Jim's Jottings

By Jim Sherman

I heard a graphic description of how much a millionth part of something is. It was given to the Oxford Rotary Club by Miss M. Virginia Sink, who lives at Whipple Lake on Sashabaw road.

Miss Sink is assistant manager of vehicle emissions, Engineering Division of Chrysler Corporation. She used the "millionth part" definition to show what part of the air is made up of carbon monoxide.

She said there are three parts of the gas per million. A millionth would be like a drop of vermouth in a tank car of gin, she added.

Miss Sink has been involved in finding answers to pollution for Chrysler since 1952, and she minces no words in describing the part government has played in helping create pollution. She further states that solution to the problem cannot be legislated as the government is trying to do.

"There can be no solution to the pollution problem until there is a scientific determination of air pollutants," Miss Sink said. Apparently the boys with the microscopes, test tubes and thick glasses are having as much problem figuring what's in the air as they are finding a cure for the cold.

"All the public causes pollution," we were told and it is up to all the people to determine how clean we want this here world to be. We also have to decide how much we're willing to pay to clean up our land, sea and air. Miss Sink warned that it was going to be extremely expensive.

She was quite outspoken on the gauge the federal government is using for determining how clean air should be. We have to get things down to the level of pollution of 1940 in Los Angeles county.

That county is unique, geographically (and maybe other ways). It sits in a basin, where temperatures are right for smog (80-85), has mountains on three sides, heavy population and air currents that are sometimes too slow (5 mph) to blow away the smog.

Yet this is the area of the world for which people in the midwest have to pay to have cleaned up to the 1940 level. I kind of agree with Miss Sink. Maybe some other county in the country, more an average, could have been used.

Being in the auto business, the Basin being engineered

M. A. Benson, developer of Deerfield Subdivision on the northwest corner of Clarkston, told the Council last week that engineers are working on the settlement basin proposed for their property.

He said he would have the bulldozers on the property, digging the basin as soon as engineering was completed.

Benson said the original dam near Holcomb had been enlarged or strengthened 3 times since the first dirt was bulldozed to hold back the run-off waters.

The village entered into a contract with the county whereby the county DPW will sell the bonds for sewer construction in Clarkston, maintain and install the lines and set methods of payment for the service.

Later the village will pass an ordinance outlining charges to residents.

President Donald Cooper said the vacancy on the Village Council will be filled at the next meeting. The vacancy occurred when Jim Mahar resigned last month.

Cooper asked that those wishing to be considered for the position contact him.

Commission Agenda

The Planning Commission for Independence Township will hold a joint study meeting with the Independence Township Board of Directors on August 13.

On August 20, at their regular meeting, they will hold a public hearing regarding the request of Andrews, Walker and Purslow for rezoning properties in Section 16 for a Mobile Home Park.

speaker defended that industry's efforts to clean up the air. She also repeated that it is the people who are paying for it. "67 million" devices have been put on cars to date to control emissions, she said.

And, when I hear the men talk about taking the devices off so they get more gas mileage I wonder how willing we are to clean up the air. In this case we pay for the device but are not willing to continue paying to use it.

By the way, the government is concerned about the extent of carbon monoxide coming from our cars and the gasoline companies are now putting out lead-free gas. There is just as much carbon monoxide in lead-free gas as regular gas, Miss Sink said. I guess the thing lead-free gas takes out of the air is lead.

Bauer, Stonerock win twp. races

The Democrats of Independence picked Gary Stonerock, 4780 Mohawk, to oppose Supervisor Duane Hursfall in November's General election. Stonerock's opposition came from Robert Hurst, 5102 Pine Knob.

In the only other race in the township, incumbent trustee Harold Bauer defeated Robert Kraud.

Less than a third of the registered voters in the township went to the polls Tuesday. 6,433 were on the rolls and 2,012 voted.

Total votes were as follows: Supervisor - Hurst, 304, Stonerock, 421, for the Democrats and Hursfall 856 on the GOP side.

