Jim's Jottings

By Jim Sherman

For many years I've wanted to see the rocky coast of Maine and enjoy the flavor of freshly caught clams, crabs and lobster. I've just returned from a vacation and still would like to visit the rocky coast of Maine, enjoy etc.

I started the family in that direction, but somehow ran out of time and enthusiasm. It was my first travel-type vacation with the family and none of us were really ready.

For instance, I forgot, as I headed into the Green Mountains of Vermont, that my kids get sick on curving roads. I didn't realize how much my 8-year-old Susan likes swimming and how well she could read "swimming pool" on motel signs 5 miles away.

However, for 5 days we were together, which is more than we usually are. That's supposed to be important. I don't know why. All the kids do is pick up my bad habits, never the good ones.

I made some acute observations on the trip up the St. Lawrence, across the bridge at Cornwall, down through Vermont and back through New York.

Sweet corn prices are fairly uniform at 50 cents a doz.

The Hudson River appears just as polluted, at least mud filled, at the origin as Johnny Carson says it is in Manhattan.

Vermont's beautiful countryside is spotted with as many old junk cars as any other state.

Whenever Hazel or I wanted to point out a beautiful scene or something unusual, the kids were lying down.

There were fewer pickup campers on these 1400 miles than I've seen in Michigan on M-15 or M-24 any weekend.

The only way to travel is in an air conditioned car.

Tires last no longer on new cars than on old. My second fibreglas tire split in 11,000 miles.

When there are 2 long-hairs hitchhiking, one will be sitting down cross-legged.

We couldn't find a vacancy in a motel in Rutland, Vt. This was not terribly upsetting to me, but Hazel moaned a bit. Rutland is the antique dealer center of Vermont.

Cornwall, Ontario is the home of the Bath Tub Derby. That's important. There've only been 2.

Taking away from the unusual,

Schools ask book deposit

Dr. L.F. Greene announced that the board of education has elected to access the school district a refundable deposit for books. The cost will be in the same amount that was formerly charged for rental.

This action was taken by the district, according to Greene, to enable them to follow the recent mandate of the Michigan State Supreme Court as closely as it can be interpreted.

The $5.00 fee for elementary students and $6.00 fee for secondary students (this includes Jr. and Sr. High students) will be available to parents or students on demand at the close of the school year or upon their leaving the district.

The money may be left on deposit as long as the child is in school unless it is depleted by destruction or chargeable vandalism.

"This action was taken," said Dr. Greene, "to protect the whole district from malicious destruction of books by a few."

The board also elected to cancel the $2 material charge for kindergarten students. In further action the board announced that school lunch charges will be increased by 5 cents to cover an $11,000 deficit that was incurred by the district during the last school year.

This will make the lunch charge 40 cents in the elementary grades and 45 cents in the secondary schools.

Enter float Rotary asks

Clubs, scouts, church and school organizations and private individuals are all urged to get in the spirit and enter a float or act in Clarkston's Labor Day Parade.

Chairman, Jack Frost, of the Clarkston Rotary, sponsoring the event, urges all citizens to register their intentions to participate so that arrangements can be made to accommodate them.

Prizes will be awarded to the best entries. This year the Clarkston Women's Club will present 5 children with $1 prizes for the most original costumes.

The theme for this year's parade which will be held on September 7, is "Michigan, the 4 Season State."

"Let's make this the largest and most beautiful parade that Clarkston has ever seen," said Frost. "Call me at 625-1735 to register."

Tentative agreement reached

George Barrie, assistant superintendent of schools, and chief negotiator for the Clarkston Board of Education and George White, President of the Clarkston Education Association (CEA), announce jointly that their negotiating teams have reached a tentative agreement on the terms of the 1970-71 school year contract.

According to White, all teachers were to take notice that copies of the negotiated contract will be available to them beginning at 10 a.m., Saturday, August 29, at the CEA office, 20 S. Main Street.

"A meeting will be held in the Clarkston High School Little Theater on Monday, August 31, at 7:30 p.m.," said White, "to allow the teachers to consider ratification of the proposed contract."

Barrie reported that a special meeting of the Board of Education will also be called on Monday, August 31 for the same purpose.

Hey, Mom, wait for me!

Dinner is served—and breakfast—and lunch.

Don Colton, external vice president and Bill Halsey, Chairman, extend an open invitation to all residents and organizations of both the village and township to assist with the project.

In the continuing controversy over whether drugs should be prescribed by their chemical name or by their trade name, it's sometimes hard to understand how medicines can be "equal but different."

Medicines are rarely made up of just one ingredient. The main agent—that which has the most power to affect the body—is called "active." But there are others that are needed to carry the active ingredient through the body.

Two tablets may contain the same active ingredient, but will have different amounts.

And even medicines with equal amounts of the active agent can be different. It may be made up into a tablet, liquid, capsule, injection or ointment. These involve different kinds (or amounts) of non-active ingredients.

That's one reason the argument continues: nobody can be sure that different amounts of active and non-active ingredients will have the same effect on the sick person.

For that matter, even the same dose of a drug made by one manufacturer may have different effects on two members of the same family. It's a difficult problem.

Letters to the Editor

Progress our responsibility

To the editor of the Clarkston News:

Let's face it. Independence Township is growing up. For the past 50 years we have turned from farms to subdivisions, from farmers to factory workers.

Small local stores cannot satisfy the needs of the increased population. Shopping centers are the thing today. If we don't have them in our township they will move in or out a few more miles into another township.

They can't be stopped. The people demand them. You demand them, I demand them. All of us shop in shopping centers.

If they build next to you—you are against their building (even though you shop every week in some shopping center), if they build in Drayton Plains or Waterford—fine. Close enough you say.

We Americans have always stood up for what is right—IF YOU THINK SHOPPING CENTERS is a dirty word—is it American to insist that the surrounding communities be stuck with the centers and we remain lily white??

I like the tax dollars they bring in—somehow I feel they keep down my real estate taxes a little.

Lloyd M. Sibley

items on the agenda of the Township Board is in order. I agree this is one possible solution.

But I believe that in a community where being redundant has become a refined art, a bigger improvement could be made by barring spectators who have an unmatched talent for being vociferous (look that up in your Funk and Wagnalls).

Schools needs

Dear Editor:

Does the general public in Independence Township realize that the people on Waterford Hill, who are fighting the Shopping Center, are NOT in the Clarkston School System and do NOT care that the Clarkston Schools need the tax base the Center will bring.

