Jim's Jottings

By Jim Sherman

I learned this week that I have another reader. In fact, she's a contributing Jottings reader.

A couple weeks ago I told of some ways I made money in my youth and asked you to write some of your experiences.

Mrs. Marian Phelps of Oxford has. She said at the age of 4 (she's 78 now) her brother gave her five cents a week to help him weed his onions and keep his ducklings watered.

"When I was 5 years old, my grandmother paid me one cent per dozen for swatting flies. That continued for several weeks," Mrs. Phelps said, "until my dad caught me holding the door open to let in more flies."

At the age of 7, she delivered two quarts of milk six mornings a week. The first year of high school she picked over beans in an elevator, and later gathered news for the town paper at ten cents an item.

Mrs. Phelps went on to get a teaching degree, working at several jobs. She is presently confined to the house with arthritis, but her spirits must be pretty good. She gave me these:

Being bald isn't all bad. It's a definite asset when putting on a turtle neck.

It seems to me that the biggest flaw in the gun law is that it does nothing about the guy who is always shooting off his mouth.

One of the mysteries of the lost civilization is how the housekeeper managed to do things without plastic bags, scotch tape, aluminum foil, deodorant spray and green crystals in her detergent.

I'm writing this in our Clarkston office. This afternoon at least a half-dozen sheriff's cars have gone past, sirens whooping. The first two were patrol cars. Then came the others.

The others? Lt. Don Kratt's water safety division vehicles, the pickup with a boat, the emergency station wagon, the skindivers' wagon with motors and equipment on the back.

They've headed for Lake Louise, I'm told.

I shuddered! Emergency equipment usually starts the adrenalin flowing within me, and drownings are especially frightening. You know if someone has gone down for five minutes or more he will not fully recover. The equipment will be too late. Teach your youngsters not to fear water. Teach them to swim. Teach them respect for what the water can do.

Letter from planners delays trailer park

By Jim Sherman

For over 2 hours last Tuesday night trailer parks in general and a new one on Clintonville road specifically, were discussed at the Township Board meeting.

It was like a public hearing all over again. About half the time the floor was open while the board waited for attorneys to re-draw an agreement.

Pros and cons (mostly cons) were given on mobile home parks from the audience. Jack Raisin, who lives at Walters Lake, and whose wife owns property on Clintonville Road across from the proposed park, showed drawings of what he planned for his land. He said he was a representative of US Steel's modular home division and would like to see the proposed park and his 20 acres blended together in "mixed" housing.

He asked the Board to delay action on the application of Morris Singer of Detroit and Philip Kaplan of Southfield to rezone their Clintonville Road, 122 acres, from agriculture to Mobile Home Park.

To this Kaplan remarked that they had owned the property for 15 years and that Raisin was a "Johnny come lately." He said he was "sick and tired of sitting here listening to this. If he doesn't like us by him let him buy us."

Raisin said, "I would be glad to meet with you and negotiate on your property."

Kaplan asked that the board consider their request and pass it as the 2 other boards had. He was referring to the township planning commission and county coordinating and planning commission.

The Board reviewed some of the history. There are 556 trailer pads proposed, sewers would be run from the park to the township line about a quarter mile away at the expense of the owners, central water system would have to be provided, and no trailers would be allowed until sewers are installed.

Most of the delay in considering this zoning change concerns an agreement proposed by the township board. They had their attorney Paul Mandel, prepare one that would spell out sewer and water restrictions for this park.

As supervisor Duane Hursfall said,

"This is the first opportunity we've had to put on or ask restrictions for a trailer park and we'd like to have all the protection possible. We want the board to have more controls," he said.

The property owners' attorney and township attorney had agreed Monday to practically all the wording in the agreement. Singer and Kaplan accepted the township terms. Only in the area of the attorneys' having final say on some restrictions was there disagreement. On this the attorneys, Singer and Kaplan went to another area to discuss it.

In their absence the audience offered their suggestions. More than one asked the township to delay any trailer park rezoning decision until after comment from the new planners, Vilican-Leman.

Others, such as Mrs. Raisin, said "I'm just plain opposed to trailer parks. I don't want them near me."

The final agreement was worked out between the board and owners by substituting the Township's having the final say on some restrictions instead of the attorney.

A vote was taken on the agreement and all approved except treasurer Ken Johnson. The agreement required signatures of Singer, Kaplan and their wives and Mrs. Singer was home ill. Mandel has recommended all parties sign before the board approved it.

The roll call vote on the rezoning put Hursfall in the swing seat. Merle Bennett had made the motion and Harold Bauer seconded it, to approve the rezoning. First person called on the roll was the Supervisor. He said "yes."

Second, the clerk, Howard Altman called his own name. He said, "Before I vote I'd like to make a statement." He then praised the owners for being cooperative, said he had asked for more details from them than any other zoning request.

He then went on to explain why he would vote "no" to this request. He read a letter from Twp. planners, Vilican-Leman in which they suggested a delay in all mobile home park zoning.

Hearing this Hursfall said he had not seen the letter and asked that his vote be withdrawn. He wanted more time to study the letter. "I wasn't aware we had any correspondence from our planners," he said.

Altman said copies went to all township planners. A twp. planner in the audience said the letter came after their vote.

A new roll call was asked by Hursfall and he joined Altman and treasurer Ken Johnson in voting down the request. Shortly after the motion was withdrawn and the question of rezoning the Clintonville Road property was tabled. It will likely come up again at the July 7 meeting.

Guide-lines for Letters-to-the-Editor

Almost every week our Letters-to-the-Editor column receives requests to print letters that are of a personal nature. They most frequently are letters thanking individuals or organizations for assistance rendered. Sometimes they deal with grudge matters between the writer and some adversary.

