

Jim's

Jottings

By Jim Sherman

I'm planning another fishing trip. This time we're not going to catch bass. Maybe we'll slip over to another lake nearby and not catch grey trout.

On a trip to the Upper last year we went coho and brown trout fishing and grouse hunting. It was generally agreed by those in attendance that not getting grouse was most fun.

You don't have to put on waders to not shoot grouse.

Once again I'm going through the involved preparations. This always includes ordering tackle not available close at hand, like a new trout jacket. It will come back from Canada with colorful flies in the wool patches (it has 2 patches). There will be lures arranged in pockets on the right, leaders and swivels on the left.

The pliers for removing swallowed hooks will be left dangling from a strap for easy accessibility. A special gift-pack of Mepps spinners will be kept in the shoulder pocket and snake bite medicine in the left shoulder pocket.

If you get bit by one of those Canadian rattlers you better have the all-purpose antidote within quick reach.

I may exchange the places of the medicine and pliers.

Another important pre-trip preparation is the planning party.

They go a lot like our hunting and fishing adventures... we don't get any planning done. Euchre and cribbage get planned... planned, played, pounded and paid for.

I've been to literally dozens of trip planning parties and have always had a great time, but the planning came by phone the day before departure.

This year the trip is to Corrigan Lake near Ottawa. At least Ottawa was mentioned. So was something about a train ride, renting a car, and cancellation should the area be hit by a forest fire.

It's hard for me to believe that I can spend as much time as I do hunting and fishing (it adds up to 10 days a year) and come home so empty handed.

By luck some fish should swim into my lure. By luck a bird or a deer should fall into the sights of my gun. By luck I should come across someone, who has an abundance of fish filleted for lunch, spread on shore of the same lake I'm fishing, who is generous and wishes to share his pan-fried meal with me.

This is the hope I cling to... the only way I can see of my getting one shore cooked meal of fish, like the camping pictures show.

I'm hungry.

Investigation pending

Police seize marihuana

A report that drugs were being sold in the Clarkston village parking lot brought Michigan State police to the scene to investigate on Monday.

According to police records, one Clarkston youth had some drugs in his possession. He was released pending authorization from the County Prosecutor's office for a warrant for his arrest.

David Stoller, Chief of Warrants

Division, ruled that the amount of the drugs involved made it improbable that the case would stand the test of law and so denied the required authorization.

The case was still under consideration by Prosecuting Attorney, Thomas Plunkett, who was preceding with an investigation to substantiate the decision.

"These matters are very difficult," said Plunkett. "Proposed legislation may change the penalty for the possession of marijuana to a misdemeanor instead of a felony.

"However, we will and do enforce the law as it stands. That is why it is my opinion that these matters must be studied carefully and the nature of the offense weighed so that we do not needlessly waste the time and expense of a search that will not stand up in court."

"Bottles for Building" wins "outstanding" award

The "Bottles for Building" project of Independence Township was named the winner of the Community Achievement of the Year Award for Michigan Week in Oakland County.

The competition was sponsored by the Greater Michigan Foundation and the entry was submitted by Township Supervisor, Gary Stonerock.

L.J. Hinch, Chairman for the tri-county area made the announcement.

Hinch said, "It is my pleasure to inform you that "Bottles for Building" has been named Oakland County Community Achievement of the Year winner. Certainly Mrs. Carolyn Place is to be commended for launching a project that will have such a positive effect, not only on Independence Township but on other communities in Michigan.

The effect on other communities materialized when a meeting was held at the Clarkston High School on May 17. Citizens from Avon, Rochester, Waterford, Lake Orion, Holly, Rose, Springfield, Brandon, Ortonville and Utica-Shelby came to discuss similar glass collections in their respective areas.

Their interest has been stimulated by the success of the Independence project, which to date has collected over 100 tons of trash glass.

Mrs. Place, who spearheaded the original drive and has encouraged other communities in getting started, was modest about the honor and her personal accomplishment. "Without the enthusiasm and cooperation of the whole committee, the Jaycees, Rotary, Boy and Girl Scouts, and others too numerous to mention our efforts would have been unsuccessful.

"I think," she continued, "that the greatest thrill comes from knowing that our efforts have been rewarded by the fact that approximately 125,000 people have taken on a new sense of community pride and respect for their natural environment."

Independence Township's next trash glass collection will be held on June 19. The Cedar Lodge 103 FA and M of Clarkston and the DeMolay will be in charge. Help is needed in all areas.

Six run for School Board

Five men and a woman returned signed petitions to the offices of the Board of Education on May 17. The 6 will seek to fill 2 four year terms of office on the Board of Education at the school election on June 14.

Board president, R.A. Weber, 6110 Overlook Drive, will ask to be returned for another term as will incumbent Fernado Sanchez of 5173 Sashabaw.

Other candidates are Mrs. Louise Cohen, 6642 Wealthy, William Rausch, 15 Waldon Road, Charles J. Smalley, 5247 Sashabaw and Charles H. Weichel, 6609 Amy Drive.

All petitions have been checked and found in order according to a spokesman at the Board office.

TWO more giant elms fall to the Dutch elm blight. The trees were estimated to have graced the lawn in front of the Independence Township Hall for ??? years.

“Walk for Mankind” reported a success

This year the people of the Clarkston-Independence area contributed almost $2,000.00 to the “Walk for Mankind.” This amount would be enough to support the Project Concern in Tennessee for 3 days, provide medical services for villages overseas for one month, and still provide assistance to the Jay Shop at Pontiac State Hospital.

