Jim's Jottings

By Jim Sherman

On occasion columnists take to interviewing themselves to get a chance to give answers to which no one has asked the questions.

Often they start like... well, cynic of the journalism world, what's bothering you today?

I'll tell you what's bothering me today, the columnist will say. It ain't no earth shattering thing, but is a reflection on our too busy times.

Thanksgiving day was a "great feast" in days of yore. Dad's dressing and mother's gravy was a gastronomical success unmatched for miles around. However, these days have passed and now it's bird day for us 5.

I didn't give it a thought until recent years, but there was never a prayer offered before the attack at the family gatherings. Yet when the day became a private dinner, a blessing seemed like a natural thing.

As soon as our first born could mumble a simple prayer we let him do the honors. The other 2 took over in time.

But, this Thanksgiving I decided I was going to hold the forks silent. It's been a good year, the family is fine and healthy. There is plenty to be thankful for.

So, the turkey was brown and ready... but first Hazel wanted a few pictures... and the Kodak Instamatic cubes wouldn't flash.

At each try I cut a drumstick or wing and the kids obliged the photographer by taking a bite. The race was started innocently, willingly and pre-prayeredly.

Okay, comes the other voice. Slow down and tell me what else is keeping you in that miserable state of mind.

There are too many programs on TV of psychos, neurotics and addicts. You know the ending and the plot too soon. They're going to be put away and their offenses are rationalized.

For a while, though, when the new season started, I was glad to see violence return to the tube. The bad guys are really getting theirs this year.

Is there anything that's making you the least bit cheerful?

You bet! I'm happy to see that the recent plunge of the stock market didn't cause any panic in the streets. In other down market times the news media has made a big thing of it.

Now, either the market has cried "wolf" once too often, or the Dow Jones averages don't excite anyone any more.

County power

Helicopter, destiny's wing?

By Jean Saile

Clarkston News Editor

The county's black and white Sheriff's Department helicopter set down at Northland Shopping Center about 8 p.m. last April 28 and an Oakland County employe was hurried aboard.

The helicopter filed a visual flight rules route plan with the Federal Aviation Administration and headed for Lansing's Capitol City Airport where the employe was met by a car from the Ingham County Sheriff's Department and hustled off to the capitol.

The man who can indirectly command the use of the helicopter, figured to cost the county $35 an hour and keep it tied up for three and a half hours, is John Grubba, assistant civil counsel and county lobbyist in Lansing.

He's currently being considered as the county's new chief administrator to replace Republican Daniel T. Murphy.

Grubba is reportedly one vote away from a Democratic caucus majority of nine to become the third auditor replacing resigning George Fulkerson of Birmingham. It is considered only a matter of time - probably until mid-January - before he would depose Murphy.

The county board of commissioners, a body whose actions influence what happens in this township considerably, is currently controlled by Democrats. They hold a 16-11 majority on the 27-man board.

That Murphy has been able to retain the chief administrative post during the last three years of Democratic control is a tribute to his ability, but things are changing.

And the item getting the most consideration is reapportionment of county commissioner district lines. After the census has been officially tabulated, a five-man reapportionment board has 60 days to file new boundary lines.

What's making it interesting is that the reapportionment group is controlled by Republicans. The county chairman of both political parties, the prosecutor, clerk and treasurer make up the board. Both the clerk and treasurer are Republicans.

Since a replacement for Republican Treasurer Hugh Dohany could be named by the Democratically controlled county board, there has been recurring speculation that Dohany might be enticed to accept the auditor's appointment.

At any rate, his name and Grubba's are at the head of the possibility list. A caucus meeting slated December 5 by Democrats is expected to tell the tale.

And as for Grubba's use of the helicopter? County Board Chairman William Richards, who ordered the private transportation for the lobbyist, says he'd do the same thing again if conditions warranted.

"Through John's efforts as county lobbyist, the county stands to almost double its road income over that first expected from an increase in the state gas and weight tax," he said.

Township reappraisal begins

Reassessment of Independence Township, commissioned last July by the township board at a cost of $69,800, started this week in Birdland Subdivision off Maybee Road.

The reappraisal of residential property has been undertaken by United Appraisal Co. of Cleveland, Ohio, which has done similar jobs for Commerce Township and Wixom in Oakland County.

Jim Sands, 27, project supervisor with the company, said he will be seeking access to homes in order to render a fair appraisal.

Homeowners will be asked to sign a form showing that the appraiser was there, that he went through the house and that he talked with the owners, he said.

