Jim's Jottings

Every time I go away I plan to take notes and pictures to report my view of wherever I've been. I almost always have a pen and pad with me and my camera nearby. This time I didn't even try to carry a camera and my pad was always wet.

We arrived at the Grand Bahama airport in sunshine. The next day, too, had considerable sunshine and I bought sun glasses. The next time I needed them was on the day we left and the glasses were buried midst dirty clothes.

RANDOM NOTES

The Holiday Inn in Freeport boasts of being the largest in the world. We didn't stay there. We did go there long enough to know they don't like Bombay taxi horns blown in their dining room.

Hand made Bahamian straw hats smell a lot like dead fish when they get wet.

I really missed smoking cigars on this vacation. I longed for a true Havana. Bob Peterson smoked one and turned green. Maybe they aren't smooth.

Last time I went south I was robbed. This time I took travelers' checks. The money went nearly as fast and no one person got full advantage of it.

Paul Gunnerfeldt picked up $500 two separate nights on the crap tables. He went once more but I didn't hear about that one.

Went to the native night club, Junkanoo. It's $8.50 by cab going and $10.00 coming back. It's a big club and popular, but our group of 12 was the only ones in the place for the last show. They put on a shortened version. Bongos, limbo by a gal who went lower under the stick than she was thick, a gal fire eater-dancer, and singer who was great... Randall Stewart.

The fire eater, with a torch in each hand, edged up to me and asked if I wanted a "light" lunch. Gene Sura said this gal fell madly in love with him that night. We saw her the next day. She was a waitress in our hotel bar. She still had that glint in her eye for Gene.

Four of our rooms at Oceanus North made into 2 suites and took up one end of the building. Gunnerfeldts' and Suras' rooms were seldom closed and the neighbors took full advantage of it.

Gunner slipped a dining room

Story hours changed

The next story hour at the library sponsored by the Clarkston Women's Club will be on December 11. Because of the holidays there will be no story hours on the fourth Thursdays in November and December.

waiter $50 the first night to get better service. It's amazing the kind of service money can buy. Only a small spender like me would wonder if we couldn't have gotten the same service for $20. His $20. Without the tip the service was adequate. With it service was outstanding.

I haven't swum in the ocean since Navy days off Guatemala, but the water is just as salty. I'm less buoyant now. I thought with an extra 80 pounds I'd float better.

I trust it was a joke, but Liz Baldwin said she picked up a telegram for us that read "Have a good time. Glad you're not here. Signed Richard Royer." We haven't given him THAT much trouble in building our house, have we?

Dick Buechler was away from his wife so much she remarked one time, "I'm glad Dick isn't here. I'd kill him!"

It was a great vacation with much hilarity. Like Bob Peterson said... he never laughed so much in a week in his life. Now, that trip is behind me, and by the time you read this I will have returned from deer hunting. Nothing to look forward to now except moose hunting early next month.

People react, Council changes drain stand

It didn't take long for people to react after the News story last week on a Clarkston village Council motion on storm drainage into the Mill Pond.

The day the paper came out, Thursday, village president Frank Russell called for an emergency meeting of the Council for Friday night.

Nearly a dozen residents were at the meeting protesting the council decision to grant a drain from Deerfield Farms subdivision to the north end of the Mill Pond. The motion had passed pending approval of the village attorney, Jack Banycky. Russell was not at that meeting.

Banycky, contacted by Councilman Rich Johnston after last Monday's meeting, had said the village shouldn't grant drain permission without the authority to cut it off and without holding to a 'no obligation' clause.

The drainage plan came through the engineering firm of Kieft Engineering from the developers of the former Ford farm property on the northwest corner of

The problem was first recognized last July 4th when heavy rains hit the area and clay from the initial grading west of the village washed across Holcomb street and into lawns.

Engineer Del Lohff described the solution to the washing as a storm drain from the hill, northward to a large catch basin west of Holcomb. A 24-inch line would carry the overflow from the catch basin east on Miller road to the Mill Pond.

Friday night the Council wondered if there might be a different solution. They passed a motion to ask another engineer (at the Deerfield Farms Sub developer's expense) to review the plan offered by Kieft and see if he might have another answer than draining into the Mill Pond.

Clerk Artemus Pappas is to contact the developers to see if they will pay for such engineering and the Water Resources Commission is to be contacted to see if they have a concern in the matter.

Contract still up-in-air

The stagnation that has developed in the settlement of contract details between the Board of Education and the Clarkston Education Association (CEA) continued as attorneys Keller and Wax, representing the 2 groups, failed to provide mutually acceptable terms.

The CEA has scheduled a meeting for their membership on November 21 to discuss alternative actions that may lead to a final settlement.

The Board of Directors of the CEA met Monday night and according to Tom Brown, president, are prepared to recommend to their membership that they honor the tentative contract agreement regarding the provisions for the school calendar which would schedule in-service training days and parent-teacher conferences on Saturday, November 22.

Both sides are keeping in touch with their attorneys and urging them to bring the matter to a conclusion.

ZERO

by Haslett Hemmor

If it hadn't been for having that flat on Sutter Road, there never would have been a Zero. Cold it was, maybe 10 above. No more.

Could have used my road service, maybe, but what with insurance companies cancelling out people and all, it seemed smarter to change it myself. Besides, by the time I walked to a phone and then waited a good spell for a wrecker—just seemed like the easiest way out was to throw on the spare myself. Anyways, I always feel like a helpless old fool when I watch 'em do a job I could just as well manage.

So I huff and puff and jack up the right front. Skinny old jacks they give you with a car now ought to be outlawed. Rolls off once, so I look around to find a rock or log. Walk maybe fifty steps from the car when I hear this little whine like from a puppy. No houses around and no pup in sight.

Kind of automatic, I whistle. Broad daylight but it's still kind of creepy to hear a pup whine if there's nothing in sight.

Up ahead in the ditch is a cardboard beer case someone pitched. Folks seem to think its OK to dump their rubbish along country roads. Sometimes there's a medicine bottle or old letter to identify them, so I walk over to take a look. The whine gets real loud now and when I open the old beer carton, here's this little shivering pup inside. Tries to stand up and lick my hand but just flops over.

Take him back to the car, beer case and all, and start the engine to blast out some heat. Only takes me five minutes or so to slap the spare onto my bus and then I wheel direct into the vet clinic in town. Doc Gittle is in and when he sees the pup and hears me tell about it, he plumb blows up.

"Anybody mean enough to put a dog out to freeze should be strung up," Doc says. "If they did it to their rotten kids, there might be a little excuse, but with a helpless pup -- Stinkin' rats ought to have their fingernails pulled out with pliers. Good bit of this here left ear is froze solid and tip of the right one is bad, too. Want me to try to patch him up or just put him away?"

Now Eff doesn't have much use for a pooch of any kind. Had me a good Labrador retriever once and all she did was complain about the hair and all. Really didn't shed much, but she made like it was a 24 hour job to keep the house clean. When he got hit by the milk truck, I didn't get another dog.

