Jim's Jottings

UAW Chief Leonard Woodcock says the strike against GM won't hurt the economy of the country. Maybe it won't, but most of us are concerned about ourselves first, our community second, then our country.

The first two have certainly been hurt, economically.

During the new car announcement week last year, Sept. 18, 1969, our three publications carried 17 pages of advertising placed by local dealers.

New car announcements have been spread over three weeks this year and our three publications have carried a total of just over two pages.

-----o-----
Staying on the business theme... We're having a profit sharing plan drawn up for employees of over three years loyalty. It's designed by Investors Diversified Services (IDS).

They prepared a sample of the trust and had the word "specimen" printed in red across it. That's so no one can use it, I guess. There are blanks for the owner to fill in.

Curt Cullen, IDS representative in this area, said the trust had to be drawn by an attorney. Something about the American Bar Association objecting to IDS practicing law by drawing up a trust.

There are profit sharing plans for single proprietorships, called Keogh plans, and for corporations. The Keogh plan can be written by IDS, but not the one I need. That is, as far as Curt and I were initially informed.

Attorney fees for re-writing the profit sharing plan for corporations ranged from $150 to $700 when Curt asked them. My fee is in there somewhere.

Now I've learned that I could have typed the form prepared by IDS and not had to pay any attorney fees and the Internal Revenue Service will accept it.

I'm convinced Curt did not know anyone besides an attorney could draw the agreement for us. I'm also convinced the bar association had sufficient power to coerce IDS into telling their salesmen only attorneys could do the work I wanted.

Maybe I'll gain some comfort later in the knowledge that the papers were drawn by an attorney who has experience in such things. Maybe.

Home gutted

Dreams go up in smoke

Two and one-half years of dreams, money and hard work went up in smoke last Tuesday. The home of the Donald Beach family on Reese road was gutted by fire.

It had been a long, troubled summer. First, Judy (Mrs. Beach), had broken her leg. A tough break for a lady with a husband, five children, an assortment of pets and a lovely old house just halfway through a do-it-yourself renovating process. Next, one of the children broke an arm. Another had an operation just before school started.

But on the morning of Tuesday, Sept. 29, things were getting back to normal. Mr. Beach had left for work. The children had just boarded the school bus. Chris, 14, and Keith, 12, were headed for the Clarkston Junior High School; Colleen, 11; Brad, 10; and Sheila, 6, for the Bailey Lake Elementary School.

Mrs. Beach had her day pretty well planned. Like many in the past, she would work on projects around the house.

It was 9:20 a.m. when she noticed smoke in the area surrounding the fireplace.

When she was unable to locate the source, she called the Independence Township Fire Department.

At 2 p.m. the departments of Independence, Brandon, Waterford, White Lake, Oxford, Lake Orion, Hadley, Groveland and Gingellville had the blaze under control.

At that time, spokesmen for the department were reluctant to estimate the amount of destruction, but felt that the damage had been severe.

A family of kittens and a few personal belongings had been brought out of the house. The only clothing that was saved was that in the washer and dryer. It was debatable if it could be worn.

By now, Mr. Beach, whose work had taken him to Toledo, was on the way home. The children would be getting off the school bus soon.

Mrs. Beach stood in the mud in the yard of her once beautiful old home, holding an electric sander.

"I don't know what I'm holding this for, I don't think I'll be using it for a while," she said.

Testing shows

By Jean Sura

Seventh graders in the Clarkston School District rank above average in achievement in comparison to those in other school districts in Michigan.

Students in the 4th grade were found to be above average in the state in vocabulary, reading and English expression, but fell below the norm in mathematics.

These conclusions are drawn from results of the Michigan Assessment Program administered last January by the State Board of Education.

The goal of the program is to enable citizens and educators to make more informed decisions about education in the state.

The program encompassed 600 Michigan school districts and tests were given to 320,000 students.

The tests included an evaluation of the students' socio-economic status, and their attitudes on importance of school achievement and self-perception.

The achievement section of the test attempted to assess the degree of learning in areas of vocabulary, reading, English expression and mathematics.

Considering the percentile or statewide average to be 50, the students were graded from 0 to 100.

Clarkston 4th graders scored over the 50th percentile in vocabulary, 75th in reading and English expression, but dropped to the 30th percentile in mathematics. Combining the results placed the Clarkston 4th graders in the 60th percentile, statewide.

Seventh graders placed in the 65th percentile in vocabulary, 50th in reading, 75th in English expression and again 50th in mathematics. Their composite score, like the 4th graders', was in the 60th percentile.

Both classes scored relatively high, 85 to 90 in socio-economic status. The 7th grade was in the 75th percentile in importance of school achievement, and 70th in self-perception, but plunged to the 30th percentile in attitude toward school.

Fourth graders, in the 90th percentile on importance of school achievement, were in the 80th in self-perception and the 65th in attitude toward school.

The test results were broken down in 3 categories: state, region and area. Clarkston was classified as a rural area which was defined as a community of less than 2,500. The region encompassed Oakland, Macomb and Wayne area.

Martha, 5, left; Susan, 9 and Rick, 10, children of Mr. and Mrs. James Huttenlocher of Middle Lake Road, inspect the collection of rummage that is building up at their home. It will be moved to the Independence Township Hall in time for the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club's annual scholarship sale on October 2 and 3. Mrs. Huttenlocher is the chairman of the event. The hours of the sale are from 9 to 9 on Friday and from 9 to 12 on Saturday.

