Jim's Jottings

By Jim Sherman

Son Jim, 16, returned from his 5-week singing tour of Europe, Canada, etc. on August 1. He said he had a "blast," which eases the sacrifice of money and lack of whatever help he might have been.

I find that 16-year-olds, mine anyway, are either in full motion or prone. Full motion when playing. Prone when something needs to be done around the house.

During his 37 day absence I found I had very little concern for his welfare.

After he was home an hour or so some friends took him a mile down the road to swim. I immediately started worrying. I tried to reason this out, but the worry was still there.

On occasion newspapers take a swipe at television, thus giving themselves a boost. Here's a guy, with everyday experience in both, Roger Mudd, who had this to say at Washington and Lee University this summer:

"It is now my belief, after about 17 years in newspaper and television business, that broadcasting in sound or vision will not prove to have contributed to the advancement of ideas or education of man as much as the printed word.

"Television is a powerful means of communication, but also a crude one which tends to strike at the emotions rather than at the intellect. For television journalists, this means a dangerous and increasing concentration on action which is usually violent and bloody rather than thought; on happenings rather than issues, on shock rather than explanation, on personalizing rather than ideas . . .

"The tube has become a trip, a national opiate, a babysitter who changes nothing, something to iron by, and to shave to, and to doze over."

Seldom do I get the feeling that my son has anything in common with me. He does things so differently than I did at that age. His trip to Europe gave rise that there is some hope for him.

He may soon find printers ink in his veins, a love for dancing, a want for shorter hair, a more conservative attitude in spending and a few other things that are close to my beliefs.

What did he do to buoy my faith in him? The two things that seem to have attracted him most in his overseas venture are 1. The topless (and bottomless) beaches in Denmark, and 2. Drinking beer in Berlin.

OPERATION FACE-LIFT. Pine Knob Ski Resort is a busy place as huge earth moving equipment begins the work of reshaping the slopes. The area is now under the new management of the Indusco Corporation, owned by Joseph Locricchio and Gary Francell. They are represented by brokers, William Bonanni and Don Paffenroth. It is reported that the Corporation will spend between $300,000 and $400,000 broadening the ski facilities and renovating the lodge. The work is under way and is scheduled to be completed before the ski season opens.

Labor Day plans take shape

Sunday, September 5 will be the day the Clarkston Area Jaycees' Cookie Monster comes to town. The Cookie Monster (Alias Larry Appleton) will take on all comers in a pie eating contest.

A $25 prize will be awarded to the person who can consume the most pies. The contest will be held at the Clarkston Area Jaycee Carnival on Washington Street.

Those wishing to enter the contest may pick up an entry form at Hallman's Apothecary prior to the Labor Day weekend.

BUILDING REPORT

Building values in Independence Township continued to rise during the month of July according to the regular report issued by the Building Department.

During the month of July, 81 permits were issued with a combined value of $729,625. In July of 1970, 33 permits were issued valued at $379,670.

The month's totals were lower than those of May when 59 permits were issued and values peaked at $901,365.

The permits were issued as follows:
23 new houses$601,750
46 additions & remodeling.....$82,975
7 garages$10,800
3 swimming pools.....$12,200
1 non taxable structure.....$21,200
1 barn.....$700

Water tourney

On Sunday, August 15 at 8 a.m., in the Clarkston Village parking lot, the Independence Fire Fighters will meet fire departments from the Oakland County Area, in an Elimination Tournament for the Labor Day Water Ball and Bucket Brigade.

The Water Ball and Bucket Brigade Finals will be held on Labor Day, September 6, at the Annual Clarkston Area Jaycee Carnival following the parade.

In addition, this year 3 departments will have their Women's Auxiliary there to compete for honors.

Bottles for Building leaflets err

Old "Bottles for Building" leaflets were passed from door to door to village residents this week. They erroneously stated that glass collections will become weekly.

Mrs. Carolyn Place, chairman of Bottles for Building, reports glass collection will continue on the third Saturday of each month through December.

The next collection will be held on August 21. Glass trash should be at the curb by 9 a.m. for pickup.

Drop-off centers are open daily at the Township Hall Parking Lot and the Independence Firehall at Orion and Sashabaw roads. The drop-off centers are primarily open for residents who cannot store the glass for a month.

175 tons of glass have been collected in the 8 months of collection.

Mrs. Carolyn Place and representatives of other townships engaged in recycling are scheduled to make a presentation before the Oakland County Commissioners Thursday, Aug. 12. They hope to propose that the county establish a receiving center for glass and other recyclable materials.

The center would be an incentive for residents to save glass and cut the amount of garbage being dumped in area landfills.

SPEEDSTERS AT the Bailey Lake Playground practice getting off to a fast start for the Playground Olympics where their skills and speed will be matched with champions from other Independence Township playgrounds. The games are scheduled for Thursday night.

Louise Carvey

Louise F. Carvey, 77, of 276 White Lake Road died on August 9. Mrs. Carvey had lived in the Clarkston area for over 30 years.

The widow of the late Edgar W. Carvey was a member of the Clarkston Pioneers, W.C.T.U. and the Better Homes and Garden Club of Pontiac.

A daughter, Mrs. Eloise F. Beach of Clarkston survives.

Also surviving are 4 grandchildren, 2 great-grandchildren, 3 brothers and 4 sisters.

Funeral services were conducted from the Lewis E. Wint Funeral Home on August 12. Burial was in Ottawa Park Cemetery.

Clarkston educator named consultant

Dr. William Emerson, Oakland Schools Superintendent and Terry Thomas, director of pupil personnel, have been selected as consultants on a U.S. Office of Education project to produce a new handbook for pupil accounting for local and state school systems. The U.S. Office of Education has contracted with the accounting firm of Ernst and Ernst for the handbook. Emerson and Thomas are working with a special team from Ernst and Ernst and a taskforce of selected educational administrators.

Standardizing terms, including such basic ones as "teacher" and student, will be a part of the assignment. The goal of the U.S. Office of Education is to equip schools districts across the country with a standard language that can be entered into computer systems for comparisons and for more realistic management of funds, time and effort.

The handbook is to be ready for publication by December, 1972.

Terry Thomas is a resident of Clarkston. He was a counselor in Clarkston High School until 1966 when he accepted his present position with Oakland Schools.