Louis Gavar, (D) 5159 Parview, got 495 votes, Howard Altman (R), 899 in the clerk contest.

Incumbent treasurer Kenneth Johnson (D) received 592 votes and Shirley McDonnell 687.

Keith Humbert (D) got 546 votes for trustee and Harold Bauer (R) 587, Robert Kraud (R) 372.

Four constables posts were open and 4 ran. Harry Fahrner (R) received 746 votes, Harry Yoh (R) 459, Earl King (D) 360 and Donald Trarop (D) 380.

Independence voters went for Crowley over O'Brien, but O'Brien apparently won, Lodge over Briney and Smith and Huber over Romney.

Driver killed as car goes out of control

Roland Vetter, 42, of 4249 E. Hill Road, Grand Blanc was pronounced dead at the scene of an accident on July 27.

The accident occurred, according to Oakland County Sheriff's records, when Vetter apparently lost control of his car and hit the abutment on I-75 at the Holcomb Road overpass.

Five persons were injured in a 2 car collision at Perry Lake Road and Shappie at 3:20 p.m. on July 29.

Lee Swayne, 53, of 6469 Shappie, the driver of one of the cars, was injured, according to Sheriff's records, when he attempted to make a left turn onto Shappie from the northbound lane of Perry Lake Road.

Walter Tinsler, III, 28, 6351 Snow Apple was unable to avoid the collision. He and his 3 passengers were also injured in the crash. The passengers were Nikki Tinsler, 2, Renne Tinsler, 6, and Jenny Long, 12, of 5425 Maybee Road.

Swayne was cited for failure to yield the right of way.

Queen Anne's Lace, or Daucus Carota, is a member of the parsley family. It is considered a noxious weed by most people. Close inspection of this wild flower that sweeps in filmy drifts over the landscape from July to September reveals that a fine geometric, lacy design forms the flower head and it has delicate, fringed foliage. Take a look—it's all around you.

Supervised playground and the Little League baseball activities of the Independence Township Recreation Program came to a close this week.

"The playground program was superbly directed by Cathy Richardson and her assistant Mark Cowan," said Paul Tungate, Recreation Director. "Assistants, working on the playgrounds at Andersonville, Bailey Lake, Clarkston and Sashabaw, successfully involved approximately 300 children a day."

Daily activities in arts, crafts, and games were culminated by the running of an "All school tract meet," which was won by participants from the Sashabaw playground.

Thirty-nine teams (approximately 600 boys) participated in Little League Baseball in the 3 divisions, PeeWee, Widget and Midget.

The champions were crowned at the close of the season. Winner in the PeeWee division was the team coached by Bob Brumbach and sponsored by the Clarkston Sporting Goods. The Widget champs were sponsored by A & A Trenching, and coached by Ken Ross.

A tie between Haupt Pontiac (Coach Frank Wilson) and Burgundy Carpets (Coach Dave Blower) caused a post-season play-off. The winner was

Plans are already under way to expand this program next year. A league for boys too old for Little League will be added. Future plans anticipate the addition of 1 league each year until the program covers boys of all ages.

"Our program is growing and we hope to continue to give service to as many people of the community as economically feasible. All managers, sponsors, and boys who participated are to be commended for the success of this year's Little League," said Tungate.

The swimming facilities at Deer Lake will continue in operation until September 14th.

Let's clean up pollution

By Bob Gregg

Everyone seems to be jumping on the anti-pollution bandwagon. It took years, but finally people are realizing the seriousness of our environmental problems.

And many are asking what they can do to fight pollution and clean up our environment.

Anti-litter campaigns and picking up debris is a beginning, but even more important steps must be taken to solve our common problem.

Everyone, especially housewives, can start their own anti-pollution project in their own area. All it takes is initiative, good sense and tact.

Talk to your local super market manager and see if you can arrange a system for returning cans and bottles, including the no-return types. He could probably place large return bins in front of his store.

There are aluminum companies that will buy aluminum cans and there are other firms that will purchase glass bottles for use in asphalt paving.