Expect contract covering run-off

By Jim Sherman

Clarkston may have the contract covering water run-off from Deerfield Farms Subdivision this week. For several weeks it has been with M. A. Benson's attorney. Benson, owner of the Sub, said he suggested a couple corrections and planned to return it to the village.

The contract was originally drawn by village attorney Jack Banycky. Following Council approval of the wording it was sent to Benson. The agreement sets requirements for a settling basin and subsequent drain to the Mill Pond.

Before the contract was suggested, run-off from rains from the hill just west of the village had caused basement flooding, dirt build-up on private property and muddy conditions in the Mill Pond.

A dike was made by a bulldozer opposite Miller road on Holcomb. This washed out. Benson said he wished property owners would call him when there is a leak in the dike instead of the village's repairing it. "Give me a ring when there is a recurrence. If they will just call I'd be happy to take care of it," he said.

"We went out there and spent a lot of money taking care of 5 different leaks," he went on, "and the first time it rained a new channel was formed to the lumber yard. If this happens again I've asked the owner to call me. I'll take care of it."

Benson was critical of the village councilmen for not contacting him. He said, "They can call me anytime. If I'm not in, I'll call them. I get 200 calls a day and I answer them no matter who they are," he told the News.

Tuesday night Councilmen mentioned that they had been unable to contact Benson. They recalled that Benson told them July 28 he would meet with his engineers and begin work in correcting the run-off condition. Kieft Engineering said at this week's meeting they had had no contact with Benson since July 28 and had completed their work before that date.

Councilman Robert Jones said he had contacted Mr. Brown with the Dept. of Natural Resources. He reported Brown's saying he was aware of the problem on the drain and would contact Jones.

Benson said he would welcome a visit from the DNR. "It's a natural drain and if they, or the village, can come up with any other recommendations I'll listen."

Also at Tuesday night's meeting, the Council passed a resolution stating their opposition to any state moneys being spent for a new stadium in Detroit.

Elmer's tune

by Jean Sura

"I've got a mouse in my house," said friend Maggie, after she had passed my demand two bid at bridge the other afternoon.

One girl screamed, ran and locked herself in the bathroom. She told us later that she climbed in the tub and ran the water. The other gals just jumped on their chairs.

"Good night," I thought, "mouse season is here."

That fact is apt to rock the Sura Manor.

"Where are those traps?" says my brave husband, Gene. "Have you got cheese, bacon and peanut butter on hand?"

Our larder is so full of bait that a person could starve to death unless he doesn't mind eating what the mice like.

It wasn't always this way.

Years ago, when we were young and foolish, we had a tame mouse named Elmer. We played a game with him and at the same time kept him under control. We would put a trail of crumbs, cheese and bacon through the house and out the door onto the porch.

He'd get so interested in the varied cuisine that he would eat himself right out into the cold. Then we'd time him to see how long it took him to get back in to our mouse-proof house.

He got to be too bold though, more than we could handle. It was just too much the night we entertained Gene's boss and Elmer came, uninvited, to our party. He sat right in the middle of the plate and sampled all the hors d'oeuvres.

"Gene," I screamed, "get your ratty friend out of this apartment or I'm going home to mother. There just is not room for both of us."

"Sweetheart, calm yourself. I admit that Elmer has gone too far, but we just can't trap and kill him in the normal, inhumane fashion. Give me a week. I'll think of a better way."

For three nights running, he experimented with ingenious extermination methods. On the fourth night the wheels were really humming and he was as busy as one of Santa's gnomes.

"I think I've got it," he crooned. "Goodbye, little Elmer."

First he built a maze out of shirt cardboards. It wound through the whole apartment. Next he filled the dishpan with water. He covered this with a thin sheet of paper. Next came an intricate ramp which led up to the paper on top.

When he finished his masterpiece he baited it all with imported cheese (Elmer's favorite).

"What is all this mess?" I asked crossly.

"Ssssssh. I think I've got it. All old Elmer has to do is eat himself into heaven. I understand that drowning is a painless way to go."

For three evenings, we sat and watched Elmer cavort about and eat about two dollars' worth of cheese. He could light-foot over the paper and when it would start to give way under him he would fly over the side of the pan like an eagle.

On the third night he was showing off and flew a little too high. He landed on a footstool. Unfortunately, Gene's term paper was lying there along with an open bottle of ink.

When Elmer came sliding into base, the ink flew in all directions, reducing the term paper to an enormous ink-blot.

"That does it, you ungrateful critter," roared Gene. "Get me a trap. Get me a broom. I'll show this ungrateful beast."

With that he grabbed the broom. The farmer's wife must have been a little more accurate because he missed completely in his first flurry of blows.

Elmer, in the meantime, thought it was a new game. He started to laugh. The more blows struck the harder he laughed. He laughed so hard that in his overweight condition it was more than his little heart could handle.

You might say that he died laughing!

Guard against new food poison

A new bacteria might be lurking around your kitchen, just waiting for a chance to poison the food.

The bacteria, "Clostridium perfringens," is found in soil, water, foods and the intestines of many people, and it could cause a new rash of food poisoning, according to Dr. Richard V. Lechowich, Michigan State University food science expert.

"The bacteria is going to become more of a problem," warns Dr. Lechowich. "However, it will make little headway against alert housewives who can get the upper hand by using good food handling procedures."