Form Lutheran Church

Rev. Charles T. Kosberg

The Michigan District of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod is planning to build a new church in the north-Pontiac area. The Rev. Charles T. Kosberg has been assigned to the area in order to establish a new congregation. Property is being purchased on Baldwin Road across from the Keatington development. Opening services are scheduled to begin in late October or early November.

Pastor Kosberg received his B.A. from Concordia College in St. Paul, Minnesota. He taught school for one year before entering the seminary. He received his Bachelor of Divinity degree from Concordia Seminary in Springfield, Illinois. Mr. Kosberg lives with his wife, Beth, and 5 year old son, Robert, at 4819 Clarkston Road.

Guy Carter

Senior citizen makes hole-in-one

A Clarkston golfer celebrated his 50th year playing golf last week by shooting his age "70" and scoring a hole-in-one.

Guy Carter, of North Holcomb Street, completed the first leg of the celebration on July 12 at the Clarkston Golf and Country Club when he posted a 34-36-70.

On August 12 he holed out a nine iron shot to the 140 yard 9th green at the same course for his first hole-in-one. The shot gave him a 2 under par 33 for the round.

Carter, who is retired from the bail-bond business and spends winters in Florida, is a native of North Carolina but has lived in Clarkston for almost 30 years. He plays golf regularly and works in his yard to maintain a physical fitness that belies his years.

MSU term opens Sept. 23

Michigan State University will open its doors to some 41,500 students when classes begin Thursday, Sept. 23, on the East Lansing campus.

The state's largest institution of higher learning, MSU begins its fall term's activities with Welcome Week and the official opening of the residence halls on Saturday, Sept. 18. New student orientation sessions will begin on Sept. 15, and include all-university and individual living unit activities.

Registration of students will begin Monday, Sept. 20, and last through Wednesday, Sept. 22.

Accept bid for Jr. Hi. repairs

The Clarkston Board of Education reviewed the school insurance program at their regular meeting on Aug. 9. Agent Richard Huttenlocher, explained the scope of their present coverage and made recommendations for their consideration.

William Potvin, Assistant Principal at Clarkston Jr. High School and a member of the committee that administered a Drug Questionnaire to 9th and 12th grade students, presented the findings of the questionnaires.

"We feel," said Potvin, "that the questionnaires have provided the administration and faculty with a tool to assist us in providing answers to the problems facing us today. In many ways we were pleased and encouraged with our findings. We feel they will serve as a guideline in establishing more effective teaching techniques."

A complete summary and evaluation of the study will be presented in the Clarkston News in the near future.

Bids for the replacement of ceilings and the building of stairwell enclosures at the Clarkston Jr. High School were considered. The lowest bid, which was presented by the Millbrand Acoustical Ceiling Co. of Warren was accepted.

The Board approved the expenditure, not to exceed $25,000, to complete the work on that building. This will include new lighting.

In further action the Board agreed to study the procedures followed in the schools in handling medical records of students. The question was raised by Mrs. Iva Caverly.

Easement rights were granted to the Oakland County Department of Public Works for sewer work at the south end of the high school property.

The Board instructed Superintendent Greene to assure Township Supervisor, Gary Stonerock of their intention to cooperate with the Township and County on improving the drainage condition at Pine Knob Road and Stevens, near the Sashabaw Junior High School. The work is scheduled to be done after the sewers are completed.

David Leak and Walter Cattin were appointed to act as representatives at the September Michigan Association of School Boards conference which will be held in Detroit.

Group organize to clean Mill Pond

The aim of the newly formed Clarkston Mill Pond Improvement Association, according to Ronald Becker, vice president and publicity chairman, is to clean up the Clarkston Mill Pond and to maintain clean water and water standards.

The new organization was formed after attending an Independence Township meeting on July 7. At that time they requested assistance in solving the pollution and silting problems which have made the mill pond unsafe for recreation.

Pro-tem officers elected by the organizing group are Jules Ruerat, 7134 Buttercup, president; Ronald Becker, 7122 Buttercup, vice president; Howard Whaley, secretary; Charles Gavette, treasurer; Hershel Fry of Glenburnie, topography; and E.J. Mann, charter and by-laws.

The association has measured the silt in the north pond area and found that the pollution level is more than 3 times the amount required for safety.

According to Becker, the Hawke Tool and Engineering, which owns the water rights to the pond have agreed to drain the pond for as long as necessary to permit the necessary dredging.

The Fish and Game Division of the Michigan Water Resources Commission has said it will restock the ponds with fish after the waters are cleaned up.

Becker reported that members of the group have measured the silt accumulation and arrived at a computerized estimate of 8,333 cubic yards of silt in the upper pond from Miller Road to Buttercup.

It is estimated that after a drying period, this yardage will shrink approximately 25%, leaving some 6,000 yards to be removed.

The group are presently exploring methods of financing the project.

A group of residents living on the lower pond protested to the Clarkston Village Council last week contending that the cleanup might break the underwater ground seal and cause contamination in surrounding wells.

Becker contends that their fears are unfounded but said that the Association would not attempt to touch the lower pond if these feelings persist.

A general membership meeting of the new organization is slated for early October to ratify a constitution and continue with their program.

Lower welfare costs

Welfare recipients who are able-bodied shall accept work as a condition of eligibility for benefit payments. This proviso has been in New York State law for more than a quarter-century.

What happened when someone decided to enforce this provision?

Well, one commissioner of welfare investigated the rolls in his county and found 50 men who were able-bodied and who, in his opinion, were able to work. He then directed them to report at the highway department.

Fifteen of the 50 remained on the rolls because of legal reasons, which are being processed, and two others can't work because they're ill. BUT . . .

Eight promptly asked to be taken off the relief rolls and two moved away.

Five refused to report for work; so, their benefits were cancelled.

Then nine more decided they wouldn't work either - thus, no more benefit checks.

Nine did report for work. They immediately began their highway clean-up jobs, being credited at $1.85 an hour to pay for the relief they receive. Two of these men proved to be exceptionally good workers and accepted permanent jobs in the highway department, becoming self-supporting citizens.

Suppose every welfare commissioner followed this example! It would make a big dent in the welfare mess and also help clean up our communities.

Editorial from Comstock, Nebraska, News: "As I understand it, we were an underdeveloped country 180 years ago, with a population of 3 million. While we were underdeveloped, some of the now underdeveloped countries were then developed. Now that they are underdeveloped, we are becoming underdeveloped helping those underdeveloped countries become developed again. When we finally become underdeveloped and the underdeveloped nations are developed, I wonder if they will come to our aid?"