We cannot print this type of letter.

In other instances, if, in the opinion of the Clarkston News staff, we consider a letter slanderous and deem that the writer or the paper may be subject to a libel suit we reserve the right to withhold the letter from print.

All letters must be signed and include the writer's address. The writer may request that his name be withheld and that we substitute it with a pen name. In these cases we are happy to oblige but we must have the signed letter in our files.

We request that all letters be of honest interest to the whole community.

Do continue to write.

We welcome, particularly, your comments (criticism or praise) regarding the Clarkston News. Your letters help us to make the News a worthwhile asset to the community.

Letters to the Editor

Seek voice of property owners

Do the citizens of Independence Township know that some members of the Independence Township Board really do not know how the majority of property owners feel about Mobile Home Courts?

I am one of the largest procrastinators of all. I have attended two Township Board meetings and two Planning Commission meetings in the 11 years I have lived in this township.

I say, every property owner should spend 25 cents and send a postcard to each member of the Township Board, making a simple statement of NO to another Mobile Home Court. (Do not forget to sign your cards.)

Our Board members are: Merle Bennett—Trustee; Harold Bauer—Trustee; Duane Hursfall—Supervisor; Howard Altman—Clerk; and Kenneth Johnson—Treasurer. Address is Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main Street, Clarkston, 48016.

It is easy to condemn but most of us seldom take action unless the situation affects us directly.

The Township Board and the Planning Commission have probably acted in good faith in the past. They have felt that their actions represented the best interests of the majority.

I think they have been directed by a very small number. I think it is time for all property owners to express their opinions.

Last week, two more Mobile Home Courts were presented to the Planning Board for consideration. They were: Purslow-Walker Property, 74 acres, approximately 330 units; and Marlow-Lawson Property, approximately 75 acres, 260 units.

The Purslow-Walker property will be up for Public Hearing on August 20.

The Planning Commission will hold this meeting in a much larger room, and notices will be published — so, please watch your papers and ATTEND.

DO NOT FORGET. These two proposals are only a small portion of the 971 acres involved.

Hunting made easier

By Jim Fitzgerald

There should be a wolf at every door so a sportsman could shoot it without getting his boots dirty.

This thought occurred to me while watching a Sears Roebuck commercial on TV. I know that sounds strange, Doctor, but I really haven't been feeling well since Agnew became a household word. My neck is sore from typing antiadministration columns while looking back over my shoulder.

Anyway, Sears is selling a "sonic fish call" for only $9.95. It's battery operated, you see, and hangs on a line. You drop it in the water and the fish come swimming, lured by some sort of mating sound. And when the fish gets to the sound, and doesn't find another fish waiting with open gills, you know what he does. He bites your hook.

"You'll catch more fish than you ever did before," Sears promises.

Gee, that certainly is marvelous.

Now if Sears could just do something for those wolf hunters. I learned about them via TV, too. Let's face it, TV is a splendid source of education. If it weren't for the tube, I wouldn't know anything. I wouldn't even know that Doris Day is hazardous to the health of diabetics.

But about the wolves: This travel-adventure film showed a pack of them running across the snow in Alaska. They were being chased by a low-flying airplane. The wolves didn't have a prayer. The plane swooped down and a man leaned out and pointed his high-powered rifle. Bam, bam, bam. Dead wolves all over the place. What fun!

But it's work, too. And dangerous. That shooter might fall out of his plane. It would be nice if Sears could develop a sonic wolf call. Bring the wolf to the hunter.

Or how about this idea? Play sad, sad music in the woods. Constantly. This would depress the animals. They would commit suicide. The hunter's toughest job would be strapping the carcass to his fender or airplane wing. Sears could use the animals' suicide notes in their advertisements.

Of course, animal suicides might take some of the glamor out of that great TV show, The American Sportsman. That's the one where movie stars in armored tanks risk their lives shooting jungle animals with telescopic cannons.

But perhaps the Great White Hunter could prove his virility by standing nearby and actively encouraging the suicide. From the bottom of a cliff he could holler up to a tiger: "Go ahead and jump, you bum."

So he wouldn't have to get too close, Sears could sell him a megaphone. Battery operated. Onward and Upward. †

A variety of flying machines landed on the property at the end of Holcomb Street and provided a small air show for students from the Clarkston Junior High School.

Students enjoy air show

Cliff Irwin's 3rd hour science class at Clarkston Junior High took a field trip on June 10 to the end of Holcomb Street. The purpose of this trip was to give the class an in-depth look at a few of today's flying machines.

The trip was the result of students' Mark Peters' and Jim Chad's work on a science project entitled "The History of Flight."

The presentation of this project took place at the school property on N. Holcomb Street.

The boys made arrangements for three aircraft to fly out to the area and present a small air show.

Each craft landed, was explained and then was inspected by the students.

This project was made possible through the special efforts of Mr. Dick Zerbe, who flew his Waco bi-plane, Mr. Jim Peters and Mr. Clare Warren, who flew the Cessna 150, Deputy Sheriff Terry Cranston, who flew the County's helicopter and Dr. Greene, superintendent of schools, who permitted the use of the property.

Adios, farewell, goodbye

Have you ever considered having an exchange student in your home? You should, as it is a most interesting and rewarding experience. We have had two. You can read articles about a country but it doesn't compare to having someone from a foreign land living with you day after day, enabling you to discuss various matters relative to their country and ours.

For the past five months we have been the host family of Aurora Cerron from Peru. When Aurora first arrived in the states, it was very difficult to communicate with her because of a language problem. She had studied the English Language since the first grade, but she never had an opportunity to actually speak the language. It is hard to believe the progress she has made.