Food service establishments are also vulnerable, says Dr. Lechowich. Last year in one school alone there were 1,800 confirmed cases of poisoning from

"Clostridium perfringens."

"Beef, fowl and pork, in that order, are among the most vulnerable of foods to the bacteria," says the MSU scientist. "These are also favorite foods of the salmonella and staphylococcus."

Preventing food poisoning is the same with just about any bacteria. Extra precautions must be taken with popular kitchen tools such as the cutting board or mixing bowl.

For example, notes Dr. Lechowich, a cook should never place boiled chicken giblets on an unwashed cutting board previously used to cut up uncooked chicken.

"When someone puts cooked food on the contaminated cutting board the cooked food can easily become contaminated," warns Dr. Lechowich. "If it is eaten right away, it probably would do no harm, but when it is slowly or insufficiently heated or sits around several hours, those bacteria grow and multiply."

To avoid food poisoning, food handlers should:

-Keep everything clean.

-Keep the temperature of vulnerable foods out of the temperature ranges at which bacteria thrive. (Foods should be kept below 45 degrees F. or above 145 degrees F. Leftovers should be refrigerated promptly and reheated thoroughly.)

"Remember, large volumes of food are more difficult to keep at safe temperatures," says the MSU food scientist. "Divide the food into portions small enough to control the temperature of all parts of the food."

A practical rule to follow when you are uncertain about a food remains: "When in doubt, throw it out!"

"If It Fitz . . ."

About lawyers and doctors

By Jim Fitzgerald

Right now, in my favorite town, there is being heard considerable criticism of the legal profession.

"This makes the doctors happy," a wise man explained to me. "If people spend enough time knocking lawyers, they may forget to rap the doctors."

You can hear a lot of phony reasons why doctors and lawyers are often targets of lockerroom gossip and bridge-table barbs. You can hear the real reason from most any young woman who is seeking a husband and has not yet fallen in love with a truck driver.

"I would like to marry a doctor or a lawyer," she will say.

This is because doctors and lawyers, generally make a lot more money than truck drivers or newspaper writers. Mrs. Doctor can drive a Volkswagen because it's chic; not because it's all she can afford. When Mrs. Lawyer works on the church rummage sale, she doesn't come on duty early to search for shirts that will fit Junior.

There are, of course, exceptions. Some of my best friends are lawyers and doctors. Some of my best enemies, too. And many of them protest that all is not gold that glitters inside their crowded clinics and offices.

But they needn't protest to me. Rich or poor or in between it makes me no difference. Jealousy sours a man's stomach and makes everything he swallows taste bitter. I don't have time for envy. I'm too busy trying to pay my doctor bills.

Seriously, I don't begrudge the doctors and lawyers their incomes. I'm sure most of them work hard and honestly, and earn every cent. A survey would doubtless show that more people trust lawyers and doctors than trust newspaper editors. Me too.

Which brings me to my only real beefs against doctors and lawyers. They are too clannish and self-protective.

If I think newsmen have it coming, I don't hesitate to knock them - publicly and soundly.

But the other day, over a private Scotch and soda, a doctor told me too many doctors exercise their vanity by keeping terminal patients alive long after they should be allowed to die. But he forbade me to quote him. He didn't want to make his colleagues angry.

And I had 4 lawyers agree with me that a judge was doing something unlawful. But they all whispered and said they didn't dare speak out loud, they didn't want to offend the judge.

And the worst sin can be pinned on the lawyers alone. Too many of them take more cases than they have time for. This results in lousy service for the least important clients - usually the clients most in need of help and least likely to demand their money's worth. A couple of lawyers have admitted this to me - "but if you quote me I'll deny I said it."

Too many doctors and lawyers refuse to speak out against one another. Maybe it has something to do with protecting their standing in the various medical and bar associations. Or maybe it's the same understanding as in the U.S. Senate: "I won't pick on you if you don't pick on me."

Whatever the reasons, the result can be the continuation of undesirable practices and a thumb in the public eye.

Which is a heck of a lot worse than making more money than a truck driver.

Kutting Korner

By Jean Sura

This column in general deals with kitchen problems, but this week I thought I would explore another facet of Kutting Korner.

Buying clothes that are unbecoming or uncomfortable are a luxury that few of us can afford; still many of us do. I would like to pass on a few tips that were brought to my attention.

One of the most common mistakes women make when they buy clothes is buying the wrong size. Lots of women with perfectly trim figures hide their assets under saggy, baggy dresses a full 2 sizes too large, while heavier types tend to squeeze into a size smaller than they need.

Proper fit can make a moderately priced dress look like a couture design and vice versa.

Check these points when shopping:

1. Does the hem hang straight and even?
2. Does the dress lie smooth across the back of the neck, or does it gap?
3. Does the front of the neckline rub your neck and make you uncomfortable?
4. Do the shoulders fit snugly but not too tight?
5. Is the waistline too high or too low in front and in back?

6. Are the armholes cut high and neat so there's no droop in front or across the bodice?

7. Is the skirt cut just full enough in the hips to cover smoothly and hang straight?

"Remember," the note said, "a fashion-wise shopper is a fashion right dresser."

Another thing to think about this fall is what colors are going to be popular.

As the American designers see it, the colors to wear in the autumn of 1970 are rusts, browns, beiges, red-browns, and on through red-purple.

The most important textures are tweeds.

