

Jim's Jottings

By Jim Sherman

I like slogans... when they apply to whatever I want. Like this one credited to Walter Hagen. "Take a little time to smell the roses along the way." That's great to use on a heavy business day when you want to play golf.

Simon and Garfunkle have a new song out that includes the words, "I'd rather be a hammer than a nail." This puzzles me because I don't know if I should analyze the phrase for deep social meaning or take it for what it says. Such is the way it is with today's songs... when you can understand the words.

I probably didn't understand a news release from the western White House last week, but this is what I thought the spokesman said: The recession is over and we were never in one.

I was feeling sorry for area merchants who had loads of school supplies on hand when the State Supreme Court ruled that school districts had to furnish classroom materials. Leo Sabatini, however, owner of LS Market in Lake Orion told me, "Detroit Edison gives away light bulbs, yet we sell thousands a week."

I took a ride over "closed" Seymour Lake Rd. last week. That's the stretch between Sashabaw and Baldwin. It's being prepared now for blacktopping next year.

The whole length has been rebuilt and I proved to myself a long standing belief... that bumps are built into gravel roads and they are never graded out.

Observing the speedometer as my son learns to drive, the comparison of his speed to bank interest rates comes to mind. A 70 mph speed limit allows the driver to drive up to 70. An 8½ percent interest limit allows a bank to charge up to 8½ percent.

In both cases the limit is always used.

Realizing full well that the first liar doesn't have a chance, I submit my record as the world's fastest scuffer of toes of new shoes. I did it this week by kicking the rocker

Regatta attracts 23 entries

The 5th annual Deer Lake Sail Regatta was greeted by a southerly breeze on Labor Day and, according to spectators, most exciting results.

Bill Pfahlert and his son scooted out in their Pintail to win top honors.

Twenty-three boats answered starter Brook Bennett's gun.

Al Schaller, with the assistance of a friend, sailed his Marilyn's Mink to second place and John Hitchcock, crewed by Mark Howell, picked up the 3rd spot in their Sunfish.

Out of the money, but right on the heels of the winners were: Rick Bennett, 4th, in Super Swift; Rich and Jeff Esser, 5th, in Scorpion; Mal McDougall and Dave Bickerstaff in Catfish were 6th; Nancy and Dick Weiss, in Barracuda were 7th and Mac McDougall and Kevin Bickerstaff were 8th in Porpoise. Ken Valentine, representing the Deer Lake Home Owners, presented the trophies to the winners.

The cotton candy was great---and so was the whole Labor Day weekend in Clarkston. For more pictures look inside this issue and be sure to see even more next week.

Women's Club float wins

Top honors in the 1970 Labor Day Parade were won by the Women's Club. The Clarkston Rotary Club placed second and Senior Girl Scout Troop 206 took 3rd.

The winners were announced by judges Harvey Schroeder, Mrs. Max Fogg and Mrs. Henry Woolfenden.

The awards were presented immediately after the completion of one of Clarkston's largest and most attractive Labor Day Parades.

The theme of the parade and the floats was "Michigan, the 4 season state."

Labor Day started as "umbrella day," but the rain soon stopped.

County puts added 3-mill tax on ballot

The Oakland County Board of Commissioners ruled last week that a proposed 3-mill hike in property taxes be placed on the ballot in the November general election.

Independence area voters and their panel of my car after leaving the shoe store.

Someone is going to claim he stubbed his new shoe on the fitting stool, but for now my record stands.

The only pair of shoes I have that are not scuffed are my tennies. What is there that attracts new shoes to curbs, stones, steps and the various stumbling stones?

counterparts throughout Oakland County will be asked to approve the increased nonvoted tax limit to 18 mills. The present limit is 15 mills.

If approved by county voters, the County Tax Allocation Board would be eliminated and a permanent split of the proposed 18-mill levy would be made.

Equalized valuation of Oakland County, according to the state, is $4 billion. For every mill of tax imposed, the county receives $4 million in additional revenue.