Hypocrisy is allowed

By Jim Fitzgerald

In historic Yankee Stadium, where Babe Ruth smacked all those home runs, there is an unusually graphic display of hypocrisy. It boggled my small town mind and I didn't know whether to laugh or cry. So I simply stifled my emotions with another beer. There was no sense making an ass of myself in front of all those blasé New Yorkers who obviously weren't even aware of the 3 signs that had prompted me to grab my son and say: "God God, look at that!"

The first sign, and the biggest, extols the virtues of OTB - Off Track Betting. In New York, you don't have to go to the racetrack or patronize the corner bookie to get a bet down. You can march right up to one of the caged windows at Grand Central Station, among other public places, and pin your money on the horse's nose.

The second sign, almost as big, urges you to buy a ticket on the New York State Lottery. You can win $1,000 a week for 6 zillion weeks, or something like that. The tickets are sold at every cigar counter and in every church vestibule.

The third sign is small and rather weather-beaten. It advises the baseball fans: "No Gambling Allowed."

This is similar to putting up a "No Eating" sign in a restaurant. The New York government is bombarding citizens with neon pleas to "please place your bets with us, your state needs the money." But if you bet the guy next to you $1 that the Yankees don't score in the 5th inning, you can go to jail, you dirty gambler.

The important thing to remember is that nothing is wrong unless your government says it is wrong. But keep your eye on the atlas. Be sure you know where every freeway exit is spitting you out. It is illegal to bet with a bookie in Michigan. You can't even play bingo there without risking arrest. But in Las Vegas you can shoot crap in the wedding chapel. In New York, Governor Rockefeller will bet you 10-to-1 that Mayor Lindsay won't collect your garbage before it can be smelled in Florida.

The day after the Yankee game we went to NBC to watch the taping of the game show, "Concentration," and we did the usual mugging when the camera swung our way. We were back home a month before that show appeared on the tube. It was the same day Apollo 15 took off for the moon. My son Eddie was terribly concerned that "Concentration" might be pre-empted by coverage of the space launch. Thus he would be gypped out of seeing himself on TV.

His values were obviously out of whack. A moon shot is certainly more important than a silly game show, even if it does star Red Ed and His Waving Hands.

After all, it's been months since anyone brought back a bag of rocks from the moon and the supply must be running low. But anyway, moon trips are becoming ho-hum things, restricted to the regular news shows. "Concentration" appeared as scheduled and, if you looked closely for 1 second, there was the Fitz family, waving at the world and wondering how long it would be before Ed Sullivan phoned. So there was no immediate need to talk to Eddie about the warp in his values.

Besides, it would have been a hypocritical thing to do. I didn't want Apollo 15 knocking us off TV either. I'm against moon trips anyway, even if they pre-empt Doris Day. The fare is way too high for a lot of people who can't afford to go downtown.

No father wants to be a hypocrite to his son, so I was glad to escape the sham. If I did want to be a phony, I'd aspire to much higher things than pious lies about moon trips. I'd want to work for the New York government, painting signs. I just thought of 3 pipes:

- 1. "This is A Library." 2. "The Books Are Free." 3. "No Reading Allowed in This State."

Highway commission unveil future plans

Corridor location studies will begin next year for extension of M-275 Freeway through the Flint-Saginaw Corridor, the State Highway Commission announced today.

The studies will be the first step leading toward construction of a freeway to carry traffic through one of the most heavily traveled corridors in Michigan.

The main existing highway, I-75 Freeway, already is inadequate for the traffic it serves, especially on weekends. The Commission plans to expand the four-lane freeway to six-lanes in the mid-1970's from the US-23 intersection south of Flint north to Bay City. It also proposes to replace the four-lane drawbridge at Zilwaukee, the cause of major traffic tie-ups, with a six-lane, high-level bridge.

M-275 is an extension of I-275, which will run north from near Monroe to I-96 at Novi, furnishing a western by-pass of Detroit. The Commission has approved a corridor for the first leg of M-275, which will take it from Novi north to I-75 near Clarkston in Oakland County.

Corridor location studies starting next year will cover the Detroit Metropolitan area north to Saginaw and Midland and to I-75 in Gladwin County. Earlier analysis indicated the proposed freeway would best serve the area by running east of Flint and west of Saginaw. However, the desired route will not be determined before completion of corridor studies, including consultation with local authorities, and the holding of public hearings.

Construction is planned for some time after 1977.

WHAT GOES UP must come down. Kids at the Bailey Lake Playground take advantage of the last week of summer activities provided by the Independence Township Recreation Department.

Playground news

By Mark Cowen

Making Uniforms and pompons this week added to the excitement already present on the playgrounds. The projects are being completed in preparation for Thursday night's Playground Olympics.

During the week, the 9-12 year old cheerleaders were diligently practicing their maneuvers while each school's track team was trying to improve its times and distances.

During Thursday's event which will start at 7 p.m., the supervisors will also demonstrate their skills in a grinding mile bicycle relay, which will conclude the Olympics.

There will be long jumping, dashes, relays, and softball throwing for the finalists from each playground. All children, 5-12, will be able to participate in the half-time Frisbee throw, and the Give-Away Raffle.

Friday, August 13, will be the last day of this summer's eight-week program. Then, each school will have a cleaning bee and a picnic to bring the whirl of past activities to a pause.

Traveling Teachers

by Joelle Kunse

Dorothy Myers, retired teacher from Sashabaw Elementary and her daughter, Miss Myers, a fifth grade teacher at Sashabaw witnessed the launch of Apollo 15 at Cape Kennedy. They were among more than 1 million persons who lined the beach and causeway around Cape Kennedy. Mrs. Myers said that just before the launch the mass of people was hushed and then the roar of the rockets began to shake the windows in the stores of the area. Both report the launch was a fantastic experience.

The Far East was the destination of Leigh and Lois Bonner of Hickory. Flying by way of Anchorage, Alaska, their first stop was Tokyo, Japan. From Tokyo, they toured by bus to Hokone, then sailed to Kyoto where they stayed in a quaint Japanese inn. Other stops on their journey included Taiwan and Hong Kong where the Bonners went on a shopping spree. Heading East again they stopped in the Philippine Islands to visit Rosie Remedios, the foreign exchange student who stayed with them and attended Clarkston High School. They also visited with Cynthia Corpus another Philippine foreign exchange student who attended Clarkston High School.