Bob Vandermark, township assessor, said the forms are being solicited in an effort to prove that the appraising firm is doing a thorough job. They do not carry the assessed value, he said, so signing them does not imply agreement with price.

Sands said he would be carrying an identification card signed by Vandermark and would also have a company identification card complete with picture.

The complete township appraisal is expected to take about a year.

Guest arriving

A VIP out of the north has made plans to visit Clarkston Saturday afternoon, December 11.

The advance man, who was dressed in a curious green suit, declined to reveal the identity of the personage expected, but he did say he'd parade through town about noon and set up for personal interviews at 1 p.m. in the Village Parking Lot.

Something else - he likes youngsters and would prefer to talk to them rather than to their parents.

Last week's snow frosts an abandoned tree swing and an old barn on the Michael Salzano property, 8220 Reese Rd. The white stuff and its accompanying cold has put an end to many of last summer's pleasures.

Area youths figure in investigation

Reports by two Clarkston area youth that they were beaten up while inmates of the Oakland County Jail will figure in a County Board of Commissioner investigation of the facility.

Mrs. Alvin L. Caverly, 5800 Waldon Rd., said her son, Alan, 20, and a friend, John R. Casper, 17, of 5600 Delmas, were to have their case heard in court this week.

The two were arrested October 19 at Sashabaw and Maybee Roads for obstructing traffic and failure to signal a turn, according to Sheriff's Department reports.

While in jail awaiting bond they were assaulted, they said, by cell roommates Ardell J. Shelton, 22, and Charles H. Adams, 17. Mrs. Caverly, who arranged bond for the boys, said when they were released about two hours after

She said she believed the fight had come about as inmates attempted to "establish who's top dog."

"I don't think the fight was racial, even imprisonment Alan's nose was bloody, he had a cut below the eye and cigarette burns on his arm.

"I thought John's arm was broken," she said; however X-rays later showed there were no fractures. "Both boys smelled terrible," she recalled, though the other two were black. Our boys should never have been jailed. The officer apparently got suspicious when there were no identification numbers on the car, and it was obvious the engine had recently been replaced."

"When's the last time you checked the identification number on your car?" she asked. "They didn't know the number was missing."

FIRST KILL

Trophy bagged

Sixteen-year-old Emerson Vliet, Jr. spent a week up north in a fruitless hunt for deer, and then came home to bag a 10-point buck just a quarter of a mile from home.

Emerson, who shot the deer after school November 22, said it weighed 160-175 pounds. The head is being preserved as a trophy, the deer being his first kill.

He lives at 5187 Indianwood.

Recall worker warned

Luther Fletcher, 4657 Center, Drayton Plains, says he's been warned against further distribution of documents aimed at the recall of Independence Township Supervisor Gary Stonerock.

Fletcher said the warning came in a letter from Charles J. Porter, a member of the Bloomfield Hills law firm of Condit, Denison, Devine, Porter and Bartush.

The letter, dated November 17, read, "It is the purpose of this letter to notify Luther Fletcher, who has been reported to be the author of these documents, and anyone else who has assisted him in publishing these documents, that the statements and implications contained therein are false and that any further attempts at disseminating such false and defamatory material will be viewed as an indication of malicious purpose."

Porter told The Clarkston News the letter was "a rational attempt to indicate to the parties responsible that the material circulated is in some respects defamatory and not legal and may be a problem if it continues."

Porter said he had been retained by Stonerock earlier this fall in regard to the flyers circulated in the recall effort. He said his response to the letter was a telegram signed by Fletcher which read, "Start law suit immediately. Recall effort needs the publicity. Hurry. Hurry."

Fletcher confirmed he had sent such a telegram. He said he would request a jury trial, and due to the size of his income he believes he's entitled to legal aid.

A recall effort instituted last October against Stonerock is still in progress; however, there have been no recent reports. A total of 1,244 signatures are required to bring the matter to a vote of the people, the petition circulators say.

Thieves loot area home

A stereo, portable television, tape deck and AM-FM radio valued at $575 were stolen November 23 from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Manley, 6570 Greenhaven, they told Oakland County Sheriff's officers.

A daughter, Cathy, found the house ransacked and the goods taken when she returned from school. Mrs. Manley said entry was gained by someone who apparently knew where the house key was hidden.

She said a neighbor had seen a car in the Manleys' driveway during the afternoon and a youth with blond hair wearing a blue coat near it.

The Manleys' garage was robbed last January, Mrs. Manley said.