Ron Rule, Clarkston Jaycee who was the Chairman of the Walk said, “The deep involvement of the Junior and Senior high school students who earned this money by walking was rewarding to see.”

“A total of 108 walkers started at the Clarkston High School and 103 completed the 15 mile course.

“Bill Latoza, was responsible for organizing the walk and getting his fellow students involved. Assisting him were Student Council President, Kirk Dougherty, who handled public relations, Laura Esser and Buffy McFarlan who directed the plans for the Walk at the Junior High Schools.”

The walkers started from the Clarkston Senior High School at 9 a.m. and the last to return crossed the finish line by 3 p.m. Four walkers from the varsity track team were the first to cross the line at 12:07 and were closely followed by Bonnie Cleffman at 12:27.

Checkpoints were manned by Jaycees along the route of the walk. Local businessmen donated food to feed the walkers on their return.

“Participation in this years walk was 3 times greater than last year.” Rule reported. “We, in the Jaycees, were well satisfied.”

Letters to the Editor

Don't tell me

Dear Editor:

I would like to express my feelings to Independence Township voters.

Congratulations on the fine turnout on May 11th. The results of the vote show just how brainwashed a mass of people can get upon receiving a telephone call. The ethics of some township officials have a lot to be desired.

No one has the right to tell people how to vote or to question the person as to how they have voted. In this Democratic Society, each individual has the right to vote as he desires.

We received a telephone call from a person who was representing a known township official, asking us if we had read the flyer that was sent out Monday. We were also told how we were to vote on the various issues.

This sounds like a very Communistic approach to the system.

The people of the Township voted to reject the proposed shopping center to be located on the present site of Waterford Hill Golf Course. This shows that the people enjoy paying higher taxes for education in this district. The Township has NO source of income, other than the taxpayer.

If this shopping center had been approved, I believe that the entire length of Dixie Hwy., from Maybee Rd. to White Lake Rd. could be built up into a shopping area. This could have increased the number of jobs available to the teenagers of the area and throw a lot of tax revenue into both the Township and the Board of Education treasuries.

There is opposition to this Mall from the residents of Waterford Hill. Why? They can't even see over the "High Priced" hill; furthermore, their school taxes are paid to the Waterford Township schools.

It will be a pleasure to hear the cries of anguish of the residents when the Teachers go on strike again or if the Board of Education can't pay the Teachers due to a lack of funds and we will have more cutbacks in our educational standards.

This could have been partially abated by a simple YES vote. Laugh now but PAY LATER.

A Concerned Taxpayer

Who wrote what?

Dear Editor:

While we feel the "Clarkston News" has made marked improvement in its coverage of township meetings and proceedings and various governmental activities over the past few months, we question the policy, if any, governing the "Letters to the Editor" column.

Remember these masterpieces?

Letter of 3-25-71 by "Disappointed Taxpayer"; letter of 4-1-71 by "Wondering... A Township Resident"; letter of 4-15-71 from "A Scared Taxpayer"; and last but far from least the one from "A Disgusted Resident."

How can unsigned letter such as these be printed? We suggest you print only letters with signatures accompanying the pen names.

If one feels strongly enough about an issue to, in some cases, malign another person in the press, then we think he should be strong enough to sign his name, or his letter should go unpublished. ANYONE can write a nasty letter but it takes a truly sincere person to sign it.

Anyone reading this and agreeing with us, please DO something about it. Subscribers can influence policy.

Mr. & Mrs. John Belby, Jr.

Without fault

Dear Editor:

A transpositional error of a vote count in Precinct No. 1 at the May 11 election caused a Pontiac Press release that suggested improper voting machine operation and/or voting procedure in that Precinct.

Both the voting machine and the voting procedure were found to be correct and without fault.

Hempstead to speak of RAP

The Clarkston Rotary Anns have invited Judge Kenneth Hempstead of the Waterford District Court to speak at their May 25th meeting.

Hempstead was instrumental in organizing the Residents Awareness Program (RAP) one year ago. The program is intended to help combat local drug problems.

"We felt it our duty to investigate and find out more about this program," said Joan Mason, publicity chairman. "The RAP house program will serve the townships of Independence, Springfield, Waterford and White Lake. We are inviting all interested citizens to attend our meeting at the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection on Clarkston-Orion Road to hear about the self-help awareness program.

The meeting is at 8 p.m.

Drain may cost $450,000, golf course park out

Preliminary estimates of the cost of establishing a drainage area around Clarkston Estates (Paramus Drive) come to about $450,000.

Johnson and Anderson, Independence Township engineers gave this figure, along with a map showing the area to be served, to the board Tuesday night. Two plans were submitted and both use Dollar Lake as the receiving basin.

Supervisor Gary Stonerock said public hearings would be conducted on the plan. He also said the drain would likely be paid with ad valorem taxes. He told the board he had checked and found that while it was not necessary that drains be paid this way, he found none that weren't.

Librarian Colleen Smith has resigned this position with the Independence Township Library. Her letter said she had worked here for 16 years. It takes effect June 1.

Also, about the library, the board voted to blacktop the parking area provided the costs not exceed $7,000. Three bids were read, the lowest being for $7600.

The Jaycees are landscaping the library lot with financial help from the Clarkston Garden Club.

Representatives of the library board said they were about $12,000 short in pledges. Some in attendance at the board meeting suggested the library have another drive to pave the lot instead of taking general fund money. 8,200 carry library cards here.