We need the Shopping Center. We don't want to be on half days like Waterford.

State Ed. Board defines new policy

Special release to all Michigan weekly newspapers.

Free books, pencils, paper and crayons are among items students need for class work that must be provided by the schools under a new policy guideline of the Michigan State Board of Education.

Basically, the policy says that all materials used as part of the school curriculum in required or elective classes must be free to students.

As soon as cost estimates are available, the Board will seek state appropriations from the Legislature to help ease the financial burden on school districts.

The Board said, however, that school districts may continue to charge fees for extracurricular activities when such activities carry no academic credit.

Acting Superintendent of Public Instruction Dr. John W. Porter said an example might be where members of a football team participating only in interscholastic and extracurricular sports could be required to furnish their own football shoes, but the school could not charge for band instruments if credit toward graduation is given for band.

The Board policy statement grew out of a July 17 ruling of the Michigan Supreme Court.

In a case brought by parents in Ann Arbor, the high court said that general student fees were illegal and also ruled that books and school supplies, being essential to school, must be provided without charge to the student or his parents under the Michigan Constitution.

After consulting with the State Attorney General and numerous school authorities, the State Board of Education published its guidelines to help define responsibilities of the state's more than 600 districts.

Among the items covered by the State Board of Education policy statement:

No student should be denied even extracurricular activities because of family financial hardship.

Schools do not have to furnish free food or clothing offered in required or elective classes.

Charges for damage or loss of school property may be imposed if the books or other materials have been provided free, and reasonable, refundable deposits may be required from those able to pay.

Adult education courses not leading to a high school diploma, and summer school classes not part of an extended school year, may charge fees.

As a means of providing examples of what schools may not (not) make charges for, the Board cited: pencils, paper, crayons, regular and supplemental textbooks, band instruments, weekly readers or other periodicals if required in the classroom, towels, locks, lockers, shop material, drafting supplies, home economic materials, workbooks, materials in science classes, book rental, educational trips required for class and vocational or special education.

The Board said school districts may charge for: class or organizational dues; admission fees to athletic contests, dances or plays; student activity cards on a voluntary basis; dues for such "external" tests as National Merit or college entrance exams; damage or loss of school-owned materials; club dues; lunch; yearbooks; football shoes; gym shoes; swimming suits; bus transportation for non-resident students; sponsored trips, unless they are a class assignment; shots or vaccinations; caps and gowns, and insurance fees for interscholastic athletics in accordance with present statutes.

Finance - root of school evils

The Michigan State Supreme Court has just given a hot foot to every school district in the state.

Their ultimatum that requires school districts to provide pencils, books, band instruments, etc., is one more burden on an already overloaded system.

Ineffectual financing has made it necessary in the past for administrators to plan the school year budget before they know the actual amount of reimbursement. This is like buying a house and car when you are out of work but think that you may have a job lined up.

Everybody hates taxes. They are a necessary evil in the minds of most citizens. In most instances, we are just told the amount of the tax to be paid. School taxes are about the only sizable opportunity that is taken to the voter for his decision.

Even though education is the best bargain in getting your money's worth (it is even cheap as babysitter rates) people are reluctant to vote this burden on themselves.

With the advent of tenure and collective bargaining the teachers are demanding long overdue salary increases. Driver education, sex education, and even community entertainment (winning football and basketball teams) have all been dumped on the doorstep of the schools.

We don't dispute the right or wrongness of the supreme court decision but this new problem dramatically underscores the importance of putting the school systems in Michigan on a firm financial foundation now.

Let's cut out the politics.

Let's have a sensible, equitable method of financing all these educational requirements now.

Our school boards and superintendents are not magicians although many of them have been forced to practice sleight of hand in these demanding times.

"If It Fitz . . ."

Basement is cleaned

(I told them if they would shut up I'd put their names in 40 newspapers. The power of the press is a magnificent thing.)

Credit for the shiny basement should also go to Kiwanis International.

It was Kiwanis that declared Aug 9 as Family Reunion Day. The idea was to "dramatize the family as the keystone of the nation's strength and morality."

"That sounds like a good day to drink a lot of beer and gin," I told my wife. "Let's invite my relatives to town. They can do it better than anyone."

Thus, weeks before the reunion date, one of the most monumental tasks in history got underway. My wife began cleaning out the basement.

When a husband's relatives are coming, it is always necessary for his wife to clean the basement. It doesn't matter that the party is upstairs. You never know when our 1st floor might collapse and my mother and my aunts and my sisters will tumble into the basement, landing in a pile of dirty laundry. They'll see that the Christmas decorations haven't been put away yet. They'll see that our son has hung a tether ball from a cobweb. They'll see what the cats do when their litter box isn't cleaned in 3 months. They'll see that the last thing my wife threw away was a 1932 Sears catalog.

The kids had a toy sale, making themselves independently wealthy off neighborhood youngsters who eagerly paid for the right to transfer junk from our basement to theirs.

Everything else was packed into boxes, boxes, boxes. The basement was as cluttered as ever, but now the clutter was packaged. When I pointed this out, my wife had a triumphant answer.

"Goodwill is going to pick up those boxes the day before the reunion," she said. "Please put them on the back porch."

Well, I got 2 boxes to the porch before my back broke. After some domestic chit-chat, it was agreed that the Goodwill man could go into the basement for the rest of the boxes. Son Eddie was assigned to tell the Goodwill man this. But Eddie forgot. Only the 2 boxes on the porch were taken.

When my wife returned home to this tragic news, she first cried. Then she snarled. Then, so help me, she jumped into the car and went in pursuit of the Goodwill truck. She caught it as it was escaping town. She told the driver her sad story, about all the relatives coming and how her mother-in-law mustn't see those boxes of junk.

But the Goodwill man wasn't so full of good will. He refused to return. The boxes were still there when my relatives invaded.

And, believe it or not, everyone had a good time anyway. Even my wife, although she got a little bruised throwing herself in front of the basement door when my brother-in-law headed that way (one of the kids had told him the boxes were full of beer).

Onward and Upward and do come again, relatives. Just give us time to wash the roof. †

I-75 soon to be back to normal

LANSING—Motorist frustration on Interstate 75 between Flint and Bay City should be easing off in the immediate future, the Department of State Highways said.

