

Jim's Jottings

By Jim Sherman

We scheduled Thursday, Nov. 18 as the day to move our newspaper press.

The people putting in sewer lines in Oxford scheduled Thursday, Nov. 18 as the day to tear up the alley behind our plant. We had to use this alley to move.

You know what? We took it as if it were expected. Nothing is ever easy, nor do we ever expect it to be. It's probably a good thing that we developed this frame of mind, because things got worse.

That's not important here; we'll take it up with the press installers from Chicago.

You all must know by now that the Oxford Leader, Ad-Vertiser and Clarkston News are moving into a new printing plant at 666 S. Lapeer in Oxford. The News office will remain in Clarkston... the printing will be done in Oxford as it has been since 1966.

In fact, the Leader and Ad-Vertiser will be doing business from that office next Monday. The office at 38 S. Washington will be closed.

Last week's newspapers were the end of a milestone, of sorts. They were the last to be printed from that downtown Oxford location. The Leader has been printed downtown since its founding in 1898... from the same address since about 1905.

In that building printing went from handset type to Linotype to Magnetic Tape Composer. The newspaper presses were changed from steam power to electric... from single sheet feed to roll... from type to aluminum plate.

And the ownership changed once, in 1955.

While our new building is on the highway (M-24) it will have to be entered off the side street (Oakdell). There are zoning restrictions on driveways that forced us to have the present drive, though it isn't convenient.

We do have a fair amount of pride in the new building, especially in the offices. Hazel and I had very little to do with their design. The contractor, Jerry Olrich of Oxford Lumber Co., tried to describe what he wanted to do, we got confused, and told him to go ahead.

The result is a suspended ceiling, barnwood wainscoting, burlap wallpaper and double swinging front doors. Hazel picked out the candy-stripe carpeting.

Hopefully, after a shakedown (probably after the first of the year) we can schedule an open house. And, likely the sewer contractors will schedule construction around us the same day.

Independence moves on police protection

Police millage approved by voters of Independence Township a year ago is about to be put to use.

The Township Board Tuesday approved a two-headed approach, agreeing to the idea of a one-year contract for police services with the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, and at the same time moving to hire a public safety director.

To be employed with Federal funds under the Emergency Employment Act, the director would serve as the liaison with the county patrol and also with the Township Fire Department.

The vote passed despite Treasurer Kenneth Johnson's opposition and with Clerk Howard Altman's abstaining. Board members agreed, however, to have attorneys prepare a contract with the county, one that would give the township some control of policing activities.

Altman, recently appointed county elections director, said Tuesday's meeting was his last. However, he did not submit his resignation to the township clerk. He said he would start work with the county on Monday and will take himself off the township pay roll at that time. He said his resignation would be handed in this week.

In a three-and-a-half hour meeting the board also:

— Heard Dixie Highway at M-15 merchants object to present "too fast" speed limits on the Dixie and to a proposed no-parking plan to be enforced 50 feet either side of Dixie center line. Representatives asked for a light at Dixie and Maybee Roads intersection.

— Promoted planning commission pay from $15 to $20 per meeting and set fee schedules for site plan review on rezoning request.

A sliding fee scale of $25 for any project of 1 acre or less up to $250 plus $2 per unit for apartments was approved.

— Learned from Supervisor Gary Stonerock that Township sewer construction, stage 1, will be put out for bids December 1 and that construction should be under way shortly after the first of the year.

— Heard a report from Tom Collins, of the Oakland County Office of Economic Opportunity, in which he said the old library near the township hall is now serving as a full time poverty office.

A town meeting at 7:30, December 2 will attempt to identify community concerns.

Collins said the program target area is the Woodhull Lake area.

— Determined it would make some decision about the township park location by February 1.

Roundup at D D

A round-up of sickened and dying horses Tuesday at the Double D Ranch, Inc., 4980 Clintonville Rd., resulted in the arrest of Robert North, operator of the riding stable, on a charge of cruelty to animals.

Michigan State Police said 9 animals had been taken away by mid-afternoon and photographer Ken Winship said he saw at least 1 horse die in his presence about noon. The animals were thin and some were covered with sores, he said.

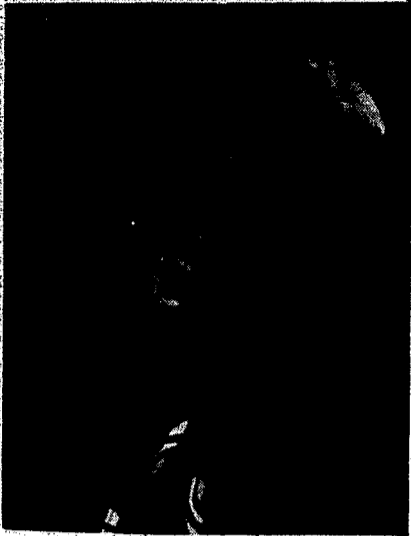

North was arraigned Tuesday before District Judge Gerald McNally where he pleaded not guilty to the misdemeanor. Personal bond of $10,000 was set and a hearing was scheduled for 9 a.m., January 7.

"Praise the Lord," sing, from left to right, David Roosa, Dayna Swanson, Cathy Goldner and Mike Boberg. The praises are being sung at the community inter-faith Thanksgiving Services on Thanksgiving Eve at St. Daniel's Roman Catholic Church. Those participating are Salvation Army, Church of the Resurrection Episcopal, Calvary Lutheran, United Methodist, Sashabaw United Presbyterian and St. Daniel's Catholic.