Cheerleader Kim Blasey is new Junior Miss

Clarkston's new Junior Miss is Kim Blasey, selected Saturday night in competition at Clarkston Senior High School. She succeeds Debbie Hoopengartner.

A standing room only crowd saw Kim Blasey, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Blasey, 7156 Holcomb, chosen Clarkston's Junior Miss Saturday night at the high school.

Kim's crowning in the Jaycees' sponsored contest was of special satisfaction to outgoing Junior Miss, Debbie Hoopengartner. Kim has taken piano lessons from Debbie and spectators heard Debbie tell Kim, "Way to go," as the crown was placed on her head.

Kim was chosen from a field of 19 Clarkston girls, Dawn Willson being named runner-up. Kim was awarded a $700 scholarship and Dawn a $300 scholarship. Mary Jean Head, named Miss Congeniality by the girls, received a $25 savings bond. All participants were given sterling silver bowls in remembrance of the contest.

Kim, a Clarkston Senior High School cheerleader, starred in a pom-pom skit, Dawn choosing a baton revue. Another act drawing crowd approval was Karen Mielke's impersonation of Edith Ann, the Laugh In television character.

At Williams emceed the show, which featured Debbie at the piano playing a song she had composed. She was awarded a standing ovation. Debbie is currently a student at Oakland University.

Kim plans to be a nurse, according to her mother.

She will compete December 11 at the Junior Miss regional contest in Midland.

Letters to the Editor

Bullen objects to road plan

Dear Editor:

The Independence Township Board is poised to adopt the Transportation Right of Way Plan proposed by Oakland County Road Commission, along with selected amendments as suggested by our Planning Commission. Except for one of these amendments, which is singularly absurd, the plan contains some reasonably or marginally good ideas.

The glaring exception is the amendment to designate the Edison power line corridor as a proposed 204 foot wide super highway. This limited access roadway would run east and west through the southern part of our township and link up with similar main arteries crossing the county. The Edison route would be used instead of Maybee Road which was originally proposed by the Road Commission. (Another such artery would be Oak Hill Road.)

I am against this bad dream. It should be summarily rejected for the following reasons:

- (1) The power line itself is already an eyesore. Putting two lane roadways on both sides of the existing towers compounds the scenic insult.
- (2) A super highway pounding right through Goodrich Farms and "Birdland" subdivisions would be thoroughly noxious, at best. (Yes, the fact I live in "Birdland" does most assuredly influence my thinking.)
- (3) This proposed limited access highway would split all existing and future residential areas just as I-75 has done. Those living to the north of the Edison corridor would have to go further north to Waldon Road before they could turn and head south. Those living to the south would have the same problem going north.

- (4) Another barrier would be placed in front of our fire trucks: limited access means that the roadway could only be traversed by a few, expensive overhead bridges.
- (5) The Spring Lake golf course would be cut in half and thereby destroyed. Goodbye open space and recreational land.
- (6) Walking to school, particularly for the Goodrich Farms kids would either be prevented entirely, or involve crossing a busy highway.
- (7) If Oakland County Road Commission has money to spend on roads, let them first blacktop our washboard gravel roads, at least before considering a grandiose Woodward Avenue through the County.
- (8) Another ribbon of east-west concrete would be laid down, and only about 400 yards north and parallel to Maybee Road. This could be a lasting tribute to those who would pave the world if enough concrete were available.
- (9) There is hopeful thinking that at a future date the power companies can be induced to bury the high tension lines, and the existing corridors could become green belts for walkways and parks through our land. Anyone who could instead vote for a super highway has been breathing too much carbon monoxide.
- (10) The legal complexity of converting the Edison corridor to a highway would entangle a substantial area within the stage one area of our sanitary sewer program. This could easily lead to a curtailment of development, and retard the new housing needed to pay for the sewers. The Township will be obligated to pay about $1,000,000 annually for sewers in bond

Discusses traffic

Dear Editor:

Subject: Traffic control light at Maybee Road and the Dixie Highway.

A five lane road is necessary at this intersection if a stop light is to be installed. This is a requirement of the Michigan State Highway Dept. This is to allow left turns in safety. A stop light is permissible if there were only four lanes, but no left turns would be permitted from the Dixie, an impossible situation.

Also, to warrant a light, there must be 140 cars per hour through this intersection for an eight hour period. At present, there are 140 cars per hour through this intersection for only two hours a day. Checks were made in 1969 and October of 1970. A Mr. Dave Van Hine at the Highway Dept. in Southfield can answer any further questions you may have.