The township's request for a state grant to purchase Waterford Hill Golf Course has been turned down by the Department of Natural Resources, Stonerock announced Tuesday night.

He said priorities are based on a point system and the township just didn't have enough points.

A second attempt to obtain a grant will be made this week. The site where grant money would be spent is on Sashabaw road, just north of the fire station at Clarkston road. It's 40 acres.

The board agreed to have their truck rebuilt and made road-ready. This is the 1964, 1½ ton dump that was wrecked by trustee Keith Humbert while on a Bottles for Building drive.

The township carries a $100 deductible insurance. The board held up the decision on who will pay the deductible. Estimated cost of repair is $1,000.

Marie Brendle of Walters Lake suggested the township board have by-laws drawn up so each member of the board would know his job and not overlap. "This would settle a lot of arguments," she said.

The attorney will be asked to check this for conflict with state laws.

Smile .Smile .Smile!

May 15-22 are the dates of the 18th annual Michigan Week. These are the now-famous eight days when Michigan citizens go all out to tell the world their story - that Michigan people have a great deal to be proud of, that Michigan is a great place to live, work and play year-round.

"Michigan - Land of Hospitality," the Michigan Week theme, emphasizes the friendliness which we as representatives of Michigan should constantly exemplify. Michigan's beautiful landscape and natural resources, though inviting in themselves, need a helping hand, the extended hand of Michigan people bidding a wholehearted, personal welcome.

It's up to us to show newcomers and visitors that Michigan is hospitable, and we can only do that by being alert to the daily opportunities. If your welcome smile is a little bit rusty, practice it a while. A smile or friendly greeting doesn't cost a cent, but it can pay big dividends in boosting Michigan's image as a gracious host state.

So - smile at your neighbor, your waitress, your delivery-man - be gracious to your family, your co-workers, your fellow citizens. Smile your way through Michigan Week and on through the year. Hospitality is habit-forming. It's a good habit and it can mean a lot to Michigan.

Dog catching might not be so bad

Friends of mine on the school board tell me that their job is the most thankless in the world. If they uphold teachers' disciplining the kids, parents say they're running a police state. If they don't, teachers throw up their hands in despair or threaten to file a grievance that will bring in the State association.

Members of the village council, township board and planning commission claim that people on the school board really have it pretty soft. The big difference, they point out, is that school board meetings aren't usually attended by the general public and so school people just aren't in line for the potshots fired by the steady hecklers that attend nearly every one of their meetings.

Guess dogcatchers don't have it too easy, either. If a dog runs loose, people keep the phone ringing with stories about how the vicious creature nearly got their youngsters and what's the use of having laws to protect people if they aren't enforced.

If the catcher does his thing, little tykes' eyes are filled with tears and lips quiver. He's a nasty, hateful man that gets his kicks out of snagging harmless puppies and hauling them off to the gas chamber. Best thing is to wave the old net energetically but keep missing.

Then there's the job of being a small town newspaper publisher. If the story gets in about Junior's bopping the village policeman with a half-full whiskey bottle, it's just an innocent prank and only a yellow journal would ruin the boy's life by making him out to be a criminal.

If the story doesn't run or is played down or if names are left out, it's because there's been a payoff or, at the very minimum, it's branded as proof of how, if you know the right people, you're protected.

As a matter of fact, I'm entering the job of publisher in the national contest for the most thankless jobs. If I win, it will be because the contest was fixed, and, if I lose, it will prove that I had nothing to beef about in the first place. Dog catching might not be so bad.

Don't ever say - - -

Long ago a very wise old newspaperman told me that I should never, never editorialize about religion or politics.

"Jim, boy," he counseled, "even avoid reporting those 2 issues if there's any way to sneak out of it. Miss your deadline. Lose your notes or come up sick."

"Take a church social, for example," he warned, "what's more innocent than a church social? Unless you happen to list Mrs. Virgil Lumberlawn's name right smack next to Don Santastifano."

"Jim knows something he's not coming right out with," the gossips will tell each other. "Wouldn't dare come right out like that unless he had proof positive of hanky-panky."

"Politics are just as bad," the old man said. "Suppose you attend a rally and a couple guys boo the speaker. You report the boos and the speaker's friends will say you're crucifying their candidate. They'll claim that it was only a child in his mother's arms who started to cry, but was instantly hushed."

"Those opposing the candidate will claim that the brief mention was an attempt to slough off the great thunder of boeing that lasted nearly quarter of an hour and involved most of the irate crowd."

Sometimes we feel we're being forced to write only about non-controversial subjects like Agnew, marijuana, pending abortion legislation and pornography.

Certainly you will agree that the use of certain 4 letter words - words dragged right out of the gutter such as ----. Well, anyway you thought of the dirty words, even if I drew a blank, and couldn't recall even one. Reader help is always appreciated.

"If It Fitz . . ."

Patriotic for GM

By Jim Fitzgerald

Immediately upon learning how to help my country, I phoned my friend Larry, the car dealer.

"Listen Larry," I said, "that Oldsmobile you sold me is a mess. The wheels wobble, there's exhaust coming in through the air conditioner and the back seat vanity mirror is cracked in 2 places."

"Holy cow," Larry said, "I sold you that car 7 years ago. This is the first time you've complained. How come you waited so long?"