"What kind is he, Doc?" I ask, mostly because I don't want to answer his question about puttin' the pup away.

"Guess he looks a little like a Dane," says Doc, "maybe Dane and English Bull with a little sprinkling of Airdale. Mostly the breed is what folks call a nothing dog."

"A nothing dog," I repeat foolish-like. "I'll keep him if you can pull him through, Doc. Just put down on your records that Hemmor left his dog named 'Zero' with you for intensive care."

Intensive, it was, but not like the people hospitals—it wasn't EXPENSIVE care.

Old Doc wouldn't charge me a nickle for the two weeks he worked over Zero. Trimmed his ears to take care of the parts bad frozen. Matched 'em up so he looked fair respectable. Poor little fellow had distemper, too. Sure enough touch and go for a spell.

After the first week, old Eff is pulling for Zero just as much as I am, and when that gangling oversized pup came home with us, she's as nice as can be.

"He's just a baby," says old Eff, "Just a weak, sick, skinny short-haired baby. Don't you go feeding him a bunch of junk. Doc gave me a feeding formula and schedule for Zero and that's what he gets."

"Eff," I tell her, "any fat little old lady that likes this ugly mutt can't be all bad."

That's how I get this here lump over my eye. Threw the brand-new four dollar stainless steel dog dish and scored pretty good.

THANKSGIVING 1969

The historical background of Thanksgiving Day reminds us that initiative is one of the vital keys to success.

The hardy Pilgrims of Plymouth Bay Colony demonstrated that opportunity was there for those willing to work for it. The Colonists withstood the privations of an untamed wilderness. They used muscle and perseverance to work out their destiny. They did not push a panic button for the "old country" to bail them out.

Just as incentive was the motivating force of our forefathers and freedom their goal, so should these be uppermost in our minds today.

Yes, we do have a different world. We have come a long way in social, educational, technical and scientific progress. But we must have a profound dedication to freedom to spark our initiative to work and prosper. Let us have more incentive to perpetuate this freedom, so we can continue to prosper—under Divine guidance—profiting by the Colonists' example.

Too beat to begat?

At first, when Spiro Agnew said I belonged to "an effete corps of impudent snobs," I didn't know whether to be mad or glad.

I have always wanted to belong to a corps. The word has a glorious ring to it as opposed to corp, which jingle jangles, or corpse, which just kind of lays there and does nothing for me, or crops, which depend too much on the weather.

But corps conjures up visions of Marines landing and drums and bugles playing. Patriotic. I'll bet Agnew himself belongs to several corps (the plural is spelled the same as the singular, otherwise the members might feel like maggots. We intellectuals know all this kind of stuff). And it was nice to have the Vice President of the United States put me in a corps.

The impudent snob business sounded ok, too.

To be impudent means to be bold. There's a TV show called "The Bold Ones" and the ones are all fearless heroes who unselfishly catch crooks, distribute justice and frighten germs, all for the good of mankind. Which is good enough for me.

As for a snob, I've always wanted to be one. A snob is a guy on top who looks down on the jerks below. My trouble has always been that there was no one down there. To see anyone at all, I had to look up, which is tougher on the neck and the

Thanks

Dear Editor,

The Clarkston Area Youth Assistance Committee wishes to thank the Clarkston Branch of the National Farm & Garden Association and all other persons and groups who have contributed to our worthy program.

We extend an invitation to all groups and individuals to attend our next scheduled meeting. It will be held at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 24, 1969 at the Township Hall.

More thanks

Dear Editor,

The Clarkston Jaycettes would like to extend a personal thank you to everyone who made donations to the orphans in Vietnam. We were able to fill 4 station wagons with the Clarkston collection, plus $3.50 that was contributed toward postage.

On November 14, District 12 of the Michigan Jaycettes, shipped 4 and one-half tons of materials to these children, hopefully, to be received before Christmas.

We would like to extend special thanks to the Clarkston Women's Club and Girl Scout Troop 501 for their extra efforts and assistance.

Dear Editor,

We're extremely upset because our paper never arrives with all sections included. We look forward expectantly each week to find out "what's happening" in our former hometown.

Today, once again, our paper arrived with only one section. It would almost be better to receive no paper at all than just one section. PLEASE staple our paper together or print our name and address on all sections.

The purpose of this letter is to bring to your attention that the sections become separated in the mail. We're wondering who's reading our other section this week.

Sincerely yours, request to be drummed out of the corps. I may be a grandfather, and I may look more than I leap, but still, the Vice President has no right to slur my manhood. Where does he get his information? Has J. Edgar been bugging bedrooms?

In fact, that was a pretty censorable thing for our No. 2 leader to be saying in public. The movie people would rate that speech "R" and Spiro's own 14-year-old daughter couldn't listen to it. She'd be better off at a nice clean peace rally if she could escape her dungeon and swim the moat.

pride. But this boost from Agnew, putting me up where I belong, restores my self esteem. After all, for a man to give you a boost, he's gotta be below you.

Which brings us to effete. Words are my business, so it is embarrassing to admit, but I didn't know what the heck that meant. So I reached for the dictionary which said effete means: "that has brought forth offspring, exhausted; no longer capable of producing; worn out, exhausted, spent and sterile."

Is the vice president saying our corps of impudent snobs is too pooped to procreate? Too beat to begat?

If he is right, I'm suddenly not feeling so impudent.

Seek Homemaker of Tomorrow

High school senior girls here will join more than 600,000 others in over 15,000 schools throughout the country Tuesday, Dec. 2, in an only-one-of-its-kind examination. At stake in the written homemaking knowledge and aptitude test of the 16th annual Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow are $110,000 in college scholarships.

The girl scoring highest here will receive a specially designed silver charm from General Mills, sponsor of the homemaking education program, and her paper will be entered in competition with those of all other school winners in the state. From this, a state winner, who will be awarded a $1,500 scholarship, will be selected, as will a state runner-up, who will receive a $500 educational grant.

Next spring, first-place winners from the 50 states and the District of Columbia, each accompanied by a school advisor, will gather in Washington, D.C., for an expense-paid educational tour of that city and Colonial Williamsburg, Va. Climaxing the tour will be announcement of the 1970 Betty Crocker All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow and three runners-up. Chosen from the 51 state winners on the basis of original test score and personal observation and interviews during the tour, they will have their scholarships increased to $5,000, $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000, respectively.

The Betty Crocker search is designed to emphasize the importance of homemaking as a career.

The Clarkston Youth Assistance Committee received a $50 financial assist from members of the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club. Mrs. Frank Russell, right, presents the club's donation to committee members, Mrs. Ermal Fender and Al Carter.

Americans now consume $4 billion worth of drugs annually, for everything from a stomach ache to massive depression. Most of these have reduced suffering and have saved lives.