Most of the major construction projects as well as maintenance and repair projects responsible for summer slow-downs on I-75 are in final stages of completion. By the end of August, freeway traffic should be nearly back to normal, according to Edward Upson, Saginaw District highway engineer.

In early July Upson alerted motorists that some form of highway work affecting traffic would be in progress on practically every mile of I-75 between Flint and Bay City except for weekends when work was shut down. Upson warned of stop-and-go driving on I-75 throughout the summer.

Additional complications developed when a score of pavement blow-ups occurred during exceptionally hot weather, requiring emergency repairs and the closing of one lane of traffic.

3rd attempt made to halt rezoning

A second Mobile Home Park district was approved for Independence Township last Tuesday night by the governing board. It is adjacent to the first district that was allowed through court order.

Actual location of the 112 acre plot, which will have 556 units, is south and along side I-75, on the east side of Clintonville road.

The property owners and developers, Morris Singer of Detroit and Philip Kaplan of Southfield, will be required to bring a sewer line from the township lateral to the property and provide a water system that will be turned over to the Township for operating.

***

The way is not clear, however, for the development of the property. A petition drive has been initiated by Gary Stonerock of 4780 Mohawk Drive and Marie Brendle of 8809 Lakeview to get a referendum vote on the rezoning.

This will be the third petition drive in the township to overturn a Board zoning decision. The first was a Multiple Dwelling decision on Walton opposed by the Clarkston Gardens Association.

Following submission of signatures asking for a referendum, the property owners obtained a court restraining order barring certification of the signatures by the township clerk, Howard Altman.

The second petition concerns the rezoning of Waterford Hill Golf Course to a shopping mall and multiple dwellings. Residents of Waterford Hill subdivision object to the change.

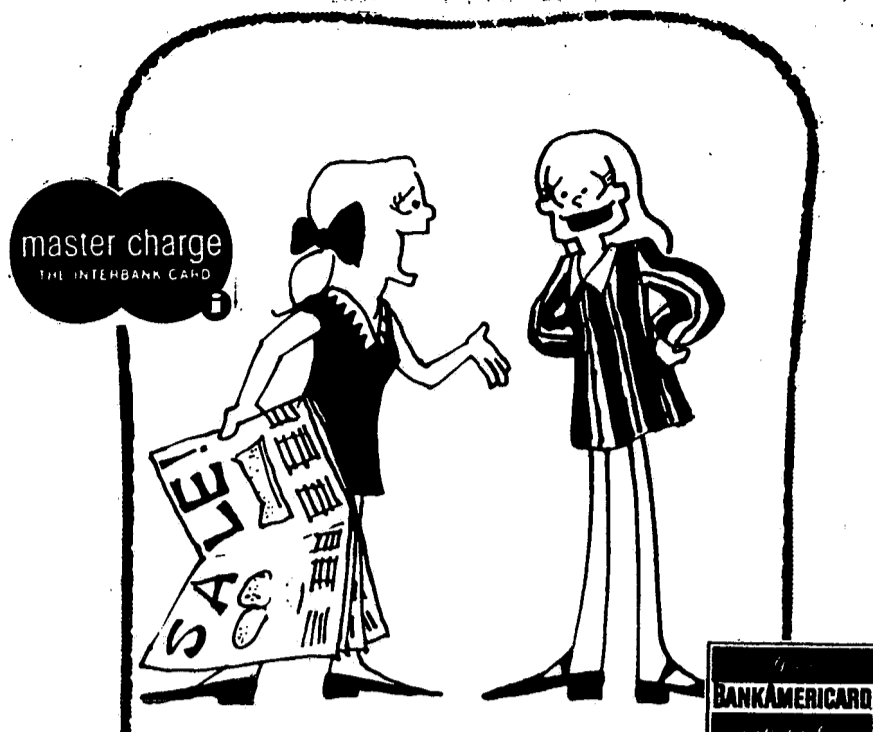

Deadline for submitting this petition to the township clerk is Sept. 6. Deadline for the mobile home referendum petition is Sept. 28.

Four scouters and nine boy scouts from troop 189 returned recently from a week's canoe trip at Region Seven. This is one of the "big three" National Camps of the Boy Scout of America and is located near Boulder Junction, Wisconsin.

Arriving a week early to take part in the Voyageur Training Program were James Loba and John Mayo. At the same time, Scoutmaster Dr. Forrest D. Hunt was enrolled in the Woodbadge National Training Course at Region Seven.

The men and boys portaged through northern Wisconsin. They marveled at the simple beauties of nature and wildlife, while exploring the wilderness.

The minimum age of a scout for such a trip is 14, as the outdoor activity is strenuous and challenging.

Members of troop 189 on the canoe trip were scoutmaster Dr. Hunt, Ass't. Scoutmaster Ray Loba, Committeemen James Zelenak and Roger Willis. The boy scouts were James and Dennis Loba, John Mayo, Richard Butler, Mark Willis, Mark Zelenak, Franz Tresenreiter, and Craig and Matthew Moore.

Clarkston High School's cross-country team, champions of the Wayne-Oakland League, limbers up for the coming season which gets under way on September 12. Coach Conrad Bruce has high hopes for his returning squad. Six runners on the team will be seniors this year and they are setting their sights on the State championship.

Wolves start football practice

By Craig Moore

Anticipating the 1970 football season, the Clarkston Wolves Varsity will be working out at a 6 day football camp on the property of Dr. James O'Neill beginning August 24.

"This camp will provide tremendous opportunity for the team," said Coach Paul Rakow. Further, he stated, "The 3 main goals of this camp are conditioning, learning and developing football skills and teaching the boys a sense of team pride and togetherness."

A typical day at the camp will start at 7:00 a.m. Fifteen minutes later the team will hit the trail and then report to breakfast at 7:30. Meetings will begin at 8 a.m. and practice at 9, followed by showers and lunch.

Practice will resume at 2 p.m. preceded by hour meetings. The team will make tracks to the pool at 4 after half an hour on the trail. Dinner will be served at 5.

After an hour meeting at 6, the team will practice until 8 p.m. with showers and a movie following. Sack time is an early 9:30.

Saturday, August 29, is Dad's Day at camp. A Steak Fry is in the offing.

Regular practice with pads will begin on Monday, August 31, with 2 sessions a day, to prepare for the Inter-squad Blue and Gold Game on Friday, September 4 and a scrimmage game on Saturday, September 12 at 10:00 with Lake Orion and Flint Beecher.