"I'll tell you," I said. "I am going to write you a very nasty letter about this lousy car. I am going to write how I have been sick for 7 years because of those exhaust fumes and that's why I haven't been able to complain until now. I am well enough to complain now only because the windshield caved in as I was driving to work this morning and the sudden burst of fresh air revived me and made me realize it was past time for me to write you a letter of complaint."

"You must be nuts," Larry said, getting nasty because he knows I've been holding hands with a Chevy dealer lately anyway. "Go ahead and write the letter. I'll just throw it in the basket."

"That's OK," I said, "but please don't tear it up first. Just crumple it angrily. I'll mail the letter this morning and I'll be around to pick through your trash tomorrow night."

"Why would you do that?" he asked.

"Because, after I press the wrinkles out of that letter, I intend to sell it back to you for $10," I explained.

"I wouldn't give you 5 cents for it," Larry snorted.

"That's no way for a GM man to talk," I said. "You'll never go higher in the organization with that kind of an attitude. Don't you realize that Ralph Nader would pay me $15 for that letter? And the U.S. Department of Transportation would probably go to $20. I am offering it to you first only because you are my friend."

"You've gotta be kidding," Larry said.

"Not for a minute," I said. "I am offering you a great opportunity to impress Mr Roche and the other GM brass.

Wait until they learn that you bought back a complaint letter in its original form, thus saving them the expense of having it micro-filmed first. It is that type of thinking that made GM the biggest corporation in the world."

"Why are you so good to me?" Larry asked.

"What is good for you is good for GM and what is good for GM is good for the United States. That's what Charlie Wilson said just before he opened a GM dealership in the Pentagon. I have never forgotten his inspiring words," I explained. "Selling you back my letter is the patriotic thing to do."

At this point, Larry hung up. But, before the phone clicked, I'm certain I heard a sob.

Mrs. McCurdy's 4th grade class at Pine Knob Elementary celebrate Michigan Hospitality Week smoking a peace pipe in front of their wigwam.

C.E.A. Report

—Presented by Mrs. McCurdy

Students celebrate "Michigan Week"

One of the most enjoyable units of study for fourth grades at Pine Knob Elementary is our Michigan Unit. The children do an intensive research study of their state and make individual Michigan Books.

These books have plywood covers 14"x11" which are cut for us by shop classes at the Clarkston Junior High. The children sand their covers and draw their designs on them. These designs are then woodburned and colored.

Some of the designs are state symbols — robin, apple blossom, white pine, trout, and Petoskey stones. Some children selected maps of Michigan and some drew cars to represent auto manufacturing. Finally, the covers were shellacked.

The Indian portion of this unit is very interesting and Mrs. McCurdy's class made a large wigwam in their room of branches, twine, and painted sheets. They studied the major Indian tribes that lived in Michigan and how they lived.

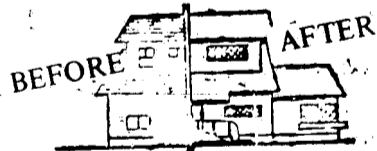

Mrs. Moore's class made a model of Fort Pontchartrain. Mrs. Underwood's class made apple blossom branches by attaching pink crepe paper blossoms to small branches. Mr. Alterman's class made plywood cut-out maps as part of a bulletin board display of Michigan's natural resources and manufactured goods. All of these projects help to make this unit a very interesting one.

A benefit to the entire school from this fourth grade unit this year came in the form of a large painting of Chief Pontiac to hang in the hall. This gift was from Pontiac Motors from Mr. Criger through the efforts of Mr. Lowell Chuba.

BUSINESS EDUCATION

By William Dennis

Frequently one thinks of the Business Education Department as one that trains girls to be stenographers, file clerks and secretaries. Clarkston's Business Department actually offers 3 different types of skills.

The first is aimed at those students who desire skills that will enable them to better adapt to college, such as personal typing, shorthand, business law, and record keeping. These courses are designed to provide the individual with usable but not necessarily salable skills.

The student who wishes to develop salable skills may elect such courses as shorthand, secretarial typing, bookkeeping, accounting, retailing, and salesmanship. The classes are operated very much like an office and the demands on the students are similar to that of an employer - employee relationship.

There are deadlines to be met; high achievement is stressed and for many there is the possibility of employment directly from graduation.

The school store allows students the opportunity to actually run a business and requires that profit and loss statements be submitted each month, inventories taken and money accounted for each day.

One opportunity that is offered business students as well as some from other departments is that of the Co-op program. The unique feature of this program is that it allows the student on the job training.

There are approximately 60 students now participating in a variety of experiences from automotive service centers, retail clerks, office workers and court secretaries.

This program is open only to seniors who must actually sign a contract with the employer and school. While participating, the student attends classes for one-half of the day and works outside the school on the job the other half.

If a student plans his curriculum properly from the start he has every opportunity to take advantage of many skills offered. Fortunately, the fallacy of having to attend college to be a success is lessening and opening many fine areas of endeavor.

Canvassers OK election see no discrepancy

Results of the May 11 Township referendum election were certified by the Township Board of Canvassers. A story in a daily paper indicated that there was a discrepancy in figures recorded in 1 precinct.

Township Clerk Howard Altman explained that the mistake was an error that resulted from recording a vote total in an incorrect column, the subsequent transfer of that figure to a correct column and the failure to remove the figures from the incorrect column.

The corrected tally did not change the results of the election.

Mrs. Eldon Eugene Adams

Wed in double ring ceremony

Wearing a gown that she had made, and escorted to the altar of the United Methodist Church of Clarkston by her uncle, I. Ownly Vinyard, Mary E. McKee became the bride of Eldon Eugene Adams.

