Jim's Jottings

By Jim Sherman

I was born after the silent film era, but I got a taste of it recently. We were at the Sura's home. She's editor of the Clarkston News, he's assistant superintendent at Anchor Bay.

Their son, Tom, lives in Oxford, and he's a silent film nut.

Seems there is a company in Iowa that remakes silent films for 8mm projectors. Tom borrowed a set to entertain his folk's guests. He teased us with 2 of them. One featured Charlie Chaplin, whom I've never seen in films, and the other Laurel and Hardy, whom I've seen and laughed at for years.

But this Laurel and Hardy film was the greatest. Slapstick at its best. "Two Gobs at a Picnic" I think was the title. Well, they never made it to the picnic. A traffic jam of model T's held 'em up. What happened to those cars, the people in them, and our heroes is delightful . . . and all in silence. Not even sub-titles.

What a tribute to the writers (if that's what the originators would be called) and to the actors. The laughter they provoked then does the same today. In this perhaps we haven't changed.

A guy told me the other day that if they had restrictions years ago like they have today we'd never have made it to the Mississippi.

However, he exaggerates. Someone would have, either because he found a way around the law or got the right amount of money in the right official's pocket.

I think it's real sneaky of the telephone company to have the operators not answer their ring so people will get disgusted and call direct. Maybe it isn't planned, but when I try to make a reverse-the-charges call the operators are always busy, or something.

Since time is important, and so are my nerves, I hang up and dial long distance direct. Funny thing, that operator doesn't wait for a second ring before saying "Your number, please."

Twp. salaries boosted

By Jim Sherman

Discussions on salary increases, recreation and a moratorium on zoning took up most of the 2 hours of annual meeting time Saturday afternoon.

The only one that got action was the salary. Independence Township's elected officials were given a 12.7 percent increase by their constituents at this public meeting.

The increases proposed by Supervisor Duane Hursfall amounted to $4,600. This is divided as follows: Supervisor, a $2,000 increase to $14,500 a year; clerk, $1,200 increase to $12,500 a year; treasurer, $1,000 a year increase to $11,000; trustees will receive $1400 each annually. They were receiving $1200.

Asked if the other employes were to receive increases, Hursfall said they were, but he'd rather not give the figures or percentages because the board had not passed on them. They are in the budget, he said.

In the floor discussion, Keith Humbert of Snowapple said he didn't expect his remarks to be too popular, but he wondered if Hursfall's holding a real estate license might be a conflict of interest . . . and the supervisor quickly broke in, "I think not."

Humbert continued, "you are in a position to know about land sales and could take advantage . . ." Hursfall again broke in, "I have not."

And Humbert wondered aloud if it were good for the supervisor to hold a real estate license.

Hursfall said he thought it was his business. "I work 40 to 60 hours a week for the township," he said. "What I do with my time Saturday afternoon and Sunday is my own affair. The last time I bought property, it had a sign on it of another broker and I bought it through them, paying regular commission."

Hubert said he had heard several comments from area citizens about the conflict of interest charge while circulating petitions to get a referendum vote concerning a zoning decision made by the Board last month. He mentioned this Saturday afternoon at the meeting. "You are undoubtedly aware of it," Humbert said.

Hursfall said he was aware of the comments. "In the last election these charges of conflict were made. When we take public office we are open for criticism. We expect it. I do wish that those who think I have a conflict of interest would come and see me."

There were several comments in favor of the salary increases. One came from Bill Parker, chairman of the planning commission. He said, "We ought to pay what the job is worth, not base it on what was paid last year."

In the end there was no objection heard to the increases when the vote was called.

CLEAN UP WOODHULL - This is one of the areas clean-up crews will concentrate on Saturday in Woodhull Lake Subdivision. It is 1 of a half dozen burned out buildings. There are also about 10 junk cars to be hauled away. Mrs. Harold Smith and George Woody are co-chairmen of the clean up and have enlisted the help of many others . . . but they still want more. If you're not busy Saturday, they ask you to come and help them.

they think winter has not been kind to them. Though the skiing season, at least up north, has been the longest ever, and we've had little let up in freezing temperatures, snow-covered lawns, and snowmobile tracks are everywhere, the kids aren't satisfied.

Only once, the day before Easter vacation (when they wouldn't have worked hard anyway) was school closed because of the weather.

Then, Thursday, the second chance came to have schools called off and the students were still home on vacation.

Kids! Take heart. Things could be worse . . . and they probably will be.

Operation face-lift

Woodhull Lake Subdivision is slated for a face lifting Saturday.

Citizens are asked to arm themselves with containers (boxes or bags), tools (rake, shovel or broom) and be at the site of the former club house on Center Street at 9 a.m. to assist in the spring cleaning.

A committee has been organized to direct the operation. They are George Woody of Circle Lane, Mrs. Pat DeWold, Center Street; Peter Ventimiglia, Douglas DeGrow and Mrs. Harold Smith, all of Lakeview.

Ten old cars will be removed and burned-out and derelict property will be tidied up.

Jaycees, Camp Fire Girls, Cub Scouts have already volunteered to be on hand.

Howard Altman, Township Clerk, has promised to have a township truck and front-end loader available, along with his own services. Sam Allen's junk yard will also provide a truck to assist in the operation.

The clean-up operation has been instigated by citizens of that area who are interested in removing the blight that has occurred in the past years while the area was in transition from summer resort to permanent homes.

