kinds. They opened the top, scooped out the seeds, filled the shell with milk and spices, sweetened it with maple syrup or molasses, and baked it in hot ashes. They ate the "pie" with a spoon.

I have a "Kutting Korner" special this week.

Ever since the advent of panty-hose the economy of buying two pair of hosiery at a time has gone down the drain. Now, comes the brilliant idea that will save money and make it again feasible to buy more than 1 pair of the same color at the same time.

Here is the secret. If you get a run in one leg of the panty garment don't throw it away. Cut the laddered stocking from the rest of the garment. When you have two pair of panties with 1 leg each, wear them both at the same time. It may not be the answer for attendance at the prince's ball but will do for teenagers going to school and Mom going shopping.

Want some tasty treats for tired "Trick or Treaters"? Try these from Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service. We found them excellent.

Cook and crumble bacon with shredded cheese. Vary the sharpness of the cheese to your taste. Add to this some sliced stuffed olives and a little prepared mustard. Add enough mayonnaise to hold it together. Spread it on bread. It can be served cold but we liked it best when it was browned in the broiler.

This dish is called Bacon and Creamed Eggs.

Good for brunch, lunch or supper it serves 4 or 5. Panfry a pound of bacon and drain on absorbent paper. Crumble 8 slices and keep the rest warm. Combine a can of cream of mushroom soup diluted with a quarter cup of milk and 4 sliced hard-cooked eggs. Season the mixture with a little leaf marjoram and thyme if you like (we prefer it without). Spoon the mixture over split English muffins, or corn bread and top with the crumbled bacon. Serve with the rest of the bacon slices.

Mrs. Judith Cheydleur, Lieutenant, is presently assisting Brigadier Clarence Critzer at the Salvation Army Corps in Pontiac. Her specific responsibilities are the activities at the Pontiac Outpost in Clarkston, located on the corner of Church and Buffalo Streets.

Mrs. Cheydleur's husband, Lieutenant John Cheydleur, is studying for his master's degree in Counseling Psychology for Professionals in Religion at Loyola University in Chicago. Mrs. Cheydleur holds a B.A. in psychology and sociology from Asbury College in Wilmore, Kentucky. The couple were previously stationed in Massena, New York, where

Pink Thimble announces sewing workshops

Many women who have been sewing successfully for years have become ill at ease with the many new fabrics recently introduced, and want to use fabrics with which they are not familiar and construct clothing in the new fashions.

Alice Spragle, who has been teaching sewing classes at the Pink Thimble and who is well known in Oakland County, will present a series of three workshops in December and January.

The first, Saturday, December 6, will cover the construction and fitting of double knits; the second, December 13, on velvets and velveteens; and the third, January 10, will be on pants for women.

Each will run from 9:00 to 12:00. The workshops will be held at the Pink Thimble, Keatington Antique Village on Joslyn road between Clarkston road and I-75.