Another excellent way to combat pollution is to write letters supporting strong anti-pollution laws to your representatives in public office, both local, state and federal.

In spite of the recent uproar over pollution, the laws currently on the books are very lenient and seldom enforced. New, stronger laws are needed.

Air and water pollution become worse with each passing day. It is no longer logical to put off cleaning them up.

Don't laugh; cry

By Jim Fitzgerald

The movie "Patton" was ok and the star, George Scott, was magnificent. But I'm worried about the audience. They kept laughing in the wrong places.

It reminded me uncomfortably of those 1940 war movies which always contained the same cliches:

John Wayne was a Marine on typewriter duty in San Diego, working alongside 16 well-stacked broads. And he hated it. He wanted action. He wanted to kill Japs and Germans. He bugged his commanding officer for a transfer "to the front". But the officer refused, saying John was too valuable in the typing pool and couldn't be spared and besides, didn't he realize they also serve who only sit and beat off women. John finally got to the front and won the war but it wasn't easy. He had to knock a friendly platoon unconscious and take its place a b o a r d a landing craft at Okinawa. And he had to make a wisecrack every time he socked a buddy, or bayoneted a Jap.

People stamped their feet and whistled when Big John showed those dirty Japs what was what, by God. From the safety of a theatre in Michigan, war appeared to be a glorious endeavor indeed.

It isn't. Not at the front. It's blood and misery and stink and weariness. It's degrading and stupid and cold and hot and lonely and the total loss of your best friend. And any man who says he WANTS to fight, rather than help girls change typewriter ribbons, is automatically suspect. He's never been shot at. Or he's a phony. Or he's a little bit nuts.

General George Patton was part maniac. A pompous, posturing martinet who admitted he loved leading men into battle. He was worried sick that World War 2 would end before he killed enough Germans to become a national hero. When the Germans quit, he wanted to kill Russians. He was angered by any assignment that didn't pit him against the enemy, nose to nose, blood gushing. He thought he really was John Wayne.

That's exactly the way George Scott portrayed Patton in the movie. To me, it was an anti-war film. When Patton slapped a frightened soldier, or bragged about how many men he had killed, I cringed. I wondered how many more like him are left in the Pentagon. But all around me, people were laughing.

To much of the audience, Patton was a lovable hero. Oh, a little eccentric, of course. But gee, what a man! Look at him terrorize people. Listen to him curse! He's not scared of anyone, by golly.

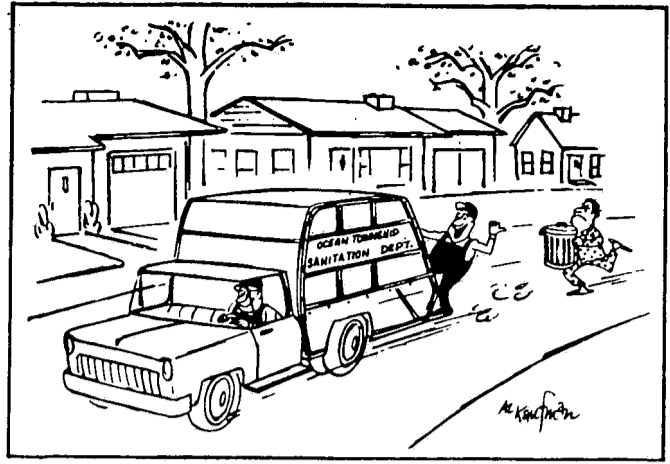

There was a scene where

Patton comforted wounded American boys by telling them he'd just seen some German boys in worse shape — their heads were blown off. It made my eyeballs sting. But the man next to me slapped his knee and snorted in delight and admiration.

I shouldn't be surprised that a 1970 audience can be delighted by General Patton, the brute of World War 2. Nothing important has changed much in 25 years. We're still a civilization that punches, rather than reasons, and we still admire the guy who punches hardest. When bullies fight on our side, they become heroes.

Washington insiders say President Nixon was much impressed with the movie "Patton." He saw it a second time, just before ordering the invasion of Cambodia.