A home owners' association headed by Dr. Sam Reisman, Leon Serling and Sanford Gold, all of Detroit, has become inactive in the past 2 years.

The committee, according to Mrs. Harold Smith, is attempting to return the property to its original beauty.

Library dedication set for April 12th

By Jean Sura

The formal dedication of the Independence Township Library on Sunday will kick off the celebration of National Library Week. It will bring to fruition the dream and 15 years of hard work that has gone into the library's creation.

The dream was spearheaded by a group of community-minded women in the Clarkston Women's Club and enthusiastically supported by the Jaycees, the Rotary Club and other organizations and individuals. All have contributed unselfishly of time, effort and money.

A library was first established in Clarkston in 1954 when the Clarkston Women's Club renovated an old school house on Main Street. A drive was carried on to stock the shelves with books. Mrs. Philip Smith, (who is now the head librarian), handled the cataloguing of the volumes. The education of the volunteer staff was undertaken by 5 or 6 people who were trained in library work.

The battle had just begun when the doors of the infant library were open. The Women's Club, through their various drives and projects, provided the funds to keep it open until 1965, when it officially became a public library and was placed under the jurisdiction of the township.

Under the management of the township and with funds provided from its budget, a Library Advisory Board was established.

Early in January of 1967, having outgrown their accommodations, efforts were instigated to provide more adequate facilities. Again, the Women's Club played a key role in leadership for the project and provided $500 for preliminary plans.

A 2 and one-half acre piece of property was purchased from the Board of Education. The site had 300 feet of frontage on Clarkston Road and adequate facilities for parking were provided in front and along the side of the proposed building with room available for future expansion.

In a matter of months, a township-wide campaign to raise $100,000 was under way. The Advisory Board chose Nordstrom-Samson Associates of Dearborn to design the proposed building and Richard J. Hapley was elected as the project architect.

A speakers' bureau to promote the project was established and a Gift Honor Roll started.

By August, it was decided the necessary funds were not coming in, so a smaller version of the proposed library (4500 square feet instead of the planned 9000) was drawn.

By May, $32,816 in federal funds had been assured from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and $57,000 had been pledged by various individuals and organizations.

The contract of $101,275 for the construction was approved and awarded to the Schwanz Construction Company. Ground was broken on December 1, 1968.

While the building was still under construction, word was received that the Kresge Foundation would contribute $10,000 toward the project.

In December of 1969, the building was completed and with borrowed shelves and furnishings, the books were moved.

The library was no longer a dream.

It was in operation.

Sunday, the building will be formally dedicated. The work still continues. The project has come a long way. It has a distance to go.

The public is invited to attend the ceremony Sunday.

Letters from Marguerite

by Marguerite Slater

Dear Jeanie—

Can you imagine a tie between a feature story in today's Free Press with pictures of guys cutting gals' skirts off up to their hips and another story on the same page about the very far out cults meeting at St. Joseph's Episcopal Church in Detroit? Tie in there is—and it concerns MY legs.

At age 18, I, too, would have looked good in minis but who then would have believed, even in the wildest imagination that hip length skirts could look so cute? At 18 we were wearing $4.00 black silk stockings with our swim suits or bathing suits as they were called. Did our legs ever look snazzy!

At 18 we also were too elegant for words in hobble skirts. There's nothing like a long, tight skirt swishing around your ankles to make you feel slinky and wicked—just like our idol, Theda Bara. I always looked forward to the day when Rudolph Valentino would see me and take me in his arms.

In the early afternoon of this particular Sunday, I had gone over to Glad Rains' house on Farrand Park (in Highland Park) to await the arrival of our current swains. Double dating was looked upon by our parents as a surefire safety measure. Bless their trusting little hearts. Cigarettes were an exciting vice just then, as bathtub gin and I didn't meet for perhaps another two years.

About 3 p.m. the doorbell rang but instead of our two would-be lovers, there stood two older men. Glad asked them in when they said they were from Saint Joseph's Episcopal Church. That lovely church was about to be build and bricks at $10 each were being sold. Glad's mother said she'd take a ton, which was a lot of money in those days. I didn't have to take any as I was a Presbyterian and ours was a big sandstone one already built, complete with huge mortgage.

With Mrs. Rains' subscription papers finally made out, the solicitors got up to leave. We walked them to the front door.

As they stood talking, Sandy, Glad's simply huge Airdale, got down on his belly behind me and before I could take a step, crawled under my hobble skirt, between my feet and stopped with just his head peeking out. Lying as flat as he could, he had my skirt up to mid-calf.

Mrs. Rains saw him and hoping to save me from being toppled over, shouted at him but instead of crawling on through, he simply stood up. His back was lots higher than my knees so there I was with my hobble half way to my hips.

Glad and her Mother got the balky Sandy to move forward and I pulled down my dress.

Glad died about two years ago and not long before, we had a good time one weekend reminiscing about some of the wild times we had together. She recalled the brick-selling Episcopalians and in her own way of mixing a low chuckle along with her words, said, "I can still see those men reeling off our porch, laughing to split their sides."

That Sandy was always a clumsy clown but everyone always believed he understood human conversation. Our families went back and forth to dinner and one night we were having a sip of sherry before dinner at the Rains' when in walked Sandy with the dinner roast of beef in his teeth. It was hot, as he got it off the platter, so he dropped it on the living room carpet.