But doctors and druggists are worried about the problem of drug abuse—not opium and LSD, but the careless use of prescription drugs. We're worried about the effect of indiscriminately taking pills for several years, in many dosages and combinations.

There are patients who demand—and sometimes get—unnecessary and even dangerous drugs. They go from doctor to doctor, and from pharmacy to pharmacy, building up supplies. They forget (or ignore) the fact that popping all sorts of pills into one's system can make a condition worse, or can even create new disorders when the drugs intermix within the body.

Medical and pharmacy groups are seeking ways to block the casual writing and filling of prescriptions. We're trying to balance the wonderful effects of drugs with the potential danger.

Because the advances made in drug therapy in the last 40 years has been remarkable. Drugs have helped extend the life span of many people. Tranquilizers and other drugs have been effective in treating mental illness and emotional problems. Antibiotics, vaccines and other medicines are conquering infection and communicable diseases.

It would be a tragedy if these benefits were curbed because of a few pill abusers in our midst.

Waldon road multiples would need own water

Concern may not be building, but it is continuing over the possible effect multiple dwellings on Waldon road might have on township utilities.

Howard Altman, Independence clerk, says his office has had several calls from citizens in the Clarkston Gardens area. They ask of density, water and sewer problems that might develop should the property on the south side of Waldon, just west of Gulick Lake be changed from Suburban Farms to Multiple Dwellings.

To date, the Independence Planning Commission has not scheduled a public hearing; however, property owners in that area have been told they will be informed when a hearing is set.

Altman said neighbors in the Clarkston Gardens and Sterns-Sligaman Subdivision (the Gardens is north of Waldon and Sterns-Sligaman is south of Waldon) should not be concerned over the water supply.

He said he had talked to one of the developers and they are aware that any multiple development there would have to provide its own water with the agreement it could be connected to the township system, or that the developers would have to deposit money with the township to cover any costs needed to increase productivity of township water supply.

On sewers, Altman said he thought the township would be "reluctant" to approve any separate septic system when a sanitary sewer system is close to becoming a reality.

Altman said, "This matter is not before the township board, but I think some clarification is necessary on this matter. There will be no stealing of water from the Gardens' supply. The state has approved a specific number of users (houses) for that water system, and any great increase in numbers now surely would not get state approval without additional water sources."

Altman also pointed out that the water system belongs to the township, that the utility is their responsibility, not that of the individual user.

Free testing by Diabetes Assn.

Free blood-screening tests to detect diabetes will be available here during the week of November 17-22 as part of the search for the more than 100,000 "hidden" diabetics in Michigan.

Sponsored by the Michigan Diabetes Association, (MDA), a United Fund service, Diabetes Week is sponsored nationally by the American Diabetes Association of which MDA is an affiliate.

Co-sponsors in Michigan are 35 Michigan hospitals, local county medical societies, and the Michigan Department of Public Health.

Persons planning to be tested are advised to have a meal rich in sugars and starches two hours before testing, to ensure the most accurate result.

A "hidden" diabetic is a person who has the condition, but is unaware of it, explained Dr. Fred W. Whitehouse, President of the Michigan Diabetes Association.

"The presence of diabetes may be indicated by excessive thirst, excessive urination, loss of weight, itching, constant hunger, easy tiring, slow healing of cuts and scratches, and changes in vision," Dr. Whitehouse said. "However, a person may have the disorder and not know it."

He added, "We urge everyone to take advantage of the detection services being offered during Detection Week."

Local testing units are scheduled as follows:

Crittenton Hospital
1101 W. University Drive
Rochester, Michigan 48063
November 19, 10 a.m. to 12 noon and

Help the post office help you! Mail early

"Don't take a chance on disappointing someone you love, send your gift parcels and cards early enough to insure their delivery before Christmas, not after," Clarkston Postmistress Mrs. Ronk advised today.

"On the day after Christmas a post office building can be the most depressing place in the world," she added, "if it still contains a mountain of messages that didn't make it because they were mailed too late."

Such disappointments can be avoided if Christmas mailers will observe the following mailing schedule.

Gift parcels going to distant states should be mailed by December 1. Parcels going to local and nearby areas should be mailed not later than December 13.

The name and address of both the sender and the addressee should be enclosed in each gift parcel to permit identity in case of damage or loss of the outside address label. The outside label should be placed on only one side of each parcel.

Greeting cards going to distant states should be mailed not later than December 10. Cards going to local and nearby areas should be in the mail by December 15.

Postmistress Mrs. Ronk also emphasized the importance of using ZIP codes and adding a return address to all Christmas mail. It only takes a couple of seconds, but pays big dividends.

ZIP Codes enable postal employees to sort and handle the mail faster. A return address insures that mail that can't be delivered because of an illegible or incomplete mailing address will be returned to the sender.

"A return address might not seem very important," Mrs. Ronk stated, "but last year over 32 billion pieces of mail went to postal dead letter branches because the mailing address couldn't be read and there was no return address on the envelope. If you estimate the worth of each of these pieces at twenty-five cents, including postage, postal customers lost over $7.5 million last year to dead letter offices. And none of this would have happened if the envelope had contained a return address."

"Soul and Body" church topic

The subject of the Lesson Sermon to be read in Christian Science churches Sunday is "Soul and Body."

A related passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states: "Truth will at length compel us all to exchange the pleasures and pains of sense for the joys of Soul."

Services, open to all, begin at 11 a.m. at First Church of Christ, Scientist, Oxford.

"If you drink - - don't walk . . ."

Associate Judge Harry H. Porter of the Circuit Court of Cook County who has long been critical of drinking drivers, today issued a warning to drinking pedestrians, too. Quoting new findings by the University of Michigan Highway Safety Research Institute, Judge Porter observed:

"This new study of pedestrian deaths reveals that alcohol was the single factor most commonly associated with the victims. Medical examinations showed that of the 195 pedestrian victims over 12 years old tested for alcohol, 61 percent had been drinking - and half of those showed over .10 percent of alcohol in the blood, the Federal standard for intoxication."

Judge Porter continued, "Each of these accidents involves a driver at the wheel as well as the pedestrian victim. For his part, the driver needs to be especially alert at busy intersections and to make sure his vehicle is in first class condition so that he can see and be seen. Defects such as a burned-out headlight, a faulty turn signal or streaking windshield wiper blades can lead to tragedy.

"Everyone recognizes that drinking and driving is extremely dangerous. And now the University of Michigan Institute study shows that alcohol is equally hazardous to pedestrians." The Judge concluded, "If you drink, don't drive - or walk. Stay put!"

Chuck Granger

Granger sparks O.C.C. team

Expected to give the Highlanders of Oakland Community College - Highland Lakes Campus a lift this basketball season is Chuck Granger, a former Clarkston High standout.

The 6-4 Granger is one of the big men in coach Lynn Reed's plans as he tunes the squad for competition in the Michigan Community Junior College Athletic Conference (MCJAC).