Jean Saile named Clarkston News editor

Jean Saile

By Jim Sherman, Publisher

Jean Saile, a Clarkston resident of 5 years, is the new editor of the Clarkston News.

She replaces Jean Sura, who has been the News editor nearly 3 years. During her reign at the editor's desk circulation of Independence Township's only weekly newspaper rose over 400 — 1600 to 2025.

Editing this paper brings an increasing demand on the editor's time. Families take time, too, and priorities are established. Mrs. Sura and I want extra time for ourselves, and Mrs. Saile is willing to take over for us, editorially.

For the past 5 years Jean Saile's name has been bylined in hundreds of articles in the Pontiac Press. She has been an area news reporter, covered county government and been a general assignment feature writer.

Prior to going to the Press she edited a Rochester weekly newspaper.

Mrs. Saile (her husband's name is James and he's a commercial artist) started in newspapering in 1947 with the Saginaw News. She left there to write a news radio show in Houston, Tex., and returned to Saginaw to report and write news for radio station WSAM.

Many will remember Mrs. Saile's articles on flying when she obtained a private pilot's license in 1968 while writing for the Press. The articles were on her experiences on learning to fly.

Jean's investigative reporting included stories on the Drain Commissioner and Pontiac's black Harambee development group. She was also a political writer for the Press and occasional columnist. She will shortly begin a column for us.

Jean said, "I've covered stories ranging from a justice department raid on an illegal still in Springfield Township to local and state government to Pontiac's busing turmoil to an occasional 'non-fashion' story. If I have a specialty, it would be 'people' stories.

"I like small towns and small town reporting," Jean Saile told me. "I'm looking forward to the associations I'll make through the Clarkston News."

The Sailes have 6 children. Patricia is a freshman at MSU, Michael is a CHS junior, Douglas is in the ninth grade, Janet is a seventh grader, both at Clarkston Junior High, and Peter and Elizabeth are in Clarkston Elementary.

They live in a 100-year-old house at 6290 S. Main and have been in the process of restoring it since 1966... "and probably will still be in the process in 1976," she said.

NAG will elect

Clarkston Chapter National Action Group (NAG) will elect a new chairman at 7:30 p.m. Monday, November 29 at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 5660 Maybee.

Mrs. Joan Phillips who has headed the group said she will continue to serve on the board, but that she is resigning as chairman, according to previously announced plans.

"The group has attracted 700 and 350 persons at its first and second meetings," Mrs. Phillips said. "Any resident of the Clarkston School District is eligible for the chairmanship," she advised.

Harmon Cropsy, executive secretary of the Friends of Michigan Schools, a state legislative lobbying group, will discuss pending legislation regarding schools.

Winners of the NAG fund raising program will be announced.

The Tradition of Freedom... Our Cherished Legacy

Freedom is a tradition in our great nation. From the earliest beginnings, the courage of our Pilgrim forefathers made it possible. The will and faith of our people have kept it alive. It will remain ours with vigilance and dedication. So—the past, the present and the future are inextricably woven together. Through freedom. Today we give thanks for this precious legacy. We remember and cherish our tradition. We pray that freedom will become the inalienable right of all nations.

Health food topic at meeting

The Drayton Plains Nature Center Organic Club will meet on Wednesday, Dec. 1 at 7:30 p.m. at the Nature Center on Denby Road. A program, "Eatin' What Comes Naturally," will be presented by Mrs. Marge Cook and Mrs. Jacqueline Coolidge, proprietor of the health store known as the Carrot Patch. The public is welcome.

John C. Shiff (right) accepts the oath of office as deputy township clerk from clerk Howard Altman, who has announced he will resign. Altman will become county election director, replacing Mrs. Mabel Child, who resigns December 31. A successor to Altman will be appointed by the Township Board.

Ala carte menu tried at C.H.S.

Clarkston High School's lunch program will have a new look next week. The new look, which will offer a regular Type A lunch, will also have a number of ala carte foods to tempt the palate of the students. "The success of any school lunch program," said Mrs. Francis Sommers, head of food services, depends upon participation of the students. The new menu will be in effect for the next 2 months on a trial basis. After that time we will be able to re-evaluate and see if it is effective."

The Type A lunch will be offered as usual. This is according to government regulations and qualifies the district for federal assistance in underwriting the program. It will consist of the basic ingredients for a balanced lunch, hot or cold sandwich, French fried potato, fruit or vegetable and milk. It will sell for 45 cents.

Ala carte items include: sandwich, 30 cents; French fries, 20 cents; pudding, 15 cents; cake or cupcake, 15 cents; pie, 20 cents; ice cream, 10 cents; and cookies, 5 cents.

"Similar programs have operated in other area schools," said Milford Mason, Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent. "We hope that this will prove successful and help us to provide attractive and nutritious food to our students."

"The situation will be reviewed after 2 months and the degree of participation will be a large factor in determining the direction the program will take."

BLESSINGS OF PRODUCTIVITY

The Pilgrim Fathers of the Massachusetts Bay Colony first celebrated Thanksgiving in November, 1621 to thank God for the bountiful harvest.