Do you know how much we all loved that crazy dog? At my father's suggestion, Mrs. Rains ran the hot water over the meat for a few minutes then set it under the gas broiler until it got crackly and brown again.

No, Sandy didn't get punished—he just knew good meat when he saw it. Anyway, I'd rather eat after Sandy than a lot of humans I've met at dinner tables.

Come over—it could be Spring here for all you know,

Marguerite

Wednesday women can't march

By Jim Fitzgerald

My first reaction was to grab a calendar to see what day Aug 26 falls on this year.

Wednesday.

That's the day my wife goes to the beauty shop. Pardon me, but ha. In fact, ho.

I realize it's not nice to laugh at my wife's bad luck. But she laughed when I spent a week sweating over plans for a day of complete debauchery at the poolroom. And then the day came, and I dressed in my chalk-blue sport coat and cashed a big check only to find the poolroom was closed to honor the 50th anniversary of the death of the first rack boy to have his nose smashed between the cue ball and the rack. Oh yes, she thought that was funny. So now I'm laughing at the terrible thing that has happened to her plans.

As you probably know, the girls at NOW have designated Aug 26 the day when women should refuse to work. NOW stands for National Organization of Women. Founder Betty Friedan explained lyrically what should happen on Strike Day:

"... secretaries put a cover on their typewriters, telephone operators unplug their switchboards, waitresses stop waiting, and when it begins to get dark, instead of cooking dinner or making love, assemble and carry candles symbolic of that flame of the passionate journey of women down through history."

Ge.

My wife covered her typewriter and came home for good quite a while ago. She said there was no sense making that extra money if she never had time to spend it. Now she has time to spend it and I must earn it by covering my typewriter with my blood.

But that after-dark stuff is another brand of X.

Undeniably and exclusively, I depend upon my wife for hot meals and warm kisses. Oh, I may sometimes stray to Colonel Sanders for nourishment. But if the waitress ever suggested anything sexier than a chicken thigh, I would run for home, ever-certain I was being tailed by Efram Zimbalist Jr and my wife's lawyer.

So ordinarily I wouldn't be looking forward to Aug 26. My wife feels strongly that women are downgraded by men, especially me, and she would surely want to march passionately with candle held high. But first she'd have to have her hair done. Where?

Beauty operators certainly won't be working Aug 26. Not even Mr Phyllis. They'll cover their dryers and join the passionate journey down Main St. Women with Wednesday appointments that week will be out of luck. They won't be able to trade for Monday or Tuesday appointments because no one will trade. Every woman will want her hair done for the big march. No woman wants to hold a candle aloft over a rat's nest.

Every husband knows the importance of a fresh hair-do. It's not like a haircut that can be delayed until a guy happens to stumble upon an idle barber. A woman I know well once got out of a sickbed to get a permanent. She fainted under the dryer and was brought home in an ambulance, all the time mumbling "It'll look better when I comb it out."

No where does obsolescence set in faster than on a woman's head. It is of the utmost importance that she get her hair done not more than 2 days before a big event. And Aug. 26 may well be the biggest day ever for American women. The Wednesday appointments have really got a problem.

My only suggestion to my wife is that she get her wig done now and put it in the freezer. All Wednesday women are welcome to borrow this idea but those without wigs will catch cold.

Spring classes start at "Y"

Spring classes at the Pontiac YWCA start the week of April 13. Golf and swimming are being offered as well as art, decoupage, bridge, Bishop sewing, Slimnastics, upholstery and guitar. Children's classes include art, ballet,

Petition Township to reverse decision

"About 50 people helped to get 1600 signatures on petitions which ask for a referendum on the township rezoning of property in our neighborhood to permit multiple-dwellings on a 17-acre parcel on Waldon Road," said Keith A. Humbert of 6440 Snow Apple.

Humbert is the president of the Clarkston Gardens Improvement Association, an organization that is active in seeking to overturn by referendum the recent decision of the Township Board.

The petitions were presented to Independence Township Clerk, Howard Altman, last week.

The township must now determine whether the validated signatures represent 15 percent of the property owners in the unincorporated part of the township who actually live on the property and pay regularly assessed taxes.

Paul Mandel, Township Attorney, advised Altman that an accurate determination might be made by actual physical census. An economical alternative, recommended by Mandel, would be for the township to use a mathematical formula based on existing records to calculate the number of signatures required.

Either way might be subject to challenge, according to Mandel.

"Most of us moved into the area in the last 10 years to find a little slower pace in a suburban area. We want a place to live, not just a cubicle to exist in. Three families crowded onto a lot the size of those in the Gardens does not sound like progress," said Humbert.

"A third time Jesus said, 'Simon, son of John, do you love me? Peter became sad because Jesus asked him a third time, . . . and said to him, 'Lord, you know everything; you know that I love you!' Jesus said to him: 'Take care of my sheep.'"

(St. John 21:17)

A frequent cry among adolescents used to be, "If you REALLY love me, then prove it!" That's a valid challenge, even if the means usually suggested was a bit improper.

We ought to be able to back up our affections with action. Husbands and wives are sworn to do this during the marriage ceremony. Converts are bound to do this when received into their church's membership. Immigrants are under oath to do this when accepted as citizens of this country.

Everywhere, action is the language of love. Should it be any different with God? Jesus didn't think so. He repeatedly challenged men to 'love God, and their neighbors as themselves.'