Rev. Frank Cozadd performed the evening, double ring ceremony on May 15.

The bride's original floor length gown was made of white lace over satin. Her crown type tiara held a floor length veil of illusion.

The bride's attendants were Sandra Goodsell, maid of honor, Sandra Vinyard and Lise Adair. They wore long, orchid gowns styled in empire fashion.

James Peterson of Pontiac was the best man and ushers were Michael Goodsell and Larry Vinyard.

A reception for 100 guests was held in the church parlour following the ceremony.

The bride, a graduate of Clarkston High School, is the daughter of Mrs. Ruth McKee of Church Street and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Adams of Highland, Michigan.

After a honeymoon trip to Florida the couple will make their home in Highland.

Farewell reception honors Stubbes

The congregation of the Calvary Lutheran Church is planning a farewell reception for Rev. and Mrs. Arlon Stubbe on May 22. The community and members of the congregation are invited to greet them and extend good wishes for them in their new home.

Rev. Stubbe has accepted a call and will become the pastor of the Saron Lutheran Church in St. Joseph. He will deliver his farewell sermon to the local congregation on May 30.

The Stubbe family plan to take a months vacation in Colorado before he assumes his new responsibilities.

The Clarkston church has grown to a membership of 530 people in its 10 years of existence. Rev. Stubbe has guided it since 1966.

Rev. Lichtner Swan, who recently retired from a congregation in Redford, will act as supply pastor until a replacement has been found.

Around the town

Washboard blues

by Donna Fahrner

After the beautiful weekend every washing machine in town should have been running overtime on Monday. Junior Girl Scouts from Troops 210 and 155 went to Colomiere College over the weekend for a camp out. Two leaders, two mothers and twenty-four girls came home tired and dirty but ready to go again.

The Boy Scouts dedicated their Lost Lake Camp last weekend and I am sure, by the amount of traffic heading north on Friday, every boy in Clarkston who was eligible attended. Many families took advantage of the weather and packed their campers and joined the boys at the Lost Lake. Keep those washers going mothers.

The Happy Wheelers Camping Club could not pass up last weekend and eleven families traveled to the Bay City State Park. New members were welcomed with various camper decorations. A joint spaghetti dinner was held around the campfire and all arrived home feeling summer was on its way.

Ladies at the Clarkston United Methodist Church are busy completing plans for their annual antique show to be held at the church on 3rd and 4th from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. A buffet lunch will be served.

The Sashabaw Elementary School will hold their Fair and Flea Market on Saturday, May 22 between 1 and 4 p.m. There will be prizes, games, baked goods, a white elephant sale and refreshments.

After you mothers finish the washing remember the baseball season has started so dinners will have to be either delayed until after practice, kept warm for the playing member of the family or ready and waiting when school is out. Any way you look at it, good old Mom plays an important role and you boys had better appreciate it.

Mrs. (Carole) Gilbert J. McCallum was a surprised lady on April 27 when 35 of her friends met at the Pied Piper Restaurant to honor her. Mrs. McCallum received her R. N. degree recently from Oakland Community College School of Nursing. Ladies attending were friends from a church group in which Mrs. McCallum had been active before she started to college 4 years ago. Mrs. McCallum has 5 children at home ranging from 5 to 15.

Sold American!

Part 1

By Haslett Hemmor

Maybe you buy the old story about how if people live together 25 years they get to look like each other. In the case of Effie and me there's no truth to it. For instance, her moustache isn't near so heavy as mine.

That's a gag of course because actual fact is that you can't even see a moustache on old Eff. She peroxides it and it's bare heavy at all, anyway. Besides that she's starting to gray up pretty good and what hair I got is still near black.

Guess though, whether you get to be the Bobsey Twins or not, you do like a lot of the same things or at least you pass up the stuff that only one of you goes for.

Now Eff and me both love a good auction, special if there's antiques. Both like antiques and know our way around the old track as far as prices are concerned. Not that we could write any books on it but we do know about what plank bottom chairs will go for. You don't fool us too easy with real genuine, authentic reproductions.

Go to enough of these antique auctions in the same general area and you pretty much expect a lot of the same faces, particular the dealers. Woods are full of them.

Every Saturday night they hold an auction at Allen's Barn. Ernest Earl Allen owns the place and he's the regular auctioneer - sometimes assisted by Pete Jackson, if it's a big sale with maybe a couple households plus some consignments.

Don't know if Ernest Earl Allen is his real name or not but if it isn't it's no matter because auctioneers sure ought to be allowed to have stage names. Specially Ernest Earl ought to have the right, being a good entertainer and all.

Got this podium style thing on a stand and he moves her around with him as he goes up and down the stage where he has the stuff brought up so's you can get a good gander at it. Winter and summer old Ernest Earl wears the same thing. Must have a dozen different shirts with wild color candy stripes. Hard straw hat tilts way over his left ear like it was about to fall off.

Never saw old Earnest Earl wear a coat or even a sweater. Maybe he puts on thermals in the winter. Long as he's auctioneering he doesn't need to worry about keeping warm. Stocky as he is, he jumps around like somebody just wound him up. Whirls around from that podium soon as he says "Sold," then points his cane at the next thing being put up. Uses that knobby cane as a gavel to pound on his auction podium to get attention. Slaps it flat and hard on top of that podium. Whacks her down hard so it's like a big door slammed.