Undergoing the rigors of the hostile wilderness, this small band of men and women carved out a future by the sweat of their brows and a few crude tools. With the help and assistance of some friendly Indians, new foods and fruits found their way to the festive board.

The fruit of their successful labor was a tribute to their productivity and they, in turn, shared what they had produced with their Indian neighbors.

It is this same driving force which has motivated this country in the years since the first Thanksgiving. It has enabled us to become the most prosperous and the most generous nation in the world. Through increased productivity we can continue to prosper and to share our bountiful harvest with those less fortunate.

The dumb cat was dead

By Jim Fitzgerald

Cats are dumb, useless and aggravating. So my mourning was phony when Licky was killed.

Oh, I felt bad because the kids felt bad. It was sad when my daughter tearfully told how she'd just found Licky dead by the side of the road. I put my arm around her and assured her I shared her sorrow.

"That's alright, Dad," she said, "I know you didn't kill her."

She knew I was innocent because I had been out of town the weekend the dumb cat disappeared. Otherwise, I would have been a prime suspect and she would have called the cops on me. I had threatened to kill Licky dozens of times in the past 2 years and, just for kicks, I often kicked her.

Licky had been missing 2 weeks before the corpse was found. During those days of uncertainty I had tried to keep my celebrating to a minimum out of respect for the feelings of my family. They kept assuring each other the cat would return; it always did. They kept wandering around the neighborhood making strange noises: "Here kitty-kitty-Licky-Licky-kitty-kitty-Licky-Licky . . ."

Just in case the dumb cat was still alive, I wanted to have the house painted to make it harder for her to find. The kids didn't think that was funny. And they were outraged the day they overheard me joyfully singing "I down and I to go." I was referring to Licky's sister, Chubs. We have always been a 2-cat family but now I was half way to happiness.

Anyway, once my daughter had discovered dead Licky, my son sped to investigate the corpse. I think he tried artificial resuscitation, despite rigor mortis. When he was finally convinced the dumb cat was dead, he didn't bawl like his sister. But he disappeared into his room and didn't come out for a long time.

I am not an insensitive father. Now that I was certain the dumb cat was gone for good, I put on a splendid show. I thought sad thoughts, about how I'd lost $30 shooting pool the day before, to make my eyes teary. I volunteered to arrange a decent burial. I suggested we all wear black armbands and, in memoriam, drink our milk from saucers for 2 weeks.

So Saturday evening we all returned home from a football game and I was the first to see what was sitting on the porch. "There's a ghost on the porch," I groaned. It was Licky. The dumb cat wasn't dead after all. My wife and kids were uproariously happy. I disappeared into my barroom and didn't come out for a long time.

This resurrection proves my point: If you've seen 1 cat, you've seen them all. My kids have slept with Licky for 2 years but they still looked at a strange cat and said yes, boo hoo, that's Licky.

"Don't you feel dumb, mourning for a cat you never knew?" I asked my daughter.

"It was someone's pet, so it didn't hurt to cry for it," she said.

Yeah. But what am I, the world's greatest cat hater, doing arranging the last rites for a cat I never even kicked before?

There was 1 last hope. "Considering your past mistakes, how can you be certain that this cat is actually Licky?" I asked my daughter.

"I know because, look, she is licking the wax out of my ear," she said.

Just in case you wondered how the dumb cat got its name, I

Letters to the Editor

Township hiring not Altmans idea

Dear Editor,

I am writing this letter in defense of Howard Altman. Mrs. Marie Brendle seems to be under the mistaken idea that the ad regarding the Emergency Employment Grant for the Township of Independence was his idea and was placed by him without authority of the board or their knowledge.

I would like to clarify this. On Nov. 6, '71, there was a Board of Health meeting which I was instructed to attend. During this meeting (four board members attending) this ad for the hiring of employees subject was brought up several times, with quite a little discussion in regard to the wording of employing a building inspector. Howard was also reminded several times that this ad had to be placed in the paper by noon of that day.

I was at that meeting Marie, Gary Stonerock was not. I am sure that you will be just one of the few people in the township happy to see Howard Altman leave. Having been one of the best all-around officers that this township has ever had, he will be sorely missed.

Good luck, Howard Altman.

Youth requests park by spring

Dear Editor,

I just read Carol LePere's letter and I'd like to speak of a couple of things she wrote.

In her letter she suggested that a group of young people get together to talk to and work with the town rulers. Well, last summer the Village Council held a meeting to pass an ordinance designed at ending the tribal gatherings in the parking lot.

A large group of young people attended that meeting and discussed things with the council. At that time we were told that the ordinance would not be passed and that another meeting would be set up to discuss the building of a park. Then the council went ahead and passed the ordinance behind our backs and "filed" the park proposal.

The next thing we knew, our friends were being busted under the new ordinance. Talking to them got us a knife in the back. Of course last Devil's Night they got their knife back . . . that didn't solve the problem, but it did prove my point.