The present nonvoted 15 mill property tax levy in Oakland County is divided by the County Tax Allocation Board among the county, townships, intermediate school district and local school districts.

The millage limit is awarded as follows: 5.16 for the county, 1 to 1.4 for townships, and .21 for the intermediate school district. The varying balance is given to local school districts.

If passed by voters, the proposed hike in property taxes would gain the county over $3 million in extra revenue.

Local school districts would receive an additional $10 million. There are, however, 13 townships which would lose funds under the proposition.

The allocation for this Township would remain the same under the new proposal.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith D. Mueller

Vows are exchanged at United Methodist

Before a candlelit altar that was decorated with white gladioli and yellow and white mums, Rev. Frank Cozadd united Karen Sue Norman and Keith Douglass Mueller in matrimony on August 29.

The bride, whose parents live on Snow Apple Drive, was escorted to the altar by her father, Melvin Norman. Mrs. Edwin E. Mueller and the late Dr. Mueller of Northville are the parents of the bridegroom.

The bride's gown was fashioned of white embroidered organdy over taffeta and was trimmed with satin. Her chapel length veil was held by a lace crown, and she carried a cascade of white roses and stephanotis.

Nancy Weiss was the maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Gary Norman, the bride's sister-in-law, and Teresa Lowe. Tammy Norman was a junior bridesmaid for her sister, and Jacqueline Bell was the flower girl. Eric Mueller of Northville carried the rings.

The maids were identically gowned in floor length gowns of chiffon. The gowns featured bodices of pale yellow and ivory skirts. They wore yellow picture hats and carried baskets of daisies. The junior bridesmaid and flower girl wore pale yellow.

Glenn Diebert was the best man and Larry Lane, Larry Bellae, John Zook, Richard Balcoln and Hiram Squires were ushers.

After a honeymoon trip to Northern Michigan, the couple will make their home in Albion where they will continue their studies at the college.

Mr. and Mrs. William N. Kickery of Sashabaw Road wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Robin Sue to Raymond L. Ott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ott of Cecelia Ann. The wedding is scheduled for February 13th.

Cutting Korner

By Jean Sura

If you are like me you don't do as much canning as you used to do. In the same manner, you may miss all those goodies that you used to make. Here is a small and simple recipe that made my mouth water and I couldn't resist trying it.

ENGLISH CHUTNEY SAUCE

4 pounds tomatoes
1 teaspoon mustard seed
2 teaspoons allspice
½ teaspoon cayenne pepper
1½ cups sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups vinegar (1 white, 1 apple cider vinegar)
1 pound apples
Peel tomatoes. Tie spices in a bag and add to tomatoes and chopped apples. Boil until reduced to a pulp. Then add salt, sugar and vinegar. Continue boiling until as firm a consistency as desired (at least an hour). Put up in sterilized bottles and seal.

How about ending the barbecue season with a blaze of glory? Try this little extra for your finale.

STEAK DIANE

4 steaks
¾ cup finely chopped onions or shallots
¼ pound butter
3 tablespoons Worcestershire
4 ounces of Cognac or brandy

Use loin strip, top sirloin or rib eye steaks, cut ½ inch thick and weighing 6 to 8 ounces.

Melt butter in skillet and when hot add shallots or onions. Cook for a few minutes, adding salt and pepper to taste, and Worcestershire sauce. Broil steaks quickly on your barbecue grill, until rare. Add to mixture in skillet and turn to coat well. Add the heated brandy or cognac and set ablaze, standing off at arm's length as you ignite the steaks.

Be careful when you try this. It might bring your neighbors over.

This makes a nice companion for the steak when poured on fresh tomatoes.

ROQUEFORT DRESSING

2 ounces wine vinegar
2 ounces crumbled Roquefort cheese
4 ounces olive, or peanut oil
Salt and freshly ground pepper

Mix all ingredients in a jar with a tight cap. Shake vigorously. Pour over fresh peeled tomatoes that have been cut to bite size. It is also excellent when poured over salad greens.