"Got the thirty want the five. Give thirty fi, thirty -fi, thirty five. Got the fi now forty, forty, forty. Don't be shy. Bid the forty, forty, forty. Who'll say forty? Don't let this one get away. Who'll say forty, forty, forty, forty. Now the forty fi. Forty fi, forty fi, forty fi. You just waving lady or was that a bid? Lemme hear the forty fi, forty fi. Now fitty, bid the fitty. Fitty, fitty, fitty, fitty, fitty, fitty. Got the fitty."

(concluded next week)

Klein named postmaster

Appointment of Ray E. Klein as Postmaster of the Clarkston post office, effective May 15, 1971, was announced by Mr. K.O. William Sandberg, Regional Director of the Chicago Region, United States Postal Service.

The appointment brings to 194 the number of Postmasters named so far by Postmaster General Winton M. Blount, in the Chicago Region under the new non-political-merit-system, established by the Postal Reorganization of 1970. Recommendations are made by a Regional Management Selection Board.

Klein has been Officer-in-charge for the Clarkston post office since the retirement of Elizabeth Ronk in January, 1970.

He lives with his wife and child on Ortonville Road.

Spiritual Message

Frank A. Cozadd
"PEACEMAKERS"

Jesus said: "Blessed are the peacemakers." Jesus takes it for granted that there will be strife and conflict. The most peaceful spot in Clarkston is the cemetery. It is also the deadeast. The most peaceful household may be one where the tyranny of husband and wife, father or mother, is absolute.

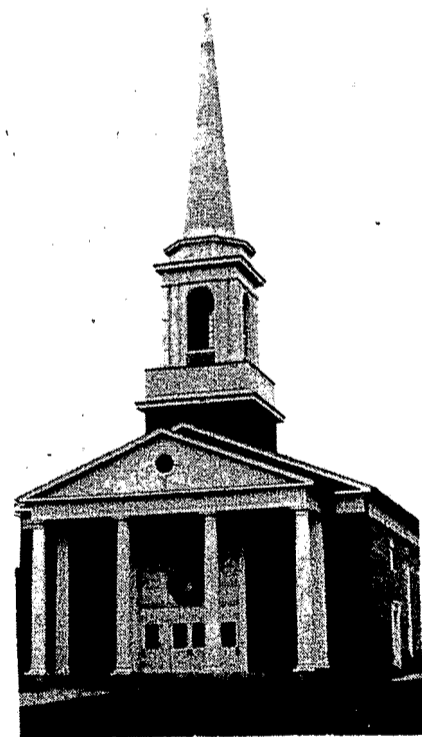

making peace may mean making Dissent has been stifled. Frustration is contained behind bland or smiling masks. Peace reigns - at the price of life.

Jesus does not say that we are blessed when we have peace. He says we are blessed when we are engaged in making peace. But trouble. To make peace means that sometimes we step between the parties who are exchanging blows. Sometimes it is pointing to the underlying causes as St. James said: "What causes wars, and what causes fighting among you? Is it not your passions that are at war in your members?"

The fact that Jesus' method of peacemaking was peaceful and non-violent did not help. On the contrary, He aroused that extra measure of fury which nonviolence never fails to arouse. But Jesus went about his business of reconciliation, taking down brick by brick every dividing wall between man and God, man and man, Jew and Gentile, master and slave, and male and female. And in the end it cost him his life.

"Blessed are the peacemakers for they shall be called sons of God." The peacemaker knows a deep inward peace in the midst of trouble. Like Paul and Silas, who have been beaten and thrown into prison, they can sing praises to God at midnight in their prison cell - for they knew they were sons of God.

PEEKIN' into the PAST

25 YEARS AGO IN THE CLARKSTON NEWS

May 17, 1946

Sgt. Edmund Gunter has returned home after receiving his discharge from the service last weekend. Ed spent about two years in the service with about a year in India.

On account of the sudden illness of Adele Thomas on Saturday, Mrs. Kenneth L. Johnson presided at the organ in the Methodist Church on Sunday morning. We are glad to report that Adele is feeling much better.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Allan Hinz of Hillcrest Drive, Waterford, a 7 lb., 13 oz. daughter, Mary Lynn, on Saturday, May 11th, at Pontiac General Hospital.

10 YEARS AGO IN THE CLARKSTON NEWS

May 18, 1961

Scholastic recognition was received by Perry B. Smith, sophomore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip R. Smith of Cranberry Lake Rd., in the Honors Day convocation at Albion College. Perry was recognized as a member of Delta Sigma Rho, the oldest national honorary forensics society, and of Kappa Mu Epsilon, national mathematics honorary.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ronk is spending this week in New York City, the guest of the Elmer Pettengills.

Marian Lessard of Clarkston is a featured singer of the University Chorus at Michigan State University Oakland. The Chorus will present the complete Easter portion of "Messiah" at 4 p.m. Sunday, May 21.

MICH WEEK PEEKS AT PAST

Michigan Week sources report that the Michigan winter of '36-'37 was a good year - 1836-'37, that is.

It was a prosperous period for Michigan, according to the Jan. 21, 1837, edition of the "Detroit Advertiser." Despite the midwinter snow, many sleighs with provisions had come into town over the hard-packed roads, and the editor boasted that business was excellent.

The market was so well supplied with venison, which had been Michigan's staple meat even prior to the settlers' immigration, that the price had dropped to 7c a pound. Pork, the other regular meat course, was 20c a pound.