For those of you who wondered how to get a light at this dangerous intersection, I can give little encouragement. Just be careful and don't get killed. I might pass along the following advice. When waiting to turn left, keep an eye on the rear view mirror. Keep your wheels straight ahead so if you do get hit from behind you will not be driven into oncoming traffic. Do not put your foot on the brake, but keep it on the accelerator so you can quickly get out of the way if a person behind you cannot stop. Keeping your foot on the brake makes your car a more solid object. The damage to you and to the car is greater with the brakes applied. Also, if you are waiting behind someone else, keep at least two car lengths between cars. Good luck!

Keith A. Humbert, Trustee

retirement and interest. If new connection fees are not available to meet this requirement, additional property taxes must by law be levied to subsidize the program.

It is almost incomprehensible that Board members Gary Stonerock and Keith Humbert now appear to be advocating this highway route. They have also evidently received their usual stamp of approval from the planning firm retained by the township.

Let your views be known. I cannot believe that the people of this Township could favor such an ill conceived proposition. Do what you can to squelch its adoption.

Thomas K. Bullen,
Trustee, Independence Twp.

How about a pregnant jockey?

By Jim Fitzgerald

A few thoughts about a couple of wronged women, God bless them . . .

The U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals recently ruled there is "a compelling public interest in not having pregnant female soldiers in the military establishment."

As an army veteran, a member of the public, and a fan of Women's Lib, I protest this decision.

The court was ruling in the case of Capt Susan Struck, "the first U.S. Air Force officer to give birth to a child while on active duty."

That sounds as if Capt Struck delivered her baby while dropping bombs on Laos. Which could hardly be the truth. I'm sure she went back to the barracks for the occasion and was probably even late for reveille the next morning.

Anyway, the court decision means it's OK for the Air Force to discharge Capt Struck simply because she got pregnant. That's not fair.

I've known male soldiers who were AWOL 9 months and weren't discharged. They were slightly incarcerated for a few months, and demoted. But they kept their jobs.

And I remember several manly sergeants who often suffered from a morning sickness you wouldn't believe. A weekend in town would render them useless to the war effort until Wednesday, at least. But they were not discharged. They were put in charge of the recreation hall where they locked everyone out until they had slept their way back to health.

And then, of course, there is the ultimate question: By whom was Capt Struck impregnated? If the father is a fellow airman, was he discharged? Certainly not. He probably got a medal for making a beyond-duty effort to improve fellowship at the Officers' Club.

Obviously, there is no decent reason why a female soldier can't be granted maternity leave for, say, a month. Then it could be back to duty, the same as a male soldier returning from R & R in Hawaii.

Women's Lib should strike hard for Capt Struck.

ALSO, SOMETHING should be done about female jockeys. A gross injustice was recently revealed in the case of John Bacon and his wife Mary. Both are jockeys. Both wanted to race at the Hazel Park Race Course. But the track stewards ruled it is "against policy" to allow husband and wife to compete in the same race. This regulation is enforced at all tracks. It is feared the public would distrust the result of any race in which spouses were pitted against each other.

But get this. Brothers are allowed to race against each other. And sons are allowed to race against their fathers. It happens fairly often.

The implication is clear. 2 male jockeys can be trusted to race against each other, even if they are Siamese twins. But bring a female jockey into the family and all bets are off, call the cops. If that isn't discrimination I'll eat my NAACP membership card.

Mary Bacon is probably lucky she didn't show up at the track pregnant. They would have dragged her off her horse and shot her.

Onward and Upward, Women's Lib.

Super roads under study

Two super highways traversing Independence Township east to west are included in a new Oakland County Road Commission master right-of-way plan approved by the township planning commission and forwarded to the township board for consideration.

One of the super highways would follow Oak Hill Road at the township's northern boundary, and the second would cut across the township in the vicinity of Maybee Road.

The plan was approved October 14 on a six to two vote by the township planning commission, members Carolyn Place and Jack Belby opposed. Norman Sholler was absent.

At least one township trustee, Tom Bullen, has objected to the Maybee Road plans and his objections are spelled out in a letter to the Editor, appearing in this issue of The Clarkston News.

The super highways, 204 feet wide, are planned for future township development. The plan is aimed for 20 years hence.