Because He knew that a true concern for God would translate itself into effective concern for other men. Before Easter, Peter had professed undying loyalty to Christ. Yet not twelve hours had passed before that promise lay dying under the piercing light of a new day's dawning.

It wasn't until after Easter that Peter learned how to truly love God: by showing concern for one's fellowmen. How was your Easter this year? Did it teach you anything about love? And how to prove it?

"Pulling Strings" is the title of the puppet show to be presented by Ed Johnson and sponsored by the Clarkston Jaycettes on Saturday, April 11th. There will be 3 performances in the High School Little Theater, at 11 a.m. and 1 and 3 p.m. All children from 4 to 11 are invited. Donations will be 25 cents. Mrs. Rod Allen, her son, Todd, Mrs. Robert Smith and daughters, Jodi and Robin, make the acquaintance of several marionettes used in the pre-publicity for the show.

Elsie Inselman, an Eastman School of Music graduate, a Fulbright scholar, and a 1969 Donovan Award Winner, who now teaches voice in Detroit and has appeared as a featured performer in the last three Overture to Opera seasons.

Clarkston students to attend opera

Figaro, the irrepressible itinerant barber and maker of romantic intrigues, comes to Detroit next week bringing with him the lovely Rosina, noble Almaviva, scheming Doctor Bartolo and all the other characters who have made Gioacchino Rossini's "Barber of Seville" one of the world's favorite operas for more than 150 years.

But Figaro and his friends will sing and carry on in English for audiences largely composed of high school students and adults who may never have seen an opera before.

It's all part of the annual Overture to Opera, a unique Detroit cultural project. This will be the ninth season for Overture to Opera, which was started in 1970 as a prelude to the annual Detroit visit of the Metropolitan Opera under the auspices of the Detroit Grand Opera Association. In the intervening years, Overture has taken on its own identity and gained national acclaim as a program for stimulating interest in opera and offering professional performing opportunity to talented artists living in the Great Lakes area.

The Overture company will perform on the evening of Thursday, April 16, at Lahser High School in Bloomfield Hills.

On Wednesday, April 15, at Lahser High School, the company will perform for students in Wayne and western Oakland Counties. Included among them will be students from Clarkston High School.

All performances are in English.

The cast and directing staff include several outstanding artists from the international opera world brought in specifically for Overture and a number of talented artists from Michigan and nearby states.

Honors list

Ferris State College has honored 1,297 students for scholastic excellence in the winter quarter by naming them to the academic honors list.

Students from Clarkston named to the list include:

No zoning moratorium

"Overload a built in slowdown"

By Jim Sherman

Perhaps it was Howard Altman's use of the word "moratorium" in connection with his belief that zoning changes should be slowed in Independence Township.

Perhaps a slow down was happening already.

Perhaps citizens would resist change: more and more by asking for referendums.

Regardless, township officials seemed to agree Saturday afternoon that a slowdown was coming, or is here.

This was acknowledged by the Planning Commission chairman, Bill Parker, by supervisor Duane Hursfall, by trustee and commission member Harold Bauer.

And added was the voice of Howard Kieft, president of Kieft Engineering, Inc., which probably does the engineering on more developments in Independence than any other firm. He, too, said the slowdown was coming.

To which township clerk Altman said, "I feel better now, relieved that the Planning Commission and others are aware of a need to slow down on zoning, but unless we feel we can do something about it, we may not."

This discussion was started by a woman in the audience at Saturday's annual meeting, who asked if "the moratorium" was going to be discussed. At least 3 papers, including the News, carried Altman's comments urging a zoning slowdown last week.

Altman answered the woman by saying he had no intention of bringing the subject to the annual meeting for a vote. He said it couldn't legally be done. "It can be discussed, but not voted," he said.

He said he initiated the articles to get people thinking about what might be done to slow up zoning change decisions. "Whether it be for 1 month, 2 months or 6, my personal opinion is that zoning changes are coming too fast. I'm not asking for a stoppage, but I do think we should stop and review. It is not illegal for a moratorium, but it might cause some problems," the clerk admitted.

He added, "The zoning map is not updated. The zoning ordinance I'm almost ashamed to hang up. Let's slow down."

Supervisor Duane Hursfall said he thought it would be better to discuss this at a township board meeting and that the statements in the papers had not added anything to the solution of the problem. "The rest of the board was not aware of it coming out," he said.

The supervisor stated that he believed there would be an automatic slowdown on processing zoning applications. He was referring to what he called the "overload of work" before the Planning Commission. "They are actually overloaded," he said.

Hursfall told the audience that the planners were going to follow the Master Plan, which he said was a "guide," and they have followed the Master Plan. "The Planning Commission is giving consideration to each application. They have one studying session a month and one session to meet with the public," Hursfall said.

In answer to a question, he said the public could make their thoughts known on zoning at the public planning sessions or at public hearings on particular requests.

"I believe, as Howard (Altman) has stated, we have to have a slow down, but I think we have a built-in slow down (overload)," the supervisor said.

Harold Bauer spoke. "Speaking as a Planning Commission member, I don't think a moratorium would work, or is legal. The commission can get down to a minimum of 2 meetings a year without a moratorium."

He acknowledged that the planners were perhaps handling applications faster than they should, but added, "when individuals ask for zoning we must act and act on a proper basis or the courts will overturn our decisions."

Kieft, speaking from the audience, said the problems listed by Altman in the News article, were "in-house" problems. On the moratorium, he said in private business we can't shut our doors, but have to handle the problems within. "The slowdown on zoning will come automatically," he said, referring to the overload.