The jingle-jangle of chain accessories is predicted to be on the wane. This year's "in" belt will be a wide swath of leathers that lace, buckle or snap.

Earrings and bracelets will favor silver and plastic. Bangle bracelets and hoop earrings are getting the fashion nod. Chokers are the thing for neck wear. Some will be made of leather or snakeskin and will rest on the collarbone.

Of course the change in clothing tones will dictate that your make-up colors be coordinated in flattering shades.

Elegance will be the key to fashion. Gosh I'll hardly know you!

Candy Strippers receive caps

The traditional capping ceremony and presentation of awards highlighted a recognition program held on September 28 at Pontiac General Hospital for 52 Pontiac-area youth volunteers.

Patricia Golding, Beverly Hanson, Carolyn Jorgensen and Kathy Poage, all students at Clarkston High School, were among the volunteers honored.

The young Candy Strippers and Medic-Aides work in a variety of hospital areas and the culmination of their efforts is the recognition ceremony. Thirty-one girls received their caps in an impressive candle lighting ceremony presided over by Mrs. Fred Feekart, president of the hospital Auxiliary; Mrs. R. Jorgenson, chairman of the Candy Stripe program, and Mrs. Betty Reynolds, RN, assistant director of nursing at Pontiac General Hospital.

Featured speaker for the program was John Freysinger, Director of Pontiac General and the presentation of awards was made by Dr. Lynn Allen, vice chairman of the hospital Board of Trustees. Coordinator for the program was Mrs. Gene Cramer, director of volunteer services.

Shel George

"Sir, the insignia of a full colonel is . . . (pause) uh, is . . . (longer pause) is . . .

Joggers meet

The Springfield Township Senior Citizens, who call themselves the Joggers, will hold their regular cooperative dinner on October 3.

They will meet at noon in the Township Hall in Davisburg.

(too long pause) uh, is a . . ." Well, let me tell you about it.

Military life is "different." At least until you have adjusted to it. My experiences started in the "different" type of life with introduction to boot training.

To get an accurate picture, try to visualize 600 very recent and very good college graduates. Lump this whole mob together and mix in the Marine Corps. Next, keep in mind that rigid discipline and rules had, for the most part, been extinct during the last four years. Stir in slowly two experienced, hardened career NCO's. Now as I relate the finish to the opening quotation, you'll be able to smile or perhaps laugh out loud.

During boot camp, inspections came weekly, with regularity and also for no reason at all. These are not just "look over" type of inspections, but the type where you are also expected to know something and be able to supply the answer instantly. Notice I said THE answer, not AN answer.

Our first inspection came on the first Saturday morning. We had only been on the base for two days and we stood this one in our civilian clothes, no less.

The question for the week was to be able to identify and describe the insignia of any Marine Corps rank. Over and over we reviewed: Second Lieutenant, one gold bar; First Lieutenant, one silver bar; Captain, two silver bars; Major, one gold leaf; Lieutenant Colonel, one silver leaf;

Full Colonel, one silver eagle, and so on and so on and so on.

It so happens that a Full Colonel is also known as a Bird Colonel, since his insignia is that of an eagle. Here's where the trouble began.

Candidate Harless had done his memory work, but in the unique situation of the first inspection, recall was quite difficult.

As the inspection officer made his way down the row of rigid recruits, he coldly looked each one over and asked some appropriate question. Nobody asks questions quite like inspection officers. We were required to repeat the question before stating the answer.