Their favorite city in their 12 day stay in the Philippines was Boguio, the summer capital of the country. Located at the north end of the island at 5000 ft. elevation, the Bonners found it cool and ideal for golf. Heading home by way of Wake Island and Hawaii they met the Lippincotts of Clarkston. The Lippincotts were vacationing in the islands and traveled back to the mainland with the Bonners. Both families spent a couple of days seeing San Francisco before returning home. Mr. Bonner reported after a wonderful trip, he still felt good about being back in the United States.

A surprise will be arriving shortly at the Leslie Purslows of S. Main St. The surprise is a result of their recent trip to Europe. They flew to Germany where they purchased a new Mercedes (Surprise) and motored through Belgium to Great Britain. Les and Ruth visited with Les' brother, Albert Purslow of Birmingham, England. Les was born in Great Britain. They traveled extensively through England visiting Oxford, Cambridge, Warwick and London. From York, England, they drove on to Scotland visiting the moors and the lake districts.

Saturday was the first family night of the Sunny Beach Assn. at Walters Lake. Everyone was invited to participate. Games were played by both youngsters and adults. Door prizes were given. A life saving demonstration was given by the Red Cross. The evening ended with a bonfire and marshmallow roast.

Waterford Hill Florist Little League Baseball team's picnic was held Sunday. The players received their trophies, team pictures and copies of batting statistics. Dr. and Mrs. Swanson, team backers were present for the affair. The team topped off the perfect afternoon with a win over their parents. Good going, guys!

Goodbye, Sharon! Sharon Cooper was honored by her friends last week with a farewell luncheon. Fourteen gals met at the home of Marietta Jones on Robinson Ct. for appetizers before lunching at the Old Mill. Marietta and Judy Brumback were co-hostesses. The Coopers are moving back to their hometown, Greenville, Mich.

Cliff and Linda Irwin of Laurelton made their anniversary a festive occasion with a visit to Meadow Brook. The Tom Irwins and the Charles Webers accompanied them to see Pete Fountain. Before the performance, they all enjoyed a picnic supper which included meat pastas which I hear are delicious.

The Frederick J. Harmers of Cedargrove St. celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday. An open house is planned for the couple on Aug. 28 at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Robert Grim of Aquarina. The couple has 2 other daughters, Mrs. Russel De Roseau of Holcomb St. and Mrs. Roberto Pedroso of the Republic of Panama.

Janet Koepke was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous bridal shower held by her future sister-in-law, Helen Jensenius. Friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Robert Jensenius on Dvorak St. Miss Koepke will become the bride of Glenn Jensenius on September 24.

Spiritual Message

The Rev. Alexander T. Stewart

"These things I have spoken unto you that ye might have peace. In the world ye shall have tribulation; but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world."

St. John 16:33

The great gift of God to man is peace through Jesus Christ. "My peace I give unto you," says Jesus, but "not as the world giveth, give I unto you!" The world is crying for peace and wonders that God seems heedless of its cries. But the world's peace and God's are not necessarily the same. The world seeks cessation of war, untroubled existence, contentment but God's peace doesn't, necessarily, include any of these.

The peace He offers as His peace is that of being with Him even in the midst of conflict. In fact, sometimes the conflict, against the world's ills, is God-inspired. And, when there are grievous wrongs to be righted, God denies the world peace.

However, paradoxical as it might seem, frequently God grants His peace to those who know the world's peace least, to those who war against oppression and crime, to those who resist the powers of evil in the world. Christ tells His disciples that they are sure to have tribulation in the world, not because it is good but because it is inevitable.

However, they, also, at the same time, may know peace, His peace, the "peace that passes all understanding." And it only can be achieved as God in Christ is accepted, followed and trusted.

"These things I have spoken unto you that ye might have peace. In the world ye shall have tribulation; but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world."

Candle light ceremony unites local couple

The Rev. W. J. Richards performed the candlelight ceremony that united Carol Lee Quertermous and Mark S. Richard in matrimony on July 31.

The couple, who are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Quertermous of Clintonville Road and Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Richard of Cramlane Drive, exchanged marriage vows at the United Methodist Church of Clarkston.

The bride's floor-length gown was fashioned of white crepe and featured an empire waist. Her veil was long and she carried yellow sweetheart roses and white carnations.

Mrs. Leigh Guerin of Union Lake was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a long gown of yellow crepe. Another sister, Vickie Quertermous, and Sharlie Rose were the bridesmaids. Their gowns repeated the yellow crepe of the matron of honor but were trimmed in white.

Hugh Rose was the best man and the ushers were Roger Erickson and Charles Horsch.

After the wedding reception which was held at the Waterford CAI Building the couple left for a honeymoon trip through Canada.

They will make their home in Pontiac.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael D. Hughson

Mahar-Hughson exchange wedding vows

Tamera A. Mahar was escorted to the altar of the Christ Lutheran Church in Waterford, by her father, to become the bride of Michael D. Hughson on August 7.

Pastor Wayne E. Peterson performed the afternoon ceremony before 200 guests. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. James Mahar, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hughson are the parents of the groom.

Tammy chose a floor length gown of white organza with a lace overlay on the bodice and a shoulder length veil. Her bouquet of miniature carnations, stephanotis and baby's breath was centered with a detachable orchid corsage.

The maid-of-honor and bridesmaids were identically gowned in long, powder blue gowns and wore picture hats. They carried white daisies and blue bachelor buttons. Debbie Limbaugh was the honor maid and bridesmaids were Anne Chad, Kathy Wheeler, the bride's roommate at Central Michigan University, and cousin Jan Tinsman.

Patty Higginbotham, another cousin of the bride, was the flower girl and the groom's brother, John Hughson, carried the rings.

Steve Crabtree performed the duties of best man, and brothers of the bride and groom, William and Don Hughson and Rick Mahar, seated the guests.

An uninvited guest, a mother mallard duck who is nesting on eight eggs at the back door of the Mahar home on Miller Road, competed for attention at the poolside reception.

After a wedding trip through upper Michigan the newlyweds will make their home in Waterford.

Kutting Korners

A reader, Mrs. Louise Gulley, contributed this suggestion - I'm not a stuffed pepper fan so will take her word that they are good and pass it on to you.

Summertime, Peppers on the vine, These savory pepper stuffings, take very little time.