The planning commission has recommended that the southern route follow the Detroit Edison power lines just north of Maybee. It also suggests that instead of cutting across Greens Lake to join up with White Lake Road, a super highway extension, that a portion of the Dixie Highway from existing Maybee to existing White Lake Road also be designated as a super highway with a 204-foot right-of-way.

In its review of the proposal the planning commission has also recommended that Hoyt Road in the north central part of the township be closed. Closure would cut off traffic bound for the new Independence-Oaks county-owned park from Sashabaw Road, members point out.

Also proposed by the county is an extension of Clarkston Road along Flemings Lake Road to Sashabaw and a connector road running north off Waldon to the extension. A similar connector is proposed running north off Maybee across Waldon to Clarkston Road.

Other connector roads are proposed between Hadley and Perry Lake roads and between Perry Lake Road and the present Clarkston Road. An extension of Hubbard west is also under consideration.

Small roads would be used to extend Pine Knob Road south to Clintonville south of Maybee, Michigamme south to Clarkston, and Stickney from Sashabaw to Michigamme. Smaller Eston and Maybee Road alterations are also viewed, as is the straightening of certain portions of Clarkston Road.

Coach predicts winning season

By Craig Moore

The Clarkston Varsity Wolves basketball team is the biggest of the big teams this year, according to coach Dave McDonald who is starting his first year as team coach.

Height is a main factor in his prediction for a winning season, says McDonald, a graduate of Ohio's Cedarville College. He's had three years experience coaching freshman basketball.

A poll, taken by The Pontiac Press among Wayne Oakland League coaches, favors Clarkston as number one in the league, followed by West Bloomfield, Clarenceville, Waterford, Kettering, Bloomfield Hills Andover and Milford, respectively.

Coach McDonald commented, "With this year's squad, it would be possible to have all game starters at the height of 6-2 and over. The other teams in the league lost most of their height to graduation and it is the big man that sways the pre-season poll."

Returning for their second season with the Varsity team are 6-6 Gary White and 6-2 Bill Craig. White averaged 12 points and 10 rebounds a game, while Craig totaled 10 points and 5 rebounds per game last year.

According to coach McDonald, at this time 6-0 senior Mark Warren and Dave Partlo, a 6-2 junior, are playing the best.

Coach McDonald said, "We really have eight ballplayers whom I would start at any time. This is a great asset to us as the fifth man hustles just a little bit more to stay in fifth place, and places six, seven and eight battle to reach fifth."

The Wolves have hopes of greatly improving upon their 8-8 record last year and have visions of a victorious season.

"We are looking forward to a winning season," said coach McDonald. "It is my belief that there isn't a team in the league that can beat us, maybe outcoach us, but not beat us. We expect to win most of our games."

The second game of the season is Tuesday, December 7 at Lake Orion. The JV game which begins at 6:30 p.m. is followed by the Varsity game at 8:15 p.m.

No "magic carpet"

Snowmobiling Safety

A snowmobile is not a "magic carpet" to whisk you effortlessly over the snow, and no type of snowmobile activity is fun if you get hurt doing it.

People who don't know how their own machine operates and how to drive it are headed for trouble. You should learn as much as possible of the mechanical operation and know how to make minor repairs and adjustments that often spell the difference in a comfortable ride and a long walk home.

Rough terrain and uneven snow surfaces can result in overturned machines and dangerous spills if you try to take 'em at high speed. And mild weather can create wet snow and slush that clogs drive belts and gears.

Traveling over ice, naturally, is the most hazardous and each winter several drownings occur here.

Snowmobilers should never venture out on frozen lakes or rivers without knowing the ice conditions. Walking on foot ahead of a snowmobile gives you a slower, more careful opportunity to judge the ice. Test it with an ice spud if you have one.

On river ice, be doubly careful since currents often make ice uneven and unsafe. The shoreline areas of lakes often have thinner ice than the center, too, especially early and late in the winter.

It's best when on ice (and all the time, for that matter) to use the "buddy" system with two snowmobiles traveling together. You should remember, also, to slow down in wooded areas and watch for snow-covered stumps and fallen trees.

A little emergency equipment could save the day.

An extra drive belt and extra spark plugs — and the tools to install them — should always be carried. Don't forget a pair of snowshoes, either, should you have to walk out in deep snow.

Carry extra fuel, a couple gallons at least; and a light-weight block and tackle with 50 feet of quarter-inch nylon rope could get you out of a spot where you're badly stuck.

Clothing should be warm and windproof, yet lightweight and flexible without being confining. Insulated footwear — ideally the felt-pac lined boots — is a must, and well-lined mitts or gauntlets keep the winter sting from your hands.