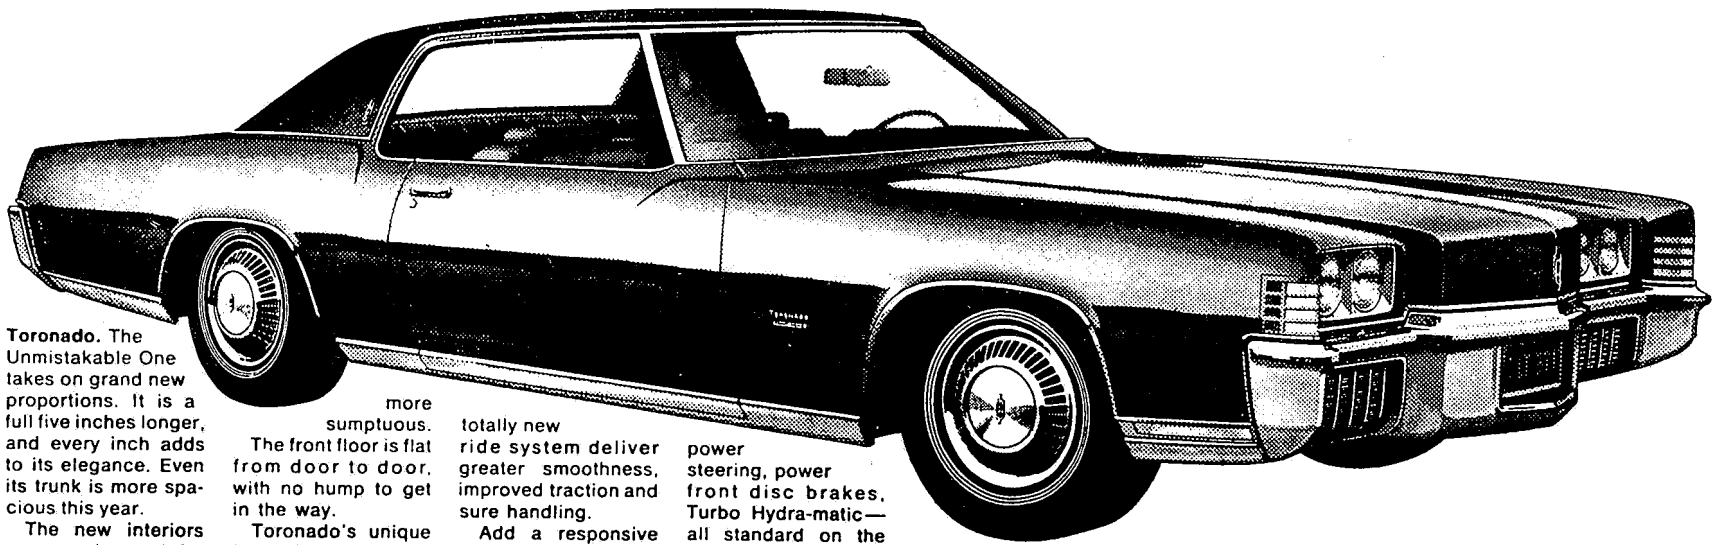

"Candidate Harless," spoke the officer. "Yes Sir," replied Harless with much velocity and vigor.

"What is the insignia of a full colonel?"

"Sir, the insignia of a full colonel is . . . (pause) uh, is . . . (longer pause) is . . . (too long pause) uh, is a silver chicken, Sir!!!"
Well, a chicken is a bird, isn't it?

Big sto

By Haslett Hemmor

I suppose you could say that Big John Corter is about the most easy-going guy a fellow could ever meet.

Fact is, it's got to be a kind of game to try to get old Big John's goat. He gets new shoes and even little Mike Quigglely joshes him about his "lovely new dancing pumps." Old B. J. just grins and agrees that maybe they are too dapper to work in but it's so hard to get shoes big enough that he kind of takes most anything that will fit him.

Actual fact, old John's pretty bright, but ever since he was in charge of the 4th of July display and hung onto a lighted firecracker while he tossed an unlighted one out into the lake, he's been called "Big Stoop" by one and all.

Even that don't seem to shake him up. Hears someone call him that and he just kind of grins embarrassed about how he had that hand bandaged up for near three weeks.

They say Big John's easy ways and absolute refusal to get mad at anyone goes back to when he helped his dad on the farm.

Story is that old John Corter graduated from high school and didn't work for his old man's time. Now John's pappy of the boy's 235 pounds feet 3 instead of John's peevish little guy, John sharp tongue and me known.

Guess he'd been giving time all day - telling shiftless he was until the here. Maybe it was an a wasn't - but the Haven bags high on the truck landed plumb square on head. Must of dropped man Corter was standing Caught him square on to dropped like a felled steer.

Big John rushed over it out for maybe ten minutes squirt come to and imm everyone out.

The short of it is that Haven's pretty well

Now it's my own idear that under all that calm of Big John is still that crazy temper that showed up pretty good that once. Like as

One of these times, buster, one of these

Around the town

The last dance

by Donna Fahrner

The Chatham Club held their annual guest night on Saturday, September 26 at the Eagles Hall in Clarkston. This was their last dance of the season. The new committee was introduced. They will begin to make their plans for the new year at the combined meeting of the new and old committees on Saturday, October 10, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Ever Swanson. Those elected to serve for 1970-71 were Dr. and Mrs. Earle Davis, the Jack Delorges, Richard Johnstons, Ralph Kenyons, Jim Tyrrells, Don Vachons and the Dick Wiltons.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. George Higgins feted their parents on September 19 in honor of their 50th wedding anniversary. Their former home on Big Lake Road, now the home of their daughter, Mrs. Gary (Alicia) Duncan, was the scene of the celebration. Mrs. Duncan was assisted by brother, Tom, of Royal Oak; sisters, Mrs. George (Jan) Gray of Clarkston and Mrs. Ted (Sue) Eazer of Tucson, Arizona. There were 18 grandchildren and 5 great-grandchildren attending the party.

A very happy birthday to Tara Thomas, who celebrated her 5th birthday on September 24. Tara is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Thomas of Pear Street.

Let's not forget our friends who are in the hospital. Mrs. Norma Harris is in Pontiac General; Mr. J. Ward Robbins, Pontiac Osteopathic and Mrs. Edith Berryman is at the Oakhill Rest Home in Ortonville.

Harry Waggener of Tequesta, Florida has returned home after spending three weeks in Michigan. Mr. Waggener, a former Clarkston resident, was visiting his daughter, Mrs. Barbara Gussie and family of Clarkston and his son, Russell and family of Dearborn.

Birthdays were the order of the week at the Gerald Anderson home on Kingfisher. John celebrated his 13th on Monday, September 21, with a family dinner and was surprised when a group of his friends dropped in. Mr. Anderson had his turn on Wednesday, September 23. Happy birthday to you both.

What happened to Isabel Baynes? Saw her hobbling around on crutches!

Bill Hughson of Heath Street is recovering at home after a tonsillectomy. Bill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Hughson.

Mrs. Nora Hamilton is still a patient at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, Room 254. Hope you're up and about soon, Mrs. Hamilton.

Kim Hamilton of Middle Lake Road celebrated her 14th birthday on September 22. Her treat was dinner at the Old Mill with her family.