Good Lord, did Nixon laugh in the wrong places?

"SPEED IT UP, JOE — HE'S GAINING ON US."

Begin football conditioning

by Rick Shoun

This year's varsity football players will be having new doors open to them. Their first meeting and conditioning session will be held at Clarkston High School at 7:30 p.m. on August 17.

This year's team will be wearing all new equipment, they may also get an extra boost from a fresh new paint job on their locker room.

This year a new state ruling has been made. It provides one extra week of conditioning with no pads or contact, just the use of helmets.

The team plans to capitalize on this ruling. A football camp for 60 to 80 men is scheduled for August 24. It will be held at Dr. James O'Neil's home at 7755 Holcomb and will last for 6 days. Participants will be provided with lodging and meals and other recreational facilities.

Behind the Counter FROM KEITH HALLMAN

There has been some public discussion recently about the price of prescription drugs. While drug costs have risen much more slowly than any other item in the market-place, there have been questions about why the prices vary from drug store to drug store.

Many of these comments suggest that today's drugs are furnished by some sort of machine, straight from the manufacturer. Many critics ignore the fact that a pharmacist and his services are involved in the dispensing of drugs.

Dr. Joseph D. McEvilla, professor of pharmaceutical economics at the University of Pittsburgh, recently criticized one writer on this point. "In discussing drug prices, particularly about what the patient should pay for individual doses, the author fails to recognize that these prices are influenced not only by the cost of the product to the pharmacist, but also by the charge for the pharmacist's professional services."

He points out that the wide variety of services provided by the druggist must be considered before computing the final charge to the customer. "Unfortunately, some pharmacists—like individuals in other walks of life—provide only the minimum services required by law. Others provide a myriad of services, some of which are not perceived by the patient."

Pharmacists—like others who offer individualized service—place varying values on their professional function. Also, the drug cost to the pharmacist is likely to vary widely.

This is a complicated subject, but no pharmacist today need apologize for the cost of his valuable role in providing the community with a vital health service.

- ½ cup beer or milk
- ½ teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- Toast triangles or Dutch rusk

Drain and slice crab. Combine butter, cheese, beer or milk and seasonings in saucepan. Heat, stirring until smooth. Slowly beat in egg. Fold in crab meat and simmer 5 minutes. Serve over toast triangles or rusk. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

If you don't have any crab on hand try substituting a can of solid meat tuna. Not bad!

- 3 hard cooked eggs
- 1 cup packaged bread stuffing
- 1 onion (medium) finely chopped
- ¼ cup diced pimento
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- ¼ teaspoon seasoned pepper

Chop the hard cooked eggs coarsely and combine in a bowl with the drained and flaked salmon. Blend in the cream corn, bread stuffing, onion, pimento, mayonnaise, Worcestershire sauce, lemon juice, salt and pepper. Mix thoroughly and spoon into casserole or individual serving dishes. Bake in 425 oven for 20 minutes (30 if it is in a casserole) or until it is bubbling hot and slightly browned. Serve immediately. It will make 6 servings.

The raspberry season will be over soon so try this while there is still time.

RASPBERRY FANFARE

- 1-3 oz. package raspberry gelatin
- 1 can sweetened condensed milk
- ½ cup lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
- 1 egg, separated
- 1 teaspoon sugar

You can usually find the ingredients for this casserole on your pantry shelf. It might be handy if company drops in unexpectedly.

SALMON SCALLOP

- 1 can (1 lb.) salmon
- 1 can (1 lb.) cream style corn

Prepare gelatin according to directions. Chill until slightly thickened. Combine into mixture. Alternately spoon raspberry gelatin, fresh raspberries and lemon-milk mixture into parfait glasses. Refrigerate for 1 hour if desired. Garnish with fresh berries.

All of us wish Mrs. Elizabeth Ronk a wonderful "retirement trip" to Banff this weekend, with her good friends Mrs. Pat Beach and Mrs. Fran Stewart.

THIS WEEK'S Spiritual Message

FROM

The Rev. Arlon K. Stubbe
 "Then Jesus was led up by the Spirit into the wilderness."