Last year, Reed and the Highlanders compiled a 5-11 mark, finishing well down the ladder in the Northeastern Division. This season, the Highlanders loom as the team to beat in the reorganized Eastern Division.

"He's really improving," says Reed of Granger, adding "and he has an excellent shot at a starting assignment."

Granger's shooting excites Reed. "He has a real fine shot from 15-feet for a big man... he could draw an opposing big man away from the boards with his outside shooting."

"He's just a real good team man," continues Reed. "He has a good attitude... he hustles, a real good scrapper."

Reed is working the Highlanders daily at the CAI Building on Williams Lake Road. They'll play their home games at Clifford Smart Junior High School, at Commerce and Union Lake Roads, Union Lake.

Among other members of the Highlanders are two players Granger worked against last year, Steve Westjohn and John Crowder, both of West Bloomfield.

Snowmobilers. Observe these tips

Highway collections

As the snow season looms over North America, snowmobile owners in the U.S. and Canada are tuning up their machines, and prospective owners are visiting dealers and poring over catalogues.

Snowmobile racing is the glamour sport among snowmobile fanciers, but the great majority of snowmobile owners simply enjoy their machines from one place to another place through deep snow. Snowmobilers include a wide spectrum of types from snow-fun seeking day-trippers to conservation agents taking extended trips into remote wildlife areas.

Now is the time, says Dave Clarkin, President of the International Snowmobile Industry Association, for all snowmobile users to review the basic safe operating tips that will assure many miles of safe snowmobile operation under almost any conditions.

Industry leader Clarkin, who is also President of Featherweight Corporation, a Bangor Punta Company, says the four most important rules for snowmobile trail riding are: "(1) Never go on the trail alone; (2) know and respect your vehicle; (3) always carry extra fuel for long trips; (4) carry a 'safety kit' of vital spare parts."

Know and Respect Your Vehicle. The snowmobile is not a toy. The hundreds of park rangers, lumbermen and ranchers who use them for basic transportation can attest to that. But it is essentially a recreational vehicle and as such is subject to a certain amount of abuse and neglect. Unfortunately, abuse and neglect can lead to breakdown on the trail. And a breakdown on the trail in freezing weather and miles from aid can be a serious problem.

Snowmobilers are urged to ride with a reasonable amount of caution; to leave the spectacular aerial leaps and open-throttle full-tilt charges to race drivers. The majority of snowmobile operating disorders stem not from mechanical failures, but from abuse and misuse of the vehicle.

Snowmobile users are also urged to learn how their engines work. The time to check the owner's manual is not after a breakdown has occurred, but before the vehicle goes out on its first long trip. Fortunately, snowmobile engines are generally quite elemental in design and construction and can be easily repaired with a screwdriver, pliers and adjustable wrench.

Never go on the Trail Alone. There is safety in numbers. Participants in all adventurous sports from scuba-diving to mountain climbing adhere faithfully to the buddy system for this reason. Always travel in pairs or groups when snowmobiling into remote areas. One operable snowmobile can travel farther in 10 minutes, when seeking assistance in deep snow for instance, than a healthy man can walk in six hours.

Always Carry Extra Fuel for Long Trips. Snowmobiles, as a rule, get excellent gas mileage and will run for great distances on a single tank of fuel. The greater the horsepower, of course, the greater the fuel consumption. But, since there are no gas stations on snow trails, and because snowmobiling is so fascinating that time and distance seem to vanish in a cloud of swirling snow once a snow trek has begun, the wise snowmobiler always carries a full one or two gallon jerrican of fuel along on every trip.

Carry a "Safety Kit" of Vital Spare Parts. Certain spare parts are easily carried aboard the snowmobile and will assure the snowmobiler of quick, easy start-up whenever necessary. These include a spark plug, spark plug wrench, a drive-belt, pull cord and light bulb. Many owners make up such a safety kit for their own use and will not go out on the trail without it.

This year, for the first time, a safety kit containing these items is being offered as a standard item by snowmobile producers such as Alouette (Featherweight Corporation), Starcraft and Arlberg.

"Snowmobiling has been a remarkably safe sport since its inception," Dave Clarkin points out. "Snowmobilers who follow these four basic trail tips and use their own God-given common sense will continue the sport's fine safety record."

Motor Vehicle Highway Fund collections for July, August and September of 1969 are being distributed to Michigan counties, cities and villages, the State Highway Commission said today.

Oakland County received $1,720,723 for the 1969 quarter ending September 30. Its 1968 share was $1,507,481.

The Village of Clarkston received $2,058 for 1969 and $1,909 for the same period in 1968.

This division was made from the $72.49 million net receipts during the 3 month period, an increase of 8.3 per cent compared to the same period in 1968.

Receipts are derived from license plate fees and a state tax on gasoline and diesel fuel, both collected by the Department of State for deposit in the Highway Fund.

After deduction of collection costs and a 1.5 percent share of gasoline taxes for the State Waterways Commission, 46 percent goes to the Department of State Highways, 34 per cent to the state's 83 counties, and 20 per cent to the 528 incorporated cities and villages.

Legal aid for poor needs great, McDonald

Since the third century, governments have wrestled the problem of providing representation for those charged with a crime who could not afford to hire such representation.

In America today four systems are used to provide counsel to indigent defendants: assigned counsel, public defender, private defender and mixed public-private defender.

The oldest of these — and that which is used in Michigan — is assigned counsel. Counsel is assigned in cases where the punishment exceeds a 90-day sentence. They are appointed at the defendant's first appearance before the court, whether for arraignment or for preliminary examination.

However, representation of the poor is needed many times other than in criminal cases. Legal needs for the poor equal or exceed those of the rich. The legal problems of the middle-class person tend to be of a personal nature. In contrast, the legal problems of the very poor or the very rich tend to involve issues common to the entire economic class.

The Constitutional guarantee of equal protection of the laws is not subject to a construction which allows a man of means to defend his rights in court while denying the same opportunity to the indigent. The availability of the courts is necessarily open to all — both rich and poor alike.

It has been said and is probably true, that the need of the poor for civil legal assistance surpasses the capacity of all the lawyers in the United States combined to render such assistance. At last count, there were 296,000 lawyers or about one lawyer for every 640 persons. Assuming that this ratio represents an adequate number of lawyers, there should be more than 49,000 lawyers for the 16.5% of our population (some 33 million persons) who fall below the federal poverty level of $3,000 per year for a family of four. In fact, not more than 4,000 lawyers serve these 33 million.

For too long, we have been content to allow legal services to play a backstage role. The seventies may prove to be the decade when the challenges of legal aid are met.

Legal aid for the poor is available through offices located in Detroit at 4721 Grand River Avenue and in Pontiac at 305 National Building.

Plan ahead for fire

Before smoke signals disaster, call a family pow-wow!