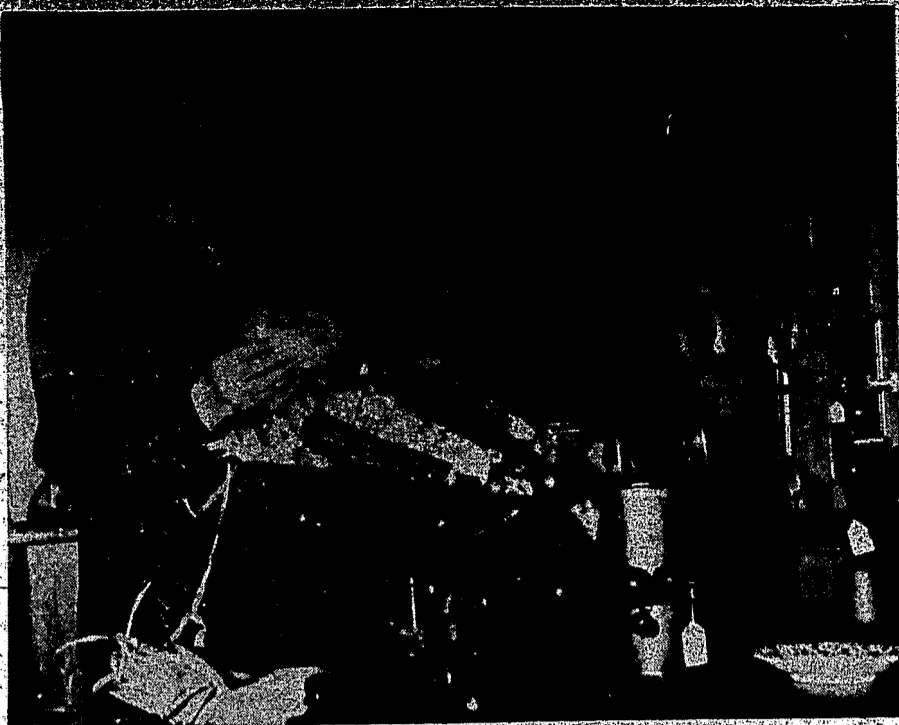

If they keep coming down on the young people instead of assuming their responsibilities as community leaders and meeting the young people's needs, then the young people are going to freak out on them.

The council should "unfile" that park proposal before next spring.

Al Ventimiglia

(Editor's Note: Clarkston Village President Richard Johnston reports about 10-15 young people were present the night the council first discussed its anti-loitering ordinance. When Councilman Jack Hagen asked for a delay, threatening to resign if it were not granted, the matter was deferred. Councilmen, among them then president Donald Cooper, next met with the township to see if some cooperative means of financing a young people's gathering place could be achieved. When indication was given that the township could not cooperate, the matter of the ordinance was once again brought before the council. Johnston said some young people were present the night when the ordinance was adopted. It was followed by Hagen's resignation. Johnston said the village operates on a $30,000 a year budget, not enough to consider undertaking a park project by itself.)

Mrs. Daisy Dowling, co-owner with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Schultz, in the new Main Street Antiques shop on Clarkston's Main Street arranges a seasonal display.

Main Street Antiques open for business

Need some old glassware, an old chair, some pewter, a cupboard?

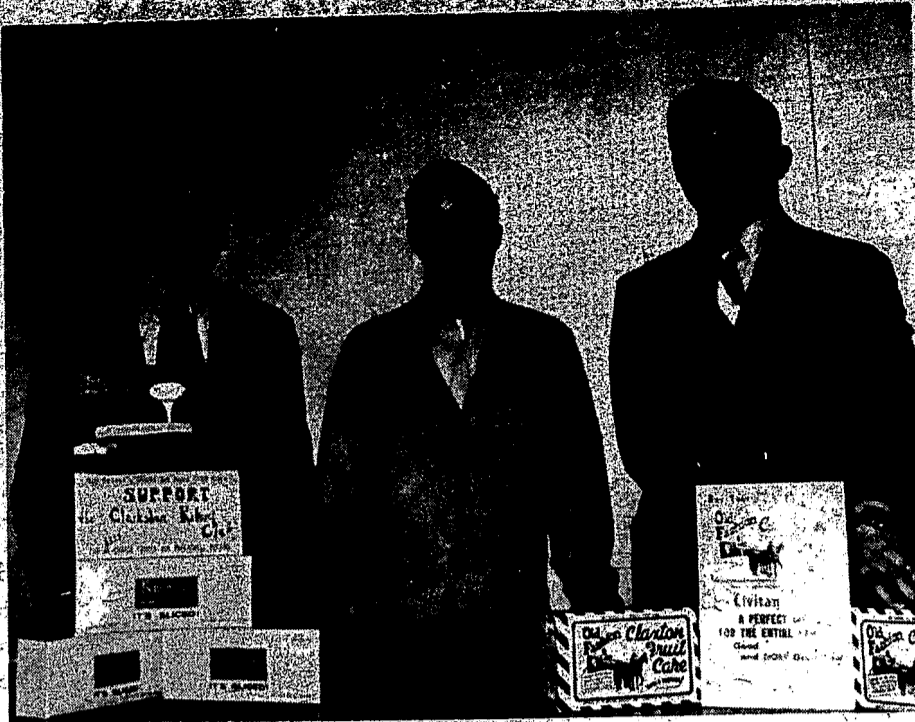

The new shop called Main Street Antiques might be the place to go. Daisy Dowling, Gini and James Schultz have just recently opened the doors of the antique shop next to the parking lot on Clarkston's Main Street.