Matthew 4:1

The spirit is leading lots of people into the wilderness these days. Unfortunately, it's the spirit of recreation and escapism which is doing the leading, and it's the wilderness of state parks and recreation areas which act as today's desert oases.

Not that there's anything wrong with camping, or weekend trips, or vacations. People need time to recuperate from the pressures of life. Families deserve to see the breadwinner for more than just dinner times. And wives need a break from the homemaking routine.

But unless retreats into nature are directed to more than just rest and relaxation, their effects don't last long. A two-week vacation from fifty weeks of living is like taking two aspirin for appendicitis. It removes the pain for a little while; but it does little to cure the ills.

This year, why not make a real retreat out of vacations? Use some of that leisure time to admire nature, and do some serious thinking about your purpose in living. Make a list of all the people you've ignored or offended, and determine to make amends. Read a good book or two, or better yet, read parts of the Good Book, and pray for help in helping others. Get to know your children, and let them get to know the real you. Relate to your wife or husband; and make a few new friends around the campfire site.

And then, when your time for retreat runs out, come back to the world you left determined to add more than you take. Get busy and do what you dreaded before. Start living in earnest. Share life with the people around you. And one of two things will happen:

Either the next fifty weeks will go by unbelievably fast. Or you won't care how long it takes. Ministry is much better than misery.

Wed by candlelight

Lillian LeMonde of Clarkston and John Ratliff of Waterford Township were united in marriage recently.

The bride's gown was styled of sapphire blue crepe and her headpiece was of blue net and was fastened with a large blue bow.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delmore F. McAbay of Main Street.

She carried blue tinted roses centered with a white gardenia.

The candle-light, double ring ceremony was performed in the Pontiac home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Harry Wallace. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace were the honor attendants.

After the reception which was held at the home of the bridegroom, the couple left for a honeymoon in Canada. When they return they will make their home in Waterford.

Junior golfers win honors

Junior golfers from the Clarkston area have been on the tournament trail for the past weeks.

Tournaments at Hineckley and Fostoria, Ohio drew a large turn out.

A double winner was John Anderson who grabbed the top spot at both tournaments in the 10 to 12 year old (10-12) boy bracket. His winning score at Fostoria was 148 for the 36 holes.

The Fostoria contest proved easy for Cindy Booker (13-15) who took second place with a 159. In the (10-12) division Vivian Booker placed second with 200 and Mary Jane Anderson was a close third with 208.

The girls swept the (10-12) division at Hinckley Hills when Allison Booker placed 1st, Vivian Booker, 2nd and Mary Jane Anderson was 3rd.

Cindy Booker claimed the top honors for the girls (13-15).

Other area participants were: Jim, Tom and Terri Thomson; Don Short; Cindy, Lee, Vivian, Allison and Eric Booker; Ken Johnson; Ray, John and Mary Jane Anderson; Steve Stoppert; Chris Skellenger; Mike Pomante; Joe, Carl and Bill Daiek; and Barbara, Paula and Carl Rose, Jr.

On August 12 many of the golfers will enter the tournament being held at Fremont, Ohio.