Other prices listed were: crock butter, 23c a pound; roll butter, 28c; flour, $8.50 a barrel; chickens, 75c a pair; turkeys, $2.50 a pair. The 63c price advertised for eggs made a dozen eggs more valuable by far than the chicken itself!

WOOD PRICES HIGH

Wood, which was more difficult to transport, stayed high at $2.50 a cord. Michigan road conditions that year had raised wood prices beyond the means of the poor funds, since the open hearths that provided heat for the majority of citizens quickly consumed cords of wood. As a result, relief officials were advocating the purchase of stoves to cut down the cost of buying wood.

Stoves, which Michigan newspapers of that era were also advertising, arrived in Michigan from Troy and Albany, the nation's stove centers, but freight charges and costs of the stoves themselves were extremely high. At that time, Michigan industry could not yet supply the local demands for stoves, although by 1881 Michigan not only had a number of stove companies, but led the world in stove production.

Managers meet

Little League baseball managers and anyone interested in managing a team will meet on Wednesday, May 26 at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will be held at the Clarkston High School.

Track record tumbles Odd Couple next for players

by Brian Becker

Clarkston Jr. High track team took their first defeat on Tuesday, May 11 when Crary Junior High tallied 68½ points. Clarkston collected 34 points and East Hills had 23½.

Clarkston took 2 firsts, 5 seconds, 2 thirds and 5 fourth places.

High scorers for Clarkston were Mike Dennis, who threw the shot-out 39'1" to come in first.

Mike set a new school record in throwing the shot-put. He was also in the 440 yard dash and was on the mile relay team. Mike's total points were 7½.

Gary Mason was the second high scorer. He came in first in the mile run and had a total of 5½ points.

Gerry Adams ran the 880 in 2:13.4 to set a new school record and Lee Booker ran the 100 yard dash in 11 seconds.

The Clarkston Village Players have chosen the popular comedy "Odd Couple" for their next presentation.

The curtain will go up on the events that take place when the meticulous Felix Unger moves in to share the bachelor apartment of his swinging friend Oscar Madison.

Homer Biondi and Bruce Rogers will play Oscar and Felix. Supporting them will be Dr. Ernest Denne, Ray Welch, Mike Crowley, Pete Rose, Mary Wertman and Nancy Fradey.

The cast is being directed by Pat Thomas.

Armchair travels

Spain

By Jean Sura

When my husband fell while skiing down the mountain I couldn't help but put in a plug for the National Ski Patrol training we both had completed, nor could I recommend more highly the comfort and convenience of skiing with our doctor friend, Jim.

Our knowledge of first aid procedures kept us calm. Jim's professional advice indicated the need for stitches so the next step was to get to a hospital.

The trip down the mountain was executed with the help of a large snow cat ride back up to the gondola station and then a gondola ride down the mountain, not so glamorous as our original plan.

At the hotel we discovered, with hand waving and a mixture of Spanish and English, that the quickest way to Granada and the hospital was by tourist bus, which was leaving shortly.

The hour bus ride was not comfortable for Gene, but bearable. The bus was filled with German vacationers, who spoke little English so there was no need for conversation.

They dropped us off at a hotel in the middle of Granada, a city of about the same population as Flint, armed with our Spanish-English dictionary and a box of Kleenex. A kindly doorman recognized our plight and flagged a taxi for us.

We drove through the crowded streets (siesta had just ended) to a first aid station. A young man attended to the scrape on the top of Gene's nose and then communicated that he didn't have the equipment to take the necessary stitches.

When they discovered that no taxis were available they put us in an ambulance and drove us to a large hospital.

The emergency room personnel at the hospital finally conveyed the idea to us that it would be necessary to call a specialist and the work would have to be done in surgery.

About this time they called for a nun to come to our assistance, not to help us through the heavenly portals but to translate for us. Sister Antoine spoke fluent English which she had learned in the Philippines. Needless to say this really was a help.

Gene had crashed around 1 p.m., by 6 p.m. we finally had things straightened around and he was taken into the operating room where two young surgeons patched him up. I was allowed in the room until they began their work and then sat right outside the door until they were nearly finished when they waved me back into the room.

The next step was to get the prescriptions, take them to the apothecary to be filled, then return to the emergency room and have the tetanus shot that was required.

Sister Antoine, our English speaking friend, helped us through the entire procedure, going with me to get the prescriptions and making sure that I got a fair exchange on my American money.

Even though the facilities were not as up-to-date as the hospitals with which I am familiar, I was doing some financial juggling in my mind trying to figure how I would pay for all these services. I had a limited amount of Spanish money.

They had very little interest in my Blue Cross or American Express Card. Finally, they decided to take my American money, approximately $20 for the surgery, $3 for anesthesia and $8 for medication. I breathed a sigh of relief.

Sister Antoine was disturbed that the price was so high. I think that she felt there should have been no charge at all. Just as we were about to get in the taxi that she had arranged for us the two surgeons came to shake our hands and bid us good health and goodbye, (we think that is what they said).

Fortunately for us, dinner is served after nine o'clock so we made the trip by cab back in time to join our party in the dining room.

Needless to say, Gene was on a very soft, or liquid diet for the next few days, and by the way - our insurance didn't question the surgical costs when we presented our Spanish receipts.

Next week: The Alhambra castle in Granada.

Symbol of State

Although Governor Stevens T. Mason unfurled the first Michigan flag in Detroit in 1837, the blue banner familiar to Michigan citizens today dates back to 1865.