For the busy housewife or mother who enjoys that extra hour at the beach, this is the perfect dinner for that hungry man around the house. In less than an hour each dish will be ready for the table. Listed below are 3 recipes. One should be a people pleaser at your house this week.

Prepare six peppers for stuffing by cutting around the stem and removing the seeds. Blanch the peppers in a mixture of 6 tbs. of soda and 5 cups boiling water. Boil in this mixture for 4 minutes and peppers will retain their green appearance. The tomato stuffing is also a friend of the dieter in your family.

TOMATO STUFFING
1 med. onion (diced)
2 lbs. butter

1 cup tomatoes (canned)
2 cups crumbs
1 cup celery
1 cup corn
Combine ingredients. Fill peppers and dot with butter.

MEAT STUFFING
1 onion, chopped
1 lb. hamburger
½ can tomato sauce
½ tsp. salt & pepper
½ cup bread crumbs
1 tsp. parsley
Combine ingredients. Fill peppers and dot with butter.

SAVORY STUFFING
¼ cup celery
1 med. onion
2 tbs. butter
4 cups bread crumbs
1 tsp. salt
½ tsp. black pepper
½ tsp. marjoram
1 tbs. parsley
½ cup milk
Saute celery and onions in butter. Add the crumbs, seasoning and milk. Fill

Jaycees form convention club

The Clarkston Area Jaycees have again started their Convention Club. The purpose of the club is to encourage more Jaycees to attend the U.S. Jaycee Convention in 1972 in Atlanta, Ga.

There will be several fund raising projects during the year to help defray the cost of the convention.

peppers and dot with butter. Bake all recipes approximately 45 minutes.

I feel prompted to remind you that boiling vegetables in soda does keep the color bright and attractive but feel it only fair to warn that this method removes the mineral content and reduces the food value.

I'm told that a pressure cooker is the answer. I don't have one so I would rely on steaming and then take pimiento strips or some other decoration to enhance the appearance.

Newly elected officers of the club are: Chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. R. Elkins; Vice-Chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. A. Ripley; Treasurer, Mr. and Mrs. D. Hamaker; and Secretary, Mr. and Mrs. R. Rule.

Oriented

The final group of freshmen students enrolled at Western Michigan University for the fall semester has completed their summer orientation program.

In nineteen groups of approximately 140 each, the new students spent three days meeting with counselors, registering for courses and learning their way around the WMU campus. They will return on the weekend of Aug. 28 before the start of classes at 8 a.m. on Monday, Aug. 30.

Students from the Independence Township area who have completed freshman orientation are: Gary Frost, Margaret M. Steele, and Sherry Hinton.

Highway Fund collections increase this quarter

Second quarter Motor Vehicle Highway Fund collections are being distributed to Michigan counties, cities and villages, the State Highway Commission reports.

State Highway Director Henrik E. Stafseth said net receipts of the fund during April, May and June of 1971 amounted to $91,275,495, an increase of $4,129,009, or 4.7%, compared to the same 3 months of 1970.

Oakland County received $2,284,116, an increase of $210,644 over 1970.

Clarkston Village received an increase of $264 when their share was paid in the amount of $2732.

All state gasoline and diesel fuel taxes and license plate fees go to the Motor Vehicle Highway Fund. The money is distributed after deduction of collection costs, 1.5% of gasoline taxes to the State Waterways Commission and other fixed costs.

The Department of State Highways receives 46% of net proceeds, the 83 counties receive 34% and the 529 cities and villages, 20%.

Under this formula, the Highway Department will receive $41,986,728 as its share of second quarter collections. The counties will receive $31,033,668 and the incorporated cities and villages $18,255,099.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell E. Trim of Crosby Lake Road announce the engagement of their daughter, Rania Elaine, to Dale Z. Doner. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Doner of Drayton Plains. The wedding is being planned for September 4.

Meadow Brook ends '71 season

The celebrated Royal Winnipeg Ballet will perform at the Baldwin Pavilion 4 evenings this week — the eighth and final week of the 1971 Meadow Brook Music Festival.

The Royal Winnipeg, with famed prima ballerina Christine Hennessy will perform 7 ballets from the company's repertory of classical and modern works on Wednesday, Thursday, Saturday, and Sunday: August 11, 12, 14, and 15.

The Canadian troupe, founded in 1938, has so grown in stature over recent years that it now ranks as one of the few companies in the New World to hold its own with the great ones of Europe.

Emphasizing wit and entertainment, the Royal Winnipeg has been called the most dynamic and creative new ballet company in the dance world.

On Wednesday, August 11, the program will consist of "Aimez-Vous Bach?", one of the troupe's most popular dances, with music by J.S. Bach; "The Ecstasy of Rita Joe," a new ballet on Indian themes with a filmed appearance by Chief Dan George, and "The Last Rose of Summer."

On Thursday, August 12: "Aimez-Vous Bach?"; "The Shining People of Leonard Cohen," a modern, sensuous pas de deux set to electronic music and the recorded words of poet Leonard Cohen; "The Still Point," a ballet inspired by the poetry of T.S. Eliot and the music of Debussy; and "Pas d'Action," a ballet originated by Christine Hennessy and described as a story ballet to end all story ballets, with music by von Suppe.

The program for Saturday, Aug. 14, will be "Aimez-Vous Bach?", "The Ecstasy of Rita Joe" and "Pas d'Action." Sunday's program consists of "Rondo", "The Still Point", "Pas d'Action" and "Last Rose of Summer." All performances are at 8:30 p.m., except Sunday evening's performance, which begins at 6:30.

In addition to the ballet, the week at Meadow Brook will feature a Friday evening concert, August 13, with popular singer John Gary.

"As I recall, you once said you wanted to start a jogging program."

CHAMPIONS OF the Independence Township Recreation Major League are the team sponsored by American Legion Post No. 63 and coached by Ken Wolven and Art Abbott. Briefly told Local athletes made a name for themselves recently. Curt Carlson, a 1971 graduate of Clarkston High School and a speedster on the track team, dashed to fame in Grand Rapids on July 17 in the Jaycee sponsored State Track Meet. The first place in the 440 dash qualified him to compete at Bowling Green, Ohio last week in the National contest. The flashy prep star who will run for Hillsdale College in the fall came away with a 5th place.

Cindy Booker, another Clarkston athlete, qualified for the championship flight at the Women's Western Jr. Golf Tournament which was held at Pinehurst, North Carolina last week. Miss Booker fired a sizzling 78 but was beaten by the dazzling California champion who shot a 76.