When she first arrived, everyone thought her to be rather shy. What a misconception! It was just that she couldn't speak our language well. Now you rarely have to ask her to repeat words much less to speak. It is a nice feeling to know that you have contributed to this accomplishment.

A year ago Rosie Remedios made her home with us. Rosie was from the Philippines. The anticipation of meeting her at the airport increased with every letter we received from her. The year Rosie spent with us was also a very interesting experience and as a result we have practically inherited an entirely new family.

Rosie's parents and her sister were able to spend the week of graduation with us last year and since then we have had the occasion to meet one of her older brothers. This summer we expect to visit a sister who is married to an American serviceman and living in Texas.

Both girls were sponsored under the Youth For Understanding Program which has been in operation since 1951. During the current year they have been responsible for 4,000 students participating in this exchange program which not only includes foreign students coming to the United States but also our students going to other countries.

Youth For Understanding arranges for all their transportation and makes any major decisions while the student is in your home. While they are here, most schools have some organization (in our particular school it is the Student Council) who pays for their books, lunches, and they are admitted to any school activities free.

One of the biggest problems encountered is saying goodbye. You can't have someone living in your home, whether it be for five months or a year, without feeling a void when they leave.

You will shed tears, but then you start looking forward to their letters and perhaps even to visiting their country.

The exchange student, too, has sentiments regarding their return home. I know of one who made a statement which very well explains their feelings, "I have one glad eye and one crying eye."

We feel strongly that this program, in the majority of cases, will help bring about a better world understanding. It is a rewarding feeling to have played a part.

We have told both our girls that we want them to be truthful about our country, but if they hear someone discussing a certain subject and the information is not true, that we hope they will speak up and say, "Wait a minute. How do you happen to know so much about the United States? Have you lived there?"

Aurora and Rosie will be able to say, "I have." Thanks to Youth For Understanding, the Clarkston High School Student Council, my own parents, and my American parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Leigh Bonner, I have lived in Clarkston, Michigan, U.S.A., and what you are saying about that country is not true."

Can you suggest any better way to bring about a better world understanding?

Mrs. W. Leigh Bonner

Cancer

The treatment of cancer with drugs is partly responsible for a levelling off of the increase in the number of cancer deaths. The American Cancer Society also notes that cancer death rates are, in some cases, dropping off.

In 1930, there were 112 cancer deaths per 100,000 population; in 1950, it was 125; by 1965, the figure was 128. This levelling off reflects earlier (and better) diagnosis and prompt treatment by surgery, x-rays and drugs.

Even better news is found in the increasing number of persons who survive for five years or more, with cancer. Thirty years ago, the ratio was one in five; today it's one in three.

Last year, 915,000 Americans were treated for cancer; 309,000 of them died. This year, another 600,000 new cases will be diagnosed. More than 50 million Americans now living will eventually have cancer, if present rates continue. That's one person in four, affecting two out of three families.

Numbers don't tell the whole story. For years, people were so afraid of cancer that they didn't talk about it and hid the fact that they had the disease. That attitude is now changing. People are alert to the "Seven Danger Signals" and are quick to see a doctor if there's something suspicious. They know that needless delays are literally "a matter of life and death."

The Leslie Johnson family arrived at commencement early enough to be photographed with their son of the past school year. Alejandro Javier Orizola was an exchange student at CHS. His home is in Chile.

Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Bonner attend graduation exercises with their South American daughter, Aurora Cerron. The Bonners had a daughter from the Philippines last year. Both girls were part of the Youth for Understanding exchange program.

The Charles Wheeler family sit for a family picture on the occasion of their exchange student, son's graduation from CHS. Their son for the past school year is Ricardo Furfaro of Buenos Aires.

Exchange plans successful

Life with Alejandro has been fun as well as educational. He has told me of his South American customs and I have learned they really aren't very different from ours.

He has made many new friends who enjoy his company. Since he has come to Clarkston his English has improved 99 percent. When I first started to talk with him I learned that they play basketball as much in Chile as they do here. (He is a better player than I am.)

Alejandro is a very good student and makes a great brother.

He plans to play soccer when he gets back to Chile.

I will miss him very much when he goes but I hope to see him again some day.

His American brother

Saying goodbye is difficult

Having Alejandro as our "son" for the past school year is a pleasure we will always remember.

Adding to that pleasant experience is the wonderful friendship we have acquired with his fine family in Chile. It is a friendship we intend to keep.

We sincerely hope that Alejandro has been happy in his American home.

I'm sure that he will always remember the many friends he has made here at Clarkston High School, particularly, Mr. Bud McGrath, who stood by with a kind word and helping hand at all times.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie M. Johnson

"Adios"

The first objective of my exchange student program is to increase friendly relationships between the countries.

It is really amazing to realize how we learned to understand and share each others problems. At the same time I was treated as one more people in the family.

The youth is supposed to make positive changes in the future for the better and I really think this is the best way to start facing our future lives.

Living with the Johnsons has been the best part of my experience. It is a wonderful family and I am really going to miss them.

Sincerely, I hope to come back and see all my friends again.

I'd like by this letter to say good-bye to all my friends.

Sincerely yours,
Alejandro Javier Orizola

"Farewell"

It is hard to leave behind many happy moments and wonderful new experiences. When I get back to Peru I am sure I'll be talking about the United States as much as I have talked about Peru while I was here in the States.

If, when I return home I find that some people have some wrong ideas about the United States, I will try to change their minds as I have done in regard to opinions of my country while I was here.