A heavy wool toque or stocking cap with a face mask will stop frostbite, and shatter-proof, tinted goggles are a real necessity.

If the country you're traveling is rough, a helmet might be in order, but be sure to keep all your clothing and footwear dry. Don't overheat. Open the clothing at your throat to allow warm air to escape.

Cadets learn by doing

"Learn by doing" could have been the motto for the training exercise conducted by Clarkston Composite Squadron Civil Air Patrol on Nov. 13 and 14.

The cadets were alerted Friday evening and on Saturday morning 31 cadets from the Clarkston unit and 10 cadets from Walled Lake Composite Squadron reported to the primary base of operations at 6651 Wealthy, Clarkston, home of Lt. Lawrence. The cadets set up radio and intercommunications equipment and maps of the area. Senior members had 4 radio-equipped vehicles ready to be dispatched with cadet land rescue teams as passengers.

From the information contained in the "alert message" the cadets projected the path of flight on an operational map and dispatched a jeep to conduct a line search. The "wreckage of an Army U-6 aircraft" was discovered near the fire hall at Clarkston and Sashabaw Roads.

During the day "telephone messages" arrived at the headquarters. From these bits of information the coordinator, Cadet Major James Chad, tried to pinpoint the location of the "crew members" and had land rescue teams dispatched. During the daylight hours of operation 3 of the five "crew members" were "rescued."

Operations were transferred to the Ortonville Recreation Area, the mission's secondary base and campsite for the night. After dark, flares directed the cadets to the fourth and fifth "crew members" who were "evacuated" to safety.

Father Francis Weingartz of St. Daniel's Catholic Church spent the night at the campsite and conducted services for the cadets and their senior escorts early Sunday morning.

Kutting Korners

It's time to think about holiday baking. Now is the time to get it done and out of the way of the other jobs you will have.

Fruit cake improves with age, so this is the time. The idea for these tea-size fruitcakes fits in our family because we usually want just a little piece. This makes it simple and neat and saves me from having to haul out the whole cake when somebody wants a snack.

Fruited Bon-Bon Cakes

- 2 cups corn flakes or
- ½ cup packaged corn flake crumbs
- 1¼ cups (8 oz.) dried whole prunes
- 1 cup seedless golden raisins
- ½ cup sifted regular all-purpose flour
- ¼ teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon mace or nutmeg
- ¼ teaspoon ground cloves
- ½ cup (4 oz.) finely chopped candied citron
- ½ cup chopped red candied cherries
- ½ cup green candied cherries
- ¾ cup chopped nuts
- ½ cup soft shortening
- ½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- 2 eggs
- 1 tablespoon rum flavoring

Candied cherries

1. If using corn flakes, crush into fine crumbs. Set aside.
2. Soak prunes and raisins separately in hot water to cover, about 20 minutes each.
3. Sift together flour, soda, salt and spices. Stir in corn flakes crumbs.
4. Drain raisins, drain, pit and chop prunes. Combine fruits, nuts and sifted dry ingredients.
5. Measure shortening and sugar into mixer bowl; beat until light and fluffy. Add eggs and rum flavoring; beat well. Stir in fruit mixture, mixing only until combined. Arrange about 4 dozen 1½-inch paper bon-bon baking cups in round cake pans or small muffin tins. Fill each cup with 1 tablespoon batter and garnish with a candied cherry half.
6. Bake in very slow oven (250 degrees F.) about 1¼ hours or until cakes are delicately browned and begin pulling from sides of cups. Cool, wrap tightly and refrigerate at least 1 week.

Yield: about 4 dozen Fruited Bon-Bon Cakes.

Kutting Korner-Kluc: Bad stains, even grease and oil, will come off vinyl if rubbed with baby oil. The taste of fish will come off pans by rubbing with orange or lemon rind.

Spiritual Message

The Rev. Alexander T. Stewart

"... wherefore God is not ashamed to be called their God..."

Hebrews 11:16

It seems that we have passed out of an era in the manifestation of personal religion when people spoke freely about their God.

When we go back two or three generations, we find that believing men and women were quite frank in their expression of their fellowship with God. It didn't seem forced for them to refer to Him in their letters, to gather their households together daily for family worship, or to express in public their trust in God. This isn't to say that there were more believers in proportion to the total population 75 or 100 years ago, nor that a larger percentage were regular church-goers. But those who were devout found it natural to express their faith and trust in God.