If you have a work of art you'd like to show off at the Art Institute, now is the time to make your move.

Regardless of age (or talent), you are invited to bring your work to the Underground Museum under the Great Hall, so that it may be shown Tuesday, August 10 through Friday, August 20.

The entrance to the Underground is marked by a cluster of Japanese fish kites just off the Kresge cafe.

ACCESSORIES FOR THE WEDDING RECEPTION. Cake boxes, place cards, coasters, cake bags, place mats, ashtrays, stirrers. All available with name and date imprinted. Come in now and place your order at the Clarkston News, 5 South Main, Clarkston.

Clothing fires(1)

All fabrics can burn, but they vary greatly in their flammability, according to the fiber, weight, weave and surface. This is something to consider when you buy clothing, particularly for children and the elderly who are less able to take care of themselves in a fire.

The most common source of clothing fire among adults is the carelessly smoked cigarette, followed by the cook stove, rubbish fire and heating unit. Children, of course, set their clothes on fire while playing with matches, or when they get too close to an unguarded flame.

Of the basic fibers, cotton and rayon burn most readily, but they can be treated with flame-retarding chemicals; many such clothes are now on the market.

Wool burns slowly and the fire usually goes out when the flame source is removed. Glass fibers, too, are fire-resistant. However, both wool and glass fibers may be combined with other materials that reduce their flame resistance.

Synthetic fibers, such as nylon or polyester, may melt as they burn, and the sticky substance that is formed produce a deep, localized burn.

Tightly woven, heavy fabrics burn more slowly than sheer, loosely woven materials. A napped fabric, or one with a high, fluffy pile, will ignite much more readily than the fabric with a smooth surface, shorter pile and greater density.

Next week: what to do when clothing catches on fire.

busy month

The Clarkston Jaycettes held their July membership meeting on July 28 at the Church of the Resurrection.

The members reported on assisting their Jaycee husbands in the July 4 festivities and the Jr. Golf Tournament Luncheon.

They also served refreshments to the workers at the Village Cleanup.

The Pick-A-Pocket Clowns who entertained the children during the July 4th Parade were identified as club members.

Saturday, August 7 the women added funds to their treasury by washing cars at the Village Parking Lot.

"We appreciate the support shown by the community," said Mrs. Pat Martin, vice president.

Disease prompts horse census in Oakland County

A complete census of all horses, ponies, mules and donkeys will be made in Oakland County reports Bill Muller, Director of the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service. "This equine census is part of a nation-wide census made necessary by the outbreak of Venezuelan Equine Encephalomyelitis (VEE)," said Muller, "and it is being conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service throughout the United States during the week of August 9th. Oakland County has a large number of horses according to Muller who estimates that the census will reveal between 15,000 to 20,000 horses are kept within the county. This virus disease has brought about a federal quarantine in the southern and southwestern states since mid-July when over 2,100 cases of infected horses in southern Texas were reported. Over 1,000 horse deaths have been reported and over 8,000 deaths in Mexico where VEE entered Texas.

"It is important that Michigan know where all of its equines are and how many there are since once a horse is infected there is nothing that can be done about the disease," points out Muller.

"Control measures must be taken by preventing the disease through vaccinating healthy horses and controlling mosquitoes that are the primary carriers of the virus. Difficulty has arisen because the supply of vaccine is limited and is available only in the quarantined states. No cases of VEE have turned up in Michigan," said Muller, "but in the event it does the Michigan Animal Health people must be ready to protect the horses in Oakland County immediately."

"Vaccinating against Eastern or Western equine encephalomyelitis will not protect the horse against VEE," he said.

The census will be coordinated and conducted by 4-H club members and leaders throughout the county with the exception of the townships of Addison, Oxford, and Troy. Residents in these townships who own horses and other equines are asked to contact their township clerk's office to complete the census. Addison Township residents may call Oxford 628-3317, Troy 689-4900, and the township of Oxford 628-3965.

"In the event a horse owner is not visited by Wednesday evening, Aug. 11, they are asked to contact the Cooperative Extension Service office in Pontiac, phone 334-3507 by noon on Friday, Aug. 13. It is important that every animal be accounted for because the death rate once a horse becomes infected is 80-90% within seven days after the first symptoms appear."

DAN FIFE, Clarkston High School prep star, 1971's most valuable athlete at U of M and minor league pitcher.

Dan Fife pitches No-hitter in Minors

Dan Fife fired a no-hitter to lead his teammates, the Rocky Mount Leafs, a minor league team in the Detroit Tiger Farm System, to a 2-1 victory on August 1.

Dan gave up a single run in the 1st inning as he could not get the control that he needed. The first 2 batters drew walks and the 3rd grounded out for the first out of the inning, putting the lead hitter on 3rd base from where he scored on a passed ball.

"I didn't realize what was happening until the batboy came up to me in the 6th inning and said, 'only one more inning to go,' and then I realized that I had a no-hitter going," said Fife.

"I got off to a shaky start in the first inning because I was rushing myself too much and I couldn't control the ball. Coach Okrie talked to me after that inning and made me think about what I was doing. That helped to settle me down," said Dan.

He was elated over the win but admitted that he could easily have lost the game despite the no-hit performance.

Fife pitched 5 innings of perfect ball. He struck out 5 during the game.

"That was a great performance," commented Rocky Mount Manager, Len Okrie. "That just about sums it up; I'm very happy for the kid."

Dan, who has signed a contract with the Detroit Tigers to play in their farm system, spent 3 days in Florida and 10 days in Batavia, New York before being assigned to the team in the Carolina League. He pitches every 4 or 5 days. His pitching record stands at 2-2. He will report to Clearwater, Florida at the close of the present season.

Teammates of Dan's in the Carolina League are Andy Kanoza, who attended Central Michigan University and Mark Giegler whose home was in Milford.

Slugging it out

By Haslett Hamner

Anyone that runs out of gas on an expressway has got to be a real ding-a-ling. It was a dumb enough trick back when cars had gas gauges, but now, with the red idiot light warning when you're low, there's just plain no excuse. It happened to me yesterday on the interstate during the five o'clock rush. The old blue goose sputtered and quit. Good thing I happened to be in the inside lane and luckier still there was a wide shoulder. "How come you're pulling off, here?" old Effie snaps at me. "Planning a nice little picnic lunch? — What's that little red light?" Effie doesn't drive except by remote control commands. Good thing she doesn't, too, or I'd never hear the last of it.