The world is becoming very small, yet strangely, we form ideas about a country about which we have no knowledge. We must not believe all the things we hear but must inquire and judge for ourselves.

I have had the opportunity to live here in the United States and have found most of the North American people to be friendly and helpful. They certainly made me feel welcome.

I can't help but feel my experience has resulted in closer and better ties between the two countries and I shall express these feelings when back in Peru.

Adios y muchas gracias.

Aurora Cerron

Host family sad and grateful

"Mom, can we have an exchange student live with us?" The answer provided an opportunity for us to have a new son. Ricardo Furfaro, age 17, joined the Wheeler clan.

From the moment we met the plane from Argentina and welcomed Ricardo to our family we have enjoyed this young man. Our oldest son, Chuck, moved things over and they shared a "typical," messy teenage room. Apparently boys are alike the world over.

At first I thought Chuck and Ricardo should be bosom buddies and I'm sure I tried too hard to make Ricardo feel at home. After a few weeks we all relaxed and the boys enjoyed each others' company but, like normal brothers, had friends of their own.

Ricardo joined in all activities and shared the household responsibilities.

There were many moments of frustration, at being understood and moments of joy at being accepted. I'll never forget the day Ricardo called me "mom" for the first time.

These six months have literally flown by. I know he is anxious to see his home and family again but he will always be a most important part of our family. We are going to miss him.

The Youth for Understanding Program is great. We have met many young people from several South American countries and treasure these friendships. I hope more of our children will be able to participate in this program. It's a marvelous experience.

Mrs. Charles Wheeler

"Goodbye"

These 6 months in Clarkston have been the most wonderful experience of my life! My family was lovely and I've got many new friends with whom I have had wonderful times.

School was easy and interesting. I tried to take part in all activities and social events. I really liked going out for track, where the boys and coaches treated me so well.

I consider that this exchange program is really worth while in creating understanding between people from different countries and who have different customs.

I hope that I will be able to come back to Clarkston so we can meet again in future years.

Sincerely,
Ricardo Furfaro

Commemorative Coins sold by County

Oakland County is celebrating its Sesqui Centennial this year. To commemorate this 150th anniversary the Sesqui Centennial Committee through the Oakland County Treasurer, C. Hugh Dohany, has prepared for sale a commemorative coin.

The design of the coin is by the internationally known sculptor, Marshall
Fredericks, who volunteered his talent and skill to assist the County in this celebration.

The reverse side of the coin carries the inscription "SESQUI CENTENNIAL," and the years "1820 - 1970." Chief Pontiac is featured carrying a pipe of peace, peace being the treasured dream of all men since time immemorial. Directly behind Chief Pontiac's head is a full moon, depicting the passing of time or the end of an era.

The design on the obverse side of the coin is a replica of the seal of our great County, featuring a noble "white oak tree," with a sunburst behind the tree.

Oakland County derived its name from the great oak tree forests, that the first settlers observed here prior to 1820. The white oak tree is known as the symbol of strength, durability and grandeur. Our own past and the future that lies ahead makes Oakland County aptly named.

The sale of the coins will begin on June 25th and will be sold only through financial institutions in Oakland County, mainly the banks, bank branches and savings and loan offices. The Bronze Coins are available for $1.00, a Silver Coin numbered and in a plastic case is available $10.00 A commemorative set which is in a green leather case with a white stain back and the County Seal in gold stamped on satin will consist of 1 silver and 1 bronze numbered identically. These sets will sell for $12.50.

Since there is a limited number of coins available, it is felt that these will not only be a keepsake but will be a collector's item in years to come.

"Fore" score

by Jean Sura

"I got the double bogie, triple bogie blues." That's the name of a song I'm writing and it's a sad song.

The ladies' spring golf tournament is over. The results are so bad that I'm glad to be back to work.

After last year's fiasco, it took great courage to agree to play but I adopted a new strategy. I would look sharp, feel sharp, be sharp!

A night-owl friend of mine helped me scratch that whole routine the evening before the whole thing started. Consequently, it was with great difficulty that I hied myself out of bed. My pre-planned, color-coordinated costume was shot when the zipper in my shorts got stuck.

The day was hot and soggy. By the time I got to the golf course I felt the same way. As I got out of the car in the bright sunlight I noticed, to my distaste, that my razor had left a swath of bristles on my right shin, hardly the way to start the day.

You probably have guessed that my opponent, Roberta, reported punctually, looking like a model for the latest in golfing attire, with her blonde hair attractively coiffed and covered with a bouffant, orange chiffon scarf.

"Anyone that attractive couldn't possibly be much of a golfer," I told myself. "Anyway, I am a better golfer, I have a lower handicap and have to give her four strokes."

To make a long story short — believe it or not — though it wasn't easy, I won the match in the suffocating heat. I hit the ball well. Roberta was off her game but battled down to the line at the 18th hole.

Exhausted from the heat and game we crawled into the grill for lunch and it gave me the opportunity to think about playing again the next day.

Now while I had been out there on the golf course practically frying, my next opponent, was languishing in the cool comfort of her home. She had drawn a "bye" and didn't have to play the first day.

Tired as I was, I could hardly wait to get out the next morning. Does lightning ever strike in the same place twice? Could I hit the ball well for two days in a row?

Eleanor, my new foe, is a sweet, gentle, little retired school teacher. She wears large brimmed hats to protect her sensitive skin. And — I had to give her two strokes.

"I wonder where I should put the lovely sterling bowl that goes to the winner?" I thought to myself. "If I move that pitcher over onto the piano that would make room on the hutch."