The Wolves are looking forward to their first season game, at home Friday, September 18 against Oxford.

J.V. football equipment was issued on August 27 and Clarkston Jr. High footballers have already received their gear.

Players at Sashabaw Jr. High will receive their equipment on August 31.

Ninth grade coach, Jim Koslosky announced that football practice will begin on August 31.

Sessions will run from 8 a.m. till 10 a.m. and from 2:30 p.m. till 4:30 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Any boy who wants to play football on a school sponsored team must have a physical examination before he may practice.

Forms are available at the Jr. and Sr. High School office.

Here he comes

By Haslett Hemmor

To me, Yvette is a sort of glamorous female-type name. It's even more so when the whole monicker is Yvette Raneaux.

Funny thing is that the only Yvette I ever knew is now way past 80 — maybe 86 — though she's been real cute about celebrating her 59th birthday ever since most folks around here can remember.

Granny Raneaux lost her man more'n 20 years back. Folks say Jac Raneaux was quite a guy. Never did know him myself, but John McKenzie always said that Jac was like everybody's dream of a French-Canadian lumberjack. Big man, he was, with a full-bushed black beard and shoulders to fill a doorway.

Still hear stories about Jac pouring a pint of bourbon into a beer mug and drinking it down like water. Another yarn that still makes the rounds occasional is how the bakery truck got buried in mud up to the back axle and Jac backed up to the rear bumper and lifted her clean out all by himself.

Granny don't exactly act like she was living in the past, but she does love to tell about her man, Jac. Never speaks of him like he was long gone. It's near scary the way she'll caution you with remarks like, "Jac isn't going to like that. Figures the women folk are just for decoration, Jac does, and sure would be upset to hear that you said Mrs. Towner should go to work and support her kids if her drunken husband won't. Sure will get Jac upset if he hears you said that."

Makes a guy's hair stand up to hear that little old lady talking like Jac was due back any minute. Makes you kind of look over your shoulder expecting him to crash through the door.

What a couple they must've been, big Jac and tiny little Yvette. Hear that the only time that the Big Bear was ever gentle was when he was with his little Yvette. Treated her like she was a very precious and mighty fragile Dresden doll, Jac did.

Wouldn't allow coarse talk from anyone within her hearing. Alone, he would curse with the best of 'em in French or English. Fact was, his accent was so thick you could bare tell the difference when he slipped from one language to another and back again.

All the stories I've heard about Jac Raneaux sure makes me wish I'd knowed this man-mountain personal. Sure do.

They tell me it was Jac's heavy drinking that did him in. Tackled a fast-moving gravel truck, according to the story I got.

That's not the way little Granny remembers it, though. 'Course I've never heard her remark on it. When she's ever mentioned Jac to me, it's always been like "here he comes now."

Guess though that she did tell Parson Rouse that he was killed when he bravely dashed out into the street and shoved a youngster out of the way of a speeding truck. That's the way the Parson told it at the funeral, too, and some said that he must of knowed different but couldn't bear to challenge Granny's dream. Lot of talk pro and con about that.

It just could be, too, Granny half convinced Parson Rouse that Jac just might come clumping up like Paul Bunyan if the Parson didn't tell the story right.

"BE PREPARED"

Weddings in Palestine were seldom on schedule. Instead, the bridal party would gather and wait because they never knew when the groom would arrive and the wedding begin. If they were not ready when the bridegroom came, they could be left behind and miss the wedding. Jesus talked about ten bridesmaids preparing for a wedding in which the hour got very late and the bridegroom still had not come. When he finally did come, five of the bridesmaids were ready and prepared and the other five were left behind because they were not ready.

Is there anything worse than to miss the big moment? Jesus says there isn't. Nothing is more painful than to sense that the time has passed and it's too late: we didn't do what we should have done, we didn't say what we should have said. "Too late" is a pathetic experience.

So we shrug our shoulders, shake our head, and hang a sign on our lives saying, "business as usual," and try to laugh away all thought of "too late." No hurry over social justice. No need to accelerate the movement for human rights. No need to push for peace.

Then we are reminded by Jesus that God has written the script, beginning and end, of our human drama. We do not know the day or the hour, nor can we know. But we can be alert to the Spirit of God and sensitive to the Kingdom of God as it comes to us and is expressed in the events that are happening in the world around us.

Jesus says to be prepared. But for what? For what do we make ready? It is for celebration! For joy! We do not live our lives cringing before the threat of Hell, or cowering before the rap of the judge's gavel. No, we make ready for a glad celebration we wouldn't miss for anything. The Kingdom is coming. Be alert. Be faithful. Prepare for this joyful day. It's worth living for and dying for.

Letters from Marguerite

by Marguerite Slater

Dear Jeanie,

You and your headlines! You're little, young and cute so minis ARE for you and I love 'em. Truly though, I'm glad the knobby kneed young ones and the bent kneed old ones now have an excuse to cover up. I'll never forget Jimmy Stewart and his lovely wife, Gloria, on John Carson's show. Unfortunately they had to leave early and her exit was embarrassing. She tried so hard to look young in her mini but as she tottered out, her bent, knobby knees pitifully added 20 years.

***

You and I were interrupted sometime ago while talking about "stuffed shirts"; I had mentioned a trained bear story. Unhappily, this week I witnessed a shirt getting unstuffed and it brought to mind some others. By the way, why were you interested in "stuffed shirts"—don't you know enough of them?

***

One of my mother's friends regaled her friends all one summer with details on how she had laid out, in no uncertain terms, a local teacher who was in charge of our town's Harvest Festival. It seems the gal's 8 year old daughter had been asked by this teacher to be a "trained bear" in one of the pageants. Her friends let her rave and enjoyed every minute of it. They knew little Marcella was asked to be a "train bearer" for the Festival Queen.

Deflation set in a big way when the kid was notified that she need not consider accepting the part as she had been replaced. That's one way to unstuff a shirt!

It seems incredible that our little town could produce two out-of-this-world preachers at practically the same time but thanks to tricks of fate, the citizenry had a lot of laughs because of them.

One of these preachers was so ridiculously pious that his family suffered from his silly dictums, especially his two boys, Tom and Jim. Tom was a friend of my brother so when he "unstuffed" his father's shirt, everyone was tickled pink.