Lois and Stan Roosa and sons, David and Doug of Eastlawn, entertained 20 relatives at their Bear Lake Cabin last weekend. They were happy to see Monty and Joyce Graham and daughter, Wendy, of Coronado, California. Joyce is the former Joyce Kuenzer.

Janet Lamm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lamm of Robertson Court, entertained Jodi Irwin and Pam Johnson on Friday. The occasion was to celebrate Janet's 4th birthday. The little girls enjoyed playing together before having cake and ice cream.

Mr. and Mrs. Jon Studebaker of M-15 are receiving congratulations on the birth of their first child. Joan Elaine arrived on September 19, weighing 8 lbs., 4½ oz. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Studebaker and Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Galligan of Clarkston. Great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Vergin of Davisburg, Mrs. Margaret Studebaker of Grand Blanc and Mr. and Mrs. Stevens of Florida.

A beautiful baptismal gown, made by a Canadian order of nuns, links generations of Pontiac and Clarkston residents.

The gown was worn for the first time in 1876 by the great-granddaughter of Michigan's second governor, William Woodbridge.

Last Sunday, September 27, it was worn by a descendant, Jon Richard Sampson II, for his baptism at the Church of the Resurrection here in Clarkston. Jon's dad of Ortonville road wore it in 1939.

Before that, it was worn at other christenings in 1894, 1915, 1934, 1937, 1955, 1959 and 1962. During the years has traveled across the country and back for several of the ceremonies.

Jon's godparents were Mr. and Mrs. Roger Rolfe. Rev. Stewart officiated the baptism.

Andover edges Wolves 16-12

It's PP & K Time

By Craig Moore
Approximately 500 enthusiastic fans failed to stop the Bloomfield Andover

Barons from edging the Clarkston Wolves in enemy territory on Friday, September 25.

It looked as though Clarkston had bagged the game until the last minute of the third quarter.

Although there was a lot of action in the 1st quarter, neither team was able to cross the goal line.

The Wolves wasted no time in getting on the scoreboard in the second period. With Andover in punt formation, a bad pass from center was gobbled up by Bill Housefield, Clarkston tackle, on the Andover 33. Clarkston capitalized on this break quickly.

Rick Prasil moved the ball 27 yards in 3 plays, then Mark Swanson ran 6 yards for the first touchdown of the game. An attempted run was stopped by Andover, leaving the score 6-0.

Late in the third quarter, Mark Swanson recovered an Andover fumble and brought it to the Andover 14. Moving 6 yards around the left end, Rick Prasil scored for Clarkston. Again the Wolves' extra point run failed.

Andover took its turn in the last minute of the third when Dave Pfister scored on a one yard dive into the end zone.

A weird play began on the Clarkston 23 after Baron Gary Ford recovered a Clarkston fumble. Andover quarterback John Thomas, after gaining 8 yards around his right end, lateraled to Bob Reid, who moved the ball to the 4 where he was hit and fumbled. Andover tackle Bob Fischer recovered the ball in the end zone. The Barons added 2 more points after the touchdown with a successful run, making it 14-12.

To wrap up scoring, Baron Marshall Neal tackled Mark Warren in the end zone for a safety, giving the 16-12 victory to Andover.

Clarkston has a record of 1-1.

The Wolves intend to be victorious when they play Brighton on the Clarkston field, October 2.

No matter what, Clarkston will support the Wolves!

This is the time of the year when all boys from 8 through 13 who live in the area can demonstrate their talents and strength by entering the local punt, pass and kick contest.

Each year the Clarkston Jaycees, in conjunction with a Ford dealer, sponsor the contest. Local winners are eligible to go on to larger competition. The national finals are held in California at the NFL All-Star game.

This year the local contest will be held at 11 a.m. at the J.V. athletic field at the Clarkston High School on October 3.

Flannery Ford on Dixie Highway will sponsor the local contest in which 18 trophies will be awarded.

Bob's Sporting Goods on Main street has applications available. They may also be obtained from all Clarkston School coaches or at the field on October 3.

Cross Country Team win 3 in a row

By Craig Moore

The Clarkston High School cross country team won a lopsided victory in the Brighton-Northville-Clarkston tournament on September 22 at Brighton.

Clarkston won in the first event when they ran against Brighton by a score of 15 to 56.

The first six places in this event were taken by the Varsity. Fred Seyler, who ran first, was clocked at 13:21; second taken by Dan Dankert running 13:22. Gerry Baker, timed at 13:41, came in third. Rick Svetkoff, taking fourth, ran 13:45; Kurt Carlsen, fifth, ran 13:59 and Bob Hoy, sixth, running 14:17 placed next.

Six other Clarkston runners participated. They were Mark Warren, eighth; Chris Plummer, tenth; Rick Dancy, eleventh. Running fourteenth, Pat Humphreys; Kurt Salzano and Steve Philpott, eighteenth and nineteenth.

The Clarkston runners were again victorious in the second event with Northville.

First and 2nd places were again taken by Seyler and Dankert with no change in times. However, Gerry Baker dropped to 4th, although his time was the same. Rick Svetkoff again had no change in time but took 5th. Kurt Carlsen ran 6th, time 13:59. Bob Hoy dropped to 8th but also had no change in running time.

In this event, Mark Warren took 10th, clocked in at 14:15. Thirteenth, 14th and 15th were taken by Chris Plummer, Rick Dancy and Pat Humphreys, timed at 14:53, 15:03 and 15:08 respectively. Eighteenth and 19th places were again taken by Kurt Salzano and Steve Philpott with their same times.