Around the Town

College bound

by Donna Fahrner

The 13th birthday of Mike Klann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Klann, was celebrated on August 31. It has been a busy week for the Klanns with the birthday and getting sons, Gary and Bob, ready to leave for University of Michigan.

Sweet sixteen was the birthday celebrated by Marilyn Duncan on August 31. She had a group of teen friends in to help make the occasion a happy one. The Duncan house was also a busy one with Mike returning to Western Michigan to begin his second year and Larry starting his senior year at Michigan State. According to Mrs. Duncan "time sure flies."

A happy anniversary to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brittan of Northview Drive. They celebrated their 19th on September 1. Many more happy years together.

August 31 was a double occasion for a celebration for the Roger Olney family of Hidden Lane. It was daughter, Mary's 8th birthday. The family also met the exchange student from Japan who will be living with Mrs. Olney's sister's family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bartley. The young lady will be attending Avondale High School this year.

A small family gathering was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Parker of N. Main Street on Sunday, August 30. Everyone enjoyed seeing Mr. and Mrs. Denzel Parker and Mr. and Mrs. Irea Parker who came from Leslie, Michigan.

David MacLennan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan MacLennan of Overlook Dr., had a full week. His 5th birthday on September 1 was climaxed with his favorite dinner, fried chicken and birthday cake. On Friday, September 4th, he started kindergarten.

Robin Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith of Snowapple, will long remember her 8th birthday. It started with "dinner out" with the family and then a trip to the music store where her folks showed her a model of the electric organ she was to receive as a gift.

Amy, Ann and Alysa Gettig of Ortonville Road have been busy entertaining their grandmothers, Mrs. Edmund Gettig of Kent, Ohio and Mrs. Martha Bickel of Warren, Ohio who have been visiting this week. The girls are looking forward to Grandpa Gettig's arrival this weekend. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Gettig, Jr.

I hear our Peeking in the Past column has caused a little discomfort to some of those whose names are mentioned. Isn't that right, Marty? Sorry about that. Your mother said SHE didn't mind if people knew how old SHE was!

Jack Frost celebrated his 39th birthday on September 3 with dinner out and a night on the town. I do think that 6 years is almost long enough to celebrate the same birthday.

Town clean - ups need an assist

Last week the Clarkston Jaycees spent a lot of time and effort to clean the Main Street of town. Last year the Clarkston Garden Club spent a lot of time and effort to clean up the downtown area, too.

These civic minded groups have erected a community bulletin board, hung baskets of flowers along the street and planted flowers in the parking lot planter. They have tried to make the downtown section of Clarkston attractive to residents and visitors as well.

They seem to be fighting a losing battle.

Their attempts have been nullified by carelessness. Hours after they have accomplished their goals the young people in town have undone all their efforts.

Any attempt by individuals to police the situation has been met with impertinence and impolite remarks.

Hawk Engineering Company, the owners of the Mill Pond have generously allowed the young people to swim from their property. The result has been an accumulation of bottles and trash. For years the company automatically cleaned up the mess. Now their attitude is, "If they dirty it up they will have to swim at their own risk."

These same young people have annoyed the residents of the Mill Pond by harrassing the baby ducks and breaking the flowers in the planter by sitting on them.

As in most cases of abuse, a few spoil things for the majority.

The situation might be solved if the community would provide an authoritative body to police the area around the clock.

Why I go to Detroit

I stood on a Detroit street corner and watched a long funeral procession drive past . . .

Every time I tell people my family is going to vacation in downtown Detroit for a few days, they shake their heads sadly and either question my sanity or praise my guts.

They use all sorts of 2-faced words to describe why Detroit is a lousy place to go. Only the non-hypocrites say plainly what they all mean: "You go to Detroit and those dirty niggers are liable to bust your skull and take your money."

One friend explained why he recently left Tiger Stadium before the game was over. He was sitting near some blacks who were drinking too much beer. He heard the expression "whitey" used several times.