Mrs. Dowling, a native of Vermont, cultivated a love for old things and has been collecting antiques for 38 years. She has been in the business for the past 8 in the Bloomfield Hills, Troy neighborhood. Daughter, Gini and her husband, Jim Schultz, though not as experienced, have been in business in Troy until recently when they bought the shop and combined their talents.

In addition to the general line of antiques, the co-owners plan to offer lessons in 18th century flower (dry and artificial) arranging and original needlepoint design. Classes should get under way around the first of the year. The shop will specialize in a special needlepoint corner.

The shop will be open from 11:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. from Tuesday through Saturday and from 2 'til 5 p.m. on Sundays. Special appointments can be arranged on Mondays.

The Schultzes and Mrs. Dowling make their homes in Clarkston. Mr. Schultz is the director of the Lower School at Detroit Country Day School.

Fruitcake should be a popular item for holiday eating in Independence Township. Three local organizations are selling them to raise funds for their organizations. Charlie Robinson, representing Rotary, Doug Kath, DeMolay and Bill Kunse, Civitan Club all display their product in friendly rivalry.

Through the Classroom Window

By David Westlund

Tulips, daffodils and iris bulbs planted this fall will beautify Pine Knob Elementary School next spring in the "first flowering" of a new outdoor education program.

Planting done under the direction of Mrs. May Lamberton, second grade teacher, with parents, Mrs. John Tezak and Mrs. Raymond Olson involved all the students.

A group of boys working under the direction of Herley Moore, sixth grade teacher, cut sod and spread topsoil to conform with a landscape plan developed by teachers and parents.

Various types of trees have also been planted, and plans for a nature trail are being formulated with assistance from the local Soil Conservation District.

The "outdoor laboratory" came about as a result of a meeting between teachers and parents last April. The PTA pledged financial support and several governmental agencies were contacted. Information and assistance has been assured from the Conservation Department, Department of Natural Resources of the University of Michigan.

We hope the labor of the present students will make it possible for future pupils to learn about trees, plants, bushes and small animal life at first hand. We also hope working on the project will teach children teamwork and cooperation which are the keys to the success of living.

Remember Thanksgiving in Church

The Rev. Alexander T. Stewart

"And so were the churches established in faith..."

Acts 16:5

Many people today think that they can be disciples or followers of Jesus without regard to the institution which represents His religion. However, it is the Churches which pass on the heritage of devout generations of His followers, which have kept the Faith alive and which have spread it to the ends of the world through missionary activity. Left to the individual on his own, the Gospel of Jesus Christ as he knows it possibly might die with him. The Church is its safeguard and its propagator.

Now, there is a good deal of criticism of the Church. Some of it, certainly, well founded. But no church may altogether suit any man or woman. If it does, perhaps there is something wrong with it—or with them.

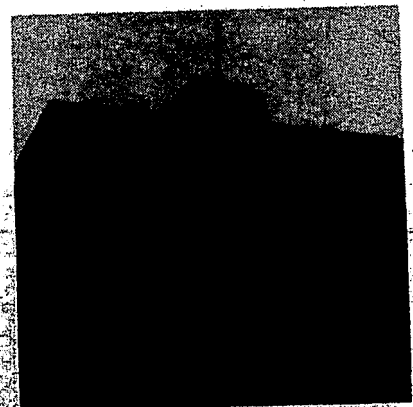

But, regardless of how anyone feels about the Church or any particular branch of it, they owe it allegiance, as they owe its Head, Jesus Christ, allegiance. We might, in fact, take an example from Him in this. Our Lord was not wholly satisfied with the synagogues at Nazareth, nor with the temple in Jerusalem; however, "as His custom was" He attended them regularly. How dull He must have found the preaching of the scribes, and how much of the service He must have felt outmoded! But He agreed wholeheartedly with the great end for which the Church existed and

He wasn't so self-centered as to insist that every item in its witness suit and please Him before he would give it His allegiance.

To Him the Church was the transmitter of the Spirit and a home of the faith in which he had been nurtured. To Him the Church was a necessity for the cultivation of His fullest life with God; and despite any differences He might have had with those who ruled the synagogue and temple He worshipped at their side. It offered Him the opportunity to contribute His own spiritual gifts and it found Him ready to share with it His experience of God.

As Jesus owed His religious inheritance to the synagogue and temple, so we owe our Christian inheritance, our inheritance of Jesus, to the Church. And it will keep it streaming into the spiritual life of society long after each of us as His individual followers are gone. We owe it our allegiance and, under God's direction, our influence.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Embrey, 6516 E. Church, wore a high necked empire gown of ivory satin trimmed with lace and featuring a detachable train. She carried red roses, baby's breath and ivy.

Mrs. Robert Buchanan of Ypsilanti, matron of honor, with bridesmaids, Mrs. Ernest Sharpe of Ann Arbor and Mrs. Richard Ulbrich of Waterford Township, wore brown velvet with ivory lace trim. Their bouquets were pink roses with baby's breath and ivy.

The groom, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. Carl Falk of Ypsilanti, was attended by Richard Bishop of Livonia as best man and Bruce Embrey, Jr., Jeffrey Heath, Robert Buchanan and Ronald Swantek as groomsmen.

A reception for 100 guests at the Davison Country Club, Davison, preceded the couple's trip to Nassau, Bahamas. They will reside in Ann Arbor.

Twp. P.A.U.F. hits 91.4pct.