One Sunday morning Tom's dad was going to be late for church if he didn't have some help so he called to Tom to fold a fresh white handkerchief and put it in the proper pocket of his "preacher's coat." Tom did but he also folded half a deck of playing cards in it.

It was a hot, sticky morning and berating his flock for their sins was a hot job so he pulled out, with his usual flourish, a hanky to mop his brow. The demon cards—tools of the devil, flew all over the place.

When the word got around the whole village was wishing, that for that one morning at least, it had been a member of that congregation.

Tom was severely punished, as usual, in order to make a better Christian of him. He later joined the Navy and loved it, doing a lot more good in his own way by being a happy warning rather than an example.

A couple of years later another preacher threw the town into an uproar when he left town for good with one of the girls in the choir!

The fun of that scandal was dimmed somewhat when it was discovered that he wasn't an ordained minister and was wanted (under another name) for absconding with a church's building funds, someplace in Indiana. He was a real heart-throb to the ladies and looked like a real Dapper Dan straight off a Mississippi river boat—dressed to the nines! He and his sly little wife were invited to even join the "Jenkins Club."

Ever hear how to play "Jenkins?" I'll tell you sometime as it would suit some of your wilder ideas for entertainment. Oh, yes, I almost forget to say that the sly little adorable wife turned out to be a kleptomaniac before she left our burg.

But Jeanie, the stuffed shirts I've mentioned from out the far, far distant past were really realists and delightful in their own way and I'd have to admit I'd enjoy them more than two couples I know at the present time who are the very stuffiest stuffed shirts I've ever had the dubious pleasure of knowing.

I heard one say to a trusting soul, who had made a comment about a certain T.V. program, "We really don't know of that program as we don't have television in our house." They believe only in Opera and Bridge.

Migawd! Nobody likes ALL T.V. but wouldn't you buy one if only to see man's first step on the moon? Or maybe "A Ring of Bright Water?"

Your old friend,
Marguerite

KITCHEN TIPS

Need a dressing for a fruit salad? Try mixing French dressing with mayonnaise.

***

Save orange rinds and dry them. Grind and add a small amount to tea leaves when brewing tea. Gives the beverage a richer flavor at no cost.

***

A percolator brush is an excellent tool for removing food particles from small openings and blades of your food chopper.

***

Corn syrup, plus orange marmalade, plus a little mustard makes an excellent glaze for ham.

***

To keep hands free of fishy smells, wet them with cold water before preparing the fish. Wash your hands immediately afterwards with lots of warm water and soap.

***

Cooking plain buttered cabbage wedges? Try adding a pinch of dill weed, basil, dry mustard or tarragon for imaginative seasoning.

***

An extra precaution should be taken (especially during the summer) to eliminate the possibility of contamination in your own kitchen. One of the most vulnerable spots is your meat cutting board. Be certain you scrub the wooden cutting surface thoroughly with hot soap or detergent suds after each time you use it. Rinse immediately and wipe dry.

Food poisoning in your kitchen may also result from careless use of insect spray or other household chemicals. If you spray in a room where food is kept be certain that the food is well protected from the chemicals by placing it in a tightly covered cabinet or refrigerator. Soap your hands thoroughly after using, and wash out all utensils containing such chemicals in hot soap or detergent suds.

August is sandwich month. Are you overworking the old stand-bys? Why not try a couple of innovations that were sent to the office by Michigan State University Extension Service.

DEUTSCH CHEESEBURGER

1 serving

Butter, softened
1 thick slice pumpernickel bread
Canned sauerkraut
2 thin slices salami

1 thick slice Swiss cheese
1 thick slice Cheddar cheese
1 cube apple
1 cube green pepper

Butter bread; fork on sauerkraut, then top with 1 slice of salami, 1 slice of Swiss cheese, another slice of salami, and finally 1 slice Cheddar cheese. Broil just enough to melt cheese slightly. Garnish with green pepper and apple cubes on wooden pick. Serve immediately.

BARBECUE CHEESEBURGERS

8 sandwiches

1½ pounds ground beef
2 tablespoons butter
1/3 cup catsup
¼ cup sweet pickle relish
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon garlic salt
½ pound ground cooked ham
1½ cups (6oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese
1 package frankfurter buns

Saute ground beef in butter until browned. Add catsup, pickle relish, salt, pepper, Worcestershire sauce and garlic salt. Keep hot. At serving time add ground ham and cheese. (Fill buns with mixture, wrap in heavy duty aluminum foil and place on grill above hot coals about 10 minutes.) Mixture may be placed on toasted buns and served immediately.

Dear Jean,

Just want you to know my Mother has been slaving over a range and stove for more than fifty years, would you believe, sixty?

She has no use for Betty Crocker or Peg Bracken but she put your pie crust recipe (8/13/70) in her file box.

So that puts you in third, just below God and her dear, late, friend.

3-car pile up injures eight

Fred Frisch, 18, of 2096 Kohler, Drayton Plains was injured when he swerved to avoid hitting a dog, lost control of his car and came to rest against a fence.

The accident occurred at 12:01 a.m. on August 19 on Maybee Road just east of Clintonville Road.

A passenger, William Lewis, 17, of 15384 Dixie was also injured.

Frisch was cited for speeding.

Stanley Oshanski, 77, of Dearborn was ticketed for speeding, improper overtaking and following too closely when the car which he was driving crashed into the rear end of a car driven by Emerson R. Krueger.

Krueger, whose vehicle was stopped, crashed into the rear of a car driven by Sherry Jean Hinton, 16, of 8411 Perry Lake Road.

Miss Hinton had stopped on Ortonville Road and was preparing to make a left turn on to Cranberry Lake Road.

Krueger, his wife and 2 children were all injured.

Also taken to Pontiac General Hospital and treated for injuries were Miss Hinton and 3 of her passengers.

Doyle arraignment set September 8

Thomas J. Doyle, 39, of Royal Oak was bound over to circuit court on August 24 after he waived examination before 52nd District Court Judge Gerald E. McNally.

Doyle is charged with kidnaping, sodomy and the sexual assault of 2 Clarkston boys on July 21.

According to Michigan State Police, the boys were walking on Sashabaw in Independence Township when they were forced into a car at gunpoint. The abductor, according to police records, shot one of the boys in the back when he attempted to escape.

A small caliber bullet was removed from where it was lodged near his spine and the boy has since been released from the Pontiac General Hospital.