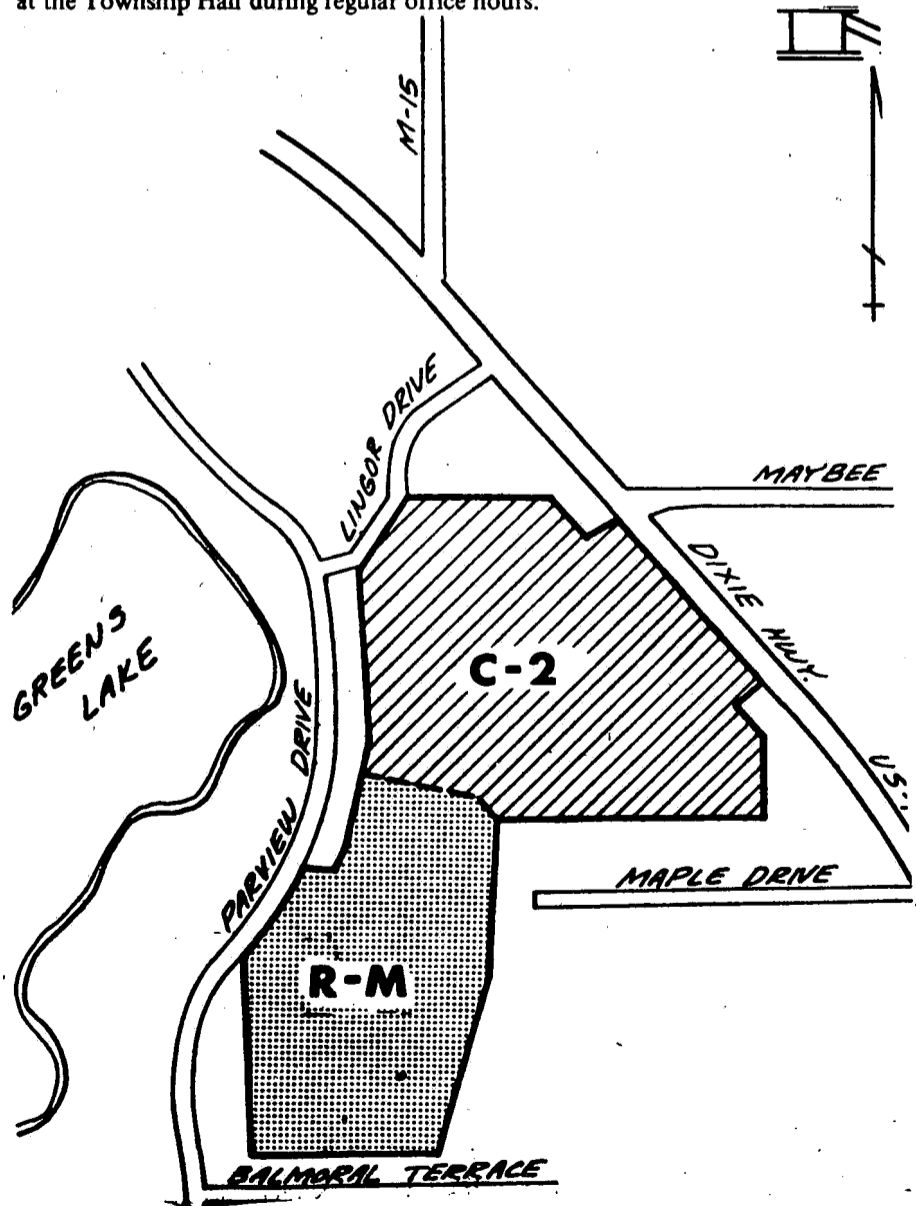

Brenda Jackson, 9, left, and Suelynn Robinson, 18, are packed and ready for a trip to Charlotte, North Carolina, where the Drum Majorettes of America will hold their national competition from August 10 to 15. Brenda, who won the title 1st Runner-up for the title "Wee Miss Majorette of Great Lakes" is a student of Suelynn's Baton School. Suelynn was named the "Senior Majorette Queen of Michigan" last January.

Debbie Groves of Cherrywood Street will sing on the country music show to be presented at Southgate High School, Southgate, Mich., on Sunday, August 9. The show will also feature Tommy Cash and Band. Debbie has had a busy summer with guest appearances on the Country Corral TV show, Pontiac Mall anniversary celebration, and various country music jamborees. Performances on August 9 will be at 2:00, 5:00 and 8:00 p.m.

Relatives

Shel George

I read recently that the will is actually a relative thing. The bigger the will, the more relatives. If this is true, then our checkbooks must be the barometer as to the number of relatives we have. For me, this means I have no relatives at all but in fact I have deficit relatives. Perhaps I should find someone who's overloaded and borrow one or two.