The cross country team has a 3-0 record presently and is looking forward to the Oakland University Invitational on Tuesday, September 29.

Coach Conrad Bruce is happy with the 5th or 6th place to 2nd place improvement of Dan Dankert. He feels this is an important factor in the team's solid performance.

"We could use a little morale building support," said coach Bruce. "Cheering fans are an important ingredient in gaining a victory."

"The boys have worked hard to make this a winning season. They deserve all the help they can get."

"I think the fans will find it an exciting sport, well worth their while."

Sell adult football tickets in advance

Adult tickets for all Clarkston High School home football games will be sold in advance of the games at Ronk's Barber Shop on Main Street. Ralph Kenyon, Athletic Director, made the announcement this week.

"We have had a few complaints from people who have had to stand in long lines to get tickets," said Kenyon. "The advance sale of adult tickets is being initiated to reduce ticket lines and speed entry to the games."

The adult admission price is $1.25.

Traffic deaths decrease

Michigan traffic deaths numbered 191 in August, a reduction of 63 or about 25 percent compared with the record high of 254 set for that month last year, according to State Police traffic division provisional figures.

The August toll marked the seventh month in a row this year to show a decrease compared with corresponding months in 1969. Average for August was 220 in the five years, 1965-69. The month's low was 67 in wartime 1943.

The deaths brought Michigan's accumulated road toll for the first eight months to 1413, which was 170 or about 10 percent fewer than 1583 recorded in the same period last year.

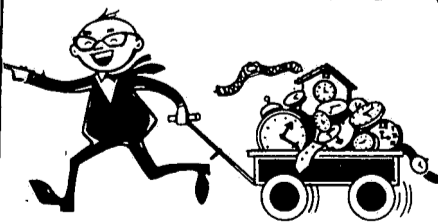

Reports of delayed deaths charged to accidents in August will increase slightly the totals for August and the year to date.

Summer highlights

by Polly Hanson

Polly Hanson was one of eleven students to travel through 6 European countries this summer with chaperones, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McGrath.

Last week Polly told of the flight from Detroit to Amsterdam. Her account continues.

Our one exciting experience in Germany took place in the small town of Heppenheim. An old German woman was "displeased" with the noise coming from our hotel rooms. Since she couldn't speak English, she started to get her point across by hitting Kyle Anderson with her shoe. Sister Margaret, a Catholic nun traveling with us, intervened and surely saved Kyle from a few bruises.

Our next stop was in the tiny mountain village of Achenkirch, Austria. We traveled to a nearby village to take a cable car to the top of the mountain. Once there we had a snowball fight.

We had just gotten used to temperatures in the 40's and 50's in Austria, when we crossed into Italy and the temperature was well over 100 degrees.

We found Italy to be quite dirty and very different from the countries that we had visited to this point.

All of the stories that you hear about Italy are true, i. e.: A) the men are exactly what you would expect them to be. But surprisingly enough, the old men are as bad as, if not worse than the young men.

B) When someone tells you not to drink the water, you'd better not do it. It's like liquid dynamite.

C) The Italians totally disregard any traffic laws. Some of the feats that they can accomplish with their little cars should be in Ripley's Believe It or Not. Needless to say, we were relieved when we said "arrivederci" to Italy.

We found Switzerland to be as beautiful as a picture on a postcard. Everyone enjoyed shopping for wrist-watches in Geneva. The highlight of our stay in Geneva was when we spent our evening crawling around in the middle of a busy avenue searching for Carol Humbert's contact lens.

The Swiss are naturally friendly people, and they offered to aid in the search. Since we didn't know the French word for "contact lens" we had to point at our eyes and hope that they understood. Some of those people are probably still searching the street in the belief that Carol lost her eyeball. (Note: it was found, in her hair, of all places.)

Soon we were headed for France, and that magical city, Paris. After brief stops at Chartres and Versailles, we all began to search the horizon for our first glimpse of the Eiffel Tower. Our stay in Paris was highlighted by visits to the Louvre, Mont Martre, Pigalle, and all of the other landmarks of Paris. It was climaxed with a moonlight cruise down the Seine.

All too soon, we were saying au revoir to Paris. We suddenly realized that we could count the days until we would be leaving for home. "Where," we wondered, "could all of the days have possibly gone?"

Back in Amsterdam, we settled down for a breather. Everyone found time to relax a bit, discover how many things they had lost along the way, and put their luggage in order for customs inspection.

August 4th was upon us and we found ourselves making our final trip in the "Reiswagen." We said our goodbyes to our driver, Mr. Johnson. It was especially hard to say goodbye to our guide extraordinaire, Fritz Verheul.

The flight home was a very quiet one. Everyone was reliving their happiest moments and thinking of things to tell family and friends back in the States about "my trip to Europe."

A study of over 2000 teenagers in 112 high schools found that a large proportion are undernourished, despite heavy eating, because of faulty diets. The children themselves referred to "junk" they ate, instead of drinking milk and fruit juice, and eating wholesome fresh vegetables, fruits, meats and whole cereals. Proper diet makes for better health, energy, and good appearance.

The human body is the most complex chemical organism on earth. It follows that a proper balance of nutrients is necessary to maintain the good health of this complex organism, and that any basic diet deficiency must cause illness. For good health, know the facts about a balanced diet and insist that your family get proper nourishment.