My musings were interrupted by a forty mile an hour wind and the steady golf of "steam-roller Eleanor." Lightning rarely strikes twice in the same spot and the same thing held true about my great golf swing of the previous day.

Before the day was over I had seen Eleanor from every angle. She just walked down the middle of the fairway while I whistled along with the wind from one rough to another like an airdale pup chasing a chipmunk.

When it was all over I felt a surge of relief. I wouldn't have to play again on the morrow. I guess that I am more of a lover than fighter.

"Thanks, Roberta, for giving me my moment of glory and to you, Eleanor, — I hope your silver bowl doesn't tarnish from contact with my sour grapes.

We're just bursting forth with high-flying values! Check our Red, White and Blue bargains at Revolutionary, low prices! Get into the spirit and save!

6 hurt in crash

Six persons were injured on June 16 in a 2 car collision on the corner of Sashabaw and Maybee Road.

Marilyn Palshan, 33, of Ortonville was driving north on Sashabaw according to Oakland County Sheriff's records, at 11:09 p.m. when a car driven by Karen Leach, 17, apparently failed to yield the right of way.

Mrs. Palshan stated that she attempted to swerve to the left and avoid the collision but was unable to do so.

Her children, Valarie, 10, Julie, 8 and Andrea, 5, who were passengers in the car were also injured.

Janet Leach, 16, was riding with her sister at the time of the crash.

All 6 were taken to Pontiac General Hospital.

The Oakland County Sheriff's records showed that Barbara Fenner, 32, was traveling south on I-75 near Waldon when she had a blow-out of her right front tire.

She told sheriff's deputies that she lost control of the vehicle and went in the ditch.

Make funds available

The Village Council approved the expenditure of funds to fight litigation arising from the action taken by the Boron Oil Company and property owner James Leon of Rochester.

The village Board of Appeals was subpoenaed by Boron Oil and Leon to present in writing to District Judge Robert Templin their side of their March denial of a proposed Boron Service Station at the corner of Waldon Road and South Main.

The irregularity charge regarding the petitions stemmed from the fact that the lot in question was to be split and the gas station would only occupy one half of the property, according to Village president, Cooper.

Superfluous bologna

Shel George

Not even knowing what your eating habits and tastes might be, rest assured you have swallowed some of this product. To illustrate, I offer the following case in point.

A group of fine citizens had gathered at the local meeting hall. This conscientious organization was primarily interested in community improvement, social relations, human events, etc. They suffered from the same limitations that all of us do. Sometimes they lacked finances, sometimes sufficient time, other times sufficient people. For the most part their intentions were good.

At one particular meeting the agenda called for discussion and action on building repairs of the meeting hall. All members were present. The meeting was called to order and last month's minutes were read and approved. Old business was quickly dispensed with and new business was called for.

A lady in the front stood to address the speaker. She sighted her qualifications before making her recommendations: PTA room mother, Home decorator, chairman of the women's garden club decoration committee for the annual banquet, three years of home ec. when in high school, avid reader of Better Homes and Gardens, plus occasional articles from American Home, which she borrowed from her neighbor.

With this in mind, she wanted to suggest that a fund raising drive be started with the proceeds going towards the purchase of a chandelier. This could, of course, be the center of all other interior decorations. Naturally, she would be glad to chair the selection committee.

The speaker acknowledged her suggestion and opened the floor for further comments and suggestions. Those who thought she over-qualified herself were generally opposed. Others who were interested in joining the committee generally agreed. The qualification usually centered on the emphasis of "it was a good idea. I wish I had thought of it first."

The discussion dragged on and on. The speaker seemed unable to muster a consensus opinion and, as usual, when people are involved, nobody wanted to concede their ideas.

Finally an older gentleman in the rear could take it no longer. He stood, called for quiet and addressed the speaker.

"I just don't understand all of this haggling between us. Here we are spendin' our meetin' time talking about a chandelier and what this place really needs are some lights!"

The limitation of the group on this particular night was communications. Until the issue was understood by all present, the discussion regardless of its relative merits and importance, was just so much "superfluous baloney."

I believe most of our politicians and public leaders (exceptions granted) have a graduate degree in this type of meat packing. It behooves all of us to remember this one thing. It doesn't matter who packs it, what it consists of, what the wrapper looks like or how it is sliced (or spelled), bologna is still baloney.

MSU grads to study basin

By Jim Sherman

This summer the Clinton River basin in Independence Township will undergo extensive study by graduate students at Michigan State University.

Twp. Supervisor Duane Hursfall said last week that there may be 180 students involved in this study under the direction of Dr. Humphrey from MSU. Potential engineers, biologists, geologists and others will participate.

The Clinton River begins at Crooked Lake near Sashabaw Road near Oakhill

Road and runs through Mt. Clemens. Only Independence Township will be included in this study, which comes at the request of the Township Board.

Hursfall said the Water Resources people will also be involved. The study will include the flood plain, high water marks and bottom lands. They will be working with the Township building department.

The supervisor said the costs to the Township would be around $500, enough to cover transportation.

Rights are right

by Haslett Hemmor

Guess women got every right to fight for their equality, but sometimes they sure enough bite their own noses to spite their faces.

Take now the crew of females working down to the spring company. Even put up picket signs, they did, demanding equal treatment. So now when they ask one of the men to lift down a 75 pound box of clips or a roll of wire - like always before - they now just get the old fish-eye and they get reminded that they demanded equal treatment - so heave away.

Takes maybe two and sometimes three of the "fat-slack" workers to wrestle a box down. Even so, about every third time, the box gets away from 'em and they spend an hour or so crawling around like rooting hogs on their hands and knees to pick up maybe a hundred thousand little clips or washers.