"Either the fuel pump or a slug in the gas line," I tell her, "too many things to go wrong on these here modern complicated engines."

"So what's that got to do with the red light?"

"We're off the road now and we've coasted to a full stop."

"Oh, that light just means the oil pressure is low. It happens whenever you slow down," I explain.

"Been on for ten minutes. Don't you know you can burn out your engine running dry? Thought you'd pick up a little sense from working all those years in a garage. Even if you are only a parts man."

"Oil's up," I grump at her. "You take care of the cooking and I'll mind the car."

"Humph, sure doing a great job of it," she yells over the noise of three lanes of packed traffic thundering past at seventy plus.

"I'll just have to walk down to the nearest station and git me a can of slug solvent mixed up in a gallon of gas."

"Don't be silly. Think this is the first time I ever drove?"

"You always act like it."

"Can you do better?"

"Who couldn't?"

"Have a real nice time," I shout back as I start to take off. "Be sure to bark out your great little old instructions to all the truck drivers that pass. Tell 'em what they're doing wrong. Give it to 'em, Effie. They're all mixed up."

Her lips move and I know she's "humphed" at me again.

It's maybe two miles and 101 degrees to the gas station. Looked right close from up the highway but down the ramp and up the sideroad is a half mile more.

Sweat's running off me like I sprung a leak by the time I walk up to the station door. Guy's sitting on the step there. Just watching me march up. Takes forever with him staring at me. Don't even bother to stand when I do finally stop in front of him.

"Hot ain't it?" he says. "A scorcher," I agree. "Funny day for a walk."

"Didn't plan on going for a stroll. Car run out of gas two, three miles back on the super. Gauge don't work. Need a gallon in a can."

"Got your own can?"

"Gee, it should be right here someplace," I say, sarcastic, as I pat my pants pockets.

"Got no can, we can't give you no gas."

"I'll make a deposit."

"Boss says no more deposits. Guys just keep the cans. Sell you an old two gallon can for two bucks, though and if you want to sell it back to me I'll give you a half for it."

"Robber," I say, "stupid robber."

"Not stupid enough to run out on the freeway. Want it or not? Gas is extra."

Must of been an hour later that I finally get back to the car. For the last mile I been sorry I got two gallons instead of one and I'm watching my blinking warning lights and worrying would the battery be run down.

Pour it in and after a few chugs and coughs, my old blue goose roars to a start.

"Great stuff, that gas slug solvent," I remark, "Sure dissolves those slugs."

"Humph," grunts Effie, "even dissolved the little red light."

SYNOPSIS- INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP BOARD MEETING August 3, 1971

Present: Bullen, Humbert, Johnson, Stonerock.
Absent: Altman.

A $1,000,000 grant for the sewer program has been received. A federal grant is also expected per Supervisor Stonerock.

A preliminary Sewer Ordinance was approved to allow the bonds to be sold. Actual costs will not be known until after the project has been bid.

Several citizens from the Woodhull Lake Area asked about the renewal program. A study will be made and possibly a federal grant will be applied for. It would be a three or four year program.

A representative of the Office of Economic Opportunity presented a program for the area and was granted desk space in the old Library Building for 6 months. It would administer the Neighborhood Youth Corp, the Head Start Program, General Education Development Program, a Title One program, a Senior Citizens drop-in center, etc.

A decision to create a drainage district under Chapter 20 for the Paramus Street area was made. Open hearings are to be scheduled.

The Mobile Home Park Proposal on Mann Road (Case No. 131) was denied. A zoning ordinance change was made. One lot split was approved. One was denied and one was tabled. A flood plan was presented. A landscaping plan for the Township Hall was presented also. The Fox Den Subdivision was approved with a provision for a possible central water system.

Weekly meetings, at the discretion of the Board, are to be held due to the work load.

Letters to the Editor

Praise youth

People today are so quick to complain and find fault with a lot of our younger people, and rightly so in many instances. It's enough to make anyone angry to see boys and girls throw their empty pop bottles and cans, candy wrappers, ice cream containers, paper napkins, etc. on the ground, when usually there is a container nearby.

The lot in back of our office is a "cut through" for many people. A lot of the youngsters sit out there under the shade of the tree talking, eating, drinking pop, or eating candy, etc. The grounds are always littered with their debris, even though 7 or 8 empty trash cans are nearby.

However, today something unusual happened. A young lad parked his motorcycle out in back and was enjoying a bottle of pop. We asked him if he would please not throw the empty bottle on the ground when he finished. He said he wouldn't. The next time we looked out he was picking up all the bottles, cans, wrappers, etc. He even went so far as to drag over a large empty carton. He went over the entire area picking up other people's litter. We just couldn't believe it!

This young man deserves a public vote of thanks.

It seems sad to think we have to praise and commend someone for doing what should come automatically, for everyone - That is - "not to be a litterbug." But, from the looks of the garbage and litter that is left by the roadside, it seems most unusual today to find someone who is willing to do not only his own share, but to clean up after everyone else. And without being told to!

Mike, we thank you. I wish there were more like you!

Appreciative businessman

Take a hint

Dear Editor:

I thought this list of hints written by Ann Landers most timely.

HELPFUL HINTS ON HOW TO BRING UP DELINQUENTS

1. Begin with infancy to give the child everything he wants. He will then grow up to believe the world owes him a living.
2. When he picks up bad words, laugh at him. He will think he is cute. It will encourage him to think up "cuter" words and phrases that will blow off the top of your head later.
3. Never give him any spiritual training. When he is 21 let him decide for himself what he wants to be. (Don't be surprised if he decides to be nothing.)
4. Avoid the word "wrong." It might develop a guilt complex. A few years later, when he is arrested for stealing a car, he will feel that society is against him and that he is being persecuted.
5. Pick up after him. This means wet towels, books, shoes and clothing. Do everything for him. He will then become experienced in evading responsibility and incapable of finishing any task.
6. Let him see everything, hear everything and read everything smutty he can get his hands on. Make sure the glasses and silverware are sterilized but let his mind feed on garbage.
7. If you have a serious conflict in opinion with your spouse, fight it out in front of the children. It's good for youngsters to view their parents as human beings who express themselves freely and openly. Later, if you get divorced, they'll know what caused it.
8. Give your children all the spending money they want. After all, one of the reasons you have worked so hard all your life is to make life easier for your children. Why should they have it as rough as you did?