The present Michigan colors were raised for the first time at ceremonies in Soldiers' National Cemetery, Gettysburg, Pa., on July 4, 1865. Michigan's state flag, officially adopted in 1911, is a modification of the 1865 design which had a Unites States coat of arms on the reverse side.

Focal point of the Michigan flag is the state coat of arms which was designed by General Lewis Cass, governor of Michigan territory from 1813 to 1831. The national motto, "E Pluribus Unum" ("from many, one"), appears at the top, symbolizing the formation of one nation from many states.

The American eagle indicating the United States' superior jurisdiction stands above a shield emblazoned with the Latin word "Tuebor" for "I will defend," referring to Michigan's strategic, geographic position on the frontiers of the new nation. Michigan's great animals, the elk and moose, support the shield, below which is inscribed "Si Quaeris Peninsulam Amoenam, Circumspice... If you seek a pleasant peninsula, look about you."

The shield's interior design shows the sun rising over a lake and a man standing on a peninsula. His right hand is raised signifying peace, his left hand holds a rifle, meaning that he also stands ready to defend the state and the nation.

Michigan's flag is symbolic of her great heritage.

Food Fads

False food fantasies cost Americans millions of dollars every year, and the amount spent on "specially prepared" products grows steadily. Some of the food faddists' information is based on a poor grasp of basic nutrition, but much more represents a greedy exploitation of the gullible.

Such "food quacks" trade on our common weakness: we don't want to get sick, to grow old, or to die. And many of us reject what we don't understand.

For example, you may have been told that disease is caused by improper diet. Actually, very few diseases are caused by poor diets, especially in the U.S. Our problem is usually the result of too much food, rather than too little.

Or those who peddle "organic foods" argue that modern farming and the use of chemical fertilizers takes all the nutritional value out of the foods grown on our farms. In truth, the nutritional value of crops isn't affected a bit by such procedures.

Or certain foods are touted as having "wonder" powers. Even when these foodstuffs are nutritious, they fall far short of the extravagant claims made for them. For example, yogurt is an expensive variation of milk, and is no more nourishing. Black-strap molasses is a vastly over-rated source of vitamin B. And, some people should actually avoid whole grains, bran and wheat germ, which they may find hard to digest.

When listening to such claims, use your common sense—and a great deal of cautious skepticism.

Junior Highs meet in track

Friday evening, May 21st at 6:30, Sashabaw Junior High will vie with Clarkston Junior High in a dual track meet at the Clarkston High School track. Coach Dwayne Lewis' Clarkston Wolverines will be sporting a 6-1 record. Their only loss came from a powerful Crary Junior High team.

The Cougars, however, are looking for their 2nd win of the season. Their losses have been due to weaknesses in picking up 2nds and 3rds and Coach Neal Sage hopes to reverse that trend in this meet.

There will be a 50 cent admission charge for all persons attending the track meet. On Tuesday, May 25, the Cougars baseball team will meet the Clarkston team on Sashabaw's new diamond starting at 4:00. This game is rated a toss-up even though the Cougars won the first game by a 12-6 margin.

Hoof in mouth disease

by Jean Sura

I'm beat. My feet burn and my back aches. My brain is tired of thinking about all the things that should be done around the house and at work.

Last night I woke up in the middle of the night and layed there listening to the moths chew on the clothes in our closet.

In addition, my golf game smells!

"I can't go on like this," I told my husband. "I'm cancelling all our social plans until I recuperate."

"You can't do that. It's Michigan Week. This is the land of hospitality. What will people say if we don't entertain or at least accept their invitations?"

"I'm sorry, you'll just have to go without me. I can't take one more step."

"Golly gee wiz," he said, (yes he did), "are you sick? What would you have done if you had lived on the Michigan frontier? Those ladies really had it tough."

"I don't see how you get tired just watching that automatic washer and dryer go around. Your biggest decision is deciding which kind of soap has the least phosphate. How would you like it if you had to render some fat, mix it with potash, rainwater and a little lye, stir it, then pour it into molds just to have soap?"

"Turn off that light," I said, "my head is splitting and I'm cold."

"See how lucky you are? Just a flip of the switch and a turn of the dial and you have light and heat."

"How would you like to have to make your own candles and how would you like to keep warm by a woodfire in the fireplace? That's what those pioneer women had to do."

"Cut it out, will you and throw me that sweater. I've got a chill."

"Throw me a sweater," he parroted. "Those pioneer women not only had to make their clothes but they had to raise the wool, then spin the thread and weave the cloth."

There was a moment of silence.

"Do you feel better? Come on let's do something to celebrate Michigan Week. Let's have company for dinner. Let's be

Briefly told

Mrs. Gary (Onalee) Stonerock called to comment on the letter to the editor last week that suggested trustee Keith Humbert be made to pay for the dump truck he wrecked.

Mrs. Stonerock felt the News should adopt a policy of only printing letters that are carrying the person's signature.

Referring to another part of the letter, the supervisor's wife said her family not only keeps their place clean, but cleans up the whole neighborhood and finds a place for it.

And to another part of the letter, Mrs.

hospitable."

That's when he got sick. He got hoof in mouth disease. Did it fit? You bet. He'd already had a ski in there - sideways!

Stonerock says the entire letter was of the 3rd grade standards.

An abortion information clinic sponsored by People Taking Action Against Abortion Reform will be held at St. John Lutheran School, 1011 W. University, Rochester, Michigan, on May, 1971, at 8 p.m.