Doyle was unable to furnish the $225,000 bond that was set so was remanded to Oakland County Jail to await arraignment on September 8 before Circuit Court Judge Philip Pratt.

If convicted Doyle faces a possible life sentence for the kidnaping and assault to commit murder charges. The sodomy charge could carry a 15 year prison sentence.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Goyette of North Main Street announce the engagement of their daughter, Debara Lynn to Michael David Wice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Wice of Maybee Road. Debara is enrolled at the David Pressley School of Cosmetology in Royal Oak and Michael is a student at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo. The wedding is scheduled to take place next August.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald V. Greene.

Double ring rite joins Fife-Greene

St. Joseph Roman Catholic Church in Howell was the scene of the August 22nd afternoon, nuptial mass that united Victoria Sue Fife to Donald V. Greene. Father Rahrig said the mass.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duyane Fife of Dvorak. Dr. and Mrs. Victor B. Greene, of Howell are the groom's parents.

Vicky chose a floor length gown of striped, silk organza over taffeta for her wedding. Her long veil fell from a mantilla and was bordered with lace flowers. She carried a cascade of daisies.

Gaile Fotenakes of Detroit was the maid-of-honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Rodney Schuller, Chicago, Mrs. David Wheaton, Pontiac, Miss Janice Peters, Clarkston, and the groom's sister, Mrs. James Lichlyter of Brighton.

The bride's attendants wore identical gowns of power blue chiffon that were accented with bibs of white embroidered daisies. They carried nosegays of blue daisies and babies' breath.

Dana Pace and Matthew Pambid, both of Clarkston, were the flower girl and ring bearer.

Standing as best man was Paul Kleeman of Dayton, Ohio. The bride's brother, Dan Fife was an usher along with Rodney Schuller, Mark Hall of Chicago and James Lichlyter of Brighton.

An evening reception was held in Clarkston at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

After a honeymoon spent touring the southern states, the couple will make their home in Chicago where the groom will complete his studies at Illinois College of Optometry.

Dirty umpin'

by Donna Fahrner

The Village Clinic's Little League team held their annual father-son game on Sunday afternoon. In the first three innings the fathers held their own and earned a lead of 1. Then the boys got to the umpire and the game "took a turn for the boys." All the efforts of the tired fathers didn't pay off but they managed to lose gracefully by only 1 run. The pool of Dr. A. S. Hamilton helped ease the tired muscles of the dads. I hear that a few had trouble getting to work on Monday morning. The team and their families enjoyed a picnic, and already, are looking forward to next season.

Mr. and Mrs. John Jones of M-15 celebrated their 4th anniversary on August 20. Dinner out and a trip to Northland Playhouse made the occasion a happy one.

Another celebration on August 20 was for the 12th birthday of Debbie Colton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Colton of Holcomb St. Loma Olney was Debbie's guest for dinner and a show.

This weekend seemed to be full of birthdays and anniversaries. Karla Ripley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ripley of Amy Drive, celebrated her 10th on August 23. The time of Karla's celebration hinged on when her parents returned from the Jaycee board meeting in Port Huron.

Cedar Point was a popular spot for Clarkston folks last week. The families arrived on Tuesday evening and were rested and ready for a full day on Midway on Wednesday. The Robert Jones, Don Coopers, Dom Mautis, Gus Birtsas, Robert Brumbacks and Charles Robertsons were surprised when they ran into Mr. and Mrs. Jim Sherman and their brood.

If you see Doc Denne trying to pull any new fast tricks be patient because he has not had much time to perfect them. He and Mrs. Denne went to the annual magic show in Colon, Michigan this weekend. They were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bullen and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Stefan Podlesny of Warsaw, were entertained Sunday, August 23 by Mr. and Mrs. William Neff, of 5662 Warbler. The Podlesnys are 1970 Eisenhower exchange fellows from Poland.

Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Rummings of Robertson Court will be celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary this week with a small family gathering. Helping them to celebrate will be their daughter, Vivian Phillips, grandsons, Jack and George McCall and their 2 great-grandsons.

Many happy returns.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Colton of Holcomb Street have had Russ Bolin of Mahopac, New York as their house guest. Russ is the son of Jim and Cathy Bolin, former Clarkston residents.

Bob and Pat Newlin and children, Dick, Carol and Craig have returned home after two weeks at their cottage near Lewiston. The weather was good, water skiing great and fishing, so-so. Our family were their guests for the weekend, and we can vouch for the so-so fishing. On Sunday, before their return home, Craig celebrated his 13th birthday. Pat, are you telling about the hammock episode or does it still hurt too much?

An annual fishing trip to Browns Landing, Tawas was held on Sunday, August 16. The following couples were on hand: Les Howes, Ernie Heads, Don Hughsons, Ed Clarks, Fred Besses and Chris Thompsons. Still more: Phil Schicks, Parker Bates, Jerry Mayos, Bill O'Roarks, Fred Boes, Jim Stiles and Herb Hartzs. No report as to how many fish were caught but I am sure with that many people the fish didn't stand a chance.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Powell celebrated their 5th anniversary on August 21st by having dinner at Rips. Mrs. Powell had hoped to be in the hospital but the stork has a way of arriving when he is good and ready.

The Jaycee Summer Board meeting was held in Port Huron this weekend. Six couples enjoyed a full weekend of meetings and fun. President Jerry joined them for the day.

Mrs. Ronald Collins and children have returned from their summer home in Traverse City. Mr. Collins joined them for a few days and ended up in the hospital with a punctured ear drum. I think daddy had better stay at home and let mother and the kids do the jumping off the dock.

The Donald Hamaker children, Kim and Kevin are the happy new owners of a bicycle built for two. It was won at the Roy Brothers Grand Opening of their new station. Mrs. Hamaker hopes it will keep them busy until the new member of the family arrives.

Shel George

Perhaps you have heard what the skunk said when the wind changed directions. "Ah, it all comes back to me now."

This was the reaction of an old friend of mine whenever he met a familiar face on the street that he knew he should have recognized. Rather than ask the name, he would say, "Hello, Mr. Smith." Naturally if that was not the person's name they would say, "I'm not Mr. Smith (or Mrs. Smith as the case might be) I'm Mr. so and so." My friend would then say, "Oh, of course. It all comes back to me now."

This little routine backfired one time. The wind changed directions but it didn't all come back to him. At least not in the proper sequence.