Parker, also from the audience, said they had discussed Altman's comments at the planners' last meeting and they more or less agreed there should be no moratorium.

They will handle the agenda, he said, in the order applications are received, finishing as many as they can. All the applications were not from those with money outside the township, as stated in stories published last week.

Parker added, "I admit we might not be giving proper thought and consideration to the rash of applications. But we have an automatic slowdown that will handle the problem Howard mentioned."

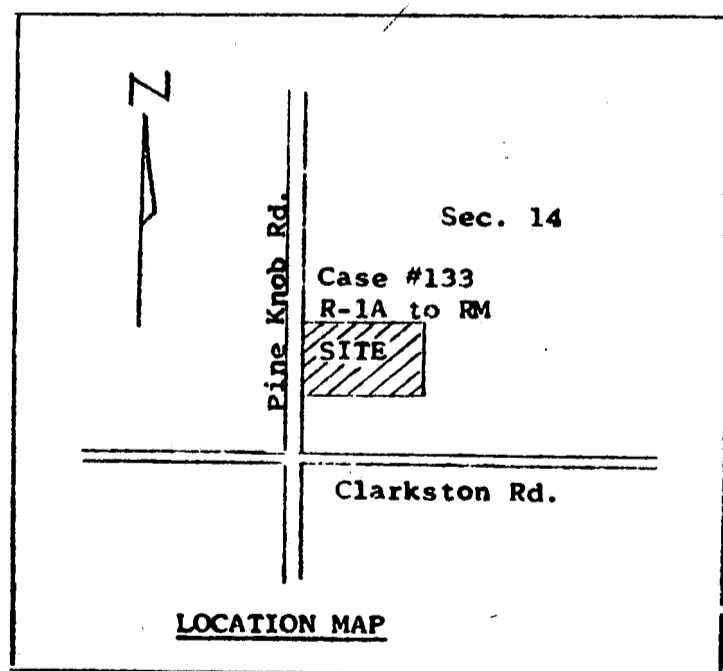

FUN WAITS — A snow storm is either fun or work or both. For Don Widenar, 6272 Peach, it was both. At this point the snowmobile was waiting while the driveway was finished.

Seminar scheduled by Youth Assistance

The Clarkston Area Youth Assistance Committee, in cooperation with the Clarkston Jaycees and the Clarkston Rotary Club will present an adult education seminar.

The seminar, entitled "Adolescence, the difficult years," will consist of 3 sessions.

The first session is scheduled for April 14 at 7:30 p.m. and will be held in the lecture hall of Clarkston Senior High School on Middle Lake Road.

The topic of this meeting will be "The Adolescent and Himself." It will consist of 3 segments: A. The Developmental Process, B. Needs and Conflicts, and C. Can the Parent Help?

Mr. F. Robert Woelger, program director of the Oakland Child Guidance

Clinics will be the speaker.

The second session will be held on April 21 and the theme will be "The Adolescent and His Parents." At this meeting the group will again hear Mr. Woelger and will explore, A. Parent-Adolescent Relationship, B. The Importance of the Family, and C. What Makes an Effective Parent?

The last session will be moderated by Milford Mason, Director of Special Services for the Clarkston Community Schools. The speaker of the evening will be announced at a later date.

"The Adolescent and the School" will deal with, A. The Problems in the School and Why, and B. The Parent-Adolescent-School Relationship.

The public is cordially invited to participate in all sessions.

Snow days bonus for Barbie

By Barb Humphreys

Susie Kevern, 8, of Hummingbird Lane, called the News to report that her sister, Barbara, is making good progress in her recovery from surgery.

Barbie was particularly appreciative of the snow days last week that enabled her to enjoy the extra company of her friends who had a prolonged vacation.

Barbie still enjoys her mail.

Douglas Doty, band director at the Sashabaw Junior High School, will present his band in concert on Thursday, April 9. A fifty-cent donation will be asked. The concert will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the school gymnasium on Maybee Road.

Twin boys made a timely arrival for the Easter holidays at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley L. Walter of Cedargrove road. The babies were born on March 25 at Pontiac General Hospital. Tony Allen weighed 5 lbs., 14 oz. and Stan Russell was 4 lbs., 9 oz. A sister, Lisa, is at home.

Grandparents are Mrs. Helen Finzel, Mrs. Georgia Bisbikis and Russell Walter. Nina Fisk is the great-grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Weston of Indianapolis, former Clarkston residents, just returned home from a three week motor trip to California. They spent time with Mr. and Mrs. Larry Faust, also former residents of Clarkston, and saw some sights with Mrs. Weston's brother, Chris Torr, who is in the Navy and stationed at Long Beach.

They went to San Francisco for a few days and had an enjoyable visit with the Alton Wompoles, who are Clarkston pioneers. Auptie Wompole and Uncle Al told many stories of the old days in Clarkston. The Wompoles' daughter, Mrs. Mazy Salter, and her family entertained the Westons with an authentic Chinese dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Torr, along with daughter, Carole Poole, and grandson Todd, spent Easter weekend with their daughter and son-in-law, Martha and Harold Weston in Indianapolis. Easter Sunday they all went to Louisville, Kentucky to be with Mr. Torr's sister and her family.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Johnson of Church street entertained their daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tressel of Waterford, on Easter. Also joining the family gathering was their son, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Johnson of St. Johns. Their children, Betsy and Chris, were able to stay and visit the rest of the week with grandpa and grandma.