"I got out of there before I got cut up," my friend explained.

Sure. And he went home in a chartered bus full of white men.

Many of them were drunk. And if he'd received a nickel every time he heard the expression "nigger" used, he'd have enough money to make a ghetto almost liveable.

So it goes.

I go to Detroit a lot because I like to. That's the same reason I live in a small town 60 miles north. I don't like being asked to explain either choice. In this country, a man shouldn't have to justify why he goes where, or doesn't go. That's his business.

But people keep asking: "Why do you go to Detroit? And I keep answering:

As a boy, I grew up in a home smack on U.S. 25 in Port Huron. I could step out the front door and hitch-hike 65 miles straight down that highway and end up in such marvelous places as Eastwood Gardens or the Avenue Burlesk with Scurvy or Briggs Stadium with Hal Newhouser.

I got the Detroit habit and I can't shake it. In 4 days in Detroit last week my wife and I ate great lobster at Joe Muer's,

The day after the town clean-up.

Is this causing some of the problem?

PEEKIN' into the PAST

10 YEARS AGO IN THE CLARKSTON NEWS
September 8, 1960

Dr. Earle M. Davis, Jr., veterinarian, has opened a hospital at 6687 Dixie Highway. Dr. Davis is a graduate of Michigan State University and has been practicing in Detroit for the past 2½ years.

H. E. Richmond was honored at a surprise birthday party last Friday at his home on Overlook Drive. A delicious buffet supper was served, after which the guests spent an enjoyable evening playing cards.

right on U.S. 25. We toured the Detroit Institute of Arts and lunched in Kresge Court. We saw the Tigers beat Milwaukee, in the rain, and we tunneled to Windsor to hear Lana Cantrell sing, in the lovely flesh. We visited little theatres, with bearded ushers, to see movies that'll never reach our hometown. We watched, fascinated, as 3 hookers plied their trade in a well-known bar.

We made our regular visit to renew a warm acquaintanceship with a nice man who is black. Our white skin was in the minority in many places, including a swimming pool.

To explain it selfishly, in Detroit I did things I wanted to do but couldn't do at home. Just as at home I do what I can't do in Detroit — make a living. I can't get along without that money — but I really don't know how I could get along without Detroit nearby, either.

I admit to selfish motives for fear someone might think I picture myself as some kind of bleeding hero. Hell, I know I could get my skull cracked by a racist Negro — or a dumb Irishman. I take all the sensible precautions in the big city. I know no mugger is going to ask how liberal I am before he slugs me.

My problem is that, somehow I am simply unable to judge a person — whether for cringing or kissing — by his complexion. And I am terribly saddened by a world that mostly disagrees with me, however politely and even unknowingly. A world that thinks I'm nuts to go to Detroit when I really don't have to.

... So I stood in Detroit and watched the long funeral procession go by. And every person in every car was black, car after car. And toward the end I found myself hoping, practically praying, that just one white face would show up in that procession.

Just one, please . . .

Anticipate success for Wolves eleven

By Craig Moore

Paul Rakow, starting his second year as coach of the Clarkston Wolves, believes his team will be a winning one this season. He is convinced the team has enough skill and determination to succeed.

After observing practice, I can see why Coach Rakow feels his team has very good spirit and, as he says, "Enthusiasm is growing every week."

"The Wolves are hitting and tackling better than last year at this point," says the coach.

Clarkston is swinging with 3 capable quarterbacks in lettermen John Hux and Mike Mosher, seniors and Mark Warren, a junior. After ten days of practice and drills, Hux seems to have the edge.

Letterman Rick Prasil is being pushed at tailback by Lyle Johnson, junior.

Letterman Kurt Richardson has a pair of sure hands at split end, according to the coach. Mike Turk, another letterman, looks very capable at tight end.

Student transfer to Clarkston this year, senior Bill Housefield, looks good at the defensive end and offensive tackle positions.