9. Satisfy his every craving for food, drink, and comfort. See that his every desire is satisfied. Denial might lead to harmful frustration.

10. Take your child's part against neighbors, teachers, and friends. This will prepare you to take his part against the police.

11. When he gets into serious trouble, apologize for yourself by saying, "I can't understand why he turned out like this. We gave him EVERYTHING."

12. Prepare for a life of grief. You are apt to have it.

TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE
COUNTY OF OAKLAND, STATE OF MICHIGAN

ADOPTED: August 3, 1971

EFFECTIVE: September 10, 1971

TITLE: A TEXT CHANGE TO AMEND THE INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP ZONING ORDINANCE NO. 51 - RELATING TO DEFINITION OF LOT AND NON-CONFORMING LOTS

TO WIT:

Section 22: Definitions. (Lot) Amended to read as follows:

Lot - For the purposes of this Ordinance, a lot is a parcel of land at least sufficient size, exclusive of areas under water, to meet minimum zoning requirements for use, coverage, and area, and to provide such yards and other open spaces as are herein required. Such lot shall have frontage on a recorded street, so recorded with the Oakland County Register of Deeds. Such lots may consist of:

- (a) A single lot of record;
- (b) A portion of a lot of record if such complies with the State Subdivision Control Act.

(c) A combination of complete lots of record, of complete lots of record and portions of lots of record, or of portions of lots of record;

(d) A parcel of land described by metes and bounds; provided that in no case of division or combination shall any residual lot or parcel be created which does not meet the requirements of this Ordinance.

Section 4. Non-conforming Lots, Non-conforming Uses of Land, Non-conforming Structures, Non-conforming Uses of Structures and Premises, and Non-conforming Characteristics of Use. No. 2 Non-conforming lots of Record amended to read as follows:

2. Non-conforming Lots of Record

Any vacant lot or adjacent lots, having in aggregate a continuous frontage of less than two hundred (200) feet that does not meet the requirements of this Ordinance for lot width, depth and area of yards, courts, or other area of open space, or building width, may be utilized for a purpose permitted in the zoning district in which said lot is located, provided that requirements for such lot, yard or court in area, width, depth, open space or building width is within seventy-five percent (75%) of that required by the terms of this Ordinance, excepting that vacant lots under one ownership, having in the aggregate a continuous frontage of two hundred (200) feet or more shall not be subject to this exception. The purpose of this provision is to permit utilization of recorded lots which lack adequate width or depth as long as reasonable living standards can be provided.

I'll sleep tomorrow

by Jean Sura

Last week I had a dubious title bestowed on me. I was unanimously elected president of Grandmothers Unconscious. The distinction was given me on the recommendation of my sons. It all started when I volunteered to babysit for one whole day.

"Say, Mom, that is mighty nice of you to offer to keep the kids," said our oldest. "There is one problem though, we have to leave town by six o'clock in the morning. Don't you think it would be better if we put them to bed at your house? Then we wouldn't have to get the poor little tykes up so early."

"Fine, fine," I answered, half listening. So Mr. Two and Mr. One arrived, all shiny and clean on the eve of my day. The mound of diapers that came with them made me wonder if they were staying for a month. In no time at all Mr. One was tucked into the crib and Mr. Two followed shortly. No problems.

I grinned at my husband. We really did have wonder grandchildren. I spent a long quiet evening anticipating the next day. You might say, "The dawn came up like thunder," at 6 a.m.

"Hi, Gwanny," said Mr. Two. "GeeGee tuck."

I stirred in my sleep and opened one eye a crack.

"Hi, Gwanny," he said hiking himself up on my bed. "Gee Gee tuck."

Just then a wail from the other bedroom brought me to full consciousness and I jumped out of bed with heart pounding, barking my shin in the act.

Our hand-me-down crib has a rung missing. Mr. One had wiggled three-quarters of his anatomy into the small opening. He was really stuck. His face was drenched with a combination of fluids from all three orifices of his face. He has a good set of lungs and he was using them.

As I hauled him out of the hole I noticed that he had sprung a leak at the bottom as well as the top. And so — my day began.

"Me hungie, want bewekus," clamored Two as I put little One through the wringer.

"Okay, okay," I said, "coming right up."

I winced through the next hour, spooning gruel, sponging up spilled milk and wiping jam out of blond hair. The toys from the toy box were sprayed and jaded in 15 minutes. Any preconceived ideas I had that disapproved of children watching TV were soon dissipated.

"Thank heaven for Sesame Street," I thought. "At least I know that is good for them." I got them all situated, poured myself a cup of coffee and collapsed into a chair.

I closed my eyes for one second. "Gee Gee gone, Gwanny," piped Two.

I bolted off the couch panic stricken. A frantic search ended when I found him in the upstairs bedroom. He was having a ball. He had taken the extension phone off the hook and was happily sitting on the floor saying Hi to the dial tone.

By noon I had made such an inroad in the pile-of diapers that I decided I'd better wash if we were going to make it through the day. Mr. Two found the special spigot on the soap a genuine convenience and deserted both toys and TV in favor of pouring granules into the pans he pulled out of the cupboard.

The day went on. And on and on. No naps coincided. When One slept, Two was up, and vice-versa. Around noon, Two threw in the sponge and fell into a sound sleep. One, who was fresh and sweet from his recent nap, decided to comb his sleeping brother's hair. A barricade merely slowed him down in gaining his objective.

At 3 o'clock my friend, Ruth, arrived. I took one look at her and started to cry.

"What's the matter? Has something happened? Are you sick?"

"No," I sobbed, "but when your car drove in the driveway I thought the parents of these kids had returned. Just look at this house. It looks like lightning struck here. How much longer do you think they will be?"

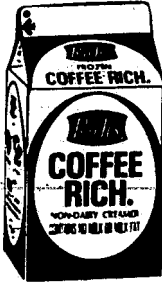

By 6 o'clock the troops were fed, bathed and ready for the night. "Hi kids. Hi Jean," said friend husband. "Did you have a good day? What's for dinner?"

"Hi, Mom. Hi kids. Did you both have a good time at Granny's house? We sure appreciate the favor, Mom. We had a great day. Did you have fun?"

Moral of the story — small children, for more than a two hour period, are for young people.

I'll sleep tomorrow! After my nervous breakdown!