The Drayton Plains Nursery Co-op sponsored by Christ Lutheran Church is planning a trip to Upland Hills Farms on Wednesday. Mrs. Buster Jordan of Waldon road and four-year-old Mark will be among those enjoying the animals there.

Danny and Doreen Frietag celebrated their eighth birthday Monday with a family party attended by their parents, the Jim Frietags of Transparent. Helping wish the twins a happy birthday were sisters, Doris, Debbie, Diane, Denise and Darlene. There will be another party on Saturday for Doris, who will be seven.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Lynn of North Holcomb were happy to have their son, John, home for the Easter vacation. He attends the University of Miami now and is studying marine biology.

Bride's uncle assists at ceremony

Before an altar bathed in candlelight Brenda Sue Baker became the bride of Charles Lee Powell on April 4th. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Baker and Mrs. Donald Martin and the late Mr. Kline Powell are the parents of the groom.

The Rev. Harold Reed of Alabama, uncle of the bride, assisted the Rev. Roger Campbell in officiating at the ceremony.

For her wedding, the bride chose a floor length white chiffon over slipper satin gown which was made by her mother. The bodice and sleeves were of lace. Her long nylon tulle veil formed a train and was sprinkled with appliqued daisies. She carried white carnations and yellow daisies.

Gowned identically were the flower girls, Heidi Winger and Patty Revoir, nieces of the bride and groom. They carried baskets of daisies.

Brenda Aittama of Waterford was the maid of honor and Janet Baker and Julia McDonnell were the bridesmaids. The junior bridesmaid was Robin Furman. They wore floor length gowns of yellow brocade and carried daisies and carnations.

The best man was Charles Leneschmidt of Waterford. Tom Fowler, Eugene Johnson and Brian Reed were the ushers.

After a reception in the church parlor the couple left for a honeymoon at Niagara Falls.

The Child Study Club had to cancel their monthly meeting, which was due to be held at the Richard Johnston home on Middle Lake. The other members appreciate the trouble she must have gone to, and hope Marty and her family enjoyed the dessert.

Mr. and Mrs. David Marietta (Sue Powell) of Drayton road, announce the birth of Lori Beth, on April 2, weighing 6 lbs., 8 oz. The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. William Powell of Clearview and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Marietta of Florida.

Nancy Kaye, first child of Mr. and Mrs. William Kickery, Jr. was born March 10 at Pontiac General Hospital. Mrs. Kickery is the former Sandra Jean Medlin. Nancy Kaye is the first grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. James Medlin of Pine Knob Drive and Mr. and Mrs. William N. Kickery, Sr. of Sashabaw Road.

Faculty wives of OCC meet

Wiggs Colony Shop, 4080 Telegraph at Long Lake Rd. in Bloomfield Hills will be the meeting place for Oakland Community College Faculty Wives on Tuesday, April 14 at 8 p.m.

An interior decorator from Wiggs will speak on "Go With What You've Got" and a door prize will be furnished. All faculty wives, feminine faculty members and administrative wives are invited.

Members are reminded that the spring rummage sale will be held Thursday, April 30 and Friday, May 1. Rummage may be brought to the April meeting. Mrs. Ronald Kudile, fund-raising co-chairman, is in charge of the sale.

Planner in budget, which is up $7,000

Each year budgets reach new highs and the Independence Township budget for 1970-71 is no exception.

At Saturday's annual meeting township residents approved a budget of $308,835.00. Last year it was $301,000.00.

Much of the increase is in salaries. $4600 goes to elected officials. The amount going to employees was not given. It will have to go through regular board work.

The budget did not reflect increases in sales tax that might be realized following census figures now being taken. The township portion of these monies is based on decennial count.

In budget discussion (the budget is prepared by the supervisor, clerk and treasurer) Bill Parker, Planning Commission chairman, asked if more money might be allowed for planning. He voiced need for a full time or part time planning consultant, since their other planner had resigned.

Supervisor Duane Hursfall said he expected the township to hire a part time consultant and that his wages might be covered by fees charged for public hearings, etc. He said they (the Board) were working on getting 2 or 3 other communities to go with them on hiring a planner for all.

The township had a planning consultant until last month. Robert Dieball, who is a full time planner for Waterford, resigned the Independence post.

Meetings of the township board will continue on the first and third Tuesday nights. This was voted Saturday, as were the Pontiac State Bank and Community National Bank approved as depositories for the township.

Wa-ki-ya area Camp Fire Girls have completed a very busy month of activities.

During their 60th birthday week, 2 area service gift projects were completed. Cookies and goodies were sent to men in Vietnam and many units made Easter baskets filled with candy for the elderly in area nursing homes and the state hospital.

This is fun week for the girls of Wa-Ki-Ya area. They will be roller skating at the Rolladium on Monday after school and will hold "Camp Day" this Saturday at Camp Oweki.

All are to attend with their unit.

Girl Scout NEWS

Detective Jim Lafnear from the Pontiac Police Vice Squad talked on drug abuse to the Girl Scouts of Troop 201 recently. The talk was followed by a period of questions and answers. The girls showed so much interest in this program that Detective Lafnear will be back at their April 22 troop meeting to talk more on the timely subject to the girls and their parents.

Troop 201 went to the Ice Capades in Detroit recently and also had a recent roller skating party.