Clarkston should have fine guards in letterman Mike Crabtree and senior Ted Karbownik. Letterman Marshall Perry is a fine tackle while Tom Gates, another letterman, is fine as a wingback.

Holding forth at fullback is letterman Mark Swanson. Rick Butler, a junior, will be at center.

Also among the fifteen lettermen returning are Doug Beadle and Larry Smith.

Coach Rakow feels that with these and other players not mentioned here, Clarkston is heading for a successful season.

Clarkston High School's Cross Country team will sprint into their new season on Saturday, September 12. The squad, who showed great potential last year when they won the Wayne-Oakland League championship and placed 3rd in the State regionals, will be running in the West Bloomfield Invitational. There will be between 35 and 40 schools in their class competing so it will be a good test of their metal.

Coach Conrad Bruce predicts that the team will be right up near the top in contention. "I know that we are one of the best teams that will be there," he said.

The public is invited to attend. The meet will get under way at 10 a.m.

Art Center starts Artists Market

The Pontiac Creative Arts Center Artists Market is a new venture for the Pontiac area. It is being started with hopes of stimulating community interest and providing an outlet for area artists and craftsmen.

The official opening of the Market will take place at 8 p.m. Friday, Sept. 18 at the PCAC, 47 Williams St., Pontiac.

There will be a meet-the-artists party and door prizes of graphics, watercolors and oil paintings. The public is cordially invited.

All work submitted to the Market will be juried monthly by a rotating jury of lay and professional people; this is a necessity to keep up the quality of the offerings. If accepted the work will be kept 3 months and a 25% commission will be charged for all work sold through the Market. Hours will be 1-4 p.m. Monday through Thursday, closed Fridays, 1-4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays during exhibits.

We are accepting work for the first jurying up until Sept. 8. The opening exhibit will continue through Oct. 2 after which the Market will occupy the South Gallery of the PCAC as its permanent home.

The Artists Market is supported entirely by the efforts of a corps of volunteer workers. Anyone wishing to help may call the PCAC at 332-1824 or Mrs. McAndrew at 682-6978.

Many birth defects, infant deaths, miscarriages and serious complications of pregnancy are now blamed on a shortage of folic acid (vitamin B complex) during pregnancy. Dr. Martin L. Stone, of New York, and his colleagues studied 250 pregnant women and found 20% of them lacked the vitamin.

And 35% of the babies born to the women suffering from the folic acid deficiency also lacked the vitamin.

Dr. Stone points out that pregnant women need many more times the amount of folic acid in their daily diet than non-pregnant women, because of the metabolic changes that occur during pregnancy, and because of the demands of the growing fetus. The vitamin is needed for the manufacture of protein and the basic body-building enzymes.

Tests can determine whether such a deficiency exists. Women should have such tests before they become pregnant, Dr. Stone suggests. Pregnant women should obtain prenatal care as soon as possible, to avert any possible danger.

Folic acid is normally found in green-leaf vegetables, but your doctor may decide that your diet needs to be supplemented during pregnancy with synthetic vitamin B complex.

Japanese teachers observe schools Lutherns change

by Jean Sura

Masaharu Oishi and Yujiro Komatsu are English language teachers in Japan. For 2 months they are a part of a program sponsored by Pennsylvania State University.

The program is planned especially for Japanese teachers. For 2 months the teachers travel around the United States participating in seminars, conferences and actual on the job observation of schools in action.

Linguistics, teaching methods and intensive training in the use of English are stressed.

While they are traveling around they are house guests of citizens of the community in which they are studying. Here in Clarkston Mr. Oishi was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Hanson and Mr. and Mrs. Bud McGrath entertained Mr. Komatsu.

"The American people are very friendly and kind," said Mr. Komatsu. "Though our customs may differ I can see that human feelings are very similar. The spaciousness of your country was a new experience for me," he added.

Mr. Oishi compared the experience of their visit in this way.