Presently and in the recent past, for a variety of reasons I suppose, people have been tongue-tied about their relationship with God. While they often have shown their devotion in hundreds of helpful ministries to human need, to mention God would seem to be an embarrassment to them.

However, there is a law of the human mind that expression deepens impression and we must be careful that an unmentioned God doesn't easily become an unthought-of God.

Much current religion is anonymous. Many people make claim to being devotees of right, followers of conscience, good neighbors, lovers of humanity, etc. but acknowledge no relationship with God. They use the religious idealism they find at hand without concerning themselves with its source or how they might maintain its supply for the future.

Such action is akin to using our national resources without any regard for perpetuating them. But let us know the Source of all good and openly acknowledge Him. Since God is not ashamed to acknowledge us as His children, we, certainly, should not be ashamed or embarrassed to acknowledge Him as our God.

The bright side of students

Between the "spring" of being a teenager and the "summer" of womanhood, there sometimes comes a stormy, but very happy time known as the "life of a student nurse."

Student nurses are found everywhere underneath, on top of, running, jumping over, or slithering past patients' beds. Doctors yell at them. Instructors criticize them. Mothers worry about them. And patients love them.

A student nurse is courage under a cap, a smile in white, strength in a starched skirt, endless energy, the best of young womanhood, a modern Florence Nightingale.

Just when she is gaining poise and prestige she turns green during an autopsy, falls over crutches, drops trays, becomes preoccupied while assisting the doctor, fills urinals with ice, and loses pajama bottoms by the dozens.

This composite creature works like the whole nursing staff put together, drives RNs to distraction, and eats like a team of interns. But, to the instructors, she has the stability of mush, the fleetness of a snail, the mentality of a mule and is held in one piece by starch, adhesive tape, and strained nerves. To the alumnae she will never work as hard, carry more trays, make more beds, or scrub on more cases than her predecessors.

A student nurse likes days off, boys her own age, the OR, certain doctors, her roommates' pretty clothes, mom and dad.

No one else can cram into one little head the course of a disease, the bones comprising the pelvis, what to do when a patient is in shock, how to insert a cantor tube at 3 a.m., plus the top ten tunes on the hit parade.

You can criticize a student nurse, but you can't discourage her. You can hurt her feelings, but you can't make her quit. She is an example of the American Way. A determined and hard working young girl doing her best for her school and hospital. A living symbol of faith and sympathetic care. Beauty with a candle in its hand.

Whenever she becomes discouraged, she finds a wall of strength in thinking a reward awaits somewhere. For surely some of God's Angels wear white caps instead of halos and carry medicine trays instead of harps!

Win test exemption

The students in the 9th grade social studies classes of Bernard Wright at Sashabaw Junior High School have made a thorough study of Communist China. Those students who were declared the most thorough as a result of their final report were exempt from taking the final test for the unit.

Team captains were chosen in each of the classes' 4 groups, to direct the study. Each group delved into the minerals, industry, produce and animals common to the locality.

The teams vied to see who could most precisely explore and creatively present their facts.

Judging of the entries was done by Mr. Wright and Douglas Humer, a student teacher from Oakland University. One team was declared the winner in each class.

"The kids really worked hard on their reports. I was proud of them. I think the winners would have withstood competition in any contest," said Mr. Wright.

Good things are in store for patrons of St. Daniel's Women's Guild Christmas boutique, scheduled for 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday, December 4 at the church. Mrs. Nick Nicholas, (left) 6628 Northview, guild president, and Mrs. Thomas Hunter, 6230 Middle Lake, sale chairman, put the finishing touches on some handcrafted items. A coffee shop featuring homemade Christmas cookies will offer a break from Christmas gift shopping. Proceeds of the sale will benefit the church missions.

 From Keith Hallman

Chickenpox is probably the most common of childhood diseases in this country, but it can strike at any age. About three out of four youngsters have had the illness by the time they're 15 (though sometimes it isn't recognized) and apparently it never strikes the same person twice.

The disease is caused by a virus transmitted from an infected person's cough or sneeze, or through contact with the blister fluid. The dry scales that develop are not infectious. There is no immunization available, at present.

Chickenpox starts with a fever (101° to 105°), with some nausea. The rash or pink blotches appear in a day or two, and soon multiply. They may be found on all parts of the body, including the scalp, inside of the mouth, and sex organs.

In the center of each sore, there is a tiny blister which enlarges and then develops a dimple in its center. This is followed by the crusting or scaling of the sores. When the sores appear on the hands and feet, the disease is usually in its last stage of infectiousness.