A Clarkston Day Camp for the week of June 22-26 is now being planned. It will be held at the Oakland County Sportsman's Club and will have units for Brownies, Juniors and Cadets. This is Clarkston's first day camp in two years and Mrs. Kelly Burnette, Director of the camp, stated that there must be adult participation as counselors if it is to be a success.

Any adult interested in helping should contact Mrs. Burnette at 625-1518 as soon as possible. Previous experience is not necessary as there will be a 3-day training session before camp.

Cadet Troop 89 is selling dishcloths and dishtowels at $1.00 a package to increase their camping funds. They are scheduled to go troop camping the first 3 days in May.

An outdoor tea and program for their mothers is being planned by Brownie Troop 190 in the near future.

The Clarkston troops have not only been working on day camp preparations but the Juniors, Cadets and Seniors will be troop camping on weekends from the middle of April through the first week in June.

The first group will be Senior Troop 206 and Junior Troop 880, who will go on the weekend of April 17, 18 and 19.

Camp folders are being distributed to the Scouts this week and the parents are urged to check over these forms and information as soon as possible.

Cub Scout News

Pack 126 held inspection March 18 and came through with flying colors. The inspection team headed up by District Commissioner, Norman Miller, did a very thorough job, but could find little fault with the boys' dress or personal appearance.

The following boys received awards at the March meeting: Donald Peck, Bobcat; Scott Anderson, David Brown and Tom Brancheau, Wolf; Mark Salzano and Ralph Holcomb, Wolf and Gold Arrow; Glen Milner, Wolf, Gold Arrow and Silver Arrow; David Williams, Wolf, Gold Arrow and Ass't. Denner; Richard Taylor, Silver Arrow; Rod Crandell, Gold Arrow and Denner; Mike Glowzinski, Bear Silver Arrow; Dale Westland, Ass't. Denner; Mike Breault and Kevin Sutherland, Webelos Tab.

The following Webelos were presented awards: Geoffrey Becker, Forrester; Mike Lee, Scholar and Traveler; Steve Strzelecki, Forrester, Naturalist and 2-year Service Star; Brad Fairse, 3-year Service Star and 3-year Perfect Attendance pin.

Brad Fairse and Steve Strzelecki also received the Arrow of Light, highest rank in Cub Scouts.

Mrs. Dolly Fairse was presented with a gift in appreciation of her two and a half years service as Den Mother and Den Leader Coach.

Iron

People who regularly swallow iron tonics and iron pills without medical supervision may actually be harming themselves. By blaming symptoms on "iron poor blood," they may be delaying the diagnosis of a condition that's far more serious than iron deficiency.

Dr. Jack Pritchard, University of Texas gynecologist, says that constant fatigue is no more common among people with iron deficiency than among those without it. Along with irritability and shortness of breath—the signs of intense anemia—it may indicate an underlying problem that should be corrected.

For example, many cancers cause anemia. To treat the symptom without attacking the cause may mean that the growth will advance beyond the treatment stage.

"Women are somewhat more likely to need extra iron, but most of them never need an iron supplement," Dr. Pritchard said. "There's no reason to think iron will make them feel better, or that it will improve their health."

Your doctor may suggest that there isn't enough iron in your diet (which is usually obtained from red meat and liver, rather than from spinach) and he'll recommend an iron supplement. He will know enough about your total physical condition to advise this temporary measure.

But taking pills endlessly on your own, as the result of self-diagnosis, is abusing a potentially useful medication.

Kutting Korners

By Jean Sura

The last of the Easter ham went into bean soup at our house. Today, it is snowing again so the idea of a good bowl of soup is appealing.

My daughter-in-law recommends this recipe for bean soup and so will a lot of other people. It is the same recipe that is used in Washington, D.C. in the Senate dining room. Its fame has spread all over the world.

Senate Bean Soup

- 1 lb. dried beans, washed and drained
- 1 large smoked ham hock
- 3 potatoes, cooked and mashed
- 2 onions: chopped
- 1 cup diced celery
- 2 garlic cloves, minced
- salt and pepper to taste

Cover beans with water and bring to a boil for 2 minutes. Remove from heat, cover and let stand for 1 hour.

Drain beans, saving the liquid. Measure the liquid and add enough water to make 5 quarts. Bring to a boil again and simmer, covered for 2 hours, or until beans begin to mush.

Add remaining ingredients, except salt and pepper. Simmer for 1 hour.

Remove bone, cut up the meat and return to soup. Season to taste. Makes 4 quarts.

Here is one of her taste treats that is a little different but is economical and refreshing.

Cheddar Tuna Chowder

- 2 cups boiling water
- Salt
- 1 large potato, peeled and cut in 1/2 inch dice

- 1/2 cup each carrot and celery, diced
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup flour
- 2 cups milk

- 3/4 lb. sharp cheddar cheese, freshly shredded
- 1 can (6 1/2 oz.) tuna, drained and flaked
- 1 can (8 oz.) cream style corn
- Few drops of hot pepper sauce
- Chopped chives

Put water and salt in pan. Add the 4 vegetables. Bring to a boil then cover and simmer for 10 minutes. In a kettle, melt butter and blend in flour. Stir in milk and cook until smooth and thick.

In a kettle, melt butter and blend in flour. Stir in milk and cook until smooth and thick. Add cheese and stir 'til melted.

Add vegetables, liquid, tuna and pepper sauce.