"Before I came here I saw America from outside the fence. Now I have had the opportunity to see it from a different perspective. I now can see it from inside the fence. This closer view makes it easier to understand the basic similarity of the Japanese and American people."

Masaharu Oishi, left, of Osaka, and Yujiro Komatsu of Yamagata, are teachers of the English language in Japan. They are visiting the Clarkston High School for 2 weeks.

At the end of their stay in Clarkston the 2 men will rejoin other Japanese teachers who are participating in the program. Their next visitation will be in Lincoln, Nebraska and then they will continue on across the country to San Francisco.

From San Francisco they will fly home where Mr. Oishi will teach senior high school English in Osaka and Mr. Komatsu will teach at both senior high and junior college levels in Yamagata.

hours of worship

The Calvary Lutheran Church announced that new hours of worship will begin on September 13.

Worship services will begin at 10 a.m. and Sunday School will meet from 8:45 a.m. to 9:45 a.m.

Along with the new hours for worship, the congregation announced the arrival of their new organist.

Larry Kasat of Pontiac, an employee of General Motors, has had wide experience playing for Lutheran services. He will begin to play for all worship services starting on September 13 and will conduct the senior choir.

Kasat will replace Tamara Mahar, who has been the organist for the past 16 months. Miss Mahar has left for college.

The first meeting of the senior choir will be held immediately following worship on Sunday and members of the congregation are invited to join.

PURE GOLD
In Genesis 25, 26 and 27, there is a record of the instructions God gave to Moses for the building of the Tabernacle. Specifically, in 25:10-22, God gave instruction regarding the building of the Ark, and also gives a gracious promise which will be fulfilled, if the instructions are carefully followed.

One of these instructions was, that the Ark was to be covered completely with pure Gold. There was to be nothing cheap or foreign in this covering, but pure gold. So it is with us. In every area of your life, you are expected to be that which is genuine.

How often in the activity of life, the "easier" way of falsehood, might seem to best serve our own interests. Perhaps it is the choice between a selfish spirit of service. Yet, when all is finished, if we have been cheap or hypocritical, how hollow is the reward. On the other hand, if we have been "pure gold" and asked for the mind of the Spirit, then we have followed that leading, how sweet is the blessing which follows.

How about your prayer life? One can be cheap there too. If you would rather be called on to pray in public than to pray in secret, how shallow that prayer can become. Jesus exhorted those of His day not to be like those who stood on the street corner making a long prayer, but rather to pray in secret, and promised the Lord would reward them openly. The strength of the Christian life is born in the secret place. If you would be strong in the Lord, you must communicate with Him daily.

What about your service? Do you serve for the applause of men, or for the smile of God? Are you forever concerned about, "What's in it for me?" Are you willing to be of service to God through your Church, neighbor, and community? Are you willing to serve WITHOUT applause? God expects us to be pure gold in our service to Him.

The promise God gave to Moses was, that if he would do as God commanded, that God would meet him there. There is no greater blessing than the blessing of being met by God, indwelt by Him, and motivated by His Spirit. This kind of life is available to you. Revelation 3:20.

Signer of the times

By Haslett Hemmor

A young fellow came into our new car showroom last fall while I was waiting for Reggie. He starts right off with our salesman, Bill Jenkins, by listing all the extras he wants on his top-of-the-line new car. Named the model and engine and all.

Got to have air-conditioning, he has, and stereo tape deck and power seats—and windows and the whole blamed works.

"My old bus is outside," he says. "She's got a few miles on her but equipped like I just told you I want on the new one."

"Yessir, I'll have the girl run a total on your new —"

"Don't even want to hear the total figure," this buyer says. "Just tell me how much per month."

"On a 24, 30 or 36 month basis?"

"Guess 36 would make it the least per month. How's about your bushel and case plan on a 48 month deal?"

"Can't go over 36."

"So go 36."

"We'll add her up for you."

"Guess you got to. But just tell me the old monthly figure. Totals scare me."

"How about your trade-in?"