"A family that meets to discuss emergency fire procedures in advance is usually able to leave a burning home quickly and safely," says Gerald E. Montgomery, a member of the National Safety Council. "Pre-planning for home fires helps eliminate the panic that contributes to more than 6,000 deaths each year," he added.

A useful guide for family fire chiefs is a pamphlet called "The House is on Fire," published by the National Safety Council. The best escape plan, the pamphlet notes, usually means going out the nearest door, stopping only to help someone who may need assistance.

In case the nearest door is blocked, each family member should know an alternate exit from every room in the house. This means using windows, garage decks or porch roofs — routes that often go unnoticed in panic situations.

In addition to suggesting how families can plan and use these alternate escapes, the pamphlet tells how to fire-test a door and also how to make an escape ladder.

Even the best emergency plans tend to be forgotten, though — unless they're practiced in an occasional drill.

The pamphlet emphasizes that, besides keeping memories refreshed, emergency drills enable families to test their escape routes. A ladder, for example, might be too difficult for young children or an older person. It's wise to know beforehand that an alternative may have to be planned.

If you would like a copy of this pamphlet, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Greater Detroit Safety Council, 857 Virginia Park, Detroit, Michigan 48202. Ask for "The House is on Fire" pamphlet.

Pensions for vet's wives

Veterans' widows were reminded today that if they have a limited income they may be eligible for a Veterans Administration pension.

Under current law, according to Robert M. FitzGerald, Regional Office Manager of the VA in Detroit, qualified widows of wartime veterans who have died of causes not related to their service are eligible if their income is no more than $2,000 if they have no children, and no more than $3,200 if they do.

If a widow does not qualify for a pension because of a higher income or because she remarries, her children may still be eligible to receive pensions.

Pensions are based on need, FitzGerald explained. Compensation is paid to the survivors of veterans who die of service-connected causes, and the income of the survivor has no bearing on eligibility or the amount paid.

Persons seeking further information were urged to contact their nearest VA office, FitzGerald said.

Interesting people

Sightseeing and camping through Europe would be sweet at any time, but when it's done as the result of a 15-year-old promise between friends, it can be particularly rewarding.

Ask Rev. Fr. Francis Weingartz, who assumed the pastorate of St. Daniel's Church last June 25 and who marked his 15th year as a priest with the long promised trip.

When the friend is also a priest — in this case Right Rev. Msgr. Arthur L. Valade, head of the Christian Formation Department for the Archdiocese of Detroit, you know that Europe's large, old cathedrals are going to play an important part in the itinerary.

The two, fellow graduates of Sacred Heart Seminary, returned Sept. 12 from a three-week tour of Holland, Germany, Austria, Italy, Switzerland and the tiny country of San Marino.

They saw and said Mass in cathedrals from the Cathedral of Cologne to St. Peter's in Rome, but the church leaving the biggest impression on Fr. Weingartz was the Catacombs of Priscilla.

"Saying Mass there was our most wonderful experience in Rome," said Father. He and Msgr. Valade concelebrated (said together) the religious service in a chapel where Mass was said 1,800 years ago. It was his closest experience to the early church.

Fr. Weingartz, an enthusiastic camper, talked his friend into trying the outside accommodations and they stayed half the time in a backpack tent and the rest in hotels.

While the traveler was enthusiastic about European camping accommodations, he noted that there, like here, it always seems to rain nearly every night you choose to sleep in the open.

The two got around by rented Volkswagen, having flown into Amsterdam from New York.

Holland left an impression of "so beautiful, neat and clean, so orderly." Fr. Weingartz, who likes bicycling, was enthusiastic about the special bike paths everywhere.

A highlight of their visit there was a trip to the Madurodam, Holland in miniature. Comparing the tourist attraction to our Disneyland, he reported the scale replicas of Holland's major structures were begun as a hobby by a man killed in the Second World War.

Rotterdam harbor, the busiest in the world, intrigued the two priest travelers as they sat high on a hill and viewed ships from all over the world making their entrances and exits to the scenic port.

Here, too, they were able to witness Dutch children going about the serious business of learning English in school.

"People and kids are the same all over the world," is his sage observation.

Their 2,500 miles (4,350 kilometers) by Volkswagen took them into the Austrian Alps, the most scenic part of their trip. They camped at Innsbruck and Luzerne and found Austrian accommodations particularly delightful.

Venice and St. Mark's Cathedral — where the water floods St. Mark's Square and comes up to the door of the church — is also a pleasant memory. Here they concelebrated Mass with a priest from Switzerland.

Arranging to say Mass in foreign countries was an exercise in Latin, Fr. Weingartz recalls. While Msgr. Valade, who had studied eight years in Rome, had Italian under control, the two found church Latin the most helpful common denominator.

Fr. Weingartz also picked up a smattering of several foreign tongues, which he enjoys using.

It was in Venice that their car was robbed, but as the priest noted, "It was a good thief."

While many of their pre-purchased gas coupons were stolen, along with an electric razor, the thief did leave them about a quarter of the coupons and enough to get by on.

In Rome, a highlight was a visit to Castle Gondolfo, "where we saw Pope Paul VI along with about 4,000 other people."

The Pope urged his audience on that particular day to pray for peace.

They viewed the bronze statue of St. Peter, where the toe has had to be replaced so many times because of people rubbing it for luck.

Their visit to the old Roman Forum was marked by a night concert.

FR. WEINGARTZ

Rome's many churches drew the two and they said Mass in many of the world's most famous structures.

Each night Fr. Weingartz took time to update a small diary which he is convinced will be a happy reminder for years to come. Another time, he says he'd like to visit France and Spain.

"Obwondryag" or Pontiac

by Don Lytle

"Chief Pontiac" and "Apple Island" conjure all sorts of romantic notions about those glorious days of the French Indian War. The naming of the Ottawa boy, who was someday to become the great military genius and thorn in the flesh of the conquering Europeans, known to us as Chief Pontiac, is similarly beautiful. The story goes something like this.

A special ceremony was conceived to name the Ottawa boy a long four months after his birth. The whole family brought gifts — clothes, little blankets or sides of raccoons or bobcat or lynx — for on this day the baby boy would become a person.

After serving the others the meal she had prepared especially for them, the Chippewa mother (Pontiac's father was Ottawa, but his mother was Chippewa; not an uncommon union then) placed the child in her lap, selected a piece of meat, chewed it and then forced it into the baby's mouth. The four-month-old Ottawa struggled with his first solid food but somehow swallowed some. This continued until the bowl of meat prepared for the child was gone. The family clapped their hands in approval and the Ottawa father and Chippewa mother raised their voices in a special thanks to a special Ottawa manitou imploring protection over this young life.