The child's nails should be cut short, and he should be kept from scratching and breaking the sores. Sometimes it's necessary to wrap the hands, or put on mittens. Calamine lotion or other ointments may be applied to the skin, or antihistamines may be injected to reduce the itching.

The American Academy of Pediatrics doesn't recommend quarantine (by the time the symptoms appear, the child has carried the virus for two weeks or more) but infected children are usually kept out of school until the scabs have fallen off.

Briefly told

Michigan State University reports in 1960 the average number of families receiving Aid to Dependent Children welfare payments each month was 26,580. There were 69,249 children involved. By 1971 there were 101,039 monthly cases with 279,487 children. The figures are Michigan's alone.

Clarkston High School senior girls with a flare for homemaking and the domestic arts will have a chance to win some scholarships December 7. Tests will be given in the 18th annual Betty Crocker search for the American homemaker of tomorrow, according to Jan Gabier, assistant principal.

Colleen Quinlan, a sophomore at Central Michigan University, will play the part of the Corinthian Swell in the university theater's production of "Lysistrata." The play is December 4-11 in Bush Theater. Colleen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Quinlan, 11437 Ember, Davisburg. She is a 1970 graduate of Clarkston High School.

Oakland County Farm Bureau Women have been awarded a certificate and a $10 check for placing second in the state this year for outstanding activities. The presentation was made during the recent state convention in Grand Rapids.

Bank dividend is 1 for 4

Pontiac State Bank board of directors have declared a stock dividend of one share for every four shares now outstanding, subject to approval at the annual shareholders' meeting March 20. Identical 25 per cent stock dividends were paid in 1970, 1968 and 1966, bank officials said.

Milo J. Cross, board chairman, and Edward E. Barker, Jr., president, said the issuance of 65,430 new shares to stockholders under the proposed dividend will not necessarily represent an increase in cash dividends.

Cash payout is subject to guidelines set by the Interest and Dividend Committee which has been established under the president's Phase 2 economic program. Cross and Barker said cash dividend payment is currently less than 14 percent of the bank's net earnings, an all time low.

Shareholder dividend approval will increase outstanding shares from 261,718 to 327,148, the officials reported.

Clarkston Branch of the Pontiac State Bank is located at 15 South Main.

"There's another one"

by Jean Saile

Tim McNulty, now of the Detroit Free Press, and I were once the founders of a worldwide non-news service. It never got off the ground, but then it's hard to write non-news.

At the time, we were as sick of writing about tragedy, bitterness and conflict as most people get tired of constantly reading about it.

Our non-news agency was to be

Folk music scheduled

A program of folk music featuring singers Rowena, Gypsy and Vince will be at 3:30 p.m. Sunday, December 5 at the Clarkston Methodist Fellowship Hall.

Sponsored by local church youth, the Methodist Music Commission and the Clarkston Conservatory of Music, the program will also include original poetry readings by Helen Janet Miller. Dulcimer and fiddle renditions by Paul and John will portray early country music. Refreshments will be served.

devoted to covering such important things as Vatican Councils in their off-years, August snow slides in the Rockies, and things like that.

To put together this worldwide network, we determined we had to have correspondents around the world; and Tim and I as founders were to get first pick of location.

I opted for a tree house in Nairobi, Africa, where my sole function would be to watch the animals as they came to the spring beneath to drink. It sounded like a good idea at the time. It was away from the Pontiac busing turmoil.

Tim, being a whimsical Irishman, couldn't make up his mind whether to not-write from a goat farm in France or a room in the tropics. He envisioned himself in the latter, attired in a white linen suit, seated on a rattan high back chair, while a slowly revolving ceiling fan only just stirred the stifling air.

We picked up other correspondents — one of whom wanted to live near a waterfall in New Zealand. Her function would have been to occasionally test the water for wetness.

Another — a beach bum type at heart — chose Hawaii and the job of counting the big waves.

At one time the list of correspondents approached 20. Our only communication would have been to occasionally wire each other the cryptic message, "There's another one."

We debated that message. There was to be no description, no names, no finding out how high the waves, how many goats, what kind of animals, or what the social implications were.

The phrase, "There goes another one," was rejected. It implied too much action. The dream still lingers, but it's possible such inaction would have turned us all as balmy as we sounded when we discussed it.

It is also quite possible the world will never care about the non-prose it's losing because the plans failed.

They failed because we were addicts — we really need to eat.