Natural enough, old Jake Simmons just stands over 'em at times like this and says nothin'. Absolutely nothin'. Does keep glaring at his watch, though.

Kind of seems like the judges don't know there's been this big fat issue about equality.

Though I do seem to recall some bozo up in Canada got awarded alimony from his ex.

Fact is, though, those her-to-him payments just don't crop up real regular like dandelions. Usual thing, they seem to switch back to helpless females during divorce trials, kind of like a chameleon act to prove that it's fitting and proper that man should be the old bread winner. Mostly they even put on dresses for these here divorce performances.

Once hizzoner raps the gavel, howsomever, it's back to the old cry of equal employment rights and no discrimination on the hiring even if it means laying off the poor joker who's up to here in back alimony.

* * *

Getting to be a right strange mix-up with the fat-slack crowd and boys wearing long hair and beads. Kind of chuckle to myself when I think 'bout old Lloyd Bennett giving the business to his pushy wife and two growed up daughters. One's 19. Other's 22.

Lloyd's eating supper and, as usual, he's got the evening news shoved up under his nose. Touch short-sighted, Lloyd is.

"Bout time," Lloyd remarks to hisself,

"bout time."

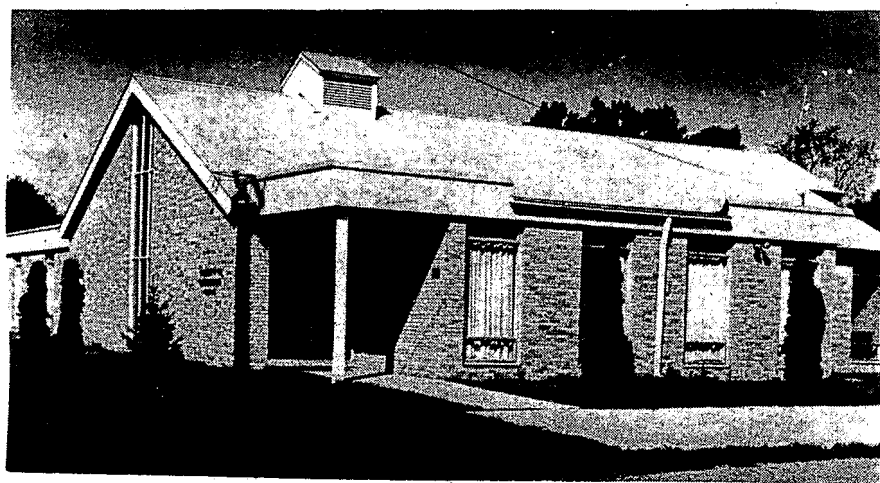

"Put your paper down and speak up," yells Sarah, his wife. "That all you got to do at supper time is stick your ugly face in a newspaper and mumble things that a body can't hear and wouldn't make sense if they could be heard? That all you can do is burp and mumble? Speak up, man, and spit it out just like you really had something to say."

Old Lloyd puts down his paper and kind of wets his lips before he smiles sort of nice - like to a three-year-old having a temper tantrum. "You know," he tells her, "I've always kind of resented people calling you 'Screaming Sarah' but still - being real fair to 'em - I can understand how you got the monniker."

His two daughters gasped like they'd just seen their kitten turn into a lion.

"All I was reading," Lloyd goes on, "was that Congress decided to go all the way in giving women equal rights and so all single women from 18 to 25 are subject to being drafted."

Darned paper was in shreds being yanked from one to another before he final broke out laughing and give the game away.

*"Know ye not that they which run in a race run all, but one receiveth the prize?"
(1 Corinthians 9:24)*

Few, if any, of us are involved in the sport we call "track" or in running at all. In fact, most modern Americans won't even walk if they can avoid it. However, we are all participants in a race which seems to have no end. We call it "the rat race." Living in a world of jet planes and television, area codes and digital dialing, urban renewal and rural electrification, executive meetings and mass protests, organizations and causes, super markets and traffic jams, our lives trace out concentric patterns which seem to lead to a busy nowhere.

There is a difference, however, between the "rat race" and what we might call the "Christian race." St. Paul points out as he goes on to say: "... Now they do it to obtain a corruptible crown; but we are incorruptible." Every runner who wishes to run a straight and true race must know the location of the finish line. In the "rat race" it is difficult, if not impossible, to find and then there is only a corruptible crown waiting. In the Christian race the goal is our incorruptible life in Christ. And one of the amazing things about the Christian race is that every entrant who sets his courses for the finish line can reach it. And it is the only race where the prize awaits everyone. But just as a running race demands discipline, determination and hard work, so does the Christian race and, like a runner, we must always be willing to expend just a little more effort than we think ourselves capable.

The sooner we set our mind to being a participant in this race the sooner we shall be out of the "rat race" and, with God's help, be on the mark for the only race that really counts.

Honor "Doc" Thayer

By Doje

Howes Lanes was the scene Friday night of a surprise retirement party for Ralph Thayer who retired this week from the Clarkston School System after 33 years. Mr. Thayer plans to do a lot of fishing so his fellow workers presented him with all kinds of fishing impedimenta.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Zeller of Snow Apple Drive celebrated their 6th wedding anniversary on June 20th. They enjoyed dinner out and then traveled to Port Huron to attend the wedding of friends.

Attending weddings on anniversaries seemed to be the thing this week. Mrs. Robert (Judy) Brumback went to New York this weekend to be at the wedding of her brother. Bob and Judy will have a belated anniversary celebration to mark their 10th anniversary, June 19th when Bob recovers from a broken nose. Didn't know basketball was such a rough game!