After cleaning the child, the mother held the baby while his father perforated the baby's small earlobes with a flat bone needle. Tiny bits of rolled bark were then inserted to stop the bleeding. Someday ornamental beads would hang from these ears — when the baby had become a man. When the father proceeded to puncture the son's nasal septum with an awl and inserted a porcupine quill into the hole, the son, who had only been whimpering, began to squeal. A circular stone would someday be stuck in the gap, for the Ottawas believed that this would protect the wearer from evil spells cast by his future enemies. However, unlike most babies, instead of continuing to squeal incessantly, this Ottawa son, urged by his mother's soothing words, ceased almost immediately. (And now I am quoting from Allan W. Eckert.)

"'Obwon,' said the father proudly. The prefix 'O' being an Ottawa pronoun meaning 'he is' and the 'bwon' meaning 'stopping it'—'He is stopping it' — referring to the cries. The letters 'bw' in the word had the same sound as the letter 'p,' so that phonetically, the word had the sound of 'Oh-pahn.'

"'Obwon,' agreed the mother, and this same word was repeated numerous times among the onlookers.

"An aged man to one side, toothless and frail, raised his hand and then got slowly to his feet. This was the grandfather of the child's father, and a greatly respected man. His name was Diyag, but since the letter 'D' in the Ottawa tongue has the same sound as the letter 'T,' these two consonants are considered to be identical and his name was therefore pronounced 'Tee-yag.'

"The old man waited as the murmur of the crowd stilled and then he looked down at his tiny great-grandson. He tapped his own bony chest with a skeletal finger and said, 'Diyag,' then pointed at the babe and said, 'Obwon-Obwon Diyag.'

"The father of the child placed his hands on the old man's shoulders and smiled with pleasure that his son should be so honored as to be offered the name of his respected great grandfather. It was a good name for his son and he repeated it aloud several times: 'Obwondiyag . . .

Obwondiyag . . . Obwondiyag.' He ran the two words together and it came out with the sound of 'Oh-pahn-tee-yag.' "And so was . . . named the Ottawa Indian henceforth to be known as Pontiac."

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Harkens, Sr., of Pontiac, Mrs. Earl Taylor and great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Parker and Mr. Steve Evanoff of Pontiac.

***

The Women's Society at the United Methodist Church invite everyone to attend their "Holiday Bazaar" on Friday, November 21. Luncheon will be served from 11 a.m. 'til 1 p.m. and dinner between 5 and 7 p.m.

The Clarkston Jaycees will be dancing and dining their ladies on November 22. Wildwood Inn is their destination. Have fun.

On November 11, a group of friends and ex-neighbors went to Deford to spend a day on the farm with Mrs. James Skaggs. The Skaggs' family moved from Green Acres last spring when Mr. Skaggs "retired" to raise cattle. Since most of the visitors were "town or city bred" it proved to be an interesting day and gave them insight in farm living. Making the trip were: Mrs. J. Giegler and Kenny, Mrs. A. Stubbe and Dawn, Mrs. R. Haeusler, Mrs. D. Bickerstaff, Mrs. G. Brancheau, Mrs. W. Maier, Mrs. J. Sampson and Mrs. J. Pearson.

The Clarkston Depot Theatre was filled to capacity on Friday and Saturday nights for the presentation of the melodrama, "Pure as the Driven Snow." The cast did an outstanding job in taking the audience back to the days of villains, heroes and heroines. Playgoers got their money's worth as the performance was interrupted by no less than 6 trains on Saturday.

The Clarkston Jaycee Roosters Club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Newlin on Sunday evening to plan their year's events. This group, being the old folks of the Jaycee Chapter, try and get together at least every few months and "do the town." They may be exhausted from the chapter but they can still give the young men a run for their money.

Holiday tables shown

Each year the members of the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club design and create special holiday table settings.

This year the tables will be on display at the Clarkston United Methodist Church on Waldon Road on December 1, from 1 to 2 p.m. and the public is invited to come and view the arrangements.

Coffee and cookies will be served by hostesses, Mrs. Russell Coltson, Mrs. Gray Robertson, Mrs. A. E. Butters and Mrs. William Martin.

Kutting Korners

by Jean Sura

Turkey time is here. Nothing surpasses a good moist, browned gobbler for eating. I suppose there are a hundred good ways to prepare a turkey, but some of them have a tendency to make them dry.

Modern methods of raising the birds make them compact and meaty, beautiful for slicing, so it is a shame to ruin them. After trying several methods I finally discovered that fast cooking in aluminum foil suited us best. Here is the way I do it.

After stuffing the turkey with a dressing made of bread, onions, celery, apple, pork sausage, egg and milk, I tie the turkey into as compact a package as possible, being careful to prevent sharp ends sticking out. If necessary, I tie the wings securely over the breast with white twine. Next I wrap the bird in heavy-duty aluminum foil, making sure that the wrap is as air-tight as possible. Pad any areas that may break through the wrap.

Place in a large shallow baking pan (I use my broiler pan) if it is going in the oven. I have an electric roaster that serves very well and leaves the oven for pies, squash and other uses.

Roast at 450 degrees. Use the following time table:

6 pounds	.....	2 hours
8 pounds	.....	2 hours, 20 minutes
10 pounds	.....	2 hours, 45 minutes
12 pounds	.....	2 hours, 55 minutes
14 pounds	.....	3 hours
16 pounds	.....	3 hours, 10 minutes
18 pounds	.....	3 hours, 15 minutes
20 pounds	.....	3 hours, 30 minutes
22 pounds	.....	3 hours, 45 minutes
24 pounds	.....	4 hours

One half hour before the roasting time has elapsed, open the foil wrap and return to the oven for the final half hour to brown.

When the turkey is finished, remove it from the foil and place it on a pan or platter and make the gravy in the original pan. I always boil and chop (with food chopper) the giblets and add them to the gravy for extra flavor.

***

Thanksgiving dinner wouldn't be complete if we didn't have at least 2 desserts, pumpkin pie and date-nut pudding. Here is the recipe for my pudding.

Holiday Date-Nut Pudding

1 egg
1 cup milk
1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup pitted dates
1 cup shelled pecans
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 tablespoon flour (that's right)
1½ teaspoons salt

Bake at 300 degrees for about 1 hour, or until solid and browned. This is a very thin dough when it goes in the oven.

Serve with cream - either fresh or whipped.

An attractive centerpiece can be made for your table by gluing a mixture of unshelled nuts (with linoleum paste) on a free-form piece of styrofoam. For color add a few touches of artificial fruit, strawflowers and pods. This keeps the piece low and doesn't obstruct vision or conversation at the table.

***

Happy eating.

Panhandling black bear goes begging

An affable black bear who earned his living begging handouts from motorists traveling US-41 near Copper Harbor may now be out of business.

Charles Flory of Crystal Falls, a maintenance superintendent for the Department of State Highways, said the bear repeatedly stopped cars by blocking the road. Each time, he would proceed down the line of halted vehicles, pausing briefly at each to beg. At times he held up as many as 15 vehicles, creating a traffic hazard.