The Pontiac Area United Fund Community Division drive in Independence Township announced Thursday, Nov. 18, it had raised $3,579.40 or 91.4% of its $3,916 goal.

Independence vice-chairman Mrs. Herbert (Sandy) Adams, 6458 Olympus Drive, Waterford, made the announcement at the final report meeting of the 1971 PAUF campaign (Thursday, Nov. 18).

The overall campaign, which has not officially ended, has raised $1,326,818.63 or 95.7% of its goal, 1971 General Campaign Chairman F. James McDonald told some 250 campaign volunteers attending the meeting.

McDonald told volunteers, "This is our final campaign meeting and my last chance to thank our volunteers and the community publicly, but the campaign is not officially closed and will not be until we're sure everyone wishing to contribute has had an opportunity to do so."

The Community Division, which solicits selected homes in Lake Angels and Pontiac and small businesses and selected homes in Waterford, Independence, Oxford and Orion Townships, was recognized at the meeting for raising the highest percentage of goal among the campaign's five major divisions. The Community Division under the leadership of co-chairmen Mrs. Kenneth Hempstead and Mrs. Larry Ettinger, Drayton Plains, raised $21,704.18 or 105.3% of its goal, a 14.8% increase over the total raised last year.

Deer hunter's luck

by Joette Kunse

Archie Bell of Orion road has done it again. On opening day last year he was able to bag his deer. After a few hours in the woods this year, he had an 8 point buck. Archie was hunting near Evert. Good luck next year. They say events happen in threes.

The James Nolans (nee Carene Denne) of Heath St. welcomed their second daughter, Sandra Ellen, on Nov. 13. Delighted with her new sister was Debra Irene, 1½ years old. Baby Sandra weighed 7 lbs., 14 oz. Proud grandparents were Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Denne of Clarkston and Mrs. Nolan of Ireland. Grandmother Nolan came from Ireland for the birth of her granddaughter and will visit until the first of the year.

Cricket Embrey has been the guest of honor at showers this past month. Julie Fisher and Linda Cuthbert of Ann Arbor helped the bride-to-be with household gifts at a miscellaneous shower. Carolyn McCoy and Shirley Green of Clarkston held a miscellaneous shower for Cricket in their home. A beautiful bride cake decorated the serving table. Sally Horsch, Pat Kirchner and Lois Ann Lohff combined talents for another miscellaneous bridal shower. Decorating the gift table was a bride doll made by Cricket's aunt. Cricket married James Terry Bishop Nov. 20. Cricket called home to tell her mother the weather was just beautiful in Nassau, quite a difference to our touch of snow.

The Doug Foytecks of Chickadee Lane welcomed their third son Nov. 2. Matthew Webb weighed in at 8 lbs., 5½ oz. Daddy will have lots of help with three boys around. Older brothers are Mark and Michael. Proud grandparents are the Edward Webbs of Sterling Heights and the Henry Foytecks of Chesaning.

The Clarkston Pioneers were joined for Thanksgiving dinner by the Ortonville Senior Citizens. Hostesses for the day were the OES from Oakwood. After a beautiful dinner, the group held an auction to raise money for the Salvation Army for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Richard P. Weld III arrived Nov. 13 to be greeted by his older sister, Betsy. Parents of the children are the Richard Welds (Laura Smith) of Allen Rd. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. James Smith of Allen Rd. and the Rev. and Mrs. Richard Weld of Oneida, N. Y.

Dr. and Mrs. John Stageman and Mrs. Basil Taylor of Clarkston and Mrs. Lila Olafsson of Andersonville attended the installation service and reception on Nov. 18 for the Rev. David Dee, who accepted the pastorate of the Riverside Baptist Church in Windsor, Ontario, Canada on Oct. 1. The Dees have purchased a home there.

Special speaker of the evening was Dr. David Allen of Calvary Baptist Church in Hazel Park, Mich.

Rev. Dee was the pastor of the First Baptist Church of Clarkston for 10½ years.

Co-op program needs more jobs

By Jean Sura

"Buddy, can you spare a job?" This is the cry of Mrs. Pat Schebor, Director of the Vocational Co-operative Education Program at the Clarkston High School.

The program places senior students in part-time jobs to gain work experience while they finish their academic classwork. It provides them with skills that make them well rounded for full-time employment when they graduate. They are employed in areas of office work, distributive education (sales), industry and trade, and medical and dental fields.

"We are delighted with the results of last year's program," said Mrs. Schebor, "but we are anxious to continue the development and expansion of the program. To do this successfully we must have jobs to offer our candidates."

Students are clamoring to be admitted to the program, according to the director, but the number of jobs available determines the number that can be accommodated.

Statistics of the follow-up study of last year's program are conclusive proof of its success. The study indicates that 66 students were involved. Of these, 35 are presently employed; 15 are continuing their education in full-time schools; 4 are in the armed service; 7 are either married or unemployed by choice; 4, status unknown; and just 1 unemployed.

The number of Clarkston area students are limited to a quota at the Northwest Oakland County Center which they share with other communities. The co-op program, in conjunction with the Vocational Education Department at the high school expands the capabilities of providing a qualified skilled work force of young people at graduation.

Dan Lucas, left, and Dan Bullard, Vocational Co-op students from Clarkston Senior High School discuss the operation of cleaning the engine of a car in for service at Haupt Pontiac. Both boys plan to attend school for further training to qualify them as mechanics when they complete their high school studies. On the co-op program, they work half a day and attend school the other half.