A recent excursion to the zoo brought the subject of relatives to mind. Whatever your theory might be regarding evolution, a trip to the baboon island will either confirm your beliefs or shake them to their very depths.

If you subscribe to the creation theory, one conclusion you will come to after a few minutes of watching baboons is that the Almighty had a sense of humor. Why else would we have baboons (and some people) if they were not meant for laughs. I'll have to confess that some of their antics took on human overtones. Scrapping over peanuts was vaguely familiar to some recent scraps I've witnessed over the last popsicle. Of course if I had realized it was the last one, I would have resolved the issue by eating it myself and not telling anyone.

One habit baboons have which people don't copy is picking through their hair. Perhaps this is baboon similarity to a good back rub. The most amusing and baffling thing to me however was watching them chase each other all over that man-made rock. If they had some place to go it might make sense. But they only kept running into themselves at every turn.

And are they ugly. You talk about getting "whopped" with an ugly stick. When looks were passed out, the baboon must have been taking a nap. Darwin may have had a theory, but if baboons are the proof, excuse me for bowing out.

Just before we left these interesting and humorous creatures, several of them had lined up in a row along one of the protruding rocks. I looked back and got the distinct impression that they were all saying in unison, "Am I my keeper's brother?"

As far as I'm concerned, they're not. Of course that could be a two-way street. Sometimes the way we act might also make them glad they're not.

Horrigan

By Haslett Hemmor

Lots of people just plain don't like Spike Horrigan. Still, you got to give the guy one thing. He's got class.

Talk all you want to about how it's pretty childish to settle differences with your fists, Spike winds up having fewer differences than most. Big and small, the fellows around here have learned that it don't pay to shoot off your mouth around Spike.

Could be he's got a chip on his shoulder. Could be that he loves to butt in when it's none of his business, but you'd better not mouth off about Sadie So-and-So stepping out on her old man if old Spike is in earshot.

Don't make no never-mind if Spike even knows Sadie So-and-So or Mary Q. Right quick he's on the muscle and it don't even matter if what you're saying is the gospel. Don't matter either if Spike really gives a hoot. He's got this thing about being the great protector of all women.

Silly or not, his bit about being some kind of knight in white is sure no joking matter if you happen to be the one passing on the skuttle-butt about even the town tramp.

Winter or summer, old Spike always goes through the same kind of ritual when he figures he's called on to defend womankind. He sort of shakes his head slow, as if it sure is a shame he has to do what he has to do. Then he real careful takes out his black skin-tight kid gloves and pulls 'em on so there's not a wrinkle.

Still moving real easy, he stands up (if he's sitting) and walks over to the guy who flapped his lip.

"You really shouldn't have said that," he remarks, real gentle-like.

Then if the guy is a stranger and so don't know enough to run, he lets him have it, whammo, in the kisser. Nine out of ten times that dead-pan approach catches the guy off guard and the roundhouse punch to chinpoint just plain drops 'em. Got a real peachy swing, Spike has, and mostly he just turns around slow like nothin' happened and takes up the conversation with whosoever he was talking to before.

Like I say, there's them that thinks this is a great show, and they hang around whenever Spike shows up. There's maybe just as many that hope Spike will sometime get dumped real good. Sure is something, though, to watch him pull on those kid gloves and saunter over real casual just as if maybe he was going to offer the visitor a chocolate bon-bon or ask him to join in a cup of tea.

There's them that say Spike is picking his targets more careful lately. After all, he is past forty and never was what you'd call a logical candidate for guard with the Green Bay Packers. Weighs in at maybe 150, Spike does, and sure isn't over 5'8", maybe less. Getting pretty thin on top to set the whole world right anymore, Spike is.

No matter. Local boys big and small don't seem much bent on testing out old Spike.

Maybe it's like young Landon Merrill says: "The guy's got himself a real cute formula," Landon explains to me. "He don't pick no fights unless you insult some dame and then if you do smear him, he's a nice old hero and a martyr and you're the dirty-mouthed bully. No thanks, let him do his thing. There's no way to beat his game."