The occasion was a reception held in his honor. Many celebrities and V.I.P.'s were there. As the guests would arrive, they would go through the receiving line. The usual greetings and pleasantries were exchanged and the guests would proceed to the banquet tables.

One of the invited guests was my friend's tailor. Although my friend had many suits made by this man, he seldom saw him. Once the tailor had the correct measurements, a suit could be made simply by verbal authorization.

As the tailor came up to the guest of honor, my friend couldn't recall his name or where he had met him even though the face was familiar. The immediate response was automatic. "Hello Mr. Smith. Nice you could make it." The tailor replied, "I'm not Mr. Smith. Don't you remember me? I made your pants." "Of course," my friend replied, "Major Pants. How are you?"

I have some difficulty with my name also. Since I have two first names or two last names, they often get turned around. A case in point happened recently.

We were going to meet some friends for dinner in Frankenmuth. I agreed to make the reservations. I phoned the eating establishment. The conversation went as follows.

"Hello, Zehnders'. May I help you?"
"Yes. This is Mr. George. I'd like to make reservations for Saturday night."
"What is your name again?"

Having been through this sort of thing before, I very carefully said, "Mr. George. George is my last name. Sheldon is my first."

"Thank you, Mr. Sheldon. Where will you be coming from?"

"No. Sheldon is my first name. George is my last name."

"Oh, I'm sorry. Where will you be coming from?"

"Clarkston, Michigan. The party will have six people and we'll arrive at 7."

"Thank you. We have you down for a party of six for this Saturday night at 7."

"Good. Thanks."

When we arrived, one couple was waiting. The husband came up to me and said, "Hey Shel, I thought you made reservations."

"I did, last Wednesday. Why?"
"We went over the list the hostess has several times and you aren't listed."

I went inside and walked up to the small desk where the hostess was. Since she was busy seating another group, I turned the reservation sheet around to look at it. I checked under 7 p.m. for reservations for George, then checked through again looking for the name Sheldon. Nothing.

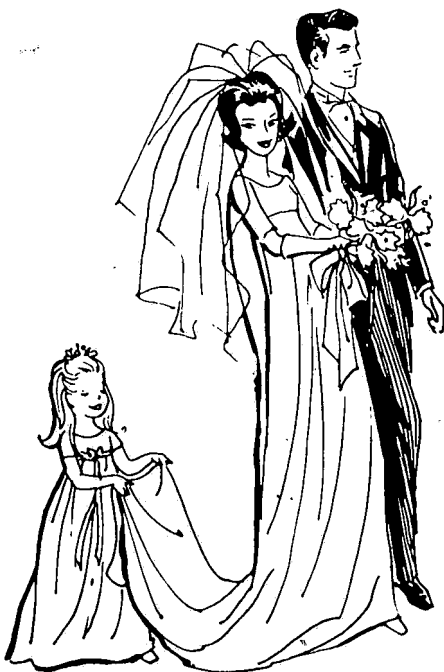

Then the wind changed and it all came back to me. We were listed. Seven o'clock, party of 6, Mr. Geo. Clarkston.

The rainy weather last Saturday didn't faze Bruno Zane of Warren, left, and Ed Groves of Grosse Pointe. They found the underwater empire of Deer Lake about the same as usual. In fact, it was even better. There were no swimmers to rile up the bottom, so visibility was good.

The Fosters

County Kent emigrants

Samuel Foster built the house for his brother, Frederick.

In the early 1800's, Kent County was considered one of the more beautiful spots in England, as it is still considered today. So when Horatio Foster first suggested to his wife, Ann, that they leave their native country and go to America, his idea met with a great deal of resistance. America was still considered a land of savage Indians and uninhabited forests - and it was, in many places.

It was some time before Horatio convinced young Ann that while England represented a certain comfort and security, their sons would have more chance to possess land and wealth, more independence in choosing and working at a trade that suited them then they would have in the old country. A reluctant Ann finally agreed and in 1828, the Foster's sailed for America.

For the next 9 years, the family made its home in Utica, New York. The commerce of its barge canal was the primary concern of this bustling, prosperous town. It was people stopping over in Utica on their journey down the Erie Canal who brought stories of farm land waiting to be taken from the forests of Michigan. These barges, loaded with families and livestock, tied up on shore for the night. Across the supper fires, came tales of land measured not in acres but in quarter and half sections.

Horatio found this good listening and he decided on a second move. Ann wasn't any more in favor of this decision than she had been of the first. But even she realized that the big farm they had dreamed of would never materialize in Utica, so they prepared themselves for the trip to Michigan.

The first step of their journey was easy - the Erie Canal was almost at their door. It was after the jolting ox-cart ride from Detroit to Independence that Ann began to realize how far from the comforts of civilization she had come.

Horatio had claimed land near what later came to be known as Clarkston Station, an area near the railroad depot. It was largely uninhabited then. Clarkston Village could be reached only after a journey over a boggy wagon track that skirted swamps and woods, and didn't have too much to offer after they got there. In 1837, it was a sparse community, straddling an Indian trail.

In his desire to clear land for a summer crop, Horatio only had time to put up a soddy for their first home. There was little here to remind Ann of County Kent or Utica.

In those times, a large family was considered an asset. Every pair of hands was needed - and used. Two of their sons, Frederick and Samuel, had been born in England and had faced all the travels with their parents with a staunch sort of endurance that people now regard as pioneering spirit.

Samuel, at sixteen, became a carpenter's apprentice, staying in Detroit for three years to learn this trade. When Nelson and Jeremiah Clark built their flour mill in the spring of 1839, Samuel walked to Clarkston and was hired to help in the construction. The skills of a carpenter were highly prized and Samuel never lacked for work - well paid work.

He and his brother Frederick, struck up a partnership that lasted for twenty years.

Frederick had taken up the trade of harness maker, an apprenticeship not nearly as confining or long as that of his brother. He felt that he was, first and foremost, a farmer and in the partnership, he had charge of the farmlands.

Samuel continued as a carpenter, apparently helping supply the needed money. Later, he also became a stock-raiser.

In the early 1840's, the two brothers met and courted sisters, two of the attractive Parker girls. Young marriageable women were not too plentiful in those days for most of the women who came to early Michigan were already wives. Bachelors, of any age, were so tied down to the work of clearing land for a farm, that they didn't have time to go very far afield to do their courting. When a young man got himself established to the place where he could afford a wife, he or his parents would make a few discreet inquiries of friends and neighbors regarding the eligibility of any young girls they might know.