"Owe more than it's worth. Just jack up the price of the new bus and give me that much off for a make-believe cash down payment."

"What'll you do with your old car?"

"That's your problem. I'm trading it in for whatever the most is you can jack up the list price on the new job. Less of course, how much I owe on the old job's more than it's worth. Don't snow me, man."

"What do you still owe?"

"Who knows? Call Lakeside Finance and they'll give you the scoop. Tell 'em I'll put the new bomb through them. Just say they'll have Jake Smith on the hook again."

"What interest do they charge? Maybe we can do a little better."

"Forget it, man, they're the only outfit that will carry paper for me. Must be charging me a bundle."

"Lakeside Finance? Got their phone number?"

"It's right here on a card in my wallet someplace. Got one of their cards when I hocked the furniture. Here it is."

"I'll call to find the pay-off. Maybe they can't swing it if you owe too much."

"They'll swing it. They're real swingers. Just about turn my paycheck over to 'em every week. So let's go, let's go, I'm late for a very important."

"Here's the tape total now, sir. Hmmm, that will be $159.26 per month on the 36 month plan, with no trade. More if we take in the old car and you owe more than it's worth. Now shall we check the items on the tape to be sure it's right?"

"What for? Sounds great. Write it up."

"Don't know your balance yet on the old car. Might be another twenty a month."

"So give me a blank contract to sign, man, I haven't got all day. Let's go, go . . ."

That's the way it happened and for a fact, he was on his way as fast as they could switch plates. Old Bill Jenkins just sat there with the blank signed contract, shaking his head and saying to himself, "I just don't believe it."

Sr. Girl Scout Troop 206's entry won 3rd place.

Sitting on Dad's shoulders is a lot better than looking past people's knees. Trisha Butler, 3, 6024 Princess, gets the view.

Abraham Lincoln and the Civil War brought about the emancipation of the slaves just like the opening of school liberates mothers.

Of course there are a few exceptions. They are performing at a "wailing wall" that is just outside of the kindergarten room in all elementary buildings.

I have to admit that I was never one of them. When I dropped my kids off at kindergarten I waved "ta ta," then did a Soupy Shuffle all the way down the hall, clicked my heels together in the air three times and headed home for the party.

"Happy first day of school for your last child," I sang. "This is the day you've been waiting for. Do what you please."

First I made a pot of coffee (no instant for me today). I sat down and read the morning newspaper from stem to stern without interruption. I even finished the crossword puzzle. Then I jumped into bed for a little morning nap.

I regained consciousness slowly. There was something funny going on. I raised one eyelid carefully.

My youngest child stared back into my one eye. Tears had dissolved the neat little package that I had dropped off at school.

"Good heavens," I jumped guiltily, "I've slept all day and forgotten to pick the poor kid up."

"I don't think I'm big enough to go to school, Mommy," he said and his chin started to tremble. "I better stay home with you so you won't get lonesome."

Wouldn't you know? I am the one person in the world whose kid doesn't fuss in school. Oh, no. He just walks out the door and comes home.

I still marvel at the elasticity of that kid's temperament. For the next two weeks he was like a yoyo. I'd take him to school. He'd bounce back.

"Ah ha," said the teacher, "and how is little Mr. Houdini? Got any new disappearing tricks to show me today?" And then turning to me she said out of the corner of her mouth, "Listen, if you want me to keep that little buffalo here on the range you had better get me some barbed wire to fence him in his little chair."

"Could we have a parent-teacher conference and see if we can work this thing out. He really is a darling child."

"Anything you say. Oh, excuse me," she said as she darted off. "Christopher, Dennis and Nathaniel, get off the top of that piano this minute or I may be forced to warp your psyches. Jennifer, don't bite Theresa. Barton, stop eating the paste. Oh, no, Raymond, you didn't do it again? Remember, we always do THAT in the lavatory. Diane, go get the janitor. I think that Yvette is getting sick again."

"I'll come back at a more convenient time," I yelled, "like sometime next June."