The Highway Department's Manual of Uniform Control Devices and Regulations does not permit panhandling on the state highways, so Flory and his crew reported the bear to the Department of Natural Resources. Conservation men tranquilized the bear and moved him from the area.

It wasn't long before the bear was back and up to his old tricks.

Tranquilized a second time, he was carried across rivers and swamps to a wooded area 25 miles away. He has not returned.

Said Flory: "It's too bad in a way. He's the nicest bear you'd ever want to meet."

Stately old Capitol can spin a tale

Pictures and Story Courtesy
Ingham County News and Barbara McIntosh

"Everything is so beautiful in this building. It will really be a crime if they tear it down."

Michigan's 91-year-old sandstone capitol repeatedly draws comments of admiration from visitors. Craftsmanship and quality materials are evident in every detail from ornate doorways and carved staircases to Corinthian columns circling the balcony at the base of the dome.

Since January guided tours of the capitol have offered out of state tourists as well as area residents interesting insights into the structure.

STARTED IN 1872

Tour guide Sharon Harman, Lansing Community College student from Lansing, explained that Michigan materials were not of high enough quality for the structure, started in 1872 following the academic-classical design. Sandstone from Amherst, Ohio, quarries was used for most of the building along with Illinois limestone, Massachusetts granite, Vermont marble, tin from Wales and plate glass from England.

Walking into the rotunda Sharon noted Michigan is the only state capitol to have a glass floor. The 986 glass blocks are surrounded by cases displaying flags from the Spanish American and Civil wars.

In the center is the constitution case installed in the spring of 1968. This took the place of the replica of the liberty bell which is in the basement of the capitol building and it displays the first constitution written in 1835 and the last three revisions written in 1850, 1908 and 1963.

Interesting sidelights about artifacts make the tour particularly enjoyable.

Still on the first floor Sharon explained the 100 year old clock in the east wing was once the master clock for all the clocks in the building. When it stopped running once it took three years to find a repairman and it took him 6 months to fix it.

MURALS HAVE A STORY

The 4 murals hanging on the first floor also have a story behind them.

In 1933 Chicago had a World's Fair. Governor Comstock wanted Michigan to be represented in the Fair so he asked that eight murals be painted telling the story of Michigan's history. The murals were displayed in Chicago but enroute back to Lansing 4 were lost and have never been recovered, Sharon said.

Moving through marbled hallways and up elaborately carved stairways the tour continues on the second floor. Here portraits of all former Michigan governors circle the rotunda. One is noticeably different. It looks unfinished.

Sharon explained former governor John Swainson had the portrait painted by Steven Davis, former art professor at Lansing Community College and asked that it look uncompleted. "Defeated in his second bid for head of the state Swainson felt his job was not done in the capitol."

Moving to third floor house of representatives gallery Sharon explained the upper balcony was originally intended for the speaker. Representatives on the floor below could not see him, however, so it was used for the press for a time. This did not prove satisfactory as it was too small and the newspaper men were too far from their 2nd floor offices. They now sit in blue chairs to the left of the rostrum and the balcony is used only for a storage area.

CHANDELIERS USED 91 YEARS

Chandeliers in both the house and senate have been used for 91 years. Made of quartz crystals imported from Czechoslovakia, they weigh 300 pounds each and are valued at $6,000. Until 1905 they were lit by gas but now electricity. Once a year they are lowered on a pulley by four men for cleaning and repair, Sharon said.

In both the house and senate chambers tour guides also explain the structure of Michigan's government.

The tour concludes on the ground floor which at one time was a stable for the legislators' horses. Here the replica of the liberty bell is displayed and around the wall of the rotunda are items borrowed from the Michigan Historical Museum.

MECCA FOR VISITORS

The capitol has long attracted visitors.

Even when it was under construction Lansing became a favorite spot for church picnics and socials because everyone wanted to watch the progress on the capitol. According to a Michigan Historical Commission publication, "Railroads offered excursion rates to Lansing, and the nearby town of Mason found a way to exploit its neighbor's sudden rise to fame. Organizing a 'Capitol Lottery' Mason businessmen sold $2.00 lithographs of the capitol. Those who purchased these also bought chances for such prizes as a rosewood piano, a cottage organ, silver serving knives, a brick house in Lansing and lots in Mason."

Many are the stories connected with the capitol and the tour is a half hour well spent.

Tours are held from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily and noon to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

NEW COMPLEX—State office buildings recently erected behind the old capitol.

Tourist Council agrees with caterpillar-lots of snow ahead

Snow fans coming to Michigan this winter can expect vast amounts of snowfall and much good, crisp skiing weather, if there is any credibility in the prognostications of the caterpillar and squirrel watchers. According to those who predicate their forecast on the thickness of the fur on caterpillars and the number of nuts squirrels put away in the fall, Michigan can expect plenty of snow and a long winter.

The Michigan Tourist Council agrees the state can expect an abundance of good skiing snow, but has a more scientific reason on which to base its estimates. Snowfall statistics, recorded over several years, show the average seasonal snowfall for the state to be from 140 inches in the north to about 30 inches in the southeast corner.

To the householder with a corner lot and long sidewalks, all this snow may be looked upon as just more hard work. To skiers, snowmobile buffs and little boys with new sleds it can mean great sport.

To help direct the Michigan Winter Sports fan to where the action is, the Michigan Tourist Council is ready to distribute the 1970 edition of the Michigan Winter Sports Map, which pinpoints 73 developed winter sports areas in the state. The map details specific information on locations of winter recreation areas, listing such details as the number of slopes, lifts, tows, entertainment and other features of particular interest to those looking for fun in the snow.

A new feature of the map is the alphabetical key which facilitates locating specific winter sports areas and information about them. To make the map easier to use, the state is divided into four regional areas: Upper Peninsula; West Michigan; East Michigan and Southeast Michigan.

New to the listings on the map this year is Paradise Valley, located at Oakley off M-47. In addition to ski slopes, the newly-listed area provides a warming house, ski rental and a snack bar.

Among other changes for the upcoming season are several new slopes added to existing areas, increased capacity of the lifts and additional restaurants and accommodations. The number of quad and triple chair lifts has increased.

Several resorts have added snowmobile trails and rental vehicles to accommodate the devotees to the new family sport. For those who cling to the year-around joys of swimming, seven of the winter sports centers provide indoor and outdoor heated pools.

Chair lifts, T-bars and rope tows take the work out of the trip back up the hills. Snow-making equipment at the major-ski areas provides a base to augment natural snow when nature won't cooperate. Grooming and packing machines keep the slopes in prime shape and lighted runs at more than half the areas extend the skiing fun into the dark hours.

Beginners are as welcome as the pros at most Michigan ski centers, which provide slopes and professional instruction especially for the novice. Rental equipment, skis, poles and boots are generally available at reasonable rates.

The Michigan Winter Sports Map, designed to help you plan your winter fun, is available free of charge by writing the Michigan Tourist Council, Stevens T. Mason Building, Lansing, Michigan 48926.