The program is government funded. Frequently, the on-the-job training opens up areas of interest to the student that spawns the desire to continue his education. Employers who have hired co-op students are enthusiastic about the results.

Keith Hallman, who employs several of them in his store is one who expressed his enthusiasm. "I am completely sold on the program. The young people that Mrs. Schebor has channeled to our store have been outstanding," he said.

This school year approximately 60 students have been placed in part-time positions in the area. All participants meet during their school hours to exchange experiences and counseling from a qualified instructor.

"The big question regarding the expansion and success of the program," said Mrs. Schebor, "is arousing the interest and cooperation of merchants and businessmen to provide the jobs. If anyone is interested in hearing more about the project I urge him to contact me at Clarkston High School, 625-5841.

"Buddy, have you got a job to spare? We have good kids waiting."

Flyers bombed

The Clarkston Flyers Hockey team was shot down again by the Southfield team on Nov. 21. The score was 2-0.

Jr Miss Pageant to be biggest yet

The Clarkston Area Jaycees' 10th annual Junior Miss Pageant will be held Nov. 27, 7:30 p.m. at the Clarkston Senior High School. Pageant chairman, Ron Rule reported that not only will this be the largest pageant presented in Clarkston, but also the largest Junior Miss Pageant presented in all of the North Oakland County District.

This year's 19 senior girls will perform the talent portion of the program in a variety of acts that should prove entertaining to the whole family. The girls' acts will consist of everything from singing, modern dance, dramatics, and comedy to instrumental solos.

"Some people may not understand the full significance for which the title of Clarkston's Junior Miss stands. This is not a beauty contest, but rather a selection of the young woman that Clarkston would be proud to say, 'this is our best,'" said Rule.

The young woman picked to represent the community must be of the highest moral character and scholastic standing. She must be attractive, poised in appearance and personality. She must be intelligent, creative and physically fit.

The winner of this year's title will be crowned by the 1970-71 Junior Miss, Debbie Hoopengartner, who last year received a scholarship check for seven hundred dollars. The scholarship was generated by the Jaycees in the form of sponsorships from local businessmen.

Area businessmen who have made contributions to this year's Junior Miss pageant are: Howe's Lanes, House of Maple, Al-Jack Commercial Cleaning, Richardson Dairy (Drive In No. 4), King's Insurance Agency, Community National

What is a Pharmacist?

(Part Two)

It was once said that pharmacists were frustrated doctors; that those who couldn't make medical school ended up as druggists. If that was ever the case, it's no longer true because the two professions now offer satisfying (though different) rewards.

True, both share an interest in the biological sciences. Both are involved in human illnesses, and must know how drugs act and interact on the body. And both undergo extensive university training.

Those considering pharmacy should have a good high school background in maths and science. They should be orderly and able to handle detail. They must be able to get along with people and manage a business, if they are going to enter the retail drugstore field.

In some cases, a college will accept high school students and provide prepharmacy education; others require their students to arrive with this already completed. In an accredited college, the course covers five years and some schools now require six. The pharmacy student learns about the preparation, quality, uses and effects of drugs; anatomy, biochemistry, physiology, mathematics and law.

* After graduation, the student must pass a series of examinations conducted by the state's Board of Pharmacy, in order to be a registered pharmacist.

This may sound like a lot of preparation—but pharmacy is a career worth every bit of it!

Letters to the editor

"Al not a junky"

Dear Editor,

In reply to Mr. Thomas Miller: Neyer once in Al's letter did he call for a society without rules. He was just putting emphasis on a condition we all understand, no matter what age - that of injustice.

Mr. Miller is totally right that it is easier to control people when they're on drugs. Look at all the drugs on the market.

Many times in the past four years, I've heard Al speak out against heroin and speed. These are the real KILLERS!

Mostly what bothers me is that Mr. Miller, like many, takes for granted that Al and anyone in "hippie" attire are illegal drug users. HA! Are you all so blind you can't guess the riddle?

Mr. Miller also makes an attempt to degrade Al and "his likes" with the immature act of name calling. That proves that many "respectable," established citizens of Clarkston do despise the youth. Maybe it's jealousy? Maybe because we're a threat of changing things around.

Mr. Miller goes as far as to make the assumption that Al or some of his friends are the ones vandalizing. For the most part, a person who vandalizes is either a junkie or an alcoholic. Al is far from being either one; and as for his friends, I'm one, nor am I either of the above.

The assumption that Al is not an individual is made. Then why did he write his letter? Al is such an individual that he will help others who cannot bring themselves to do things they believe in, because of the fear of being told that they're nothing but "punks." He would never degrade them for not standing up, but offer understanding. For Al believes all men have the right to stand as equals.

Team explains

Dear Editor:

We are strong believers that credit should be given where credit is due. With this in mind, let's take a look at Clarkston's head football coach, Paul E. Rakow.

In the three years he has been here at CHS, coach Rakow has done many things for us, the players. He had us training on a weight machine which he fought hard to get for our football program. Coach Rakow also originated for the first time in Clarkston's history a one week football training camp where he tried to instill in all of us the spirit of the game of football that he loves so much.