Add salt to taste and garnish with chives.

Makes 2 quarts.

With chickens so reasonably priced right now, make a little chicken broth from those necks and backs and try this original creation she sends along as a bonus.

Collard Greens, Cream Soup

- Chicken broth, thickened
- Package of frozen collard greens
- An assortment of vegetables, carrots, celery, potato, corn, etc.

Simmer together until vegetables are done.

If you like the taste of cheese, sprinkle a little parmesan over the top.

At Girl Scout Conference

Ann Presnell, member of Senior Girl Scout Troop 206, recently represented the Northern Oakland Girl Scout Council at the Senior Conference held at Williams Bay College, Williams Bay, Wisconsin. The conference included girls from councils in Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin.

Throughout the day, sessions were held on such timely subjects as unisex, human rights, protests, drugs, war, college and religion. Each session had a Girl Scout moderator, and an adult resource personnel.

The weekend wasn't all work. Recreation included Hawaiian dancing, guitar strum sessions, dramatics and creative writing.

Ann reported the "To Be Alive" weekend to be informative, interesting and great fun.

A 10th grader at Clarkston High School, Ann is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Presnell of Clarkston Road.

New play opens at Meadow Brook

Meadow Brook Theatre's Artistic Director, John Fernald, has announced the cast for Anton Chekhov's "The Cherry Orchard," which will open a three week run at Oakland University on Thursday, April 9 at 8:15 p.m.

The great Russian dramatist's most famous play concerns a cultivated, lovable family whose members refuse to act when it is apparent that they may lose their estate and their beloved cherry orchard.

Mr. Fernald will direct "The Cherry Orchard," which will feature sets by Richard Davis and costumes by Ross B. Young.

Tickets for "The Cherry Orchard" and for the current Meadow Brook production of Tennessee Williams' "Summer and Smoke" are available at all Hudson ticket offices, the Meadow Brook Theatre box office and the Detroit Institute of Arts ticket office. For further information, please call 952-0353, 377-2000, ext. 2305 or 832-2730.

Drilling Monica Gibbs, spelling bee champion at the Bailey Lake School, is classmate Jeannine Dancey. The 5th graders are students in Mr. Landon's room. Runner-up in the contest was Danny Rollman.

Beth Tower, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Tower, won the school spelling bee at the Clarkston Junior High School. She is an 8th grader. Karen McCann misspelled the word imitate and became the runner-up when Beth corrected her and triumphed with the spelling of the word indicate.

Mary Jane Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Anderson of Kingfisher, topped all other spellers in this year's spelling bee at the Clarkston Elementary School when she spelled "mire" correctly. Mary Jane is a 5th grader. Giving the winner tough competition is the runner-up Janet Saile. Janet is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Saile of Main Street and missed on the word "scarcely."

Wee protest

by Jean Sura

Last week I wrote a little story about my grandson. In this morning's mail I received this letter.

Dear Granny,

Krissy and I are members of the Women's Liberation Movement and we have just read your article on our male cousin, "Little Pigpen," in the paper.

We feel that it is necessary to demand equal time and space covering our cute shenanigans.

Our rebellious restlessness has surfaced in that we feel that you have systematically discriminated against us in free baby-sitting hours and bragging time. We have been forced to assume a subsidiary role simply because we are women.

We are particularly incensed because you, as a member of our own sex, have traitorously and callously debased our reputation by singularly holding our boy cousin up for all the world to see, while your omission has depicted us as passive, colorless females.

It is our intention to lodge our complaint with the Federal Equal Opportunity Commission at once.

It is essential and we intend to don our pant suits and march in protest. We demand an immediate stoppage of further publication of articles that are irrelevant, unstimulating and demeaning to the female grandchildren of America.

And anyway, Granny, can we come out and sleep over this week?

Love
Michele and Kristen

And as if that wasn't enough, I get another.

Dear Granny,

Big deal! Can't a kid have any fun or privacy? Just read your article. With old ladies like you filling up the column space no wonder there is a generation gap.

Mom wonders if you will pick up a box of that heavy duty, soaking soap on your way home and drop it off at our house.

Anyway, the reason I don't like to be clean all the time is that soap makes me "itch."

Love
Matt

P.S. Pigpen IS a slick nickname.

I thought that they always said, "You win some and lose some."

Oh, well, at least I got some fan letters.

Are they waiting for your form?

It is not too late to send in those census forms. Though they should have been mailed April 1, the Census Bureau will still accept them. If the forms aren't returned shortly, census takers will have to call and pick up those not returned, thus adding to the cost of the census.

The form should include everybody as of April 1. If someone has moved into your household since that day, he should not be listed on your form. If someone has moved away since then, who was a resident on April 1, he should be listed.

Building report

The Independence Township Building Department reported that building for the month of March had almost tripled over the previous month in the township.

The increase was still $135,000 under last year's record.

Twenty-four permits were issued during the month for a total valuation of $256,189. They were as follows:

7 new houses	$201,500
1 garage	$ 1,200
13 remodeling & add	$ 30,640
2 barns	$ 22,349
1 shed	$ 500

Jaycette Members, Mrs. Alger Strom, Mrs. David Nadolsky and Mrs. Richard Johnston (with a helping hand of Mrs. Nadolsky's daughter, Elizabeth) assembled materials for decorations for their April 14th card party. The party will feature a dessert smorgasbord and will be held at the Episcopal Church at 8:30 p.m.