With the help of local merchants and businesses the Clarkston High School Cooperative Training Program is being re-introduced and expanded.

After a lapse of 1 year, Patricia Schebor has been named as Vocational Co-ordinator and the program is again getting under way.

What is the Vocational Co-op Program?

The question can best be answered by asking several more.

1. Who is eligible to qualify for the program?

The program is geared for the non-college bound student. It is for the young person who plans on going into the business world immediately upon graduation from high school.

2. What is the goal of the program?

The prime goals of the program are to provide these students with on-the-job experience, recommendations and references to assist him in getting a job when he graduates.

3. How many students are engaged in the program?

The program is presently involved with 39 students and will expand this number to 50 by the time school opens in September.

4. What job areas does the program cover?

The program is geared in the retail, clerical, trade and industrial areas.

5. Is it a credit program?

Yes, 2 hours credit are given at the completion of the school year.

6. What happens to the students' jobs when school starts?

The students will attend classes at school for a half a day and then spend the other half day at work.

7. How does a student get into this program?

Applications are taken at the high school office. The applicant must be a senior. His grades must be adequate to assure that he will be able to handle the loss of time in the classroom.

He must then be interviewed to guarantee that he is employable.

8. What happens if he doesn't qualify?

If a student does not meet the requirements he is referred to the counseling staff for assistance in correcting the faults that make him ineligible.

"The re-introduction of the program has met with enthusiasm and interest from both business people and students. We are looking forward to a highly successful and rewarding year," said Mrs. Schebor.

Last from the tee

by Jean Sura

I don't know why but crazy things just seem to happen to me.

Last week was guest day at the golf club. At the last minute the gals that I had invited called to say that they couldn't possibly make it.

This caused a problem. Either I had to go over to the club and take my chances of finding a game or I had to go to work. I took my chances.

When I got there nobody was in the grill where they usually congregate over a cup of coffee. There wasn't a soul in the locker room either. I finally met one woman but she had her game all set up.

In a last, desperate move I walked down to the first tee where I saw a flurry of activity. There was one group teeing off, and standing back, waiting their turn were Lee Hilkene and her guest.

Lee is one of the very best women players at the club. In fact she is one of the best women golfers in the State of Michigan and has proven it by winning tournaments.

As I said before—with Lee was her guest.

"Hi, Jean," said Lee. "Haven't you got a game?"

"No," I replied. "I thought I would just wait around a while and see if anybody else came out without a guest."

"Well, why don't you join us. There are just the two of us."

"Oh, no thank you. I'm not your ilk of a golfer."

"Why that is silly," she said, "just get right in there and get your clubs."

Now how do you get yourself out of a predicament like this? I was flattered that she had asked me yet my good judgement told me that she was a lady and a good sport and was just being polite.

"Maybe her guest is a beginner," I thought to myself. "That would make it fun and I would really be helping her."

When I really want to do something I can be very convincing with myself.

"Anyway," I continued reasoning, "maybe today is the day when all my good shots are going to fall into place. Who knows, maybe this kind of an incentive is all I need to be great."

Without any further prodding I got my clubs.

By this time Lee and her friend had gone to the tee. As I approached, her friend (the one I thought might be a duffer) walked over to me and said, "Hi, Jean. I'm Marge Hume, Lee's guest."

"Marge Hume," I said and then I fainted.

Any comfort I had gotten from figuring this guest to be a duffer was blown to the wind. Marge Hume, like Lee, is one of the most outstanding and best golfers in Michigan and proved it recently.

How I ever recovered enough to hit the ball off that first tee I'll never know but we played 18 holes. I should say—they played 18 holes. They played 18 of the prettiest, most fun golf I have ever seen. I hit the ball and ran a lot. Then I would hit it again and run some more to catch up to their first shots.

They were great. The precision of their game was fun to watch. Their friendly competitive spirit marked them as tops in any class, golf, P.T.A., Town Hall or pouring tea.

How did I play? Well nobody can accuse me of showing off. I was just my normal, lousy self. I never shot anything but third from the tee but it was fun—from any position.