We would like to take full blame for this year's past football season, for it was none but us that could win the games. Even though coach Rakow tried his best to establish a spirit and pride in the game of football we, the players, wouldn't accept it. The current trend in Clarkston is that athletics is nothing but a social status symbol. Through all of his vain efforts to help Clarkston football, it has taught us that someone so dedicated in their job shouldn't be ridiculed by us, the students, or any members of the community that know only what they see on Friday nights.

You "bleacher quarterbacks" know nothing of the real problems that go on during the week before each game. There has never been, in Clarkston's history, a team and community that have given a coach so much guff in one season.

For our share of the guff, we, the players, apologize to you. We also thank you, coach Rakow, for trying to help us become better athletes even though it wasn't the stylish thing to do here at CHS.

Praises Altman

Dear Editor,

Howard Altman, Independence Township Clerk, sure is going to be missed by his followers - and more so by his enemies.

Howard Altman has done a good job for the peoples of Independence Township, be they Democrats, Republicans, friends or foes.

Lots of luck on your new position in our County of Oakland. We are proud of you.

"Sick country"

Dear Editor,

Having read both Al's letter and Mr. Hosler's, I wish to state my opinion. I am not a long hair as I'm a Corporal in the United States Marine Corps. My brother is a Korean War veteran, so our family's not lacking in devotion.

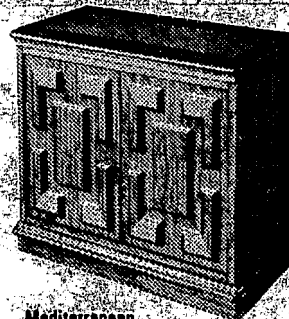

I wish to state that Al's opinion is shared by me, and the vast majority of people I live and work with. I'm not saying all police are pigs, but it's time people started to realize that a badge doesn't create saints. Many police are extremely prejudiced towards us, and a re-examining of their standards is needed to eliminate such pigs.

Mr. Hosler's Vietnam statement is enough to turn the stomachs of our entire generation. If he can call President Thieu's regime a democracy, he had best take a new look at his method of measuring things. When we stop pushing our dogmatic views on everyone for our own imperialistic gains, then I might feel a small spark of pride for this sick country.

Love,
Ron Gilbert

Swan song

(or back to the Washboard)

by Jean Sura

"Listen, you guys," I said the other night. "I have an announcement to make."

Nobody paid the least bit of attention. "Okay, if I can't get your ear I'll barricade myself in the bathroom."

Have you ever sat on the edge of a tub for any length of time?

Three forlorn hours and a broken back later a slip of paper came sliding under the door.

It said, "To whom it may concern: Have you ever thought of holing up in the hall closet? It would expedite the flow of traffic around here."

I answered the communication with regal silence.

A few minutes later four notes were slipped under the door in rapid succession. They were all lettered in a childish scrawl.

The first one said, "Dear Granny, I have to go to the lavatory. Love, from Michele S. (1st grade)."

The other three were individually signed by Kristen, 3, Matt, 2, and Jed, 1. They all said, "Dear Granny, I have to go potty."

"Are you ready to hear my announcement?" I stormed out.

Still, nobody paid any attention.

"Okay," I muttered. "I'm going on a hunger strike."

"Hey, now that's a great idea. On you that should look good. You'll be slim and trim, built for holiday eating." They each contributed a smart crack.

"Well, whether you want to hear it or not, I'm quitting my job. Get that --- I'm through working!"

That stunned them into silence for a minute.

"Did I hear you right? You are going to stay home?" Gene was incredulous.

"You mean that I can look forward to my socks being in pairs, the right colors matched. Do you mean you'll make my breakfast and have a nice hot meal ready when I get home at night? Do you mean I won't have to get my underwear out of the dryer in the morning?"

"Hey, Mom, that's great. You'll be able to baby-sit for our kids any time now!" That is how the heartless group, I call family, greeted my earthshattering announcement. Not one word was said about the ditching of my literary career.

No regrets were spoken about giving up the opportunity to win a Nobel or Pulitzer prize --- or wealth and fame.

"What are you really going to do, Mom?" asked my thoughtful daughters.

"Well, --- I'm going to read lots of good books. I'm going to spend more time with the 'Wonder grandchildren.' I'm going to indulge myself in puttering around with handicraft projects. I'll have lots of time to ski and play golf. I'm going to spend time with good friends. Doesn't that sound wonderful?"

It does sound good but to be very honest there is one hitch. I have the same feeling that I do when I near the final chapter of a good book. I hate to have it end.

These last three years have been fun. I'm going back to the vacuum, the sink, the stove and the washboard smiling. But --- I'm crying just a little on the inside.

Thanks for your ears.

DeMolay adds 10 new members

Ten new members were initiated into the Clarkston Cedar Chapter, Order of DeMolay at their last meeting. The boys will have the DeMolay degree conferred on them on December 15. This accomplishment qualified the Chapter for the Grand Master's Award.

The chapter scored 417 out of a possible 500 points on their semi-annual inspection.

Joe Yingling discussed the opportunities offered by trade schools to further one's education after high school graduation.

The Mother's Club honored the Chapter Sweetheart, Shannon Lynch, after the meeting. Joy Zerbe, last year's State, Chapter and District 10 Sweetheart, was a special guest at the reception.

Gary Millikan and Bryan Cullens, who won the State Doubles championship in table tennis, presented their trophy to the Chapter.