Many a young Eastern girl would come, out to Michigan for a prolonged visit and enjoy having several young men pay court to her.

English born Sarah Parker traveled to Michigan to visit her sister, a Mrs. Green, who lived near Independence. There was no railway into Clarkston then but there was one from Detroit to Pontiac. A puffing, struggling little string of cars, the Detroit & Pontiac Railroad stopped any time it was flagged down. It carried mail, cows, sheep, produce and people and there were frequent halts to repair its strap iron rails.

An exhausted Sarah arrived in Pontiac six hours after she left Detroit. Revived by a stay at the famous Hodges House Hotel, she continued her journey the next morning by horse and carriage.

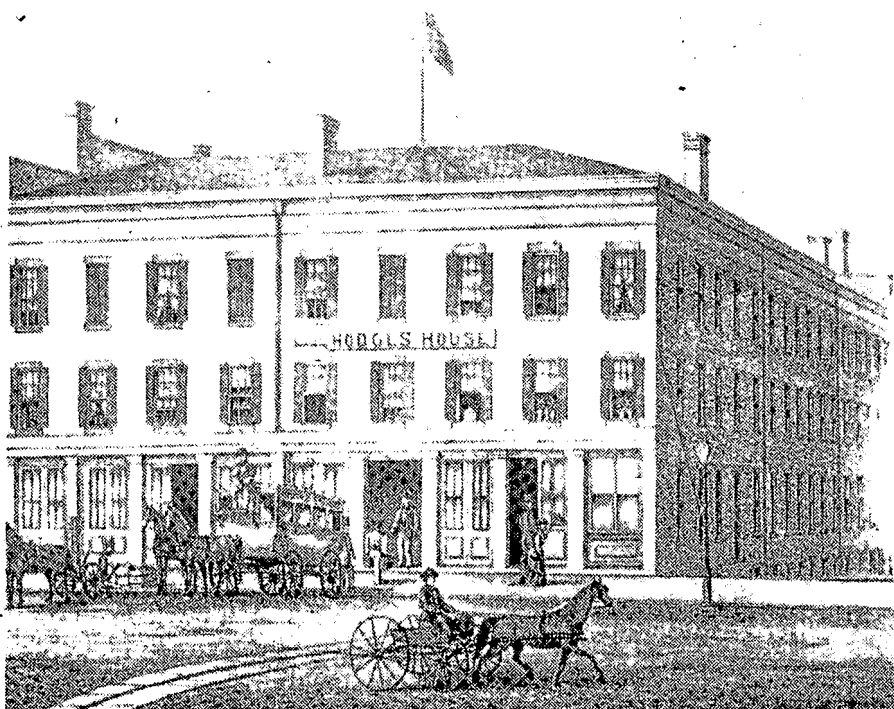

Apparently the rest of Sarah's visit was more pleasant than its beginning. She was impressed with the young carpenter and during their courtship, wrote back east to her sister Ann, persuading her to come to Michigan to meet Samuel's brother, Frederick.

Decades later, an item was to appear in the Pontiac Gazette telling of the fiftieth wedding anniversary of Frederick and Ann Foster.

Despite the large families that Samuel and Frederick raised, there are not too many descendants left in this area. In the vicinity of Clarkston Station, a road still bears the Foster name. Much of the building and economy of Independence was spurred by the ambitions of the Foster boys in earlier days.

Frederick and Ann Foster's house is still standing today, the home of the James Spicer family.

Hodges House was in the hey-day when Sarah Parker stayed there.

A dream by Jeannie

by Jean Sura

I'm in the throes of some kind of a disease. The effects are about like those of delirium tremens. My hands shake. I tremble. I have nightmares.

Last January as some of you may remember, I jokingly volunteered to bet that I could stop smoking for one year. The bet was for $100 and was with a comfortable old friend.

By the look in his eye I knew that the bet would be for keeps—at least until the next weekend when we could renegotiate. We could declare the bet illegal (on some trumped up charge), grant amnesty with mutual consent or just hop on the scale and decide for our health's sake to call the whole thing off.

It was a fun thing, a gentleman's agreement between old friends. And then, as you may recall, my daughter (she's my son's wife) got into the act. She needed a strong incentive to stop smoking. She figured that $100 was just the right thing.

"Can I get in on the bet? I really want to stop."

Now how could we refuse? With a sinking feeling in my stomach I smiled agreement. Poor, old 'goner' Frank just stood there smiling through clenched teeth, shaking his head.

Within the month good old Frankie Boy had deposited his C note in the pool and so from then on the battle of wits and weight was between Jan and me.

"How about a cigarette, dear old Mom?" says my adoring son. I just happen to have your favorite brand. By the way are you putting on a little weight? You really should be careful. At your age it is so easy to put on those unattractive pounds. We wouldn't want OUR mom to be fat and ugly."

"What is this WE stuff," I wheezed. "Get those filthy weeds out from under my nose."

"Calm yourself Mother, dear. You only have four more months to go on your bet. Don't get so 'up tight'. Of course you could pay the bet and it wouldn't matter if you smoked right now.

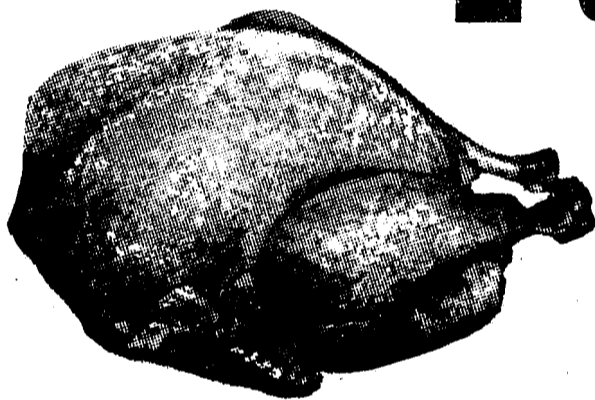

"Jan would even trust you to pay later if you are a little short of funds. That money would sure buy a lot of booties for all our little babies," was his final thrust.

***

That's why I have nightmares. I wake up screaming. I waken just as I am exhaling the last drag on a cigarette, too late to stop.

I suffer from fear of lung cancer and obesity. Now I have insomnia and a guilty conscience.