HOW MUCH DO YOU WANT TO EARN ON YOUR SAVINGS

PICK A NUMBER

There's a lot of confusion about interest rates . . . and there doesn't have to be. You decide how much you earn. Based on three factors. One, the size of your deposit. Two, the length of time you can leave it undisturbed. Three, whether you take, or accumulate your interest.

Every family saves differently. Some deposit small amounts regularly, and never touch the principal or earnings. Some deposit a large lump sum, and use the earnings as income. Some take advantage of the higher earnings available through time deposits. Some, . . . well, you get the picture.

Community National Bank has a variety of savings programs for individual families. Because, no one program or service could ever be best for everyone. Savers select their own rates here. They pick plans with supplementary services appropriate to their needs. Like free checking, personal check guarantee identification and automatic lines of credit.

Call or visit us. Describe your plans and requirements. Let us help you to pick the number that best meets all your savings objectives.

SCOUTS

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Thurs., Oct. 1, 1970 15

One of the many favorable future plans of Senior Troop 206 is a trip in June, 1971. The plans have not been completed yet, but anticipation is keen that the troop be able to go to Pennsylvania for Freedom Week, next June 21 to July 1.

If the plan materializes, on the weekend of June 26th the troop will spend a Co-Ed weekend on the Atlantic shore with Burlington Council Boy Scout Explorer Post 70, Cinnaminson, New Jersey.

The first meeting of the Clarkston Neighborhood Girl Scouts was held on September 17 at the Township Hall. Members of the service team are as follows:

Penee Easton, neighborhood chairman; Bobbie Vastine, troop organizer; Betty McLeisch, secretary-treasurer; Pat Bray, Brownie consultant; Gloria Lewis, Brownie consultant; Dawn Tower, public relations; Delores Smart, uniform exchange; Janette Perry, calendar chairman; Earla Laswell, cookie chairman and Jennifer Bisha, librarian.

The Clarkston Neighborhood consists of 17 Scout troops. The Senior Aid Girl Scouts are working with Brownie Troops. All troops will resume meetings by Sept. 30.

The service team has held orientation meetings for Cadet, Junior and Brownie leaders. A badge workshop was held for Junior leaders to familiarize them with guidelines to badge work.

A patrol leader workshop is being planned for the near future.

The Girl Scout calendars will go on sale from October 5 to November 1.

Plans for the Father-Daughter Square Dance at the CAI Building Oct. 19 are in full swing.

BOY SCOUT TROOP 126

BOY SCOUTS, Troop 49-

Cubmaster Palmer Swanson introduced Robert Jackson, who will become the new Cubmaster.

Pack Committee Chairman David Westlund extended an invitation to all qualified boys present to join Pack 126.

ST. DANIEL'S CHURCH

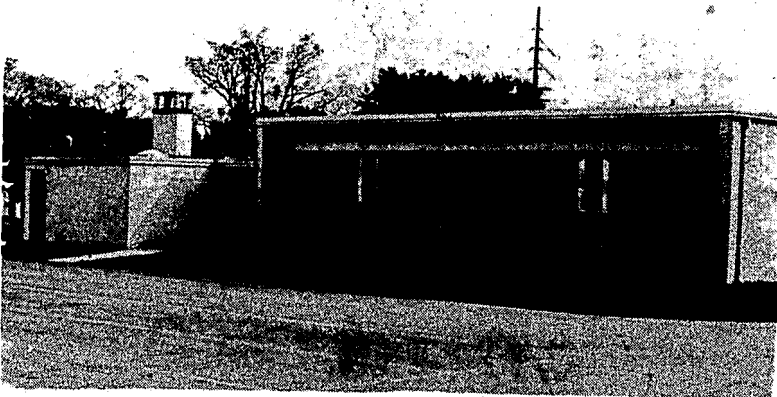

AUTHORITY IN THE CHURCH

In order to understand the place of authority in the Church we have to look at it in the light of the Gospel. We have to see and understand what Jesus did and said. If you look into the Gospels, you will see that Christ showed his followers how to use their authority by being the servants of others. Jesus gave himself completely in serving others. He even died for them. He told his apostles: "You know that the rulers of the Gentiles lord it over them, and their great men exercise authority over them. It shall not be so among you, but whoever would be great among you must be your servant, and whoever would be first among you must be your slave; even as the Son of Man came not to be served but to serve..." (Matthew 20, 25-28)

Just before he died, in a dramatic way he showed Peter and the other apostles that their authority should be humble service. He did this by washing their feet. He said he did this to give them an example. They should do the same for one another.

Christ's early followers realized that they were to serve not only God but also others. In fact they served God by serving others. St. Paul keeps calling himself a "slave" who does not want to "lord it over" others. In Galatians 5, 13, he says: "Be servants of one another." St. Peter exhorts the elders (priests) to "tend the flock... not as domineering over those in your charge but being examples to the flock" (Peter 5, 2). The New Testament word for authority, used over and over again, is the Greek word "diakonia" which means service, or ministry. Literally, it means "waiting on table."

"This Is My Country," interpreted with flowers, is the theme being followed for the Pontiac Mall 5th annual flower show, to be held October 5th through October 10th. It is being presented for the two-fold purpose of earning $1,500 for the Drayton Plains Nature Center and giving pleasure to the community through fun with flowers.

The show is being sponsored by branches of Women's National Farm and Garden Association.