Shoveling Tip

Got a long way to shovel through the snow to your cabin? Make the job easier by heating paraffin and pouring it over the shovel blade. Snow won't stick.

Corked Off

Keep gun barrels clean by sticking a cork of the proper size in the barrel. Don't fire it that way, however. Gun might explode.

TIPS

from the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club

Editor's note: We would like to make a correction on the tip that was printed last week.

The tip should have read as follows:
FERTILIZING

Remember - never put fertilizer on dry soil. Always water the day before you apply the fertilizer. Which is a reminder that this is the time of year to broadcast super phosphate over your flower garden.

We made a mistake and it read "sulphur phosphate." Sorry.

Mushroom season here

One way to keep low or medium-cost menus from getting dull is to occasionally splurge and serve something a bit unusual. Fresh mushrooms certainly qualify as a special ingredient that gives a lift to many dishes. A premium priced vegetable all year 'round, fresh mushrooms of top quality may sell for a little less in the next few weeks.

Consumers in the eastern part of the U.S. prefer white mushrooms so that's the type that is marketed in Michigan. The freshest of these are white and spotless with their knob-like tops tightly closed around the stems. As mushrooms lose moisture, the veil - the umbrella-like structure - tends to pull away from the stem exposing the darker underneath area of the mushroom. An extensive darkening of the other surfaces of the mushrooms is another clue that mushrooms are past their prime.

Mushroom size is not an indication of quality or maturity. Size does have a bearing on intended use, however. Large and extra large sizes are best for stuffing. Medium sizes are suitable for broiling, sauteeing as a vegetable or meat accompaniment or whole in casseroles. Small or button mushrooms are ideal for sauces, gravies, etc. Since there is no waste in mushrooms, size has no bearing on the yield.

For best eating, use mushrooms within a day or two of purchase. If storing, cover with a dampened paper towel to retain moisture and place in an area of the refrigerator where air freely circulates. Most mushrooms can be cleaned adequately by wiping them off with damp paper towels. If you must wash them, use a spray of cool water and dry quickly. Do not soak mushrooms.

How do canned and fresh mushrooms compare price-wise? One pound of fresh whole mushrooms will yield two cups (six servings) while a 4-ounce can of whole mushrooms gives two servings. Therefore, if the price of a 4-ounce can is one-third that of a pound of fresh mushrooms, they are equally good buys.

Be sure to compare like products when making cost comparisons. For example, stems and pieces are available canned and

Make mine mink

By Jean Sura

The "red army" is off — off their eased. office rockers and ensconced on "hot seat" padded stumps in deer country. The bird-calls of these human cardinals are seasoned with masculine irreverence and the silence of the woods is shattered by volleys of shot.

In the meantime, the wary deer are laughing their heads off as they lounge around in a swamp that is inaccessible to men.

Back at the home ranch, women and children are existing on a diet of pancakes, waffles, French toast and hot dogs, the rigors of feeding the "breadwinner" temporarily

While "dear old dad" is out securing meat for the table and a rack of antlers to collect dust over the mantle, the girls are spending their spare time in fervent supplication, praying that their Nimrod will return safely, one more year, empty handed.

One year the almighty switchboard must have gotten overloaded with through calls, because after 10 buckless years, our friend, Old Harry, drove into his side-drive with a deer strapped to the fender.

In the following days he discovered that the expense of getting all of that free meat can hardly be borne by the average family.

He itemized the expense. There was the process of butchering and wrapping the meat. He didn't have the space in the freezer, so he had a choice of renting space or buying another freezer.

The next step was doling out cuts of venison to friends who had given him parts of their game in the past. Then of course he had to figure the expense of guns, shot, lodging, gas, snake bite remedies and other sundries.

Based on the premise that each hunter averages one deer every 4 years, Old Harry was a sport and truthful. He figured that deer cost him in excess of $8 a pound.

He gave us a generous package of deer-burger. This was in the days when bellies and wallets were both flat, so we accepted all gifts. Our taste buds were not so sensitive and our noses didn't twitch with bourgeois disdain at any food.

Even so — I decided not to tell anybody that the "meatloaf" was meat from Old Harry's deer.

I invited company because, strong character that I was, I preferred not to have leftovers.

The meal was progressing nicely, when in a frivolous moment I remarked, "How do you like the venison?"

There was a moment of awed silence, and then with the regularity of a metronome, forks started to "hit the linen." Two little boys actually got tears in their eyes. The look that they gave implied that I had just slain Bambi, Rudolph and all of Santa's reindeer.

Oh, well I don't really have to worry. Everybody has his own brand of madness. As you probably know, my family would much rather throw their money away hitting golf balls into lakes, ponds, swamps and woods. Every couple of years we bag a birdie or two.

A SPIRITUAL Message

The Church of the Resurrection
Episcopal

The Rev. Alexander T. Stewart,
Vicar

"Praise the Lord, O my soul: and forget not all His benefits."

These words of the Psalmist have long expressed the mood of our Thanksgiving holiday. But, by and large, as people become more affluent they, apparently, forget to be grateful; and the things that they live "by" get in the way of the things that they live "for".

When times were hard and rough the Pilgrim fathers, from the depths of their hearts, gratefully gave thanks to Almighty for their meager blessings. Now, however, in the midst of plenty, we, as a people and as individuals, tend more to celebrate the holiday of Thanksgiving than actually offer thanks and praise to God for all our blessings. We vicariously participate in the gratitude of our forefathers when our own hearts should be overflowing with thanks to God for His goodness to us. We are a people blessed beyond measure, more richly endowed with the material things of this earth than any other people in history. Yet, as a whole, we are, perhaps, less grateful than any other people. Why? Perhaps because we confuse the things we live "by" and the things we live "for". Our food, our clothing, our homes, our cars and so on are the things we live by: What do we live for? Dare we say that we live for the things of God, His love and His righteousness? That we live for others? The good things of this earth with which we are blessed serve only to strengthen us for the life that God has given us. That life is meant to be lived in accordance to His will and in grateful recognition of His blessing to us.

In St. Mary's Church, Cambridge, England, there is a hassock with these words embroidered on it: "Think — Thank." If we stopped to "think" more, surely we would be inclined to "thank" more. Thank whom? Almighty God, of course, who has given us all His benefits.

THINK — THANK

CONTINUING

UNDERGROUND AGENTS

Down-under at a Consumers Power regulator station, underground agents are at work. Agents of progress. They help to make sure we meet your needs for natural gas, day in and day out.

To meet Michigan's needs, Consumers Power has to increase its supply of natural gas 12% every year. Each year we lay hundreds of miles of pipelines to reach 30 to 40 thousand new customers. We add new compressor capacity to push gas through the new lines. We are providing more underground storage to take care of new peak demands in winter.

In the next five years, Consumers Power expects to invest nearly $300 million in expanding and improving its natural gas system. Making progress — to serve you better.