A call to Carol Bixby on June 22 to say Happy Anniversary and ask what they had planned took Carol by surprise. "Oh I was sure the 22nd was tomorrow!" David and Carol were planning to have a few friends in to salute their 13th. I'll bet Carol had a busy day after our call.

Monday morning was the opening of the Clarkston Girl Scout Day Camp at the Oakland County Sportsman Club. The Girl Scouts, Brownies and mothers had a beautiful day to use all the camping skills they have been learning all year. The camp will last for one week and climax with an over-night for the older girls.

Joseph C. Bird, Chapter No. 294 O E S will have a dinner honoring the past matrons, patrons, life and honorary members, on Monday June 29, 6:30 p.m. in The Clarkston Masonic Temple. Reservations may be made through Mrs. Homer Biondi, 625-2140.

The United Methodist Church Music Director, Adele Thomas is attending the Church Music Summer School at Southern Methodist University, Dallas Texas, for an intensive 2 weeks training in church music and theology for church musicians.

The after graduation party held on Monday evening at the K of C Hall was a great success if music, food, pop and lots of kids is any sign. The party started at 9:30 p.m. and went full swing until 1 a.m. when the last of the door prizes was awarded. The party was sponsored by the parents of the graduates and has become an annual event.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Krause have purchased the Ralph M. Brady home on M-15. Mr. and Mrs. Brady have lived in the house for 24 years and are now moving to Stevens Road. The Krauses will be moving here from Mt. Clemens soon.

Mrs. Floyd Tower was seen Monday afternoon walking down main street; when asked why the tired walk she replied, "This is my day camp waddle." Thank goodness for mothers like Mrs.

Summer is a great time to plan foods that are easily prepared and ready to eat on short notice. This Sour Kraut Salad can be kept indefinitely in the refrigerator.

SOUR KRAUT SALAD

Chop together:
1 large green pepper
1 large onion
1 cup diced celery
½ ounce jar pimento
1 quart sour kraut (clipped and drained)
Add:
2 cups granulated sugar
¼ cup water
½ cup cooking oil
¾ cup vinegar
1 teaspoon celery seed
Allow to stand for 24 hours. Drain and serve. Makes approximately 20 servings.

Here is a casserole with a different twist. I can't remember who gave the recipe to me so can't give them the credit. Sorry.

CORNED BEEF CASSEROLE

6 ounces macaroni, cooked
1 can corned beef
½ pound Velveeta, sharp or grated cheese
1 can mushroom soup
1 cup milk
¼ cup diced onions
dash garlic salt

Place in layers. Add soup and milk mixture. Cover with ¾ cup buttered crumbs. Bake uncovered in a 350 degree oven for 45 minutes or 300 degrees for 1 hour.

Why not top that off with another fresh strawberry dessert. Try this one.

STRAWBERRY-O CHEESE PIE

Crust:

1 baked 9 inch pastry shell|cooled or 9 inch crumb crust

Basic filling:

1-8 ounce package cream cheese, softened
1 can sweetened condensed milk
1/3 cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon vanilla

In medium size bowl, beat softened cheese until light and fluffy. Gradually stir in sweetened condensed milk until thoroughly blended. Stir in lemon juice and vanilla. Turn into crust. Refrigerate 2 to 3 hours. Garnish top of pie with chilled, whole strawberries. Pour glaze (following) over top of chilled pie.

Glaze:

1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch pinch salt
½ cup fresh or frozen crushed strawberries
1 cup water

In a small saucepan, combine sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add crushed berries and water. Cook over medium heat: stir constantly until thickened and clear. Strain. Add a few drops of red food coloring. Pour glaze over top of chilled pie.

Note: This recipe can be used with blueberries, cherries or peaches.

Food packages and other supplies will be sent overseas to servicemen, compliments of students from the Sashabaw Junior High School. LOBOS (Love Our Boys Over Seas) was founded by the students at the school. Shown from left to right are: Margaret Blehm, Jane Jackson and Terri Thompson, with Gayle Brokenshaw, packing it in for shipment.

Tower.

Word just reached us by way of a letter from the Clinton Valley Barracks 2803 Veterans of World War I Auxiliary that their president, Mrs. Harold Rioux, had just recently returned from Florida. They also reported that Mrs. Harry Little is visiting in California and Mrs. Richard Adams has been ill.

About 20 Freshman girls at the High School have started a new club called

"Love our boys overseas" (LOBOS). Starting with a cash donation from the Student Council the girls have held a car wash, bake sale and variety show to raise funds to send packages to Clarkston young men, who are serving with the armed forces in Vietnam.

Carol Brundige is president of the new club and Allison Shilling, vice president. The club will resume activities when school opens in September.

We have examined the statements of assets and liabilities, on a cash basis, of the various funds of the Township of Independence as of March 31, 1970, and the related statements of cash receipts and disbursements and fund equities for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the accompanying statements of assets and liabilities and the related statements of cash receipts and disbursements and fund equities present fairly, on a cash basis, the financial position of the various funds of the Township of Independence as of March 31, 1970, and the results of operations for the year then ended in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Very truly yours,

PINE KNOB BEAUTY SALON

5553 SASHABAW (PINE KNOB PLAZA) 625-4140

TUESDAY THRU SATURDAY FROM 9-4

THURSDAYS UNTIL 6

CLOSED ON MONDAYS

Students in the 6th grade classes of Jean Kinser and Nat Kinlund at the North Sashabaw make their 650 marks for the day on their project to make 1,000,000,000 marks before summer vacation started.

Million marks made by many

The millionth mark is placed on the chart, completing the 6th grade project at the North Sashabaw School.

On May 14 the ambitious 7th grade students in the classes of Mrs. Jean Kinser and Nat Kinlund set out to understand the enormity of the number, one million.

Figures proved that each child would have to make 650 marks each day to complete the task by June 18. Paper towels were strung on the walls of the hall at the North Sashabaw Elementary School and the work was begun.

More than 2 months' time elapsed with the children diligently fulfilling their assignments each day.

During the 2 months, the marks stretched out to cover 519 yards or 1558 feet. Each sheet was covered with 6 separate rows of marks.

When the strips were cut apart they covered 3,104 yards or 9,312 feet. If it had been possible to place them end to end the strips would have covered 1 3/4 miles.

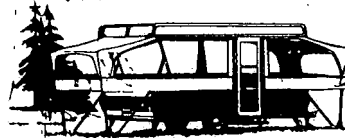

The experience guaranteed that the children had a clear concept of the number.

One student said, "If I had a million dollars I would have to build a special building to put it in."

Dump full

The county sanitary landfill site on M-15 north of Clarkston is getting full and costs are getting too high for it to be continued.

So said the County Road Commission in a letter to Independence Township last week. They said that while users have increased in number from 63 a week when it started to 90 a week now it is too costly to continue.

They suggested a meeting of Brandon and Independence officials. The Commission said the dump would likely have to be closed by winter.

Supervisor Duane Hursfall said he has asked county commissioner Richard Wilcox to meet with Independence, Brandon and Commission representatives.

Hi...

I'm Reese Lamb, Michigan's Truck Driver of the Year.

I'd like to ask you a favor.

Keep your cool driving on the hot Fourth of July.

The highways will be crowded...traffic may move like a snail...and tempers may flare.

Don't let a hot temper cause you to blow your stack.

When your stack blows...your patience goes...And you may be heading for trouble.

This is how accident statistics are made.

You don't have to be one if you keep your cool. So keep your cool on the hot Fourth of July.

If more people do...fewer will die.

Letters from Marguerite

by Marguerite Slater

Dear Jeanie:

As a good golfer you disappointed me. When you wrote several weeks ago about the hardboiled egg that fell out of your sweater pocket, I thought its lie was probably a lot better than your ball so why in you-know-what didn't you play the egg?

I have a broken foot. It hurts, so I walk on it. In that way I tell myself it hurts because I'm walking on it; much less painful that way.

Ever get mixed up with antiques? At times I've been embarrassed by my inability to appreciate the ardor of my antiquing friends, especially those who clutter their houses with unbeautiful things just because the things are old. I'm just an odd duck I guess because I've always held that if one didn't grow up with family owned antiques—why buy someone else's memories?

So when my brother decided to give up his apartment which was furnished with the things we grew up with, it became an interesting confrontation—Gad! How I hate that silly, overworked word! But there we were, parting gladly with hundreds of dollars worth of cut glass, silver china and furniture that three generations had cared about so zealously. Somehow it broke a chain of dependence and made us feel very carefree. Elizabeth Bowen wrote, "Memory is the editor of one's sense of life," and freeing ourselves from those memories really took SOME editing!

My brother's place was one of those oldfashioned flats with lots of closet space. One was loaded with boxes of small pictures and snapshots, some dating back almost 100 years. We have them put away here to enjoy during some blustery winter weather as (happily for me) he has decided to move here. In repacking them we ran across an interesting tintype of our father's grandmother. She surely looked like her reputation described her: cross and bossy. She refused absolutely to learn English because her son (the grandfather I've told you about before) brought her to America from her home in Germany much against her will.

If you didn't read "The Peter Principle" last winter, you're the only one who didn't. What I want to know is, did it make you look at both successes and failures in the light of the good Doctor's yardstick?

I really had to forget it as it became an obsessive type of fun for me. Try speculating on just when the "Peter Principle" took over in those you meet in everyday life. It is particularly easy to see when dealing with individuals in an organization. Next time you have an adjustment in understanding with a "Department Head," your blood pressure stays pretty normal if you ask yourself, "Just what was he doing before he got this job?"

And so speaking of stuffed shirts, I will soon keep my promise and send you the summer soup recipe (it's better than Vichyssoise) which you can give without apology to the Duke and Duchess of Windsor when they drop in unexpectedly for lunch some day.

Now I must put away this typewriter and decide if I should bake the biscuits then lay them over the bubbling beef stew or should I lay them raw over the stew and bake the whole shebang at the same time. Decisions! Decisions!

Your old friend,
Marguerite

W.W.I. Vets and Auxiliary meet

Clinton Valley Barracks 2803 Veterans of World War I and their auxiliary met for a co-operative dinner at the Davisburg Town Hall on June 13.

Ten members of the Auxiliary were called to order by their president, Mrs. Harold Rioux. Reports were made on various projects that had been completed.

Mrs. John Landon reported that the clothing drive in the Andersonville School had collected 3 car loads of clothing for the Indian children in Upper Michigan.

Representation at the May 23 meeting of the 5th District was made by Mrs. John Gries, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Adams and Mr. and Mrs. John Boice. Mrs. Boice was elected Jr. vice president of the District Auxiliary.

Fire Hall construction delayed 30 days

The contract for construction of the new fire station, to be located at Pine Knob and Maybee Roads, has been extended for 30 days according to Township clerk, Howard Altman.

The low bidder on the project was granted permission to withdraw his bid at his request. The second lowest bidder, Monolith Construction Company of Milford, has agreed to the 30 day extension.

Altman said the extension was asked to enable the Board to clarify their financing ability. The extension would make it possible to use money from the next tax collection in late December. This would make the expenditure of bonding or borrowing money unnecessary.
